Art Carnival

Artrain visited Boyne City last week. It looked most festive on Saturday afternoon as the Art Carnival was taking place. Young and old were encouraged to create in a dozen different ways—like barefoot painting, balloon sculpture, car painting, body painting and even traditional "painting on paper." An Artrain picture page is on page 5.

Two county men run for state rep

Two Charlevoix County residents, both supporters of splitting northern Michigan into a separate state, are running for seats in the Michigan House of Representatives.

Wilson Township resident Karl Waldner, organizer of the drive for the 51st separate state, filed a petition for candidacy in the 103rd District. The 103rd District includes East Jordan, Charlevoix and the western portions of Charlevoix County.

The seat is presently held by Republican Ralph Ostling of Roscommon, who has filed for reelection. Waldner has also filed as a Republican, and the two will face off in the Aug. 5 primary election.

David Gillespie of Boyne Falls filed for the 106th District seat presently held by Republican Steve Andrews of Wolverine. Gillespie, 36, a carpenter, has also filed as a Republican. District 106th includes the eastern part of the county including Boyne City.

The only other candidate for the 106th District seat is Bill Morey of Alpena, who ran for the seat two years ago. He filed as a Democrat.

The Waldner-Ostling primary winner will be opposed in the 103rd District by Democratic candidates Bill Brauker and Harold Gregg, both from Harrison. Brauker, 31, ran unsuccessfully two years ago for the seat.

Waldner told The Press that nine people who support the "Emerging new state of North Michigan" are running as candidates for state representative. Waldner formerly called his 51st state the "Independent State of Superior."

All nine candidates, if elected, "will legislate for the introduction of and work for the passage of a bill allowing an election on whether or not to become a new state," Waldner said.

Waldner, 58, who lists his occupation as "retired," said he has talked with northern Michigan's current state representatives several times asking them to put his state-splitting proposal on the ballot, but none have supported him.

His plan calls for splitting the state at Townline 16—the southern boundaries of Mason, Lake, Oscoda, Clare, Gladwin and Arenac Counties. He distributed petitions to put the independent state idea on the November ballot, but fell short of the 31,000 signatures which were necessary to put the issue on the ballot.

Northern Michigan is not being represented fairly compared to southern Michigan, Waldner claims. "Profitable legislative aid (is going) to only a select few. Even more so, our incumbent representatives are denying the people a right to vote on the separate state issue," he said.

Gillespie said he, too, would support and work to put the new state to a ballot vote. "The majority of the people live in the southern part of the state and most of the legislation passed seems to benefit only them. The people of northern Michigan are being shafted," Gillespie said.

Gillespie admits that his chances of winning the contest for the 106th District seat are slim. "But I'd still like to offer the people a choice as an alternative candidate," he said.

Gillespie's past experiences include three years on the Boyne Falls School Board, three and a half years as a member of the Boyne Falls Village Council and he is presently a member of the Boyne Falls Fire Department.

Other 51st state candidates include Marvin Marks of Ironwood for the 110th District, Jenny Vallier of Rock for 109th District, Lee Manner of Carlshend for 108th District, Phil Belfy of Sault Ste. Marie for 107th District, Zeb Oliver of Prescott for 105th District, Gaylord Ziegler of Cadillac for 104th District, and Ed Giese of Reed City for 98th District.

Group petitions to rehire coach

BOYNE CITY - A citizens' group of about a dozen people are collecting signatures to petition the school board to reconsider the dismissal of varsity basketball coach Russ Harvey two months ago.

The group hopes to collect 1,000 signatures and would like to turn in the petitions at the next school board meeting July 14, according to organizer Dee Nagle.

The committee supports nine-year veteran coach Harvey and thinks he should at least have been given a hearing on why he was dismissed from coaching for the 1980-81 school year. Harvey is still an industrial arts teacher at the high school.

Harvey in a letter to the school board requested a hearing to find out why he was dismissed as basketball coach. A resolution to hold a hearing was supported by Mark Behling and Betty Johncheck. Shirley Crozier, Bill Chipman, Ray Towne, George Shiotelis and Tom Neumann voted against having a hearing.

The teaching staff also requested a hearing but was denied it when a motion made by Behling died for lack of support.

According to Michigan Education Association (MEA) representative Len Staley, the circulating petitions show "the public favors Harvey, or at least sides with him that he deserves a hearing" on his dismissal.

MEA attorneys are reviewing Harvey's case and Staley said the attorneys have not come back with a course of action yet. "Right now we're at the waiting stage while the attorneys are looking over the case. They should recommend what action to take in a couple weeks," he said.

B-schedule or extra curricular contracts are being reviewed to determine if any deficits occur in the contract. "Contracts usually have a 'just cause' clause which says a person may not be reduced in rank or fired without due process (a hearing).

The whole problem is that the board failed to give him (Harvey) any reason for his coaching dismissal. And after nine years, he deserves some kind of explanation; this is really uncommon to terminate someone like this," he said.

Harvey told The Press he still doesn't know the reason for dismissal. He, too, is waiting for word from the MEA attorneys for what to do next.

Harvey said it was thoughtful that the people of the community would come forward and support him as the citizens' group has. Harvey also said he feels very strongly still about wanting the coaching position.

"Nothing has changed about me still wanting that job. The whole idea is that I believe I'm a good coach for that job. The kids will hurt most if I don't get the job back," Harvey said.

People who are distributing petitions include Pat and Louie Upton, Jon Hartwell, Lon Kowalske, Ed Grice, Olive

IS IT WISE TO PLAN MY OWN FUNERAL?

It was the Earl of Warwick who said there is nothing more certain than death and nothing more uncertain than the time of dying. He would be prepared for death at all times, he states, and his preparedness would not make him die the sooner, but the better.

This individual insight is very enlightening and practical. We have pre-planned funerals with many members of our community who share some of these same sentiments. Many have expressed great relief in their foresightedness. They say it's a comfort to know everything will be well-handled, and will cost no less and no more than you want it to be.

Rather than permit a third party to arrange things or cause your loved ones the anguish and painful burden of funeral details, you may wish to plan your own funeral down to the smallest details.

EJ postmaster makes the big move North

EAST JORDAN - Lorna Sedelmaier always had plans of "moving north" so the job offer of East Jordan postmaster was one she couldn't refuse.

With only two days' notice she packed her goods and moved to East Jordan for her new fame and fortune. She started work as city postmaster the first week of May.

On such short notice, she had to leave her four children with friends in Grand

Lorna Sedelmaier

Changes the new postmaster sees coming up in the near future are a hike in postal rates and possibly abandoning Saturday mail delivery.

Sedelmaier believes that having no Saturday mail deliveries will not hurt the everyday citizen. "I think people would rather have curtailed mail service than have the postage price keep rising each few months," she said.

But, the cost of mailing that letter may go up anyway. New postage rates which are expected to go into effect in July will mean that sending an average letter will cost the consumer 20 cents rather than the current 15 cents.

Sedelmaier agreed that "that seems like a lot of money," but added, "if you think about how many people handle that letter to get it to where it's going, it's not that much money."

Mail volume has gone up considerably the past few years despite stamp price hikes and she accredited this to the cost of gasoline.

"People used to run around town and pay their bills. But now they'll buy 15-cent stamps and pay their bills because it's cheaper than the gas."

People at work

Ledge because they had six weeks of school left "and I didn't want to pull them out so close to the end," she said. "But then again, I wanted to make sure I kept this job so I moved."

Her children - Curt, 18, who graduated from high school this spring; Debbie, 15; Dylan, 14; and Conn 9 - all joined her this week in East Jordan.

Sedelmaier had been with the postal service at Grand Ledge 11 years. She worked 5 1/2 years as a city carrier and an equal amount of time as supervisor of postal operations at Grand Ledge.

There is a noticeable difference between a larger and smaller town, she said. "Being from a larger town, I was used to sorting mail by street numbers. Up here, you sort the mail by name because the town's so small all the mail deliverers know everyone else...and who lives next door to who, so they organize their route deliveries by last name."

"For being in the business of knowing everyone's name, I sure feel lost right now," Sedelmaier said. She knows it will take a little time before she can straighten out who's who in East Jordan, but added she likes the small-town change. "People I've met have made the transition easier for me—even if I can't remember their names."

"I think I'll be learning as much from this job as I'll be putting in. I'll bring in new ideas, but I really won't be changing a lot of things," she said.

2nd millage election Aug. 11

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

Another public election on the school tax in East Jordan was set for Aug. 11 by the school board at its meeting last week.

Financial Supervisor Ruby Dipzinski pointed out the state has cut school-aid funds, making an additional loss for East Jordan of $20,800.

After the June 9 vote that turned down the school millage, the board and the small group attending the meeting agreed on a survey of why people voted nearly two to one against it. At this point, newly-elected board member Shirley Bauer pointed out that this negative approach would consume effort while not producing a solution. Her recommendation for a positive approach was followed by the formation of a committee to publicize school budget information. Appointed to this committee were Tuck Thompson, Tom Gilmore, Leon Bartlett, Iva Bellinger, and Lucille Malpass. The last two are president and vice-president of the just-organized East Jordan Parent-Teachers' Association (PTA).

Budget clarification came up again when it was pointed out at the meeting that school board candidate Lucille Malpass had voted against the proposed millage.

When queried by The Press a few days after the meeting, Malpass said she had since then explained to board members that she was not against any necessary tax but was opposed to budget procedures.

At the meeting she had complained that proposed budget cuts had not been settled into a clear, stable, well-understood plan.

Later while commending the work of Dipzinski, she also criticized procedures, saying that the financial supervisor, in meeting unexpected demands for funds, has to hunt for spare amounts in a dozen or so budget categories.

Instead of this, Malpass said, the budget should have an ending balance, a fund available at board vote for specific needs, like last year's sudden boiler expense.

