Red tape slows heating assistance

BY KATHY JOHNSON

As winter approaches and heating bills increase, the thoughts of many will be turning toward how to afford this expanding expense.

Last year low income residents of Michigan found there were a variety of possibilities to help ease the crunch of winter costs. This year residents will still find a variety, but due to some confusion by local agencies and lack of information from Lansing, needs may take a little longer to get resolved.

The programs for heating assistance were handled under the Labor Department last year, with the Department of Human Services handling the program locally with the assistance of the Department of Social Services.

This year the program has been switched from the Labor Department and will be handled by the Department of Social Services, with possible assistance from the Department of Human Services.

In making calls to determine the types of help available, there were many referrals from one agency to another and from one individual to another.

Several of the existing programs have not only changed departments, but they have changed guidelines, amounts, and/or methods of payment. In some cases, only the names remain the same.

There is at least some justification for these changes. One employee of the Department of Social Services who preferred to remain nameless explained that there was one program where checks were sent to elderly living in retirement homes to assist with their heat.

Many unscrupulous persons involved with the homes had the elderly sign those checks over to the homes. In an attempt to get "off the hook" the nameless employee said, "The government then suggested that those who received checks and didn't need them for heat, either use them for warm clothing or send the checks back."

Another program made it possible for an individual with money in savings and possibly valuable other property to receive a $370 heating credit if their "income" fell below a certain level.

This year under the auspices of the Department of Social Services the Low Income Assistance Program (LIAP) will have a few changes. These changes are adding further to the confusion because local offices are not yet fully informed as to how much they will be handling, guidelines, and the amount of money available.

The Emergency Needs Program is another assistance program being handled by social services and the Department of Human Services will 'probably' be handling the Emergency Energy Assistance program.

If you have a question as to whether or not you are eligible for assistance, or if you need assistance now, contact either the Department of Human Services in Petoskey or the Department of Social Services in Charlevoix.

Both these agencies have employees who are available to answer questions, just as soon as the answers get fully resolved and sift down from the main offices in Lansing.

LIAP includes three segments and those and the other programs available are discussed below, to the extent that answers are currently available.

TAX CREDIT

The first segment, which provides the slowest assistance, is the tax credit. According to Bonnie Warden, assistance payments supervisor for the Charlevoix County Department of Social Services, pamphlets and forms will probably be available with tax forms to file for this credit.

HEATING ALLOWANCE SUBSIDY

This segment is already in force and is for those people who are receiving Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) or General Assistance (GA) grants. These people should have already received an increase in their heating allowance. This increase is based on the inflation rate and occurs each year about this time.

SUPPLEMENTAL FUEL COST PAYMENTS

This segment will provide the extra help needed for many families. Warden explained that, providing the state is able to come up with the money, anyone who is receiving ADC or GA funds would receive a lump sum "energy draft."

This draft will be over and above the heating allowance subsidy and would then be sent by the recipient to the fuel company. Individuals whose rent includes heat would receive a direct payment.

Most of the above programs are being handled by the Department of Social Services directly out of Lansing.

EMERGENCY NEEDS PROGRAM

The Charlevoix County Department of Social Services is handling the Emergency Needs Program. This is a year around program to aid those who suddenly find themselves in a position of having their heat cut off.

Warden explained, "Last year we received new guidelines for this program during the winter and that would then put it under LIAP, but until we receive new guidelines, this program is separate and is based on income and property."

"The income is around poverty level—don't ask what that is. We take each case on an individual basis and have to consider all the facts, size of family, income, property, and the seriousness of the need," Warden continued.

This program is not for one time only. Warden explained. It could be that someone might receive aid more than once because of circumstances. If someone is in danger of having their heat shut off, they should contact the Department of Social Services in their county for information.

EMERGENCY ENERGY ASSISTANCE

This program will probably be handled by the Department of Human Services. Bill Knapp of the Petoskey office, which covers a 10-county area, explained that while last year's recipients were given a heat credit of $370, that will probably not be the case this year.

"It will be a one-time only situation this year and we don't have a set amount," said Knapp. He went on to explain that he is still waiting for the specifics of the program to filter down.

Who's that witch?

Last Friday was Halloween, which made it a fun day in area schools. In East Jordan, sixth grade teacher Kay Holley was hardly recognizable in her witch costume. Here, she's helping some students get ready for an auction where they sold, among other things, pumpkins. They also had a cakewalk and enjoyed cider and doughnuts.

Wood cutting projects create jobs, cheap fuel

BY TRISH WRIGHT

BOYNE FALLS - If you have driven through Boyne Falls in the last few months, it's a pretty safe bet that you have seen the giant wood pile that faces the intersection of M-75 and Hwy. 131. It's hard to miss. Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) workers have been cutting wood in the Chandler Hill area near Boyne Falls since last April. And, according to Art Seger, forest project supervisor, the wood-cutting project will continue all year.

The wood project includes on-site work experience and classroom training for forest management techniques, through CETA. The end product of this training experience is forestry knowledge. The by-product of the program is wood.

This by-product is available only to elderly, handicapped and low-income people.

To qualify for this wood, total household annual income must be within a prescribed range of federal guidelines.

To qualify, the total household annual income, before taxes, for a non-farm family of one, cannot exceed $4,737. To this figure, add $1,525 for each additional family member. So, for a family of four, the annual income should not exceed $9,312.

A farm family of one should not exceed $4,062 annual income, with $1,285 added for each additional family member. In this instance the farm family of four should not exceed $7,917 in annual income.

It should be noted that these are flexible guidelines and if there is sufficient need, a family may qualify for the wood even if their annual income does not fall within the prescribed range.

Usually there is a charge of $10 per face cord. However, this figure varies according to need. The wood is intended for supplemental heating. How many face cords a household receives depends on income, number of family members, age and health of the head of the household and the degree of dependence on wood as a heating source.

Seger explains that the program objectives are to employ and train the unemployed and to help low income, elderly and handicapped people who would not ordinarily be able to afford the wood. Approximately 50 to 75 families can be serviced from the Boyne Falls woodlot.

But the emphasis, Seger says, is on employment and education. "Thirty-five people are presently employed on the wood project. These people must have been unemployed 15 out of the last 20 weeks, be economically disadvantaged immediately prior to their application for employment or be a member of a family that is receiving assistance."

Doug Drake, a consulting forester in the area, developed the training program. Says Drake, "I was hired by the Northwest Michigan Manpower Consortium to provide ideas."

He adds that although there are similar programs in other states, the wood projects in the Boyne Falls and Wellston areas are new. The state program was suggested by U.S. Rep. Bob David.

"The initial project was begun on state land. Trees to be cut had already been marked by the Department of Natural Resources," says Drake. A hardwood process called Timber Stand Improvement involves the removal of low quality and diseased trees. The trees are then cut up for firewood.

Seger says, "A CETA worker is eligible to stay with the program for 18 months. The three phases of the project include forestry teaching, job training and attempting to get people ready for employment outside the program."

Seger and Drake concur that several people have completed high school as a result of the project. Drake adds that the forestry industry is a diversified field and may provide many types of jobs to those who have had some exposure to it.

HOW IS IT FUNDED?

Funds collected through taxes are funneled from the Department of Labor to the Employment and Training Administration. That office allocates money to regional centers, Michigan's regional center is Chicago.

Funds travel from the regional center to the state. Lansing acts as a prime sponsor for the Northwest Michigan Manpower Consortium, the next link in the chain. The consortium includes 10 counties. Its board of directors is There's quite a pile of wood along U.S. 131 in Boyne Falls, and it is available to low income people from this area. The wood is cut and delivered by CETA crews.

Two township supervisors lose

Township supervisors in Boyne Valley and Wilson Townships were beaten in Tuesday's election, but most other incumbent township officeholders won reelection.

The vast majority of candidates were, in fact, unopposed. There were contests on the ballot in only seven of the county's 15 townships. Here are the results from the townships where there were contests:

BOYNE VALLEY TOWNSHIP
Democrat Joseph W. Tymoc beat Joseph Topolinski, who had held the supervisor's post for 44 years. Tymoc won by a 265-201 margin.

WILSON TOWNSHIP
In a rematch of a race decided by just one vote four years ago, Raymond W. Guzniczak turned the tables on Supervisor Harvey E. Crozier Jr. Guzniczak, a Republican, won 257-190.
Democrat Linda L. Nelson will be the township clerk after defeating Robert E. Herrmann, 248-191. Winning trustee positions were Hilbert Hardy (252 votes) and Louis J. Fall, 229. They beat out Gerald Mercier (176) and Jeffery Argetsinger (161).

NORWOOD TOWNSHIP
A request to raise taxes by one mill for four years to finance road improvements was defeated, 141-115.

