Christmas... A time for churches

Old-time religion thrives in 'church on the hill'

BY TRISH WRIGHT

The church on the hill. It's a pretty wood frame building that has called generations of families to worship in Horton Bay since 1898.

This 90-member church, under the auspices of the United Methodist Church, has maintained its ethnic evangelical ministry despite the liberalism prevalent in modern society.

Its Bohemian roots have implanted themselves deep into the lives of many Horton Bay residents. Children and grandchildren of some of its charter members are hearing the gospel preached in much the same fashion as their ancestors heard it. And the membership list is growing.

In 1973 an educational wing was added to the structure to allow for more Sunday School rooms and an extension to the sanctuary. The church has purchased the one room schoolhouse in Horton Bay for a parish hall and is in the process of acquiring the lot that divides the church and school.

It's that old-time religion that is attracting people from nearby areas and satisfying the familiar congregation. According to Rev. Alan Valkema, the members are active tithers and their progressive attitudes have enabled them to have a full time minister from the United Methodist Conference.

"The church wanted a full-time pastor because they felt that there was a need for an experienced pastor and one who would like to see his challenge bloom in Horton Bay," says Valkema. "The church here is a rare species in Methodism. It has both an evangelical and an old Methodist influence."

Because of this small church's enthusiasm for growth, the national Methodist Conference has had to change its policy of sending full-time ministers only to churches with congregations numbering 200 and up.

In April of 1968, two national denominations joined hands. The Evangelical United Brethren Church merged with the Methodist Church and is now known as the United Methodist Church. Church ministers and national administrators agreed in April of 1980 to send small churches a minister who could cultivate a parish on a full-time basis.

Rev. Valkema was sent to pastor the Horton Bay church full-time in June of this year. He is the 39th minister to stand in the pulpit there and although he is not the first full-timer, the church has had only seasonal ministers in the past several years.

"To minister the gospel of Jesus Christ to everyone that will hear," is the primary goal of Valkema and his congregation. To better serve that end,

With the arrival of Christmas many county residents will be making their annual trip to church. With our thoughts turned to Christmas, we at The Press decided to do our visiting early.

We visited with the pastors and priests of several of the smaller area churches. These churches had memberships from 28 to 90 and seemed to be typical of the 42 churches in our county.

The Horton Bay Methodist Church is small but its congregation is active enough to need a full-time minister.

the church has agreed to bulk mail a community newsletter in Horton Bay that would tie the church in with community events.

"Paul of Tarsus is a contributing editor and I think the Biblical figure Eutychus will have something to say," jokes Valkema. "We may include neighbor news too. We would like the newsletter to become something more than just a church oriented paper."

The church is anticipating the acquisition of the property adjacent to the church for an expanded parking lot and a site for a proposed parsonage. The current parsonage is approximately 100 years old.

The church board has budgeted $42,000 for 1981 to carry on the traditional evangelical ministry. The pastor's salary, church administration and missionary funds each claim one-third of the total budget. There are Sunday morning and evening praise and worship services as well as Wednesday night prayer meetings.

The Sunday School orchestra made up of student band members performs every first Sunday night of the month and Rev. Valkema occasionally plays the trumpet for music specials. The pastor's wife Beryl is the church pianist.

The only surviving charter member of the church is 96-year-old Mary Crouterfield, who spends her summers in Horton Bay. The doctrine of the church and subjects of the sermons haven't changed much in all the years that Mary has attended the church.

"We uphold the Wesleyan standard of abstaining from certain worldly pleasures and pursuits," explains Valkema. "And we believe that there is an eternal security in God's grace conditional on a person's response to God."

"Some of our congregation are involved with the moral majority, but, I believe that you can't legislate morality. I have no right to force my morals legislatively on anyone else. Many of the intentions of the moral majority are honorable. However," Valkema says, "Many people are not knowledgeable about the division of church and state."

St. John Nepomucene, located on M-32 was built in the late 1800's and was once a part of the community, Praga. Still an active church, it is largely attended by the Bohemian community which built it.

St. John's looks so quaint but it's an active church

BY KATHY JOHNSON

St. John Nepomucene was a man of silence. For refusing to break his confessional vow of silence he was killed in the 1700's and became a saint in the Roman Catholic Church.

He lived in the late 1600's and was a priest and chaplain to the Royal Court in the city of Prague in the country of Bohemia. The king, being a jealous man, wanted the priest to tell him of the queen's confessions.

St. John Nepomucene refused and was hung by his heels and dipped in the icy river to convince him to tell the king.

Each time they brought him up, he refused. Back to the river. Unfortunately, on one of the trips down his head was bashed against the rocks and he was killed.

He is the patron saint of Bohemia, now a part of Czechoslovakia, and the patron of the St. John Nepomucene Church located on highway M-32, south of East Jordan.

