Hello, Dolly!

"Hello, Dolly" will be presented April 23-25 by the Boyne City High School Drama Department and, as usual, the students are heading for a box office sellout. The students presented excerpts from their production last week in a dress rehearsal for elementary school students. Dolly, played by Laurie Redmer, is serenaded by a host of waiters

Small businessmen face hard choices in economic slump

BY JAMIE BAUMANN

Tough decisions on buying, marketing, staffing and cost cutting face small business owners in Charlevoix County as they fight to stay in business during this depressed time for Michigan's economy.

"It takes darn good management to run a small business now, or you will lose your shirt," said Bruce Bartlett, Sr. from Bartlett's Decorating Center in Charlevoix.

"These past two years have made shrewd managers of all the small business owners who have stayed in business," said Carol Tighe, owner of the E.J. Shop in East Jordan. "We have become very careful buyers."

"You have to think of new ways to market, buy, sell and advertise," said Ed Barden of F.O. Barden and Sons Lumber in Boyne City. "You have to think about how to display things in your store—how to best utilize your space."

Blake Kenney, owner of Blake's Auto and Truck Service and also a masonry business, talked about the sticky personnel problems of seasonal businesses. "It's hard to keep a crew of workers when you're saying to them, 'We've got work this week and we don't know about next week.' Yet, good help is very valuable."

When businesses are going to be busy in the summer, it's hard to find the right combination of laying off or carrying employees through the slower times of the year, so they can keep the good help for summer.

Glen's Market in East Jordan and Kusina Motors in Charlevoix have extended the hours of people already working for them, but they have not hired new people as they might have in the past.

"We have about the same manhours as we had last year," said Mark Weisler, manager of Glen's Market. "But we have seven less employees. As people have quit, I haven't replaced them. I've given others more hours. The last time I hired was last fall—six months ago. My turnover rate is much lower now. People want to keep their jobs."

Dennis Kusina of Kusina Motors said he's had to cut people back, but when a situation arises where he needs another employee, he has been giving the current staff a chance for more hours and more diversification.

Higher fixed costs and lower customer volume is hurting most area businesses. Winter fuel bills are one example.

Don Toffolo, co-owner of Kaden's clothing store, said that he used to keep the thermostat set on 62 degrees 24 hours a day. But with heat bills 50 percent higher this year, Kaden's is now turning its heat down even lower at night.

Woody Everest of Gil Coon's Furniture said they have turned their heat down even farther. Fuel bills were getting so high that they decided to turn the heat down to 55 degrees all the time. Customer traffic didn't warrant turning the heat up. They put a space heater in the office for employees.

Glen's Market in East Jordan installed $1,400 worth of plastic curtains which Weisler said should pay for themselves in two years due to the energy costs they save.

Blake Kenney cited higher property taxes with lower business volume as a problem. He's running his business "very close to the wire."

Bar owners are especially hard hit by high costs. They must carry expensive liquor liability insurance to protect themselves. They could be liable for a customer's actions after that customer leaves their bars.

Mac McNicol, owner of the Boyne River Inn, said he paid over $10,000 in various insurance payments last year.

ment is really scraping to afford to live. He simply can't afford to go out for a beer."

Margie Fortune, manager of the Tannery in Boyne City, felt that their business was holding up well until the rain ended the ski season. She was glad to be holding her own and be able to make all her payments.

Almost all of the businesses contacted for this story complained of higher operating costs and lower profit margins. Henry Erber of E & M Standard in Boyne City said he was doing more business this year, but his operating costs were higher.

"People aren't buying new cars," said Erber. "They are spending more money to fix up their old ones than they would have a year ago. They're fixing up cars which in the past would have been traded in."

A few businesses haven't been seriously affected by the slow economy. Both Bogema Pharmacy and Bob's Pharmacy in Boyne City are experiencing a typical spring slack period, but it is nothing out of the ordinary.

"Pharmacies usually do better than

Businesses offer new ideas and bargains to lure customers

Innovative management is the name of the game for small business owners in Charlevoix County. They're coming up with bargains and new ideas in their competition for the consumer dollar.

Boyne City Lanes has made some changes. The owners have added a big television screen with sports and movies, said owner Tim Moody. They have also added machines which oil the lanes. This allows a bowler to be more consistent.

The Boyne River Inn plans to add a soup and salad bar for lunches which will be in operation by May 1.

Jim White at Ace Hardware in Boyne City said his store expansion and remodeling have allowed him to have more comfortable surroundings for the customer. He plans to start a spring sale this week.

Other businesses are having innovative sales. Kaden's is currently having "Beat the Dealer Mystery Discount Days" until April 30. This is a direct mail promotion. Customers were sent envelopes and instructed not to open the envelope until they enter the store. A clerk would open the envelope and tell them what their discount would be.

The customer plays "blackjack" against the dealer who has a hand of 17. If the customer hand is 18 he receives a 15 percent discount. If it is 19 he receives a 20 percent discount. A 20 gives the customer 30 percent off and a 21 gives him 50 percent off. Co-owner Don Toffolo said sales and customer traffic has definitely increased since the sale started.

Gil Coon's Furniture store is about to start a "preferred customer sale" which they had some success with last year. Woody Everest of Coon's said, "It is hard to decide how many sales to have. If you have too many, you give away too much merchandise and people will never buy things at regular prices."

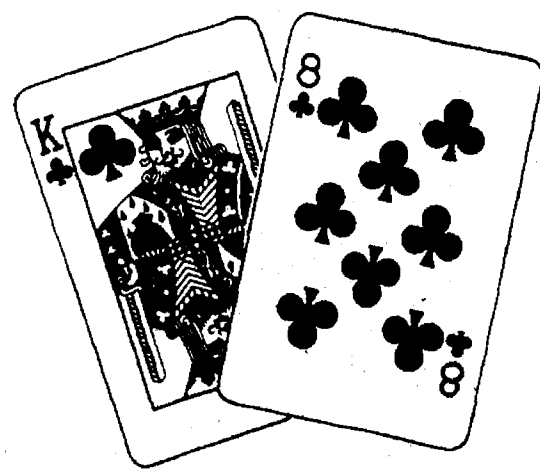

Chuck Sherk, owner of Chuck's Place in East Jordan, maintains a lower-priced beer which sells for 70 cents. "It gives customers an alternative to the higher-priced beers," he said.