MELROSE TOWNSHIP
Republican incumbents Robert H. Peck with 301 votes and Kay Bills with 293 were elected trustees over Democrat Bruce G. Cotanche, who had 162 votes. Dane Jepsen was elected constable over Richard Sikorski, 291-140.

MARION TOWNSHIP
Ed Mann (299 votes) and William L. Dietrich (271) beat out Dawson Way (167) in a race for two trustee seats.

HAYES TOWNSHIP
Republicans Lloyd Kuebler, (326 votes) and Leah G. Green (301) were elected over Democrat Gwen Bascom (242).

East Jordan voters elect Morris, Gotts to city council

Darwin Morris and Calvin Gotts were elected to the East Jordan City Council Tuesday in the only two races on the ballot.
Morris beat Sanford Sweet, 150-91, to take the second ward seat.
Gotts defeated Bonnie Thomas 152-

134 in the third ward.
Elected without opposition were Archie Nemecek, who will become the mayor, and Russell Gee, who will represent the first ward.
All four council members will assume their positions in January.

Local board, staff to remain

Lakewood to merge with downstate S&L

BOYNE CITY-Directors of Lakewood Savings and Loan Association last week approved a preliminary merger agreement with a savings and loan from suburban Grand Rapids.

The merger, if approved by state and federal authorities, "would create a stronger entity for both organizations," said Lakewood board chairman Arch Wright Jr.

The proposed merger would be with Kentwood Savings and Loan, with the headquarters in Kentwood. The name of the merged S&L has not yet been decided.

Lakewood has been operating in Boyne City for just four months.

Kentwood is a five-year-old savings and loan with two branches in Grand Rapids, and additional branches in Cutlerville and Grandville. It has an application pending for a branch in Traverse City.

The merger agreement provides, among other things, that "Lakewood board and staff would have responsibility for development of Kentwood's northern Michigan operation," Wright said.

"Kentwood is a very well run, aggressive institution with a sizeable deposit base," he said. "This merger will markedly broaden our ability to lend."

"Wright said Kentwood is based in "a strong deposit area, and Lakewood is based in a strong lending area" because of the expanding Northern Michigan real estate market. The two fit together well, he said.

Despite the fact that Lakewood is merging with Kentwood after only four months of operation, Wright said, "Our reception in the community, in terms of deposits, was even stronger than our projections."

He did acknowledge, however, that the economy and the banking industry had changed dramatically in the three years since the Lakewood incorporators originally decided to form the savings and loan.

"If anyone had said the prime interest rate would go to 20 percent three years ago, you would have thought they were crazy," Wright said.

"But because of this irreversible change in the whole climate of banking, we will be much stronger with this change than if we stayed by ourselves. I think we can serve the Boyne area a lot better as a result of this merger."

For one thing, Wright said, since Kentwood is a bigger organization, its staff is more experienced in selling mortgages. "That, too, gives us more lending ability."

Wright noted that the merger agreement was unanimously approved by Lakewood's board of directors and incorporators. The present board and staff will be retained.

When the merger is approved, the Lakewood stockholders will own about 28 percent of the stock in the resulting corporation.

Wood cutting project creates jobs, fuel

comprised of one county commissioner from each of the 10 counties. It is this board that decides how best to use the funds in compliance with the state and federal regulations.

Pat Matthes, director of the manpower consortium, says, "The actual amount of dollars it takes to produce a face cord of wood, which sells for as low as $10, under this project has not yet been broken down."

She goes on to say that since the project is relatively new, the final costs have not been tabulated. It is too soon to tell if this project is under or over budget.

Matthes was unable to report the exact amount of funds allocated for the wood project. However, she said that approximately $150,000 had been paid in wages to the 80 to 100 CETA workers in the Wellston and Boyne Falls programs from April to September.

"Salaries range from $3.50 to $4.50 per hour and that is taxable income. The CETA wage is better than unemployment, because it is taxed," says Matthes. "Although it may be a high cost program because of supplies and equipment, I think it is justifiable. The project is performing a service to forest lands and producing good work skills."

COMPETITION AND ELIGIBILITY

According to Seger, the program is essentially non-competitive with private enterprise. "We don't compete with anyone. We're doing work that wood cutters wouldn't. And our customers are the ones who can't afford wood. That's why we follow the federal poverty guidelines.

Drake adds, "It was not our intention to interfere with any private enterprise. I don't think that we have." The wood project office is open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Mondays through Fridays. It is located next to The Whistle Stop Restaurant in Boyne Falls on U.S. Highway 131. Applications for wood are taken at the project office on Tuesdays and Thursdays only, from 9 a.m. to noon.

The Human Services office, a federally funded community action group, screens applicants and verifies their income at the wood project office on Tuesday and Thursday mornings. Anyone wishing more information about the wood allowance may call the project office at 549-2294.

County clerk wins her first election

County Clerk Jane Brannon, who was appointed to her job earlier this year, easily won her first election Tuesday.

With about half the votes counted early Wednesday morning, Brannon was leading Thure (Eric) Erickson, 2,622 to 1,275.

Brannon, a Republican, lives in Hayes Township. Erickson, a Democrat, lives in Boyne Falls.

Brannon was deputy clerk for County Clerk Clarence Rabach for five years before being appointed to replace Rabach when he retired in March.

Other county officers, all Republicans, had no opposition on the ballot and were reelected. They include Prosecuting Attorney Scott Beatty, Sheriff George Lasater, Register of Deeds Steven Pond, Treasurer Anah Potter and Drain Commissioner Clayton Healey.

A write-in challenge to Sheriff Lasater didn't make much headway. Candidate Wayne Chapman, who was one of four losers to Lasater in the August Republican primary, had only 118 votes with half the precincts counted.

Incumbent Democrat Ralph Harmon easily won reelection to his District 7 seat on the County Board of Commissioners. Harmon outpolled Republican Thomas Kondrat 428-214.

This was the only contest among the 15 county commission districts. Harmon and 13 other incumbents were reelected. Boyne City Realtor Martin Bieganowski will be the only new commissioner by virtue of winning the Republican primary in District 5.

In other voting, Charlevoix County residents followed regional and state trends for President, Congressman, State Representative and the seven state ballot proposals.

Ronald Reagan, who defeated President Jimmy Carter in Michigan on his way to a national victory, also won in Charlevoix County. He was beating Carter 2,201 to 1,584 with half the precincts counted.

Incumbent Congressman Robert Davis and incumbent state representative Ralph Ostling and Steve Andrews also won easily in Charlevoix County and throughout their districts.

All seven state ballot proposals were losing by substantial margins statewide and countywide.

We're glad you asked!

Don't let state aid cuts hurt Boyne Community Education

Recent state budget cuts have moved the Boyne City School District out of the state aid formula, which could hurt the local Community Education program.

Last year, the Community Education program received $23,000 in state aid to help finance its $59,000 budget. Another $22,000 in revenue came from other state and federal sources plus class fees, leaving only about $13,000 or 22 percent of the program's budget to be paid from local tax revenue.

With the loss of $23,000 in state aid, however, we're afraid that the program might be eliminated in some future year because it would be an "easy" cut to make. The current school board and administration seem to be supportive of Community Education, and we hope that feeling is maintained. We think a case can and should be made for keeping Community Education whether it is reimbursed by state aid or not.

Community Education provides two main types of service—high school completion classes for adults and enrichment classes and recreation activities for all ages.

Things like enrichment classes, recreation programs and craft shows aren't really necessities, but they generally pay for themselves. What Community Education provides is a way to organize these types of things and a supervised building in which to have them.

Editorial

Opening up our school buildings for an extra 20 hours a week for use of the people who paid for them is, we think, a worthwhile endeavor.

The high school completion programs are probably the most crucial and certainly the most expensive to administer. By nature, these classes must be small and specialized because they are often serving adults who had difficulty finishing school the first time around.

