'Main Street could have gone up in smoke'

"I saw that fire and I thought, 'There goes Main Street.'" Those were Bob Romback's feelings when he discovered a fire in the rear of his store, Healey Hardware, at 112 Main St. in East Jordan last Thursday night. "Our fire department did a super job. This building is 80 years old, and to save it was really something," he said. "This whole side of Main Street could have gone up in smoke." As it was, the fire was contained in the storage room of the hardware store. Smoke damage to the rest of the building was extensive, however, and the store will be closed for about two weeks until electrical power is restored. Fire Chief Dick Barnett said the blaze started near a woodburning furnace. (Photo by Mitch Ashley)

Junkyard rezoning fight has odd twists

BY TRISH WRIGHT

BOYNE CITY - It wasn't your normal run of the mill rezoning hearing.

First of all, Jerome and Shirley Matts were asking approval to operate a junkyard—but they are apparently operating a junkyard on the property already.

Opposition to a junkyard in the neighborhood wouldn't be too unusual—but one of the objecting neighbors was Matts' brother and sister-in-law.

Then, when the vote was taken by the Evangeline Township Board, the supervisor abstained—because she and her husband operate a junkyard and her voting on Matts' request would be a conflict of interest.

To top it off, after the meeting was over—with the rezoning request turned down and legal action threatened—Matts said he didn't plan to vacate his existing junkyard.

He said he might take the township to court because he was storing cars on the property before the township adopted zoning laws in 1973.

Specifically, Matts was asking for a zoning change from Agricultural to Industrial on his property which is located in the southeast corner of the township at 3218 Jefferson St. The property is near Rotary Park and is adjacent to the Boyne City limits.

Matts' purpose for requesting the zoning change was to allow for the dismantling of junk or unlicensed automobiles on his property.

The proposed change in zoning would make legal the used auto parts business purportedly in operation at this time by Matts. Complaints were heard from Matts' sister-in-law and neighbor, Yvonne Matts.

"It's been nothing but a mess since early spring," she said. "And now he's built the garage that he's been operating his business out of. There's lots of traffic on the road and even though he says it can look clean he hasn't done anything yet to make it look better."

According to Bob Matts, Jerome's brother, "Cars have been brought in twice since the last planning commission meeting. He brought in 13 cars in two days. That makes about 25 to 30 cars that he's keeping there now."

Matts countered his brother's complaint saying, "The cars are back from the roadway. They're in a sandpit. If a fence were put up, you could hardly see them."

However, the property owned by Matts is zoned Agricultural and Matts is apparently in direct violation of the zoning laws when he brings in unlicensed cars for dismantling. Township board members chastised Matts for building a large garage with the apparent purpose of using it as a place to dismantle automobiles.

The township zoning board and the county planning commission, acting as advisory boards, recommended that the Evangeline Township Board deny the request for rezoning.

Reasons cited for the denial included: the property with its current zoning has economic value to the property owner, the property owner was knowledgeable of the zoning when he purchased the parcel, rezoning would not be compatible with the city's master plan and the rights of nearby neighbors, re-zoning would be financially beneficial to the owner only, and the present zoning laws are reasonable.

A motion to deny the request was made by Elizabeth Hauser and seconded by B.J. Ellis. The motion passed by a 4-0 vote with one abstention. Township supervisor Bessie VanDorn abstained from voting because she said she had a conflict of interest. She and her husband Phil have a license for keeping junk cars on their property, on Charlevoix-Boyne City Road, for the purpose of scrap or junking.

The second issue addressed by the board involved the actual business operation conducted by Matts. Township Clerk Anne Thurston urged the board to make a resolution that would enforce the zoning laws.

According to township attorney William McTaggart, special consideration has been given Matts even though he was still operating a business. "The garage that has been built is oversized for any purpose other than dismantling."

Matts received a tongue lashing from Thurston and McTaggart for failure to observe the zoning law. McTaggart suggested the township board take action, which if successful could lead to a jail sentence for Matts.

"Matts could be arrested or the township could go to the Circuit Court and ask for an injunction," said McTaggart. "A deliberate and flagrant violation of the law has been made by Jerome Matts. He seems to think he is a law unto himself."

According to Thurston, the township has been "absolutely ridiculous in their leniency with this man. He's been told at least twice to stop operating."

Thurston made a motion that would allow McTaggart to take legal steps to cease the operation. The motion was seconded by Elizabeth Hauser and passed with another abstention by Van Dorn.

Van Dorn questioned Matts as to whether he had any plans at that time to rectify the problem. Matts answered, "No, not at this time."

EJ studies home for mentally ill

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

EAST JORDAN - Whether or not to have a home in East Jordan for six mentally ill patients is the question being studied by the city council.

At the Nov. 18 council meeting, director Sam Kaufman of the Community Mental Health Board reiterated several times the board would not press for an East Jordan location if the people didn't want it.

