

We celebrate 100 years of newspapering

March 11 marks the 100th birthday of The Charlevoix County Press...100 continuous years of publishing the oldest newspaper in Charlevoix County.

A number of special events are planned and The Press staff is inviting the citizens of Charlevoix County to participate.

Throughout the month The Charlevoix County Press will cost a single nickel. That's an old-fashioned bargain. There will also be a birthday party (and you're invited), an appearance on a radio program, a new historical column, and old time prices for advertising and subscriptions.

In the next few months, details will be announced on two historical special sections and a college scholarship which will be presented by The Press to a student who is interested in pursuing journalism as a career.

ON THE RADIO

Several Press staff members will discuss the newspaper's history as well as its current role in the area in a radio program this Sunday, March 8.

The discussion will be for the WKHQ public affairs program "Staff Meeting," which is aired each Sunday from 8 to 9 a.m. WKHQ is at 106 on the FM dial.

Marshall Sayles, an award-winning columnist for The Press, will be included in the program, along with other staff members. Sayles will add his personal recollections to the newspaper history discussion.

Sayles is a native of Boyne City who submitted school news to The Boyne Citizen as a teenager and later owned the East Jordan News Herald. Both the Citizen and the News Herald are ancestors of The Press.

THE WAY IT WAS

A new column called "The Way It Was" makes its debut in this week's Press. Compiled by staff writer Kathy Johnson, it includes a number of short news items directly reprinted from the earliest copies of our newspapers.

"The Way It Was" column will be continued at least through the city of Boyne City's 125th anniversary celebration this July.

The column is also being adapted for use on local radio stations.

OPEN HOUSE

The Press will host a day-long 100th birthday party next Wednesday, March 11. Everyone is invited to come by, have some refreshments, meet the staff and tour the office.

BARGAINS

The Press will be offering bargains throughout the month as part of the birthday celebration.

Newsstand copies of the paper are being sold for five cents for the next four weeks.

"1881 Specials" are offered on subscriptions. For $18.81, current subscribers can renew the paper for three years. New subscribers can order The Press for four years for the same price. A coupon for these special rates is on page 12.

An advertising sale is now in progress for next week's edition. The deadline is 12 noon Friday, March 6. For details, call 582-6761.

SCHOLARSHIP

This spring, The Press will be offering a $200 college scholarship plus a $400 internship program to a student from Charlevoix County who is interested in a journalism career.

Details of this scholarship/intern program will soon be announced in The Press and to guidance counselors at county schools. The scholarship winner will be chosen by a panel of local citizens which will include George Colburn, publisher of The Press.

HISTORY SECTIONS

Two historical supplements to the paper are planned in upcoming months.

"100 Years of The Press" will be published around May 30 and will include articles reprinted from past issues of all of the ancestors of today's Charlevoix County Press. The section will be available throughout the summer.

A "Living History" section is tentatively planned for July 1 publication. This special issue would be tied to the celebration of the 125th anniversary of the City of Boyne City from July 5-11.

The Living History issue would be similar to the "Old Time Memories" section produced in 1979 by The Press in cooperation with community groups in East Jordan. Interviews with elderly residents about their recollections of local history would be featured.

These special historical issues will be coordinated by Trish Wright, special sections editor of The Press. Any local citizens or community groups who are interested in assisting with the Living History project are encouraged to contact The Press.

And that's the way it was...

From 1881 to 1981 and all that jazz.

When the Boyne City Standard rolled off the press 100 years ago I was so young I wasn't born yet. The community waited more than half a century for me to start writing for the paper.

With no experience at all I sat down to my typewriter and became an "editor" for the Boyne Citizen—a sole survivor of several newspaper battles for supremacy.

The world was about to hear from the smartest young executive in Boyne City. It did. But nearly 50 years and six Michigan newspaper jobs later, I discovered that the world was not at all interested, thank you.

There had already been 64 frantic years of Boyne City newspapering before I began putting those black marks on white paper.

And I shall not scratch the surface.

Following the birth of the "Standard," the newspaper changed its name a few times, burned down, rebuilt, dodged creditors, got into politics, shaded the truth, got out of politics, made subscribers mad, made others happy, changed editors, hopped from one location to another and fought weird looking people who thought the town could support two and sometimes three newspapers. It was a normal life for struggling weeklies in those early days of hand-set type.

In an era of straw hats and pump organs the editor was not an editor. He was a job shop printer, moonlighting as a publisher. Production of auction sale sheets, signs, letter heads and envelopes was most important, with the newspaper depending upon backshop printing to stay alive.

Once or twice a week the printer would walk into the front office, sit down at the desk and become an editor.

(I know people who think they can do that today.)

Who died, who was born, whose house burned down and who was thrown into jail was about all the community could stand to read about itself in those early days. If the reporting was a little too accurate, hot-heads cancelled their subscriptions; others mumbled something about shooting the editor. Older folks would have me believe that one of Boyne City's earlier editors hired an "associate editor." That was so one of them could get the paper out while the other was in jail.

Those pioneer editors learned very quickly that if they stayed away from the truth their wives could expect them home for dinner. Most folks read the paper to see how much the editor dared print about the things that were going on around this town.

The readers knew his wife, his kids, the church he attended, to whom he owed money and how much he drank when nobody was looking, so he had to watch it. He never wrote an editorial or ran a woman's picture on the front page.

We must remember that for many years the people of Boyne City were "straight laced." The town's elite made a great pretense of not knowing what some of the working class were up to. And they certainly didn't want to see it in print! The elite were human too, of course, but they did their best not to let it leak out. Unlike these modern days, Boyne City was once sprinkled with hypocrites.

Earlier newspapers were more or less controlled by the "powers that be." Not so much controlled as influenced. Powerful politicians as well as the rich were kept in mind as editors decided what should go into the paper.

Marshall Sayles

Sometimes the "working class" would jump the editor for not printing local scandal. And they would be the first to squawk if he did. So, to justify his middle of the road position, he carried a little note atop the front page: "All the local news fit to print." His life was a careful fence walk between the diverse thinking stemming from Boyne City's 13 churches and those 13 rawhide saloons.

Some editors, reluctant to write hell-fire editorials, editorialized in their straight news stories. They included some of their own thoughts in such a way the readers didn't catch on. Newspapers don't do that today. Honest, they don't.

The "Standard" used "boiler plate" or national news printed one side of the sheet by a news syndicate. The publisher printed local news on the other side, giving readers both home town and world-wide news.

Older folks may have wrung their hands over the state of the nation, but the majority were swept up in the activities of this busy lakefront community. Little time to think about anything else.

You worked 10 to 12 hours a day or went hungry. There wasn't any "big brother" waiting in the wings to spoon feed the poor. So local minds were tuned to what was happening here and now.

Lumbermen were cutting down trees so fast there wasn't any fast left. Sawmill whining never ceased. Boats were cluttering up the waterfront, merchants were selling homemade butter that made you sick and fist fights entertained a circle of men on Saturday nights. Boyne City schools were teaching little beyond reading, writing and arithmetic which, in those days, didn't seem to warp the students' personalities at all.

In summer a few of the town's uppity rich escaped the pollution by getting out the horse and buggy and driving way up to Petoskey to see the Ringing Brothers' circus. Sometimes they wouldn't come home for two whole days. It was enough to make a 10 cent per hour edging piler knock off the job and head for the nearest saloon.

By now the Boyne City Standard was running occasional Washington news briefs.

James A. Garfield was being elected president, being shot and being dead; Clara Barton was founding the Red Cross; Chief Sitting Bull was declaring that he had had enough, surrendering to U.S. troops; and the Salvation Army was opening its first office in New York.

All Boyne City was tickled when they read in their brand new Standard that John L. Sullivan was fighting bare knuckled, just like that hotbed of hoorah boys in North Boyne. I can say that because circumstances and my parents decided that I was to be born in that circus of pig iron, charcoal and narrow gauge railroad tracks.

Some folks may object to his piecemeal tinkering with Boyne City's glorious past. You haven't touched upon the bright, happy side of our community's 100 years of newspapering, they might say.

I have a solid defense for that argument.

OUR 100th BIRTHDAY

Come to our party!

One hundred years of newspapering deserves a special day, one reserved for showing the tricks and trades of our particular enterprise. The Press invites you to share in its centennial celebration next Wednesday, March 11.

The Charlevoix County Press office at 106 S. Lake St., Boyne City, will be open all day to provide you with an opportunity to meet the staff, acquaint yourself with our advertising and news procedures and to visit our production department.

The giant birthday-cake in our window is only a sampling of what we have inside. Cake, punch and coffee will be served all day. And, to make your visit more interesting, copies of some of the oldest Boyne City newspapers will be displayed.

And to ensure that our 100th birthday is not forgotten, we'll oblige every visitor with a copy of one of the first front pages of the Boyne City Standard. The complete list of these papers are a thrill.

They look delicious, but even with 10 pounds of powdered sugar, six pounds of condensed sugar, 18 egg whites, two pounds of shortening and three pounds of vanilla, the only thing edible about this cake is the frosting!

Our glorious past

BY KATHY JOHNSON

In 1881, William Mears, a merchant from Boyne Falls, began publishing the first Boyne City newspaper. "The Standard" reached the streets on Friday, March 11. It was edited by S.H. Clink.

The Standard office was located at the southeast corner of Lake and River Streets and a year's subscription was $1.50. It later moved to a loft over 117 Water St. and eventually to the southeast corner of Water and Park.

Within the year Mears and Clink had a falling out. After a short period of time T.J. Hill, the local drain commissioner and Justice of the Peace, became editor.

On Feb. 2, 1883, Mears ran the following notice: "To our patrons: Mr. P. (Philip) A. Badour has purchased the Boyne City Standard, and will publish hereafter. Mr. Badour is a young man of enterprise, has worked on the Harbor Springs 'Republican' for the past three years, except a short time that he was engaged by (me) to resurrect The Standard that S.H. Clink had buried, some two years ago. We predict a brilliant future for The Standard under his management. Our readers will hear from him in the next number."

When Badour took over, the subscription price dropped to $1 and the paper was moved to 110 S. Lake. (This location is just one door south of the present location of The Press.) Publication day was changed first to Tuesday and then to Thursday, and the name of the publication became the Statesman on March 9, 1883.

In August of 1886, Theodore R. Chapin and (possibly H.C.) Miley became publishers of the paper and changed the name to The Boyne Citizen. This name was to last through an assortment of publishers and editors for 72 years.

Miley and Chapin were Boyne City real estate agents and they employed A.W. Nicholson to edit the paper. The publication day was changed to Friday.

On April 29, 1887, Miley's name suddenly disappeared from the masthead and from the real estate ads. No mention of a sale, death or other [Continued on page 3]

Intentional Retake

City's old-time celebration taking shape

BY TRISH WRIGHT

BOYNE CITY - In the bygone year of 1856, a woman from New York had a vision. And now, 125 years later, Boyne City celebrates the manifestation of that vision.

When Boyne's first settlers, the Miller family, set up housekeeping near the shores of the bear shaped lake of which Mrs. Miller had dreamed, the colonization of this fair city commenced.

The 125 year celebration will be a glimpse into the past, according to Bill Underhill, chairman of the Boyne City Historical Commission. "So as not to confuse Boyne's birthday with the Fourth of July festivities, we are planning our activities for Sunday, July 5, through Saturday, July 11," says Underhill.

The historical commission will sponsor many of the week-long events along with the Lions Club and the public library. Many of Boyne's male citizens are already sprouting whiskers for the beard contest which will be held sometime during anniversary week.

Prizes will be awarded for the longest and most unusual beards and the most authentic costumes, and penalties will be doled out to those who are caught without a shaving permit.

"Ed Barden is working now on a cost quote for the jail that will hold the lawbreakers that week," says another commission member, Gail Toffolo. "It will be constructed somewhere in town and if you're caught without a beard or the proper clothing you may find yourself in jail."

"The brothers of the brush" will be selling shaving permits. Cosmetic permits will be available for women who wish to wear make-up during the July 5th week. A fine may be extracted from those women with glossy lips and rouged cheekbones if they do not possess a permit.

An art carnival, similar to the one staged last June during the Artrain visit, is another activity now being planned. It will include walking through paint for your own footed masterpiece, easel painting, wood sculpturing and walk screening.

Toffolo, who was chairman of the Artrain steering committee, says: "Everything in the art carnival will be free. We are trying to locate old cars for people to paint. Supplies needed for the art experiment will be supplied except for the items to be silk screened."

"We hope to make the art carnival an annual event since there were enough funds raised for the Artrain last spring to carry over for the next several years, adds Toffolo. Although a date has not been set for the art carnival, it is expected to coincide with a children's art festival sponsored by the Boyne City Public Library.

"Last year's art festival was a huge success," says Janet Waldner, Boyne City librarian. "The library gets the art from the schools so we displayed art works from nursery-aged children all the way up to high school students. Art festival was during the week that Artrain was here and we held it over another week."