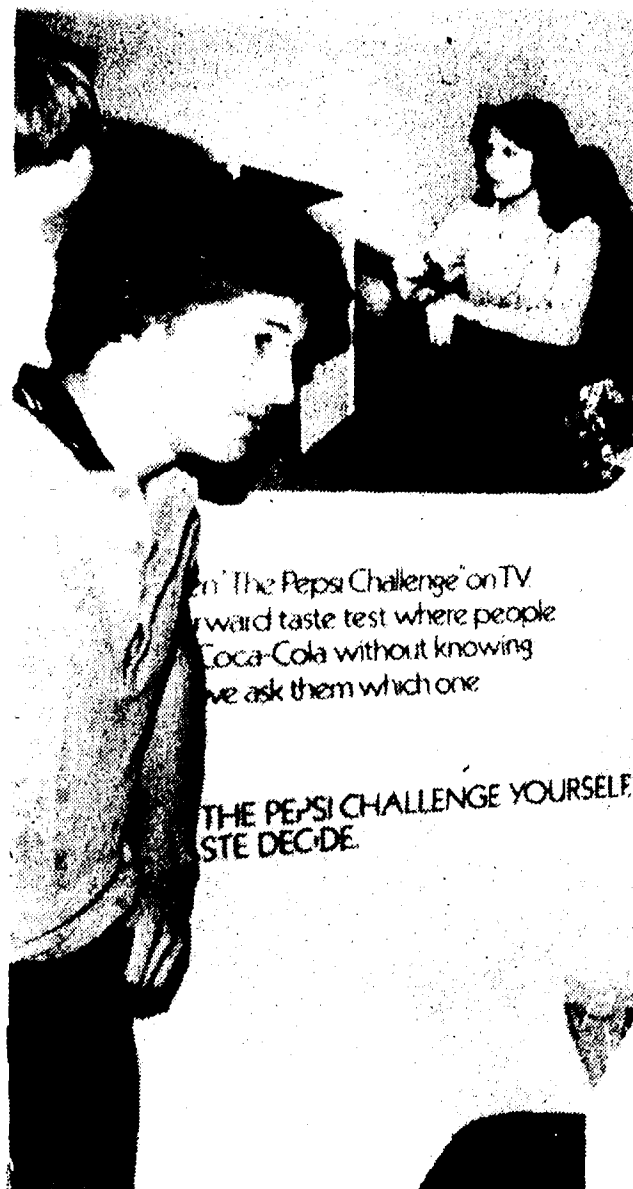

Because these classes are more expensive, we think it is unfortunate and unfair that the local school district does not receive state aid for providing such services. We hope our local school officials point out these inequities—which could threaten the future of the program—to our state representatives.

After all, if Community Education programs, which provide job skills and social skills are eliminated, then some other state program will probably have to carry an increased burden of providing those skills in future years.

Other avenues might also be explored. In some parts of the state, Community Education programs which have lost their state aid have formed consortiums with neighboring districts which have not lost state aid. Although this seems to be a roundabout way of handling the problem, it would at least provide a means of gaining state aid for a program which truly deserves it.

In any event, we urge the school board and administration to take a good look at their options concerning Community Education in the coming year with the goal of perpetuating what we feel is an important function of the school system.

Boyne City High School students, Brad Musser and Tim Winters, conducted their own Pepsi Challenge during lunch periods last Wednesday. Out of the 127 students tested, 63.7 percent preferred Pepsi to Coca-Cola. According to Jerry Glaser, local Pepsi route manager, approximately 400,000 people have taken the taste test nationwide. Michigan has an average of 62 percent of the public preferring Pepsi to Coke, he said.

Good manners in parking lot

Editor,

Have you ever seen something that really galls you and wished that you could shout out about it? Well, there have been two things bugging me and I'd like to air my thoughts and feelings. Both irritants have to do with grocery store parking lots. The first deals with grocery carts and the second with how people park.

All of us are very conscious of the rising costs of our food bills but very few seem to appreciate the high overhead our grocer has. We even take for granted the expensive convenience of a grocery cart.

The usual shopper, upon entering a store, will test her cart to make sure it rolls properly. But after making her purchases, she will roll that smooth rolling cart out into the parking lot, deposit her food into her car and leave the cart stranded and vulnerable to all kinds of damage.

Few of us realize that a grocery cart can cost up to $100 each, not to mention upkeep and periodic sanitation. And there is also the expense of an employee to go out and collect the abandoned carts.

Our good friends up at Country Star Market tried to correct some of this problem by installing a "pickup door." Aw, but many of our selfish neighbors can't walk more than 50 feet to get into the store and insist on parking in a "no parking" zone, making it impossible to drive up to the pickup door.

Not only does this illegal parking make it impossible at times to get in and out of the parking lot, but surely it creates a hazard should there be a fire in one of the plaza stores.

Edward's IGA has a nice big parking lot, but notice the haphazard way that people park. Again, everyone wants to park right up by the door—some even on the sidewalk. And carts are left to roll out into Front Street.

Now, I can understand a handicapped person wanting to park near the building, but I have yet to see anyone who looks anything but lazy parking up front.

It also seems strange that many women even ask that the sack boy (or sack person) go out and load their car with their purchases. I always wonder what big strong fella is at home to unload them for her...most men are off trying to earn a living for their families during the day. Just seems to me that if I can carry my groceries from the car into the house I surely can load them from a cart into my car....

Some of you readers are probably thinking...this lady is trying to take jobs away from the kids working in the grocery store, or you're grumbling about the unorthodox way the plaza parking lot is marked.

No, I don't want to take jobs away from our young people. Actually, if an employee didn't have to take the time from his regular work, he could be inside sacking other customers' groceries or stocking shelves, which is what he was hired to do.

I also thought the plaza parking lot was rather crazy until the uniform uphill parking was explained. I there were slots heading downhill, during the bad winter months, it would be impossible for some cars to back uphill out of a parking slot. Think of all the frustration and fender benders.

Lately, the American public has been on an economic spree, spending hours jogging or dollars for exercise classes. It would seem to me that we are overlooking the best and easiest way to both economize and exercise at the same time.

Next time you are at the market, why not park in a proper slot, walk a few extra steps to the door, and if you push your groceries out in a cart, why not return it to the store? You will have gotten some exercise, saved the grocer an expense which he has to pass on to his customers; and saved the fire Marshall some gray hair!

'Good' stories about schools ought to be required reading

Since the beginning of the school year, I have had several opportunities to visit Charlevoix County schools and nursery schools. On every occasion I have been impressed by students, faculty and office personnel.

Recently two sophomores at Boyne City High School conducted their own Pepsi Challenge. This taste test between Coke and Pepsi was an experiment for a media class. What could have been a poorly organized, lunch time show turned out to be a real exercise in control and tabulation.

Although the onlooking crowd of students was very interested in whose turn it was to make the decision of taste, they were not so eager as to prevent a reporter and her camera from getting through to the front. And instead of being overly "camera happy," they were reluctant to face the lens.

Questions asked of them were answered courteously. And, extra film that the not so "camera ready" reporter needed, was fetched in a flash from a nearby classroom.

Information needed for the Halloween page in last week's "Fun Section" of The Press was gathered from four county elementary schools. Of the four schools called, only one did not have the complete list of Halloween activities. However, that school did call me back within a very short period of time and even apologized for my having to wait.

Trish Wright

This year I have visited two third grade classrooms in search of Halloween creations. The third graders were a little more excited about having their picture in the paper than the high school students, but their exuberance was matched by their good manners. I witnessed a mutual respect between teachers and students that is worthy of mention. Too often schools are described in a derogatory manner.

The nursery school teachers that I have interviewed intelligently reflected the educational philosophy of their district's school system or, as with the Montessori School in Charlevoix, a more individualized program of their own.

The East Jordan, Charlevoix and Boyne City nursery schools are all more than the term "day care center" connotes. They are mini-schools that teach everything from cooking to communicating.

It has come to my attention that a recent Boyne City High School graduate is now at the top of her Alma College math class partly because of the computer training she received in her high school math class here. According to her professor, that training was superior to any that the other members of the class received.

Millage battles, the teacher strikes, child abuse and the horrors of juvenile crime grab the headlines. The honor society and good citizenship stories usually do not. Recognition of outstanding educators and students may not always make the front page, but I hope you look for them. They should be on everyone's required reading list.

Another junk mail junkie

Editor,

I've been wanting to tell you how much I enjoyed Kathy Johnson's column in the Oct. 9 issue of The Press. "I'm hooked—a junk mail junkie." My mailbox is full of the same, exactly. I am on everybody's list. I think!

Unfortunately, I waste a good many 15-cent stamps, trying to fulfill my dream of winning a big sweepstakes. Sometimes I even succumb and order something from those fancy catalogs.

when I know full well the items are overpriced.

Do you also get two or three of the same catalog, with your name or address spelled just a little wrong? I get so many duplicates!

I have tried many times to get my name (names) off mailing lists, with little success. I get pretty upset at my stuffed mailbox, and my stuffed trash bags!

Rose Elzinga

I don't even know who's president

I do not know who is president of the free world. That's because this column is being written on Saturday, three days before the election.

If it had been written on Wednesday, the day after the election, the deadline would have been passed and there would have been no column in this week's paper.

And that would have given rise to much leg-slapping and whooping and hollering in the back rooms of the city hall as well as in the far reaches of East Jordan. It ain't fun being missed with a whoop and a holler.