Kaufman told the council the board was looking at the former home of Dr. and Mrs. Klaus Heigt at 202 Winters St. as a place to house the patients. The location was favored because it is somewhat removed from neighbors who might be concerned.

Kaufman stressed that the patients who will be transferred from Traverse City Regional Psychiatric Hospital will not be criminally insane. He said no one is committed to the hospital who has been convicted of a crime.

City attorney Roy Hayes explained there have been criminals at the hospital who were placed there without having been convicted, however, Kaufman replied the six patients for the home would be those that are self-committed and in addition, they would be screened.

"These people must not be dangerous to themselves or others," he said and added they would not be pyromaniacs nor sex deviates. They are the kind of people, he said, who can be helped and trained to go back into their communities.

Kaufman referred to the many homes in Michigan for the mentally retarded and pointed to the fact they have not caused serious problems in their neighborhoods.

Councilman Ken Hagen reminded the council that the use of homes for the mentally ill, however, has "no track record." If accepted, East Jordan's would be among the first.

Councilman Al Joseph's comment was, "There is a need statewide," and asked for more study on the proposal.

The reason for these homes is, according to Kaufman, that it is believed the home provides a better environment than a ward does to help certain categories of patients with socialization.

Patients would be supervised around the clock by a total of eight people, including psychiatrists, social workers, and trained aides.

As to their safety and the care of the premises, Kaufman said, "We are more careful and more regulated than the average family is."

Kaufman's presentation was mainly for understanding. Instituting such homes does not require the council's permission. Nothing in the zoning codes prohibits their locating in a residential area.

The council, nevertheless, questioned Kaufman on the vagueness of the board's application to the Department of Social Services, in which the project was referred to as an adult foster care home.

Hagen told The Press that at first he was against it, but "I'm not against the idea." He explained he objected to the way it had first been brought to the council's attention, and he was concerned about community response.

The home would be rented from an investor who would buy the house because the board is not permitted to own it.

A similar home is scheduled to open in December in Springvale Township of Emmet County. No other homes in any community may be located within 1,500 ft. of such a facility.

Kaufman said his hope was the council members would take it to their constituents and then hold a hearing.

"Probably no more important matter," said Mayor Jim Meredith. "Has come up while I've been here."

Honesty, frugality served Topolinski well

BY TRISH WRIGHT

Joe Topolinski is a survivor, even though he was recently defeated in the election for Boyne Valley Township supervisor.

The 89-year-old Republican lost the race to Democrat, Joe Tymoc, by only 64 votes. Topolinski thinks that he lost the race because of the "power of politics."

In his 44 years of serving the people in the Boyne Falls area as township supervisor, Topolinski never campaigned. "Two friends of mine talked me into running for township supervisor in 1933. We had caucuses then."

Turn to page 4 for Trish Wright's column about Joe Topolinski.

"I was elected and served as supervisor until 1953. Then I had an opportunity to work for Boyne Falls Log Homes as a bookkeeper. I wanted to work for some Social Security benefits."

In 1957 Topolinski was again elected to the supervisor post and continued to serve until Nov. 15 of this year.

"I never campaigned for the office," says Topolinski. "I just told the people that if they thought I was dishonest or I wasn't doing my job, well then, I didn't want the job."

Apparently the people of Boyne Valley Township think Topolinski is quite honest and functioned dutifully as supervisor. The longevity of his career in public office indicates that the honesty and frugality which Topolinski was taught by his parents have served him well.

"He who teaches his child thrift and economy has already bequeathed him a fortune," says Topolinski.

From his note pad of Franklin type quotes, Topolinski reads, "You start feeding an animal and it won't want to take care of itself. People are the same way, you know. One of man's greatest enemies is the illusion that there will be more time tomorrow than there is today."

Topolinski is proud of the manner in which he served Boyne Valley Township. "If the state government was as solvent as our township, we would always be within the budget. I practiced economy, not extravagance," says Topolinski. "The trouble with government today is that there is too much being given away."

The only time Topolinski can remember being involved in government give-away was the 1932-33 WPA food distribution program that he helped administer in Boyne Falls. "The people in Boyne Falls weren't really pressed," explains Topolinski. "Everyone had a small farm and they could get by all right then."

But Topolinski believes that today's world is one in which avarice thrives, government tends to be dictatorial and the 10 commandments are ignored. "The trouble is that we have too many educated fools who don't practice good common sense," says Topolinski.

"I worked hard as township supervisor. Besides being the property assessor, I got a raise for everyone on the board last year and I've left them with architect's renderings for the expansion of the township hall."

Topolinski adds that he has no ill feelings about being defeated. He hopes it is for the best.

The new township supervisor, Joe Tymoc, says "I don't feel like a conqueror. There is no substitute for 44 years of experience. I'm going to need a lot of help." He likens the election results to a changing of the guard.

