EJ schools must cut $100,000...

EAST JORDAN - The school board started the job of making another $100,000 worth of cuts Tuesday after learning that their millage proposal was defeated for a second time.

No decisions were made on when to hold another election, but a number of possible program and staff cuts were discussed.

A committee of citizens, teachers and principals was appointed to make recommendations to the school board on what cuts the board should make and how the next millage proposal should be presented to voters.

A general consensus at the meeting was that the board should reduce its twice-defeated 23.2 mill request to 21.2 mills, the same level which was approved last year. Extra millage could be requested on top of that base millage, but if the increase were defeated, the school district would at least be able to operate.

Although no formal proposal has been made for additional cuts, Supt. Mel Rullman said some possibilities appear to be the following: Elementary school art, physical education and music teachers; librarian for grades K-8; a counselor and a special needs reading teacher for middle school; and high school vocational programs in commercial foods, health occupations and cosmetology.

An additional $15,000 could be saved by eliminating middle school sports plus the high school ski, tennis, baseball and softball teams.

Rullman emphasized that these cuts are only "suggestions" at this point. "It gives you ulcers just thinking about it," he said. "It's just exasperating. I don't think our school system is laden with frills. It's quite basic as it is."

But the voters have the final word, and Monday's election results showed little improvement over the June 9 vote. The millage was defeated 438 - 235 in June and 462 - 282 in August.

The earliest another election can be held is early October, but there was some sentiment in the audience at Tuesday's meeting that the board should take more time if necessary.

Some people said the fact that contract negotiations are not yet settled with teachers and other staff members hurt the board's credibility.

Staff salaries and fringe benefits make up about 82 percent of the total school budget. "How can you expect people to approve your request when you don't really know what 82 percent of your budget is going to be," one person asked?

Only two negotiating sessions have been held between teachers and the board, but two more sessions are scheduled for next week.

Another school board meeting is expected to be called within the next week or two to further discuss budget cuts and the recommendations of the committee of teachers and citizens.

Members of the committee include John Buick, Jim Barnett, Duane Thompson, Rodger Ransom, Kris Weisler, Linda Chase and principals Doug Shields, Don Peters and Bud Ashton.

...Boyer to discuss a third try

While Boyne City's School Board met Monday night, voters in its school district were turning down a 21.4 operating millage, 476-424, an even wider margin than the previous election.

The meeting ended about 10 p.m. with the board not knowing the final outcome.

Superintendent Rich Kelly summarized how the board felt during the election. "Everybody I knew was concerned. Not overconfident but optimistic."

"I thought it was going to pass," said Kelly. "Maybe I was just hopeful. I'm really disappointed."

The board will be holding a special meeting on Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the high school to discuss the effects of the defeat. If that meeting doesn't tie up all loose ends, an additional meeting will be held three days later on Thursday night.

Kelly would not speculate on any further cuts in personnel or programs before the start of the meeting. He said as of now, school will be operated the same as it was before this most present election.

Maybe the first effect of the defeat was a salary recommendation for the assistant principal-athletic director position being put on hold in the middle of last night's meeting. Kelly's thought about it after the election was, "This is one of the many, many things we should review again."

Kelly said there will be a third millage try in early October.

Also in October, the new handicap elevator proposal will again be put on the ballot. Monday it was turned down 628-261. Kelly said the school is required by law to install the elevator. He pondered, "The ultimate threat is the taking away of all federal funds."

No parking near park

BOYNE CITY - City Commissioners Tuesday night recommended a prohibition on parking after 10:30 p.m. on the south side of River Street and Park Avenue.

The action was brought about because of disruptions in Old City Park late at night. Some residents in the area have complained to officials.

The most effective measure has been an increase in foot patrol by the police. Clifton said continuation of the foot patrol and the addition of lights around the park should be effective. The commission is currently waiting for bids on the lights.

Coach Harvey still doesn't know why

BOYNE CITY - When the school board meeting was opened for public discussion Monday, the Press asked the board if any of its members have ever told former basketball coach Russ Harvey the reasons for his being fired.

President George Shotelis said he couldn't speak for any other board member but said he personally told Harvey why he was fired.

Harvey was contacted Tuesday and said, "I still have never been personally told by any board member or the superintendent why I was fired."

Reconsideration of Harvey's dismissal was the first item on the agenda in the superintendent's report on Tuesday night.

Eleanor West made the motion for the reconsideration and Mark Behling supported it. The reconsideration was then defeated, 5-2, with West and Behling casting the only "yes" votes.

Immediately after the reconsideration was turned down, several people in attendance got up and left the room.

New electric company bylaws?

Three proposals for changing bylaws will be voted on at the annual meeting of the Top O'Michigan Rural Electric Company Friday.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the Boyne City High School gymnasium.

Ballots, details about the bylaw proposals and background of candidates for the board of directors have been mailed to all members of the electric company.

One Top O'Michigan member who was at odds with the board of directors during a strike which affected the company two years ago has come out against two of the three proposals.

Bruce Sanderson of Ironton told The Press he thinks the two proposals "contain legal language that would unnecessarily constrain, and in some ways explicitly restrict, free exercise of member rights and prerogatives presently permitted."

Sanderson objects to several changes which are proposed. He thinks a requirement that all petitions to the company be accompanied by members' account numbers is unreasonable.

He also objects to changing the procedure for nominating directors. The proposed change would abolish a board-appointed nominating committee and would require that all future candidates be nominated by petition or from the floor at the annual meeting. Included in this change is a provision to increase the number of signatures from 15 to 50.

Sanderson thinks the proposed changes would have the opposite impact of the company's stated goal to "open up the electoral process."

"It will surely discourage members who might otherwise seek nomination for a directorship," Sanderson said.

He points out that in the event that there are not enough candidates, the board would itself appoint board members.

Arthur Biehl of Mancelona, who headed the board's bylaw review committee, said his committee and the board probably would not be upset if the revisions are not approved Friday. "If some people have objections to them, I would have no objections with keeping the bylaws the way they are now."

"We made these proposals because there were some people who thought changes needed to be made."

Biehl said the request that account numbers be included on petitions was a sincere attempt to save time and be more accurate in validating petitions. While the new system might make it harder to get signatures, at least all those signatures which would be included would be valid, he said.

In the past, some signatures couldn't be counted because they were not readable. This would be solved by adding account numbers, he said.