As I said, at this sitting and typing I do not know who is president. It is the first time in my life that I have not known who is president. But perhaps it's just as well. Knowing who is president might make me sick.

If I had the necessary foresight I would know who was elected and I would be in a position to make the proper derogatory remarks.

But, like the average American, my foresight is in a mess. There always seems to be plenty of hindsight to go around, but foresight is hard to come by.

Marshall Sayles

I have tried to beat the other guy by sharpening my foresight to make a cool million. But, like you, I've always wound up with my hindsight winning the day.

This doesn't make for a lot of sense, but you know something? I think I've done pretty well for a grown man who doesn't even know who is president of the United States.

Serious stuff: They said it was because parents stayed home to take their kids out to "trick treat." They said it was because of the high wind and biting cold. They said it was because of the 52 gate.

These were some of the reasons given for the low turnout at Boyne City's Parents' Night football game with Charlevoix Friday night, the last game of the season.

When the parents were introduced and walked onto the field with their Rambler sons, the Boyne City stands were empty. There were few people on the sidelines. Before the game started we judged there were about 25 or 30 people on the Charlevoix side of the field, in addition to the Red Rayer team.

What a contrast to 10 or 12 years ago when Charlevoix played Boyne here. Fans circled the field four or five deep including the end zone area. On that night a local policeman estimated that between 2,000 and 2,500 people filled the area. He may have exaggerated some, but if you were in the third row back you couldn't see the players.

A person usually does what he wants to do most. And Friday night there were a large number of people who didn't seem to give a hoot that the Boyne Ramblers were playing their hearts out to beat their once fierce rivals, the Charlevoix Rayers.

The overwhelming city-wide excitement of high school football as we used to know it could very well be on the way out.

That's not a shame. It's a downright blunder.

It seems evil to chop this off, but when a man has told all he knows I think he ought to shut up.

Next week: How I can do two things at once—snore while dreaming. Stay fumed.

School board meetings can get lonely

A few weeks back there was a reshuffling of duties here at The Press and I was assigned to cover the school board meetings in Boyne City.

The millage election was over and meetings would probably be short and with the exception of a few questions from those attending, the meetings would probably be pretty run-of-the-mill, I thought.

Surprise!

So far the meetings that I've attended haven't been short or run-of-the-mill, and there have been few questions from the audience. The lack of questions is easy to understand.

First, Superintendent Rich Kelly is extremely good at presenting the facts and information in such a way as to make questions almost unnecessary. He comes well prepared and provides information in a very orderly fashion.

Kathy Johnson

Secondly, when the only persons attending the meeting besides the school board, include two representatives of the local media and three school principals, there aren't a lot of people to ask questions.

Where are all the people? Doesn't anyone care how the money is spent now that the millage is passed? Does it not matter?

Doesn't anyone want to know that because of state cuts our schools are being operated on a budget that only leaves a balance at the end of the year of just over $2,700 on a total of $2.7 million?

About one tenth of a percent is a very slim margin for error. And that budget is filled with gambles that may or may not pay off. Gambles that include items like fuel for the buses and heating the buildings.

Our school board has done a tremendous job of trying to live within the meager means we've given them. But doesn't anyone care? It is embarrassing to sit in the "crowd" and have more of them up there than there is "crowd."

Recently policy was set regarding who could use the school buildings and what they would pay. Those on the school board seemed to have some pretty strong feelings about the usage of the buildings.

But there was no one else there besides two reporters to give the board any input. A committee was formed to present policy suggestions at another meeting. They returned with sugges-

Meetings can be lonely

Long hours were spent over the decision as to who could use the building. Now that the millage has been approved is there no one who cares about the usage of the building? It costs money to open the building to outside usage.

Don't misunderstand. I've never been to a meeting before now either... and I didn't have any excuse. Now what's yours? Do you care? Do you want a chance at input before the heat costs more? Before there is some unexpected expenditure?

Because some members of the school board will be attending another board meeting on Nov. 10 (the regular meeting day), the next meeting of the Boyne City School Board will be on Nov. 17. There's your opportunity.

Other area school board meetings will be held Nov. 11 in East Jordan, Nov. 17 in Boyne Falls, and Dec. 1 in Charlevoix.

Isn't the time to care about the school and what happens, now? Before the horse gets out?

Senior elected Good Citizen at Boyne Falls School

BY TRISH WRIGHT

BOYNE FALLS - Sally Bauman, Boyne Falls High School senior, might be described as having outstanding leadership, dependability, service and patriotic qualities. That, at least, is the opinion shared by her teachers.

Bauman has been chosen by the faculty at her school to compete in Michigan's good citizen competition.

The contest has been sponsored by the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution since 1934. Because it was the belief of the society that outstanding young people deserve recognition, a good citizen's contest was established in high schools.

Sally Bauman is the third daughter in her family to receive this distinction. Judy Bauman was selected as the Boyne Falls High School Good Citizen in 1977. Their sister Kathy was the 1980 recipient. Kathy and Judy are now students at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey.

And this year, Sally, the youngest sister, carries on the tradition. Sally explains that she and her sisters have been encouraged scholastically by their parents, John and Gladys Bauman.

"We have rules and regulations to follow at home," says Sally. "But, they are not overly strict, just enough to keep us in line."

To compete for the state award all entrants must write answers to essay questions supplied by the DAR. The state winner will compete nationally for a first place prize of $1,000 scholarship to the college of his or her choice.

Sally, who has a grade point average of 3.77, has not decided upon a college but is seriously thinking of a career in medicine. She will attend a reception hosted by the Isabella Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution on Nov. 9 at Central Michigan University.

She is currently editor of the school yearbook, secretary of the Varsity Club and a member of the girls' softball and basketball teams. She is a member of the school band and lists music and animals as her special interests.

It's "Today's World" at Win-some Women Retreat

An opportunity for women to join together for inspiration, fellowship and encouragement will be provided by the Win-Some Women Retreat at Boyne Mountain Friday and Saturday, Nov. 7 and 8.

Theme of the retreat "Today's World" will be developed by seminars and featured speakers. Ann Kiemel, author of "I'm Out To Change My World," "It's Incredible," and "I Love The Word Impossible," will share her love and commitment to Jesus Christ in a unique way. "It's soul to soul witnessing rather than person to person."

Kiemel held the position of Dean of Women at Eastern Nazarene College in Massachusetts from 1971 to 1976. In addition to being an author of best-selling inspirational literature, she is also a widely respected and requested speaker.

Benson who is an elder in the Church of the Nazarene, an active layman in his Nashville church, a music publisher and sound recording engineer will also be a guest speaker. Benson is the author of "Laughter In The Walls," "Come Share The Being," and "Something's Going On Here."

The featured vocalist at the retreat will be Skip Ross. Ross will be speaking on the topic, "The Kings Formula For Dynamic Living," as well as sharing his ministry through music and song. Evelyn Smiley of Northville and Jeanne Jensen of Charlevoix will contribute instrumental and vocal music.

Special seminar sessions are planned as well as a community banquet for men and women of all ages. Kiemel will be giving a Christian insight to the theme "Today's World" and Skip Ross will be the featured vocalist at the dinner. The program and dinner are scheduled for Nov. 8, at 7 p.m. in the Boyne Mountain Convention Hall.

Reservations for the retreat must be in on or before Tuesday, Oct. 28, to Win-Some Women, Box 503, Petoskey, Michigan 49770. More information and registration forms may be obtained by contacting local coordinator Becky LaBlanc, 347-5236. Banquet tickets will be sold at The Charlevoix County Press office, 106 South Lake St., Boyne City.

Precious Topaz

Precious topaz is the birthstone for November. Unfortunately, it has suffered from much confusion over the years as to which material is actually correctly called topaz or precious topaz. Citrine quartz has often been called topaz or citrine topaz, but these terms are incorrect. Except for sometimes having a similar yellow color, citrine is an entirely different material and is correctly called simply "citrine."

The material we use today as topaz is an aluminum fluosilicate which comes in numerous colors—sherry, pink, reddish, pale wine yellow, yellowish to orange, blue, and colorless. Heat treatment is sometimes used to convert some pale yellow or brown stones to a good pink or a blue resembling that of aquamarine. Topaz has a good hardness of 8 but unfortunately cleaves fairly easily, so care must be exercised in setting and use.

One of the largest topaz crystals was found in Brazil and was over 600 pounds! It can be seen at the American Museum of Natural History in New York. Besides the most important deposits in Minas Gerais in Brazil, various varieties are found in the U.S., Ceylon, Burma, Russia, and Africa. Its ready availability worldwide has helped to keep its price affordable.