Topolinski plans to continue gardening on the farm that has belonged to his family since 1911. This simple farming environment has provided Topolinski with longevity and a lot of good common sense.

After 44 years as Boyne Valley Township Supervisor, Joe Topolinski has more time to cut wood nowadays.

We're glad you asked!

Is it important to attend a funeral?

Yes, it is, and for a variety of reasons. First, it shows you care. Your being there is appreciated by the members of the family. You can help just by offering to help and meaning it. By attending the funeral, you help share the grieving—and grief-shared is grief-diminished. Of course, if you were out of town or incapacitated during the funeral period, your not attending is understandable. In such a case, a telegram, letter or phone call helps the family understand your plight. Visiting the bereaved to offer your assistance and condolences is proper conduct. In fact, many mourners may feel it your obligation to observe this custom out of respect for the family or friendship for the deceased. If you fail to observe these simple social amenities, you may be unintentionally cutting your ties with the family of the bereaved. It behooves you to attend, to visit, to console the bereaved.

Memory of chemical plant will live on

BY TRISH WRIGHT

BOYNE CITY - "Good evening ladies and gentlemen, students and special guests, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Merchant. Welcome to the second program presented by middle school history students," said Dino Franchino, master of ceremonies at the Nov. 18 meeting of the Boyne City Historical Society.

Franchino, a seventh grade student in Bob Morgridge's history class, continued the presentation, "Tonight our subject is the Boyne City Chemical Plant. Our guest of honor is Mr. Wallace Merchant. Mr. Merchant is the person most knowledgeable about the operation of the chemical plant," he said.

Approximately 100 people listened as Franchino recounted the Merchant family history and its pertinence to the Boyne City Chemical Plant. The program included a slide show narrated by Merchant and the unveiling of a chemical plant picture that was donated to the library by Bob Morgridge's history class.

Contributions from the middle school staff and students totaled the $114 necessary to have the picture blown up and mounted by Valentine Studio. Simon Sharp and Jeff Stokes were responsible for collecting the funds.

Morgridge explains that this is the second program of this nature. "We make a contribution to the community by presenting the library with a picture relevant to Boyne City history. And we also honor a Boyne City resident who is associated with the picture subject in some way."

Last spring Mrs. Vera Tokoly was honored at a program which unveiled the picture of Tokoly's great grandfather, John Miller, the first permanent settler of Boyne City. Nov. 14 marked the 124th anniversary of the Miller family's arrival in Boyne City.

Wallace Merchant, left, and Dino Franchino proudly unveil the picture of the Boyne City Chemical Plant that was donated to the library by Mr. Morgridge's seventh grade history class.

Wallace Merchant, the guest of honor at last week's presentation, is the son of William Merchant, who moved from Boston to Boyne to supervise and improve the chemical plant's efficiency.

William Merchant later became the superintendent of the East Jordan Chemical Plant. Wallace Merchant is a retired engineer who has been associated with the automobile industry and oil refineries.

Merchant narrated the slide show that accompanied the program. "The plant was located at the present site of the Drive Gas Station across from The Landings condominiums," said Merchant. "It began operating in 1902 and became one of the world's largest chemical plants."

The inferior trees and wood slashings left by the lumbermen eventually produced two million bushels of charcoal, one-half million pounds of acetate of lime and 600,000 gallons of wood alcohol yearly. In the 1920's the wood supply dwindled and forced the chemical plant to close.

But, the memory of it shall live on due to the efforts of Bob Morgridge's history class and the co-operation of the library staff. Because of their efforts, a trip to the library is also a glimpse into the past.

Taxidermist open near Boyne

Donna Libbey has opened a taxidermy shop near Boyne City to take care of the needs of those interested in having their "legally taken game" stuffed, mounted, made into rugs or cured for other uses.

The shop is located on the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road. Anyone interested in Libbey's services should contact her first by phone at her East Jordan home, 536-7668.

Libbey is assisted in her work by her husband Kent. "Some of the hides are so large that it is a two person job to get them stretched," Donna explained.

a.m. until 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday. "Sunday's hours will be basically the same but we may close a little earlier," said Judy Newton.

The restaurant will specialize in shrimp, fish and chicken with daily specials. There will also be an early bird special, daily from 6 to 8 a.m. for just $1.06.

"We were tired of the city life and we think we've found what we are looking for here in East Jordan," said Judy.

The Newtons have moved to East Jordan from Dearborn Heights. Coming with them are two school-age children who will be working with their parents at the restaurant.

Boyne Mountain hopes to open

BOYNE FALLS - Boyne Mountain officials said Tuesday that they had not yet made a decision about opening their ski resort for Thanksgiving. Plans for the opening are dependent on the weather, indicated lodge manager Wes Swain.

"If we have snow we'll be open on Thursday," Swain said. Even without natural snow if the weather stays cold and they are able to make enough snow, the lodge may still open for Thursday.