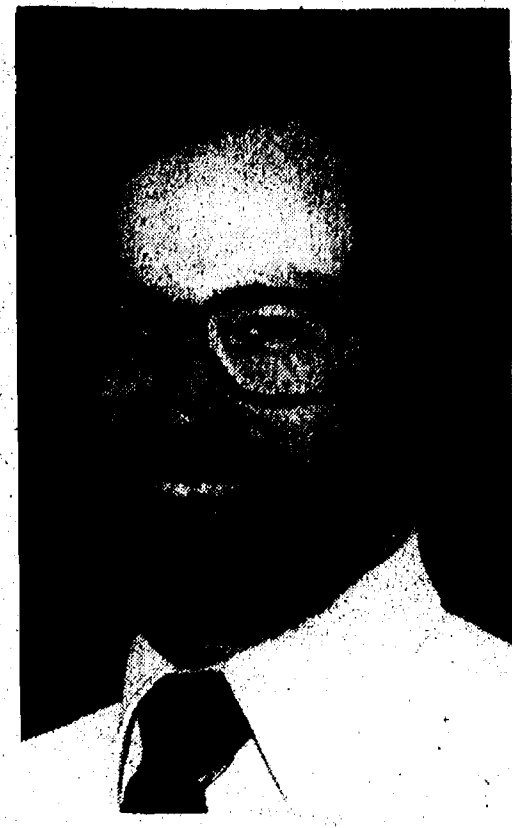

Boyne City's 125th birthday will be celebrated by everything from arts to archaic lifestyles. But perhaps the most enriching chapter of the anniversary will be the availability of a newly-released book recounting Boyne's history.

The historical commission is backing the book, which is originated and compiled by Bob Morgridge, middle school history teacher. It will be an accurate description and pictorial accounting of the town before and after the turn of the century.

Morgridge solicited photographs and memories of Boyne's early years from area residents to include in the book, which is sure to become a prized collector's item.

The Boyne City Historical Commission is stirring up ideas, dates and historical tidbits to make this anniversary a memorable one.

"Currently we're trying to establish an all-class reunion day for all graduating classes of Boyne City High School," Underhill said. "Anyone who would like to participate in this is urged to contact me at home or through the historical commission."

Bruce Hubble is one of many Boyne City men who are growing beards for the 125th anniversary.

Our glorious past: Tracing the newspaper's history transaction appears, but Miley was missing from the scene. On May 25, 1888 James L. Campbell became the editor for Chapin.

Frank M. Chase purchased the Boyne Citizen on March 14, 1889, and took over as editor. Publication days went from Thursday back to Friday in less than a month. Subscriptions were still $1 a year.

Family problems set in and Chase published notice that he was going to leave town for a period of time and that James L. Campbell had leased the paper from him and would be editing it starting Oct. 24, 1889.

In September of 1891 Chase returned and, along with Rev. George Warren Wood, became the publisher. Wood became editor and the paper was changed to Thursdays. In November former editor Campbell bought out Wood and Chase and became editor and publisher.

Meanwhile in East Jordan, E.N. Clink (who also had previously been employed by The Standard) started the East Jordan Enterprise in April of 1882. In '83 W. F. Palmer purchased half interest in the Enterprise and in November of that same year, the building which housed the Enterprise burned.

About the time of the fire, Clink retired to study law and sold his interest to a Mr. Nelson. In 1890 Nelson and Palmer sold to the C.L. Lorraine family. The family published the Enterprise until January of 1920 when his son Bert was the publisher and sold his mailing list to another paper.

At the Citizen in Boyne City a series of publishers took possession. In 1894 Wayne E. Morris and his son became the publisher. They sold to Sim R. Wilson in 1900 and in 1906 George Baxter purchased the paper.

In 1910, L.H. White and Joseph Aldenifer, under the name of Boyne City Publishing Company, purchased the Citizen. During the next four years there were several editors including a Mr. Worthing, Mr. Moyer, E. E. Ormsby (who left in June of 1913), G.H.D. Sutherland, and George Kent. In 1914 W. Ray Baker became the editor.

Somewhere during those years the Citizen had purchased the Evening Journal, another Boyne City paper, and was publishing both. The Journal was a daily. During 1917 the Citizen also purchased the Boyne City Times, which had been published by Will Griffin.

In 1926 Clark Haire purchased the Boyne Citizen. During 1934 or 1935, local teenager Marshall Sayles provided Haire with school news.

Finally in 1937, Mr. and Mrs. Guy B. Baker and Guy's brother W. Ray Baker, editor during 1914, purchased the paper. W. Ray was basically a silent partner and Guy Baker and his wife Agnes operated the Citizen until his death in 1949. At that time A. Gregg Smith became the editor for Mrs. Baker. Smith and his wife Margaret eventually purchased the Citizen in 1960.

There had been several changes in East Jordan during these same years. In 1896 Harrison Mitchell had started the Charlevoix County Herald. This was sold to Moritz Thimmig in 1900 and in 1901 Roy Lorraine, the other son of Enterprise owner C.L. Lorraine, purchased the Herald.

On February 10, 1904, G.A. Lisk purchased the Herald from Lorraine. He later purchased the mailing list from the Enterprise when it closed and Lisk continued to publish the Herald until 1952 when his son Paul took over. In July of 1953 Paul sold to that early news writer for the Boyne Citizen, Marshall Sayles and his wife Wilma. (Paul Lisk is currently the publisher of the Central Lake Torch.)

Sayles changed the Charlevoix County Herald's name to the East Jordan News Herald and in 1967 he sold to A. Gregg Smith, publisher of the Boyne Citizen. Gregg's son, Gregg P. Smith, became the editor of the News Herald.

Then in October of 1968 Smith merged the Boyne Citizen and the East Jordan News Herald into one paper, the Northland Press, to serve the entire county. This was timed closely with the consolidation of the East Jordan and Boyne City schools into Twin Valley Schools.

In September of 1974 the name was changed to The Charlevoix County Press to more accurately define its coverage area.

On April 21, 1977, Frank Noverr purchased The Press and Mike Ready became its editor after working as a reporter for about seven years. Ready is now managing editor of the Traverse City Record Eagle.

In November of 1977 George Colburn and Paul Marcus purchased the paper and Joe McElroy became the editor.

Recent changes in The Press include the appointment of James Baumann as general manager in 1978 and editor in 1979. The Press also moved back to 106 South Lake in the spring of 1980.

Editor's note: A few dates, names and other facts in this article may differ from our earlier articles on the history of the paper. Recent information and copies of the old papers have provided corrections.

Major downtown fix-up OK'd

BOYNE CITY - "Begin now" was the decision of the city commission Tuesday.

The commissioners voted to have Granger Engineering of Gaylord prepare the drawings needed to start the total reconstruction of Water Street between Park and Lake Streets.

The Water Street project, costing $135,000, is stage one in the five-year capital improvements program for the city. The cost is an engineer's figure and money comes out of general funds freed up by the input of Federal Revenue Sharing.

Water Street, as City Manager Tim Clifton said, is the oldest block in town. New water lines will be put down; new sidewalks and street lights will go in. It will be wall-to-wall reconstruction.

Merchants, meeting with Clifton last week, agreed on Sept. 8, the day after Labor Day, as the best starting date. For the approximately 30 days of construction, shopping will still be possible, but traffic, for the most part, would be re-routed.

Budget approval is not until May 1, and capital improvements being part of the budget, the project is subject to alteration. However, Clifton said, "I do actually think the improvements can be made with the funds we have scheduled."

Granger Engineering, although they have the commission vote to go ahead, will not bill the city till after the fiscal year begins.

SHALL BEDTIME PRAYERS BE MODIFIED?

The traditional bedtime prayer most of us said as children can do more harm than good in certain family situations, such as after the death of a grandparent who "died in his sleep."

Consider the fear of death-during-sleep which an impressionable child might have after nightly recitation of the line: "...and if I die before I wake..."

Of course, as we, ourselves, have survived the violence found even in Mother Goose tales, so, too, will our children survive their fears at bedtime. If, however, you'd like an alternate rhyme more on the positive side, you may wish to substitute these for the traditional lines:

Now I lay me down to sleep; I pray the Lord my soul to keep.
In the morning when I wake, I pray the Lord a good day to make.

While on the subject, the questions children ask about death deserve honest answers and on their own level of understanding. It may help if you can relate a person's or pet's death to that of a flower, a plant or a tree...that the flower grew, bloomed, faded and finally died, all in a natural order of events.

We'll be glad to discuss these subjects with you in greater detail.

Hi ho Steverino!

Festival nights on public TV

Steve Allen and Arthur Godfrey will launch two weeks of special Festival Nights programming March 7 through 22 on public television.

WCMU-TV, Channel 14, and WCML-TV, Channel 6, will carry Festival Nights programming in conjunction with their fund-raising campaign.

"Hi ho Steverino" Allen will host a three-hour special Saturday, March 7, beginning at 8 p.m. His celebrity guests will include Milton Berle, Peggy Lee, Carol Channing, and the Muppets. As in his festival special last year, Allen will take some irreverent pot shots at public television itself.

Then, at 11:15 p.m., "the old redhead" Arthur Godfrey stars in "The 50's: Moments to Remember." It's a musical salute to the romantic side of the postwar era—a time of strapless prom gowns and convertibles. Guests will include Rosemary Clooney, Frankie Laine, Patti Paige and Theresa Brewer.

One of the most exciting events of the PBS festival will occur March 18 at 9:25 p.m. when Katherine Hepburn stars in "Lion in Winter," being shown for the first time on television. Hepburn won her third Academy Award for her role as Eleanor of Aquitaine in this domestic comedy about the private lives of royalty in medieval England. Peter O'Toole stars as Henry II.

For the follower of great films, great stars and great directors, there are several specials this month including "Bogart," "Starring Katherine Hepburn," "Hitchcock," and "Directed by John Ford."

"Directed by John Ford," is a tribute to Director John Ford with testimonies by movie greats John Wayne and Jimmy Stewart. Ford's cantankerous personality and his love of American history are fully brought out. Show date for this special is 12:30 p.m. on March 14.

March 16, beginning at 8:10 p.m. will be "Starring Katherine Hepburn," a retrospective on the career of Hepburn, using film clips, stills, newsreel footage and interviews. At 10:40 p.m., "Bogart," a tribute to a great film star Humphrey Bogart will be shown. Numerous film clips from Bogart's 27 year screen career highlight this program.

"Hitchcock," views March 18 at 8:10 p.m. Alfred Hitchcock discusses his filmmaking techniques and career of over 50 years of spine chilling films.

A wide variety of events are in store during Festival '81 and you don't have to be an old movie buff to enjoy them. Austin City Limits presents Willie Nelson, March 7 at 5:15 p.m. and Charley Pride and Razy Bailey, March 13 at 11:35 p.m. On March 15 at 1:20 p.m. it will be "Live from the Grand Ole Opry," with over 40 top country music stars to fill your entertainment afternoon.

March 19 "Gizmo," a documentary salute to the more crazed, bizarre inventions of America during the 1920's through the 1940's, will be shown at 9:15 p.m. For each successful gizmo there's always something engaging but totally useless. This will be repeated on March 21 at 1 p.m.

Other entertainment during March will include "Great Radio Comedians," on March 8 at 10:10 p.m.; "Nureyev and the Joffrey Ballet in tribute to Nijinsky," on March 9 at 9:30 p.m.; "Making M*A*S*H," on March 12 at 9:15 p.m.; "The American Birkebeiner," March 14 at 4:20 p.m.; and "World's Biggest Country Music Show," on March 21 at 4:45 p.m.

Get the eye drops out, the popcorn made, and sit back for 17 days of fine television viewing.

Spring skiing

A splash at Schuss

BY TRISH WRIGHT

Some of you spring skiers may be seen crying in the February rains but take heart, the hallowed skiing month has not been lost to balmy temperatures and the downhill predictions for March are chilly enough to plant your poles.

Area ski resorts are reporting eight to 40 inches of base. Come on out, the skiing is great and the skiing is crazy. Schuss Mountain in Mancelona is hosting a wet and wild Spring Carnival this Saturday and Sunday, March 7 and 8. The highlight of the weekend will be King Daniel's Slush Cup on Saturday beginning at 2 p.m.

The only requirements for this race are age (if you are between 10 and 100 you qualify) and all entrants must be at the top of the hill by race time. There is no entrance fee. However, the race will be limited to the first 50 people.

King Daniel's Slush Cup will be an easy slalom course down an intermediate run. But there is one catch. The racer must be able to skim across a small pond of water located at the bottom of the hill on skis.

The fastest and driest finisher will be the winner. Towels will be provided at the finish line for race participants and observers who may catch part of the skiers' wake.