The pastor of St. John's is Father David Gemuend, also pastor of a church in Elmira.

Father Gemuend is quick to point out that while the church may look like a "nostalgic little museum, it isn't. It is an active church."

Located in what is still referred to as the Bohemian settlement, St. John Nepomucene Church was built in the later part of the 1800's by church members and was once a part of the village known as "Praga."

Praga contained a school house, now the parish hall, a blacksmith shop and a general store. The old stone work on the church was a native Bohemian folk craft and while there are numerous buildings in the area of that type, the art is almost gone.

St. John Nepomucene has been there almost 100 years and still has about 30 active families. Father Gemuend said the church includes "children on up to older families" and that it is a "very close community."

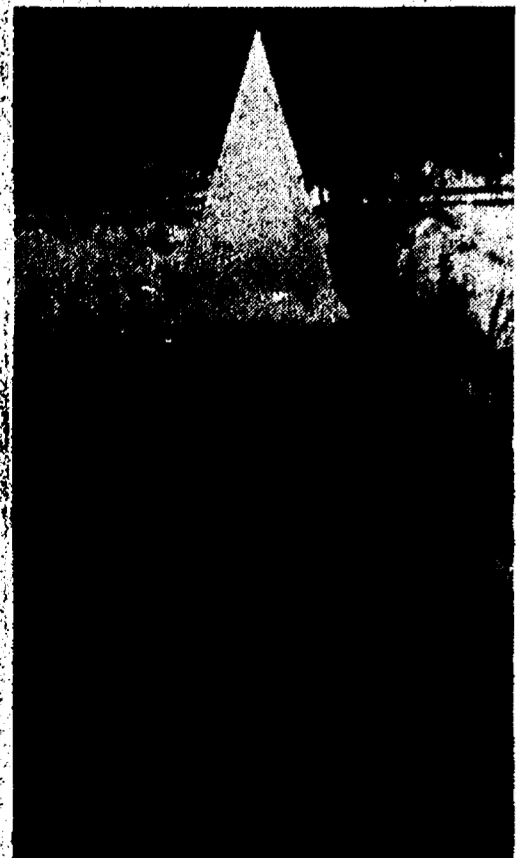

Mass is celebrated there every Sunday at 8:30 a.m. and Father Gemuend stressed several times that while the congregation is not large in numbers, it is an active, caring group of people.

At the church is a statue of St. John Nepomucene. His finger is to his lips as if saying "Shhhhhhhhh."

But this little church isn't sleeping, it's only resting from an active 100 years and planning for the next.

This little church is not what it seems. Located at the home of Grace Owen, 607 E. Main, it covers the wall and at Christmas time there is a lighted cross near by.

Members of the East Jordan Presbyterian Church re-created the birth of Christ with a live nativity scene last week, complete with real sheep, angels, shepherds and wise men.

Center getting busier

BY BARBARA CRIDEN

EAST JORDAN—Main Street storefronts did their best to hide it. Gray, gloomy, and unfinished—a big mound of a building. It sat behind them like a bad omen to the federal government's first effort to hire and train the unemployed.

Roosevelt's Works Progress Administration (WPA) workers, back in the 1930s, did the labor on what was to be a community auditorium.

East Jordan in earlier decades had been a city of theater, which burned down in a fire.

The World War II and the shortage of steel for building beams brought an end to the project. It could thus have also been thought of as a monument to the war. Today, it sits behind them like its old enemy, a reminder of a lost dream.

Some would say it is when the city council decided to build a new center for the arts and culture.

What was the city's responsibility? How could it be done? It is simply to build a new center for the arts and culture. The city has purchased the building for the center.

Charismatic churches draw from all walks of life

"And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance," Acts 2:4.

Members of the charismatic churches and their pastors come from a wide background with an equally wide financial footing.

The charismatic movement in Charlevoix appears to be a strong one with many of the larger churches in the area included in those that "speak in tongues," but many of the local charismatic churches are small units struggling to stay alive.

The First Apostolic Faith Church of East Jordan is just such a church. Pastor Dick Hayner explained that while the Lord has been good to them they still have a financial problem.

He explained that some years back there was no church of that faith in East Jordan and he started one from scratch. "Five years ago we got into this church (building) and we're still holding on by the skin of our teeth."

"I'm not in it for the money," he said and then went on to explain that he "was drawn to it" when he was 20 or 22 years old. "I felt I was needed. I didn't feel that my personality or education was for a minister...I felt I should have been a truck driver or construction worker."

Pastor Hayner said he questioned his ability to help, but that the Lord used him. First he was active as a lay minister and came up through the ranks. He was a Sunday school teacher and deacon and then a minister.

He was close to 40 years old before he was officially certified. Now he is "certified with the state and United Pentecostal International."