Glen's Market in East Jordan has expanded its generic food section to offer a wider selection of low priced foods.

Schafer's store in Boyne City is adapting its product lines to meet new markets. A large part of their store which was formerly devoted to books has been converted to display area for their office equipment, which has proved to be a more profitable line.

Schafer's has also begun selling small computers in addition to office supplies, equipment and copiers.

Dinner ship should boost Charlevoix, merchants say

BY TRISH WRIGHT

CHARLEVOIX - Memorial Day may mean more than the usual summer kickoff to Charlevoix merchants this year. When the Beaver Island Boat Company docks its newest member of the fleet, a dinner ship called the Bay Queen, it will probably be met with more optimism than any passenger boat to pull into Charlevoix's Round Lake.

For generations Charlevoix has been a popular summer place because of its aquatic surroundings. However, the tourist trade may be bolstered this summer when there is an opportunity to dine and cruise on the water. The equipped with food, drink and entertainment.

"We're always booked full during the summer," says Jack Uhrick of The Lodge Motel in downtown Charlevoix. "But the dinner cruises may help our business during the color season next fall."

Another Charlevoix businessman thinks the Bay Queen could be Charlevoix's biggest asset. "It will increase our tourist base," says

Richard Georgi of Ski and Shore real estate. "I can't think of anything that will be better for the town or for Beaver Island. It will probably have a positive effect on real estate in both areas."

Although the Bay Queen will probably motor around Lake Charlevoix, it will be docked near the Beaver Island Boat Company's passenger ferries, the Beaver Islander and the South Shore. "I've heard some talk of the boat company using hydrofoils for passenger service from Charlevoix to Beaver Island. It would be a different way of getting there and much faster. More people would be attracted to Beaver Island," Georgi added.

Jackie Merta, Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce manager, believes that the Bay Queen would bring people to Charlevoix who have never visited the area before. "We've had a lot of publicity on the color cruises aboard the Beaver Islander each fall and people will make reservations for it just because it's a boat ride. I think the same thing will happen with the dinner boat."

But Dave Phillips of the Grey Gables, wonders whether the boat will be able to float financially even though it will offer an unique dining experience. "Anything of that magnitude would have to have a menu price that many could not afford," says Phillips.

"In addition to the cost of the food will be the operational costs of the boat and all its crew. That can be very expensive. It could be an excellent draw for the area if it survives. People want permanency, and if it failed it could give a false impression of the area."

According to one manager of the Sea Hawk restaurant in Williamston, under whose direction the Bay Queen kitchen will be supervised, there will be a seafood buffet for $20. "The boat will be moving and reservations will be necessary. We've already lined up a dance band and will probably cruise during dinner for two and a half hours."

Some restaurant owners believe that the Bay Queen may hurt their dinner business initially but will eventually bring more diners to their own establishments. "The degree to which it enhances or hurts our business depends on how much they will charge for dinner and how much people are willing to pay," says Sue Balmer of The Weathervane Inn. "I would hope that it just brings more business to the entire Charlevoix area."

Gary Zundel, proprietor of Duffy's in Charlevoix agrees, "The competition might be good for restaurants in the area if the Bay Queen is a viable and well-run restaurant."

"It takes darn good management to run a small business now, or you will lose your shirt," said Bruce Bartlett of Charlevoix.

More than half of that amount was for liquor liability insurance.

His electric bills are averaging $365 per month and gas is running from $290 to $345. These costs plus payments on the business and the building are expenses which must be paid no matter how many customers he serves.

McNicol also pointed out that competition in the bar business in a resort area like Boyne City is fierce. State guidelines normally call for one liquor license to 1,500 population, he said. Boyne City with a population of 3,300 had 11 bars until the Sportsman and the two bars in The Dilworth closed. Even with a good tourist population, that makes for tough competition.

The hard economic times have forced Chuck Sherk, owner of Chuck's Place in East Jordan, to return to his former profession—a stockbroker—sooner than he intended to go back.

"Bars used to be fairly durable during depressed economic conditions because the unemployed had more time on their hands," Sherk said. "But in the last five years, that has changed. The cost of the basics has gone up dramatically and now a person on unemployment is really scraping to afford to live, because we're more resilient," said Bob Winhusen, owner of Bob's Pharmacy. If people are sick and need prescriptions, they'll usually buy them in good or bad times and cut down somewhere else."

Gemini Lanes owner Gene Plite of East Jordan and Boyne City Lanes owner Tim Moody both said they felt the economic crunch when it came to open bowling. But their "bread and butter," the bowling leagues, were still strong this year.

Moody said that if financing costs become more reasonable, he will add on because there are teams that want to bowl in leagues, but he can't accommodate them all right now.

Plite was less optimistic about the future. With extremely high unemployment in East Jordan, he is getting nervous about what will happen when unemployment benefits expire for those who have been out of a job for a long time.

He has noticed a slight drop in business this year. "People in the leagues who bowled last year and then

Boyerne musicians rated excellent

BOYNE CITY - The Solo and Ensemble Festival for schools in 13 cities in the area was held in Central Lake on April 11. Eleven entries from Boyne City's seventh through ninth grades qualified for Division I, which is a rating of excellent.

Trios in Division I were Jon Toton, Mark Bogetto, and Scott Sutliff for percussion and Shelly Landon, Becky Dole, and Karen Larson for cornet.

There were five divisions in the festival, sponsored by Michigan School Band and Orchestra Associates, District II.

'You'd be amazed at the talent'

In the world of school where young people sit in rows (because that is efficient) and memorize information continually, art is a necessary contrast. Art requires entirely different mental processes.

They call it creativity, but more exactly it is a series of mental steps: first the stirring of stored impressions, selecting from them the combination that fits the particular feeling, and then with increasing skill, making visible the feeling in perhaps a painting or sculpture of some kind.

A different process, but used in everything. When it isn't, we miss it. We expect astronauts, for example, to be information-oriented, but we're disappointed if they offer us no appreciative impressions.

So among the events at schools, the art events are singular. Besides that, when they come along, we can see them for our own pleasure.