First prize for the Slush Cup will be a season pass for the 1981-82 ski season. Second prize will be two days' worth of weekend lift tickets. And the third finisher will receive a one day weekend lift ticket.

Jester, a rock and roll band, will provide entertainment, and beer will cost only 25 cents on Saturday and Sunday.

Schuss is planning a St. Patrick's Day celebration on the weekend of March 14 and 15. Pick up a shamrock at the beer tent and grab a mug of frothy green. The Kingdom of Schuss turns Irish and wants you there to see it happen.

Everything but food and beverages is half-off during the month of March in the Kingdom. Lessons, lodging, rental equipment and even lift tickets have been slashed for spring.

Live theatre available

This weekend theatre lovers have the opportunity of seeing the season premier of the Lakeside Players, as they present "Period of Adjustment." The production will be held at the Petoskey High School at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

"Period of Adjustment" is a humorous drama written by Tennessee Williams about a newly-married couple who find they need a period of adjustment as does another couple on the verge of separation.

The story, set in the late 1950's, revolves around their problems as they try to work them out. Both of the men are war veterans struggling to find their place in society and their wives are trying to find their place with their husbands.

Swing into spring with races, games

The Dynastar Duals are coming to Nub's Nob on Sunday, March 22. The Duals are open to the first 200 competitors who register at Nub's on race day.

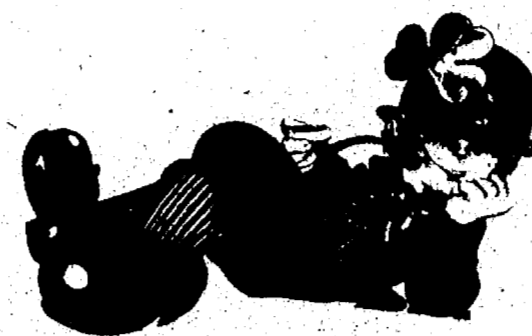

This may be one of the last competitive races this spring, so whether you're racing or spectating, reserve this day for fun.

This easy giant slalom event, which will be raced on intermediate terrain, will begin at 1 p.m. A qualifying round will run from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Prizes will be awarded in six categories. First prize will be a pair of Dynastar Starglass Skis in the length of your choice. Second prize winners will be given a pair of Remy Rhythm poles and third place winners will receive Dynastar goggles.

The streets of New Orleans hit the slopes of Nub's Nob on Saturday and Sunday, March 28 and 29. According to Nub's manager Jim Dilworth, it's a two day celebration with costume contests, cross-country ski races on downhill slopes and tug-of-wars on skis.

Ladders, bales of hay and other misplaced paraphernalia will clutter the hills during the crazy races. Prizes and T-shirts will go to the winners.

Go night skiing for St. Patty's

If you are a late riser and just can't make it to the slopes till the crack of noon, you might be warming up just as the chairlifts are cooling down. But if you ski Shanty Creek in Bellaire the lift will shuttle you to the top of the mountain until 10 p.m.

Night skiing is available at Shanty every night of the week. A $5 lift tickets allows you to ski from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m., and that price is reduced on Friday nights to $2.50.

Day skiers and St. Patrick's Day enthusiasts will have a little bit of Ireland right down their slope on Saturday, March 14. Everyone on the hills will be given a balloon and a chance at winning the Irish hat or the beer drinking contest.

Sport an Irish cap of gourds, shamrocks, pipes or moss in the main lodge at the Hilton Shanty Creek and you may win the dubious honor of being the best Irish milliner this side of Dublin.

If fashion isn't your thing perhaps bobbing for beer will be your event.

Shanty will furnish the suds. Participants must furnish sobriety.

A silly slalom race will begin at 2 p.m. on Saturday. There is a $1 entry fee and a winner-take-all purse. The race gets its name from the silly maneuvers necessary to skiling around obstacles.

Shanty Creek's lounge will strictly observe St. Patrick's Day Saturday evening with green light specials, cut rates on various beverages. A chef's buffet, complete with all of Shanty's specialty dishes, will be featured in the dining room from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Live groups in area

When cabin fever strikes and it's time to bop out for an evening of fun, a variety of live entertainment is available in and around Charlevoix County.

For the country music lover, Duff's Lounge is now presenting Country Crossroads every Friday and Saturday night beginning at 9:30 p.m. Duff's is located one mile north of Young State Park on the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road.

On Friday nights at the Country House, Shambala provides the entertainment and on Saturdays the Red Hearts appear. The Country House is north of East Jordan on the Boyne City Road.

At the New Mogul Inn, Wires will provide entertainment Thursday, Friday and Saturday through March 14. Entertainment starts at 9:30 p.m. The Mogul is located on M-75 South in Boyne City.

Huggs in Petoskey is featuring Whiskey Creek every night except Sunday through March 14. Huggs is located in the Holiday Inn on U.S. 131. Entertainment starts at 9 p.m.

And if you're wanting a little folk music and some Irish humor then Sean Ryan is just what you're looking for. Ryan's Public House on Old State Road off M-75 in Boyne City presents Sean Ryan for happy hour entertainment Tuesday through Thursday starting at 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Ryan appears from 5 to 7 p.m. and from 9 p.m. to 1 p.m.

Opera singer to perform in Petoskey

Philip Creech, a tenor singer from the New York Metropolitan Opera, will perform at 8 p.m. Thursday, March 5 at Petoskey Middle School.

Creech is acclaimed in major operatic, orchestra and recital performances throughout this country and in Europe. Since 1976 he has sung with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, the Boston Symphony Orchestra, the New York Philharmonic, the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra, the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, the Berlin Philharmonic and the Vienna Philharmonic at the Salzburg Festival.

Ticket information may be obtained by calling the Crooked Tree Arts Council at 347-4337.

Letter from the publisher

searchers found that the satisfaction scale for each of the questions ranged from 4.2 to 4.7.

Another study by Rutgers University in the state of New Jersey found that most residents favored newspapers over television and radio as sources for news. Almost two-thirds of the residents interviewed said newspapers were their main source of news; 19 percent said they relied on television and 4 percent favored radio.

Then, too, across the country the "soft underbelly" of large newspapers serving huge populations has been exposed. Weekly newspapers reporting on small communities and neighborhoods in these metropolitan areas are flourishing like never before because they provide local news and advertising.

In my file I even found support for my belief that the local newspaper performs a vital function in this country. The article concerned John Naisbitt, publisher of Trend Report, who is one of the most popular and apparently one of the most accurate futurists in the country today.

Because a basic understanding of what the future will hold means big money for our big corporations, those who can deftly see a few years ahead are in great demand. And no one is in more demand than Mr. Naisbitt, who is called by some the "most trusted forecaster" in the United States.

His popularity didn't just happen, I might add. He spent a decade developing an unusual method of finding out how to call the shots for the future and—believe it or not—he manages to do so quite accurately by memorizing local newspaper clippings!

Since 1970, his organization has clipped, coded, filed, and evaluated over a million-and-a-half local news items. Mr. Naisbitt's unique research method relies almost exclusively on monitoring local events and behavior.

He does this because he has determined that the local newspaper is the best source of information about why people act as they do, and how they plan to act in the future. He and his researchers are thus able to spot new priorities, values, and expectations of the American people.

It is Mr. Naisbitt's belief that the U.S. is a "from-the-bottom-up" society, so what is going on locally is more important in monitoring trends than determining what is going on in New York City or Washington, D.C.

Although Mr. Naisbitt and his trend report might never analyze Charlevoix County to find out what the future holds for the U.S., those of us who live here need an organization and a publication to report and analyze developments and trends that will affect our lives in the years to come.

Here at The Press we try to fill this role each week. Headline reports can be found elsewhere, we know, because we understand and accept the position of the electronic media and the big newspapers in our area. As an alternative to them we attempt to provide in-depth reporting and analysis of the most important events—those events that are of critical importance to the future welfare of the community.

The Press today continues the community newspaper concept begun here 100 years ago but also has adjusted to the realities of the 20th century. In this manner, we hope not only to survive into the 21st century, but to grow because our vital role has been recognized by those who live in the communities we serve.

EJ board recall fails

EAST JORDAN - School district voters gave their board of education a strong vote of confidence Tuesday.

An attempt to recall four of the board members failed as only 25 percent of the voters supported the idea of removing the board members from office.

The recall effort was initiated by a parents' group during a 16-day teachers' strike last September. Nearly 500 signatures supporting the recall were gathered by December to force the election.

The group also attempted to recall all members of the school board, but this was not allowed because three members had been elected within the past six months.

Here are the vote totals on the recall question:

BOARD MEMBER	NO	YES
Tom Galmore	744	252
Herb Griffin	751	245
Mary Jason	734	258
Bob Sherman	758	251

BC breezes into finals

BOYNE CITY - The Ramblers haven't breezed into the district basketball tournament finals this easily in several years.

They whipped Traverse City St. Francis 90-64 Tuesday night, which puts them into the district championship game at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Charlevoix.

Boyne City will play the winner of Wednesday night's game between Elk Rapids and Kalkaska. Elk Rapids surprised tourney host Charlevoix in a 66-62 upset Monday.

Senior guard Larry Jarema had his best offensive night of the season, leading Boyne with 25 points and six assists. Junior Brian Vroman added 23 points and 15 rebounds.

Kerry Krusel had 14 points and 11 assists, John Tompkins 11 points and 11 rebounds, and Daryl Tims nine points.

Red Devils roll in district

EAST JORDAN - Unless the roof caves in on them Thursday, the Red Devils should find themselves in the district tournament finals on Saturday night.

Fresh from a 20-point victory over Ellsworth on Tuesday, the Devils seem to have hit their stride with six victories in their last seven games. They're now 15-5 for the season.

Del Ingalls led the squad with 24 points and 15 rebounds. Todd Root had 14 points, Randy Morris 12 points, and Mike Spence nine points and 13 rebounds.

Next on the tournament trail is Alba, which has a 8-12 record.

If East Jordan beats Alba, they'll face the winner of Wednesday's game between Manclona and Central Lake in the finals.

Can BF beat Vandy again?

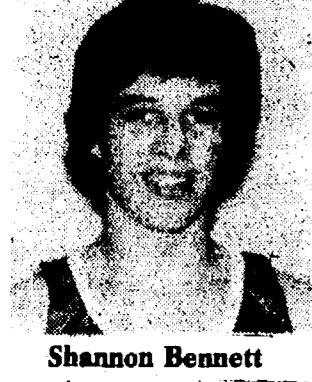

BOYNE FALLS - The Logger basketball team has a good chance to be playing in the Vanderbilt district basketball tournament title game Friday night.

The Loggers open district play at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday against Vanderbilt, a team they have beaten by 12, 15, and 17 points earlier this season.

If Boyne Falls can beat the Yellow-jackets for a fourth time they'll be in the finals. The title game will be at 7:30 p.m. Friday against Gaylord St. Mary, which beat Inland Lakes Tuesday.

LARRY EMMONS' NACHOS

- 1 lb. 12 oz. can of refried beans
- 1 1/2 lbs. lean ground beef
- One large yellow onion
- Lawry's chili seasoning—not over 4 tablespoons unless super-hot desired.
- 6 green onions
- 1 large tomato
- 1 package Monterey Jack cheese
- Sweet basil
- 1 doz. Tostadas shells
- Tortilla chips—1 package

Dice onion, fry with hamburger, add salt, pepper and spices. After stage of pink (important not to get too well done or it will be hard) add beans; fold in and continue on low heat for 10 minutes, stirring constantly.

Line baking dish with tostada shells to completely cover bottom and sides of shallow dish. Pour in hamburger and bean mixture. Sprinkle with shredded cheese. Place in oven until light golden brown.

Cover with finely diced green onions and tomato, sprinkle with parmesan cheese (it's best if freshly grated) and with a small amount of green sweet basil.

Be sure to add one tablespoon of love. (Larry's secret ingredient; and it works!)

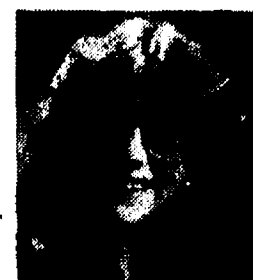

Use the chips for dipping out the nachos: a marvelous ice-breaker; we've tried it now with lots of friends who all want the recipe.

Frank Wasylewski

Sally Bauman

Tracy Serrels

Valedictorian duo for BF

BOYNE FALLS - "We've been competing all through school," Frank Wasylewski said when he heard he and Sally Bauman had tied for valedictorian of their Boyne Falls graduation program.

The highest competition ended with both students earning a 3.78 grade point average—the tops in the class so they will share the honor.

The next highest grade point average was Tracy Serrels' 3.63, which makes her the salutatorian on graduation day, May 30.

Tracy, daughter of Raymond and Donna Serrels, moved here with her family about two years ago. She plans a career as either legal secretary or bank teller. Since coming to Boyne Falls she was elected class secretary and has participated in sports and choir.