Biehl said the number of signatures needed on a petition was increased from 15 to 50 because the membership in the electric company has increased greatly since its early years. "Anyone who is really interested in serving on the board wouldn't have much trouble getting 50 signatures," he said.

Richard Sharer, Boyne City resident and president of the L.C.P.O.A., said the Cladophora grows where a large amount the edge of an improperly fertilized lawn, a misguided septic tank or wastes of ducks.

The association is now informing its nearly 250 members about Cladophora and will come to the aid of any property owners (member or non-members) who need help in finding out the source of the problem. The association's goal is to make all of the over 1,000 lakefront owners check for the algae.

Algae concerns lake association

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI

CHARLEVOIX - Cladophora, a brown-green algae which grows in shallow water and is found on rocks and logs, was the main topic of discussion last Thursday at the annual meeting of the Lake Charlevoix Property Owners Association.

Richard Sharer, Boyne City resident and president of the L.C.P.O.A., said the Cladophora grows where a large amount the edge of an improperly fertilized lawn, a misguided septic tank or wastes of ducks.

The association is now informing its nearly 250 members about Cladophora and will come to the aid of any property owners (member or non-members) who need help in finding out the source of the problem. The association's goal is to make all of the over 1,000 lakefront owners check for the algae.

Since Cladophora does not easily grow on soft, shifting lake bottom materials, the association suggests those with this sandy or muddy bottom to throw a brick or rock into the water in front of their lot to test for the existence of the substance.

Volunteers will give questionnaires to homeowners where Cladophora is found.

Sharer also stressed the importance of homeowners having green belts, strips of land about 35 feet in length between the shore and their lots. This would aid in the defense of fertilizer or sewage seeping into the lake.

For the second straight year the Jordan River National Fish Hatchery was again discussed at the meeting. The association has charged the hatchery with dumping too much phosphate into the Jordan River which flows into the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix.

Sharer said the association has brought suit against the hatchery because it does not remove enough phosphorous compounds from fish wastes. He also said the hatchery is operating on a permit without a hearing. Sharer said, "I'm discouraged with the response of the DNR."

"Our lawyer (James Olson) feels we have a very strong case," said Sharer. However, the president said the association will not be able to spend the estimated $10,000 needed to complete the suit. The association will only be spending about $2,000.

Sharer, 37, who continually tests the clarity of Lake Charlevoix himself, said the lake is about as clear as it was a year ago. It again is considered one of the 10 best lakes in Michigan. However, Sharer pointed out the South Arm of the lake fares much lower on the list.

Sharer said in the past the lake actually had more pollution in some spots than it does now. Lumber industries and the Tannery were the main causes.

But he said there are people in the area who remember being able to see 20 feet deep into the water instead of the current 12 feet.

Questioned about his views on how he sees the lake in the year 2000, Sharer, a former environmental science teacher at East Lansing High School, said, "I see it much more developed. Only about one-third of it is developed now. The water quality will probably slowly decline."

Sharer said he is "strongly in favor" of the $10 million Harborage condominium project in Boyne City. "My only concern is the boat traffic and I hope the association will have some input on that."

Annual membership dues in the association are $10 for lakefront homeowners and $5 for associate members who do not own homes on the lake.

Area residents win $15,000 in lottery

As the saying goes, some people have all the luck and some people are even luckier.

George L. Patton of East Jordan and Barbara M. Skeel of Charlevoix were recent winners in Michigan's instant baseball lottery games.

Skeel won $5,000 twice within a month and Patton won $5,000 once.

Patton, who purchased his winning ticket May 29 from Bruce's Barber Shop in East Jordan, is employed at Detroit Mold and Engineering of Charlevoix. He said he spent his winnings on house payments. "I couldn't afford to set anything aside for myself in these times," he said.

Skeel couldn't believe she won $5,000 the first time when within a month she again won $5,000 in the lottery she was "ecstatic."

She purchased both her winning tickets at Glen's Market of Charlevoix. She is employed as a manager at Hoskins Manufacturing of Charlevoix.

The $10,000 was put towards a mobile home for she and her husband to travel in. "When retirement strikes us, we'll use the mobile home to travel and sight-see," she said.

"I've always bought lottery tickets figuring if I never took a chance, I'd never win. But I never expected to win this big and especially not twice," she said.

AFTER THE STORMS...

A note of thanks to our customers.