In addition, she noted, this spring's budget cuts prevent a 12 percent increase in teacher pay, so anything approaching that would have to be hidden in the process of snipping portions from other categories in the budget.

Teacher association president Rodger Ransom said teachers were "ready to sit down" to try to settle wage questions before Aug. 11 and before formal negotiations scheduled for later this summer.

A date for the new board's organizational meeting was set—July 8. Retiring board members Dick Noirot and Leon Bartlett were saluted. And the board will formally honor returning teacher Edna Anderson for her 12 years of service in the elementary school.

Transportation

Four of the five buses for the Charlevoix County Transit System arrived this week. The system, which is expected to debut July 21, is a door-to-door service for residents of Charlevoix County. Five buses will be used, transportation director Art Saworski said. To inquire about bus routes, contact the dispatcher's office at 582-6900.

3 former councilmen try for seats in EJ

EAST JORDAN - Four members of the city council won't be seeking reelection this November, but three former members have announced their candidacies.

Mayor Jim Meredith won't be running again, but one-time council member Archie Nemecek of 303 Garfield St. filed a petition for mayor.

Former city superintendent and council member Russel N. Gee of 1009 Water St. is unopposed for the first ward council seat being vacated by Bud Kenny.

Councilman Frank Campbell isn't running for his second ward position, and circulated a petition for a replacement, former council member Darwin H. Morris of 106 N. Maple. Running against Morris will be Sanford H. Sweet of 107 Third Street.

In the third ward, Ken Hagen had decided not to seek reelection. The race there will be between Planning and Zoning Commission member Bonnie Thomas of 212 W. Mary and Calvin Gotts of 103 Nicholls.

Evangelist to perform in BC Sunday, Monday

BOYNE CITY - Dallas-based evangelist-singer Vicki Jamison is slated to conduct services Sunday and Monday, June 22 and 23, at 7:30 p.m., at the city's high school gym. Rev. A. John Spohn, pastor of Trinity Pentecostal Church of God, is the coordinator for the event in the 1500-seat facility, which will be open to the public without charge.

In the two-night meetings there will be special prayer for sick and afflicted, with an emphasis on salvation and healing for the whole person. Rev. Spohn said.

The evangelist, starting last month her seventh year of cross-country crusades, is also producer of gospel television programs from many of her meetings.

Senior population rises, center's funding doesn't

Despite an increase each year of senior citizens moving into Charlevoix County, the proposed statewide plan of services and funding to the aging indicates the county will receive the same amount of state and federal funding as last year.

According to Art Saworski, director of the county Commission on Aging, because of inflation, the funding is actually a 10 percent reduction compared to funding for 1979-80 fiscal year.

Saworski was not sure what effect the funding will have on the services offered to county citizens 60 and older. "We may have to scramble," he said. "We may just be able to get by with what we have without any cuts, but I'm not too sure we can."

Senior citizens have laws which protect and provide for their care. Under the new regulations of the Older American Act, the state office of Services to the Aging is preparing a three-year state plan. The plan covering Oct. 1, 1981 to Sept. 30, 1984, explains the priorities of the office and details how over $33 million in federal and state funds will be spent on services to the elderly throughout the next fiscal year. The plan also outlines actions and aid to our seniors.

Five public hearings on the plan are being held to get input from seniors and other interested persons on the needs and concerns of our elderly. Approximately 20 seniors from Charlevoix County will make the trip to Gaylord High School Thursday, June 19, to attend the hearing on the plan.

According to East Jordan and Boyne City directors of the Senior Citizen Centers the seniors plan to attend to "question the level of funding for seniors" and voice concern in several issues.

Saworski and the directors say the 64 page plan for the aging is good and details concerns of seniors and outlines needed services and funding.

According to the proposed plan, Region 10 which includes Charlevoix County and nine other northern counties below the Upper Peninsula, would receive approximately $663,758. The funding is based on the region's senior population, their income and whether it is a rural or urban area.

Of the population of Region 10, 3.47 percent are senior citizens. The senior population of Charlevoix County is approximately 10.4 percent, according to Saworski.

Charlevoix County's portion of the plan's $33 million is approximately $27,000. Saworski said. This funding goes toward services such as health screening, shut-in programs, transportation and other planned senior center activities for the elderly.

The county also should receive approximately $50,000 for its nutrition program. This includes the meals served at the senior centers and also home delivered meals to shut-ins. Saworski said. This is the same amount of funding as received last fiscal year.

"More and more seniors are participating in our programs each year," Saworski noted. The county has exceeded its nutritional budget for meals approximately $5,000 this year because of the increase in the number of seniors at meals.

Saworski said the county has received funds for 24,000 meals served in the past year, although nearly 30,000 meals were actually served. "There's not going to be a drop in the number of meals we serve next year, it's going to increase if anything," he said. "We may serve 33,000 meals next year and receive funding for only 24,000."

What happens if next year there is a need for 33,000 meals but yet the center receives funding for 24,000? "We stop the meal service," Saworski said.

Petitions to rehire coach and Ivan Smith, Larry Hayes, Mildred Harvey (Russ' mother) and Tom and Dee Nagle.

One member of the group, Hayes, said he has never even met Harvey. "But I went to every basketball game and watched him coach. He's a good coach and I thought he worked well with the team. It's a dirty deal and I think he at least has the right to know why he's out of his coaching job," Hayes said.

Forbes Tompkins appeared before the Commission stated facts and figures in defense of not closing the airport. The statistics he presented and comments made were duly noted by the Commission.

The Clerk read a letter from Roy J. Russell, Farmington Hills, who expressed his opinion in keeping the airport open and made comments as to why it would be inadvisable to close it.

The Mayor called for a Public Hearing on the closure of an alley upon the request of Elmer Crain, under the provisions of Ordinance A-42.

Robert Seagraves appeared before the Commission stating that he and Tom Smith were not in opposition of the closure, but requested that a fence be erected by Elmer Crain, if they did not protest the closure. The Commission stated that they could not require installation of a fence, but rather it must be worked out among the parties involved.

Moved by Moody, seconded by Jessup to authorize the closing of the entire length of the alley, running north and south between W. Division Street and Trent Street and running parallel between Pleasant Avenue and First Street, upon the recommendation of the Planning Commission. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

At this point of the meeting at 7:40 p.m., Commission Moody was excused from the meeting.

The City Manager gave a report on the receipt of two applications from James White for Commercial Facilities Exemption Certificates for the Oddfellows Hall at 210-214 E. Water St. and Ace Hardware, 200 E. Water St.

Pursuant to Act #255 of the Public Acts of 1978 - "Commercial Redevelopment Act," the City must act on the application within 60 days of receipt of same.

Moved by Paul, seconded by Jessup to schedule a Public Hearing for July 8, 1980, at 7:00 p.m., at the Litzenburger Place, for the purpose of reviewing and granting a Commercial Facilities Exemption Certificate to Jim White for the Oddfellow Building and Ace Hardware, and directs the City Manager and City Clerk to publish the proper notices and notify the various taxing units, and follow all other regulations under Act #255 of the Public Acts of 1978. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

The City Manager gave a report on the requirements of Ordinance A-60 Fireworks Ordinance. The Boyne City Fire Department is requesting the granting of a Special Permit for a public fireworks display on the 4th of July.

The Boyne City Fire Department has performed this function historically on the 4th of July, as such, is experienced in dealing with these potentially dangerous materials. Suffice it to note, the Public Fireworks Display will be supervised, administered and operated solely by members of the Boyne City Fire Department.

The fireworks will be launched at the usual location at the base of Water Street beyond the railroad roundhouse. The area will be barricaded to prevent access by individuals other than the Boyne City Fire Department.

Moved by Behling, seconded by Paul that the Boyne City Fire Department be granted a permit, under Ordinance A-60 - Fireworks Ordinance, to direct the firing of fireworks on the Fourth of July. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

The Public is invited to attend the following meeting of Boards and Commissions:

Thursday, June 19, 1980, at 7:00 p.m. - Boyne City Parks and Recreation Commission, Commission Chambers, City Hall, Thursday, June 26, 1980, at 4:00 p.m. - Boyne City Historical Commission, Commission Chambers, City Hall, Monday, June 30, 1980, at 5:00 p.m. - Boyne City Planning Commission Special Meeting - Public Hearing to Consider Adoption of the Comprehensive Plan of the City of Boyne City, Commission Chambers, City Hall, Tuesday, July 1, 1980, at 7:30 p.m. - Boyne City Housing Commission, Litzenburger Place, 829 S. Park Street, Every Tuesday, at 12:00 Noon - City Commission at the Office of the City manager, City Hall.

The City Manager gave a report on Ordinance A-16 - Personnel Ordinance. The intent of the Ordinance is to codify and systemize the regulations, benefits and salaries of the employees of the City. Previously, the City has undertaken to amend Ordinance A-16 on a section by section basis to keep up with the collective bargaining agreements. Rather than attempt to amend the sections of the Ordinance A-16 every time the collective bargaining agreement is changed, it is recommended that Ordinance A-16 be amended to incorporate as a part thereof the collective bargaining agreement and any future changes to same.

Moved by Paul, seconded by Jessup to amend Ordinance A-16 - Personnel Ordinance, incorporating the collective bargaining agreement as part of said Ordinance. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

Moved by Behling, seconded by Fitzpatrick to award the low bid on a 1981 International dump truck of 33,200 GVW, to Bollinger's, Inc., in the amount of $25,745.00, less trade-in of a 1970 International Dump Truck, in the amount of $2,100.00, with the hydraulics of the Dump Truck to be installed by Hyde Equipment Co. Funds to be expended from the Motor Pool Fund Account Code #661-000-975 - Dump Truck. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

The City Manager gave a report on the purchasing of a new Ambulance. A new unit is available for immediate purchase and could be put into service within three weeks.

Upon advice of the City Attorney, it was recommended that the acquisition of a new ambulance by put out for bids, according to the City Charter.