Pastor Hayner explained that the Apostolic Church is part of the Pentecostal Church and that they are the original charismatic churches. At one time, he said, "they were considered fanatical." Now it is somewhat "fashionable" to be charismatic.

Asked if he saw a falling away from religion, he said he felt it was more a question of "taking sides."

"People who are going to be religious," he said, "are more religious than before and those that aren't, are more so. I think there is a falling away from religion, but a stronger faith for those in the church."

Pastor Hayner, unable to be fully supported by his 30 member congregation, which meets at 104 E. Garfield St., works as a bus driver for the county transit system in order to make ends meet. He is the father of eight children, one of whom is also a minister, and has seven grandchildren.

Charlevoix has one of the newest charismatic churches in the area. This past September the Berean Bible Teaching Center was started.

Although this is a new church, this 48-member group is able to support their pastor and teacher, Bob Reid, on a full-time basis.

Reid and the group meet each Sunday at 10 a.m. for services in the Community Room at the Charlevoix City Hall. On Tuesday night, services are held at the home of member Doug Way.

This active group is busy teaching. Doug Way explained that the goal was to teach people the Bible. He said many people that have experienced the baptism of the Holy Spirit need instruction about the Bible.

"We need to teach them what the Bible has to say and to teach them about their experience," Way said. "Our main thrust is teaching."

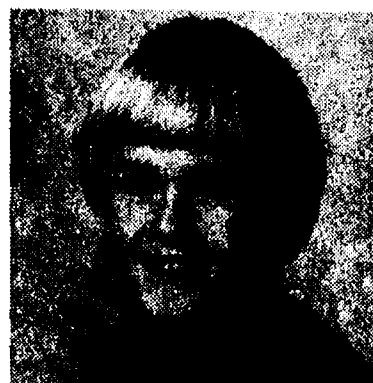

Way explained that Reid is also kept busy teaching college level courses. The group supports a day school for adults which meets every day from 9 a.m. to noon at 219 Park Avenue.

Reid is a graduate of Central Bible College of Springfield, Mo. but is not a licensed minister. For information regarding classes or the center, contact Reid at 547-6343 or Way at 547-6340.

Our Christmas wishes for the coming year

Dear Santa Claus,

I can't really say that all of us in Charlevoix County have been good all year long...but please try to bring us lots of good things, not just Christmas, but for all of 1981.

I know it won't be easy getting all this stuff -- even with all those elves helping you -- but here goes. Will you please bring us:

--A new contract for those East Jordan teachers. While you're at it, throw one in for the Boyne City teachers, too, because theirs expires this summer.

--A few more people for the city of Charlevoix. They're so embarrassed about Boyne City passing them up in the 1980 census that they're trying to annex a whole township.

--A victory for the Boyne Falls Loggers basketball team. After 44 losses, they are about due.

--Cheaper gasoline, coffee, real estate, beer and ski tickets.

--A new owner for the Boyne Valley Railroad.

--More good local theatre from the Lakeside Players.

--"Peace on earth" to Russ Harvey, George Lasater, Mel Rullman, Art Reibel and Jerry Matts. They all had a rough time for awhile in 1980.

Editorial

--Some new stores for downtown East Jordan. There's plenty of space available.

--Some sex education for students all over the county. It's been talked about for a long time, but...

--Inflation, unemployment and traffic fatalities in single figures.

--Some rich tourists and industrialists to land their planes on East Jordan's new paved runway.

--More bus riders for the Charlevoix County Transit System. It's such a good idea. Santa!

--At least a little rain next summer -- but not on weekends, of course.

--Lots of snow this winter. We've got to make up for all those skiers and dollars we missed last year.

--A new dump. Maybe two?

--More state aid and a few hundred "yes" voters for the Boyne City and East Jordan Schools.

--A few of those famous million dollar grants to fix up Avalanche Mountain in Boyne City and Sportsman's Park and the Tourist Park in East Jordan. Better hurry on this one, though. Won't be many left after Reagan goes to Washington.

Gratefully,
The Editor

P.S. There ARE a few things that we already have plenty of. We don't need any more of these:

- Banks.
- Nuclear plants.
- Rock concerts.
- Real estate offices.
- Wood stoves.
- Radio stations.
- School elections.

Seated in the rockers are Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Schultz of Albemarle County, Va. The oldest daughter, Adale is standing left, son Harry right and the baby, Cecil, is in Mrs. Schultz's lap. Playing on the floor is Fil and Grace (Kathy Johnson's mother). Except for the clothing the scene looks much like most homes on Christmas morning.

Have a clear-headed New Year

It came to me the other day that since I had become a citizen of senior rank I should go to the Social Security office and demand my money back. I would ask them for all that water I had dumped down the government well since 1937. The woman at the office said I could not have it all back in one lump sum. I'd have to take it in dribs and drabs. What a jumbled up financial situation that turned out to be. The dribs go for groceries and the drabs go for gasoline.