Fireside Inn has new owners

New owners of the Fireside in Charlevoix are Dianna and Marion Raginia from Hamtramck who have purchased the inn from former owners Richard and LoriLee Kopecki.

The Raginias have been visiting and vacationing in this area for many years. Some changes are planned for the inn with some new menu items to be added.

Hours at the Fireside Inn will remain the same, 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. The inn is open seven days a week.

New owners for EJ eatery

Opening last Friday in East Jordan is the new Anchorage restaurant. Formerly the Calorie Factory, the Anchorage is located at 102 Mill St. and is now owned by Jack and Judy Newton. Hours for the restaurant will be from 6

Sewer pipes have been installed, and footings have been poured for the Harborage condominium and marina development in Boyne City—but there is still some opposition to relocating the street to accommodate the developers....

Further Front Street delays are unwarranted

The controversial Front Street condominium and marina development in Boyne City faces what is probably its last real hurdle on Dec. 9.

That's when the city commission will hold a public hearing on the relocation of Front Street. A decision could be made the same night. Final approval would then have to be granted in Circuit Court, but the court is expected to go along with the wishes of the commission.

Some last-ditch opposition will apparently be expressed at the hearing. While we think the issue deserves a thorough airing, and the Front Street plan can stand up to opposition, we see nothing that should stand in the way of its approval.

The main reason for the long controversy was the request by the developers Rick and Dave Smith of Lake Associates to close the street to the public. This proposal was put to a city-wide vote and turned down by a decisive margin.

Leaders of the "Save Front Street" group said they opposed the street closing, not the condominium project, and most of them were true to their word. Vi Manglos, probably the most ardent opponent of the street closing, says, "I'm not fighting the Smiths anymore. All I ever got into it for in the first place was to keep the road there. People don't seem to understand that." Manglos even attended the groundbreaking ceremony at the Harborage development this summer, and she wished the developers well in their $10-million endeavor.

The principal opponent at the present time is planning commission member Marv Loding. He has two major objections: that the city is trying to rush the approval of the street relocation, and that a shorter length of the street should be moved back from the lake.

While it is true that the planning commission approved the street relocation plan in less than an hour on Nov. 17, we don't really think it is being rushed. The developers had shown virtually the same plan—moving the street 350 ft. at its furthest point from the present location—six months ago in May. Drawings were later published in The Press. If there was any serious opposition, there was certainly ample time to express it.

Loding would also like to have less of the existing street moved back from the lake. While this would preserve a little more of the lake view from Front Street, it would also reduce or crowd the number of housing units which could be built between the street and the lake.

As it is proposed, we think the plan is a good one. The relocated part of the street would be at a higher elevation than the current street, which will help preserve some view of the lake.

And the economic benefits of the project can't be ignored. It is already employing about 40 people, and the first groups of condos aren't even past the foundation stage yet. The developers will pay about $200,000 just to pave the relocated street, replacing poor quality, narrow pavement on the current street.

Since $200,000 represents about twice the city's total annual capital improvement budget, it seems unlikely that this repaving would be possible in the near future without the developers' involvement.

Later economic, tax and employment benefits to the community will also be realized when the 108-unit condo project is finished and the 200-slip marina is operating.

All in all, we think the street relocation plan is a good compromise between factions who wanted the street left untouched and others who wanted it closed.

Further delays and discouragement of people who want to invest a considerable amount of money into the future of the Boyne community is, we feel, unwarranted.

Letters to the editor

We're all to blame in E. Jordan

Editor,

It will soon be time for East Jordan School District taxpayers to make up their minds on the 2.8 mill tax proposal. And the accusations are flying right and left, forwards and backwards!

To what avail, may I ask? I think all three groups are to blame for the mess we are in. I refer to the school board and administration, the teachers, and yes, we the taxpayers—and parents and grandparents, too.

There have been charges—for two or three years now—of poor communications between administration, the board and the teachers. Some members on the board ran on a platform of better communication as their goal. But from the past several months' goings-on, such has not materialized.

Doubtless the board should have started negotiations way back in early summer. The excuse that they didn't know how much money they would get is a poor one. They still don't know the answer to that one. They could have gotten some of the fringe issues settled instead of waiting until nearly time for school to start.

The teachers are asking for too much! How often have we heard that one? Well, isn't that the way all union bargaining starts out? They ask for way too much. The employer offers way too little, then they start bargaining to hopefully reach a medium acceptable to both sides.

On the bottom line an employee's value to an employer is based on how much money the employer has to spend for wages. And with the unforeseen deplorable state of the State of Michigan's finances that figure is constantly deteriorating. The State police have offered to even take a cut.

Sure, we oldsters got about 14 percent raise in Social Security. I also cut pallet bolts and raise cattle. Feeder cattle sold very erratically this fall and no better—if not less—than a year ago.