The Commission deferred any action on the purchase of a new ambulance and conversion of the back-up ambulance into a fire department carry-all, until specifications were advertised for bids for the purchase of same.

The City Manager gave a report on the adoption of the By-Laws of the Economic Development Corporation. At their May 20, 1980 meeting the EDC officially adopted the By-Laws. Pursuant to the Corporation's enabling legislation, the By-Laws were published in their entirety in the local newspaper. No comments were received in opposition to the By-Laws.

Moved by Paul, seconded by Jessup to approve the By-Laws of the Boyne City Economic Development Corporation. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

Moved by Jessup, seconded by Paul to re-appoint Lynn Hall to the Boyne City Library Board, for a five year term. Term ending April 30, 1985. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

The City Manager transmitted the Monthly Financial Report to the commission for the month of May. The report was ordered filed.

Moved by Paul, seconded by Jessup to approve the second reading of the amendment to Ordinance A.25, setting new marina docking rates. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried. Amendment officially adopted.

The City Manager gave a report of the Airport Advisory Board, that advised the City Commission to establish Aircraft Parking Fees at the Boyne City Municipal Airport. Those rates were recommended subsequent to a survey conducted of other airports of compatible size within the State of Michigan. The fees are intended to assist the Airport in obtaining unsubsidized revenues to insure the continued operation of the Boyne City Municipal Airport.

Moved by Jessup, seconded by Fitzpatrick to establish Aircraft Parking Fees at the Boyne City Municipal Airport as follows:

Overnight	$ 1.00
One Week	5.00
One Month	15.00
Annual	120.00

Roll Call Vote: Yeas: Fitzpatrick, Behling, Jessup. Nays: Paul. Motion carried.

The City Attorney presented a draft of an Ordinance, defining, regulating and licensing peddlers, solicitors, transient traders and charitable solicitations and providing penalties for the violation thereof to the Commission for their study. The matter was deferred until the Commission has an opportunity to study all aspects of the proposed ordinance.

Moved by Paul, seconded by Jessup that the meeting adjourn. Meeting adjourned at 8:46 p.m.

Most board candidates support sex education

We found it interesting to compare people's views on sex education when The Press printed statements from school board candidates two weeks ago.

The candidates didn't, of course, raise the issue on their own. They commented on it in response to a question we asked them in a letter.

Of 11 East Jordan and Boyne City candidates responding to our questions, it was interesting (although not really surprising) to note that not one candidate was totally against sex education.

One candidate, Francis Wicker of Boyne City answered "No comment," apparently feeling that she didn't have enough information to respond. . . or that the subject was too hot to handle.

Another, Ed Drenth of East Jordan, said he stood behind a committee decision not to implement sex education. But he qualified his answer with "at this time," leaving the door open to changing his mind in the future.

Of the other nine candidates, seven definitely supported the idea, and two said they were undecided, wanted more information and pointed out that schools and society are not doing an adequate job of sex education.

We think this sampling of viewpoints is representative of the local populace. Most people wish there were a better way—that parents would teach their children about sex. But they realize that isn't happening, and they see the societal problems that occur as a result of trying to ignore the subject.

They also point out that this is not a subject area that can be rushed into or taught by just anyone. Parents, teachers, students and clergymen must be involved in setting up a curriculum.

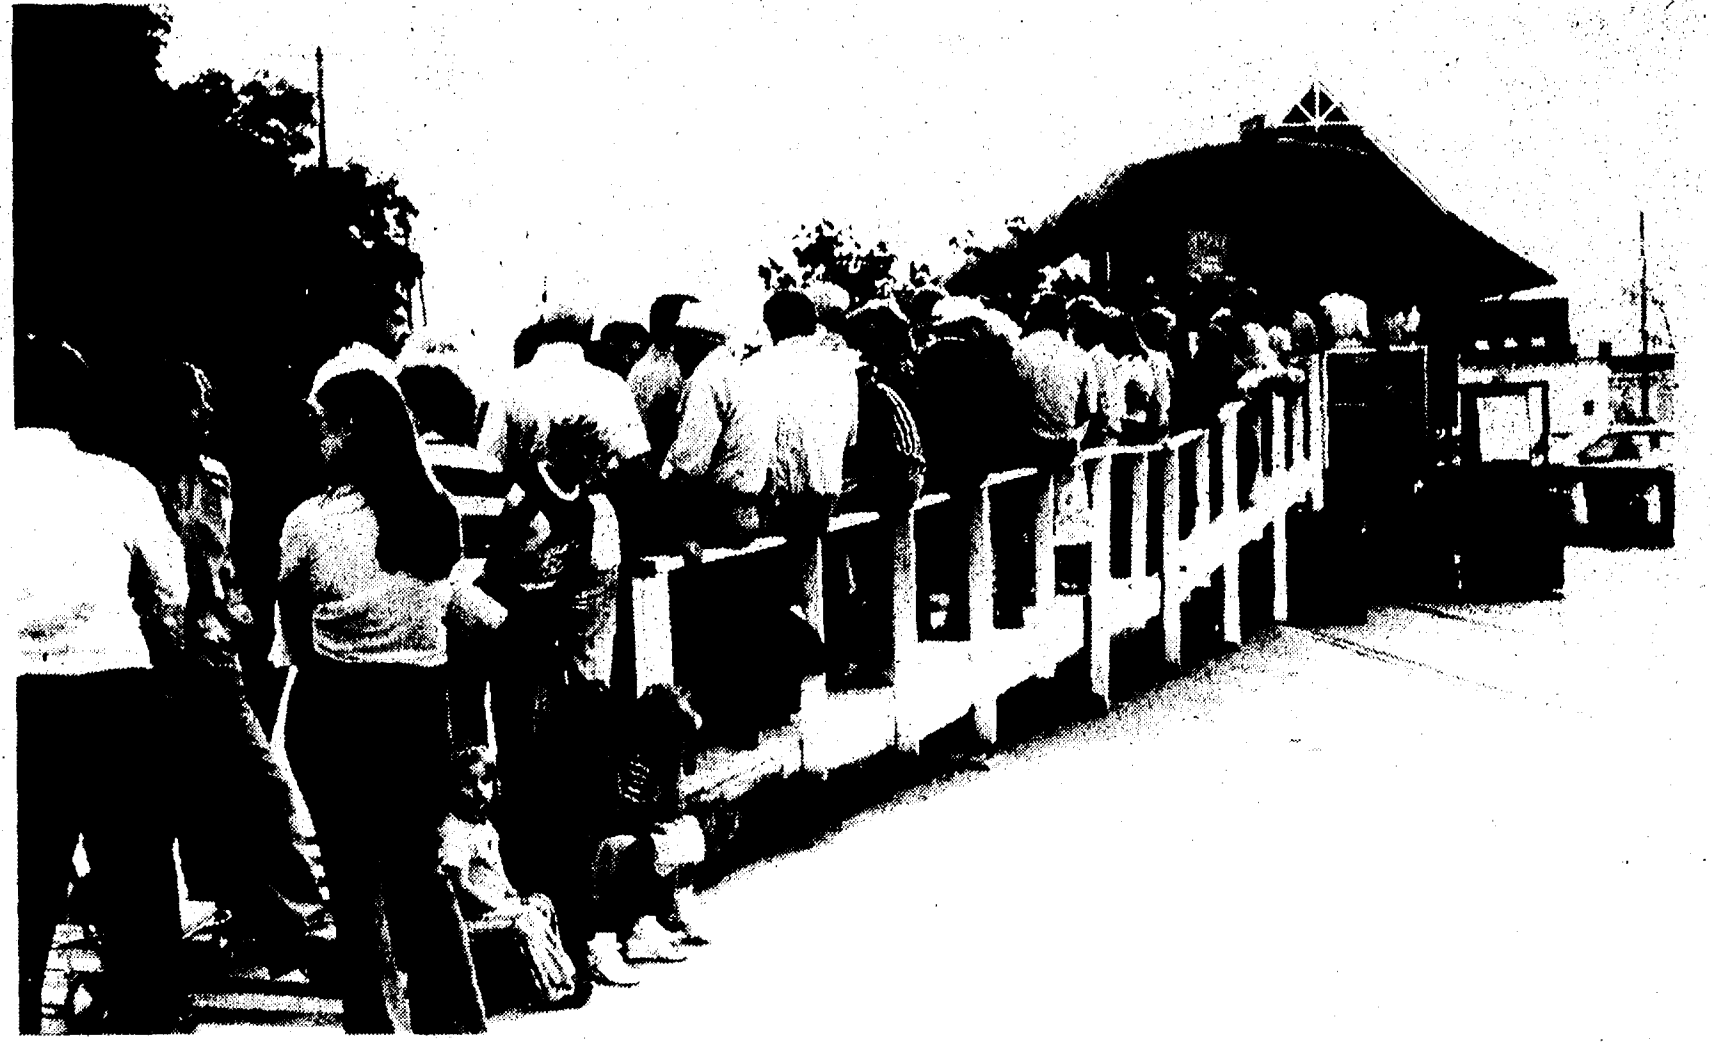

This is what is being done in Boyne

City and Boyne Falls. As state Department of Education guidelines recommend, these two school systems have set up broad-based committees to study the concept and make recommendations.

Both committees took their time, went about their appointed task, and made nearly unanimous recommendations in favor of teaching sex education in the schools. Final board approval hasn't been granted yet, but the wheels are still moving to this end.

It is painful to point this out again, but East Jordan still persists in keeping the issue shoved under the rug. A committee which studied the issue many months ago dropped it like a hot potato and (hush, hush) didn't even report back to the board that the idea had been dropped.

Now, two new board members, Shirley Bauer and Dan Nachazel at least think the issue deserves a fair hearing. It is a good time to resurrect the matter and put it on the front burner.