All this week and next, art work from area schools will be exhibited in Crooked Tree Council's annual Youth Art Exhibit. The show is at the Virginia McCune Community Arts Center in Petoskey this year for the first time. It's worth the trip.

"Even if you don't have children, even if you don't care about design or interior decoration, the children's art exhibit is more fun than going shopping."

Among the schools represented is East Jordan's Elementary School.

Sharon MacJennett, art teacher in East Jordan for nine years, shared a few of her art-teaching ideas.

They do a lot of talking in her classes, she said, about being observant, about the slides she brings. A first grader picked out all the pictures that were by VanGogh, she said.

How? By the brush stroke, explained the first grader!

MacJennett has every student from kindergarten through sixth grade once a week.

She says they like paints best, but often they combine media: colored paper, oil pastels, inks.

"Never tell them how it's supposed to be," is MacJennett's dictum. "It's their own way of communicating" once they understand the technique.

"They don't have the command of language that we do," she added, "so they communicate through drawing with their magic markers and so on."

The younger children have a great deal of enthusiasm, MacJennett noted. "They are excited about using materials...They get so disappointed when somebody says, 'What is it?' They are just happy in what they are doing."

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

They like good art (MacJennett hangs up prints), and are good critics of their own work.

Older children are hung up about having to have their work look like somebody else's. "I have to remind them it would be boring if everyone does the identical thing," MacJennett said.

"I think people would be amazed at the talent in the area."

Maybe MacJennett doesn't know how many adults prowl through the elementary school just to look at the art work hung along the halls.

Of course, some children come in resisting the chance to be artistic. But she said she can see them change. And students who think they can do nothing—"all of a sudden it clicks!"

MacJennett remembers her own sixth grade teacher who fanned her interest in art.

"I think it's how much we allow-ourselves to be loosened up," she said. For people who back off, saying "I can't even draw a straight line," she said, "When do we ever need straight lines?"

Anyone who goes to the exhibit can see how many ways besides drawing lines there are to express an artistic idea.

What name should a widow use?

A widow, until she remarries, should keep her husband's name. She should be addressed not as Mrs. Margaret Jones, but as Mrs. Joseph Jones.

If she were to remarry, she would have the option of using her first husband's name as a middle name or of dropping his name and using her own maiden name. If she'd been married a long time and if she had children, she would undoubtedly keep the name of the man with whom she spent many years and which identified her with her children.

BOYNE CITY - The best of the best filled out the answers in the Region II Mathematics Competition in Gaylord on Saturday, April 11. Emerging with third place was Boyne City's Sam Potter.

From East Jordan came a ninth place winner, sixth-grader, Mike Lercel.

Jane Brown, math teacher in East

Jordan, said over 400 students participated in the timed test given to contestants from sixth through eighth grades.

Jamie Bartlett, sixth grade, and Joe Kornowski, in seventh, qualified also, being in the top 25 who will go to Central Michigan University for the state contest on May 16.

The competition required the sixth grade contestants to answer the first 60 questions; seventh graders had to answer 70; and 80 were assigned to the eighth grade level.

Some of the questions involved math processes the students had never studied as a means of narrowing the field. Still, the highest score, Boyne City teacher Marty McCullough reported, was 69.

Debbie Molnar, who was in the top 25, will participate with Sam Potter at the Mt. Pleasant event in May.

Meantime, yes, the contestants will be deep in assorted math books.

Planning the 4th

BOYNE CITY - The Fourth of July planning committee is now working on this year's Independence Day celebration.

"We really could use people to help us out," said chairman Gary Schafer. Anyone with ideas for activities or who would be willing to help organize existing activities is invited to the group's next meeting, he said.

The committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 20, in the city manager's office at City Hall.

A major responsibility of the committee is to raise money for fireworks. Fund-raising activities will include a raffle, a breakfast and the sale of mugs and T-shirts. Other major events for the weekend include a parade, running races, art fair, chicken barbecue, raft races, tug-o-wars, beer and polka tent and an auction.

Committee members include Schafer, Joni Zucchiatti, Butch Erber, Jack McLeod, Tim Clifton, Ron Bishop, John Talboys and Marilyn Roberts.

The Way It Was

Historical radio spots, taking news stories directly from the pages of The Press and its predecessors, are now being run on WKHQ radio, 106 FM. The radio spots are part of the continuing 100th birthday celebration of The Press.

Attorney dies

CHARLEVOIX - Frank Hoffman, 31, Charlevoix City Attorney and Charlevoix County Assistant Prosecuting Attorney, was found dead in his home Monday.

The Prosecutor's office reported Tuesday that an investigation by city police and an autopsy on the body showed that the accidental death was attributable to choking.

Funeral services are scheduled for 10 a.m. Thursday at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix. Mr. Hoffman is survived by his wife Cheri and two children, Jeff Allan and Julie Lynn.

Same millage

BOYNE CITY - Figuring a nine percent increase in property values in the district and assuming the state tax proposal will be defeated on May 19, Boyne City superintendent Rich Kelly presented the school board with a budget of $2.9 million—a bare 7.8 percent increase over last year's.

The board agreed to ask 21.4 mills at the June 8 school election, renewing the same millage asked last year.

But if the tax proposal passes, Kelly said, the school will be out about $80,000 in tax revenue. This, plus the possibility of other state and federal cuts would make either more budget cuts or more millage necessary.

Already cut at Monday night's meeting was half of the community ed position and the half-time position of assistant principal.

The board approved of the sale of the old Horton Lake school for $5,000, and of a low bid of $5,200 from Robinson and Carpenter of Mio for this year's audit.

EAST JORDAN - Assisted by their consultant, Dr. Carl Brautigam, and representatives from placement bureaus of five Michigan universities, East Jordan's school board has sifted through 91 applications for the school superintendent position.

School board president Mary Jason commented that of these 27 fulfilled their requirements, including the "three key things—financial experience, public and staff relations, and curriculum." She said that was an unexpectedly high number of very acceptable candidates.

These have been narrowed to seven who were interviewed last Friday and Saturday.

Next week the board will visit the communities of some of the candidates.

For now, Jason said, the board had "met some terrific people—people who knew their business, knew what a school wants—people excited about education."