Marshall Sayles

that what people say about me is probably true...Whenever I write this column I have one devil of a time trying not to show how smart I am...When I was a young man full of vim and vigor and that other stuff, I always tried to occupy center stage wherever I went. The only thing that bothered me was getting in shape to face the neighbors the next morning...During my years of newspapering I covered council meetings, school board sessions, chamber of commerce meetings, county commission work and numerous other public doings. The only time my readers laughed was when I told the truth.

I went into a beer garden to get a glass of water the other day. Everyone seemed to be in a holiday mood. A young man and woman at a corner table were being overly festive. I had a good mind to tell the fellow that the human knee was a joint, not an entertainment.

There's just enough time left to wish everyone a Merry Christmas and a clear-headed New Year. And to tell you to stop looking at the numbers on the back of your Christmas cards to see how much they cost.

Hurried-up thoughts to meet the deadline because the paper must be published before Christmas:
Things never look so bad after I've had my coffee in the morning...Nothing bothers me so much as the realization

Christmas -- a time for sharing

It is Christmas 1980. A traditional time for sharing. Once a year, at least, our thoughts turn to those we love and care about.

That much of Christmas remains the same. We celebrate each year with a new variety of gift items not seen before and some, hopefully, not to be seen again.

But the essence of Christmas is the celebration of Christ's birthday and letting those we love know that they are important to us.

The photo with my column represents a time from the past when my family your holiday season now.

May your children or their children enjoy their gifts as much as my mother, playing with her doll on the living room floor, enjoyed hers that day. And may your family be together to share in the holiday spirit and on through the new year.

celebrated their Christmas some 60 years ago. The things that were important then are still important now. My wish for you this holiday season is that the feeling and spirit of Christmas that day reach across the years to warm

As the new year approaches I would hope that the memories you choose to take of the past year be the good ones, that you will warm yourself with the glow of the happy moments past and that the coming year will only be filled with those kinds of moments.

Kris Kringle is alive and well

A classic Christmas story, "Miracle on 34th Street," was shown recently on television. The movie, which was made more than 30 years ago, is the story of an elderly gentleman who applied for a job at Macy's department store in New York.

This benevolent fellow named Kris Kringle was hired to dress as Santa Claus and listen to children's Christmas wishes while their mothers were urged to buy their children's gifts at the "greatest one-stop-shopping place in the world: Macy's."

Kris Kringle was not exactly what the personnel department had in mind for their store Santa. He caused confusion and many executives to sputter when he played Santa's role a little too convincingly. But what else was a real Santa to do?

Ultimately, the personnel department realized that he was the real thing and he became the store's most valuable employee.

But by 1973, Kringle knew just about every kid in New York and needed a change of scenery. As a result he was transferred to Macy's of San Francisco. That's where I met him.

I was a Macy's department manager at the time and had to make preparations for this most venerable fellow employee's visit to my corner of the store. I was near the toy section, so we saw quite a bit of each other.

Although I have relocated and no longer work with Kringle, we correspond and the following letters are some of those that were addressed to him from children in Charlevoix County:

Dear Santa,
Would you please, when you come, On Christmas Eve. Would you bring Tiger my cat a toy mouse, please. And please read my list, p.m. how come other people don't believe in you.

I know many people don't believe in me, but I'm glad you do and I read your list, Lisa. JANUARY. The baby that is you has learned to walk, to explore. How tall the old spruce tree is when you look straight up its trunk. Suddenly it is a real tree that you understand. A star is beginning to show--there, through the top branches.

FEBRUARY. Steadily, steadily the first grade teacher has been unlocking the secrets of the printed word. Today you learn the trick of the silent "e"; and suddenly the whole thing lies before you. You can actually see what people say. You can read now--every word in every book in the world.

MARCH. A pigeon has come. A lost pigeon. You are only a child. It is not afraid of you and every day for a week or so you go out with crumbs and it flies in from somewhere and for awhile you have a secret friend. Then it is gone. But the fact remains.

APRIL. The tight fist of the earth is relaxing. Small leaves are pushing through, so confident of their right to do so. They are answering the light. And you feel you could run to the sun.

MAY. A hawk flies down, seizes an oriole -- one that had just been singing. Then the hawk is gone, gone with the oriole. May is suddenly cruel and sad.

But two birds are not all of May. Nor are the multiples of two. You know now you will fight against ever adding sadness to the heart of May.

JUNE. A wedding and everyone smiles at you. Yet they seem to be wearing blindfolds for they do not know what the years will bring. They smile because this is a way to lay hold of life.

JULY. You are now big and they are little. But you take their hands and run down the beach, running, shouting, falling into the lake. Who is so big?