At times, the lines were long to get into the Artrain. . . but it's not every day that Picasso drawings come to Boyne City!

Superb from start to finish

Our spirit showed for Artrain

Artrain's five day celebration in Boyne couldn't have been better. From opening ceremonies to the final night, it was a success.

The best aspect of Artrain was the community spirit from those who put all the events together and the others who came to see them. Over 3,700 people went through the train galleries, and both the Great Train Robbery Thursday night and the Saturday children's carnival drew additional crowds.

On opening night, the Artrain staff might have thought, "Oh boy, here we are in another small town. Don't expect much."

Well, Boyne City showed them! Tunes by Sean Ryan and superb drama performances by Bob Wollenberg's high school students highlighted the opening night. No one wanted to end the night and people had to practically be thrown out of the Depot to get them to leave.

What we proved to the Artrain group (and ourselves) was that the community can show up strong, open minded and with enthusiasm for something as different as Artrain.

The best part was that everything was free. Thursday, even if you didn't buy anything (which I hope you did for the merchants' sake) it was great to walk the streets, see people dressed up and enjoy the Barbershoppers' singing. Mr. J's outdoor cafe was excellent—somehow they should consider keeping it as a permanent attraction.

Even though I did not attend Saturday's children carnival (another staff member did), I heard how successful it was from many people.

It was from many people. The number of people passing through Artrain was the highest Saturday, but probably more people would have gone through if it didn't look like such a swarm of people were around the Artrain. But that swarm of people was mostly children, and their mothers and fathers enjoying the free carnival events.

Saturday definitely proved to be kids' day. Almost every child in the crowd had a clown face and stars or doodles up and down their arms. You must admit, the moms and dads got into painting, too. They couldn't resist taking a couple dabs at trying their stroke with the brush (or fingers, or feet).

Everywhere one looked there were activities for children at no cost! Artrain was plastered with children's paintings, a little ways over there were children chopping on wood, and in another area balloons were decorated, tied together and let go to float above Boyne.

As a gallery guide on Sunday, I got a little more insight into what the people passing through thought of the exhibit. For the most part, they were open minded. The children were great. I loved to hear their views on a painting. I singled out a child several times and talked about a painting or two which he or she liked or disliked.

People were curious about the paintings which at least means their minds were open enough to stroke their curiosity.

Both Artrain's on-board artists and our local artists added a lot to the affair. After going through the exhibit, to see an artist at work even though the media may have been different than the paintings exhibited, helped parents and children understand a little more what went into an artist's mind as he/she works. "What are you doing?" must have been asked a million times and was answered politely back as many times.

A lot of work went into organizing Artrain's visit. The steering committee deserves a big pat on the back for the huge success of the Artrain. Without them it could not have been possible. The people of the community deserve thanks for their support both financially and by attending the activities.

Even though it was a lot of work, I'd like to see Artrain back in Boyne City anytime and I think it would be just as much fun all over again.

No matter what crisis he is solving from his rose garden, I can't vote for Carter and four more years of a mismanaged economy, ineffective interaction with Congress and a zoo-like family.

For a while I was facing up to a long-shot vote for Anderson. If Reagan picks the right vice-president he would become a "maybe," but that's a morbid choice. Beyond that I am torn between Pat Paulsen and Dick Gregory.

This is my last piece for The Charlevoix County Press. It has been interesting weaving my way through the ins and outs of state government. And I hope I have provided some of you with insight into the process because it does matter, whether we like it or not (pull out your last state tax return). Bye.

There is some hope for those of us who are having trouble stomaching the thought of pulling the Carter or Reagan lever in November. If Republican-turned-independent John B. Anderson can get around tricky election rules and get his name on enough state ballots we could be in for some excitement.

On the outside chance that Anderson could reap large enough benefits from "Carter-Reagan disgust" and carry a number of key states, this could lead to none of the three getting a majority of the electoral college votes needed to become president.

The race would then be thrown into the U.S. House of Representatives with each state getting one vote, and then who knows who would have the best shot.

Carter has proven extremely ineffective in getting Congress to do anything he desires, let alone giving him the keys to the White House for four more years.

Reagan would need a detailed map just to find the House, seeing as he has never held a job in Washington, D. C. (Come to think of it, he hasn't held any job for the last six years).

Anderson is a longshot, but he could be helped by the fact that he is a House member and the House will choose the President.

Unfortunately Carter will probably stay in the spotlight and hearts of Americans due to the unstable crisis-prone world we live in. Political scientists point out that even a bumber like Carter gets a boost in the polls during a crisis because the patriotic American people rally around the flag.

Interviewing Myself

Since one nine thirty-five, A and D, I have interviewed judges, governors, politicians, office holders, losers, winners, crooks and a hog raiser who was mad at the government.

Thinking about this the other day it occurred to me that I had missed one hot shot VIP. I had never interviewed Myself. What a great loss to the reading public! So I began forthwith to interview Myself. Women prefer men who do things forthwith. That's why I am a forthwith.

I did not pussyfoot. I tore off a piece of grocery sack and sharpened a number two lead pencil.

"Sir," I said to Myself, "do you believe all those frightening things they are saying about President Carter?"

Myself perked up and kind of beamed at being interviewed for the first time.

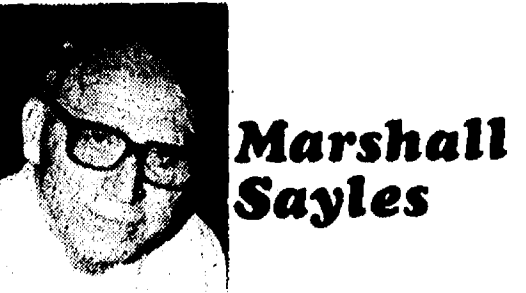

"I discussed these things with Mr. Carter in my sleep the other night," Myself said. "He told me that all those truths the Republicans are spreading about him are nothing but flies."

I pressed further. A good interviewer always presses further. "Then you feel that Mr. Carter is being stoned in error?"

"I'm sure of it," Myself said. "I've never dreamed a lie in my life."

"Another question, sir. Do you think the majority of people are behind Mr. Carter's wishy washy leadership that has reduced us to food stamps and constant fear of the six o'clock news?"

"They might be and they may not be," Myself said. "It all depends on whether they are or not."

"One more thing. I have been told that Mr. Carter thinks he is singing when he is merely whistling off key. True or false?"

I was asked to rephrase the question in such a way Myself could answer honestly without saying anything.

"Forget that one, sir. Tell me what you think about our nice Republicans who want to throw us a rope and drag us from this dark pit."

"It's like this," Myself said. "They are a bunch of cowboys, all dressed up and ready to ride; and they have the mistaken idea that we are all saddled up ready to be ridden."

"What do you as an outstanding citizen want most out of life?" I asked.

"A couple of beers and Ted Kennedy."

"You are the worst uninformed celebrity I've ever interviewed," I said.

"And I have interviewed some dandies."

"How come you've done all this talking without writing anything down on that grocery sack you tore apart?" Myself asked.

"I can typewrite with one hand and remember things with the other. But I'm not writing anything about you."

"And why not?"

"My enthusiasm for you has been tempered by your unprecedented ignorance."

"I ain't got that kind of ignorance, and you know it," Myself yelled.

With the force over and with a sick headache developing, I got to thinking.

If more people would step into the back yard and subject themselves to a personal in-depth interview they might discover hidden truths not easily detected as they boast and brag their way through life.

And, as I look around me, I recommend that it be done forthwith.

Torn between Pat Paulsen, Dick Gregory

LANSING - This year's presidential primary season has produced a late entry that steadily improved with each contest and may be a key factor in November. As the weeks wore on and the scene hopped-scotched across the country, more and more Americans entered voting booths and chose "none of the above."

It was close to 10 percent in a few states.

The relative certainty of a Carter-Reagan contest motivated more people to create jokes than enthusiasm. (Did you hear about the race between "peanuts" and "popcorn," you know, the stuff you get at the movies, ha ha, never mind.)

I don't know about you folks, but it got pretty disheartening for me, picking a favorite only to see him drop out of the race, picking another, another dropout, and so on.

This lack of zeal for the choices left for the American people is reflected in the answers I got when I asked Charlevoix County's state lawmakers who they support.

Being the good party loyalists they are, Sen. Mitch Irwin, D-Sault Ste. Marie, Rep. Steve Andrews, R-Wolverine and Rep. Ralph Ostling, R-Roscommon all indicated they would support their "party's nominee." All three responses seemed to be hiding some gagging and none could bring themselves to replace the words "party's nominee" with the names Carter or Reagan.

Andrews was an ardent Bush supporter all along and was especially disappointed to see the former CIA Director drop out after he thrashed Reagan two-to-one in the Michigan primary. Andrews will support Reagan, but his heart isn't in it.

Irwin's disappointment with Democratic choices Carter and Kennedy is very apparent. He is already trying to change the presidential primary system. He claims that regional primaries during a shorter period of time would produce a better selection of candidates.

Who won the Battle of Front Street?

The Front Street issue is to be just about resolved in Boyne City, and it seems a good time to look back on the whole "condo-versy" and make a few observations.

A year ago, the debate was raging at full steam over whether to close the street to allow the building of a condominium development.

In August, the voters said no to closing the street. After the election it hardly seemed possible that any compromise could be worked out between the developers and the people who so ardently opposed the street closing.

Wounds had been inflicted which might never heal. The town would be forever polarized, we all thought. Popular thinking was that developers Rick and Dave Smith would be best off selling their former tannery property and giving up.

Now, after tempers have cooled and a compromise has been ironed out, two thoughts creep into mind:

(1) The "Save Front Street" sympathizers must feel smug right now. They were right all along. They held out long enough, proving that the street could be saved and a nice development could be built.

(2) The developers and their supporters must feel pretty smug right now. They got just about what they wanted. Front Street will still be there, but it will be moved quite a distance back from the lake. And they will still be able to build lots of condos and a huge marina.