Business beat

Co-ownership working well

BOYNE CITY - An innovative way of sharing ownership in business is being tried by a realty company in Boyne City.

Real Estate One of Boyne, which held its grand opening earlier this year, is now co-owned by six members of its staff. All six own equal parts of the business and the office building.

Arthur Poineau, one of the six co-owners, explains: "All five have worked for me for some time, and we all work well together. I made it very attractive for them to buy into the business because I want to keep this same team of people."

What often happens, Poineau said, is that a real estate agent will get his broker's license and then "walk down the street and open his own office. I want to keep that from happening here."

The co-ownership arrangement also has other benefits, he said. "It's amazing the kind of team spirit that we're getting. People are turning out lights, sweeping the walks...we've got cooperation that I never knew existed."

Co-owners with Poineau are office manager Richard Copeland, Don MacNaughton, Mary J. Nickels, Lee Ekstrom and John Kujawski.

Most of the staff worked together at Colwell and Company before the local Real Estate One franchise opened in January.

Tootsie Roll drive

Members of the Boyne Valley Knights of Columbus were conducting their annual Tootsie Roll drive to raise funds for the mentally retarded last week. The Knights were in Boyne City, Boyne Falls and East Jordan collecting money, which will be used to benefit retarded people from this area.

Cancer proclamation

Boyer City Mayor Keith Fitzpatrick signed a proclamation last week declaring April as Cancer Control month in the city. Looking on is Geri Howard, the Boyne City area Cancer Crusade organizer. Volunteers are now contacting people all over the county for donations to help fight cancer.

stopped by the lounge for a couple of drinks are starting to cut out the drinks and go home," he said. "They just don't have the money." Even if the economy picks up in six months, Plite still feels people will take awhile to get back on their feet.

Jim Tomlinson, owner of the East Jordan Dairy Corner restaurant, said he hadn't been noticeably affected by the poor economic conditions. He has owned the business for a year and a half and business has increased monthly. But he added that the business had started at a very low level.

Business is about what Manager Mark Weisler had projected for Glen's Market. The poor economy is changing customers' buying habits, he said.

"People in East Jordan aren't buying steak or fancy foods," Weisler said. "They're buying basic foods rather than premade foods, unless there are two people working in the household. We're selling more macaroni, rice, potatoes, etc."

A little more than a year ago, Glen's didn't carry any "no-brand" generic products. Now, Weisler has expanded the generic food section to 44 square feet. "People are willing to sacrifice a little quality for price just to feed their families," he said.

"There has been a tremendous increase in the amount of food stamps and WIC commodities," Weisler said. WIC is a federal program providing certain types of free food to pregnant women, infants and children.

One problem which is becoming more frequent is theft. Three to four hundred dollars of merchandise is being stolen weekly from Glen's.

"We're catching more adult shoplifters, where it used to be mainly children and teenagers," Weisler said. "People are stealing more edible merchandise. Meat is a big item being stolen."

Weisler doesn't think the theft is caused by starvation or hunger. The luxury foods which people are doing without are the items being stolen. "People are tired of not having the money for a steak or a cake mix," he said.

This shoplifting hurts all the consumers, he noted, because the loss has to be figured into the cost of Glen's merchandise.

Chuck McDowell, board chairman of Northwestern State Bank, said the bank's total deposits are up, and they are providing more banking services, but their profit margin is down. Loan collections are slower than at this time last year.

"We're trying to be as responsive as possible to the problems of our borrowers. We try to work with borrowers who are earnestly trying to pay off their debts. We encourage borrowers who are having difficulties to contact us," McDowell said.

McDowell predicts that it will take 12 to 18 months before the interest rates will come down significantly. He doesn't expect to see single digit levels for at least two years.

High interest rates are hurting construction-related businesses like Bartlett's Decorating Center in Charlevoix. "The people buying from me now have money in hand for items they purchase," said Bruce Bartlett Sr. If people have to borrow to do their decorating, they are waiting for the interest rates to go down."

Although people aren't building additions or new homes, Bartlett has noticed that people doing business with him are fixing up their houses themselves.

The "do-it-yourselfer" is what is helping Ace Hardware in Boyne City's business, said owner Jim White.

Dennis Kusina of Kusina Motors in Charlevoix said January and February were worse for car sales this year than last year. But in March car sales showed an increase over last year. He said this was due to the rebate programs from the auto manufacturers.

Kusina and most of the other business owners contacted felt business would be good this summer. "If the other local businesses do well this summer," he said, "those people will have the money to buy a new car this fall."

Sometimes, even big city papers get their news from The Press...

...and you, too, know more about what's going on in Charlevoix County by reading The Press.

When you read The Press, you regularly read news and features that you won't find elsewhere. Our April 2 exclusive story on publisher John McGoff buying the Beaver Island Boat Company was picked up by United Press International, The Detroit News and many other media throughout the state.

Even though we come out just once a week, we're still first to report many significant news and feature stories to the people of Charlevoix County.

We were first to report on the move to decrease the size of the county board of commissioners. A new 72-unit condominium development in Eveline Township was also reported first in The Press...as was the story that another group of condominium developers was negotiating to purchase the Boyne Valley Railroad.

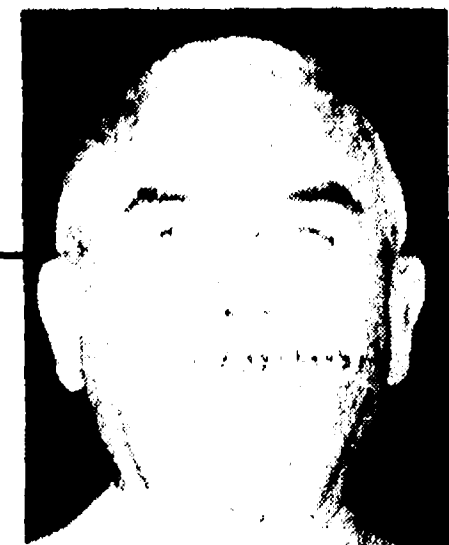

But we're not all hard news. Some of our recent in-depth features have delved into the future of cable television, our county's unusually high divorce rate, the memories of a 74-year-old former hobo, death and funerals, water rate comparisons, and the simple lifestyles of the residents of Heartwood Community. And don't forget our thought-provoking editorial page, which was judged one of the best in the nation last year.