AUGUST. In the depths of the field a million things are happening. You lie in the rustling grass and say over the names of the wild flowers like they were guests at a party. How many designs of things. How many interdependencies.

SEPTEMBER. The second beginning begins, but you fiddle like a cricket and summer can still be coaxed back to play with a sailboat.

OCTOBER. How rich you are. You watch the morning rise in mist and evening spread its gold, everywhere. Splendor is universal, and you know you do not dare to dip your thoughts into anything but gold.

NOVEMBER. November is the gray hawk. But you do not cower in the cold. The smiles up and down the street that you see today are like enduring words in a book. The snow is an absolute.

CHRISTMAS. The very sound of the word arrests the mind. It is the symbol of symbols. You have come to it through the year and the years. You bring it your treasures. Each event, a symbol. You know that now. A symbol of knowing or loving or living. The meaning beyond events. Beyond you.

The star is in the tree, and you see you have been following it all years long.

Book donations

Best local holiday recipe: banana split cake

If you don't have time to try making banana split cake, the winner of this year's Holiday Recipe Contest, you may be able to try it at The Depot or Racquetball restaurants.

Two judges of the contest are restaurant cooks and they were so impressed with the cake that they said they would be serving it at their restaurants.

Submitting the winning recipe was Marie Stolt of Camp Daggett Road, Boyne City. She wins a dinner for four at the Depot Restaurant plus a subscription to The Charlevoix County Press.

The Press was the sponsor of the third annual contest.

Mrs. Stolt considers herself lucky to have won the contest because a lot of guesswork went into the recipe.

"My daughter got the recipe from a friend in Tennessee—but only wrote down the things that went in it, not the instructions. I just experimented a little and decided how to put everything together."

The judges loved it. They were Rosalind McClanaghan of The Press, Lyssa Truitt of the Depot Restaurant in Boyne City, and Eloise Beyer of the Racquetball Restaurant in East Jordan.

As usual, the judges said it was hard to select a winner. Finishing a close second was Blanche Bulow of East Jordan, for her frosted cranberry salad squares. She wins dinner for two at the Racquetball Restaurant and a subscription to The Press.

Susie Winter of Boyne City took third place, Millie Walden of East Jordan was fourth and Thirteen Eaton of Boyne City was fifth.

They won bottles of wine for Christmas dinner, plus Press subscriptions. Honorable mention went to Dolores Bauman of Boyne City, Linda Mathers of Boyne City, Mary Pierce of Boyne City, Evelyn Sudman of Central Lake and Anne LaCross of East Jordan. All honorably mentioned winners were given Press subscriptions.

Here are the top five recipes. Happy eating!

Sixth grade student wins essay contest

BOYNE CITY - Sarah Nickels, a student in Boyne City Middle School, won first place in the stamp collecting essay contest sponsored by the local post office.

Sarah was one of 27 students who entered the contest which ended Dec. 17. Her essay and those of the other contestants will be on display in the post office.

The contest was designed to encourage interest in stamp collecting among young students, including those in the stamp club in the middle school. Howard Leach, sixth grade teacher, coordinates the monthly meetings of the club where members discuss and trade stamps.

Postmaster Frank Jasinski, in awarding Sarah the prize of packets of stamps, says stamp collecting is a fascinating hobby "that requires no special skills nor equipment, yet it can teach history, geography...flags, battles, countries and people."

Jasinski says there will be a contest again next year. Meantime his office has a complete line of information on "stamp collecting for the fun of it." He says he will be happy to assist anyone, be it a sixth grader or someone past 60, in stamp collecting.

Make soup from that leftover turkey

Why not make a delicious soup with that holiday turkey carcass? This is what I did with our Thanksgiving turkey and it was really worth the time and effort.

Remove most of the meat from the carcass. There will be lots of little pieces left on. Put it with any leftover gravy or stuffing into a large kettle or dutch oven, almost cover with water, add some celery tops, a couple of bay leaves, an onion, salt and pepper and Place eggs, water and salt in a medium size mixing bowl and beat lightly. Stir in 1 cup of flour, then with your hands work in enough of the remaining flour to make a very stiff dough.

Divide in half, roll dough on lightly floured board as thin as possible, about 15-inch squares. Cut into one inch squares.

Bring the soup to a rolling boil then slide the noodles in a few at a time, pushing down into the pot. When all have been added, cover and cook (simmer) for 20 minutes without peaking.

Then check to see if they are tender, stir in a little parsley if you wish and cook a little longer if necessary until the noodles are really tender.

Cooking Yesterday & Today

with Bea Smith

simmer until the meat falls off the bones.

I used my pressure cooker for this at 5 lb. pressure for about a half hour. I did not have any gravy to put in but I did have some corn and sausage stuffing which was good.