Sally, whose parents John and Gladys Bauman, is also an all-around student, bowling, skiing, playing in the band, and serving as teacher's aide, yearbook editor, and class president. She plans to go to North Central Michigan College to major in business management.

Business is Frank's goal also. He plans to go to Davenport College of Business. Frank has been class president and yearbook layout editor. Frank, who is a bowler as well as a top student, is the son of Frank, Sr., and Joan Wasylewski.

Store expands

The Advance General Store has just completed remodeling and enlarging its facilities. Owners Doug and Linda Hilderbrant say the improvements were made in order to make the aisles wider and to remove some clutter.

"Things were just too tight and people didn't realize all the things we carry because of it," said Linda.

The Advance Store is one of the few original buildings still standing from turn-of-the-century Advance. It was constructed around 1860.

New at WCLX

Dan Mahoney, a 1980 Michigan State graduate in Telecommunications, has joined the staff of radio station WCLX in Boyne City. Mahoney will be principally a salesman for WCLX but will be doing on-air shifts on weekends and other times.

Previously employed by American Royalty Productions in Detroit, Mahoney is originally from Bloomfield Hills.

Co-op remodels

The East Jordan Co-operative farm supply store at 102 State St. is in the process of remodeling.

Remodeling at the store involves putting in a new floor and ceiling in the back portion of the store. Completion of the project is expected by this weekend.

All kinds of ideas for a better community

For the past few weeks, we've been asking people to dream a little about how to make Charlevoix County a better place to live.

We wrote letters, made phone calls and ran ads asking one and all for their ideas. And we're printing them all in this, our annual Progress Edition.

We got quite a variety of ideas which you should find absorbing reading. Most are signed, but a few are anonymous.

A number of people addressed themselves to economic considerations, and the most commonly proposed solution was to work harder to promote tourism. It seems sensible to most people because Charlevoix County has (as has been recognized for nearly a century) all the natural ingredients for attracting visitors at all times of the year.

A county commissioner proposed that a county-wide Chamber of Commerce be organized to help promote more tourism. Other good ideas are also suggested. The Press discusses one idea for expanded tourism on its Viewpoints page in the first section of this newspaper.

Other contributors expressed their hopes for industrial expansion because jobs are sorely needed. But many people who mention industrial expansion also caution that any new industry should be attractive and non-polluting so our natural attractions (lakes, forests, clean air) are not compromised.

While many people expressed their desire for more jobs and industry, a few others wondered whether it was worth much effort to promote industry because of our climate and our distance from metropolitan areas. Probably the best "recruiting" point we have, some said, is our appeal as a resort area. Those who already come here to ski, sail, golf and relax are prime prospects for building small factories or other businesses here.

Some people said they didn't like the idea of progress much at all. They expressed a desire for a return to a simpler lifestyle. Another person hoped for more emphasis on old-fashioned values like discipline.

What do you think should be done to make our county a better place to live? Send us a letter to the editor.

A variety of other ideas were tossed into the hopper: better schools, tax relief, better maintained homes, better airports and more people who are willing to volunteer their time for good causes.

A few people underscored the whole idea behind this year's Progress Edition...that we need to be more positive, constructive and optimistic about finding solutions to our problems.

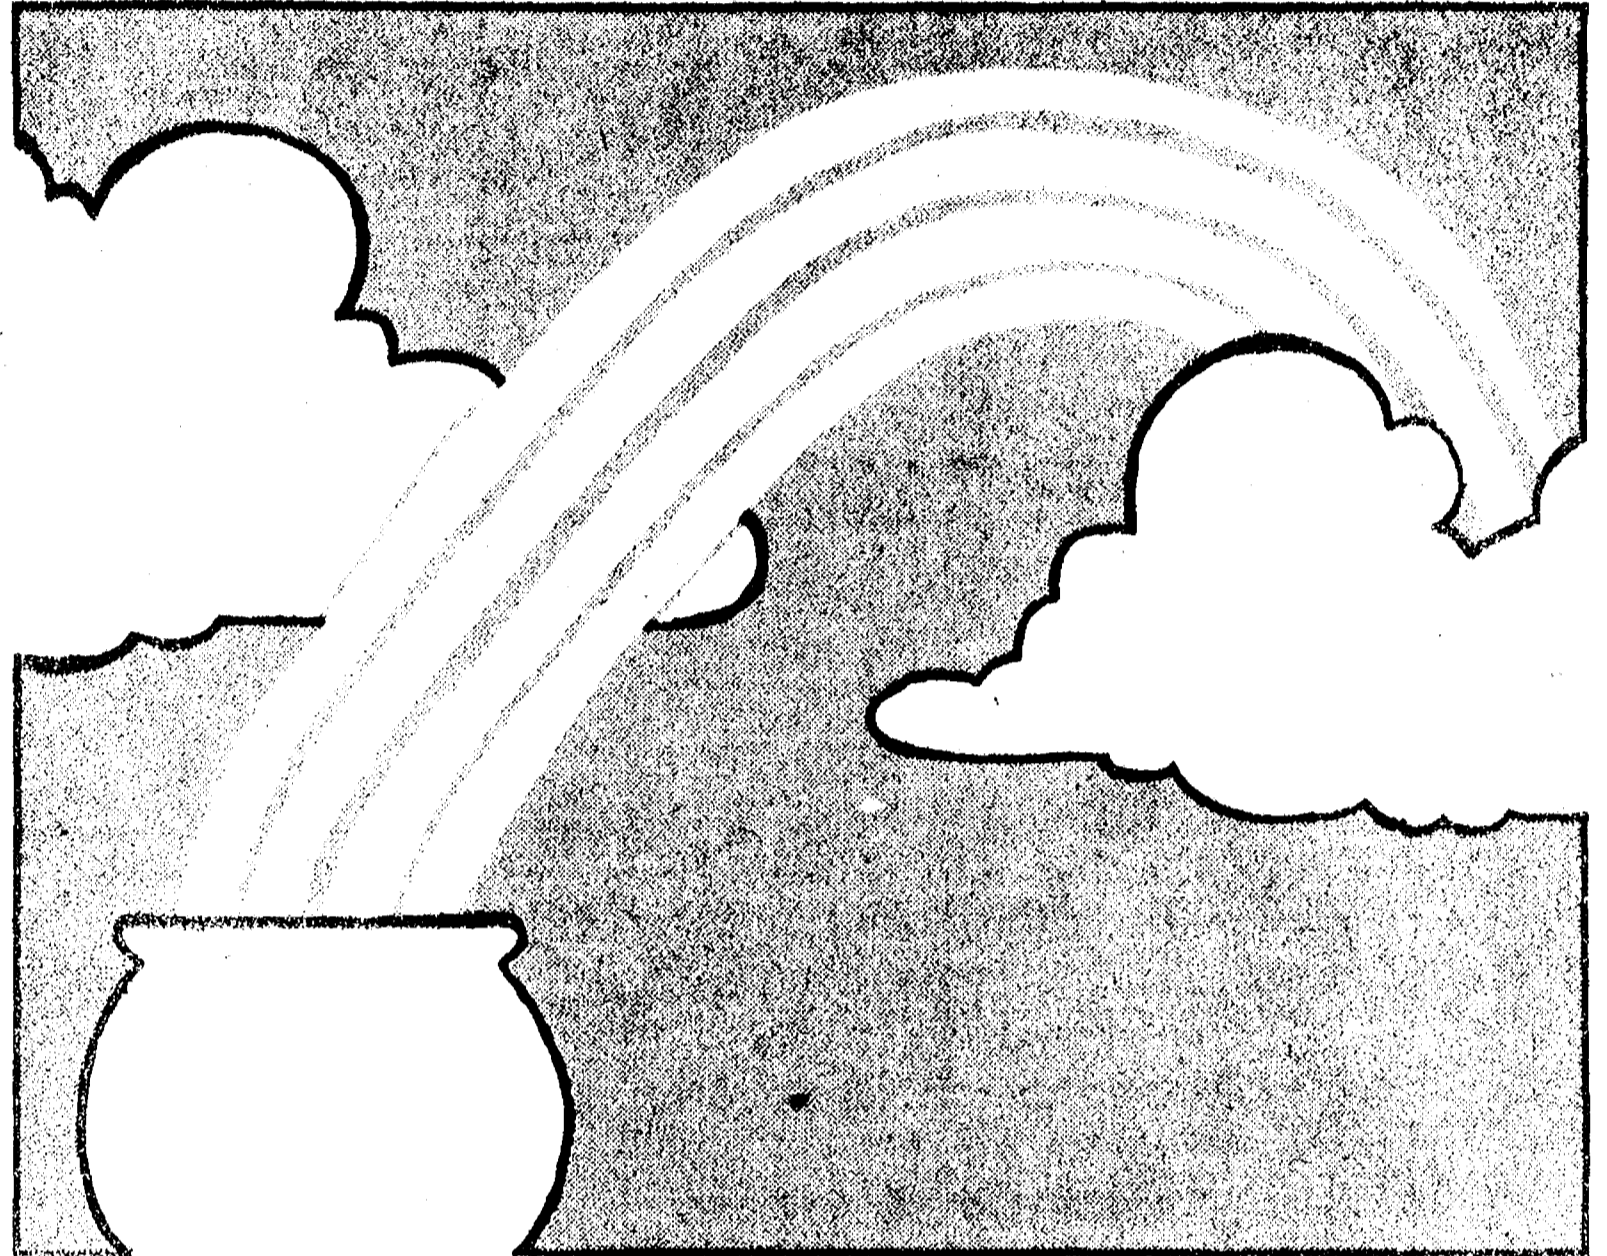

If reading these ideas gives you a good idea for improving your community or the county, you don't have to wait until next year's Progress Edition to tell the world.

We encourage you to put your thoughts on paper and send them to us as a letter to the editor. We'll publish them in coming weeks. Address your letter to The Press, P.O. Box A, Boyne City, MI 49712.

This special section is designed to help all of us build a better community. Everyone has a stake in that, and everyone can help. The talent and resources are here. It's simply a matter of deciding what to do and how to go about it.

We hope the effort we begin here can be helpful in that process. Let us hear from you, with your reaction and your own ideas.

Jim Baumann, Editor
Charlevoix County Press

Go after tourism!

Do we want industry or tourism? In view of the difficulties to set up businesses or industry in Michigan, I think we should go after the tourism. We've got the ideal spots. People always want to take a vacation and we need to encourage that more.

We need to study how we can encourage industry here too. The city of Charlevoix just approved a firm to make a study here on economic suggestions. We've asked them to make the study and then make suggestions as to what direction we should go in. But for now we need to encourage the tourism.

Sam Supernaw, Mayor
City of Charlevoix

Preserve our environment

The north country, in particular our county, will benefit if the wants and needs of the tourist and absentee land owners are taken into consideration.

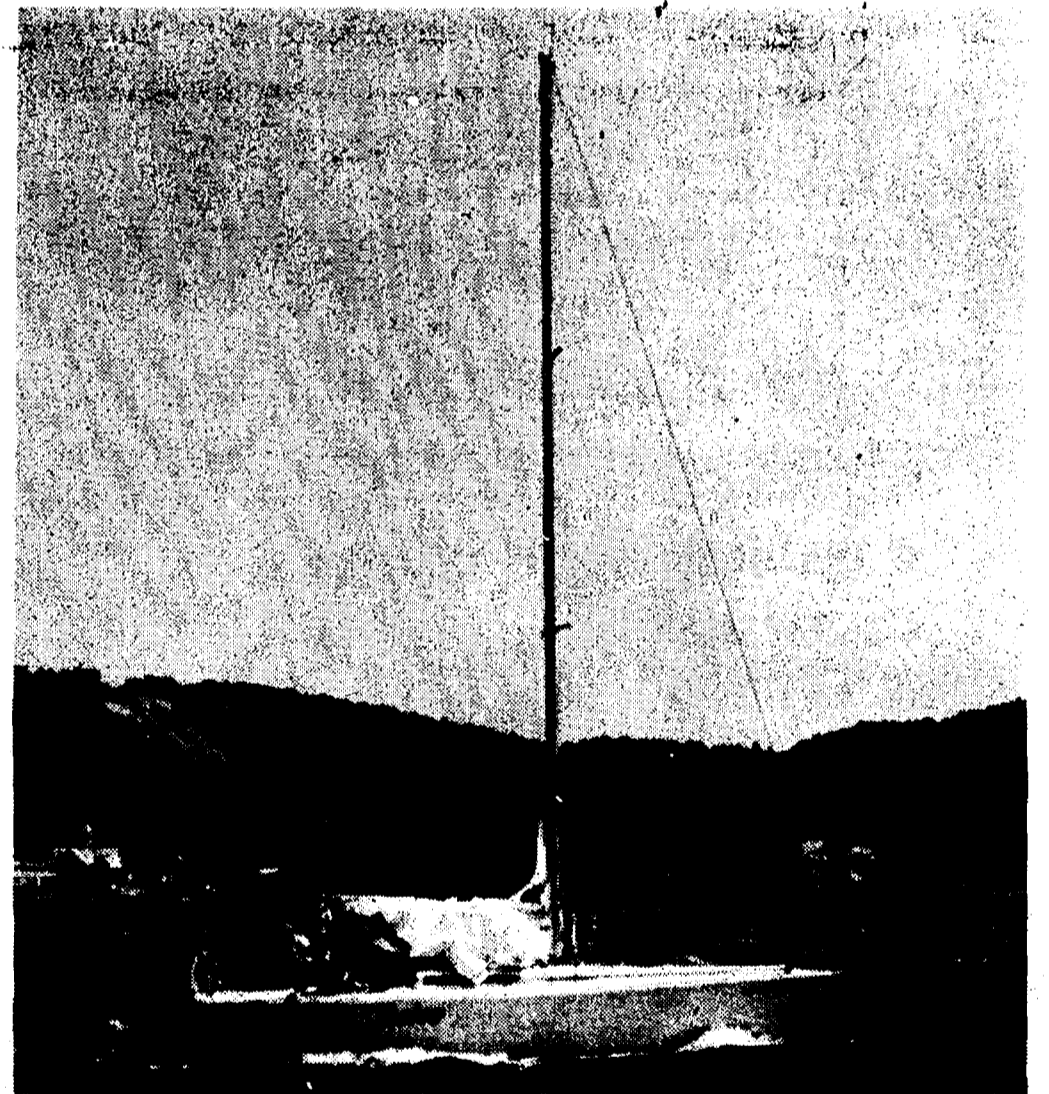

Our greatest asset and the reason that many of us have chosen to live here is the natural beauty of the area. This beauty should be preserved even if it means encouraging non-polluting business as opposed to an industry which destroys our clean air and water.