McGoff buys ferry firm on Beaver Island

BOYNE CITY, Mich. — Michigan publisher John P. McGoff has bought controlling interest in the Beaver Island Boat Co., Charlevoix city officials confirmed Thursday.

Ray Wood, deputy mayor, said an announcement was made at a city council meeting in January that McGoff, president of the East Lansing-based Panax Corp. and an avid boating enthusiast, bought 51 percent of the company's 4,000 shares sometime between last October and January.

Before that, McGoff was a minority stockholder in the company, which operates a passenger ferry service between the mainland and Beaver Island in northern Lake Michigan.

According to a report in the Charlevoix County Press, McGoff, who docks his 100-foot yacht, the "Global Star," in Charlevoix and maintains a summer home in the resort community, bought the stock for $90 per share from 30 to 40 stockholders, the newspaper said.

It quoted one unnamed stockholder as saying, "Previous to McGoff's offer, there hadn't been an offer for more than $75 per share."

Fred Annand, vice-president of the Beaver Island Boat Co., told the newspaper that McGoff bought the stock through a corporation called Waters Edge, Inc.

Annand, McGoff's neighbor at his permanent home in Williamston, would not say how much the publisher paid for the stock. McGoff is board chairman of the corporation which operates out of Panax Corp. headquarters in East Lansing.

Brad Leach, city planner for Petoskey, said the city has a one-year agreement with the company for new passenger ferry service from Petoskey to Beaver Island.

The company is to pay $3,600 for use of municipal docking facilities. The service is to operate from Memorial Day to Labor Day.

McGoff's Panax Corp. published 83 daily and weekly newspapers before stockholders started a liquidation program last August. McGoff was the subject of a federal investigation centering on funds from South Africa but has denied all allegations.

Staff writer Jean Gadomecki and United Press International contributed to this report.

Floating restaurant should be good news for the economy

Wow! A dining ship which seats 200 for dinner and 400 for drinks and dancing is coming to Charlevoix. That's big news—and good news for the local economy.

The new dinner boat, called the Bay Queen, will be arriving here in a couple of weeks as part of the "new" Beaver Island Boat Company. Also new this spring will be a ferry from Petoskey to Beaver Island, which should also be a boost to the area economy.

This new look is mainly due to a new owner, publishing magnate John McGoff, who bought controlling interest in the boat company this past winter. McGoff is a boating enthusiast who maintains a summer home in Charlevoix.

McGoff has always been a man with big ideas. As president of Panax Corporation, he operated 83 newspapers and even tried to buy the Washington Star and Detroit News. But now Panax is selling all its properties, which means McGoff and other stockholders have plenty of cash to invest—and he has apparently dreamed of starting a floating restaurant for years.

McGoff has been a controversial figure in recent years, but controversial or not, new dollars and new ideas are always welcome in a local economy that can always use more tourists and more attractions for them.

Unique attractions such as a floating restaurant, a Boyne Valley Railroad, a Castle Farms Music Theatre or a Boyne Mountain always generate lots of press in the metropolitan papers. They love to find new angles on what their readers can do for fun when they go "up north" for the summer.

And of course, there is the "volume builds volume" axiom. The more tourists and tourist attractions we have, the more we'll get. More tourists may come to Boyne Mountain or Boyne City or Walloon Lake or East Jordan...because there is a floating restaurant in nearby Charlevoix.

At any rate, McGoff's purchase and big new plans for the Beaver Island Boat Company were quite interesting, and another healthy sign that people still have confidence that Northern Michigan will always be a place where people will want to live and visit.

The stage lights will go on, the curtains will glide back and for awhile, the exhilarating world of "Hello Dolly" will be...everything. (Photo by Bill Fry)

Boyne has the extras for movies

Hollywood is coming to Michigan. Or haven't you been reading the papers?

Governor Milliken went to California with the idea of talking some film companies into doing their shooting here. There's already been a couple of movies made on Mackinac Island and some in Detroit. Now the governor wants film makers to consider Michigan more often.

We have beautiful scenery that would make excellent background for movies.

But I've got to warn the people of Boyne City. Someone in East Jordan has already asked that a movie be shot there.

So Boyne City had better get on the stick.

We've got enough background here to satisfy any movie mogul. Every time I go downtown I see Boyne City's background. It's much better than East Jordan's background. And we've got some excellent characters who might fill in as "extras."

Marshall Sayles

Just the other day I saw some extra characters acting in East Jordan's background. They can't compare with Boyne City's characters. Here we do it on purpose. Over there it only happens when they forget what they went downtown for.

And there are other reasons why film makers should choose Boyne City. I was with a group that was trying to hire some clowns for Boyne's Fourth of July Parade. There weren't any available. They'd all been spoken for.

Finally, one of the members said, "What's the matter with us? We've got plenty of clowns right here in Boyne City. And they might work the parade for nothing."

That's why I say Boyne City would be a better place to shoot movies than East Jordan. We've got the background, the characters and the clowns—in case they want to "shoot" a parade.

No, East Jordan doesn't seem to have it for movie making. Those people aren't up to snuff like we are.

I can't wait to get a letter off to Governor Milliken and tell him about this. He should know that if the movie is to be a comedy, Boyne City's the place.

And if the movie is going to be anything like that stuff on television, he should be informed that East Jordan is out.

They don't have a single person who can trot sideways like a dog.

Wandering from world to world

Just change worlds. That's what I heard a teacher say once to explain how to enjoy reading Shakespeare. (This really isn't about Shakespeare.)

Still we do have to leave our usual world in order to make any sense out of Shakespeare's world of queens and kings talking poetry as they do by the hour.

But that is the world Shakespeare made.

Each playwright puts together his or her own particular world. An absurd world, tragic world, or maybe a fantasy world with the Wizard of Oz.

For us who visit them, the worlds may last a few hours, or perhaps we never entirely leave them again.

Writing a play or going to a theater is one way people make worlds for themselves. The urge to build a house or clear a place for a garden or buy an island is also the desire to make one's own private world with everything the way one likes it.

Of course, there have been people who wanted to make the whole world their world.

