Most local officials oppose all tax proposals on ballot

BY KATHY JOHNSON

Local public officials describe the three tax proposals on the Nov. 4 ballot with terms like "a can of worms," "catastrophic," and "unpredictable."

There are three tax proposals on Tuesday's ballot. Proposal A (Smith-Bullard Plan) and Proposal C (Legislative-Coalition Plan) are not cuts but tax shifts. Proposal D, the Tisch II Plan, is a California Proposition B style approach to tax reform.

One important point made by local officials and Jane Cutts of the Michigan League of Women Voters is that each of the proposals must be voted on separately. All could pass, all could fail, or any combination of the three could pass. "Each proposal is on its own merits," said Cutts.

Carl Moser, Boyne Falls School Principal, made the same point, saying "It's kind of scary because a lot of people don't know they can vote on all three proposals. They think they have to vote for one of them."

Each proposal should be voted for or against on an individual basis. They could all pass or fail, a vote for one or the other does not negate the others.

Each of the three proposals has at least some group which supports it and is opposed to the others. Many groups support none of the proposals, feeling that the existing legislation, while not necessarily ideal, is better than any current proposal.

PROPOSAL A

Proposal A would shift the basis of funding elementary and secondary education from the local property tax to a statewide system of financing education. Currently, 47 percent of local education statewide is financed through the property tax. The proposal's primary goal is to provide equal per-pupil support funding for K-12 education throughout the state.

Those who favor the proposal argue that the proposed method of school financing would encourage quality education and equal opportunity throughout the state. Since the State Legislature has the constitutional responsibility for providing free elementary and secondary schools, basic support would not be left to the decisions of the local taxpayers.

The proposal would provide substantial tax relief for homeowners, farmers, and retired people. The income tax is considered to be a fairer, more progressive tax than the property tax. Local control of programs, services and personnel would be included in the Constitution.

Opponents fear that the minimum legally required funding would be neither equitable nor adequate. The legislature might not grant larger amounts, particularly in times of fiscal stress. The equal dollars per child formula is not sensitive to the differing costs of education from one school district to another.

Election Guide

Pages 7-12

The exact ballot wording of all seven state proposals is printed on page 9.

The proposal also places unnecessary restrictions on the taxing powers of some local units of government, critics say. While property taxes will be reduced, some "circuit breaker" relief will be lost, and the overall tax burden for many middle and upper class taxpayers is likely to increase.

Boyer City School Superintendent Rich Kelly said in regard to Proposal A, "Income tax is an unpredictable source of income. I'm not in favor of a guarantee at the highest state support level. I just don't see how people can afford it. And, we lose more local control."

Kelly went on to say that with Proposal A, "categorical funding" could be changed. Northern Michigan depends greatly on categorical funding for such items as transportation and vocational education.

Boyer Falls Moser does not favor any of the tax proposals, but he said Proposal A was "the least objectionable." However, he thought local districts would lose some control because the revenue coming back to the local district would be determined by the state. Moser indicated that while the Michigan Education Association (teachers) have endorsed Proposal A, the Michigan Association of School Boards does not endorse any of the proposals.

PROPOSAL C

The major thrusts of Proposal C are a reduction in property taxes and a provision to compensate for lost revenue by increasing the sales tax rate from the present 4 to 5.5 percent.

The goal of this proposal is to make the present tax system more equitable and functional.

Proponents of this proposal feel it would bring property tax relief to those who need it most: homeowners, renters, and the low-income elderly. Circuit breaker relief would continue as it is in addition to the new $7100 exemption.

The shift to sales tax would mean greater balance among the three broad-based taxes: income, property, and sales. Tourists and other non-residents would assume a greater share of the cost of state services. The current exemption of food and drugs and the proposed phasing out of residential utility taxes make the sales tax less regressive.

Opponents argue that this shift to the sales tax would result in a heavier tax burden at the lower-income levels. Local units of government are not guaranteed total replacement of the dollars lost if sales tax receipts are not adequate.

The expected revenue shortfall in 1982 will cause local governments to experience serious budget problems. Local governments are also concerned they will be hurt by the new adjustments to the state spending requirements of the 1978 tax limitation amendment.

Melrose Township Supervisor Larry Fineout said, "If we have to have one pass, C would be the best, but I wouldn't endorse any of them. I feel that northern Michigan is better off the way it is."

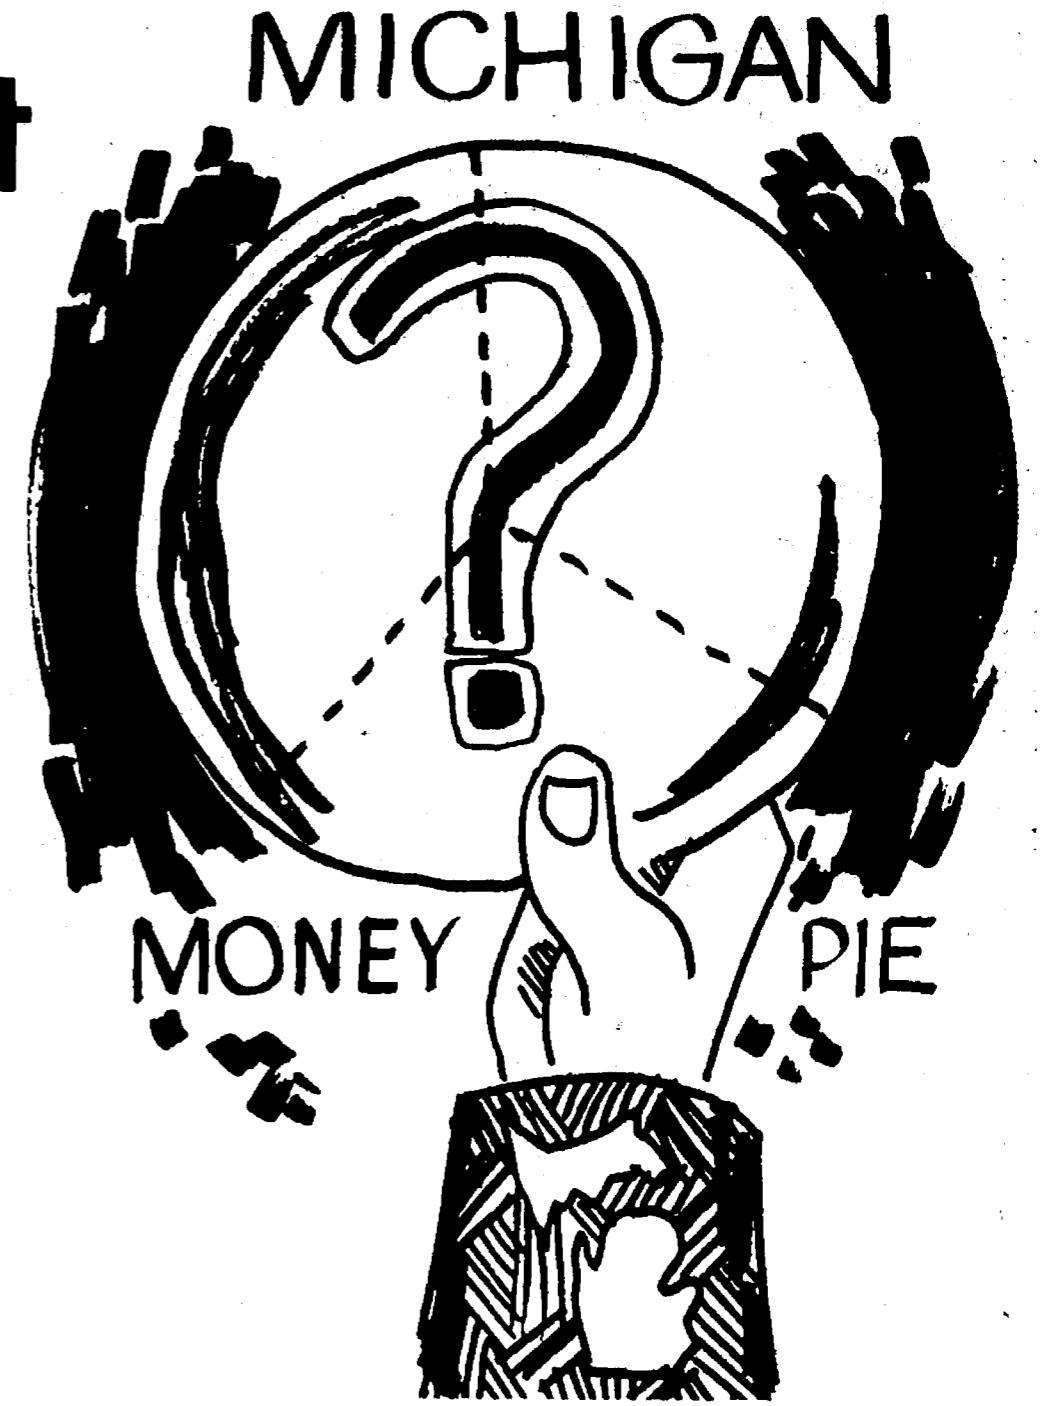

Fineout went on to say, "If any one of the tax proposals goes through we're going to be opening a can of worms."

Superintendent Kelly of Boyne City, again pointed out the shifting of funds rather than any actual gain to the shifting of funds rather than any actual gain to the schools. He further indicated his concern that the 1.5 percent increase in sales and use tax might not be enough to cover the loss in property tax. "Sales tax revenue is not stable," said Kelly.