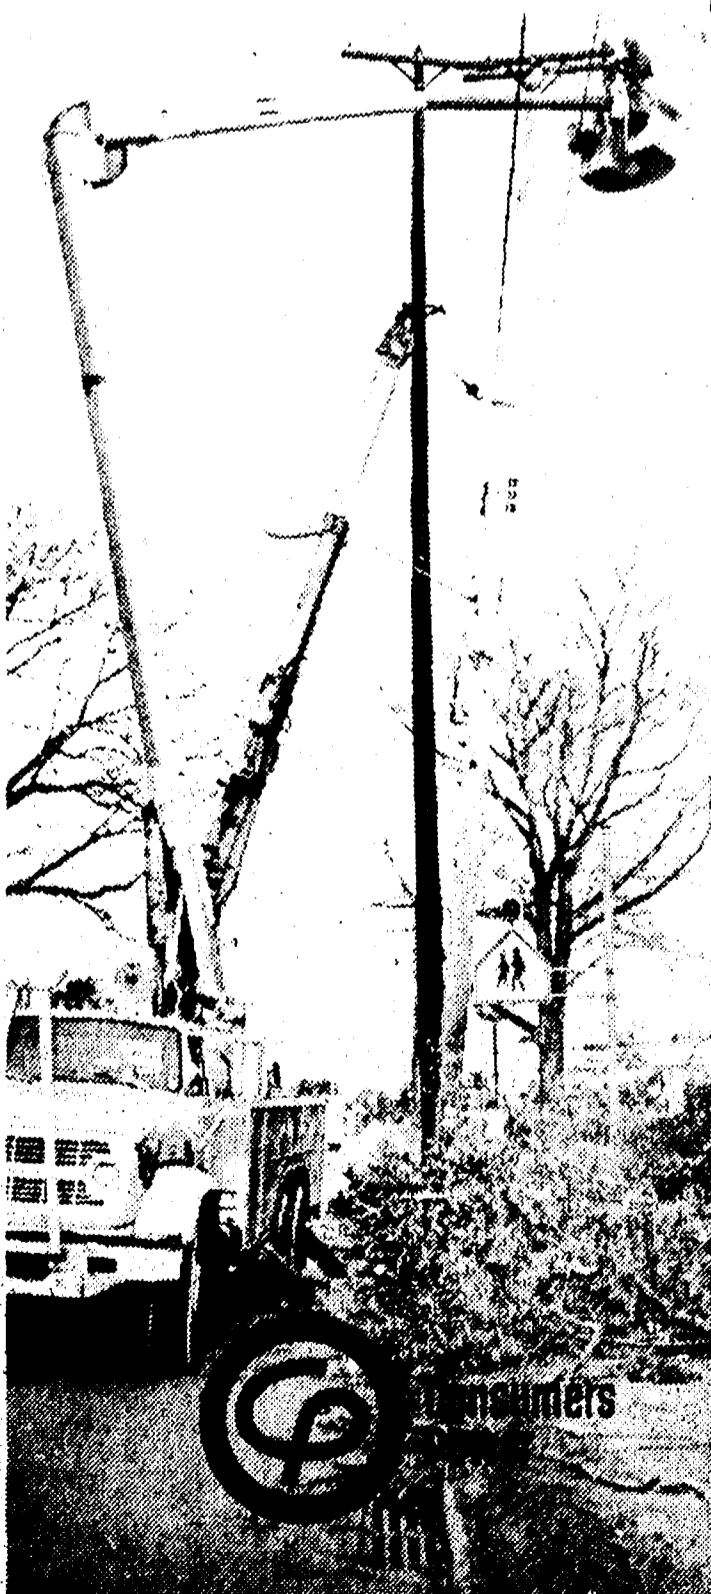

Disaster struck Michigan.

Four separate storms with winds of up to 80 miles per hour rocked the Consumers Power Company service area between July 15 and July 20. More than 250,000 of our customers were without electric power at some time during the week. The storms brought down some 2,100 spans of high-voltage wire, damaged almost 200 utility poles, burned out some 275 transformers and affected more than 10,000 secondary and service wires.

To deal with the storms, line and tree-trimming crews moved around the state from one damaged area to another and put in exhausting hours in each. Crewmen worked with only 4 or 5 hours rest. Some slept on cots in meeting rooms and school auditoriums. Meals were fast, clean clothes a luxury.

There was much to do. In some cases, a single repair restored power to many customers, but in other areas, restoration work was a lengthy, almost house-to-house effort.

Even now, with power flowing again to all our customers, the cleanup is continuing. Temporary connections must be made permanent and the diversion of Company crews to that effort will mean delays of up to four weeks for new customers awaiting service.

To our new customers — and to all our customers affected by the Week of Storms — we express sincere gratitude for your patience and cooperation. Efficient, reliable service is what our business is about — especially in times of trouble.

The Week of Storms was one of those times.

Farmer's Market

Recently on Saturdays from 8 a.m. till noon, Old City Park has been turning into a farmer's market. The market, sponsored by Boyne City's Community Education Department, opened on July 26 and will run until Sept. 27. The first week saw nine booths selling the produce, baked goods and non-food items. Last Saturday the booths expanded to 14. With the success of it this year the department plans to again offer the market next year starting at an even earlier date.

Harassment on streets

EJ City Council stirred

EAST JORDAN - The East Jordan City Council last week discussed an ordinance that hopes to curb harassment on the streets.

East Jordan businessmen, the city attorney and the police chief had already met a week before the council meeting to discuss the increases in disturbances on their downtown streets.

City Attorney Roy Hayes recommended Tuesday night that a proposal be put to vote during the council's next meeting.

The proposed ordinance would prosecute persons found guilty of harassing, blocking other pedestrians on the streets, sidewalks, of any public place or business. The penalty would be 90 days in jail and or a fine of $100.

Hayes said, "There shouldn't be an ordinance for people if they're just standing around, but if there is harassment, there should be an ordinance."

Hayes also pointed out, "Words by themselves won't enforce this ordinance, but citizen cooperation (from merchants and residents) will."

Mayor Jim Meredith's proposal extending late-night parking restrictions was passed. An old ordinance already prohibits all-night parking in East Jordan during the winter months.

The new ordinance will prohibit parking from 3 - 6 a.m. on the city's main streets and business district. This will make it easier for street sweepers in their cleaning efforts.

The council passed several rules and regulations regarding the new civic center. Any group not associated with the recreation department must get prior approval by the council if it wishes to use the center's facilities.

All equipment brought into the center must be approved by the council or recreation department and all activities will end at midnight, unless the council approves an extension.

In addition, a person representing the council or recreation department must be present at all functions and the city council or police have the right to inspect the building during use, unless the center is being privately rented out.

Awareness of coupon benefits grow

BY JAMES GIBOWSKI

This year in the U.S. there may be over 1/2 million coupons which end up unredeemed, but this will stop if Boyne City's Judith Kenyon and a growing number of others have their way.

Kenyon is trying to gather people in the area who would meet from time to time and swap ideas, coupons and proof of purchase seals that lead to discounts on products or cash or gifts.

Kenyon has been placing flyers around town and will have her first meeting later this month. She hopes there will be enough interest ignited to continue monthly meetings.

Coupon clubs are starting to pop up across the country. Some clubs are affiliated with a national organization called the American Coupon Club. In Michigan, there are five A.C.C. locations: Pontiac, Wyoming, Melvindale, Mt. Clemens and Rives Junction.

Kenyon said her biggest concern right now is not in becoming nationally recognized but rather in getting people interested and carrying on the main functions of coupon swapping.

Kenyon said the meetings will be a way which let's people "know what they don't hear about." This means the discovery of coupons which may have gone unnoticed or even advance news of coupon offers which will come out in the future.

The gathering is also a way of sharing techniques in organization. "We can teach how to file so you don't have coupons falling out of the closet," said Kenyon.

Kenyon said everyone wins when it comes to coupons. Purchasers save money, grocers get more business and companies sell more products.

Companies aren't afraid of the thousands of people becoming hooked on the benefits of coupons. Five years ago, 1/4 million coupons were offered. This year over a million will be produced.

Kenyon said the meetings are also a means to find out about some unique offers. Royal Crown Cola presently has an unorthodox coupon offer which pays $3 for anyone who sends in a photograph of two or more people drinking their product. If the photo is later published in an ad, RC will send an additional $25.