At the other extreme, I think, is the woman I knew who played solitaire every evening after she got her family fed and the chores out of the way.

Turning the cards over and placing them, red and black, red and black made a nice world with no crises. A world in which she was boss.

Barbara Cruden

Having children is another way to make a world. It allows people to have their own values reflected back to them, more or less, by their children. Customs come into being, and recollections accumulate to make a history of this "little world within the world."

And artists and cartoonists set up their own worlds in which people may be as thin as spaghetti and cats may talk.

A classroom may become a world. Mathematics itself becomes a world to some. A business is all the world there is to someone else.

But the best world-makers know all along that their worlds are only their particular windows, looking out on a universe that twinkles distantly while it also whirs under the hand, a universe so vast and complex that it can inspire these many worlds and inexhaustibly more.

What prompted all this worldly rumination wasn't quite Shakespeare, but it is quite something. It's Boyne City High School's annual musical, coming April 23, 24, and 25. (April 23 is Shakespeare's birthday!)

This year it will be "Hello Dolly," and as always, people in the audience will not only escape their usual world for the delightful, improbable world of the show, but also, circling in and out, they will feel the presence of those other worlds, the world of friends or of their children or their students who will be the performers. Worlds in a world.

Maybe that's why these musicals are always special.

So, the stage lights will suddenly go on. The curtains will glide back. The show will begin. And for awhile this special, exhilarating world will be... everything.

Condo swappers come north—to bowl?

The concept of time sharing was explained to me earlier this week and it seemed to be a very good vehicle for getting to vacation areas that one would not ordinarily be able to afford. Just trade your time sharing week in one resort for someone else's. Condo swapping.

However, a time sharer should investigate the area he has chosen and be aware of the off-season weeks and the peak weeks. For example, a couple was recently told that they would be able to ski in this area until Easter. They packed up all their ski gear and came north for what I understand to be one of the most boring vacation weeks they have ever had.

I think our ski resorts did a fine job of extending the ski season as far as possible. But, unfortunately we can't ski into summer any easier than we can swim into the first snowfall. There are admittedly a few weeks out of the year when the only available recreation consists of bowling, fishing or smelt dipping. These interim days between our peak seasons may be recognized as breathers for us locals but what the tourist might think of them could be another matter.

If only our disappointed ski enthusasts would hang around to listen to the barbershoppers' concert on May 2 or enter the mushroom contest on May 9. I hate to think of anyone going away from here with the wrong impression.

Many suggestions have been heard about the things we could invent or promote to entice the tourist to our area on a year-around basis.

If I were to choose one, it would have to be bicycling. Bike trails from downtown Boyne City to Whiting Park, the State Park or Horton Bay would be scenic excursions for the backpacker or day tripper during all but the winter months of the year.

Mothers wouldn't have to worry about their children biking in traffic to the beach and it would be one more recreation attraction of which Boyne City could boast.

Now comes the intelligence that East Jordan, Boyne City, and on through Clarion to Mackinaw is to be the route of the C. & W.M....With such natural manufacturing advantages as we possess, let us once be assured of a winter outlet and we will have a dozen manufactures (sic) here inside of as many months, and it's bound to come.

Syrup time and the Watkins man

When my husband and I reminisced about our childhood we both agreed that the Watkins man was as important to us as a source of good things in our lives as the Sears Roebuck catalog.

Walter said that their Watkins man came with a horse and buggy.

My memory stretches back in time when our Watkins man visited our farm in Sycola County. About twice a year he arrived in a Ford built like a square box with one door on each side in about the middle of the car. It was one of the first "closed" cars in the neighborhood.

His car was filled with the most wonderful things. He brought two huge suitcases into the house and we crowded around to see him open them out flat in the middle of the floor. Mother bought vanilla and lemon extract and black pepper and Papa always needed Watkins liniment and carbolic salve. These were used for both animals and humans. No farmer could get along without Watkins liniment or carbolic salve.

We thought he was very nice because he let us smell of his fancy soaps and perfumes. I wonder if it was always a coincidence that he arrived at our house about mealtime. One time Mother did not have any bread baked so she made pancakes and applesauce. He acted like it was one of the best meals he had ever tasted. I do not remember what he looked like except that he wore both a belt and suspenders to hold up his pants.

Charlevoix County Commissioners Minutes

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
MARCH 11, 1981

A meeting of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners was called to order at 9:45 AM by Chairman Clyde Cunningham.

ROLL CALL

Roll was called and the following members were present: Commissioners Ingalls, Cunningham, Davis, Bieganowski, Harmon, Breakey, Annear, Toton, Sutliff, Loding, Ward and Moerland, 13. Absent, Haggard, 1. Excused, Meggison, 1.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag was led by Commissioner Bieganowski.

APPROVAL OF MINUTES OF PREVIOUS SESSIONS

Moved by Commissioner Davis and supported by Commissioner Toton that the minutes of the February 18, 1981 session be approved as submitted. VOICE VOTE: all present in favor.

Commissioner Haggard entered at 9:50 AM. Commissioner Breakey and Emergency Services Director Muma discussed a correspondence handout. The letter from Joseph O'Sullivan indicated his concerns about the nuclear emergency pamphlet distributed by the Emergency Services department. Commissioner Ward requested that the letter from Mr. O'Sullivan be entered into the minutes.

"Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners

"Subject: Originators Correspondence calling for a Review and correction of possible misconceptions and errors in the Pamphlet Guide to Charlevoix and Emmet County Emergency Operations Plans of December 1980.

"Enclosure: (1) Letter on subject to Federal Government
(2) Detailed critique of subject Pamphlet

"1. I would like to bring to your attention the subject correspondence as interested parties. I have been working on this correspondence for the last two weeks to get my position and stand on the subject to as many interested parties as I can by sequence of seniority.

"2. I ran into the pamphlet at a hearing held by Federal, State and County representatives held in Petoskey 15 Dec. 80. Subsequently I began to study and investigate the problems with Realistic Emergency Operations Readiness and the regulations and guidelines pertaining to same. I would like to know who on the Board of Commissioners and the County Planning Commission approved it?

"3. If you are perhaps wondering why I haven't brought this to your attention first, I would like to point out I tried on two occasions to open dialog on same with the Emergency Services Director.