We are fortunate at this time of high unemployment, due to auto industry problems, that we still have the resort business to keep our economy going. We benefit by keeping all those employed who work for restaurants, gas stations, ski resorts, marinas, condominium and cottage construction and all the related phases of maintenance and service.

We must learn to preserve our environment and treat the tourist as friends so that together we can enjoy an orderly development of the most beautiful area in Michigan.

Arnold Bauer, D.D.S.
Boyne City

"The finest multi-season resort area in Michigan."

Chambers of Commerce should combine efforts

I really believe that considering the general business climate in Michigan, which originated in the political arena but is becoming more readily recognized in the economic sphere, dictates an added effort in the private sector to help us to help ourselves if not on a regional basis at least on a county basis.

For starters, I believe the communities of Boyne City, East Jordan and Charlevoix could benefit themselves and the entire county by the combined efforts of the Chambers of Commerce presently in place in their respective cities but working independently.

Petoskey and Harbor Springs has positive action presently going for them and offers an insight into the possibility. Keep in mind that my concern does not spring from the hope for material gain. I have nothing much to sell anyone except myself and my services.

I have deep reservations, however, when I see many of our neighbors looking to and in fact pressuring local government to alleviate problems caused by actions at the state and federal level.

Specifically, there is presently under study by the County Planning Commission as well as the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners the proposal to form an economic development corporation under P.A. 338. This move could do more harm than good.

First of all this vehicle is in reality and authority disguised as another innocent sounding corporation. It will inevitably lead to new developers marching to City Hall as well as the Township Boards requesting 50 percent real property exemptions for up to 12 years under the State sponsored Industrial and Commercial Facilities Property Exemptions.

It is good to be understood,
Oscar W. Ward
County Commissioner
Charlevoix

Promote recreation; Industry will follow

We must recognize our area for what it is, the finest multi-season resort in Michigan. The county should enter into a concerted effort in the metropolitan areas to promote the year-around recreational nature of our area.

Perhaps we should stop spinning our wheels in our attempt to attract industry. This is not a prime industrial location and most other small communities in Michigan, many with more to offer the industrialist, are vying for the same industries.

Small, diversified industries have a strong likelihood of being located here by industrialists who fall in love with Charlevoix County and wish to make it their second home. Witness the recent addition of Industrial Magnetics to Boyne City. One of the two principals in that firm is Mike Stowe, a Lake Charlevoix and Boyne Mt. devotee.

There is a proposed plant in Wilson Township's industrial park by Rick Rozycki, who is also a Charlevoix County enthusiast. And, Bob Cousineau of Temporal Products, located in Boyne City, has also opened a small industry after having vacationed here.

Arch Wright,
Lakewood Savings & Loan
Boyne City

We've got lots to offer

We need to promote tourism more. When you look at Charlevoix, East Jordan and the Boyne City area, we've got a lot to offer. The lakes, valleys, skiing and everything combine to make our county ideal for tourism. We need to encourage more people to vacation and to spend weekends in our county.

I also think that people need to take more pride in their homes and in their communities. Whether it is fixing up and painting their own homes, helping to beautify their own neighborhood or helping with community projects.

Tom Vanderwall
Vanderwall Funeral Home
East Jordan

Think 'we'—not 'I'

A very wise and dear friend of mine once said, "The present would be better and the future will be better if we make the present better." If each of us in his or her role in the community whether it be in government, industry, labor or as a citizen, think not so much about what "I" can do but about what "we" can do, then much could be accomplished toward making our community a better place to live.

We can begin by getting behind the efforts of the City to implement a very fine comprehensive plan. To induce industry as well as tourism to our area and create a better economic balance.

And finally, in our efforts for economic growth we should remember our obligation as stewards of this beautiful and delicate environment. We must keep it in balance so that future generations will have it to enjoy.

Martin Paul

We need more jobs...

Improved airport would boost economy

If we really want to do something positive about economic growth in Charlevoix County we should better our airport facilities, especially in Boyne City. There will continue to be an increase in air traffic as fuel prices rise.

In addition to encouraging small industry to this area, we should be aware that other types of businesses might be lured here. Industry alone is not the only answer to a better economic climate.

We should also remember that our local builders, contractors, vendors and manufacturers have a service or product to sell that may suit our needs as well as those in the metropolitan areas. A considerable amount of money is spent outside the county when our local professionals could provide the same services.

Better efficiency, service with combined libraries

Students use public libraries but the public doesn't often use school libraries, even though the public pays for them.

Public libraries, more often than not, are short of space.

School libraries are short on reference books.

Towns and schools often have trouble funding all their libraries.

East Jordan and Boyne City each have three school libraries and their public libraries to fund.

Conclusion to these whereas-observations seems to be: combine at least the public library and one school library.

The public library in some towns is actually operated as part of the school system. The buildings are all adjacent.

The idea, of course, is to buy one set of something instead of three or four. A central location would then permit buying a wide variety of books instead of quadrupling a narrower range, especially of reference books and periodicals.

And books aren't the only consideration. Films, records, microfiche, microfiche reading machines, projectors, photographs, etc., etc. All wonderful and very useful mind-expanders. Some things on film or tape you can't get any other way, for example.

Duplication of items because of busy use by the whole community is reasonable, but duplication only because each location needs its own set of these items is clearly expensive.

Besides the financial efficiency of combining some of the libraries, a certain naturalness follows the mingling of all ages in the world of a library. The presence of adult users gives the library a certain reality and respectability in the eyes of young students. Adults, on the other hand, can have their eyes opened by the kinds of materials, especially in media categories, that schools make use of.

Library activities also would be more enriching. A film showing, a travelling art exhibit, local and student art exhibits, a poetry reading, a tea—all such things would attract wider attention and draw together the different age groups.

Public libraries are given designations by the state when they are established. Designation as school/public library is possible but it is difficult to have a library changed from one designation to another.

And funding arrangements would have to protect the proper development of the library. But even with obstacles the possibility of a truly community library is alluring—and reasonable.

Good idea for Boyne City: industrial park near airport

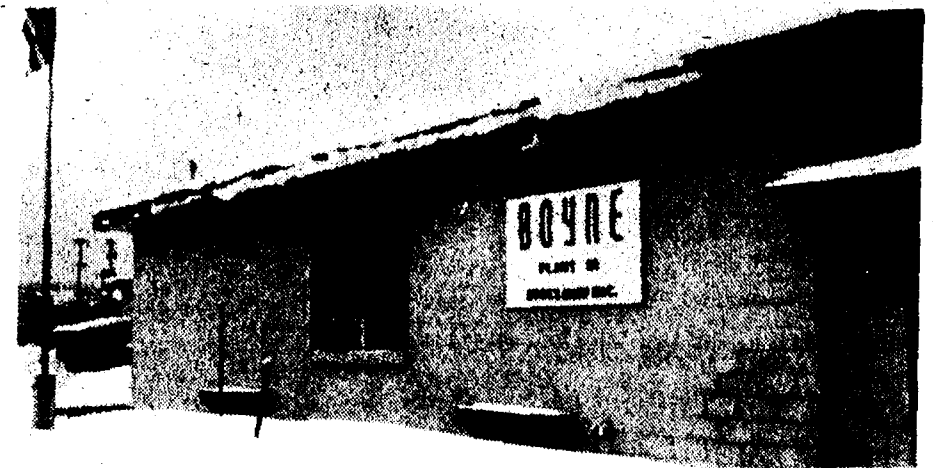

We need an industrial block to bring more jobs to the area. An industrial park located next to the existing airport in Boyne City is a good idea since many industries may need the airport service.

Tourism is important and the street renovation in Boyne will benefit the entire community. We need to promote the tourist industry but we also need light industry for the people who live here year around.

We should be able to supply young and old people with jobs so that they will stay here and not be forced to leave to look for a job somewhere else. The industries in Boyne don't look bad, they don't pollute and they don't hurt tourism. We need more of them.

There has to be a change in taxes. I think we may be in for bad times when utility rates are climbing. The average person who is keeping up with their utility bills now won't be able to afford them if the rates are continually increased.

Art Gibbs,
Dairy Queen
Boyne City

"Our industries don't look bad, they don't pollute and they don't hurt tourism. We need more of them."

"Charlevoix the Beautiful," "Beautiful Boyne Country," and "God's Country" are all familiar phrases. They are very proud and appropriate phrases that paint an appealing picture. However, when a community only has a painting for its main asset the painting somehow becomes very dingy and bleak even with the best of maintenance.

If only one could feed, educate, clothe and assure some peace of mind about the future, for one's self and one's children, just from a painting.

The painting does, however, bring its viewers the tourists. The tourist trade, though, isn't as stable or profitable during hard times. Tourists are learning to conserve, also.

One would certainly think a painting could be maintained while new vocational trades and industrial opportunities were being developed.

Perhaps, then the painting would take on a new brilliance...brilliance that would make the painting a true piece of art.

Boyne City in 25 years...a fantasy?

Just for fun—Boyne City, 25 years from now:

A joint meeting of the Boyne City Commission and Planning Commission was held last night with several hundred citizens in attendance. The purpose of the meeting was to acknowledge progress in the past 25 years and to look to the future of the community.

New City Manager, Timothy Clifton Jr., opened the meeting in the newly dedicated Kircher Auditorium on the shores of Lake Charlevoix.

Completion of the auditorium on the former site of the Bendix-Courter plant was the culmination of a major lakefront redevelopment in Boyne City that had taken place in the past 15 years.

Clifton introduced members of the City Commission who had served during the period of the late 1970's and early 1980's. Happily, all of these former commissioners were able to attend, some traveling considerable distances from their winter homes to attend this momentous event.

Former City Commissioner Thelma Behling gave the audience a graphic description of Boyne City 25 years ago, explaining how the Commissions were faced with the problems that all communities face: not enough revenue to fund needed services and improvements and differing attitudes among the citizens about the community's future—the traditionalists not readily agreeing with those advocating change and growth.

Boyne City and Northwestern Michigan were also faced with another challenge: rapid growth, stimulated by the attractiveness of the area.