PROPOSAL D

Proposal D, the Tisch II amendment, would reduce the amount paid in local property taxes, require the state to reimburse local governments for some of the loss in property taxes, and would require approval by 60 percent of the voters at a general election to enact any new taxes or tax increase proposals.

Proponents of this proposal say that residential property taxes would be cut in half, and additional relief would be provided to low income and elderly home owners. The proposal would require the state to repay most of the lost revenue to local units of government. Thus, most budget cutting would have to be done at the state level.

Proponents say that there will be only a 7 to 20 reduction in the state budget, forcing the state to become more efficient and strengthening local government. Voters would be given a say in taxation by requiring that new taxes and tax increases would have to be approved by 60 percent of the people voting.

Opponents contend that this proposal would leave the legislature with control over only about 10 percent of the state budget and seriously cripple state services. Even with state reimbursement, local governments would lose revenues because of the two percent cap on yearly farm and residential assessment increases.

Property tax relief would be offset by the resulting increase in federal income taxes, Tisch critics say. The power to tax is a basic power of representative government. To deprive the legislature of that authority is to drastically change the system of government. The 60 percent tax approval requirement means a minority could rule on all tax decisions, that is 41 percent could overrule 59 percent.

On Proposal D many local officials in Charlevoix County seem to feel the same way. They feel it is a "meat ax" approach and would seriously hurt township, city and school finances.

Boyer City Manager Tim Clifton said, "From a city administration viewpoint, I'm opposed to all three amendments but the Tisch amendment would be a disaster. We would lose approximately 30 to 40 percent of our revenue."

Fern Morris, clerk-treasurer in East Jordan, said, "I see a loss of a minimum of 16 percent of our income and it will create additional work in the assessor's and the treasurer's office." Additional workload means additional expenses and therefore the 16 percent estimated loss would increase because of additional expenses.

Morris went on to say that she could foresee real problems since the state is already having financial difficulties. "Clerks are still waiting for the cost of running the spring presidential primary," said Morris. The state was to reimburse this cost to the cities.

Rich Kelly pointed out that the House Democratic Education office estimates that K-12 would lose over $500,000,000 or 13 percent of the previous state and local revenue for the 1981-82 school year if the Tisch amendment passes.

At the same time, federal taxes would increase by that same figure or more from the loss of the property tax deduction. Marion Anderson, Director of Employment Research Associates, an independent Lansing based economic consulting firm, released a study which said, "For most property owners, their property tax will go down, and their federal income tax will go up."

The study titled "Michigan's Loss, Washington's Gain," detailed by counties and school districts the tax loss which would go to the federal government and the loss in matching federal funds.

East Jordan council will have new look—but some old faces

EAST JORDAN - Four members of the city council won't be seeking reelection this Tuesday, but three former members are running.

Mayor Jim Meredith won't be running again, but one-time council member Archie Nemecek of 303 Garfield St. filed a petition for mayor.

Former city superintendent and council member Russell N. Gee of 1009 Water St., is opposed for the first ward council seat being vacated by Bud Kenny.

Councilman Frank Campbell isn't running for his second ward position, and circulated a petition for a replacement, former council member Darwin H. Morris of 106 N. Maple. Running against Morris will be Sanford H. Sweet of 107 Third Street.

Morris, 48, was previously on the council for nearly 13 years, but he has been off for the past five years.

He says he is a strong believer of using common sense when dealing with tax dollars. He is glad to see recent improvements at the Civic Center and the airport. Now he would like to see more sewer development in the area near the high school football field on highway M-32. "They pay taxes just like the rest of us," he said, and they deserve city services."

Sweet, 39, is a truck driver for Sherman Canning Co. He says he is running because he is "tired of the same old faces on the council, and it's about time I did something for the community."

"A lot of things in the city need work," Sweet said.

In the third ward, Ken Hagen had decided not to seek reelection. The race there will be between Planning and Zoning Commission member Bonnie Thomas of 212 W. Mary and Calvin Gotts of 103 Nicholls.

Mrs. Thomas, who runs a beauty shop in her home, has lived in the city for 16 years. She says she is running because her husband Russ and friends encouraged her to do so.

She has no particular reason for running other than "I'd like to get involved in city government. You always hear things—rumors and criticism. I'd rather not say exactly what, but I'd like to get in office and find out what's true and what isn't."

Gotts is the purchasing agent for the East Jordan Iron Works. He is on the board of directors for the local health center, and he has a bachelor's degree in industrial management.

He is running, he said, because he enjoys living in East Jordan, and he has "concerns for it."

"I'd like to see some growth and planning for future growth," he said. "The people should set goals and priorities and we should work for them."

"I feel I'm capable of making good judgments. This is a pretty wonderful place to raise a family and live, and I'd like to help out as much as possible."

We're glad you asked!

How much about death can a child understand?

The young child of three to five usually understands little of death and seems to be disturbed about it for only a short time or for short intervals. The child from five to nine may express guilt remembering past feelings and quarrels with the deceased. They will be very much influenced by the way in which adults in the family behave during the death and funeral. Of utmost importance to children of any age is that they receive the support of a loving adult to help sort out their feelings, assure them that they are in no way responsible for the death, and encourage them to share their feelings with you. If you have a question feel free to contact us. Sometimes we can be of help in lightening your load in these intensely personal situations.

School board dinner

Boyer City Community Education Director Judy Johnson greets about 100 guests at a potluck dinner for night school students and teachers, school board members and families last week. Every student, teacher and board member introduced himself to the group. After dinner, students went to class and board members toured the building to get a first-hand look at the Community Education program. The school board will be visiting a different school program or building each month this year.

Students are making history

Boyer City Middle School students are making history, in a way, in cooperation with the city library. It is because the library plans eventually to have a whole set of blown-up pictures on the walls to document old Boyer City days. The students from Bob Morgridge's history classes are participating in a number of ways. First, they are collecting the nearly $80 needed this fall for an enlarged picture of the now-vanished chemical plant. Anyone who wants to help out may contact a student or the middle school office—582-9981. The students are also in charge of a meeting at which Wallace Merchant of the chemical plant will be honored in person.

EJ schools make cuts...and hope

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

EAST JORDAN - After meetings with the citizen-teacher-administrator steering committee, East Jordan's school board approved the committee's recommendations—a cut now, a hold, and hopes that a favorable millage vote will save what's left of the school program, already slashed earlier this year by $300,000.

The newest cut, amounting to $54,300, removes two custodians, reduces the media center and the middle school equipment budgets, and also cuts the building trades program—on paper, at least. A possible rescue of the program with private funding may be realized, committee chairman Cal Gotts said.

But $54,000 is far from putting the budget in the black. The committee also offered a list of items to be held in a temporary cut, to be restored if the 2.8 millage request is approved Dec. 8.

These items all concern future schedules and include band performances (except the Christmas Concert already in the works), varsity and junior varsity basketball (except for one pre-Dec. 8 game), varsity and JV volleyball, track, athletic director, elementary recreation, safety patrol (assumed by the principal), one-half year of cheerleader advisor, and the junior play.

The total of the temporary cuts is $9,913.41—still a way to go to cope with this fall's loss of $130,000 in state funds. But the board passed these two proposals.

A committee vote earlier showed that some of their members, including the administrators, wanted a third proposal included in the recommendation to the board. This was a staff cut of seven teaching positions: one-half middle school counselor, one-half middle school reading specialist, three high school teachers, one middle school teacher, the elementary art teacher, and elementary music teacher.

The jeopardized positions total $64,221 and bring the full tally to $128,434.41—close to what would be garnered by 2.8 mills.

But the board, meeting right after the steering committee meeting, chose to go with the committee majority and trust that the community, made aware of the necessity of the additional millage, would not force dismissal of the seven teachers.

Before the vote was taken on the motion, school board member Dan Nachazel objected, saying, "The board voted to have 2.8 and not make any additional cuts...We've (already) slaughtered this curriculum."

But he agreed to the board's resolution after being assured that the building trades program although cut from the budget would be supported in some way.

In noting that if the millage vote passed, a budget addendum would be made, board president Mary Jason said they would "need a priority list for reinstatement" of programs cut by the board's vote.

Next Monday at 7:30 p.m., the board will hold the regular budget hearing.

New treasurer has experience, personality

BOYNE CITY - Announcing the appointment this week of Mrs. Edith M. Beck as the new city treasurer for Boyne City, City Manager Tim Clifton said, "Mrs. Beck excelled in all the areas we were looking for, plus she has the personality for the job."

Clifton said that a special screening committee had been established to look over the candidates for the position of treasurer. This committee selected four of the 10 applicants for a personal interview.

The committee was looking for good organization abilities, a knowledge of electronic data processing equipment, and a familiarity with special assessing and bonding. Mrs. Beck not only has more experience Clifton said, but "she was heads above the other applicants."

"We feel very fortunate to have Mrs. Beck," Clifton said. Mrs. Beck brings 12 years of municipal experience to her new position. She is a member of the National Accounting Association and the Michigan Finance Officers Association.

Before relocating in this area in March of this year, Mrs. Beck was employed in the treasurer's office of Clinton Township as Senior Accountant from 1969 to 1980.

Edith Beck

Prior to that she was a staff accountant with the auditing firm of E.F. McCafferty and Company for two years; Assistant treasurer of the Mount Clemens Columbus Federal Credit Union; and taught accounting from 1961 to 1965 at Clark's School of Business, Inc. in Topeka, Kansas.

An estimated $2,088,000 more in federal income taxes out of the state. County residents would, in addition, lose another $3,700,000 in matching federal funds, the study claims. By school district, the breakout of the shift from Michigan to Washington would be: Beaver Island, $90,000; Boyne City, $546,000; Boyne Falls, $144,000; Charlevoix, $918,000; and East Jordan, $390,000.