In addition:

"A. It was very obvious to even the casual observer, that little board interest is evident as for instance at the above mentioned meeting, no County Commissioner was present. It seems to me that an appearance was incumbent of Commissioners Cunningham and Breakey as a minimum.

"B. Since Federal Guidelines and regulations are involved and do not seem to be being met, it is primarily theirs to correct.

"C. My overall impression of the Commissions interest in civil defense matters is that of a cursory (sic) level only. I intend to further study this by the past record, lest I am unfair.

"I would appreciate if you would look into this matter seriously and let me know if I am inconsistent (sic) with your goals for Emergency Readiness."

s/Joseph F. O'Sullivan.

The Board responded to Mr. O'Sullivan's letter, including comments by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission on the adequacy of the pamphlets which are available to the public.

Commissioner Breakey read a letter from Phil Loomis, Public Relations Officer at Big Rock Nuclear Plant, who extended an offer to take the Board on a tour through the facility. Moved by Commissioner Ward and supported by Commissioner Bieganowski that the invitation be accepted. VOICE VOTE: all present in favor. The tentative date for the tour is March 26, 1981 at 7:30 PM.

Commissioner Ward reported that the Parks Commission has no written by-laws because the Commission operates by statutes. It was the feeling of the majority of the Board that written by-laws should be formulated and presented to the Board for review.

Commissioner Moerland reported on meetings he attended in Washington, D.C. concerning the Manpower Consortium and the payment of unemployment compensation for CETA employees who have been laid off. He indicated that federal monies will be set aside to handle unemployment charges for various units.

The Board recessed at 10:45 AM for committee work.

The Board reconvened at 1:30 PM.

AFTERNOON SESSION

Roll was called: present, 14. Excused, Meggison, 1.

He outlined the operation of an EDC and pointed out that authority for the corporation lies with the governing body (in this case, the county). He also pointed out that a county EDC avoids duplication of efforts by a variety of agencies.

MARCH 18, 1981

A special meeting of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners was called to order at 7:45 PM by Chairman Clyde Cunningham.

ROLL CALL

Roll was called with the following members in attendance: Commissioners Ingalls, Cunningham, Haggard, Davis, Bieganowski, Matthew, Harmon, Breakey, Annear, Toton, Sutliff, Loding, Meggison, Moerland, 14. Absent, Ward, 1.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag was led by Commissioner Breakey.

Frank Hoffman, Assistant Prosecutor, handed the Board copies of a letter from the Hamilton Fixture Company stating the company's intention to pursue bonding under Act 338. He also distributed copies of the Inducement Resolution under Act 338 and the alternative Resolution of Intent under Public Act 62.

Commissioner Ward entered at 7:50 PM.

Mr. Clapman, bond counsel from Miller, Canfield, Paddock & Stone explained the difference between issuing bonds under Acts 62 and 338. Local attorney Thomas Pointner then explained why Hamilton Fixture Company wanted both resolutions adopted; basically to provide an alternative in the event that bonds can not legally be issued under Act 338.

John Schlegel, President of Hamilton Fixture Company, was introduced to the Board. He outlined a brief history of his organization, indicating that the Company has experienced a 36% growth over the last 10 years and a growth rate of 50% in the last 3 years alone. Mr. Schlegel indicated that his company projects increasing employment at the Freedman facility by 25% over the next 5 years--an actual increase of 125 to 200 employees.

Commissioner Haggard discussed the Ways & Means Committee's credit check on the company. The Ohio banks surveyed had nothing but praise for Hamilton Fixture. The Committee found very high recommendations from all sources contacted.

A general question and answer period followed.

WHEREAS, pending incorporation of the EDC, it is necessary for the County to assure the Company of its intention to issue the Bonds through the EDC prior to ordering of Project components by the Company, in order to establish the local public purpose for issuance of the Bonds and induce the Company to locate with the County; and

'Lotsa work, lots of fun'

'Hello, Dolly'—everybody's show

Jon Bogema and Matt Chellis, playing the parts of Cornelius Hackle and Barnaby Tucker, discuss a couple of new-found female friends.

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

BOYNE CITY—"Everybody likes to see a musical," says Bob Wollenberg, who has directed the annual show for Boyne City High School for nine years now.

This year's musical is "Hello, Dolly"—everybody's musical. Performance dates are April 23, 24, and 25. And dress rehearsal on Tuesday, April 21 will be half-price for a limited number who can't get tickets for the regular performances at the elementary school auditorium.

Everybody knows about the high school musicals. Everybody goes. It's always a sellout. It is gala fun for everybody, including the cast and stage crew.

Ask Marty Moody, who plays Horace Vandergelder. "Lotsa fun. Lot of work."

The 65 students and band have been practicing since February. It is an immense job with a chorus and dancing, costumes out of the 1800s, and singing and comedy to polish, polish, polish.

"There are five scenes with everybody on stage," Wollenberg notes.

The home economics students, with teacher Carol Lauterback supervising, made the red vests worn by the 12 nimble waiters.

Jackie Wollenberg is costume designer and found students to make the wild hats with big brims women wore in those days. The secret is pizza boards, it is said.

Jackie is also assistant director without whom, her husband says, there would be no show.

Innumerable details funnel through the hands of student director Liz Walls. Ticket sales, promotion, Hello Dolly T-shirts, and the program whose advertisers help so much towards paying for the $1,100 rights to put on the show.

"The town is just super," says Wollenberg.

The sparkle starts the minute the curtain goes up. There's Laurie Redmer, reminding you not a little of Barbra Streisand and head waiter Matt Sturm who combines presence with suave choreography; and watch for Miss Money—that's Kelly Smith.

Without a dance teacher, everyone gets together over how to do the dance ideas. One dance number in the original show is left out—but that's all. For the rest, the show is pure "Dolly."

Not as easy as most musicals. Music directors Joan and Jim Bogetto said the music is more difficult than that for last year's "Sound of Music."

"You don't see many schools in the area putting it on," Bogetto said in the Boyne High Press.

About one-fifth of the school is involved, Wollenberg said. Notable are the stage crew with Mike Morgan and Dave Bieganowski, headed by Mike Bieganowski.