Breakfasts stir memories

Today was Papa's birthday. He was born the centennial year so he would be 104-years-old if still alive, though he is still here in my pleasant memories.

How I loved that man. He was warm, loving, stern, bossy and sometimes just plain funny. I've heard Mother say that the best years of their lives were when the whole family sat down to meals together every day, and I am delighted to remember those times at the table.

Mother was always trying to teach us a few table manners like don't play with your food, keep your elbows off the table and say please and thank you. However, Mother could not keep from

with Bea Smith

smiling when Papa would grab a pancake and toss it to one of us at the other end of the table, or say "Mashed potatoes are to be eaten not sculptured." Before the use of plastic dinnerware, dishes did get cracked and one time Papa picked up his plate, put it over his knee and broke it in two. "I've had that d--- cracked plate for the last time."

People who eat in front of the TV set might be "looking good" but they are also missing a few things.

Most of all I remember Sunday morning breakfasts. Mother always felt that Sunday should be different. During the week we usually had pancakes. Papa's favorite, or oatmeal. But on Sundays she made muffins, soft boiled or poached eggs and we were even allowed to drink coffee, which was half milk.

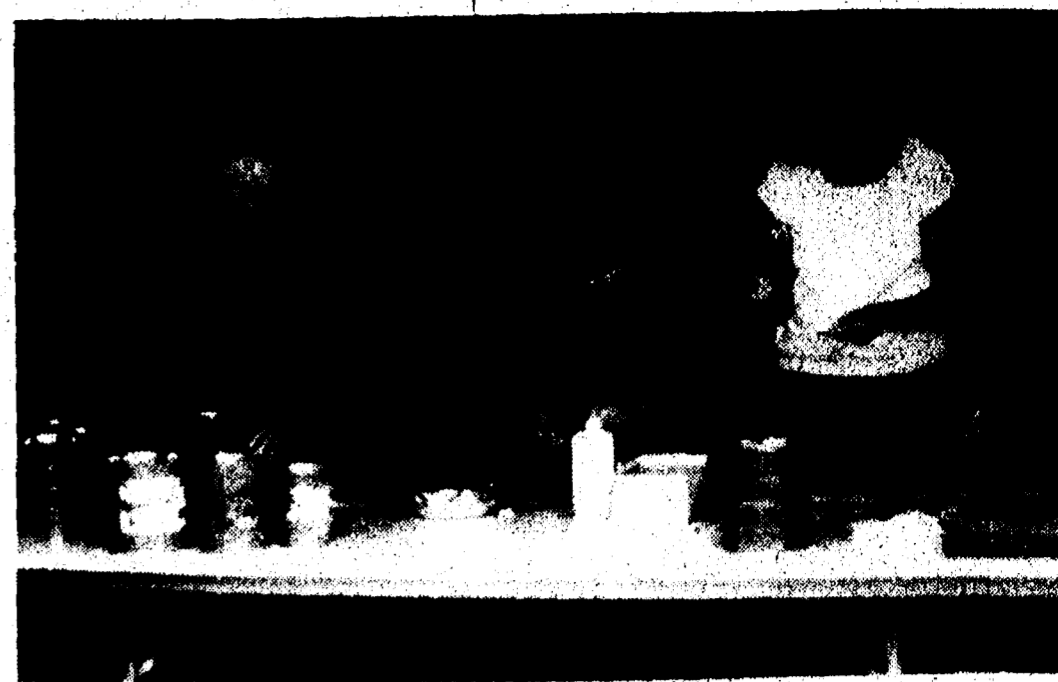

She made graham gems quite often. She had never read all the modern articles about the necessity of bulk in our diet, but she knew they were good for us.

MOTHER'S GRAHAM GEMS

- 1 cup graham flour (whole wheat)
- 1 cup white flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- pinch of salt
- 1 egg
- 1 cup milk
- 3 tablespoons melted shortening

Combine dry ingredients, add 1 beaten egg and milk and beat. Fold in melted shortening and bake in greased muffin pans 25 minutes at 400 degrees.

Serve these piping hot with lots of butter and jelly or jam. This might even get the whole family together for a meal.

Cookie walk

Members of Christ Lutheran Church in Boyne City prepare canisters for their upcoming "cookie walk" to be held Dec. 13. Empty decorated canisters may be purchased for $2 for a one-pound, $4 for a two-pound, and $6 for a three-pound. Canisters are then filled with the cookies of your choice for holiday snacks or gift giving.

Street work gets underway

BOYNE CITY - Work on five streets in the city costing $50,646.25 began last week following the city commission's Oct. 6 meeting. Prompt action on the bids took advantage of the weather and of recently low prices in heavy construction.

Hodgkiss and Douma, Inc. will be surfacing or resurfacing Franklin, Morgan, Terrace, Brockway, and Michigan.

Ditching work on Woodland Avenue, off Michigan, depends on Eveline Township's commitment of $3,000 as half the road is on their side. This work is considered vital to Michigan Avenue.

according to City Manager Tim Clifton, to protect the new surfacing on Michigan from the effects of water backing up.

The Capital Improvements Program for 1980-81 includes besides the streets: Pleasant Avenue sewer main, Lincoln Street water and sewer main and reservoir repair. The last item is required by the health department.

M and M Excavating, Inc. won the bid for water and sewer main reconstruction. The cost will be $25,821. The reservoir roof repair has not yet been bid.

Navyman enjoys globe-trotting

When Navyman Jeffrey L. Mania of Boyne City, returned from a deployment to the Mediterranean and Black Seas aboard the USS Donald B. Beary recently, it was from a trip he will not soon forget.

A 1978 graduate of Boyne City High School, Mania and his shipmates visited Spain, France, Italy, Greece, Israel, Egypt and the Black Sea port of Constanta, Romania.

"I enjoyed our visit to Romania, but I enjoyed the time we spent in Taormina, Sicily, more," said the 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Larsen of Kalkaska. "We were in Sicily in the summertime and the beaches and people made it the best place to relax I've ever been to in the Mediterranean."

Mania is married to the former Barbara A. Toton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cass Toton of 910 N. Lake St., Boyne City. They currently make their home in the Beary's home port of Norfolk, Va., with their two-year-old son Christopher Lee.

Enlisting in the sea service in September 1978, Mania said he was looking for more education. After attending several technical schools for boiler technicians, he feels he has achieved this goal.

"I feel my greatest accomplishment so far has been the high scores I've been able to maintain during my Navy schooling," said Mania, a petty officer third class. "I feel the training has helped me in my work as 'oil king' aboard the Beary."

As oil king, Mania keeps the water used in the ship's propulsion plant boilers and fuel for the ship's engines as pure as possible, a task not always easy.

"There are all kinds of things that can foul the water and fuel," he explained. "I have to make sure the water stays within specified chemical limits, and I have to be on the lookout for water and sediment in the fuel."

"The job's not easy but it's a good feeling to know your work is so vital to the ship's operation."

Manned by about 250 men, the Donald B. Beary is outfitted with modern sonar, radar, communications and anti-submarine warfare equipment. The ship is armed with Harpoon anti-ship missiles and a 5-inch, 54-caliber gun for anti-aircraft warfare and inland shore bombardment.

As a boiler technician on the USS Donald B. Beary, Boyne City Navyman Jeffrey L. Mania has to maintain strict controls on the quality of fuel and water used in the ship's engineering plant.

Auto Owners for Car Insurance

If your brand new car is totaled, will your insurance company pay you for a brand new car?

Auto-Owners will when you have comprehensive and collision coverage. If you have an accident anytime within 90 days and your new car is a total loss, we'll pay you the total cost of your new car. And with Auto-Owners, your new car is covered immediately, automatically, under your policy.

So if your present policy doesn't give you this kind of total coverage, maybe you better scrap it.

What gets blamed first when your car won't start?

Sometimes, worn plugs are the culprits.

It's a cold or damp morning and your car won't start. Don't be too quick to blame the battery though. Weather plays havoc with your car in a number of ways, and the battery is just one of them.

At 40° a battery already loses one-quarter of the power it had at 70°. When the temperature drops to 0° that battery has only one-half of its power.

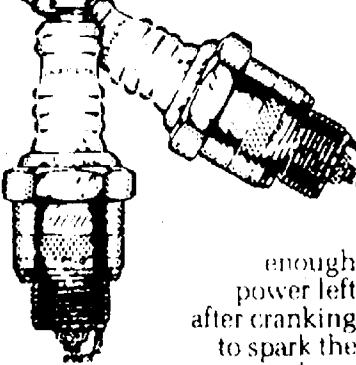

The engine doesn't have it easy either.

The weather also affects the engine. It takes 35% more power to turn over at 40° and 200% more at 0°.