A statement released from Governor William Milliken's office last week indicates that while the total state budget is roughly $10 billion, after we deduct federal funds over which we have no control, state funds which must be passed on to local governments and funds which are constitutionally earmarked for pensions and other specific sources, we have left a total of $3.6 billion in state programs out of which $2 billion must be cut."

The statement went on to say that the $3.6 billion is what pays for such programs as mental health, public health, state police, prisons, higher education and social services. These are the areas from which the $2 billion must be cut.

In answer to the governor's statement, Robert Tisch claimed that Milliken was using a campaign of deceptive lies against the amendment.

"The Tisch Tax Cut, at its very best, can only cut state and local spending by seven percent. But because the State Equalized Valuation (SEV) increase in local property tax is constitutionally permitted to increase at the rate of inflation, homeowners can realistically count on at least another 15 percent hike in their 1981 property taxes being levied less than a month after the election. Michigan will honestly have more money to spend in 1981 than ever before in the state's history," said Tisch.

ON CHECKING ATTICS

If you are inspecting a house with an attic, do more than ask if there is one - get up there, walk around and inspect it. You can learn a lot with just a few simple checks.

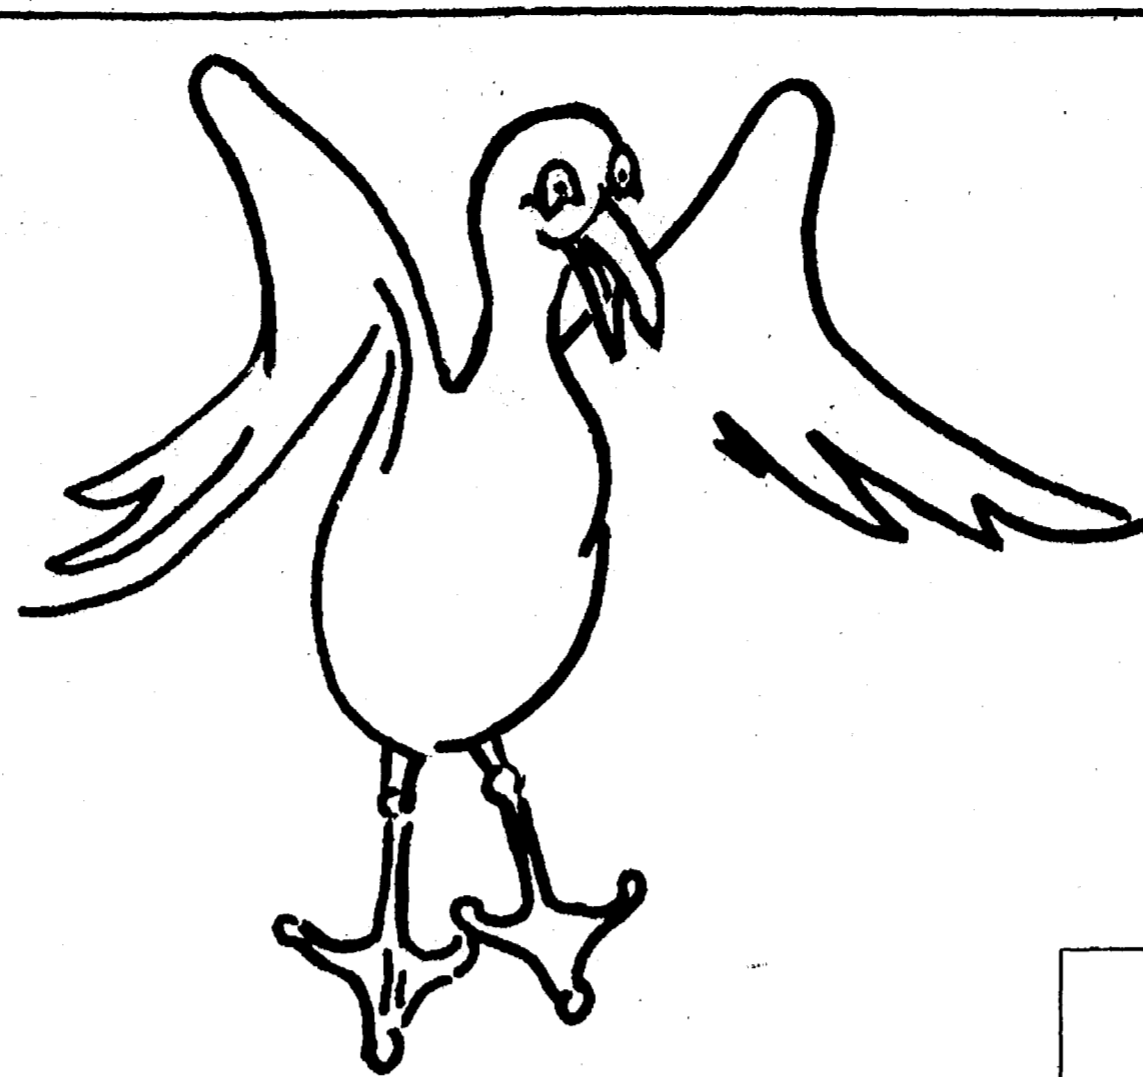

For instance, you can check to see if the beams are really solid? If the point of a penknife sinks in easily, the wood may be either rotten or termite-infested. Timbers with ends embedded in masonry without proper air spaces are especially vulnerable to rot. Sight along the beams to see whether any have sagged or warped. Also, check the rafters or roofing boards for water stains.

Is there sufficient ventilation in the attic? At a minimum, it should have louvers in both gable ends, vents under the eaves or ridge vents in the roof. If the ventilation is inadequate, you can bet on wood rot - and there will be heat loss in the winter, heat retention in the summer and bigger utility bills in both seasons.

How about insulation? An attic floor should have at least six inches of insulation plus a vapor barrier under the insulation.

Apathy rules again

Few choices in local elections

Another election will come and go next Tuesday with a vast majority of local office holders winning election without opposition.

Out of 15 county commissioner districts, there was only one contest in the August primary election and there is only one race in next week's general election.

There were races in the Republican primary for register of deeds, sheriff and surveyor, but in the general election there will only be a choice for the office of county clerk.

Most townships had few races in the primary and there are even fewer in the general election.

Somehow this must be changed.

It's easy to find reasons for this lack of interest. Perhaps the major reason is that one party, Republican, has long dominated local politics.

Democratic Party leaders can defend their failure to generate interest in a two-party system. They point out that most new candidates "shop around" for a party and settle on the GOP because it has a history of winning in most parts of Charlevoix County.

Then there is undoubtedly subtle pressure to avoid "in-fighting" among one's own party, thus the lack of Republican vs. Republican races in the primaries.

There are other reasons for political apathy as well.

A growing contempt for government of all kinds results in a feeling of "can't change the system" helplessness on the part of individuals who might otherwise consider running for local office.

Most local offices are part-time jobs, which means public duties must be worked around regular jobs. The hours can be long and the pay is not good.

The work isn't easy, either. Controversies can arise over knotty, often emotional issues, like land use, zoning, landfills, police and social services. There is the constant problem of trying to provide service while keeping taxes down.

One might argue that there is little interest in local political races because most of our officials are doing a good job. That is probably true, but even good public officials can get complacent and lose touch with their constituents if it is obvious that few people care about what they do or whether they are elected.

Most importantly, there is bound to be more discussion of the issues if we have real choices at election time. This discussion, even if most incumbents are reelected anyway, can only be healthy. It forces a periodic rethinking of positions.

Though it is two years away, it's not too early to be thinking of how we might make the 1982 election a lot more democratic, a lot more American, by giving our citizens some choices on their ballots.

We think there is room for significant improvement from the political parties, which may be complacent or frustrated about the status quo, and from individual citizens, who have no right to complain about a government they refuse to become involved in.

100% participation

The Boyne City office of Consumers Power Company has earned an award from the Boyne Area United Way for achieving 100 percent participation of its employees in last year's fund drive. United Way President Jim White, at left, presents the award to Consumers Power official Dick Dahlquist. This year's United Way fund-raising drive is now underway, White reports. "The idea behind the United Way is that we organize one major drive a year, so that all of the different organizations in the community don't have to spend their time raising money." United Way officials are now concentrating on reaching area residents through their places of employment. Later, a mailing will be made to all residents of the area served by the organizations which receive money from the United Way in Boyne City, Walloon Lake, Boyne Falls, Horton Bay and Advance.

Conned by a devil and a gas can

Have you ever been out-foxed by a teenager? So have I.

It happened while I was driving over to East Jordan the other day to tell the folks that whenever I poke fun at their town it's always in jest and good spirit. I had some other lies in mind, too.

Rounding the corner at Advance I saw a young, nice looking lad carrying a gas can. He was wearing one of those Red Devil football sweaters, thumbing a ride.

How sharp and vigorous he looked. Heavens, when I was his age all I had was a sling-shot and pimples.

Breaking my long standing rule never to pick up a hitch-hiker, I stopped and told him to hop in. He sat down, putting the can between his legs. We went through some small talk and I asked how far it was to his car.

"I don't have a car," he said. "Nobody will pick me up if I'm not carrying this gas can."

Some people are saying that if Ronald Reagan is elected president he may start a war. Phooey! How can our government go to war when it isn't through attacking us yet?

Here I am, walking down the street with my mind full of gloom and my stomach full of woe—worried half to death over the state of the world, the country and the frost on our tomatoes.