Even cemeteries have gotten into the act. One place is offering a coupon which states, "Buy one cemetery plot and get the other one free."

Area residents interested in attending the first meeting later this month can call Kenyon at 582-6364.

Keeping some democracy at Top O' Mich Electric

It is certainly not easy to run a rural electric company which covers 33,000 customers in 12 counties—and trying to add a measure of democracy to it is especially difficult.

That's the problem—indeed, the challenge—which constantly faces the administration and board of directors of Top O'Michigan Rural Electric Company.

The board of directors has proposed several revisions in company bylaws which, despite good intentions, will actually make the operation of the company less, rather than more, democratic.

Cooperative members will be asked to vote on the bylaw revisions at their annual meeting in Boyne City this Friday at 7 p.m. (See related story for details.)

Proposal No. 1 of the bylaw revisions would, if approved, require that any member petitions (for nomination recall, or other initiation of other action) would not only have to include signatures of members, but also their company account numbers.

We can understand the company's desire to accurately validate signatures on petitions. They point out that it is often hard to read a signature and signatures might not match the name of a customer according to Top O'Michigan records. Thomas William Jones might sign his name Tom Jones, Bill Jones, T. W. Jones or in any number of variations.

That could be a problem, but we think it creates a worse problem. What member, approached to sign a petition on the street, would possibly know his electric company account number? This would make it incredibly difficult to obtain signatures on petitions.

Thus, if it is made more difficult to get valid signatures, it does not seem terribly logical to then increase the number of signatures required on a board nominating petition, from 15 to 50, as is asked in Proposal No. 2.

The overall result is that signatures will be harder to get, and more signatures will be needed. This is hardly consistent with the company's stated goal of "opening up the electoral process."

Perhaps one proposal or the other might be satisfactory—but certainly not both in conjunction with each other.

We would urge the defeat of Proposal No. 1, requiring account numbers to be included with signatures. Then getting 50 signatures would not be as difficult. Increasing the number to 50 is not such a bad idea on its own.

It would, as the directors point out, assure that anyone being nominated is truly serious about serving on the board. The provision for 15 signatures was initiated long ago when members of the electric cooperative were few and far between.

Another major feature of Proposal No. 2 is quite attractive in principle. It would result in all candidates for the board of directors being nominated by petition rather than by a board-appointed nominating committee.

This change is being proposed because the nominating committee has been criticized for tending to nominate "individuals whose philosophy in many cases tends to correspond with that of any existing board."

We think this change is worth a try, although the results definitely need to be watched closely if such a change is approved by the membership. The fact that nominating petitions will be taken during a certain period must be well-publicized by the electric company through the media at the appropriate time each year.

The drawback of this type of system is that possibly fewer candidates would run for the board than under the present system. Nominations are now allowed from the committee, petition and from the floor at the annual meeting.

If the bylaw change results in noticeably fewer candidates than in the past, it could end up even further perpetuating the constant re-election of incumbents—which is what the bylaw change is designed to guard against.

All in all, it is unfortunately quite a task to stimulate much public interest in the electric cooperative. Out of more than 30,000 members, only 300 or 400 bother to mail in ballots to annual meetings, and only about 200 actually attend the meetings. Even those 200 must be coaxed by door prizes to attend.

Despite this apathy, we feel it is important to keep the avenues of nomination and petition open. There is always the possibility of a burning issue, such as the strike two years ago, which can stir up emotions and create renewed interest in the electric cooperative. If and when those issues come up it is imperative that members have reasonable means of changing (or attempting to change) the system.

Homesick for an old Packard

Looking over all those old cars at the city park Sunday produced a feeling of homesickness. Especially that bright, shiny, mint condition 1937 Packard, like the one I drove when I was setting the world on fire. Just looking at it made me homesick.

Lump in the throat homesick. I've often wondered why a person gets a lump in the throat. Why not a lump on your elbow, leg, or some other working part of the body?

I have no idea why seeing that Packard produced such a lump. Perhaps it reminded me of the day I bought mine. How I was king of the road; and how I had driven into the county, hitting 80 miles per hour. Wow! Everyone turned to look. What a sleek job. What a status symbol.

I was an overworked and underpaid newspaper feature writer traveling the state and reporting to the world. What a life!

That was before the oil line clogged, the crankshaft became scored and the motor had begun to knock. It cost me two paychecks and an IOU to get it back on the road.

It had eight cylinders in a straight line. The hood was so long I often drove standing up so I could see the road. I cursed it, kicked it, and sold it to a junkyard after it caught fire. Good riddance.

The line of antique automobiles at the park also featured a 1931 Ford sports roadster, rumble seat and all. It produced fond memories, but no lump. Neither did the old Buick that looked as though it had just left the factory. Fords and Buicks weren't built to produce lumps like Packards.

And I can tell you this: The things dumped on the public these days will not produce even a hint of a lump 40 years from now. On purpose, mind you, they are not built to last much beyond the final payment.

But it's still a mystery why seeing that Packard created such a large lump.

Perhaps it's like raising children. You yell at them, whip them, and tell them they will never amount to anything unless they get some sense into their heads. But after they've been away for a few years you get a lump in your throat when you see them again. At least the average parent seems to.

My father was not an average parent. After I'd been gone a number of years, I came home driving that old Packard and he complained of a strange lump in his left rear cheek.

I don't know why the antique auto club wants to bring back all those memories. Unless they're conducting a contest to see which member's car produces the most lumps in the most throats.

Or rear ends.

Baseball addicts--forever young

I'm addicted. Just like a shot of heroin or that next drink. I continually need to soak in all of baseball's statistics, especially those of the Detroit Tigers.

A good trip is to find the Tigers at or near the top.

I first admitted this "total" addiction to myself this season.

The induction of Al Kaline to the Hall of Fame a few weeks ago made me think about how I first got hooked.

It was 1961; I was eight years old, and the Tigers had won over 100 games, but still finished second. The Tigers easily would have finished first if those "damn Yankees" wouldn't have had their best team in history (Matis, 61 homers; Mantle, 54).

There have been many Tiger teams since '61 and I've forgotten nearly all of the lineups, but I never forgot the starting nine 19 years ago.