What makes matters worse?

Worn spark plugs. Often they're the real cause of starting problems. Because they require more voltage to spark than new ones do. And there may not be enough power left after cranking to spark the worn plugs. The result? No power and no start.

What to do?

First, quit blaming the battery. Then get a tune-up and replace those worn plugs. It can solve cold or

- damp weather problems plus:
- Give you better fuel economy
- Reduce your car's pollution
- Give your car better all-around performance

Call or come in for an appointment today. We offer professional tune-up service, quality parts, and reasonable prices. And we only do the work you authorize.

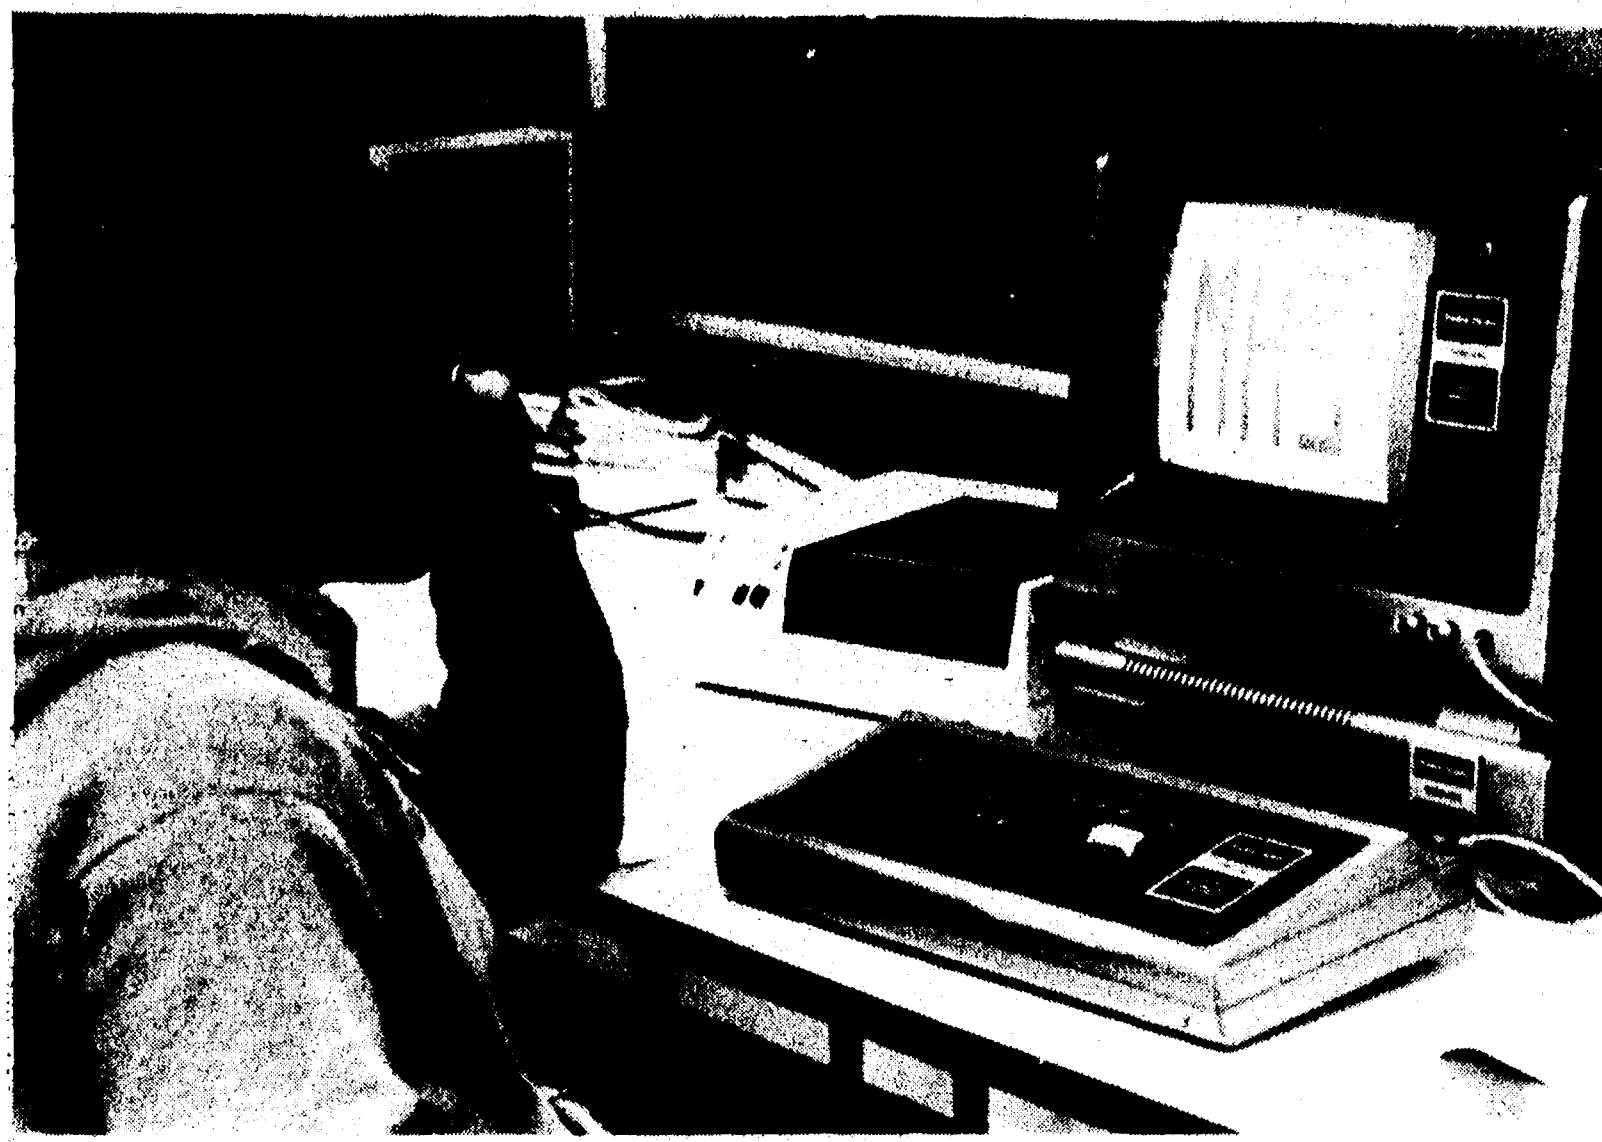

Make sure your car starts this winter with a tune-up and a fresh set of spark plugs.

Students mob computers; Teacher works for more

"I open the door at eight in the morning—and the mob streams in."

Dale Parsons was trying to explain how much interest there is in the two micro-computers in his classroom at Boyne City High School.

Some of the mob are not even taking his course in computer programming.

"The trouble is, even for his classes, two computers are not enough."

"As a teacher..." Parsons reached for the words, "You see kids really excited about something..."

Two more computers were budgeted at $850 apiece, but with state aid cutbacks, that's in the past. An effort for state grant money also failed.

With a class of 18, the two computers have day-long waiting lines, students slipping in whenever they can borrow time from other classes, even while Parsons is teaching his other math classes.

Originally computer units were taught as part of his trig class. Computers in Traverse City were used in solving homework problems—the same company that was doing the school's class scheduling.

Our Schools

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

When micro-computers came on the market, Parsons bought one to study its possibilities. He also went to Minnesota to school one summer on a scholarship for a course in computer programming.

He took the idea of having computers in school to the Lions Club and to the school board. Between them they provided $3,500 for the 16K and the 32K which sit like small TV sets at the side of the room, and where, almost incessantly, students are tapping away at the typewriter keyboards which tell the machines what to compute.

Other schools have contacted Parsons to check out the value of his program.

Valuable? Glen Irwin, the guidance counselor, whips out pages and pages of large, boxed want ads in urban newspapers asking for computer operators and programmers.

The 12,000 or so college graduates in computer science have 55,000 job openings waiting for them this year, according to College Placement Council.

Irwin adds that a friend of his, visiting Harvard University, saw students there doing their assignments on computers in a room banked with them.

"Anyone can run one," says Parsons, but he asks one year of algebra for a prerequisite for his course. Not that his students can walk right into a job at the end of one course. But they're on their way, and their skills won't be outdated even though the machines themselves are constantly improving.

So how to get Parsons' two more computers? Everyone, he notes, hears of some school need that should be filled from sports to history. Still, he says he is offering his time to teach six hours of computer programming free to anyone who contributes $25 toward the new machines. The hours can be broken into two- or three-hour sessions.

Parsons is serious. "I don't think I would be doing my job if I didn't try some way (to get more computers)."