I find myself thinking along those two extremes as I drive along Front Street each day on my way to work. Who really won the big fight, after all is said and done?

If you go back and look at the complex issues which were involved at the time, neither side really "won," but both sides have somehow been able to save face and respectability. That would have been hard to predict the day after the election last August.

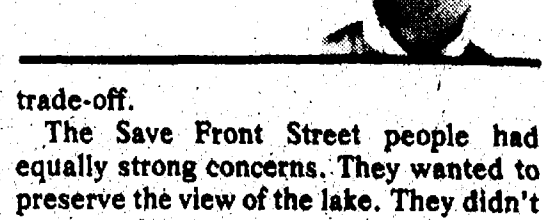

I, for one, still feel the issues were worth "fighting" over. I supported the Smiths' original proposal to close the street. I still feel the overall development would have been more attractive that way.

The condos would have been more spread out and farther from the lakefront, and the city would have ended up with a park, a walkway and possibly a swimming beach from which to enjoy the lake view. Even though I drive along Front Street nearly every day of the week and thoroughly enjoy the view, I felt these other advantages were worth the trade-off.

The Save Front Street people had equally strong concerns. They wanted to preserve the view of the lake. They didn't want to lose a major arterial road which would divert more traffic onto Division Street, causing problems by creating a four-way stop and the need for a four-lane street. Boyne City already has plenty of parks, and there were serious doubts about the possibility of being able to build a beach anywhere along Front Street.

Ah, yes, it was a complex issue indeed! Resurrecting all the old arguments (and there were lots more than the few I've just mentioned) makes me glad the whole thing is (nearly) over.

It took a long time, a lot of money and it caused a few gray hairs, but in the end a pretty good compromise has been reached. Maybe both sides "won" this battle.

I feel the damages done to Russ and his family are unreparable and unforgivable.

I am circulating a petition in Russell's behalf. If anyone reading this would like to help, please call me at 582-6279 any day after 5 p.m.

The people who worked for many months to organize Artrain's visit were introduced at opening ceremonies last Wednesday evening. Chairman Gail Toffolo, at the microphone, introduces Artrain committee members Ed Thurston, Carol McTaggart, Mary Greetz, Betty Adgate, master of ceremonies Harvey Varnum and Tim Clifton.

Several people stopped to look at the display of cars at the Antique Car Show Sunday at Artrain.

Artrain festivities draw 3,700 for exhibits, activities

Over 3,700 people visited Artrain during the five days it was at Boyne City. Saturday during the children's carnival, the number of visitors touring the Changing Canvas exhibit reached its peak with 875 people passing through the six-car train.

"It was beautiful! Such a good community happening," Artrain committee member Gail Toffolo commented after the train's doors closed at 8 p.m. Monday. "If there was any community negativism, I don't know where it was because it never surfaced during the five days," she said.

Artrain employees noted the visit of Artrain was well organized and things ran very smoothly. They also said the activities planned to coincide with Artrain's stay were fun and free, which accounted for the large crowds.

On Thursday, Artrain's first day in town, 689 people visited the train. Friday brought 811 people out to see Artrain. Saturday there were 875 people; Sunday 828; and Monday the crowd was 526 strong.

Toffolo announced that $365 was collected for the quilt drawing. Inger Emgen of Boyne City won the quilt made and donated toward fund raising for Artrain by Ann Thurston of P's and Q's.

The total amount of contributions by merchants and individuals topped $2,000, she said.

Winners of the Great Train Robbery give-a-ways held Thursday were Lance Johnson, a framed photograph donated by Valentine Studio; Pauline Teerlinck, a pen and ink drawing by Jane Bock; and Mary Dunlop, stained glass by Sheryl Kashmerick of Morning Star Studios.

Downtown business people called their Thursday night sale "The Great Train Robbery," and these thugs raided Water Street in an antique car. Actually they were high school drama students. . . and they returned their loot.

Artrain attracted people from all over. These two Illinois residents, Terri Dickerson and Sandy Gardland timed their trip to visit relatives in East Jordan so they could see the Artrain.

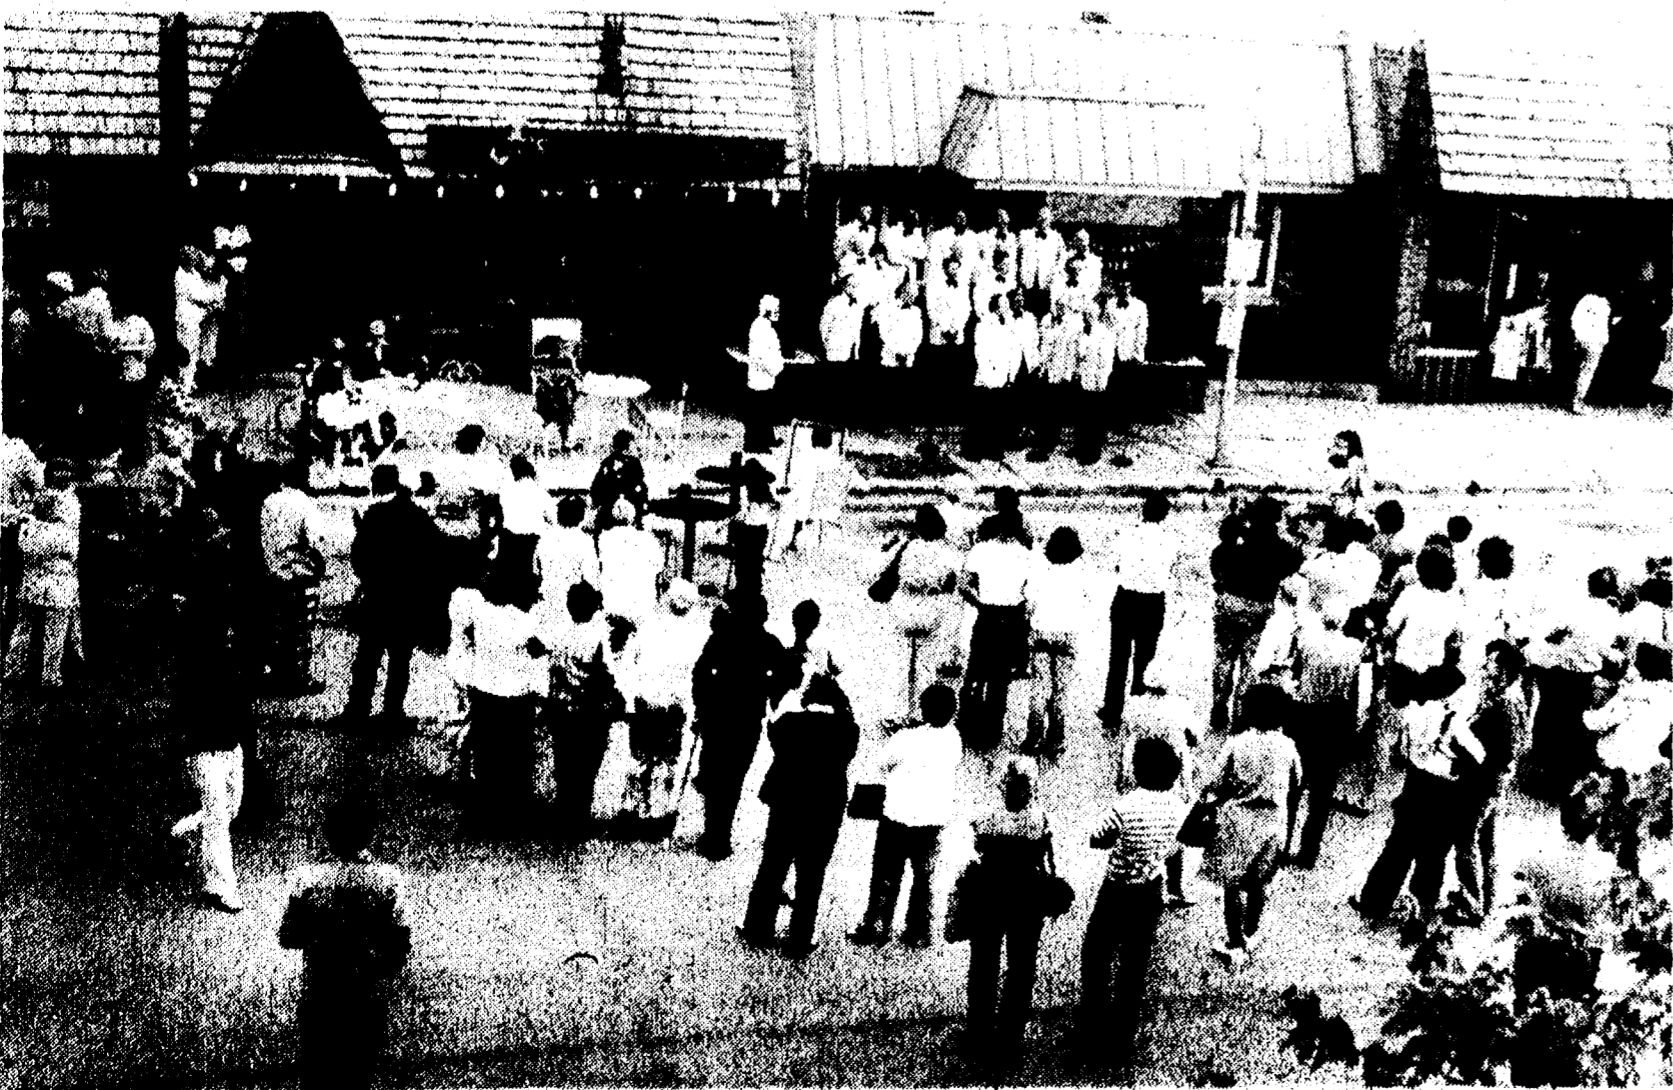

It's surprising how creative you can get when you paint green stripes on a bumper or pink dots on a tire. It was all part of the Art Carnival organized in conjunction with Artrain.