Managed by Bob Scheffing, the lineup was: Jake Wood (2b), Billy Bruton (cf), Al Kaline (rf), Rocky Colavito (lf), Norm Cash (1b), Steve Boros (3b), Dick Brown (c), Chico Fernandez (ss), and either Frank Lary or Jim Bunning (p).

A true baseball fan first loves the game and then there are some nuts who go beyond this love and "pledge allegiance" to one team, and then stick with that team through pennants and cellar dwellings. Sounds like a good marriage.

The Chicago Cubs haven't been in a World Series since 1945, yet their fans continue to generously support them at the gate, as if they're gluttons for punishment. Likewise for the White Sox, who last made it to the October classic in 1960.

The Chicago Bears, Bulls, Sting or

James Gibowski

Black Hawks, could win championships, but their celebrations would be like a funeral parlor compared to a Cubbie or Sox championship celebration.

I do participate in a variety of sports and I'll always feel actual participation is really what sports are about. I'd rather be out playing softball with an O-12 team than watching the Tigers on TV. But when I'm driving back home I'll tune into the game on the radio, even if it is in the middle of a Simon and Garfunkel song.

When the game is on the radio, that means listening to Ernie Harwell. I've lived in Michigan all my life except for last year when I was teaching near Chicago.

Even WJR doesn't broadcast as far as Chicago, which means I was forced into a withdrawal period. The Cubs and White Sox were not a strong enough substitute.

When Ernie retires, there will be millions of people who not only will miss his picture-perfect descriptions and his entertaining voice, but will also miss the way they could usually tell, even without knowledge of the score, whether the Tigers were ahead or behind just by the tone of his voice.

Of course, the best way to see a baseball game is to actually be there. Sure, there always seems to be a few leather-throated drunks sitting nearby, but even they can't spoil a day at Tiger Stadium.

Each time I go to a game I see something different, which is one of the blessings of baseball. I've seen Norm Cash and Boog Powell hit homers out of the stadium, a triple play, back-to-back-to-back homers, the "Gates Brown doubleheader," "Al Kaline Day," and the return of Mark Fidrych.

Major league baseball has often been called a boy's game being played by grown men. Maybe that is the secret to baseball's addiction. It's a way of staying young, a link between Chico Fernandez and Alan Trammell, a diamond-shaped fountain of youth.

Letters to the editor

Big Rock is needed

Editor,

I read an article in your paper on July 31, by a Mr. Joe Clark with deep regret. I regret that, although Mr. Clark has a very witty and clever way of expressing his views on the ability of our company spokespersons' statements to be truthful, to use some of his outdoor/nature terminology, Mr. Clark evidently "can't see the forest for the trees" when considering Big Rock's contribution to the power needs of northern Michigan.

True, Big Rock only produces approximately 65 megawatts of electricity and that is a small portion of the total "grid" power of Consumers Power Company; but, what Mr. Clark fails to see is that by Big Rock generating 65 megawatts of power at 143,000 volts in northern Michigan it keeps the voltage up which, in turn, keeps the ratepayers' motors, fans, and stoves operating efficiently.

Let me explain. The voltage to the homes and businesses is regulated to try and maintain 110-120 volts, 220-240 volts, or 440-480 volts or whatever the voltage required. This voltage can only be maintained if the power is available on the transmission lines.

The meters on our houses and businesses measure current flow and voltage. As the voltage goes down, (due to increased draw on the system, i.e. more air conditioners, fans, etc.), the current flow has to go up to let the appliance do the same amount of work. This increase in current flow will cost the ratepayer more because his appliances will not operate as efficiently.

The majority of the power for northern Michigan comes from our bigger plants downstate through our transmission lines. As the load demand increases in northern Michigan, the current flow through these lines increases and the line losses increase and subsequently the voltage starts to drop. Big Rock Point generating 65 megawatts at 143,000 volts is very important in keeping this voltage up during peak load periods.

In the control room at Big Rock we have seen many times our turbine at maximum boost trying to keep this voltage up. In fact, we have a procedure we use quite often to reduce our own plant electrical load by turning out unnecessary lights, fans and other convenience items so we can help keep the voltage up. We know every little bit helps.

I don't normally like to use big exotic numbers to make a point because someone can always find a bigger one to dispute it and call me a liar, but in this case I think I will.

It seems that people tend to look at Big Rock's 65 megawatts as a very small amount of power, but looking back on Big Rock's past, a very impressive fact unfolds. Since Big Rock went on the line in 1963, it has generated over five million megawatt hours of electricity. Now that's enough power to light 50 billion 100-watt light bulbs for one hour. That's a lot of light bulbs.

Just to give you an idea of how much one billion really is, if you were to start counting to one billion now, and didn't stop to eat or sleep, it would take you 32 years to get there. That's only to one billion, not 50 billion.

I regret that a fellow stockholder would not look a little deeper into his own company and the people who work for him, like Phil Loomis, Bob Wischmeyer and myself, so that perhaps he could see the forest beyond the trees. If I felt like Mr. Clark did about our company, I'd sell my stock in Consumers Power Company today.

Don't change Top O'Mich bylaws

Open letter to Top O'Michigan Rural Electric Company [REA] members:

The three bylaw revisions to be voted on Aug. 15 at the annual meeting of co-op members are NOT fully or adequately explained in the company annual report sent you early last month.

Certain of these revisions, Proposals No. 1 and No. 2 in particular, contain legal language that would unnecessarily constrain, and in some ways explicitly restrict, free exercise of member rights and prerogatives presently permitted. (Have you read the "fine print" closely?)

Change for the sake of change—or at the transparent suggestion of those occupying appointed or elected positions of power—does not always spell progress. Let's not be lulled or led into surrendering any part of our charter rights!

I urge your vote in person or by proxy to politely but firmly reject these proposals.

(Note: If you do not attend the annual meeting, but give a valid registration proxy card, just give your signed proxy to a neighbor/member who can go. Besides voting his own ballot any member attending may exchange as many as three proxy cards for a like number of additional ballots.)

Please use the Humane Society

To the people in the yellow car who left their kitten in the north end of Boyne City:

Congratulations! You have now joined the ranks of the thousands of pet owners who abandon their pets every year.

Not that you care, but I would like to tell you what took place after you left in your little yellow car.

Your kitten spent the night, crying in our woods, out of terror, while we had a lightning storm. Too scared to come out, all she did was cry and stay near the spot you left her.