This friend comes along asking why I have a mind full of gloom and a stomach full of woe. I tell him and he pulls out a bottle.

"Have a little nip," he says. "It's guaranteed to cheer you up." So I take a hook of it and wow! It's four parts cheer and 96 parts coffin varnish—sending me into a deeper depression. The State of Michigan is in real trouble when it has to place a tax on cut-rate embalming fluid to help our school board stay in business.

How much do you get paid for writing that column? Oh, I get by. That's terrible. What do you mean? Things have gotten pretty bad when you have to be foolish to make a living.

Sometimes when you've written a little twister there's no getting away from it. The darn thing keeps coming back to haunt you.

Just the other day a woman climbed all over me because I had written that I was as confused as a left-handed woman on Monday morning. (Well, she didn't really climb all over me, that's just an expression. I've never had a woman climb all over me. Not in public.)

But she did point and use fierce language: I was a male chauvinist, a typical anti-ERA person, etc., etc., etc. If there's anything I can't stand, it's

I have a tendency to leg it for home whenever I'm attacked by a mouth as large as the city's water bills. I told her that and she laughed. Actually we were good friends. The argument didn't amount to more than a little word sparring and joshing.

But when she left I was secretly mad and upset. I didn't conquer my feelings until I had gone into a restaurant and eaten a quick pint of strawberries.

Note to the editor: The above item is true except for those parts that called for exaggeration.

Letters to the editor

Taxpayers are mad

Editor, Michigan's politicians (polcats), regardless of their stripes, must face it. There would be no need for a Tisch amendment on the ballot if taxpayers weren't angry as hornets.

At fault is Michigan's basic property tax system which the polcats have failed to alter in keeping with a drastically changing economy.

Taxpayers are mad because their money goes to proliferating local petty bureaucracies like county tax equalization offices which have increased in astronomical proportions.

Taxpayers are mad when they see property valuations hike four or five times real value just because some real estate salesman has unloaded the neighboring 40 acres at five times local market values, all because some "furriner" with more money than brains is suckered into buying. That sucker sale is then used by incompetent equalization office appraisers as the basis of false market values in setting equalizations.

Taxpayers are mad because they can't get federal funds without complying with bureaucratic regulations that require expensive "surveys," "studies," or consulting opinions that siphon off countless tax dollars before a project is approved for financing.

Taxpayers are mad because our schools are now run by the federal government—in spite of the fact that a few years ago educators were assuring the taxpayer that federal aid would not affect the operation of local school systems.

Taxpayers (out-state) are mad because the supreme court's one-man, one-vote decision of a few years ago placed all the political power in Michigan in a handful of southeastern Michigan counties, leaving out-state Michigan powerless to govern in matters pertinent to its welfare.

The reasons for taxpayer dissatisfaction are almost endless, but perhaps the most tragic phase of it all is that thousands of residents of the state now find themselves paying more taxes to live in their own homes on a monthly pro-rated basis than they once had to pay for the mortgages on their homes.

Michigan's tax establishment is more greedy than the mortgage bankers once were. And the Milliken administration has still failed to come to real grips with the matter.

Set aside your pride

Editor, As the parent of three school children I am always concerned with the reading material available to them.

I'm glad none of them are old enough to understand the "Statement of Position" sent out by the East Jordan school board. I would be ashamed for my kids to know that "mature" adults resort to tactics like these when they disagree with someone.

I wish I could find some reason for the board sending these statements to us besides the obvious one of trying to make the teachers and Judge Breighner seem irresponsible, which is not true. Obviously the judge saw that the teachers felt the strike was the only option left them.

The biggest mistake the board has made is trying to make it sound as if the teachers don't care what happens to the kids. The school board isn't in the classroom working with our kids, the teachers are.

We have good teachers in our school and the board knows it. Instead of running them down the board should thank them for the good job they do. If the board thinks they have succeeded in weakening my respect for the teachers, they are wrong.

My husband is one of those teachers, and I saw the pain the strike caused him and the others. If anything my respect for them has been strengthened. I am very disappointed with any board members who condoned this statement being sent to the citizens of our town.

One thing it did prove to me is that the relationship between the board and teachers has reached a point where binding arbitration is a necessary part of the teachers' contracts. If my relationship with my employer were the same, I would feel the need for it too.

We mustn't forget that our children learn from watching us, and one of the most important lessons we can teach them is to respect each other, and that admitting their mistake will earn them respect.

Obviously the school board and the teachers must set aside their pride and admit they have made mistakes. Instead of pointing fingers at each other they need to work these problems out together, which will benefit both sides a lot more. And more important than anything, our kids will also benefit.

You must be anti-gun

Editor, I never knew you or your paper were anti-trapper until I read the article by Trish Wright (Viewpoints page, Oct. 23). Are you also anti-gun? You must be.

If Trish Wright wants to be fair with all readers she should seek information from The Trapper, P.O. Box 337, Sutton, Neb. 68979. This is a great paper, really great reading. Also Fur, Fish and Game, 2878 E. Main St., Columbus, Ohio 43209. Both of these publications would do all of you a lot of good. You should also read Michigan Out-of-Doors magazine. Just try to get both sides of the story.

One other great service you could do would be to publish the salaries of Cleveland Army and all other organizations like his. Also where does all the money go except for their salaries? You could also call the conservation department; they have people who could really inform you.

As for our two senators, they are no good for lots of things. Both are very anti-gun. Senator Reigle can talk much and say nothing. I stopped writing to both of them.

We certainly don't need a war with a foreign power; we have enough war here at home to last us a long, long time.

This influx of British could start a trend

I've always known that men with British accents were terribly appealing in the cinema. English movies have always been among my favorites. But Englishmen in real life are so terrific as to put their "reel" cousins in the shade.

Several weeks back, I wrote about the eminently charming James Burke.

Kathy Johnson

director for the BBC. For the past several years he has made his home in California.

Kennard visited with The Press staff at a small gathering in his honor and displayed enthusiasm for his work with Burke, a philosophical attitude about the "Cosmos" series, and a terrific sense of humor about English wines.

He enjoyed doing the series with Burke and indicated that Burke is a very easy person to work with and one who enjoys and appreciates others ideas as well as his own. On the "Connections" series, Kennard was able to earmark in the "producing" stage of the series some segments that he personally wanted to direct.

In the case of "Cosmos," which is the most expensive series ever filmed for public broadcasting, Kennard indicated that it was more work than pleasure and that Carl Sagan, writer and narrator of the series, inspires "much love in some and much suspicion in others."

The cost of the series was around half a million dollars for each show and Kennard indicated that a large part of his job was "taking a blue pencil to Sagan's script."

After a picture-taking session in which Kennard snapped our annual Press staff photo, we took pictures of him and then we all took pictures of each other taking pictures. Then we introduced him to some of the nice wines produced right here in Michigan.

Kennard told us that England is now producing some wines. "Some of it is very good," he said. "About four bottles a year."

He explained that several years ago in one of London's nicer shops there was a wine tasting party to introduce the new English wines. About the nicest thing one could properly say about the wines was that they were "frightfully interesting."

This influx of the English to the Boyne City area could start a trend. Just as we have entire areas here where people from Ionia, Midland and other areas live, perhaps we could also get an English colony going. They'd be lovely to have and extremely entertaining.

The series "Connections" is currently being shown on Channel 6, WCML-TV on Saturday evening at 8 p.m. "Cosmos" is shown on Sunday at 8 p.m. Both series are repeated—"Connections" on Thursdays at 2 p.m. and "Cosmos" on Wednesdays at 2 p.m. and Saturdays at 10:30 a.m.

Tax cut would hurt recreation, tourism

Editor,

For the past several weeks, voters have been inundated with various forms of propaganda about this year's ballot proposals. The most notorious, of course, is Proposal D, the Tisch tax cut amendment. This proposal, among other things, would slash property taxes. Neat.

Much emphasis has been placed on the devastating effect this proposal would have on social services, police agencies, mental health, etc. These I do not know much about, but I do know the effects it would have on recreation.

As a recreation director, I of course despise Tisch! (I am also a property owner and a taxpayer.)

If Proposal D passes, the Department of Natural Resources proposes to close 52 state parks and recreation areas and eliminate the Recreation Services and Forest Management Divisions. All technical assistance would vanish, and 180 forest campgrounds and 800 miles of state designated trails would be closed.

The DNR assisted in the improvements of Rotary Park in Boyne City. The tennis courts and well wouldn't be there if not for the DNR Recreation Services Division. Also, the pavilion in Veteran's Park was built with this same financial and technical assistance.

Many small businesses in northern Michigan rely on tourist trade. Tourists come here for recreation and you can't have one without the other.

Taxpayers' revolts are not the answer to good government—responsible legislatures are, so if you think you may have the last laugh on state government by voting "yes" on Proposal D, you may find that the joke is on you!

Boyne City Commission Minutes, October 14, 1980

MINUTES OF THE REGULAR MEETING OF THE BOYNE CITY COMMISSION DULY CALLED AND HELD IN THE COMMISSION CHAMBERS ON TUESDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1980 AT 7:00 P.M.

Present: Mayor Keith Fitzpatrick, Commissioners Martin Paul, Catherine Jessup and Thelma Behling. Absent: Commissioner Steven Moody. Also present: City Manager Timothy J. Clifton, City Clerk Tom Garlock and City Attorney Harvey Varnum.