Young and old alike couldn't resist painting at the children's carnival Saturday.

Barefoot painting was part of the Art Carnival Saturday afternoon. Al Christensen of Charlevoix watches as his daughter Kate steps in a dish of paint and wiggles her toes on paper to make a truly unique painting.

Water Street was a pedestrian mall, complete with a sidewalk cafe and entertainment by the Snowbelt Chorus barbershop singers during a special evening sale by downtown merchants Thursday night. Dubbed "The Great Train Robbery," the sale was organized by the Chamber of Commerce Retail Board in conjunction with the Artrain visit.

Mike and Steve Harmeling performed a few bluegrass tunes on the stage next to Artrain Saturday afternoon.

It seemed like nearly every youngster at the Art Carnival had a clown face.

Thank you Charlevoix County!

The Charlevoix County Unit of the American Cancer Society would like to thank the citizens of Charlevoix County for their fine support of the society's crusade for 1980. Your dollars continue to provide research, service and education programs which aid in the on-going fight against cancer.

1980 Facts & Figures

The American Cancer Society is making a difference in the lives of men and women throughout Michigan through its activities in research, education, service and rehabilitation.

Interferon, a protein that has shown great promise in retarding the growth of cancer cells, received a $2 million commitment from the Society last year. This was the largest grant in the Society's history.

Over a quarter of a million adults, almost 400,000 youth and close to 20,000 health professionals were presented with potentially life-saving information through the Society's public and professional education programs in Michigan in fiscal 1979.

Since entering the field of research support in 1946, the Society has established itself as a major independent granting agency, second only to the National Cancer Institute, an agency of the federal government. To date, the ACS has invested more than half a billion dollars in cancer research. In fiscal 1979 alone, over $51 million was granted to major institutions in this country and to scientists working both here and abroad.

Throughout Michigan this year there will be about 30,000 new cancer cases and an estimated 15,700 cancer deaths. This means that 169 of every 100,000 people in our state will die from cancer in 1980. The highest rate of incidence and death will occur in three major sites: breast, colon-rectum and lung.

Half of those who get cancer could and should be saved. The immediate goal of cancer control in this country is saving 393,000 lives, or half of those who will get cancer in 1980. In Michigan we want to save 15,000 lives.

In an effort to improve the quality of life, the ACS provided services to more than 13,500 cancer patients last year. These services came in the form of equipment loans, counseling and referral, dressings, loan closet items and transportation. Through one of several rehabilitation programs sponsored by the Society, 2600 mastectomy patients were visited by Reach to Recovery volunteers who had, themselves, lost a breast to cancer.

Christina and Peter Hennessy
Jeffery and Kelly Knysz

Double ring ceremony unites Knysz-Hennessy

BOYNE CITY - A double ring ceremony May 31 united in marriage Christina Ann Knysz and Peter C. Hennessy. Over 200 relatives and friends attended the wedding at St. Matthew's Catholic Church of Boyne City.

The bride is the daughter of the late Peter Knysz Sr. of Romulus and Ruth Ann Knysz, now of Addis Road, Boyne City. Peter is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Vincent Hennessy of Ann Arbor.

Father Dennis Stilwell of St. Matthew's performed the ceremony in which guests from Ohio, New Jersey, Colorado and around the state attended.

Adding to the wedding were Kelly Marie Knysz, six, and her brother Jeffery Michael, three, who walked with the couple down the aisle. Jeffery carried the rings upon a lace trimmed white, satin pillow. Parents of the children are John and Mary Lou Knysz of Canton.

Lighted candles with daisy wreaths adorned each window and altar at the church. Two floral arrangements of white gladioli, snapdragons, daisies and baby's breath filled the church.

Ernie Mendell, a gospel singer from Petoskey, sang and played the guitar. He performed "Morning Has Broken," "I Believe," and "Amazing Grace." The wedding March was performed by Lisa Pierson, 14, a friend of the family.

The bride's gown was made of polyester chiffon with a high neck of silk venise lace, a yoked bodice with long fitted sleeves with a flounced cuff. The skirt was pleated with a lace flounce. She wore a lace trimmed, wide, brim hat and carried a bouquet of carnations, daisies and baby's breath with white streamers.

The bride's sister-in-law was her matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Cathy Bartreau of Boyne Falls, Vickie Hamlin of Boyne City, her sister Ruth Ann Knysz, Vickie Hennessy of Ann Arbor, and Bonnie Dingman and Linda Conrad, both of Belleville.

Larry Duvall of Ann Arbor was the best man. Groomsmen were his brother Alan Hennessy, Steve Knysz of Ypsilanti, Greg Granbeau of Ann Arbor, Mark Debbink of Grand Rapids, Bill Schorger of Colorado and John Sivacek of Dewitt.

A reception was held at the Kandalar Barn in Elmira following the wedding. Music at the reception was performed by the Sadowskis of Boyne City.

Little Trout Island near Drummond Island was chosen for the honeymoon. After a week, the couple planned to return and make their home at Pleasant Avenue, Boyne City.

The old cook stove and strawberry shortcake

Many people are now returning to the use of wood burning stoves and those old kitchen ranges are becoming popular again because of the energy crisis, but nostalgia tells us there are other reasons. Many of us remember it as the center of the family life when we were growing up.

I remember how Papa built the fire in the cook stove every morning before he went to the barn to do his chores.

There was a crank that fit into a socket on the front of the stove. He turned the when a top lid was removed. There was also a pancake griddle that fitted over the open flame, and iron frying pans of different sizes.

Sears Roebuck sold these stoves for $40 with all the equipment which also included a copper-bottomed wash boiler to boil clothes in. I love to think about the delicious food that came from that oven like those dripping pans filled with golden brown shortcake.

On the Fourth of July Mother always made strawberry shortcake. Sometimes she even had to buy the berries, but usually her small patch in the garden made one good shortcake if she could keep the kids, the robins, and the chickens out of it.

She made her shortcake with a rich biscuit dough made with cream and a little sugar but no eggs. She baked it in those big dripping pans.

While it was still warm she split the cake, buttered it and covered both layers with crushed sugared strawberries. We all had all we could eat with cream if we wanted it.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

Now I do not have the farm fresh ingredients to make the rich biscuit dough that she had but I have found a very good substitute. To 2 cups of biscuits mix add 4 tablespoons of sugar and a couple tablespoons of butter or margarine. Cut this into the mix and add one half cup of half and half or milk. Blend and pat into a 9 by 9 inch pan. Bake at 375 degrees until golden brown. Double the ingredients if you have more than four people to help eat this.

Cooking Yesterday & Today

with Bea Smith

crank and that shook yesterday's ashes into an ash pan at the bottom of the stove which had to be emptied every few days.

Then he was ready for the kindling, a soft fast-burning wood. To make it catch fire easily he shaved the wood into fine splinters with his jack-knife. He lit a match to this and added more kindling, then when this was burning good he added bigger pieces of wood.

Sometimes the top of the stove would get red hot. In no time Mother had the coffee pot on and was frying fresh side pork or sausage and pancakes.

The oven was big and held at least six loaves of bread. When she was not baking something and wanted some heat in the room she left the oven door open. On Saturday nights we all had to take baths in the big round washtub in front of the open oven door.

I learned at a very early age not to put things into that door. One time I had a new pair of shiny black shoes which I played with all day, not being allowed to wear them because they were for "good". The next morning the house quickly filled with smoke and the most obnoxious odor.

Mother quickly opened the oven door and there were my beautiful patent leather shoes almost completely melted away.

Papa's potato crop the first year they were married paid for the stove. He took a load of potatoes to town and brought home the stove on the empty wagon.

When one bought a stove at the turn of the century all the cooking utensils needed were sold with the stove. There were two large kettles for canning and boiled dinners, dripping pans that were just the right size to fit the oven, and an iron kettle that fit directly over the flame

Boyne couple celebrates golden anniversary

Floyd and Adele Schneider of Boyne City celebrated their golden wedding anniversary June 15, by attending church at East Jordan where they were married 50 years ago.

The marriage was solemnized by the late Elder Allen Scherier of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. A special solo sung by Mrs. Sharon Pierce, was dedicated to them.

The couple were Saturday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stanhope, brother Herb Schneider and their sister Mrs. Sylvia Moffitt from Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Schneider received many lovely cards, flowers and phone calls among which was a greeting from the president of the church, Wallace B. Smith, world headquarters, Independence, Mo.

Historic Festival promises family fun in Petoskey

Gay 90's fashion

Head snoods and fans were all a part of Gay 90's fashion in Northern Michigan. Michaelyn Fineout shows one of 80 fashions which will be modeled during a Victorian tea and fashion show at The Bay View Inn. The show will be held daily after historical home tours of Bay View. (More details on page 2.)

Petoskey is going all out to celebrate its turn of the century roots during the Little Traverse Bay Historic Festival June 18 to 22. The variety of activities includes something for everyone during the five day festival.

The festival will open with a quiet opening ceremony on the waterfront at 10:00 a.m. on Wednesday, June 18. That's the only time Petoskey will be quiet for the rest of the festival.

For the History Buff

A highlight of the festival for people interested in the history of the area is the Historic Homes Tour. The tour will leave daily from the Park Gardens on a double deck bus at 2 and 3 p.m. during the festival to visit the century-old site on Bay View. The tour will include five private Bay View Cottages and several of Bay View's public buildings located on the green.

Visitors will be served punch and cookies at the charming Terrace Inn and will finish the tour with a high tea at Stafford's Bay View Inn. During the tea visitors will be entertained by a fashion show highlighting clothes from the early 1800's to the 1920's. Cost of the tour is $10.