By Sunday morning, she ventured out of the little woods, still crying, and came up by our house. By early evening, she was hungry enough to consider getting herself a pet rabbit, three times as big as she was. When we came out of the house, she had second thoughts, and ran. By late Sunday night, she was hungry enough to scratch at our windows. It took us over two hours to coax her in to a bowl of milk.

The next time you throw a pet away, because you don't want her anymore, be sure of the family. In this case, we couldn't keep your unwanted pet, due to allergies. She could have starved to death. Don't always assume that someone will keep your discards!

It would only have taken a little trouble to take her to the Humane Society. At least she would have a better chance than just throwing her out of the car. I hope you can sleep nights. I couldn't.

P.S. Your cat is at the Humane Society, where you should have taken her in the first place.

Boyne City Soccer Club captures championship

Kenyon Johnson (in white) and an Alpena player head the ball in an effort to forward it to their own respective players. Boyne edged Alpena 2-1 Sunday to become summer league tournament winners.

BOYNE CITY - The Boyne City Soccer Club was tournament winners Sunday defeating Alpena for the title.

The Northern Lights Soccer invitational tournament was hosted by Boyne with teams from Charlevoix, Alpena and Traverse City playing.

Boyne beat Charlevoix in the first round of action, 1-0, and later topped Alpena, 2-1, to win the championship. Boyne's overall standing for the summer league was 5-1.

Jakob Gantner scored the loan goal against Charlevoix with a penalty shot in the second half.

Both goals in the Alpena-Boyne game were scored by Chris Todter. Larry Andrews scored Alpena's only goal.

Charlevoix took Traverse City, 2-1, in overtime before falling to Boyne. This was the first win for Charlevoix this season.

Alpena won its first game by forfeit when Northport failed to show for play. Alpena had a 5-1 overall standing and was awarded a trophy for first place position in the regular summer league action.

Coach's dismissal deflates summer basketball

BOYNE CITY - Because of varsity basketball coach Russ Harvey's dismissal and the refusal Monday night of the school board to reinstate him, there has been no summer basketball program.

The program, which has been offered for the nine years Harvey has coached and taught at Boyne City High School, would have started as soon as school was out in June and run until the middle of July, Harvey said.

Between 15 and 25 ninth through eleventh graders usually participated and the fee for the summer program is nominal, depending how many other schools are scheduled to scrimmage against Boyne. Harvey receives no salary, he said, and the fee money is used to pay for gas, use of a bus and a summer party at the end of the season.

"This summer we were going to work on man-to-man defense and a different style of running game," he said.

Not having a summer program will "definitely set back the team. The ball players won't have a chance to get to know each other and how each other plays before the season starts," he said.

Six players were contacted by The Press and asked if not having the summer program would be detrimental to this coming season's varsity basketball action.

Four players, who said they usually attend the summer basketball program, felt that the team might be missing out on the pointers it receives during the summer program. "I still go out and practice at the middle school," one player commented, "and so there's still a lot of competition going on even if there's no regulated program."

Two other players said they rarely attended any of the summer school practices or scrimmages against other teams and did not think it helps the team's overall play. "We still have time to practice when school starts," one player said.

The extra competition during the summer program against other Michigan

Huron Shores Conference schools would have helped us going into the next season, Harvey said.

"It just puts us a notch behind those schools now," he said.

Explore the North on a day outing

Mackinac Maritime Park in Mackinaw City is an ideal place to spend an afternoon picnicking with the family by the Mackinac Bridge.

Escape. Travel. The best way to do this is to take a one-day outing. Leave the luggage and bulk of your goods behind and go for a one day trip to some of Northern Michigan's best areas of interest.

Fun & Sun this week travels to some outings which should be fun for both locals and tourists. Inside you'll find the best areas of interest in the world of music at Interlochen, the world of history at Mackinac Island, the outdoor world at Wilderness State Park and the world of winery at Chateau Grand Travers.

There's no need to worry about expense because some of the events outlined in the following pages are free. The family may love sitting along the shores of Lake Michigan and having a picnic under the shadow of the Mackinac Bridge. Or spend a day at Chateau Grand Travers for a lesson on how wine is made and afterwards taste some of the wine.

Fun & Sun has mapped your course for fun so come along and travel with us.

Mackinaw City is rich in history

The Welcome, a 1775 British military ship, is open for tours at Mackinaw City Marina. Costumed guides show the guests around the captain's quarters, the crewmen's bunks and the wood deck.

BY DIANNE MURRAY

MACKINAW CITY - Much has been written about Mackinac Island and its attractions, but located on the mainland, the City of Mackinaw offers its own variety of fun.

A trip to this city is a blend of historic sites, beautiful shorelines and a myriad of tourist-oriented businesses.

Downtown Mackinaw City is filled with fudge shops, gift stores and fast food outlets. A perfect paradise for the vacationland family, or a first-time visitor to the state.

The city marina, located across from the downtown shopping area, houses hundreds of boats from all across the country. A walk along its docks reveals boats with hometown listings stretching from New York to Mississippi.

200 YEAR OLD SHIP

Docked at the marina is "The Welcome," a reconstruction of a 1775 British military ship.

The Welcome is open to the public daily from July 1 to Labor Day and can be viewed for $1.50 for adults and $1 for children under 12. Some of the attractions aboard include the shiny wood decks, or try out one of the crew's bunks and sit at the captain's table. Costumed guides bring back the era of the American Revolution.

The ship, originally constructed in 1775 at Michilimackinac as a private trading vessel, has been reconstructed by the Mackinac Island State Park Commission to recapture Michigan's maritime tradition.

The ship was used during its era by the British to supply Fort Michilimackinac with supplies. From 1780-81 it made several trips between the mainland and Mackinac Island to help the community move. Late in 1781 the sloop was lost and never found.

HISTORIC FORT

Another attraction, Fort Michilimackinac, a few blocks from the marina, is a historic education.

The fort was also reconstructed by the Park Commission. Originally used by the British to protect the straits between Lake Michigan and Lake Huron, it is now being put together again by archaeologists and historians.

Soldiers' barracks, a guardhouse, church, blacksmith shop, storehouse and the seven foot high fence are some of the fort's attractions. Each building is rebuilt in its exact original site and position. Archaeologists are still working on several of the old building sites and some areas where they're working are roped off.