A load of one size pallet bolts brings me $34.58. That is the same price I got nearly two years ago. In the meantime with the rise in the price of gasoline and oil for the pickup, tractor and chain saw, I actually have $2 less per load.

And we, the people, have to shoulder our share of the blame. We have heard these rumors of trouble, poor communication, and what have we done about it? Well, most of us, most of the time, have sat at home watching TV and saying, "That's the school board's job. Let them settle it."

Or we went to board meetings and sometimes got ignored. So now there is a threat of recalling the school board. But as it looks now it is a case—even if successful—that it won't happen until along about time for the next school election. Anyway it is too late to help this school year in that direction.

So what do we do? Do we continue to hurl threats and invectives at the board, at the teachers, at each other? Do we vote "No" to show one side or the other that we're fed up with them or to let them know we have no confidence in either? Or shall we get on the ball and salvage as much of the wreckage as possible?

With the latest cut in state aid, the 2.8 mills are more necessary than ever. I hear that cigarettes are going up about five or six cents. Are you smokers going to quit on account of that? Really, there are few of us that couldn't get along without enough items to make up the cost. Besides, a great many would actually get 60 percent (of the property tax increase) returned, considering the income tax rebate on taxes.

Anyway, get out and vote! And when election is over don't sit on your rear end when the school board meets. Or when the citizens' committee meets. They need your help. It is high time for everyone to be accountable. It is time to start planning for a better school year in 1981-82.

The school board can't do it alone. The teachers can't do it alone. We, the taxpayers, can't do it by sitting idly by, gripping our heads off into thin air. It is going to take the very best of all of us working together to put the East Jordan educational program back to the position of being one of the best around.

We can do it! If you will help! Vote and after the election, act!

On Thanksgiving and wall plugs

As O. Henry would say, Thanksgiving is the day we Americans go back to the old home to eat and to marvel how much nearer to the porch the old pump looks than it used to.

Thanksgiving Day is the one day that's purely American. It reminds us that we live in a land of milk and honey, free to say what we wish without being strung up to the nearest telephone pole.

In some countries if you said what you really thought you would be rounded up and silenced both fore and aft.

And just to prove that I'm not afraid, let me say this: A full stomach is more important to me than all the politicians in Washington. So, there.

We have eight electrical wall plugs in every room in our house—all covered by furniture so we can't get at them. If that ain't American, I'd like to know what is.

I got my passport and visa in shape and worked my way into East Jordan. I went over to have coffee with a friend and to see how things were going in the land of swans and fire hydrants.

As usual, he feels that his town has it all over Boyne. He claims that the best thing between East Jordan and Boyne

89-year-old doesn't need a guidebook

The 1970's were supposed to be the "me" decade. The emphasis on youth and its rewards were propagandized on television, and in movies and magazines. We were told how to exercise, what to eat and how to become a more beautiful, amiable person.

Self-help books were ubiquitous. Merely by reading their contents, you could become a self-actualizing person in a very short period of time. But those days of the "lithe, likeable me" might be over. It appears that the prevailing attitude of the early 80's is one of survival and economics.

Books with dollar signs on their covers will probably be sellouts this decade. However, there are some people who haven't tried to regain their youth and don't need Sylvia Porter's financial advice. Their leisure time would not be spent in a redwood hot tub. In fact, they might not even admit that they had time for leisure.

One member of this old guard is Joe Topolinski. This 89-year-old bachelor lives on a farm that his parents purchased in 1911 and lives by the principles he was taught as a child.

"The dollar won't do as much as it once did because people won't do as much for a dollar as they once did," says the man who was the reigning Republican in Boyne Valley Township for 44 years.

"I always like to work," Joe adds.

Trish Wright

"I don't regret any of the time I spent as township supervisor for Boyne Valley." He says he loved his work and the people he represented while serving as supervisor. His only regret in life may be not having married the teacher that he admired and often quotes.

Joe's recent defeat for township supervisor in the November election has not left him bitter. He congratulates his opponent and wishes him the best.

Joe explains that the extra time he now has will be spent chopping wood, gardening, reading and studying. "Leisure time was the downfall of the Roman empire. A man's got to be industrious if he wants to be successful."

He closed our conversation by giving me some walnuts he had collected on his farm and said, "A kind word and deed done everyday makes someone happy to live."

Joe needs no modern guidebook for self-fulfillment. His hard work and kind deeds have provided him the security and happiness not found in text.

Adjusting to names, numbers, seasons

When I first moved to the North, and Michigan in particular, there was a lot of adjusting to do.

First, there are four seasons. That's right four.

In Texas we only have two. First there is summer which lasts from April 1 until Dec. 1. During the summer temperatures range from 80 degrees to 110.

Then we have winter. Winter usually starts around Dec. 1 and goes until March 30. However, it does not have to last that long. During winter the season is wet and the temperatures vary from day to day, moment to moment, from around 26 degrees to 60 degrees.