Moved by Paul, seconded by Jessup to approve the minutes of previous meetings, as received in their packets, with the correction on Page 407, changing the name to Bradford. Minutes approved included the following:

1. Noon meeting of Tuesday, September 2, 1980.
2. Noon meeting of Tuesday, September 9, 1980.
3. Regular meeting at 7:00 p.m., September 9, 1980.
4. Noon meeting of Monday, September 22, 1980.
5. Noon meeting of Monday, September 29, 1980.
6. Noon meeting of Monday, October 6, 1980.

There were no citizen comments on non-agenda items.

The city clerk read a letter from Judith L. Johnson, Director, Boyne Community Education, concerning the success of the Farmers' Market held this summer in Old City Park.

Mr. Arch Wright, representing the Lakewood Savings and Loan, appeared before the commission requesting that an alley running north-south through the property of the Savings and Loan be vacated.

Moved by Behling, seconded by Jessup that a public hearing be set for November 11, 1980, to receive input on the closing of the alley at Lakewood Savings and Loan. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

Mr. Arch Wright also informed the commission that Mr. Ray Persia is desirous of purchasing the old street garage and that a restriction is included stipulating that any change in use of the property must first be approved by the city.

The mayor opened the public hearing on proposed water-sewer rate increases. The city manager with the assistance of visual aids, explained the reasons why the water/sewer rates should be raised to cover the deficits of the water/wastewater departments. Six people presented different views and opinions on the proposed rate schedule, which would raise rates ranging from 38 to 45%.

Most views were in opposition to the rate increase and some asked for alternative measures, to help offset the deficit in the water/wastewater departments. The general fund has been subsidizing this fund for the past four years, and it has been recommended by the auditors that the water/wastewater fund be self supporting, because the city charter specifically states same.

Commissioner Behling was excused from the meeting at 7:55 p.m. The city manager displayed the tentative schedule to be undertaken for the water and sewer rates to be raised or revised:

- October 14, 1980: city commission tentatively approves revised rate schedule.
- October 14, 1980: first reading of the amendments are read and published.
- November 11, 1980: First reading of the amendments are read and published.
- December 2, 1980: second reading of the amendments are read and approved by the city commission.
- January 1, 1981: New rates take effect.
- March 1, 1981: First billing under new rates are mailed out.

Moved by Jessup, seconded by Paul to tentatively approve the new rate schedule, as proposed and direct the city attorney to draw up the proper wording to amend Ordinances A-54 and A-55, and to present the amendments at the next regular meeting of November 11, 1980 for their first reading. Roll call all yeas. Motion carried.

Special Meeting, October 20, 1980

RECORD OF THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE PUBLIC HEARING AND SPECIAL MEETING OF THE BOYNE CITY COMMISSION DULY CALLED AND HELD MONDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1980, IN THE OFFICE OF THE CITY MANAGER, AT 12 NOON.

Present: Mayor Keith Fitzpatrick, Commissioners Catherine Jessup, Martin Paul and Steven Moody. Absent: Commissioner Thelma Behling. Also present: City Manager Timothy J. Clifton and City Clerk Tom Garlock.

The city clerk read the call of the meeting to hold a public hearing concerning a Community Development Block Grant - Small Cities Program.

It was noted that 11 people were in attendance to participate in the public hearing on this matter.

The city manager briefly outlined the purpose of a Community Development Block Grant, noting that Boyne City could be eligible for up to $500,000. It is based on a ratio of $150 per person, if the grant is approved.

Specific purposes for its uses include: (1) Acquisition of property, (2) Public improvements, (3) Rehabilitation for housing improvements for low and moderate income residents, such as installing of insulation, or other improvements and (4) Economic development.

Mayor Fitzpatrick opened the public hearing.

The following people presented their views:
Violet Manglos: Felt that the monies could help improve the water mains, which are in disrepair.

Gordon Flodquist: Inquired on monies available for this project. He was informed that a study must be made first before any definite amounts can be stated.

Commissioner Jessup: Informed the audience that the city could target a particular neighborhood to bring it up to proper standards.

Nellie Flodquist: Suggested use of the money be channeled into improvement of the water mains, so that water taps would not have to be left running during the winter to prevent freezing.

Commissioner Paul: Pointed out that the purpose of the Community Development Block Grants Program, grants for local units of less than 50,000 people, is to improve the community development housing situation, particularly for low and moderate income persons.

Commissioner Moody: Inquired if this was a 100% grant. The city manager established that it was a 100% grant after an expenditure of about $1,000 with Gove Associates who have been retained to prepare the pre-application.

Commissioner Jessup: Pointed out that if the application is not granted the first time, application can easily be made again since the information is already gathered ascertaining the medium incomes of city residents, etc.

The city manager pointed out that all expenditures would come out of grant monies once approved. He stated that once the grant is received people could be hired to process applications and develop criteria for its implementation, with all monies to come from grant funds.

Violet Mueller: Inquired if it were possible to use these grant monies for a community building for everyone, or the construction of a senior citizen center. She was informed that this also was permissible. The grant could buy land and construct a building, but all maintenance and other expenses to run a community center or senior center would have to be the responsibility of the people operating the building.

The mayor declared the public hearing closed at 12:27 p.m.

Only 7 of 15 townships have election races Tuesday

BY KATHY JOHNSON

A millage request in Norwood Township, two write-in campaigns, and a few contested races in only seven of the 15 townships highlight the Nov. 4 township elections.

Norwood residents will vote again on a request to levy one mill for four years for road construction and improvement. The millage vote failed in the August election.

Marion and Melrose Townships both have write-in campaigns being conducted. These two townships, along with Bay, Boyne Valley, Hayes, Hudson and Wilson, have the only contested races.

Following are the names of those running for each township office, including uncontested races.

Running for supervisor of Bay Township are incumbent Democratic candidate Carl Skornia and Republican candidate Walter L. Boese.

Uncontested positions include township clerk incumbent Margaret E. Smith; Larry H. Bergmann, incumbent candidate for treasurer; incumbent candidate Harold Johncheck and candidate William H. Ohle, both running for trustees. All are Republicans.

Punch card voting

Punch-card voting was used this year for the first time throughout the county. East Jordan Clerk-Treasurer Fern Morris demonstrates how to use the new system at a recent school board millage election. If you have questions on how to use the punch-card system, ask someone at the polls to show you before voting.

How many registered voters? It's getting harder to tell

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

EAST JORDAN "We have almost as many registered voters as we have people living in East Jordan," City Clerk-Treasurer Fern Morris points out.

Exact figures weren't available at press time. Because of concern over school elections, the clerk has a flood of new registrations to enter in the books.

Actually East Jordan, in common with other cities in Michigan, has a 10-year margin in knowing who its active voters really are. That's on paper, of course.

Back in 1971 if any voters neglected to vote for two years in a row they were given a 30-day warning. If nothing came of that, they were removed from the rolls.

But in 1975 complications began. Morris explained. Voters were allowed to ignore their democratic right to vote for up to four years. Then by state law they would be put on an inactive list.

After six more years in that condition they would receive notice that they were about to be removed from the rolls. Thus the present 10-year lag.

That makes an interesting problem in reviewing voter turn-out for a particular election.

If voters move and register in their new hometowns, the former home city is notified, but if they don't register they could possibly turn up and vote for old friends in the city they have left—unless someone noticed.

"You can challenge residency, although it's complicated," Morris said.

Morris' office receives lists of deceased residents from both Emmet and Charlevoix Counties and also periodically a list from the secretary of state. This helps make the count more accurate.

Still, from comparing the voter list with the census, one might judge East Jordan and other Michigan cities to be very civic-minded.

The new census is more accurate than the registration list. Morris told city council that unlike Detroit, East Jordan was well-counted.

Dona Ulvund, field office assistant for three counties, including Charlevoix County, said her teams were instructed to make at least three calls in the effort to get someone counted who was never at home. But they would make as many as 10 calls, she said. She described how one census taker finally caught up with an uncounted citizen by hunting up his car license number and catching him driving through town.

One way or another the federal and state governments care about how many voters there are and what their chances of voting are.

Morris says about that, "By not voting, you are in essence voting for whatever the results are in the election."

Just one race for county board

With only one district having a contested race for the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, all present commissioners will be re-elected except for District 7 and District 5.

District 7 has the only contested race with incumbent Ralph E. Harmon, a Democrat, being challenged by Republican, Thomas R. Kondrat. (See related story).

In District 5 Martin Bieganowski, Republican, is unopposed filling the place held by Chad McDonald, who did not run. Bieganowski beat Ralph Richardson in the August primary.

Incumbent county commissioners having no opposition include Delbert Ingalls, District 1, Clyde Cunningham, District 2; Joh E. Haggard, District 3; and Ira L. Davis, District 4.

In Districts 6, 8, and 9, respectively, incumbents Larry D. Matthew, Tom Breakey and Keith R. Annear are unopposed.

County commissioners in Districts 10 through 15 are unopposed. Incumbents there are Cass Toton, Oral E. Suttliiff, Marvin Loding, Donald B. Meggison, Oscar W. Ward and Lee Moerland.

Absentee ballot deadline is near

The deadline for picking up absentee ballots in person or by mail is this Saturday, Nov. 1. The applications must be made and the ballots picked up no later than 2 p.m., according to Charlevoix County election officials.

Individuals may vote in person up to 2 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 3. Those voting by mail must have their ballots back to the election officials by 4 p.m. Monday.

There are six conditions under which a ballot will be issued to a registered voter: the voter will be absent from the area on election day; the person is physically unable to vote without the aid of another person; religious convictions that would prohibit attendance at the poll; being named a precinct worker in a precinct in which you do not reside; any person 60 years of age or older, and persons confined to jail facing arraignment or trial.

For further information on utilizing an absentee ballot, contact the township or city clerk where you reside and vote.