Some of the events scheduled daily include cannon firings, musket demonstrations, a church program and different craftsmen at work throughout the fort. Guides dressed in Revolutionary Era costumes explain their handicrafts as a crowd of fort visitors gather to watch and listen.

MARITIME PARK

The Mackinaw Bridge separates Lake Michigan from Lake Huron and also Mackinac Maritime Park from Fort Michilimackinac.

Inside the park is a shipyard with a schooner and steamboat display, the Old Mackinac Point Lighthouse and an aquarium with exotic and fresh water fish.

Picnic grounds within the park are a perfect setting for the family to stop and see the sites and break for lunch or dinner. The view from the park and fort of Mackinaw Bridge is beautiful.

Admission to both the fort and park is $3 for adults, $2 for teenagers and free for children under 13. The fee allows one to wander through all exhibits in both the park and fort.

Other attractions in the Mackinaw City area include numerous beaches and, of course, boat rides to Mackinac Island, leaving every hour from the city marina. The rides, approximately $4, vary in length from 20 minutes to ¾ of an hour.

Interlochen- performing arts in lovely setting

INTERLOCHEN - It's a little over an hour and a half drive south of Boyne City. Everything from music to theater performances, is scheduled. The grounds are on Lake Michigan, located in a forest removed from the hustle and traffic of city atmosphere. The place? Interlochen.

If you are interested in the performing arts and appreciate nature's beauty, you could not find a lovelier setting for a music camp and arts academy.

The center began in 1928 with the founding of an orchestra camp. Today, Interlochen Center for the Arts consists of the National Music Camp during the summer and Interlochen Arts Academy during the academic year.

The facilities offer concerts, plays, musicals, operas, art exhibitions, ballet and modern dance performances during the summer months.

Interlochen Center for the Arts is a music camp during the summer and an arts academy during the academic year.

Part of the entertainment of the facility is the people comprising the student body. They are literally from all over the world ranging in age from eight through college level.

Since Interlochen is just miles south of Traverse City, a pleasant day can be spent shopping and eating dinner in Traverse City. Before an evening performance at Interlochen you can tour the academy's grounds. Interlochen does have snack bar facilities, complete with hot dogs and soft ice cream.

Scenic route to Wilderness State Park

A trip to the 'wild side'

BY DIANNE MURRAY

If you're the kind of camper who likes "to get away from it all" while on vacation, the perfect setting is Wilderness State Park.

Wilderness State Park, located on the picturesque straits of Mackinac at the extreme northern tip of Michigan's lower peninsula, is a wild, natural forest. The park includes 7,505 acres of state land, surrounded by white sand and clear blue Lake Michigan. It is appropriately named, for here the visitor can enjoy vast evergreen forests, natural beaches, hop from island to island and walk for many miles along the rocky shoreline.

A 210-site campground is nestled right off the shore of Lake Michigan and campers can easily travel from tent or trailer to the beach for a dip and back. The only discouraging note about the campground, which is located in just one part of the park, is that for such a vast, wild area, the camp sites are pretty close together.

To make up for the crowded campground, though, there are acres and acres of land to hike, wander and explore through.

The drive from Charlevoix County to Wilderness Park, is as scenic as the park itself. Going through Harbor Springs, stopping at Cross Village for lunch, and then traveling north on U.S. 131—a winding, wooded road which follows the coastline—takes about a two and a half hour drive to Wilderness State Park.

and Polish food. Built over a period of 40 years by Polish immigrant Stanley Smolak, the structure is chiefly made of rocks from the nearby shores of Lake Michigan and driftwood and tree roots found in the area.

The lunch and dinner menu varies from smoked fish to Polish foods. Prices range from a sandwich for $1.50 to dinners for $4.95. The food and service are good.

Other attractions in town include a gift shop with Indian artifacts of quill baskets, tomahawks, and moccasins and an Indian "village" with a teepee and campfire.

Upon leaving Cross Village to go to Wilderness Park, travel east on County Road 66 and follow the signs. It's about a 15 mile trip to the park.

Some of the attractions at Wilderness State Park include four log cabins which can be rented for $10 a day. Sturgeon Bay (good for bass fishing), three hiking trails, a wildlife refuge area and several acres of wilderness and coastline to hike, swim and get lost in.

After taking your car as far as you can drive down the point, and walking another two miles, the view from Waugonsance is breathtaking. Across Lake Michigan and a sandbar are Waugonsance and Crane Islands.

Sites at the campground are $6 a night. There are flush toilets, showers, playgrounds and a boat launch.

Right from the camper to the beach for swimming is easy at Wilderness State Park. The white sandy beach is surrounded by Big Stone Bay's clear blue water.

A lone man relaxes at one of many desolate spots in Wilderness State Park.

Argonne specialty all-you-want shrimp

The specialty at The Argonne Supper Club, located on the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road near Charlevoix, is the all-you-can-eat shrimp. The shrimp is served fried or steamed and it is very good.

Our trip to the Argonne was made on a week night, which you might keep in mind because the crowds we'd heard about weren't there. Hal and I and his parents spent a very nice evening there.

Dad and I ordered the shrimp, which comes with cole slaw, potatoes, and homemade bread. All you can eat is just $13.95 or the regular order of six shrimp is $7.50 or $9.50 for 10. The shrimp are excellent, the steamed ones especially.

Mom tried the broiled whitefish which looked good and she said was very nice.

Hal ordered the Alaskan King Crab. He like it...a lot! The crab and whitefish both came with french fried or baked potatoes, tossed salad or cole slaw and homemade bread.

The decor at the Argonne is nice but not spectacular. The best thing about the Argonne is their food, which is as it should be.

Other items on the menu include lobster, southern fried chicken, a 14 ounce char-broiled steak, and steak lobster tail, or steak and crab. Prices vary from $7.50 to $17.50.

Dinner Delights

The desserts are limited to ice cream or sherbet, hot fudge sundae, or French Cream Cheese Cake. We stuck to the sundaes and they were fine.

It was a very pleasant evening. Nothing spectacular, but nice.

Cost of dinner for two was under $30.

WHERE THE GOOD TIMES JUST KEEP ROLLING ALONG

Old Mission Peninsula is site of vineyard

BY DIANNE MURRAY

OLD MISSION - Scenic and beautiful. Quality and variety. That's the way to describe the vineyards of Grand Chateau Travers and the wine which comes from its fruits.