Those who are interested should call Parsons in the evening at 582-6398. He will arrange classes for those who donate—algebra not required!

PARENTS AND SCHOOL COME CLOSER TOGETHER

A workshop for parents is scheduled to begin Tuesday, Nov. 11, at Boyne City Elementary School. The four-week program meets every Tuesday and Thursday from 9:30 to 11 a.m. (Because of Thanksgiving, the workshop will meet on Tuesday and Wednesday of that week.)

Parents of students in kindergarten through second grade are urged to attend.

The workshop objectives are to give parents a better understanding of schools and how it affects learning. Free day-care will be provided at the school.

Subjects explored at the workshop will include: vision, speech and hearing, parenting, school awareness, child development, math and language learning problems and nutrition. Several guest speakers will be sharing their knowledge of these topics with parents.

Anyone interested in the workshops may call Sherry Sheldon or Jan Biddick at the elementary school, 582-6728.

New EJ grist mill may get tax break

EAST JORDAN - The steel tower soon to rise in the city will not be a condominium, but storage bins and distributor pipes for East Jordan Co-operative's new grist mill.

The co-op has applied for a tax increase exemption under the Industrial Facilities Tax Act. This would give the company 12 years of about 50 percent lower taxes on the new grist mill.

The cost of new construction and used equipment to be moved into the new mill comes to $297,000.

A hearing Nov. 4 was to establish the required industrial development district. A second hearing will be for city council approval or refusal of the tax relief application.

Located near co-op warehouses on Mill Street, the new structure will replace the 90-year-old mill near the lake and now owned by East Jordan Iron Works.

Following zoning approval, construction began in August and will be completed by February 1981. Soil borings in an area that decades ago was piles of sawdust and then a coal yard determined the amount of concrete necessary for the 40x80 foot mill building and the 70-foot elevator.

According to mill manager Al Rich, the new steel structure will house a 100 percent-improved dust collection system. New explosion-proof motors and a safer electrical system will make operation more efficient and better environmentally.

"The least expensive way to store and handle grains is using gravity," co-op general manager Robert Allen explained. The elevator will handle corn, oats, wheat, and soybean meal and, through the selector system, will mix grains and add nutritional products like molasses.

Allen said, with bins strategically higher than the trucks they will fill, grain will no longer have to be moved by expensive, motor-driven augers.

College placement center helps students, employers

Placement coordinator at North Central Michigan College, Donna Huzek, reminds area business people that the college Placement Center is there to help employers and students.

"There are a lot of students looking for work. If employers need someone for part-time employment, they should contact our office from 8 a.m. to noon," Huzek said.

The placement office is a division of the MESC job center and has been located on campus for the past two years.

Also located at the center is a co-op program to enable students to get credit for working in jobs that relate to their studies. Anyone interested in this program should contact Tony Dunaske, co-op coordinator.

The number to call for either program is 347-3973, extension 258.

Lineman attends school

BOYNE CITY - A local resident Charles Bauman was one of several linemen from Top O'Michigan Rural Electric Company who recently attended a refresher course conducted by the Michigan Electric Cooperative Association.

The one-week school was held at Top O'Michigan's warehouse property in Grayling.

Linemen from co-ops and municipal systems throughout the state of Michigan were in attendance.

The course was designed to act as a refresher, as well as giving the linemen in attendance an opportunity to see and use the latest electrical maintenance and repair equipment available. The course covered a complete spectrum of subjects designed to help the linemen work more efficiently and safely in this dangerous profession.

REDUCING WATER HEATING COSTS

Did you ever wonder how much it cost you to heat your water? One simple way is to check your fuel bills during the summer months. More than you thought - right? Here are some tips to get that cost down.

Run your dishwasher and clothes washer only with full loads. Putting each through a full cycle for a partial load is costly because you still pay for virtually full-load power.

Set the water-heater thermostat to the lowest temperature of hot water needed. This is usually the hottest faucet water your hands can tolerate. Too high a setting means excessive fuel consumption, and extra cold water is needed from the faucet to cool it down. The water heater ordinarily can be set at 140 degrees. Experiment a little to get it to the lowest hot water temperature that is satisfactory.

Insulate long runs of hot water piping from the water heater. This usually can be done at the basement ceiling where such piping is exposed.

An amalgam of good taste

The Whistle Stop Restaurant in Boyne Falls has expanded. To celebrate their new dining room and added evening hours, the staff hosted an open house on Sunday, Oct. 26. Barbara Fiel, cook, greets guests of the open house in the new dining room.

BY TRISH WRIGHT

BOYNE FALLS - Although the Michigan Northern railroad doesn't bring many passengers into Boyne Falls, the freight train does stop there and blow its whistle.

Two years ago Barbara and Gordon Bates decided to start a restaurant on the highway side of the tracks in Boyne Falls. Appropriately, they named their new business The Whistle Stop.

When the restaurant opened in December of 1978, it offered breakfast and lunch to its customers. But, as of last week, The Whistle Stop has expanded its menu and invited the public to enjoy dinner in its new dining room.

Says Barbara Bates, "We visited this area 13 years ago and fell in love with the lakes and seasons." But, it wasn't until 1978 that the Bates family decided to leave their home in Arcata, Calif., and move back to Michigan, their native state.

When Barbara saw the building that now houses her restaurant, she pronounced it "charming" and proceeded with her culinary plans. A unique dining establishment has evolved from Barbara's foresight and hard work.

The Whistle Stop is an amalgam of good taste in art and food. Silhouettes on canvas are proffered from the walls. And hardwood tables made by Gordon Bates are themselves a gallery of interesting memorabilia.

The Whistle Stop is open every day of the week from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The restaurant opens again at 6 p.m. on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. The varied dinner menu includes stuffed whitefish, steaks, breaded pork loins, vegetarian plates and other gourmet delights.

Betty Lithen is the beautifully coliffured lady in blue seen fishing daily on Lake Shore Drive. Lithen and her husband Gilbert fish either from the shore or in their boat every day.

Let's go fishing, says retired hair stylist

BY KATHY JOHNSON

If you're one of those who travels regularly on Lake Shore Drive on the way to Advance from Boyne City, then you may have seen a beautifully coliffured redhead in a brilliant blue snowsuit out catching fish.

This attractive charmer is Betty Lithen, a retired hair stylist instructor from Benton Harbor who moved to Boyne City in 1978 with her husband Gilbert. Betty hasn't been fishing though, just since her marriage to Gilbert eight years ago.

"He taught me how. I'd never fished before, but I had to learn," said Betty. "We wake up in the morning and the first thing we say is 'Let's go fishing.'"

Betty and Gilbert fish every day, year around, unless the weather is bad. "We didn't go out last year on the really bad days, but otherwise we were out ice fishing," she said.

My first glimpse of Betty was during those cold days last year. As I'd be driving along, here would be this beautiful lady, looking quite ready to attend a proper social event, with a lawn chair in one hand and a pole in the other, going out onto the ice. They would arrive in the early morning and stay off and on through the day.

I asked Betty if she used a shanty in the winter and she said, "No. I like to be out where things are happening and I like to move around a lot. I take my auger and walk all over out there on the lake. I probably cut eight to 10 holes a day. Everyone thought I was crazy, but I'd get bored and decide to try another spot."

She and Gilbert have a spot just outside the city limits where they fish regularly. "We're getting a little tired of this spot, so we may find another one," Betty said.

Last year they were there regularly and Betty says, "I bet we walked a million miles out on the ice last year. I got to know a lot of people." Betty talks with enthusiasm and everything is punctuated by her infectious smile and sparkling eyes.

When asked if she doesn't get cold out fishing in the winter, Betty said, "No. I've got my longies on and my sweater and my snowsuit and I'm really pretty warm. Since we don't go out on the real bad days, we stay warm."

Betty and Gilbert met in Midland where he was employed by the nuclear power plant there, having been transferred from Big Rock.

"Gilbert is originally from Chrystal Falls and we sometimes go up there fishing too. But he had worked here and we decided to move here when we retired a few years ago. I'd never been here before but the fishing is great and we like other outdoor activities like swimming too," she said.

Asked about her catches she said, "I fish with nightcrawlers so I don't get any salmon. I get mostly lake trout. I did get some browns last year. Gilbert got a salmon, but we don't like it much."

This year Betty and Gilbert plan to take a trip to Florida. Betty said they have family and friends down there, but they hadn't been there before, so a winter trip might be nice. "We don't know, we'll just see what we want to do then," she said.

Well, wherever they go or wherever they are, you can be sure of one thing, Betty will be out fishing and looking beautiful all of the time.