Wollenberg breaks into high praise at the mention of their names.

Chuck Britton's art students did the sets and Mark Philipp, the posters.

Kristy Johnson is in charge of make-up.

And, as usual, more than high school students are involved. Jim and Sue Douglas, who have helped in previous shows, are in stage crew and make-up, respectively. Students from middle and elementary school are participating in the cast.

With so many, it is hard to name them all. Matt Chellis is a stage natural. His buddy Cornelius (Jon Bogema) is one of the world's stumbling dreamers. Sheri Sutliff and Shelley Stevens make the whole thing seem real. For some more names, add the talents of Steve Morgan as Ambrose and Terri Landon as Ermingarde. And add the invisible excitement that says "show time!"

Tickets—what's left of them—may be bought from drama class students, or at the high school office.

Yes, Marty. Lotsa work. Lot of fun.

Wollenberg says. "If it isn't fun, why should we be here?"

Dolly dances through Harmonia Gardens with Tom Ellis and other waiters. (Photos by Jim Baumann)

Lions plan egg hunts

The Lions Clubs of Boyne City and East Jordan will be sponsoring Easter egg hunts for children with prizes to be awarded for the top three finders of candy eggs in each of five age groups. The East Jordan egg hunt will begin at 1 p.m. on Saturday, April 18 at the tennis courts on M-32. Toddlers through 13-year-olds are welcome to participate.

Children will hunt for eggs at Veteran's Memorial Park in Boyne City on Easter Sunday, April 19. The hunt will begin at 1 p.m.

Hospital nearly finished

CHARLEVOIX - The announcement that Charlevoix Area Hospital's Emergency Room has been relocated to the front of the hospital, coupled with the completion of construction on the new two-story wing along Lake Michigan shore, marks the beginning of the homestretch in the hospital's renovation and construction project.

The new rooms, decorated in blues and greens, with a view of Lake Michigan, on the top floor of the new wing next week. Administrative offices have already moved to the ground floor.

By mid-summer the finishing touches should be completed. Plans are now underway for a public reception once all the work is completed.

'Vote' is winning essay

Local winners in the 12th annual America and Me essay contest, sponsored by the Farm Bureau Insurance Group, have been announced in East Jordan. Winning first place with her essay entitled "Vote!" is Joanie Carter.

Right now, as a 13 year old, I can't vote. But I can listen to the candidates and find out what they believe in. That's more than I can say for some grownups.

Second place winner was Jonathan Golke and third place was Norman Howard. All are students at Faith Lutheran School in East Jordan.

You often hear grown-ups grumbling about what the President is or is not doing. Well, they're the ones who put him in office and some of them didn't even do that.

The winning essay now advances to the state level competition from which the top 10 essays in Michigan will be selected. Open to all Michigan eighth grade students, the annual contest had several thousand students from 425 Michigan schools participate in the 1980-81 contest.

What I'm trying to get at is that many people in America don't exercise their right to vote. Plus, some of those who do vote don't know much about the candidates.

The winning essay by Joanie from East Jordan is reprinted below.

When I'm old enough to vote, I will not only vote, I will encourage my friends to listen to the candidates and vote for the ones they think can help America become a better America.

EJ may have some lifting champs

Dave Karlskin, probably East Jordan's top lifter, bench presses 315 pounds as Steve Graham looks on.

EAST JORDAN - There may be a few champion weightlifters in East Jordan High School this spring.

Under the direction of local policeman Bob Christensen, 13 students are members of the East Jordan Powerlifting Club, which has been in existence for three years.

But this spring will be the first time any of the weightlifters have a chance to see just how well they can do in actual competition.

The big test will come on May 16 when some of the East Jordan students compete in the Michigan Teenage Powerlifting Meet. It is held at Western Michigan University and is sponsored by the U.S. Marine Corps.

Christensen notes that some of his weight lifters are doing as well as last year's state champions in some lifting divisions.

Four of the East Jordan lifters are standouts who should place in the state meet, said Christensen. They are Dave Karlskin, Jim Spence, Pat Slate and Bill Spence.

Karlskin took a third place trophy in a recent meet in Traverse City, while Pat Slate took a fourth place. Christensen said the two did quite well in that meet, considering that it was their first formal meet and that it was open to all ages and not limited to students as the May 16 meet will be.

Most of the EJHS students didn't join the Powerlifters Club to earn trophies, though. "Mainly, it gives the kids something to do after school," Christensen said. "They can stay in shape for sports, too. I know the football coaches think it has certainly helped their program."

Indeed, most of the lifters are on the football team, and some play other sports as well. Working out with weights gives athletes both strength and stamina.

"If you remember our football games, most of them were pretty even in the first quarter," Christensen said. "But by the second quarter our guys would just wear down the other team. They'd just start rolling right over them."

In the three years that the weight club has been in existence, coincidentally or not, the Red Devil football team has won three league championships and has lost only two games.

The weightlifters work out three days a week in a small room just off the high school gym. The walls of the weight room are decorated with paintings of cartoon characters like Mickey Mouse and Tony the Tiger—lifting weights, of course. The paintings were done by club member Brian Stanek.

About half of the weightlifting equipment is Christensen's, while the other half was purchased with donations from the Lions and Lionesses, Glen's Market, East Jordan Lumber and Medusa Cement.

The club will soon be buying more equipment, thanks to a successful lift-a-thon fundraiser which brought them $440 earlier this month.

Boyer City tennis coach optimistic about season

BOYNE CITY - "I'm looking forward to a good season this year." That is what tennis coach Fred Rice thinks about the upcoming season.

"I'm optimistic even though we have a young team composed mainly of sophomores and freshmen. We are very enthusiastic and hope to have a successful season."

freshmen Mitch Kruzel and Scott Moody.

Coach Rice said, "All the teams on our playing schedule are tough competitors with Petoskey being the strongest. Our home meets are held at Rotary Park, which is one of the finest facilities in the area for high school tennis teams. The park seems to make the team more enthusiastic."

The team meets Elk Rapids at 4 p.m. next Tuesday, April 21 at Rotary Park. Coach Rice invites any interested spectators to come watch the meet. "It really makes our day when we see people that come to give us their support."