Not only does it seem unusual that the northwestern portion of this state would produce wine, but that the wine produced has won a number of awards.

Fourteen brands of wine are made at Chateau Grand Travers, located approximately 12 miles out of Traverse City on Old Mission Peninsula.

The reason for the fine quality and taste of wine, explains vineyard manager Steve Murphy, is its fine location. The moderate temperature of the peninsula and its air flow through the vineyards make it almost as perfect for growing grapes as parts of Europe are.

This vineyard is nestled high on the peninsula overlooking beautiful Grand Traverse Bay. Surrounding the area is the cherry country image of Traverse City.

Late October and early November is the harvest season. The grapes and the vine leaves turn rich pink or red color and it's time to pick the fruit for the first test of becoming wine.

But, even at this time of the season, the vines are beginning to produce their first grapes.

This will be an excellent year for Chateau Grand Travers' wine, Murphy points out, because of the abundance of each vine's fruit and ideal weather last winter and so far this summer.

He expects over 10,000 gallons of wine to be produced this year from the 47 acres of vineyards. Each grapevine produces approximately 20 pounds of fruit, enough for two bottles of wine.

Owner Ed O'Keefe first started the vineyard on the peninsula five years ago. His strong German background shows its influence everywhere. German machinery, German grape-growing methods, and a German winemaker are used.

Visitors are welcome and are given a grand tour of the wine-making process and tasting. Tour schedules vary, but Murphy explained that they are held approximately every hour, Monday through Saturday, and visitors are free to try wine in the tasting room from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The 15-minute tours show the vineyards where the grapes are grown, and the fermenting and storage process of the wines.

The best vineyard sites are those with maximum sunlight and good air flow, Murphy explains.

Murphy explains. This guards against

Each vine has a different grape and different leaf on it resulting in various types of wines. This grape will be used to make Cabernet Sauvignon.

frost and provides for essential silo drainage, Murphy said.

European grapes are grown at Chateau Grand Travers. This provides for a 100 percent vinifera vineyard with no hybrids, he said. Other vineyards in Michigan use French hybrid grapes or an American variety. This European character provides for a different taste and texture of the wine, he said.

Four acres of over 70 different selections of grapes help Chateau experiment with different types of wines which may be produced in Michigan, Murphy said.

Different varieties have different shaped leaves and produce different looking grapes. "Test fields give us two forms of information: what varieties will survive the winter and the sugar production of different fruits," Murphy said.

Because of the vineyard location, on the peninsula, there are actually 40 to 50 more growing days per season than other nearby locations, Murphy said. Cold air drains from higher sites into lower areas. And because of its high elevations, there is less frost damage to the grapes, he added.

Once the grapes are ripe in fall, workers are hired to pick the fruit. Murphy expects the hand-harvest picking to take about two weeks compared to a harvest time of five days last year.

Once the grapes are picked they are brought into the processing plant, tested for acidity and sugar content and put in 3,500 gallon steel tanks for the fermenting process.

The type and color of wine depend a lot on its fermentation.

Red and white wines can be made from the same grape, yet it is in the fermentation that the difference in color and taste comes about.

Red wines are made by leaving the juice in contact with the skins and pulp for a longer period to take on the color. Murphy said the fermentation time for red wines is between two days and two weeks depending on the type of wine desired.

White grapes are separated from their skins almost immediately and fermented afterwards. "Dry" wines are created when fermentation is allowed to continue until all the sugar is converted to alcohol. "Sweet" wines result when the fermentation is stopped earlier.

It is during this fermentation process that the winemaker takes great care to test the wine for its taste and purity.

Impurities are removed from the wine after fermentation, and it is pumped into sterile bottles for distribution.

Chateau Grand Travers wines are sold at a wine store at the vineyard and to retail outlets, Murphy said.

Some of the wines produced at the vineyard are: Morning Apple, Chablis, Gamay Beaujolais, Zinfandel, Sweet Montmorency Cherry and Old Fashioned Spice Wine.

Four wines from Chateau Grand Travers were awarded medals during the 1979 State Fair. The wines were: Cabernet Sauvignon, 1976, gold medal; Rose, silver medal; and Pinot Chardonnay, 1978, and Burgundy, bronze medals.

JESUS

Words & music by Andrew Culverwell

Born Again

Verse 1

You may think it's foolish
What I'm gonna say;
I'm not ashamed, no,
I'm not ashamed.
One day I prayed,
"Jesus, take My sin away"—
And that's when
I was born again.

Chorus

Born again! there's really been a change in me.
Born again; just like
Jesus said!
Born again, and all
because of Calvary.
I'm glad, so glad, that I've been Born again.

Verse 2

One man came to Jesus
(John and chapter three)
And so afraid, Oh so afraid.
"Master, you're from God,
I really do believe."
and Jesus said:
"Be Born Again."

Born again—this is not a strange saying in our generation, for these words have appeared in print all over the United States. Many important people are claiming a born-again experience in Jesus Christ.

Still, there is a mysterious sound to these words. And just like Nicodemus (Jn. 3:3) people are still asking, "How can a man be born when he is old?" And the answer is still the same: "That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit" (Jn. 3:6).

Jesus said: "Verily I say unto you, Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. Matthew 18:3

Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new. II Corinthians 5:17

Jesus answered and said unto him, "Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God."

Everybody is born once—born of flesh—born of the union of two parents. The birth Jesus is talking about is a birth of the spirit part of man. The union of the Holy Spirit with our spirit produces the new birth.

When a baby is born, a new life begins. When a person is "born again" the same thing happens—a new life begins. II Corinthians 5:17 says, "Old thing are passed away; behold all things are become new."

You may be young or old and not be "born again." The new birth, or as it is sometimes called, the "second birth" has nothing to do with how old you are, or how much you know. It has to do with the part of you that God calls "spirit"—the "heart" of man. That part of man "must be born again" (Jn. 3:7), or as other translations indicate, "born anew."

If you desire a new life to begin in you, if you'd like to start over, or forget your past, then these words are for you: "Behold, I stand at the door and knock: If any man hear my voice and open the door I will come into him, and sup with him, and he with me" (Rev. 3:20).

It's the heart that Jesus is asking entrance into, and it's you that opens the door. You do it with words—but not out of your head. It's out of your heart that your mouth must speak (Rom. 10:9, 10), and you say: "Jesus, I open the door, and I ask you in." And when you do, your new life begins.