STEVE ANDREWS
P. O. Box 1980
Gaylord, Michigan 49735

To the Residents of the 106th District:
Two years ago you elected me to serve in the Michigan Legislature.
The purpose of this letter is to ask you to support my re-election with your vote on November 4th.

When I first ran for office, I said that it would be important for Legislators to be more aware of wasteful spending.
I have refused to spend the twenty to thirty thousand tax dollars available to me to keep my name and picture in front of my constituents during my term. By my refusal to use these "perks" of office, I have denied myself of a great election year advantage, but I feel it to be very important for politicians to begin doing things rather than just talking about them.

I have established a policy of accepting no special interest P.A.C.
(Political Action Committee) money for my campaign, even though the state law allows these groups to donate up to $5000 each to my campaign. I, also, have limited individual contributions to $100 as opposed to the state law's limit of $500.

Again, most politicians talk about the need to limit the tremendous influence special interest groups are having on the election process.
I have done something about it.

I consider myself to be an independent thinking, hard working member of the Michigan Legislature with a very strong personal commitment to the future of my district and my state.

I have run a no-nonsense, no frills Legislative office and I have run a no-nonsense, no frills campaign for re-election.
In order for me to continue, I need your individual support on November 4th.

Sincerely,

STEVE ANDREWS

County clerk choice: Brannon or Erickson

The Charlevoix County Clerk's position is being sought this year by Thure (Eric) Erickson, a Boyne Falls Democrat, and incumbent Jane Brannon, a Republican from Hayes Township.

THURE ERICKSON believes that the county clerk's responsibilities of recording and safe keeping vital county records would be managed more efficiently if he were elected.

Erickson, 44, graduated from North Muskegon High School in 1954. After high school, Erickson enlisted in the U.S. Air Force. He says that he gained the experience of working with professional and non-professional groups while serving 20 years in the Medical Administrative Services career field.

He was a veteran of the Vietnam War. He served in the military airlift evacuation unit, transporting sick and wounded patients from Vietnam to U.S. hospitals. He has received the Army Good Conduct Medal and other service medals.

He attended and completed the Military Airlift Command's Non-Commissioned Officers' Academy and other military management and administrative courses.

Erickson worked as a balance and edit clerk in data processing for the Employees Credit Union in San Antonio, Texas. While in San Antonio, he attended San Antonio College and is presently enrolled at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey. He is studying in business administration.

He has been employed by Gregg Publications of Boyne City and has worked as a field assistant with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Services for Charlevoix County. Erickson's latest employment was with the U.S. Census Bureau, for which he interviewed and hired people to contact residents of Boyne Valley, Chandler, Hudson and Melrose Townships.

He is married to the former Gala Fraley of Boyne Falls. They have three grown children. Erickson and his wife live in Boyne Falls.

Thure Erickson

Erickson says, "I am a candidate for the office of county clerk because I feel I am highly qualified and competent to hold the office." He believes that his extensive administrative background gained from the armed services would contribute to his ability to run the county clerk's office with experience and efficiency. "I would like to make the position of county clerk more of an assistant to city and township clerks.

He would like to see the clerk's office equipped with a computer system that would be able to cut down the "mountainous volume of records." He suggests that even with the initial cost of a computer, taxpayers would have a less expensive and more efficient office if he were elected.

JANE BRANNON is the incumbent county clerk.

Brannon was deputy clerk-in the Charlevoix County Clerk's office for five years. In 1979, she was appointed Chief Deputy Clerk. When Clarence Rabach resigned as county clerk in March of 1980, Brannon was appointed to fill the term until it expires at the end of this year.

Brannon describes the county clerk's position as a liaison between the people of the county and the county's governing officials.

Jane Brannon

"I really love the job," says Brannon. "The county clerk is paid for only 35 hours a week, but it's really a job that requires 40 or more hours a week. I never object to the extra hours."

Brannon graduated from St. Francis High School in Petoskey in 1970. She has been a clerk in government offices for the past 10 years. She began working as the deputy city clerk in Petoskey. Her duties included "Contact with general public and elected and appointed department heads. I was responsible for payroll, personnel records, time reports, union and insurance records and council minutes."

Brannon worked for the City of Petoskey for three years before becoming deputy clerk of Charlevoix County.

Brannon says, "If the county were a wheel, the county clerk's office would be the hub of that wheel. It's a center for information."

She describes her duties as, "General supervision of the office, including extensive personal contact with county elected and appointed officials, such as department heads, board members and township clerks. There is also contact with others, such as the general public, attorneys, vendors, and employees of various departments."

"The county clerk is responsible for personnel records, time reporting, commissioners' minutes, election procedures and information, campaign finance reporting and numerous other duties."

Brannon stresses that it is important for people requesting information of the county clerk to receive it in a courteous and prompt manner. "If we don't know the answers here, we send people to someone who does know."

She adds that all county bills are paid through the clerk's office and as county clerk she acts as clerk for the Circuit Court, the Board of Commissioners and the Canvass Board.

Brannon has passed examinations for a certificate in Governmental Accounting through Michigan State University and a certificate in Advanced Governmental Accounting. Last year she studied management and organization at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey.

Brannon and her husband Gary live in Hayes Township. Her professional objective is "To manage the clerk's office in the most efficient manner."

Boyne Falls men square off in race for county board seat

District 7, which includes Boyne Valley and Hudson Townships has the only race for the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

Incumbent Ralph E. Harmon, a Democrat from Boyne Falls, is being challenged by Thomas R. Kondrat, Republican, also from Boyne Falls.

Harmon said he was glad to see the opposition. "I feel that any elected official should have opposition," said Harmon. "My prime interest is the road commission. It's better now, but it can still be improved."

Harmon said that he felt the road commission and taxes were the main issues and he was running to continue on those. "Taxes...I'm not satisfied with the tax structure. The record will show that when it comes time to accept the equalization figures," Harmon said.

When asked why he was running for the county commissioner seat, Kondrat said, "I feel I can do more for District 7 than has been done."

Asked about the issues, Kondrat further stated, "I want to try to get more things done in District 7—try to get roads improved and recreational facilities."

CONGRESSMAN BOB DAVIS

The walls in Congressman Bob Davis' office are covered with plaques from national organizations honoring him for what he has done. Davis is proud of those awards.

But the memento he's most proud of hangs on a separate wall all by itself. It's a collection of letters from constituents, letters thanking Congressman Davis for his help with their individual problems. To some, the problems might seem small — a lost Social Security check or a mix-up with the Veterans Administration.

But to Bob Davis, those individual problems are important. That's why he's so proud of all those thank you letters.

Brauker challenges Ostling for state rep

Democrat Bill Brauker will face Republican incumbent Ralph Ostling in the Nov. 4 election for the 103rd District seat in the Michigan House of Representatives. Ostling is seeking a fifth term in office.

The 103rd District includes the western half of Charlevoix County including East Jordan, Charlevoix, Horton Bay, and Ironton.

BILL BRAUKER, 31, of Harrison, recently resigned as press secretary to U.S. Congressman Don Albosta. Brauker is the former owner and editor of The Harrison Star, a weekly newspaper. He says, "My years with the newspaper business and Congressman Albosta, have given me an insight into the feelings of the people of the 103rd District."

Brauker, who says he has waged an all-out campaign to win the seat, says, "It is time to put some new people in leadership positions in state government. With my experience in helping constituents with their problems and as a well-known member of the majority party in Lansing, I could get things done for the area and assure that the people here are not neglected."

Here's how he feels on some major issues:

Taxes - "Although I understand why people are angry and want complete tax reform, I am opposed to the Tisch amendment (Proposal D). It is too drastic. However, if it did pass, I would do my best to work with this type of tax reform. I will be voting for the other two tax proposals.

Economy and Industrial Growth - "There are plans in the legislature that will make money available to industry coming into the area but those are long term plans. I would work very hard to create jobs for people. It's something that we need desperately. We don't have enough jobs for people now. We need to look at new ideas for developing industry."

"The population of this district has increased drastically. I believe that I can get more done for the district in two years than my opponent has done in eight. Many people that I have talked to, say that Ostling has admitted he has legislative problems because he is a member of the minority party. Yet, he has missed 164 votes taken in the State House of Representatives. That means that 20 percent of the time no one was there working and fighting for our district. It is a full time job."

"It's obvious that Michigan is in terrible shape at this time. We have the worst unemployment in the history of our state. The Great Depression wasn't 50 years ago, it's today.

"The next few years will be extremely critical and we can't afford to go on the way we have. I believe the people want strong leadership in Lansing to deal with the problem. Someone who will stand up and fight for them."

Brauker, whose campaign has focused on economic issues says, "There is something drastically wrong when a great industrial state like Michigan leads the nation in unemployment. We have a great working force of men and women here. They are willing and able to work. Our top priority should be to see that they have jobs available to them."

RALPH OSTLING, 33, of Roscommon, received his bachelor of science and masters degree from Central Michigan University. He was a township clerk for 17 years and has been a state representative for eight years.

His thoughts on the issues:

Taxes - "If I were to favor one proposal it would be Proposal C, the Coalition. This proposal makes a shift to sales tax and that's the fairest tax we have. Proposal D, Tisch, is not a responsible alternative. I question where the money would come from to fund the local government. I am not overly supportive of any of them. I don't believe that any of them hold the answer.

Economy and Industrial Growth - "I've based all my work on trying to find some upturn in the economy. I feel with my experience and with my position on the House Appropriations Committee, I will be able to continue the task of cutting back government waste, eliminating needless and expensive state programs and helping to get Michigan back on its feet."