Lumbering and railroad lore can be found at the Little Traverse Regional Historical Museum. The museum hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and noon to 4 p.m. on Sunday.

Double deck bus mini historical tours will leave the Park Gardens daily at one hour intervals from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 4 to 6 p.m. The bus tour will pass historical buildings in Petoskey and finish at the Little Traverse Bay Regional Historical Society Museum. Cost of the mini-tour is $3.

On Saturday, June 21, muzzle loader demonstrations will be held in Bear River Park from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. and from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. There is no charge for these demonstrations.

Authentic Indian Pow Wows will be held on Saturday, June 21 from 2:30 to 5:00 p.m. and 7 to 9:30 p.m. on Sunday, June 22 from 3 to 5:30 p.m. at the Emmet County Fair Grounds. This authentic cultural program is sponsored by the Tri-County Indian Center and the Michigan Council for the Humanities. Cost is $2 for adults, $1 for children.

For Antique And Handcraft Admirers

Twelve select antique cars will be displayed daily from noon to 6 p.m. on Lake St. between Howard St. and the railroad. The display will include a Dussenberg and a Stutz Bear Cat which together are valued at $250,000.

Thursday, June 19 through Sunday June 22, an exclusive antique show featuring 38 exhibitors will be held in the Petoskey Middle School Gym, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday. Cost is $1.50.

Antique boats will be on display at the city dock daily from 10 a.m. to dusk. The "Katie Fitz" an old-time ferry boat will be featured.

Forty to fifty booths under canvas will feature hand made articles in the Crafts Bazaar open daily from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the city parking lot in front of the Elks Club.

Railroad Buffs Take Note

Ride the rails in one of two recently refurbished 1890's vintage railroad coaches or in a fifty year old lounge observation car. Excursion trains will leave daily at 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. to Mackinaw City and at 2 p.m. to Pellston from Pennsylvania Park. On Saturday there will be no excursion to Pellston.

The coach trip to Mackinaw City and back includes entertainment on the train and a discount on the boat to Mackinac Island. Once in Mackinaw City riders can tour Fort Michilimackinac and view the rigging of the replica of the 1783 sloop "Welcome." Coach fare for the Mackinaw City round trip is $10 and for the Pellston round trip is $4.

For the Romantic

What could be more romantic than a Sunset or Moonlight cruise on Little Traverse Bay on the Beaver Islander Ferry? The cruise will leave the city dock at 9 and 11 p.m. daily. Cost which includes entertainment is $4.

For landlubbers who prefer to do their cruising during the daytime, cruises will be available at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. daily from the city dock. Cost is $3.

Festival goers can bring their sweethearts and a box lunch to the old-fashioned church social in Pennsylvania Park from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on Sunday, June 22. They'll be able to sit in the sunlight, enjoy the food, company and the concert in the park. To truly get in the spirit, old-fashioned attire will be welcomed at the social. The Jaycees will host an ice cream social in the park to provide the dessert.

Every night there will be dancing under the stars from 8 p.m. to midnight on Lake St. between the railroad and the Park Gardens. Each night the entertainment changes. Wednesday features polka night; Thursday, a country band; Friday, a teen record hop; and Saturday is a swing band. Dancing each night is free, so festival goers can pick their pleasure.

Athletes And Sports Fans

Undoubtedly the epitome of sports events during the festival will take place Saturday, June 21st at 8:30 a.m. across Little Traverse Bay between the Bay View Inn and the Harbour Inn. Teams representing each inn will face off in a 2 1/2 mile tug of war. Spectators will want to be on hand in either Harbor Springs or Petoskey to cheer their favorite team to victory.

Athletes who prefer to compete in events themselves, should get their relay teams together. The deadline for pre-registration for the Bear River Scramble is Friday, June 20, 1980. Teams should consist of one runner, one cyclist and two canoeists.

The course starts at North Central Michigan College. The runner runs 1 mile and passes a ribbon to the cyclist who cycles 5.2 miles or 3.2 miles (depending on the classification) and passes the ribbon to the canoeists who paddle either 10 or 4.5 miles back to the runner who runs 1 mile back to the college. Got that?

The competition is divided in three categories: 1) Ages 13-20, 2) Ages 21 and up, and 3) Fun race, any age plus radio team competition. Cost for teams who register before noon Friday is $10 per team. Late entry fee for teams who register before 9 a.m. or noon on Saturday is $14.

For registration information call

(616) 347-9387 or 347-2261.

Joggers have not been forgotten. On Sunday, June 22 is the Little Traverse Bay Challenge. Joggers may enter the 1 mile, 4 mile or 6 mile race. The race will begin at Petoskey High School. Entry fee before noon Friday is $4 for 6 and 4 miles and $2 for 1 mile. Late entry fee is $6 for 6 and 4 miles and $4 for 1 mile. Entry cutoff is 8 a.m. Sunday. Sixty awards will be given. For further information call 347-2261.

An equestrian show will be held at the Emmet County Fairgrounds from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday, June 22.

Like Entertainment?

Continuous street corner entertainment including guitar players, magicians, clowns, banjo players, bagpipers, woodwinds, organ grinders and others will be featured on the corner of Lake St. and Howard St. daily from 12 to 5.

Stage entertainment featuring country bands, baton twirlers, dance concerts, ballet, blue grass, jazz, rock, gymnastic exhibition, folk singing and barber-shoppers will take place in the parking lot next to the Elks Club on June 18 and 19 from noon to 5 p.m. and on June 20 and 21 from noon to 8 p.m.

All of the above entertainment is free. A special concert of the Besser Male Chorus from Alpena will be held in the John Hall Auditorium in Bay View from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. Admission price is $2.

For Everyone

Festival goers can meet the local politicians at the "Whistle Stop" Political Rally on June 21 in Pennsylvania Park at 2 p.m. Representative Charles Varnum, Senator Mitch Irwin, and Representative Connie Binsfeld promise to be there among others.

Finally, everyone loves a parade. The festival parade will be held on Mitchell and Lake Streets from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. on Sunday June 22. Twenty-six entries will be included in the parade which will be held by the Dough Boys, a veterans of World War One drum and bugle corps. All members of the group are 80 years old or older. The oldest member is 89-year old Frank Miller.

Festival closing ceremonies will take place in Pennsylvania Park at 3 p.m.

Bay View Inn vs. Harbour Inn

Tug of war across the bay will settle old hotel rivalry

"Let's have a tug of war!"

Sounds simple enough, doesn't it? But when Stafford's Bay View Inn and the Harbour Inn decided to challenge each other to a tug of war across Little Traverse Bay during the Little Traverse Bay Historic Festival, arrangements were no simple matter.

For example, where does one get a 15,000 ft. rope that will stand the stress of being stretched across the water? Petoskey Area Innkeepers found one. They donated $2700 to buy a floatable 15,000 ft. polypropylene rope. And on Saturday, May 31, the 2800 lb. rope was spliced together in 26 places and put on two large spools, by Michigan Bell Telephone lineman under the direction of former navy boatswain, Rick Merrill.

The rope will be put into place, by Michigan Bell employees using eyelet buoys to minimize wave and wind action on the bay.

Two 20 person (3200 lb.) teams had to be chosen from a field of ten teams. So a tug off was held at North Central Michigan College.

The teams are now ready to face off at 8:30 a.m. on Saturday, June 21 when the barge-mounted Civil War cannon sounds in the middle of Little Traverse Bay.

The innkeepers are serious about this. After all, the winning inn receives the cherished title of "Most Hospitable Hostelery". "We're tough and determined on this end of the line. There's no doubt about it, we'll dunk them in nine," claims Stafford Smith of Bay View Inn.

"Give them enough rope, and..." responds Harbour Inn's Nick Bjelking with a smile.

The winning tug of war team will be treated to a gargantuan, 6-foot super submarine sandwich, courtesy of the Gaslight Deli in Petoskey.

Strains and groans filled the air at the preliminary Tug-Off.

Bay View home tours--a charming trip into the past

Walking on the green in the Bay View Association is truly like taking a walk into the past. Gingerbread cottages with their turrets and gables lend a unique charm to this private village.

"Bay View a Historic Place on the National Register" greets you as you enter the association. What better place to pick than Bay View for the first annual Historical Homes Tour sponsored by the Women's Council of Realtors, the Petoskey Antique Club, the Petoskey Friendship Center and the Michigan Bell Pioneers?

The summer colony of Bay View began in 1875 as a religious retreat. Then it became a cultural and educational center. Students came to take classes from the professors who were summer residents. They studied theater, music and art. Bay View has remained a private association and is still a summer cultural center.

The Historical Homes Tour of Bay View will begin at the Park Garden at 2 and 3 p.m. daily during the festival. Visitors will board a double deck bus and ride to the Bay View green. On the green, visitors will be able to tour several public buildings guided by volunteers dressed in Victorian costumes.

The John M. Hall Auditorium, Evelyn Hall, the Library, and the Woman's Council building, will be opened to the public.

The John M. Hall Auditorium was donated to Bay View Association by Mr. and Mrs. Hall. John Hall dreamed of the auditorium and literally worked himself to death trying to complete it. His wife continued the project after his death. The auditorium was dedicated in 1915 and a Pilcher pipe organ was installed. The organ lasted 60 years. This past spring, Mrs. Ruth Crist donated a new Schantz pipe organ for the hall. The organ will be played for the first time during the Sunday service on June 22.

Evelyn Hall was erected in 1890 as a Women's Christian Temperance Union Training School. The exterior of the building is described as "steamboat gothic" in style. It is a striking combination of double porches and deep turrets. Now Evelyn Hall is used as a convocation center. A chapel and a Victorian room on the inside will be open to the public.

The Bay View Library is significant because it is one of the only private libraries in the state. It has an extensive collection of books to accommodate the students who used it when Bay View was a college center. The library building was built in the early 1900's.