Steve Graham (42) of East Jordan, waits for a pass to drop into his arms, but a Bellaire defender (12) has other ideas as he bats the ball away.

EJ formula: Tough practice, good athletes, dedicated coaches

EAST JORDAN—Tough practice, good athletes and a dedicated coaching staff.

Those are the main ingredients for a winning football program, says Red Devil head coach Frank Holes.

He should know. His East Jordan team just won its third consecutive Ski Valley League title. In three years here, Holes' teams have won 24 times and lost just twice.

Except for an early season loss to playoff-bound Houghton Lake, the Devils would have been perfect this year. They finished 8-1 overall and 7-0 in the league.

How does he win consistently? "Number one, you've got to have good athletes," Holes said. "And you've got to have athletes who will sacrifice for the team. They'll go home early from a dance at 10 o'clock because they have a game the next day. They'll practice on hot summer days and put up with anything you tell them to do."

"We've got good athletes here, not just football players. They are dedicated and they make sacrifices. We practice harder than any team around. We hardly ever give them a day off."

In those practices, Holes stresses fundamentals. His teams make few mistakes and get called for very few penalties.

Holes uses the same offense that his team used at Bay City Central when he went to high school there. "They won five state championships in 26 years with this offense."

"They call it the Stone Age Offense," Holes said, laughing. "It's run left, run right and run it up the middle. It's the same offense Cheboygan uses."

"It looks simple, but there is a lot of ball faking—two or three fakes in every play—and the guards are pulling out to lead the blocking on every play."

"The junior varsity coaches run the same program we run, and that helps a lot, too. The kids know what they're doing by the time they get to the varsity."

The coaching staff is another reason East Jordan has been a consistent winner, he said. Assistants Ted Jeffery, Buck Cihak and Jim Wodzinski have all played and coached football for a number of years, he said.

"Some schools our size might only have one coach who knows anything about football. My staff really knows what they're doing, and they put in a lot of hours. If we play on Saturday, we're out scouting Friday night. If we play on Friday, we're scouting on Saturday."

This year's squad had some outstanding talent, and some of the stars will be back next year.

Most notable is junior fullback Steve Graham, who has gained more than 1,000 yards in each of the last two seasons. He led the Ski Valley League in scoring this year with over 100 points.

"Anything there is to say about Steve has already been said," Holes raved. "You just don't find Steve Grahams in Class C and D schools. He could play for any high school in the state."

"We don't call him Baby Bull anymore. Now he's the Big Bull." Indeed, Graham is a solid 208 pounds on a 5-10 frame.

Two other top running backs will return next year—Bill Spence and Tom Peters.

Halfback Duwayne Dougherty and quarterback Del Ingalls will be missed badly on both offense and defense, though.

Ingalls is "very, very smart," Holes said. "It's too bad he doesn't have a degree. We could use him on the coaching staff. He's probably the one man on the team we couldn't have done without this year. He's good college material for a small school."

Holes said his entire defensive unit did an outstanding job this year, naming Todd Root, Mike Cihak, Randy Morris, Steve Hilden, Jerry Fuller, Dougherty and Ingalls as the standouts.

'We did nothing different' but Boyne has best year since '68

BOYNE CITY— "A lot of people have asked me what I did to turn it around," said Coach Bob McCullough, who just completed Boyne City's best season since 1968.

"But we didn't really do anything different this year than we did last year," he said. This year the Ramblers finished 7-2, while last year they were 0-9.

The big difference, he said, was that the Ramblers had more depth this year. "If we lost a player, we had another guy who could step in and do the job."

"We also probably had a lot more enthusiasm this year, and we had a few more kids who really cared."

"From the first day we went out to practice this year, we talked about enthusiasm and togetherness. And as it turned out, we still had a very close hallclub at the end," McCullough said.

"We were very tight. On Tuesday nights we got together at my house to watch game films and eat popcorn. When you've got a winning team, you can require those kinds of things on Tuesday nights.

"Winning breeds winning, and I'd like to think we're going to win some more in future years."

It is particularly gratifying for the Ramblers to win seven of nine games when they are playing nearly every game against schools with larger enrollments.

"It's like playing the Rose Bowl every week," McCullough said. "Our school and St. Ignace are at the bottom of the pack—we both have about 150 students less than all the other schools in our conference."

"All in all, we were real happy with the season," he said. "The kids worked real hard and they played real well except for one game, and a lot of that was my fault."

That game was a 14-6 loss at Petoskey. That came when McCullough had been out of town for several days just prior to the game because of a death in his family.

The Ramblers' other loss was to Cheboygan, a Class B school which hasn't lost to anyone in three years.

The Ramblers had a number of good players, eight of whom were named to the all-conference squad this week.

But a particular standout, McCullough said, was Kerry Kruzal. "Here's a kid who was not a regular starter on offense or defense last year, and this year he was one of the outstanding players in the conference."

Kruzal, who is a senior but hasn't even turned 17 years old yet, averaged about 90 yards a game as a halfback. He was also one of the leading tacklers on defense.

In their season-ending victory over Charlevoix last Friday, Boyne won by a 36-14 margin—but the game was closer than the score indicates.

The Ramblers led only 12-8 at halftime. Boyne's first score came when John Tompkins blocked a punt and Dave Smith fell on it in the end zone for a touchdown.

The second time the Ramblers had the ball, quarterback Todd Neville scored on a two yard sneak to make the score 12-0.

The Rayders scored in the second quarter on a five yard pass from Scott Kelly to Ross Carey. Kelly hit Dave Budy with another pass to make it 12-8.

On Boyne's first possession of the second half, Neville capped a 43 yard drive with another two-yard touchdown sneak. Then Kruzal put the Ramblers safely ahead with four straight carries for 39 yards and a touchdown.

Tompkins scored next on a 30 yard runback after an interception. A conversion pass to Daryl Tims made the score 34-8, and the reserves played the rest of the game.

Tom Peters (20) makes a sharp cut and eludes a Bellaire tackler in action at East Jordan Saturday.

EJ may drop to Class D

While East Jordan is a Class C team this year, Holes said he thinks the school will drop back into Class D next year.

The current enrollment limit for Class D is 348 high school students. East Jordan's official enrollment this year is 346, Holes said.

Dropping to Class D would put the Devils in a good position to make the state playoffs next fall.

This year they were doomed in Class C because six of their nine opponents are Class D teams. Beating smaller teams yields fewer points in the state playoff system.

The Devils' big hurdle next year would probably be Houghton Lake, the highly ranked Class C team which dealt them their only defeat this year.

And next year, Holes pointed out, Houghton Lake might even be a Class B team. "I hope they drop us," he said jokingly (or perhaps half jokingly).

In any event, the Devils look to be tough again in 1981. Although they will lose their quarterback and some defensive standouts from this year's team, East Jordan will have three superior running backs returning next year.

Steve Graham, Bill Spence and Tom Peters are all juniors this year.

BC runner 40th in state

BY RUSSELL TISON
Student Reporter

BOYNE CITY— The cross-country season wound down Saturday with Tim Crumbaugh running in the state finals at Clare. The team went along to give support, but Crumbaugh finished 40th out of 70 runners.

Coach Bob Wollenberg said that Crumbaugh did not run a good race because he fell too far behind in the beginning. He tried to pass runners later but he could not recover the lost time.

After the state meet was over, the team toured Central Michigan University. After that, they ate dinner at the Embers Restaurant in Mount Pleasant. Coach Wollenberg said he thought the team did well throughout the year. Although they didn't win any trophies the prize of competition itself made it worthwhile.

Junior Matt Irwin said that he felt he did 100 percent better this year than last season. He hopes to be in the top three of the team next year. Freshman Mike Hulett and sophomore Brian Vroman also did well. These three team members and Crumbaugh won medals throughout the year.

"Everyone on the team deserves credit for bringing on team spirit and participation," Wollenberg said. "Without these things, you can't have a team."

Pierre Raveau

Coach Bob McCullough said Pierre is one of those players who goes out for football for four years, never misses practice, plays hard all the time, but never quite made it as a starter or a star. "A few weeks ago, Raveau's hard work paid off, though, and he had finally worked himself into a starting position for the following week's game. As luck would have it, however, he broke his arm in practice a few days before the game. It healed quickly, though, and he returned to play the second half of last week's season finale, helping Boyne beat Charlevoix. Pierre is a guard and a linebacker. He is the son of Jim and Sandy Raveau.

Jim is a 5-9, 175-pound senior guard. Coach Frank Holes said, "Jim's not very big, and you don't hear much about linemen, but he is our lead blocker on all of our off-tackle plays and sweeps that go to the right side. For his size, he's an animal. I think he'd do anything for this team." Jim is the son of Kay and Jim Spence.