Election Guide

Andrews, Morey vie for Dist. 106 state rep

Voters in the 106th District can choose from Bill Morey, a Democrat from Alpena or Steve Andrews, Republican incumbent from Wolverine as their State Representative at the polls on Nov. 4.

The 106th District includes Boyne City, Boyne Falls and Walloon Lake.

BILL J. MOREY, 33, is a native of Alpena County. He is a 1965 graduate of Alpena High School. He has attended Michigan State, Olivet College and the Alliance Francaise.

Morey is chairman of the Alpena County Democratic Party. He is also chairman of the Tip-of-the-Mitt U.A.W.-C.A.P. Council.

He serves on the Regional Economic Development Committee and is on the Board of Trustees of Child and Family Services. Morey is a former member of the Great Lakes Energy Alliance. He was formerly the Vice-President, financial secretary treasurer and bargaining committee member of Local 318 of the UAW. Morey has been a molder at Thunder Bay Manufacturing Corporation for the past eight years. He was previously a merchant seaman.

Says Morey, "I'd like to try to actively represent the full constituency of the district, by working with the House leadership, by consulting often with local government officials and being consistently accessible to the people."

"Effective representation requires a flexible and innovative approach to problem solving. Decisions should be made not by one man, but by a general consensus of the affected citizens."

Commenting on the issues:

Taxes - "I believe that the Smith-Bullard tax proposal is the most progressive of the three being offered. It is the most helpful to education and that is a priority. I am definitely opposed to the Tisch proposal. The lack of faith in government has become epidemic. People are as much disturbed by the use and misuse of property taxes as how much they are taxed."

Industry and Economic Growth - "The State Legislature should be able to develop industry and growth in the area. But it requires an active working together of legislators to accomplish this. We have to investigate development of labor intensity in the area to best utilize our work force."

"I also believe in investigating and developing alternative energy sources. It is essential for the state representative to be in contact with his constituency on a consistent basis. A better economy requires coordination of the state, local and federal governments with independent industries."

Other Issues - Morey adds that he supports Proposal B which would lower the drinking age to 19. "It is a largely unenforceable law as it stands now. Unenforceable laws degrade the system of justice. The problem of substance abuse is a social problem which can be handled more effectively by education. Prohibition does not help the problem."

"I also support the 'right to strike vote' for public service employees."

Morey states that one of the major differences between him and his opponent, is Andrews' independent attitude toward the acceptance of campaign donations.

He criticizes his opponent for not accepting campaign financing. "A special interest group does not buy the opinions of a state representative. They support a candidate because of the issues the candidate favors or opposes."

"To refuse contributions from people that are of like mind would be inappropriate. A candidate can become isolated because of his independence. The state representative must update his constituency and the voters must give their representative feedback."

STEVE ANDREWS, 30, is the incumbent Republican representative from the 106th District. Before being elected to his first term as state representative in 1978, Andrews was a businessman in Gaylord.

He has attended Central Michigan University, Eastern Michigan University and Michigan State University. Andrews states that the most important thing he will try to accomplish if elected is "To be able to serve the people of the 106th District for two more years, and finish the term knowing personally that I have been a fair, honest, objective and hard-working legislator."

His feelings on some issues:

Taxes - "I don't believe any of the three tax proposals are any good. I've had two years to look at the Tisch proposal and I don't think that it is in the best interest of the state. It's too much, too soon. The Smith-Bullard proposal is a massive tax increase that will provide the state with the greatest taxing it's ever known. Smith-Bullard is a wolf in sheep's clothing. Proposal C, Legislative-Coalition, is carefully crafted to shift tax burdens to rural property owners."

Industry and Economic Growth - "The most important contribution the state could make to northern Michigan's economy would be to stop discouraging business expansion. Michigan's workman's compensation system, unemployment compensation system and single business tax all act to discourage employment development in the state."

Other Issues - "I support Proposal B which would reduce the legal drinking age to 19. I also support Proposal H, which would alter the functions and duties of the lieutenant governor. This proposal would also allow for other methods of selecting a lieutenant governor."

"I am opposed to the Right to Strike Vote that the governor has vetoed. My opponent favors this bill, which would gain him MEA (Michigan Education Association) support. I also support Proposal G, which applies to legislators' immunity. We need the language 'as provided by law' in the Constitution. It would define which civil matters we are protected from and which we are not."

Andrews addresses his opponent's criticism on his policy of not accepting money from special interest groups.

He explains, "While special interest groups do often act as very valuable information-sources, the disproportionate amount of influence they command in the legislative process is troubling to me both as a private citizen and as an elected official."

"State law allows special interest groups to give House candidates up to $5,000. My campaign is accepting no money from these groups. Further, State law allows individuals to give up to $500. My campaign is limiting these contributions to $100."

"My judgments are based on objective facts. I am committed to the idea that individual commitments will once again provide the power base on government, if we will give the individual a fighting chance."

"It is very easy to say that one person can make a difference. But, if I didn't really believe that were true, then it would be time for me to step out."

"I am one of 18 members on the Appropriations Committee. Our job is to approve or assign the necessary amount of dollars to run state programs. I also serve on the subcommittees for the Department of Social Services, Capital Outlay and State Police and Military Affairs."

"We are making cuts in almost all of the programs from five to 10 percent. However, the Department of Social Services is being cut the most drastically. I personally got a bill passed that states if a person is of healthy body and mind and is applying for state aid, he must accept a job offered to him or else lose three months of state assistance."

"We need drastic reform in our workmen's compensation system and unemployment compensation areas. We must reform these systems so that the injured and unjustly unemployed receive higher benefits, more in line with our neighboring states. Yet, we must eliminate abuses so that employers can remain and expand here."

"With Michigan's economic problems, it is more important now than ever before that government waste and fraud be kept at a minimum."

"Cuts are being made because revenues, sales and income tax, are not coming in. And the reason for that is unemployment."

"I have enjoyed the eight years that I have served as 103rd District State Representative. I have represented the district as the majority of people have wanted me to do. And it is necessary that I return to Lansing to continue the work I began in my last term."

Picking up potatoes and boiled dinner

How many of us remember when they let school out for a couple of weeks in October to harvest the potato crop?

We welcomed a few days' vacation from school even if we had to work, probably harder than we had ever worked before...unless it was at last year's potato digging time.

The weather was always either freezing cold, or raining, or hot and our

Cooking Yesterday & Today

with Bea Smith

gloves were soon stiff with dirt and the cold. But we stuck with it because we thought we were getting rich and anything was better than going to school.

If Papa was getting $1 a bushel for his potatoes he might pay us 10 cents a bushel for picking them up. If he only received 25 or 30 cents a bushel, which he did some years, we only got two or three cents but we hung in there because we had never seen so much money.

We picked up potatoes before we were able to move a bushel size crate, so we filled a pail and emptied them into the crate.

Mother said she could not get us filled up. The brisk autumn air and the work gave us a terrific appetite, though sometimes we could hardly stay awake long enough to eat our evening meal.

During potato digging time mother cooked a chicken almost every night and at that time of year she had lots of fresh garden vegetables and fruits from the orchard. She made luscious apple pies and one of her old stand-bys was boiled dinner.

MOTHER'S BOILED DINNER

You can start with almost any kind of meat—a hunk of ham, brisket of beef, or corned beef, but mother usually had pig hocks.

She cooked the hocks in a six or eight quart kettle in water to cover. When the meat was almost tender she removed the skin and fat from it and added the vegetables. You will have to add salt and pepper to taste because some meats are saltier than others.

Add:

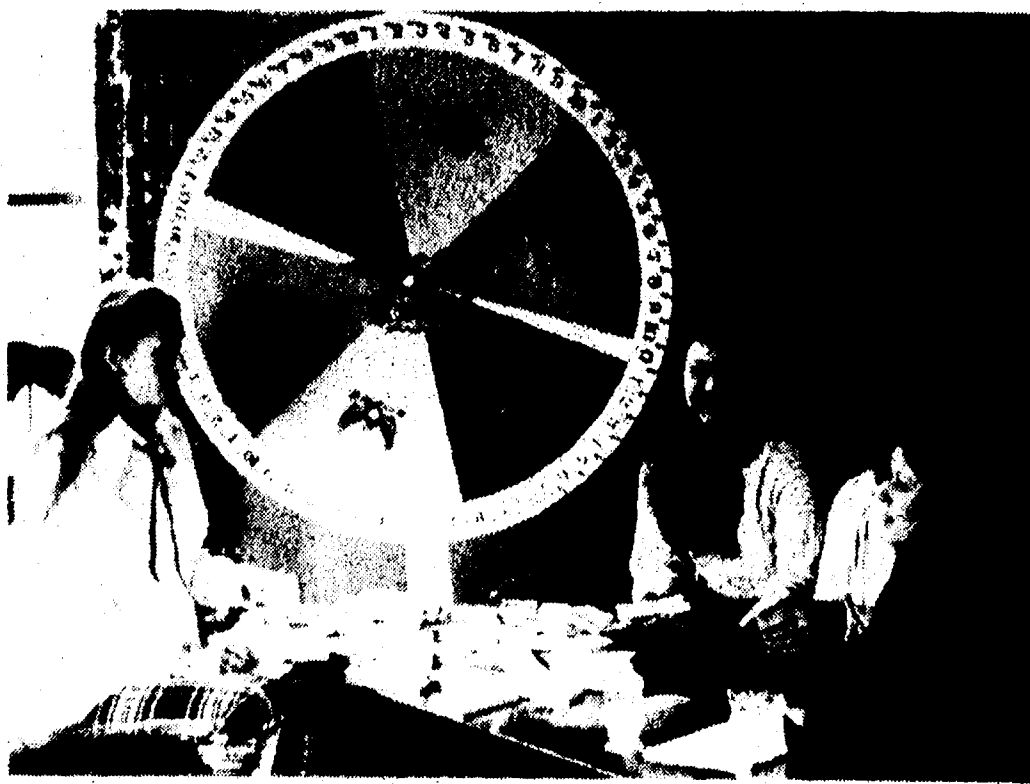

1 bunch carrots, sliced thick
6 medium sized onions, whole if not too large
6 potatoes whole
1 rutabaga cut up in good size pieces. It just would not be a boiled dinner without rutabagas.