Kathy Johnson

Somewhat we usually miss the temperatures from 60 to 80 degrees. If those days occur and happen around March or April, they are called spring. Those same days in November or December are called fall.

My next adjustment was the fire sirens. Almost every night I would hear a siren going off. It was three months before I discovered that Boyne City didn't have an unusually high rate of fires but that what I was hearing was the 10:30 curfew.

Another major part of my adjustment to northern Michigan is the difference in names. In my former part of the country everyone had names like Betty Jo Cartwright, Sue Ellen Smith, Bille Bob Allen and Joe Don Pugh.

Up here everyone seems to have a six syllable last name. Your first names aren't hard to get, but I must owe an apology to at least 106 people whose last names have been badly bruised, if not butchered by me.

Having to dial only five digits to get a local phone number also has its confusions and if I forget to put the '1' in front of a Harbor Springs number I get some unlucky Boyne Cityman when the exchange drops all those extra digits and gives me some unwanted number.

Of course there are numerous nice adjustments too. Things like wild berries of all varieties, fresh asparagus, and as nice a variety of fine restaurants as any big city has to offer.

So, all in all, I guess I can learn to say six syllable names if y'all can get used to my saying "y'all."

School kids are repairing old toys

During their lunch hours over in Boyne City Middle School, four seventh and eighth grade students are repairing used toys.

"And sometimes after school," adds Bonney Roeters, one of the four. The others are Antoinette Chipman, Kim Harvey, and Jeff Lingle.

They are fixing up toys to give "to people who can't really afford to buy them," Bonney explains. The toys will be distributed by Harbor Springs Holy Childhood Church.

Right now the group is giving some old toy trucks a fresh paint job.

They are looking for more broken or unwanted toys. People who have them—and doesn't everyone?—may drop them off at the middle school office. The group will sew, hammer, glue, or paint where necessary.

Harmonizing

Several barbershop singing groups, both male and female, performed in a program sponsored by the Jordan Valley prospective chapter of the Sweet Adelines Saturday night. Above are members of the Four-in-a-Chord Sweet Adelines quartet of East Jordan. They are, from left, Nan McPherson, Anita Drapeau, Kathy Graham and Bonnie Kaye Omlund Thomas. Also performing was the Snowbelt Chorus. In the photo at left, some of the chorus members belt out a harmonious tune. In the front row is Dan Stolt, 11, a sixth grader from Boyne City, who is the youngest member of the chorus. Dan's father, Dave, is president of the Boyne City barbershop chapter.

Artists elect new officers

Artists North, an organization of northwestern Michigan artists, elected new officers for the 1980-81 year at their meeting held Nov. 18, at the Virginia M. McCune Community Arts Center in Petoskey.

New president for the group is Pat Graybiel, handweaver, from Bay Shore. Graybiel will be replacing Bruce Janssen, woodcrafter and owner of the Wood Shop in Boyne City.

Vice president and program director for the group is Stephan Kendall, a watercolorist from Harbor Springs. New treasurer for the group is Jodie Adams. Adams does pencil drawings and is also from Harbor Springs.

Chris Umscheid, a poet from Petoskey, is the new newsletter editor and Steve Bartha, who does creative cooking, from Harbor Springs is the new liaison to the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

Elected to two-year terms on the board of directors were Ron Graybiel, a woodcrafter and furniture designer from Bay Shore, and Bonnie Staffel of Staffel's Pottery in Charlevoix.

Completing the last year of their two-year terms will be Richard Jackson, a photographer from Boyne City, and Jerry Aydlott, a metal craftsman and co-owner of the Jordan Valley Studio in East Jordan.

Sugarless cake and mile-high biscuits

Marguerite, my sister-in-law, grew up as the only girl in a family of several boys and she learned to cook at a very young age.

By the time she married my brother she was already a terrific cook, though she still speaks of the first time she entertained us and her roast shrank to about half its original size.

During the years that her children were young there was always a crowd at their house. Feeding all of these people was a labor of love for Marguerite as cooking became a real hobby for her. She took courses in cake decorating and made fabulous wedding cakes for each of her three daughters' weddings.

Now that her family is small again she is cooking for a retirees' home in Port Huron and loving it.

When I asked her if she had a favorite recipe for me, she opened her purse and took out a number of cards with names like "Mile-High Biscuits, Impossible Pie, Sugarless Cake," etc. She likes to make this cake because some of the people she cooks for are not allowed sugar.

NO-SUGAR MOLASSES CAKE

In a bowl put in:
1 1/2 cups molasses
1/4 cup shortening

Pour 1 1/2 cups of boiling water over this and mix with whip.

In another bowl mix:
2 1/2 cups flour
1 1/4 teaspoons soda
1 1/4 teaspoons cinnamon
1 1/4 teaspoons ginger

Mix all ingredients together and bake in a greased and floured pan for 30 to 40 minutes at 350 degrees.