Remove the skin and bones from the pot and discard, then pour the soup into a large bowl and chill overnight in the refrigerator. The next day skim all the fat from the top of the soup, add a few carrots, stalks of celery, two or three medium onions and any other vegetable you desire. Do your own thing here.

While the soup is heating, make the noodles. For many years I did not make noodles as I had the very wrong impression that they were hard to make until I tried this Pennsylvania Dutch recipe. This produces lots of noodles. I used only about one half of them for the soup and froze the rest for future use. They will be handy for any soup or stew.

Early deadlines this week

Because of the New Year's holiday, the next issue of The Charlevoix County Press will be published a day earlier than usual. That means deadlines will also be one day earlier than normal. News and display advertising deadlines will be 9 a.m. Friday, and the classified ad deadline will be noon Friday.

The Jan. 1 edition of the paper will be available on newsstands Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 30, while mail subscribers will receive their papers on Wednesday.

Trying to make ends meet?

One dollar may not purchase much these days but it can buy a wealth of information to help your family cut down on expenses.

"Making Ends Meet: Volume 2", a newsletter series to help families survive the financial challenges caused by inflation and unemployment is available from the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service in Boyne City.

The newsletters contain practical ideas for easing the squeeze on family finances in the areas of clothing, foods, and energy for home heating and transportation.

Three issues will give ideas for feeding your family well on a limited food budget. You'll learn when home-made foods are more economical than convenience foods, how to start a food buying club and other hints for stretching food dollars.

To receive copies of "Making Ends Meet," send $1 to: Making Ends Meet, Cooperative Extension Service, P.O. Box 119, Boyne City, MI 49712.

Fire closes restaurant

A fire Saturday night caused extensive damage to the Ironton Ferry Landing. The bar and restaurant will be closed for about a month while repairs are made.

The fire started in a room off the kitchen where an oil burning furnace is located, but the cause is undetermined at this time.

Owners Marge Kimball and Don Behrens said there was extensive smoke and water damage to the east side of the building and the apartment upstairs.

Library donations are tax deductible

"We are getting close to the New Year and also income tax time," says Nancy Cunningham of the Boyne City Public Library. "The library would like to remind people that contributions to the library are not only itemized deductions on your Federal Income Tax but are tax credits on your Michigan Income Tax.

The library will use the donated funds to purchase books or special equipment which would not be possible under the existing budget. The interests and desires of the donor as to how the funds are used will be taken into account by the library staff.

If you would like to see some of your tax money be put to good use in the community, the library urges you to donate before the end of the year. Checks should be made payable to the Boyne City Public Library, 201 E. Main St., Boyne City. You will receive a receipt for filing with your income tax returns.

If your Michigan taxable income is $10,000 and your gift to the library was $150, then you could subtract $75 from your state income tax payment. You would also get a Federal Income Tax deduction which would save, on a joint return, approximately $31. So your gift to the library of $150 would cost you only $44.

DO IT!

We encourage letters to the editor on topics of public interest. Deadline is Monday noon. Sign your name.

BC men leave for Air Force
Two Boyne City men, who enlisted in the United States Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program in August, left last week for six weeks of basic training course at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio, Texas.
The two, Thomas M. Dressel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Dressel, and Duane Pouliot, son of Doug and Joyce Newville, were honored by a going away party on Nov. 8 at the American Legion Hall in Boyne City.
Dressel and Pouliot are both graduates of Boyne City High School.
The Air Force delayed enlistment program serves two purposes: First, it allows the Air Force to schedule an opening to attend basic training and be assigned to a job or skill area.
Second, the program allows men to wrap up their personal affairs before leaving home.
Following completion of the six week basic training course, Dressel and Pouliot will be assigned to an Air Force duty station.

tournament. The Devils are 3-1.

Leading the Devils in scoring is 6-1 senior center Del Ingalls, who is averaging 21.8 points a game with a high of 32.

Other starters for East Jordan are Todd Root and Mike Spence, both 6-0, and Randy Morris and Bill Spence, both 5-9.

East Jordan and Glen Lake play at 7 p.m. Saturday. After that, Suttons Bay meets Traverse City St. Francis.

St. Francis, the host team, has won the tournament seven of the last eight years, but the Gladiators are off to a poor start this year. They have lost all six of the games so far. Suttons Bay is 1-3.

The winners from Saturday's games meet for the tournament championship at 8:30 Tuesday, Dec. 30. The losers on Saturday play off for third place at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Junior varsity squads from the four schools are also in the tournament. The East Jordan JV plays Glen Lake at 2:30 p.m. Saturday. If they win, they play at 4 p.m. Tuesday. If they lose, their next game will be at 2:30 Tuesday.

Devils in 5-way tie for first; Ski Valley League up for grabs

EAST JORDAN—It looks like an interesting winter in the Ski Valley Conference.

The basketball race is literary up for grabs with five teams tied for first place with 2-1 records heading into Christmas vacation.