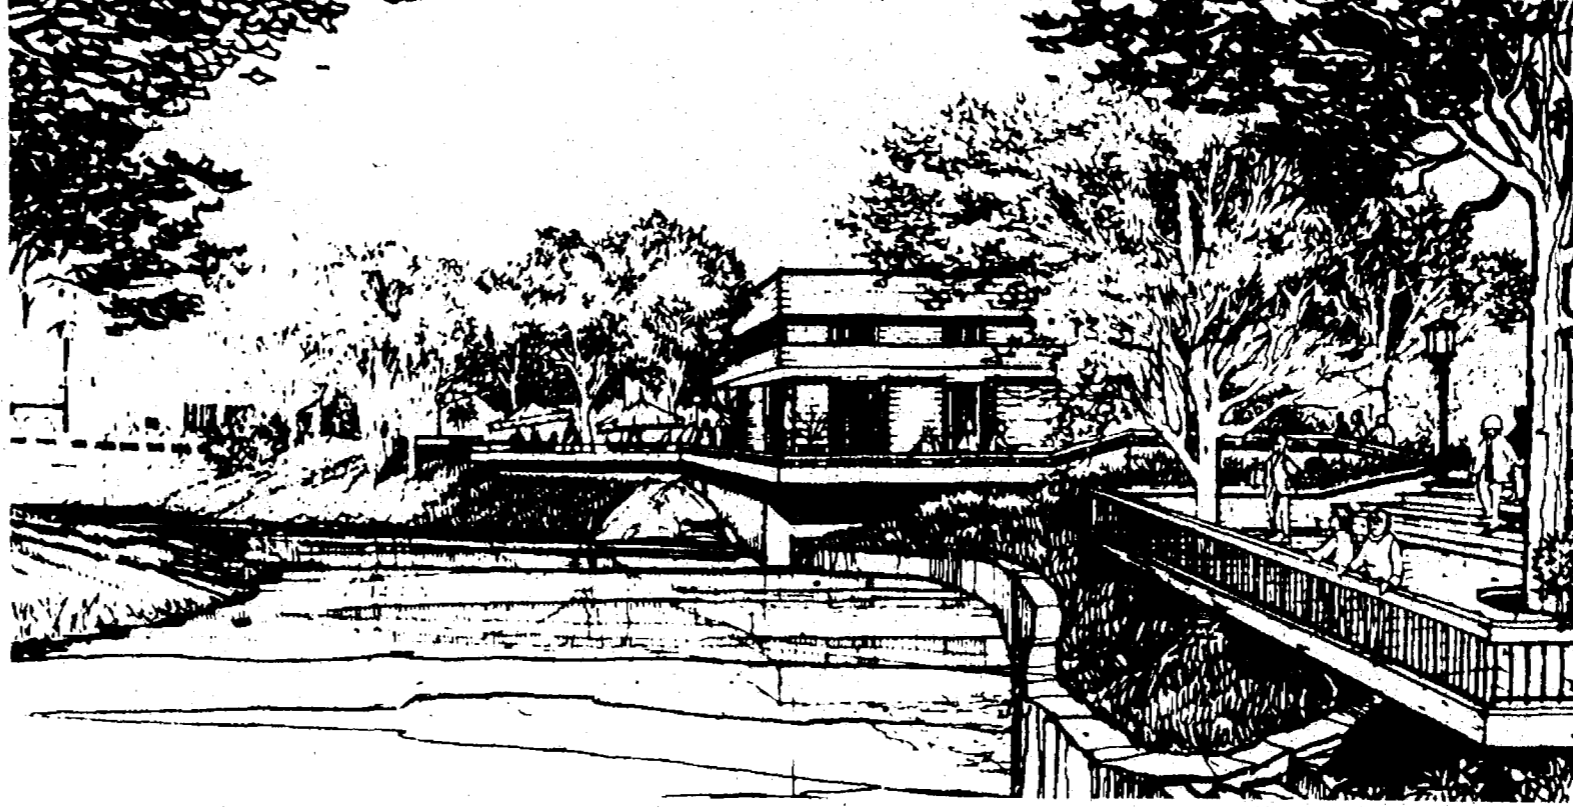

A major decision was made by the two Commissions of that time to develop with the citizens a dialogue of community alternatives. To assist in this the city engaged an Ann Arbor planning firm, Johnson, Johnson and Roy, to help in developing a master plan, involving the community in this process over a two year period.

Workshops, meetings, hearings and a lot of work resulted in a plan identifying the future direction and goals of the city. This plan addressed many things: how to handle expected population growth, how and where to accommodate possible industrial growth, and what things the city might do to make sure these changes, gradual or rapid, were done in an orderly way.

Mrs. Behling remarked how pleased the members of the city commission, at that important time, are to see how well things have worked out.

Following Mrs. Behling's comments, Mayor Tim Moody reviewed some of the major events of the past 25 years and some of the decisions made by the community that helped foster these changes:

1. Establishment, the two expansions of the industrial park. This was required by the great expansion of the Bendix-Courter and the Essex Group plants and their need for facilities to Boyne City because not only is the community an enjoyable place to work and live, with abundant year-round recreation and beauty, but it also has one of the finest school systems in Michigan. This has been cited by Boyne City employers, such as Kentwood Savings and Loan, Jervis B. Webb Co., Bendix, Essex and others as a major factor in transferring executive and operating departments/divisions to Boyne.

4. Major innovations in energy in the past 25 years have enabled the continued expansion of our tourism-recreational business. This, combined with the growing year-around population has continued the growth and improvement in our business community. Thanks again to the master plan and adherence to its guidelines, the central business district has retained its early 20th century character and charm. New businesses and retail facilities near the lakefront on the old railroad property have added to the character of the city, a carefully blended combination of the old and the new.

Mayor Moody concluded his remarks by presenting certificates of appreciation to 42 citizens who had participated in the planning and city commissions over the past 25 years.

The meeting then adjourned to a gala dinner event at a nearby lakefront restaurant.

additional and more efficient manufacturing facilities. The city approved a bond issue to purchase the land on the lakefront containing the former manufacturing plants, remove the outdated buildings, and to create the lovely lakefront park that we all now enjoy. This completed a program of lakefront parks and improvement that has given Boyne City its reputation as the loveliest city in Northern Michigan.

2. With the rapid additional residential growth in single family homes and the several condominium developments in the city we finally found additional tax revenues for a number of city improvements: the water system was renovated, streets repaired, and a landscaping program was implemented throughout the city. One of the most important decisions, looking back, was to apply some of this additional revenue into expansion of the school facilities and curriculum. At that time an effort was made to make the Boyne City School system one of the best in the state. As things worked out, this had far reaching effects on the community.

3. Several of our now major employers have expanded or brought

East Jordan dreams

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

In East Jordan people can't help dreaming a little about prosperity.

Karen Bennett has dreams of "a town with all kinds of stores, where you wouldn't have to go out of town for the things you wanted."

But more important, she dreams of a town where upper class and lower class lines would be erased, where no one would feel "I don't have time for you."

"I would like to see a unity for our community."

Karen has dreams about child abuse prevention, about helping adults who need to learn to read.

She's working on them.

Frank Holes is Community Education director. Naturally that's a program of dreams—of when people had short enough work days to have energy left over for leisure time classes. Or took classes during lunch hour, right there at work.

"I think my biggest hope is that business and industry would pick up, that we could attract more people to the area."

With people coming in, you get diversification, Holes added. "You get new ideas."

But he would hate to see East Jordan get up to anything like 10,000 people. He likes the town and the area too much to see it change quality.

Some would like it not to change. Mrs. Frank Haney has lived here all her life. "I don't think it's too bad now," she emphasized. "Let's keep it this way."

She would be happier if everyone had work, but remembering how it was, she thankfully says, "We have good roads now. We have electricity. Quite a bit of progress during my years."

She would like to keep it rural. Out of a pioneering past she said, "I don't think we should get too comfortable."

Herman Rasch would agree. As city superintendent in East Jordan it could have been street improvements and streamlined building projects that he would be dreaming about.

Surprise. Rasch said, "More isn't better, I would hope that we return to those old solid values...discipline, accountability at all levels—children, parents, teachers, farmers, government...."

Rasch is opposed to society's offering unnecessary free rides. He sees effort, even some suffering, as necessary.

"Too few people have suffered enough to grasp the problems." Rolling up the sleeves is a Rasch motto—out of a considerable length of experience, but that part he didn't go into.

Out in the country there was a young woman with, you might say, the new pioneer view.

"Gee, I'd just like to see it all slow down....Of course people are going to have dreams that aren't mine," she said.

"I've got mine." She and her husband and children live with great simplicity. No fashion magazines, no apologies for their own ideas of practical and tasteful interior decorating.

As self-reliant as it is possible to be.

But out there—"there's lots of nervousness." It might help if "people spread out," she said cryptically and then had to hang up, being rather busy.

Down at the real estate office another busy woman, Ellen Cihak, looked at the view ahead and said, "More industry. Good tourism. Brighter economy."

She said the attractiveness of what was being built would be a big plus and she mentioned various developments.

Cyg Riley was sitting on a pivotal seat, looking first backward and then forward. One of her involvements is with East Jordan's Historical Society.

It is one of her dreams to see possibilities expand at the Portside Museum out at Elm Point, and to see membership in the society increase. Not necessarily for work, but for interest, she said.

Not being aware of the past leaves the young people without perspective about the quality of their own times, she pointed out. As though they were not rooted. Traditions just go out the window.

Riley dreams of traveling exhibits coming to the museum: art exhibits, cultural exhibits like the exhibit of African arts and tools coming this summer.

Bruce Sanderson said he is two years shy of a century celebration. He lives on the farm his grandad bought in 1883.

His dream is to see the land protected—the land, itself.

Sanderson has shelves of information, for example, on burning trash to produce energy. In our area, he explained, enough could be delivered to a big industrial plant to provide for its needs.

"I wish there were recycling centers." He went on to say there could be a plant like the one in Jackson that chops up old newspapers, adds fire-retardant, and makes insulation.

He continued: "Recycling the common aluminum beverage can takes 900 watts (about the same amount as a 100-watt light bulb would take, burning nine hours). The difference between that and making a new one is"—he didn't have the exact figures at hand—"quite startling."

He said also that it might even come true that people who segregated their trash into bags of cans, bottles, paper, and bio-degradables, might get trash picked up free, because once separated it can become valuable.

Another dreamer of practicalities was Carol Spaulding. She and her family would also like to see recycling centers. "And a second-hand store," said Carol. "A summertime flea-market swap-meet! A co-op crafts outlet!"

Carol praised recreation director Pat Berlo's efforts to bring live music to the public.

"More of that," was her wish.

Local historian George Secord took a long look back, got out his book of quotations, because there was one...

"It goes something like this: People," he said "can never project themselves beyond their dreams."

Improvements are being made at the East Jordan Tourist Park to make it more appealing to both tourists and local residents.

Volunteer! Small gestures add up

"Why not be a scout leader?"

These are difficult times. Jobs are scarce. Prices are high. Money is short. The schools are faltering. Services are poor. Families are under fire and faith is dwindling. Stresses are great. Difficult times, yes. Impossible, no.

We can alleviate the feelings of powerlessness and alienation that we all feel at times. If each of us would make just one small gesture toward improving his respective community, that community would benefit and that individual would have the satisfaction of having made a meaningful contribution.

Each community in Charlevoix County has countless unstarted and unfinished projects: parks need maintenance, children's programs need volunteers, special festivities and events need man and woman power. Perhaps your services could help see these projects through to completion.

Join the Lions, the Rotary, the Humane Society, the local historical group or any other local service group. Give your unwanted books to your local library. Volunteer your much needed services to your school or church. Be a Scout leader, A Big Brother or Big Sister. Help a neighbor. If you have a special interest or talent share it with others.

Difficult times do not have to break or polarize us. Let's look at the 80's with the optimism of winners. Pulling together is much easier than most of us think it is. And we all reap the benefits of a community doing something for itself.

Spread the word about our fun

It seems to me that our primary problem here in Charlevoix County is that to few people realize, or are willing to admit that we are a resort community.

We are to far from I-75 to be an industrial center. We are no longer a farming community. When the price of tractors passed $30,000 it made the small farm a thing of the past, and our hilly terrain makes large farms impossible.

But our geography—our hills, lakes, and snow—gives us everything we need for a year-round resort community.

I build vacation homes, and my wife sells real estate. Before moving here on a permanent basis we had a weekend home here and came up from Detroit 50 weekends a year. We did this for almost nine years before moving here permanently.

We came for recreation, and we spent a disproportionate part of our discretionary income in Charlevoix County.

I do not think that our situation was unique. There are thousands of other families doing the same thing.

It seems to me that our task is to do everything that we can to encourage those people to visit Charlevoix County, and if they are going to do anything on a permanent basis, see to it that they do it here.

I say that not as a builder who wants to build their houses, or a Realtor who wants to sell them land, but rather as someone who sees the recreational use of this part of the state, as the proper and best use, for this part of the state. And indeed, the only hope that the local economy has.

Now, what can the newspaper do? Well, for one thing, it can accentuate the positive aspects of living and visiting here.

During the process of my education my primary concern was to get as broad an education as possible so as to learn how to live. Then I went about the business of learning how to make a living.

I think that this distinction is of prime importance in regard to the approach the newspaper takes.

Charlevoix County is a great place to live, but a tough place to make a living.

But—the majority of the visitors, and the people who are buying $100,000 condos, couldn't care less about the problems the local people are having—how many CETA jobs have been cut, etc.

What they do want to know is what restaurants are open, where they can go for entertainment, and what shops have what they need.

When we have a snowstorm they don't care if some poor S.O.B. froze to death in his car, they want to see and hear about the skiing.