If your family likes custard pie, they will like this one. It is low in sugar and there is no crust so the calorie count is down also, and so easy to make.

IMPOSSIBLE PIE

Heat oven to 400 degrees
Place in blender:
1/2 cup Bisquick
1/2 cup sugar
4 eggs
2 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup oleo

Open house to honor East Jordan residents

There will be an open house this weekend to honor Mr. and Mrs. William Gaunt, Sr. for their 65th wedding anniversary.

Dash of nutmeg
Blend all together and pour into a buttered pie pan.
Bake at 400 degrees 45 minutes.
Then there is...

MILE-HIGH BISCUITS

3 cups flour
1/8 cup, plus 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 1/2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 cups shortening
1 egg beaten
1 cup milk

Mix all dry ingredients, cut in the shortening and add the beaten egg and milk. Roll out on a lightly floured board to one inch in thickness; cut with a 2 inch biscuit cutter or glass. Place about one inch apart on an ungreased cookie sheet and bake in a 450 degree oven for 15 minutes.

Marguerite says that most people like to pour syrup over these biscuits. Of course they would be extra special with our own northern Michigan maple syrup.

Marguerite's tip for good cooking is to be generous with measurements. "Never under-measure anything," she says. Never skimp on the good things.

Why do you need homeowners insurance if you're just renting?

Sure, if something happens to the home or apartment you're renting, someone else pays for the structural damage.

But who pays for the loss of your possessions? Who pays for your furniture and clothing, your TV, stereo, and more?

Who pays? YOU DO, if you're not covered by a homeowners policy for renters. At Auto-Owners, we can protect your rented home or apartment against everything from fire to water damage, from wind to theft. We'll even pay your additional living expenses elsewhere if you must move during the repair period. All in one low-cost policy.

So talk to us at Auto-Owners. What have you got to lose?

Hiiiiieehhh!

Karate not all yells and broken boards

BY KATHY JOHNSON

Karate!
A wild scream cuts the air... Hiiiiieehhh! Bodies jump into the air amid yells. Wood is broken into pieces by the hand. Or....
The young man's face is beaded with perspiration as he walks slowly across the bed of coals. Each coal is white hot.
Both of the verbal pictures above describe a form of very highly developed karate. Both of them take years to accomplish and most people are not interested in this type of exercise in concentration.

But, if you are looking for a way to get your body into condition, to develop discipline and a way to keep fit during the coming winter months, then karate may be of interest to you.
Recently the Karate Fung Fu school of karate opened at 108 Groveland St., Boyne City. This school is busy not only teaching body conditioning, discipline, and fitness, but fun. Just ask some of the students.
Asked why she was taking the class Mary Teesdale said, "I like it. It's a lot like ballet. Balance and coordination."

Then she went on to say, "It's fun. I really enjoy it."
John Mooney said he was taking the class to "learn body coordination. Physical fitness. Karate keeps me out of trouble." Asked if karate was hard to learn, Mooney agreed it was in the beginning.
Student David Zimmer said he had been taking karate for only about four weeks. "I've learned, but I've got a long way to go," he said.
Tom Stolt has taken some karate before and said he was taking it again for "health and defense."
At least one of the students has taken karate for several years. Hal Neale indicated that he "just wants to continue taking it." Neale has a green belt ranking and also has rank in different styles of karate.

Teacher and owner of the school is George Minitch. Minitch has a 4th degree black belt in karate. Starting 21 years ago at the age of nine, Minitch said he felt that karate was a tremendous activity for youth and adults.
"I was really cocky when I was a kid. I thought I knew it all," Minitch said. "My dad took me out one day to this class and left me. I wasn't happy about it, but it didn't take that long and my attitude improved and my grades improved."

"Karate taught me respect. And it is a great way to get your body into condition," said Minitch. Minitch went on to explain that karate wasn't too difficult, and people of all ages could take it. It isn't just for the young, he said.
The classes, which just started six weeks ago, have been growing by a couple of people each session. "We've had to divide our Monday and Thursday classes up," Minitch said. "We now have a class at 5 and another at 7, both nights."

Minitch is teaching the men's classes. Other instructors for the school include Randy Lightfoot, Ed Gibbard and Judy Minitch.
Minitch indicated that if there was enough interest they would be starting a children's class for ages nine to 11 on Saturdays. Currently there are classes on Monday and Thursdays. They would like to start a women's class on Wednesday night.
Existing classes are for mixed adults and juniors age 12 and up. For information regarding the classes, contact Randy Lightfoot at 582-6715 or George Minitch at 582-2512.

LOOKERS OR BUYERS?