East Jordan is one of the five, rebounding from a two-point league loss to Bellaire on Dec. 12 to beat Pellston and Harbor Springs last week.

Lo and behold, the mighty Harbor Springs Rams are not even one of the five teams tied for the lead, as they now have a 1-2 league mark.

Other league leaders with East Jordan are Bellaire, which lost to Mancelona; Central Lake, which lost to Inland Lakes; Gaylord St. Mary, which lost to Bellaire, and Mancelona, which lost to Gaylord St. Mary.

In any event, East Jordan Coach Bill Chase is happy to have an overall record of 3-1 heading into the holidays.

The Devils handled Pellston easily 67-48, on Dec. 16, and then ripped Harbor Springs 60-55 at home on Friday.

Chase said his bench and East Jordan's fans helped bring about the victory. "The fan support was great. They were yelling for us throughout the whole game, not just at the end."

East Jordan's reserves came off the bench to score 11 points, while Harbor got only two points from its bench, Chase pointed out. Reserves who contributed to the victory were Todd Ingalls with five points, Mike Brennan with four and Tom Peters with two.

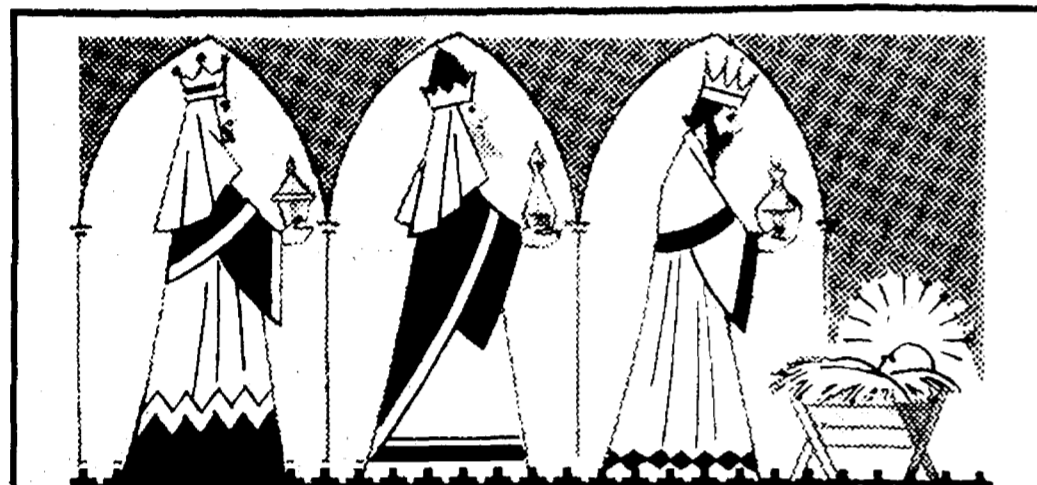

The game was a real see-saw battle. "The lead went back and forth the whole game," Chase said. "Until the end, I don't think either team led by more than three points."

The Red Devils needed a strong fourth quarter to put the game away. After trailing 42-39 heading into the period, East Jordan outscored Harbor Springs 21-13 in the final eight minutes.

Del Ingalls again led East Jordan's scoring with 24 points. Next were Todd Root and Mike Spence with eight points each, Bill Spence with seven, Randy Morris with two and the aforementioned bench with 11 points.

At Pellston last Tuesday, the Devils again had a big fourth quarter, outscoring the Hornets 20-11 to win comfortably. Ingalls led the scoring with 19 points, followed by Root and Brennan with 10, Morris with eight and Mike Spence with six.

Correction

The picture with last week's East Jordan Player of the Week was incorrect. Randy Morris was the Player of the week, but we mistakenly printed his brother Dave's picture. We're reprinting it now, this time with Randy's picture.

Randy Morris

Randy scored 12 points to share scoring honors in East Jordan's two-point loss to Bellaire Friday. "He also played a whale of a defensive game," said Coach Bill Chase. A 5-10 guard, Randy also played end on the Red Devil football team this fall.

Del Ingalls

Del continues to be the Red Devils' leading scorer this season, as he led the team to two victories last week. He scored 19 points against Pellston and 24 against Harbor Springs to keep his season average over the 20-point mark. A 6-1 senior, Del plays center for East Jordan. He is the son of Allen and Colleen Ingalls.

Larry Jarema

Coach Bob Taylor calls Larry one of the best guards in Northern Michigan. Last Friday, Larry had the job of guarding Gaylord's leading scorer, Ron Chides, and he held him to four points in the three quarters he was guarding him. Larry, a 5-10 senior, also had 16 points in the game. He is the son of Leon and Ricka Jarema.