A couple of weeks ago we had the major storm of the winter. I'm sure that it caused all sorts of hardships for all sorts of people. I also know, from first hand experience, that it provided the best skiing in three years. It may have been the worst storm, but for us it was the best storm, and should be written up that way.

Let's not worry about how we are going to make a living, let's spread the word on how much fun it is to be here.

I don't read The Charlevoix County Press very often because, quite frankly, it usually depresses the hell out of me. But I do read the Aspen Times—cover to cover—every week. It does not depress me. It makes me look forward to my next visit. Sure, they have problems, but they're not on the first page. Whoever put the story about vacation home robberies on the front page of The Press last summer should have their head examined! And I don't think that anyone who lives in a $100,000 condo gives a rip about which store charges the most for groceries.

Let's be concerned about encouraging growth and managing that growth so that it enhances the community. Then the dollars will come up I-75 and the economy will take care of itself.

I see one bright spot in the problems that the auto industry is having. I think that Lansing might just realize that the auto industry is not infallible, and they may start to devote more time and money to the tourist industry. What do you know about the group trying to bring railroad passenger service to Traverse City? Could that effort be extended to this area? Let's hear about that, and forget about whose aunt visited who in East Jordan. Let's forget about East Jordan while we're at it.

Keep active

Most significant for me is the more active role of the Ministerial Association. We have the whole community to serve. We have our church, but we serve the entire community. The things we've done for the benefit of the community—these are the areas we need to develop more and further.

Rev. Milton "Buzz" Walls
Boyer City Presbyterian Church

Be constructive

People need to give more of themselves, to work for the betterment of Charlevoix County. People need to work in a constructive manner. It is so easy to say what's wrong—but nobody says "let's try this." If we are going to criticize something, then we need to have some constructive ideas to replace them.

Beautiful spot should be used more

The Boyne Valley Garden Club has already made plans to beautify the Old City Park which is located next to the Boyne River. This is such a lovely park and one that was used a great deal in the past. It would be nice if the park were lighted so that it could be used at night.

The fountain in the park will be restored this summer and flowers will be planted around it. But, it should be used and appreciated at night as well. This is too beautiful a spot not to develop.

Fix up stores and homes

I have lived in Charlevoix County for about five years, and in that five years there has hardly been any change, noticeable to tourists. There definitely has to be some kind of change, in Boyer City particularly.

First, the buildings downtown have been around as long as the town has had its name. They could be fixed up a little, if not changed completely.

Another change that Boyer City desperately needs is some improvement on the roads, particularly Front Street, down on the lake. At times that road is a hazard.

The condominiums being built on the old Tannery property on Front Street are a great contribution to Boyer City. It's going to bring in more people, which means more money. With more money we can fix our town up the way it should be.

There are many other things Boyer City needs. The first thing people could do to help would be to fix up their own property. There has got to be a change, and if the town works together it can be done.

Robin Follette
Boyer City

How about a paint-a-thon?

Let's paint a house in town. Every year there are skate-a-thons, bike-a-thons or sponsored walks for the hungry. It's time that we sponsored an event in our own town that would benefit the entire community.

Maybe a high school class needs money for a trip, or the school wants a few extra dollars for their athletic teams. Why can't we sponsor students to paint a house in town that may be an eyesore to passersby?

There are several houses inside the city limits that are in obvious need of attention. I suggest that the house to be painted would be owned by someone who is unable to afford the fix-up or is physically unable to do it himself. It would be one beautification step toward the downtown renovation.

Let's promote light industry, second homes, tourism

This letter is in answer to your request for comments and suggestions on how to "improve economic prosperity" and "quality of life" in Charlevoix County.

I will address these subjects as a relative newcomer, 10 year resident, who believes Charlevoix is the best place in the world to live, and as a local businessman who, along with numerous employees and associates, is directly affected by economic conditions in our County.

I am concerned and I am worried; when I see too many empty storefronts and offices for lease in Charlevoix County and know that those spaces are vacant because in most cases the businesses they housed did not succeed and when I learn that of all counties in the state of Michigan, Charlevoix experienced the greatest decline in wage and salary jobs between October 1979 and October 1980. And, to top it off, Michigan probably experienced the greatest percentage of decline of any state in the country with respect to employment.

I am concerned when an advertisement for a minimum wage job draws over 40 qualified applicants. Can something be done to correct this situation and turn the county back on the road to prosperity? Yes, most certainly! The trick is simply to get more old fashion dollar bills flowing into the county and then keep as many of those dollar bills as is possible. Here are some specific suggestions:

BUY LOCALLY - If you are purchasing a new car go to your local dealer. For groceries, shop at your local grocery store. For furniture and appliances shop locally. For clothing, hardware, shoes, household supplies, etc., shop locally.

If you're building something or repairing a structure, try to use a local contractor. And, favor the local dentist, physician, attorney, accountant, surveyor, etc. (It is interesting to note that as I write this letter I realize how much my own spending habits need improving).

Now, here are some suggestions for getting more of those dollars rolling into the county in the first place:

PROMOTE LIGHT INDUSTRIAL GROWTH - Manufacturers and related businesses generally create substantial payrolls and Charlevoix County can surely use more payrolls. Provided they are well located and non-polluting, new industrial plants, or the expansion of existing plants, can offer great benefits to the county.

Recently, the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners approved the formation of a county-wide economic development corporation. This was a wise move and our commissioners should be commended for taking this action.

Essentially, the creation of an economic development corporation will give to industries and other businesses that create employment the ability to finance the construction of new or expanded facilities at lower interest rates and at no cost and no liability to the county.

Unfortunately, there are thousands of communities throughout the United States competing for industrial growth. When you consider transportation, lack of easy access to large metropolitan areas and climate, Charlevoix County may be a less than desirable location for many types of industries.

However, we do have something going for us, Charlevoix County is an exceptionally nice place to live. Many of us know people from downstate who are engaged in the manufacturing business and who love Charlevoix and would like to live here year-round. Some of these people already own vacation homes or condominiums in the county.

Talk to these people seriously about adding a new plant in the Charlevoix area or simply moving their operation to Charlevoix County. And, if we have a shot at attracting a new industry to the county let's give that new business all the support and assistance we can. This includes site selection and acquisition, tax exempt financing, real estate tax abatement, etc.

Let us not overlook the existing industry that might wish to expand. They also deserve the full support of our government and citizens.

SUPPORT SECOND HOME AND CONDOMINIUM DEVELOPMENT - Economically speaking, the unsung hero of our county is the vacation home or condominium owner.

He brings his money from some other place to spend in Charlevoix County buying land and building a house or purchasing a condominium apartment. This in itself creates a substantial flow of dollars throughout the community as a result of construction contracts, materials purchased, furniture bought, real estate commissions generated, etc.

He pays real estate taxes on his property and a large percentage of all the real estate taxes collected in the county are from second home or condominium properties. Most of these tax dollars go to support the schools and almost none of the second home or condominium owners have children in our school systems.

There are presently a number of well intentioned individuals and groups living in the county who are actively opposing future condominiums or recreational land development projects. And, unless their attitudes can be changed, they may well succeed in crippling this vital local industry.

I can understand why the wealthy retiree or summer resident might like to lock the gate to the county and let no one else in after he has his niche secured. I cannot understand, however, why the fulltime resident struggling to earn a decent living would take this "stop the progress" view.

I believe that condominium projects should be carefully planned and controlled, but nevertheless, encouraged. Personally, I find most of the condominium structures esthetically pleasing while at the same time I see many offensive structures, signs and other distractions around the county about which no one is doing anything.

I propose we simply give condominium and recreational land development projects a fair chance and look upon them with an open mind. There are many benefits to be derived.

ENCOURAGE TOURISM - By the most recent estimate, over sixty million dollars is spent annually by tourists in Charlevoix County. Tourism is our largest single industry and we are wise to nourish and expand this business. Please contribute to your local Chamber of Commerce and take an active role in community events where tourists are involved. I could continue with more ideas to increase tourism: signs on the interstate highways, trees in our downtown areas, music in our shopping areas, convention centers, more events to draw tourists, more quality hotel rooms, and on and on. But the best advice I have is be nice to the Fudgies.

Occasionally we resent the tourists, particularly when we can't find a parking place or have to wait in line at the grocery store check-out counter. But just remember when you were last a tourist somewhere and how very important it was to you that people were warm and courteous and made you feel welcome.

And then remember how badly you felt about a certain resort community when someone made you feel like an unwelcome "Fudgie". If you've taken the time to read this entire letter I wish to commend you for your patient nature.

A better job of marketing

We need to do a better job of marketing the county. We need to take advantage of the strengths we have. We've got such great resources—scenery, people, the communities—we need to do a better job of selling those.

We can't have everything

People have got to make up their minds which they want—do they want things the way they are or do they want Detroit. We can't have both. Maybe taxes could be lowered if the people didn't want so much. We can't expect first run movies and libraries with 100,000 books. We've got a champagne diet on a beer pocketbook. We have to decide what we want.

How about a moto-cross track

Charlevoix County provides many nice outdoor parks. In the area are also many nice ski hills or cross-country trails. One addition to our county's outdoor recreation which I would like to see is a moto-cross track.

This could be organized by the county and would give otherwise trouble-causing kids something to do.

There are many adults and kids who would like to race. While the people raced they would have fun and gain responsibility.

One's progress can be another's eyesore

Will we ever see days again like the 1850s or 60s, sometimes referred to as the good old days?

I wonder what would be the words of John and Harriet Miller who landed their sailboat on the shores of North Boyne Nov. 14, 1856 and found a cabin deserted by the Mormons before them?

I wonder if they would be happy about a set of buildings called The Landings?

Would the Morgans be happy or sad to look up the ridge (now Elm Street) and see the condominiums being built?

These are a few questions I, along with other people, would like answers to.

We sometimes wonder if one man's progress is not another man's disaster and eyesore.

I would rather move back in time 50 years or so, not in age but in life style.

I feel that people lived better lives at that time and were happier then.

People did not have the pressures of scandals in high government or state and local levels, either.

You could buy a dollar's worth of goods for a dollar.

Is this movement we call progress really progress or are we blind to the way life really should be?

Our 100th year has been a great one!

We are almost 100 years old, but The Charlevoix County Press certainly isn't stodgy. We know that in today's fast-changing world, we all have to make changes and improvements to keep pace. Today's readers and advertisers like to have their papers in an attractive, easy to read, easily identifiable package.

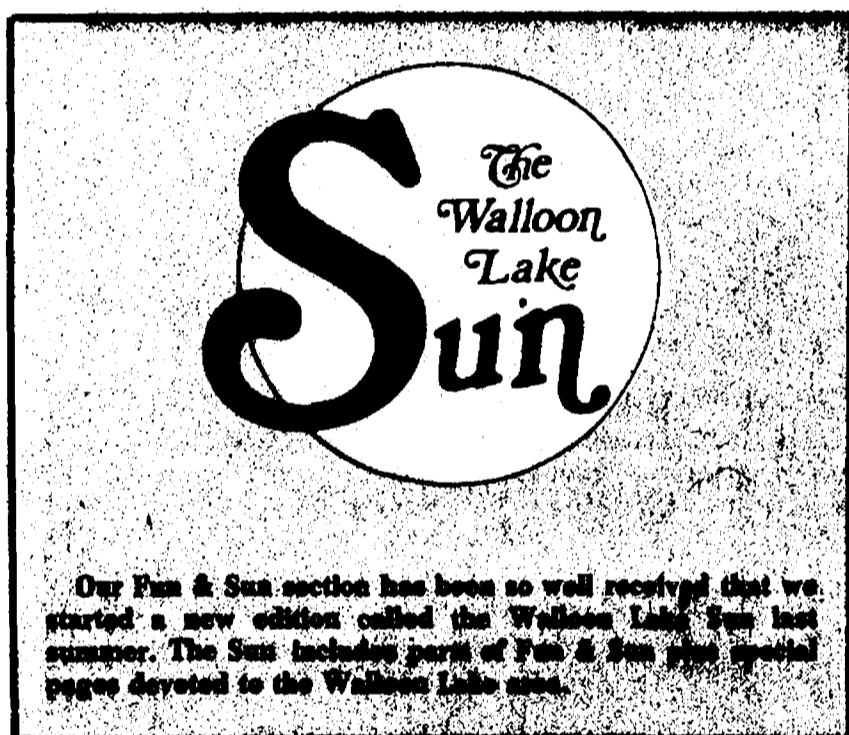

Supplement to The Charlevoix County Press
The Press published 22 special sections last year—more than ever before in our 100 year history. Topics included home improvement, elections, automobiles, grand openings, real estate, Artrain, basketball, football and Christmas.