Cook these until almost tender, then add wedges of a good-sized head of cabbage and cook some more. Serve this with homemade chili sauce or a big bottle of ketchup.

Mother always had a cruet of vinegar on the table to put on the cabbage. Big hunks of homemade bread to sop up the juices are also in the picture. This is still one of my favorite meals.

Will there be more Jesus Ads?

Did you see the Jesus Ads? If you did, what were your thoughts concerning them? Do you want to see more of the same type of ads in the paper?

As of now the Jesus ads are paid for and we have set up a special Jesus ad account that will provide new ads as the money is built up enough to do one. We have $25 in the account. If you do give toward this cause and the fund does not build up enough to go ahead with this plan, then you may either write New Life Book Store or come in and receive a refund. Records will be kept.

Jesus ads were placed in the paper specifically to draw people's attention to the fact that Jesus is Lord, and that he is coming again to this earth to take away his own people and that you could be one of the them for the choosing. There was no church mentioned in the ads and no one person totally responsible for the ads' being in. Obviously someone prepared them for the paper, but we want all eyes to turn to Jesus in these last days and be expecting him to come very soon.

If you are a Christian and want this area to know the message of his coming, send you money earmarked... "Jesus Ad" to the New Life Christian Book Store, P.O. Box 56, Boyne City, MI. 49712. If you have questions that these ads have raised in your mind and need some answers, contact the above address by mail and your letter will be given prayerful attention. Just put Jesus Ad on the envelope.

Rambler quarterback Todd Neville (32) breaks loose for some yardage against Cheboygan...but unfortunately for Boyne City, there weren't many big gains like this. (Photo by Tammy Thayer).

Second place at stake BC hosts Charlevoix

BOYNE CITY - Second place in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference will be up for grabs when Boyne City hosts nearby rival Charlevoix at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

The Ramblers are having their best season in quite a few years and could finish with a 7-2 mark if they can beat the Rayders.

A victory would also probably give them a tie for second place in the league with St. Ignace. The Saints are 5-1, but they must play invincible Cheboygan in their finale.

A Rambler win and a Saint loss would tie both squads at 5-2 in the league. "If that happens, we'll feel like we took second," says Coach Bob McCullough. "since we beat St. Ignace."

Some top individuals Boyne will be trying to stop are tailback Mark Beaudoin, who gained 106 yards last week; quarterback Scott Kelly, and 6-5 end Ross Carey.

Kerry Krusel has been Boyne's leading runner of late, while Todd Neville has been a standout at quarterback.

The Ramblers were no match for Cheboygan's 28 game winning streak last Friday as the Chiefs took a lopsided 60-0 decision.

"They're a very, very good outfit," McCullough said of Cheboygan. "They execute terrifically well. They had a lot of big kids and they sure did smack it to us."

"Paul Pfahler and I have seen a lot of football teams over the years, but we both agreed that this was the best executing team we've ever seen."

Runner goes to state on 'desire and guts'

BOYNE CITY - Senior Tim Crumbaugh qualified for the state finals in cross-country running Saturday on the strength of "desire and guts."

Coach Bob Wollenberg says "Tim probably doesn't have quite as much natural ability as some other guys we've had here. But he has more desire and guts than anybody I've ever coached."

"He runs on pure desire," Wollenberg said. "He has terrible form when he runs, and his knee goes out on him sometimes...but he's a super guy and he's made himself into a great runner."

Crumbaugh qualified for the state finals by placing sixth in a field of 105 runners in the regional meet at Ludington.

This Saturday morning, he'll run in the state meet in Clare. The rest of the Rambler cross-country team will accompany Crumbaugh and Wollenberg to watch the meet and cheer him on.

It's an annual outing for the team, which they pay for with a 20-mile fundraising run. After the state meet, they will tour the Central Michigan University campus and go out to dinner at a nice restaurant in Mt. Pleasant.

Two other Rambler runners narrowly missed qualifying for the state meet. Matt Irwin placed 30th and Brian Vroman took 31st place in the regional, but only the top 23 runners qualified.

Crumbaugh also ran well in the Gaylord Individual Invitationals on Oct. 21. The course was three miles long; he managed to clock a time of 16 minutes, 17 seconds. Brian Vroman Mike Hulett also won medals, with Vroman's time being 16:56 and Hulett's 17:01.

BCHS offers cage clinic

BOYNE CITY - Stan Kellner, author of the book "Taking it to the Limits," will appear at the basketball clinic to be held on Nov. 8 at the Boyne City High School gym.

The clinic is open to interested youth and adults and will deal with basketball-cybernetics, a unique mind-training formula developed by Kellner, who was a high school coach in Brentwood, New York. Kellner's team compiled a 166-20 record in the past eight years, going seven seasons without losing a home game.

Advance cost for the clinic will be $3 for coaches or adults and $1 for students in groups of seven or more. Tickets may be purchased at the door and will be $6 for coaches and adults and $2 for players and students.

Members of the Michigan High School Basketball Coaches Association can register at the door for $5. All checks should be made payable to the Boyne City Sports Booster Club.

Kellner is presently head basketball coach at C.W. Post and this past season was added as special coach to the N.B.A. 76'ers to present his unique formula for success. He is a frequent speaker at medalist clinics across the United States.

Early enrollment and group participation is being encouraged by the sports booster club. Sandwiches and refreshments will be sold at the clinic. For additional information contact the clinic director, coach Bob Taylor at the high school, 582-6587, extension 6.

Season finale Saturday

Perfect league mark at stake for EJ

EAST JORDAN - The Red Devils have already wrapped up at least a share of their third straight league title, and they'll be able to win it outright if they win their last game of the year Saturday afternoon.

East Jordan will be playing at home for the season finale, and if the 1:30 p.m. game works out to their liking, they may schedule some more Saturday afternoon games in future years. "We've played on Saturday afternoon at Inland Lakes and on Saturday night at Gaylord," said Coach Frank Holes. "I really enjoy Saturday games, especially in the daylight. If we get a lot of fans, we'll probably have some more Saturday games next year."

Bellaire sports a 2-3-1 Ski Valley League record this year, whipping Harbor Springs 33-0 in their last outing.

The Eagles' squad is small in numbers but big in size, Holes said. "They have five guys over 200 pounds," he said.

Bellaire's best runner, he said, is halfback Tracy Lovett, who has six touchdowns in six league games. "He's good...He's the man we have to stop. He runs the option play real well, so our ends are going to have to be tough."

"We've been concerned about a letdown, but I don't think we'll have any problem this time," he said. "This is the last game of the season, and the seniors will be all fired up."

Last week the Devils drubbed Inland Lakes 54-0 on the strength of four touchdowns by junior fullback Steve Graham.

Graham hit paydirt on runs of 1, 6, 16 and 44 yards all in the first half. All together, Graham ran for 171 yards in 11 carries. He now has 14 touchdowns and five conversions for 94 points in six league games.

Calling him "one of the finest running backs in the state," Holes said

Graham has both the size and speed to play football at a major college."

Also scoring touchdowns for the Devils last week were Bill Spence and Tom Peters on short running plays, and Randy Morris on an 18 yard pass from Del Ingalls.

Peters also had a fine day of running, picking up 100 yards on 14 attempts. Spence had 55 yards in six carries.

Steve Hilden paced the defense once again with 14 tackles and two fumble recoveries. Ingalls and Morris had interceptions, and Duwayne Dougherty and Mike Chak recovered fumbles.

Jr. varsity streak reaches 28 games

EAST JORDAN - The Red Devil junior varsity won its 28th straight game last Wednesday, whipping Inland Lakes, 38-0.

The Devil underclassmen have now outscored their opponents 310-12 while winning their eighth game of the year.

They can complete a second straight perfect season if they win this Wednesday, Oct. 29, at Bellaire.

Coach Ted Jeffery's teams haven't lost since they dropped a 12-0 decision to Charlevoix in the first game of the 1978 season.

Fullback Bob Parsons ran for two touchdowns against Inland Lakes last week, while Bob Sherman scored on a 15 yard pass from Dan Nachazel. Mike Graham had a 60 yard run and Joe Buick scored on a 35 yard pass interception runback.

Steve Graham

He may be only a junior, but Steve Graham "is one of the finest running backs in the entire state," says Coach Frank Holes. A 5-10, 208-pound fullback, Steve scored four touchdowns in the first half last week to lead East Jordan to its seventh victory in a row. He gained 171 yards in only 11 carries. With one game left, he has clinched the league scoring title with 94 points in six conference games. Steve is the son of Kathy and Tom Spence.

Tim qualified for the cross-country state finals Saturday by placing sixth in a field of 105 runners in the regional meet at Ludington. "Tim has more desire and guts than anybody I've ever coached," says his coach, Bob Wollenberg. "Now he'd like to make all-state by placing in the top 15 in the state meet this Saturday in Clare."