The Woman's Council Building built in 1886 was originally a Chautauqua home. It housed a literary and scientific circle and a reading group. Chautauqua groups were popular around the country at the time of the reconstruction after the Civil War. It was in these groups that scholars got together to talk about the future of the country.

After the Chautauqua group ran its course the building was vacant until the Woman's Council restored it in 1923 and added upstairs bedrooms. Woman visitors to Bay View can stay here for a reasonable cost.

After touring the public buildings, the visitors to Bay View may stop at the Terrace Inn for punch and cookies. The Terrace Inn, built in 1910, is now owned by Charles and Sue Vorpagels. They have recreated the turn of the century atmosphere of the building.

Five private homes were chosen for the tour. They are a good cross section of the private homes in Bay View.

The Maywood Home at 310 Glendale is owned by C. Ames Maywood. It is called "The Lilacs" for the lilac bushes in the yard. Of special interest in this home is the white painted Bay View wood, the built-in china cupboard, and the cherry kitchen.

The Mertz home, owned by Rev. and Mrs. William Mertz, was built in 1888 as a duplex and has been remodeled five times since then. This home is noted for its landscaping, and its second floor secluded porches. Gladys Mertz is a hook rug artist who cuts and dyes her own wool. Several of her rugs are featured in the house. Rev. Mertz has a fascinating collection of monk statues from all over the world. The home is located at 223 Knapp Ave.

A sprawling cottage with a view of Little Traverse Bay, "The Beeches" is owned by Miss Ruth Heseltite and is located at 210 Woodland Drive. The home was built in 1885 and has been in the present owners family since 1934. The home has changed very little since it was built. A hand carved oak dining room sideboard and bookshelf was built by the current owner's grandfather. The Heseltites have been coming to Bay View since 1899.

The exterior of the Theodore Gobske home, 412 Fairview, is breathtaking. With five gables each decorated with a different gingerbread style, the home was built in 1877 and is the fourth oldest home in Bay View. This is the home's original gingerbread.

The Donald Smith home was built before 1885. The family of former Michigan Governor Bliss owned this home. Featured here is a cherry kitchen, maid quarters, and Indian memorabilia.

The tour will finish with a high tea at Stafford's Bay View Inn. The Michigan Historical Society has granted the inn the title of Michigan Historic Site. It was built in 1887 by J. W. Howard and called the Woodland Avenue House. The inn was purchased by Stafford Smith in 1961. He has restored the inn and furnished the 22 guest rooms with Victorian antiques.

During the high tea, visitors to the inn will be entertained by the Petoskey Antique Club Victorian Fashion Show. Over 80 antique fashions will be shown. These will include Godey fashions from Paris (which were very chic in the 1870's), Washtonian styles, colonial styles, Puritan styles (complete with tickling stick which had a feather on the end of it to tickle those who dared fall asleep in church), Gay 90's fashions, graduation dresses, garden party clothes, walking suits, mourning suits, children's clothes, sports costumes, and bridal gowns.

No Delivery-No Deed

Even if a deed is properly executed, it doesn't become effective until it is delivered to the buyer and accepted by him. Take the case of the 80-year-old man who signed, sealed and acknowledged a deed to his nephew and placed it in an old tin box in his room. He died shortly thereafter and the deed was discovered. In a contest with other heirs over the property, the nephew lost because there had been no delivery of the deed.

Until the deed is delivered, the title remains with the seller, and he may change his mind and destroy the deed with impunity. But once properly delivered and accepted, a deed passes title and cannot be revoked.

Your best protection in the area of deeds is your lawyer. He will see to it that it's properly drawn and executed—and protects you as far as his legal eye can see. Advice...do-it-yourself tactics in this technical area could have horrendous results.

Joe McCarthy, Festival Project Director, and Mike Harrington, Publicity Director, go over the schedule for the Little Traverse Bay Historic Festival.

Little Traverse Festival to become annual event

The 1980 Little Traverse Historic Festival, June 18-22, is the first of what festival organizers hope will become an annual event. The Festival committee, formed last July, was made up of area innkeepers, the Petoskey and Harbor Springs Chambers of Commerce and representatives from local service clubs.

In November the committee asked the Harrington Group to do a feasibility study of the idea. This is when festival project Director Joe McCarthy and Publicity Director Mike Harrington got involved. By January 30, it was determined that they would go with the festival and with the backing of the original committee, the Little Traverse Bay Historical Corporation was formed.

The current committee has been meeting weekly since February to organize the festival in an "outrageously short time, but we've got a good feeling about what is planned."

In March, the Harbor Springs Chamber of Commerce pulled out of the festival deciding that it was a conflict with their own Fourth of July activities.

McCarthy doesn't see it that way. After spending hundreds of volunteer hours on the project, McCarthy is sure of his long-range goals for the festival. "I would like this festival to allow northern Michigan to get a jump on the tourist season. I want to have a core activity to bring people into the area in June. Hopefully it will grow and become an economic factor in the tri-county area," McCarthy said. "The timing is good—just after school gets out. I don't feel a short trip for families will be competitive with other activities in July."

Of course these plans depend on the initial success of this year's festival. Activities are planned during the five-day period for all members of the family.

"Working on this project has given me the opportunity to meet and work with a lot of people. I'm proud that we're putting on a truly community-wide festival," said McCarthy.

Pleasing view, varied menu at the Weathervane in Charlevoix

Staff writer Kathy Johnson moved to Boyne City in 1979 from Dallas, Texas, where she previously wrote a restaurant column appearing in the Dallas Morning News. Throughout the summer, Kathy, a native Texan, will visit some of our area's finer quality restaurants and share her experiences with the readers of Fun & Sun.

Charlevoix the beautiful. Home of flower-lined streets, the Venetian Festival, rhythm of the northwest and fine quality restaurants. Our night out was spent overlooking the mouth of Lake Michigan and watching the sailboats, ducks and seagulls float and sail by.

The Weathervane Inn presents a pleasing and varied menu with one of the nicest views in the area. Appetizers of Quiche Lorraine, Escargot or Mushroom Strudel vie for your attention with a variety of soups and salads.

I started with a nice cold cucumber soup that was really good, but so rich I could only eat about half of the cup I ordered. But that was alright since my husband Hal ate his clam chowder and then finished my bowl.

A nice variety of entrees, with fish being the recommendation from our waitress Nancy, are present on the menu. I choose the whitefish over the perch and lake trout and Hal ordered the Barbequed Baby Back Ribs.

Other items included steaks, chicken and crepes. Entrees range in price from

Dinner Delights

with Kathy Johnson

$6 to $12, although most are on the higher end.

We ordered the Ratatouille Provencale and Potato Skins to compliment our meals. Potato Skins must be a Michigan dish (or Midwest), since this was totally new to my taste buds. Somewhere between a flat French fry with the skin on and a baked potato skin, these are terrific little items. They are served with sour cream and I really enjoyed them.

There is a nice selection of wines, desserts and specialty drinks. Our waitress explained that a little further into the season they would be serving such taste-tempters as Pineapple-Walnut Cheesecake, Mississippi Mud Cake and freshly made Orange Ice. We'll have to make a return trip for some of those.

Freshly baked loaves of bread hot from the oven are served with the meal and the bread competed with the potato skins as my favorite item on the menu. Hal thought the ratatouille was excellent.

We both enjoyed the lovely view and nice, but not stuffy, atmosphere. The staff seemed to be primarily college-age women, all wearing a smile and pleasant manner.

Our waitress was a pre-law student from Alma who did a charming job of taking care of us and several other parties. I can tell I'm getting older when all the waitresses look too young to serve drinks.

I also noticed the children's menu and there was nice selection there too, including the ever-popular hamburger.

Overall it was a lovely evening. We had a nice view, fresh flowers on the table, pleasing decor, good service, and fine food. The evening for two including drinks, dessert, and tip was under $40.

Sunday auction to benefit July 4 fireworks

The Jordan Valley Trail Blazers are sponsoring an auction Sunday, June 22, to collect money for the July 4 fireworks. The auction will be held starting at noon, Sunday, at the East Jordan Tourist Park. Frank Potter of Charlevoix has donated his time to be the auctioneer. A concession stand will be on hand to serve hot dogs, sloppy joes, pop and hot coffee.

Donations are needed for the auction, snowmobile club member Ellen Cihak said. "We'll take anything but husband, wives and kids," she jokingly said. Donations will be picked up by snowmobile members by calling Mrs. Cihak at 536-2295 or Harold Beach at 536-2153. Or you can drop off donations at the community building at the Tourist Park.

"Instead of collecting money from businesses, we're trying to get members of the community involved in a community project. By either donating goods or buying goods at the auction, you can help," Mrs. Cihak said. And, of course, the donations are for a worthy cause—the July 4 fireworks, she added.

Since 1946, a special place in the valley of Jordan
 Since 1946, Bill and Doris Huckle, East Jordan, have been serving the "Up North" area with photo lab, photographic services and supplies. And, since 1960 they have offered art supplies for beginners and advanced artists. Restoration and photo copies of art works and photographs are just one of their specialties; custom framing and matting to Museum requirements is another, all done personally in their workshop. These are folks whose services you will appreciate as they dispense art and photo supplies with helpful knowledge of the products they sell. The Huckles are known for their crisp, realistic photos for use as commercial or industrial illustrations. Bill's command of lighting is outstanding in obtaining photographs that reproduce well for the printer, regardless of the printing process. (They are this area's representatives for natural color Dexter Postal Cards, a firm demanding professional photography of quality—or they do not except an order for reproduction.) You'll find Bill and Doris at their store and workshop on Main Street, where they also offer some fine historical regional photographs, antiques and paper memorabilia for specialized collectors. HUCKLES' CAMERA and ARTIST SUPPLY is truly "A Special Place" in East Jordan at 111 Main Street, open 9 to 5 weekdays, excepting Saturday until 1 p.m.; closed Sundays.