BC ready to make a run for it

BOYNE CITY—The Ramblers are right where Coach Bob Taylor wanted to be with a 3-2 record heading into Christmas vacation. Taylor thinks his team is jelling after a double overtime road victory at St. Ignace and an easy home court win over Gaylord last week. "We're looking much better now. I'm looking forward to the break, though," Taylor said. "I'd like to set up some practice games, but I'm not sure if I'll be able to." With three road games out of the first five contests, Taylor had said he only hoped to finish the month with a 3-2 record. He hopes the Ramblers can build up momentum in January. They start with a non-conference road game at Onaway on Jan. 6, followed by four straight home games. Taylor said he still thinks the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference is quite balanced and can be won by a team with as many as four losses. Cheboygan is the current leader with a 4-0 mark after dealing Petoskey its first league loss last Friday. Petoskey and Grayling are next in the standings with one loss each, while Boyne and Charlevoix have each lost twice. Against the league leaders, the Ramblers have come close but haven't won. They lost by one point to Grayling and by seven points to Petoskey—both on the road. They meet Cheboygan for the first time on the road on Jan. 27. But guard Larry Jarema, last year's leading scorer, missed the Grayling game with a sprained ankle and wasn't playing at full strength at Petoskey. But Jarema played superb defense and scored 16 points in three quarters of play last Friday against Gaylord. "It's good to have him back," Taylor said. Another bright spot has been the play of forward Jim Plachta, who led the team in scoring in each of the last two games. He hit 18 points, including six of six from the free throw line, against Gaylord, and he had 17 points and 18 rebounds against St. Ignace. Brian Vroman, a 6-3 junior who can do just about anything, continues to lead the team in scoring with a 19.8 point average. He had 15 points against Gaylord and 21 at St. Ignace. Against Gaylord, Boyne streaked to a 24-10 first quarter lead and it was never close after that. At St. Ignace, the Ramblers Outscored the Saints 7-1—all on free throws—in the second overtime to win a 74-68 decision. Kerry Kruzel made four free throws and Vroman made three to seal the victory. Kruzel had 16 points in the game

Logger cheerleaders

Two upsets in Boyne City men's league

The top two teams both lost their first games in the second round of men's basketball league play Sunday. Great Lakes Energy Systems, which won the first round with a 5-0 record, lost to Schafer's 82-63. Schafer's built a 43-24 halftime lead and coasted to victory.

Dean Hicks led the winners with 31 points, while Tim Hartwick added 16. Dan Osmer had 15 points and Mark Guitar had 13 to lead Great Lakes. Country Star Market, which lost only one game and finished second in the first round, lost an 82-67 decision to Boyne River Inn. BRI also had a big first half, piling up a 41-23 lead. Kevin Griffin led BRI with 14 points, while Rob Spencer and Mark Long each had 12. Ken Gahn scored 21 and Dave Denise had 18 for Country Star. Payton's Well Drilling rallied from a 41-31 halftime deficit to beat Boyne City Lanes/Northwestern State Bank, 81-75. Tim Crego connected for 25 points and Terry Erber had 20 to lead Payton's. For the losers, Jim Baumann scored 16 and Tim Markham 15. No games will be played this Sunday because of Christmas vacation. League play resumes on Jan. 4.

Hope to break streak Monday

Loggers still looking for first victory

BOYNE FALLS - The Logger basketball team is still looking for its first victory of the season, and they hope to get it in a holiday tournament Monday. They are 0-3 this season, and they'll be looking to break a 44-game streak that goes back through two previous seasons.

Monday night's opponent is Vanderbilt, the host team for a four-team holiday tournament. Game time is 8 p.m.

The Yellowjackets haven't had a victory yet this year either, and Logger Coach Dale Reinhardt says, "This could be our first win. They haven't won yet, and they're having an off year."

If the Loggers win Monday, they will play the winner of Monday's Pellston-Alba game at 8 p.m. Tuesday. If Boyne Falls loses Monday, they play at 6:30 Tuesday.

A bright spot for the Loggers this year has been the play of Tim Smith, a 6-4 sophomore center. Smith is averaging 18.7 points a game, including 23 points and 19 rebounds in Boyne Falls' Dec. 16 loss to Wolverine.

That 61-50 loss was one Reinhardt thought the Loggers could have won, and he'll be looking for revenge when Wolverine plays at Boyne Falls for homecoming on Jan. 30.

Other Logger scorers in the Wolverine game Pat Harmon with 10 points and John Hausler with six.

Other losses for Boyne Falls came to Atlanta by a 77-46 margin, and to Alanson by an 87-57 margin.

At Atlanta, Smith had 14 points and 18 rebounds. Norm Mahanke chipped in with seven, while Bruce Crouterfield and John Hausler both had six.

Against Alanson, Smith had 19 points and 14 rebounds, while Spencer had 15, Harmon 11 and Mahanke eight.