Most people enjoy watching parades and get a thrill out of the color, pageantry, floats, costumes, music, and rows of marchers. But there's one parade that's not enjoyed very much: the parade of people that come trooping through your home if you decide to sell it yourself. Besides wasting your time (this "parade" can go on for days and days), it must be remembered these people are complete strangers who walk in off the street after seeing your sign. And don't be impressed by numbers—you want quality, not quantity when selling. Sure, they'll show a lot of interest as you take them through your home, but you have no way of knowing if they're lookers or potential buyers. On the other hand, we carefully screen every one showing an interest in your home if you list it with us. We find out who they are, their present financial and economic situation, and most important, if they're sincerely interested in buying your type of home. When we bring them over, they're not strangers—they're good prospects!

Ramblers beat EJ in first round in opener

Boyne rally falls short in district finals

A 24-11 hot spurt in the fourth quarter came up barely short for Boyne City Tuesday night as Charlevoix held on to win the Class C district girls basketball tournament in Onaway, 55-53.

"We almost did it!" said excited Boyne Coach Steph Moody after the game. "Those kids just played a super game. They always seem to play better up against the tough teams."

Boyne ended the season with a 12-8 mark, while Charlevoix advanced to the regional tourney with a fine 17-2 record.

A cold third period spelled doom for the Ramblers after a nip-and-tuck first half that ended at 24-24. The Rayders took a 42-31 lead after three quarters, however, as Rambler center Lori Paquette sat on the bench for a while with four fouls.

"When Lori went back in in the fourth quarter, she was all fired up, and it caught on with the rest of the team," Moody said.

Boyne's Becky Aimesbury closed a brilliant 1,000 point career with a 20 point performance, while Melinda Klooster, another 1,000 point scorer, also had 20 points on Tuesday. Teresa Noiro added 19 for the Rayders.

Lori Paquette added 12 points for Boyne, while Julie Paquette had seven, Cindi Scott 6, Liz Sturm 4, and Michelle Russel and Sheila Smith, 2 each.

Boyne got into the finals by defeating East Jordan 66-57 last Friday. An ice-cold start hurt East Jordan, as they fell behind 14-2. The Red Devils battled back to take the lead briefly in the second quarter, but Coach Mike Bos said, "I guess that comeback used most of our emotional reserve, and we didn't have it later when we needed it."

"Our kids played well," Bos said. "We held Becky Aimesbury to 11 points with our zone defense."

Senior Coleen Thompson, East Jordan's leading scorer all season long, ended her career with a 16-point night, and she also grabbed 22 rebounds. "She played a super game, and she had a bad ankle that was heavily taped," Bos said.

Sophomores Joelyn Ingalls and DeEtte Looze also did well for the Devils, scoring 14 and 13, respectively. Looze, playing her first game with the varsity, also had 13 rebounds.

For Boyne City, Lori Paquette had her best scoring night of the year with 25 points, while junior guard Michelle Russel added 13 points.

Ken Kruzel

BCHS wrestler starts college career at LSSC

Lake Superior State College boasts a Boyne City athlete on its 1980-81 wrestling team roster. Ken Kruzel, who will compete at 167 pounds, is one of 15 new recruits to the Laker squad this season.

Kruzel will begin his collegiate wrestling career on the LSSC mats as he joins this year's wrestling Lakers. He did his prep wrestling at Boyne City High School, under the guidance of BCHS Coach Rick Fowler.

Kruzel is a two-time Michigan Huron-Shores Conference medal winner, while recording a 15-2 slate his senior year.

Besides being a standout grappler at Boyne City, Kruzel can also swing a good racket. He was a regional tennis qualifier while playing in the number one position.

LSSC wrestling coach Jim Fallis expects good things from the Laker newcomer. "Ken has made positive strides in improving his wrestling skills. He is a hard worker, who with a little more collegiate experience, should develop into a fine wrestler for the Lakers."

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kruzel and will be studying business management this fall on the Sault Ste. Marie campus.

Book lists 150 state ski trails

Cross-country skiers in Michigan will have more than 150 pathways to choose from this winter in state forests, state parks, national forests, and national lakeshores.

All of them are described in "Michigan Hiking and Skiing Trails," available from the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC), which compiled the publication to promote outdoor recreation in the state.

The pathway descriptions are accompanied by maps of the trails, which vary in length from a quarter-mile path leading to Inspiration Point in the Pigeon River Country State Forest to the 220-mile Shore-to-Shore Trail that stretches across the northern Lower Peninsula from Empire on Lake Michigan to Tawas on Lake Huron.

The guide is intended to help both novice and experienced skiers or hikers select those routes most appealing to individual tastes, for either an hour's jaunt through a natural area or a week-long trek.

"Michigan Hiking and Skiing Trails" is available for $2.45 a copy, including tax and postage, from MUCC, Box 30235, Lansing, Mich. 48909.

Going high for a rebound in men's basketball league play Sunday are Tony Williams, left, and Julius Kowalski.