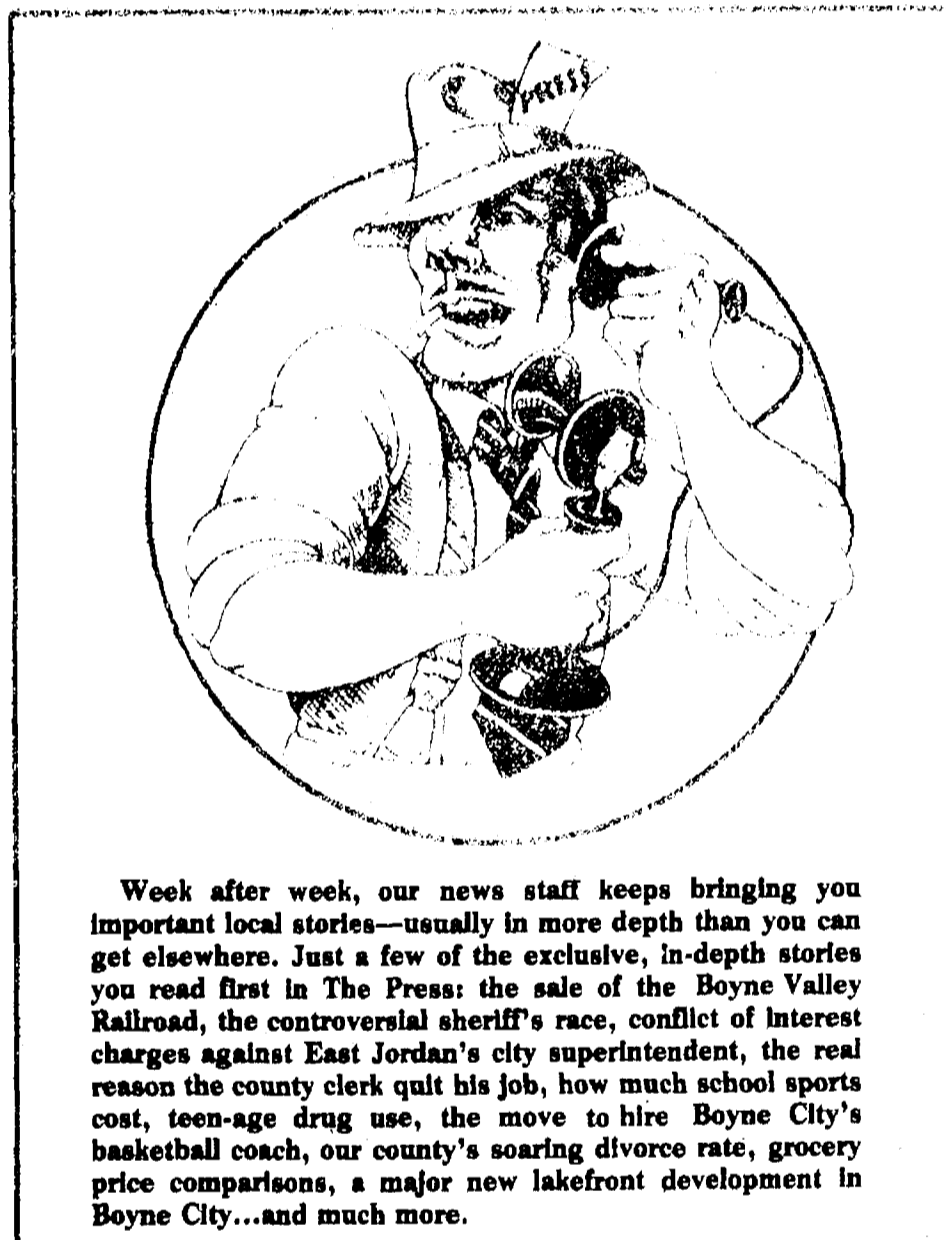

We're good neighbors. The Press provided more than a dozen full and part-time jobs last year, pumping nearly $100,000 of payroll checks into the local economy. Our people are actively involved in their communities, schools, clubs and organizations.

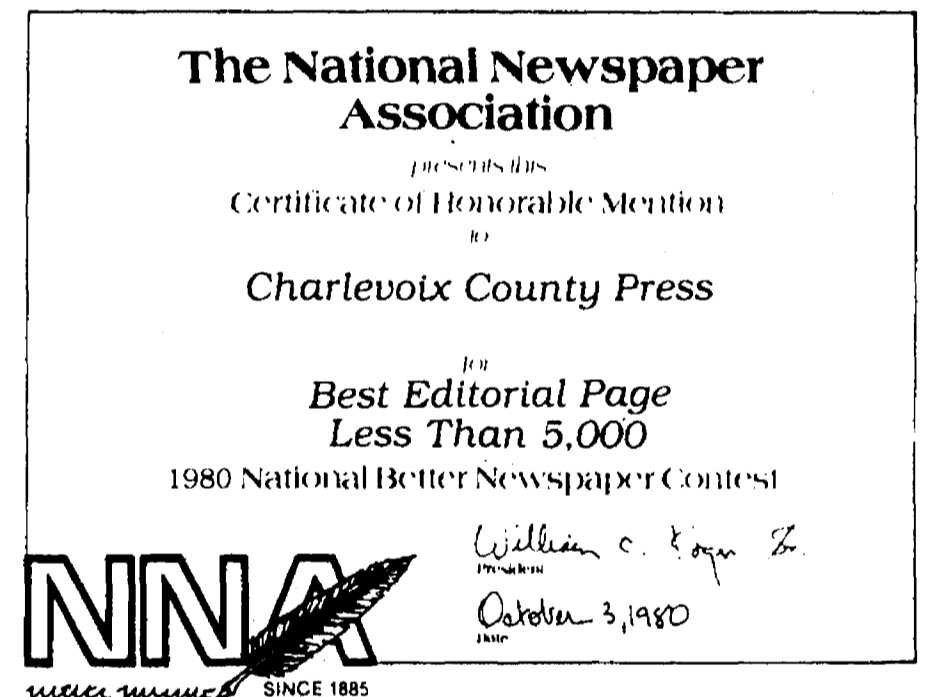

We introduced a bright new format this past fall. We made our columns wider (so the paper looks less cluttered) and we made our pages an inch narrower (so it's easier to handle). We're also more colorful. Our printer bought a new press last spring, and we've been able to have color in the paper every week since then.

Our Fun & Sun section has been so well received that we started a new edition called the Walloon Lake Sun last summer. The Sun includes parts of Fun & Sun plus special pages devoted to the Walloon Lake area.

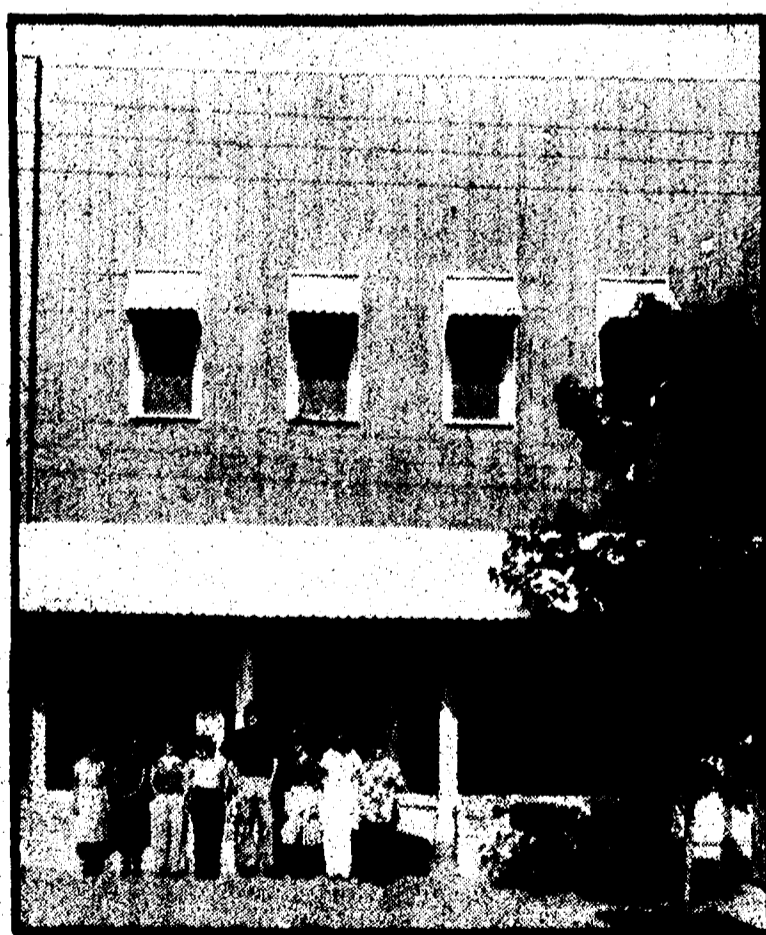

Week after week, our news staff keeps bringing you important local stories—usually in more depth than you can get elsewhere. Just a few of the exclusive, in-depth stories you read first in The Press: the sale of the Boyne Valley Railroad, the controversial sheriff's race, conflict of interest charges against East Jordan's city superintendent, the real reason the county clerk quit his job, how much school sports cost, teen-age drug use, the move to hire Boyne City's basketball coach, our county's soaring divorce rate, grocery price comparisons, a major new lakefront development in Boyne City...and much more.

NNA
SINCE 1885

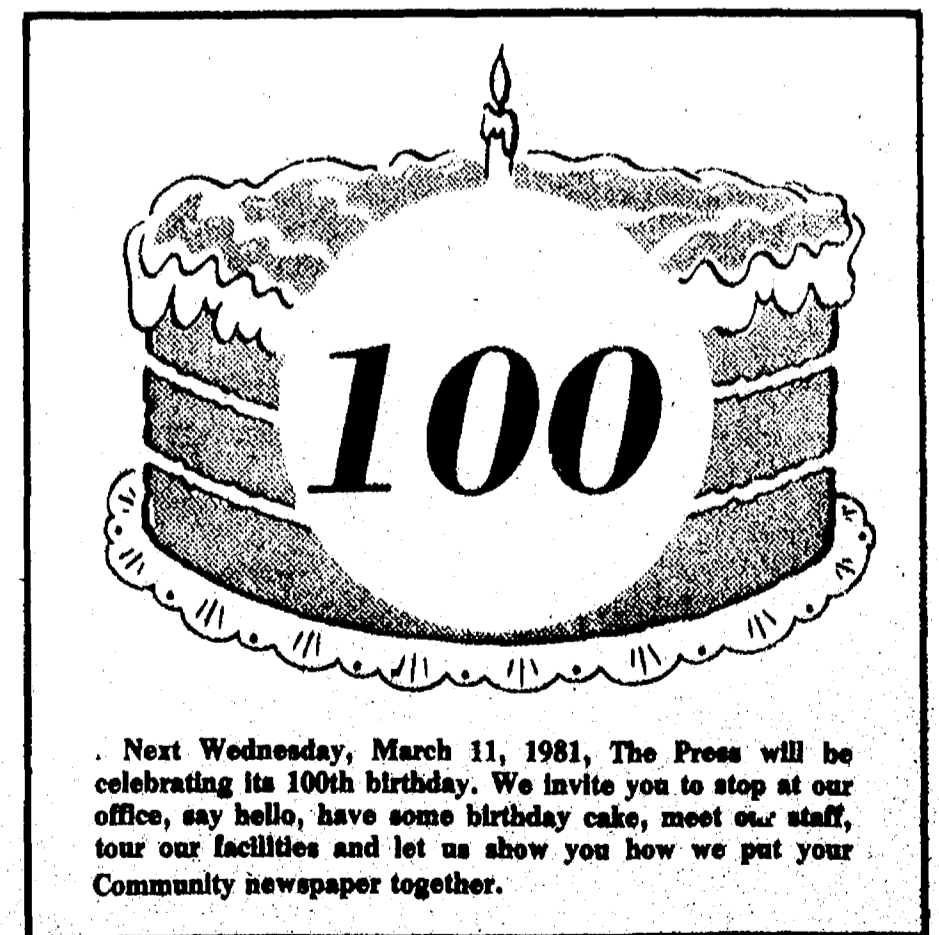

During National Newspaper Week last October, we were proud to have our editorial page honored as one of the top five in the nation among newspapers of our size. The year before our editorial page was named best in the state.

We moved into a new and bigger office last spring. Actually, it really wasn't "new." We returned to our old home at 106 S. Lake St., Boyne City after a three year absence. We're a growing business and our "new" office gives us room to grow. It's good to be back!

For the fourth year in a row, The Press was a sponsor of the Avalanche Ski Classic. This year, the ski race was expanded into a weekend-long Winter Festival by the Boyne City Area Chamber of Commerce, and The Press actively promoted the festival by publishing a special section.

Next Wednesday, March 11, 1981, The Press will be celebrating its 100th birthday. We invite you to stop at our office, say hello, have some birthday cake, meet our staff, tour our facilities and let us show you how we put your Community newspaper together.
