Millage options set; EJ won't cut principals

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

EAST JORDAN - After two hours of discussion with 30 or 40 residents who attended a special meeting, the school board approved three resolutions for millage Tuesday.

The first was to renew at the June 8 election last year's 21.2 mills for two years, instead of the usual one.

The second was to ask for an additional two mills to maintain some programs for one year.

The third was to request an additional one-half mill to support school sports for one year.

The first and second votes were opposed by Dan Nachazel, who was concerned that some vocational education programs would be cut.

Tom Galmore voted against the second and third resolutions because he believed these additional request would have a better chance of being passed at a second election in August. He also thought there might be changes in the financial situation by then.

Also approved was a resolution to retain all three school principals, but the board reserved the right to modify the duties of the middle school principal to include other possible concerns—secretarial, teaching, nursing and guidance.

For several weeks previous to this meeting, the possibility of dropping one principal slot had been discussed, and all administrators had been pink-slipped.

Early in the meeting, Supt. Mel Rullman had reminded everyone of the failures of four requests for additional millages in the past year. He explained that although state aid plans had fluctuated a great deal, the situation was about $50,000 better than they had expected, but that the system would still be about $150,000 or three mills short of servicing the present school program.

Fred Malpass, spokesman for an ad hoc curriculum committee added, "If we only get a renewal millage, we will get even less of a school system than last year."

Most of the discussion that followed Rullman's review centered on the millage, and it appeared that the suggestions of those attending the meeting became influential in the board's decision which followed the discussion.

Comments were brief. They began with Buck Cihak's request for the half mill to be earmarked for sports. Cihak is president of the Athletic Boosters.

The volunteer organization has since December been supporting an after-school athletic program, both with money and volunteer service of all kinds.

Others commented that settling the teachers' contract would contribute significantly to passing millage.

With the additional two mills, the board explained they hope to keep elementary art and music; middle school counseling, reading, and physical education; and high school building trades.

To make it a two instead of three mill additional request, the board reluctantly accepted the idea of re-scheduling high school classes from 55 to 45 minutes and adding a seventh period thus cutting out four teachers.

Supt. choice expected in 1-2 weeks

EAST JORDAN - It will still be a week or two before the selection of a new school superintendent is announced.

President Mary Jason said the school board has narrowed its list to three candidates, and board members have visited two of the three finalists. The third visit will probably be made later this week, she said.

Jason said four of seven board members went along on the "team" for one of the visits, while five members participated in the second visit.

She said interviewing 10 candidates and visiting three other school districts has been extremely educational and rewarding.

"There are so many terrific, qualified people," she said. "It has been a very positive experience."

"It's really something to see that many smart, positive men. In spite of the current plight of education, they all had very hopeful, positive things to say. We picked up all kinds of things—different approaches to problems."

Jason said all of the final candidates currently hold the position of superintendent or assistant superintendent.

"The board felt we needed someone experienced in public relations, curriculum, finance, and staff relations—we don't want to be a training ground."

Media stalking Boyne's mushrooms

BOYNE CITY - The upcoming National Mushroom Hunting Championships seem to be drawing even more than the usual amount of media interest.

Rick Sylvain, travel editor of the Detroit Free Press, was in town last Wednesday working on a feature which is scheduled to appear in this Sunday's travel section.

Sylvain sampled a mushroom burger at the Boyne River Inn and then went more hunting with Dana Shaler, who is always among the leaders in the final tally of mushroom hunt entrants.

Rose K. Kanetaka, producer of a popular Japanese travel documentary series called The World Around Us, will be filming the mushroom hunt for her program. Kanetaka had wanted to film last year's hunt but was forced to change her plans at the last minute.

Peter Canby, a resident of New York City and a writer for Audubon magazine, has already sent in his entry fee for the hunt. Local Chamber of Commerce officials presume he will be writing a story for the magazine.

By the way, if you're interested in entering the mushroom hunt on May 9 and 10, you can save $1.50 if you enter by May 1. Entry fee is $3.50 until that day and $5 after.

Festive opening for two-county art center

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

The doorway of the building next to the public library in Petoskey is garlanded in flowers because of a big celebration.

It's for the grand opening of the Virginia M. McCune Community Arts Center on Friday, May 1.

A new carved-wood sign also identifies the new center as the dream-come-true for members of The Crooked Tree Arts Council in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

The grand opening, which arts council members will attend, will also host Mrs. William Milliken, wife of Michigan's governor, and a long-time supporter of the arts.

Mrs. Milliken was here about ten years ago in support of the Arts Council when it began.

Since then the council has been busy on a quickly widening horizon of art interests.

Susan Storm, administrator for the new center, notes there are more artists in this area than there are in all of the state south of Interlochen.

Mrs. Milliken is coming because of that reason also, "Storm said, adding, "It will be quite an elegant affair!"

Storm stressed the new center is "not just for Petoskey. It happens to be housed there," she said.

Active members from Charlevoix County already know it is theirs also, and so, Storm explained, should everyone interested in performances and showings that will be scheduled at the center.

The building itself was formerly the home of the United Methodist Church of Petoskey. The church agreed to sell the 100-year-old building to the Arts Council for $125,000 cash.

For two years now, members, friends, school children, and artists donated cash, helped with renovations (which will continue), and provided beautiful furnishings to make possible this long-desired focus for the arts.

Celebration of their goal will be not only at the opening on Friday evening but will go on for the entire month.

Opening on Saturday, May 2 and running for the month will be a juried show of art in a variety of categories—painting, photography, and so on.

The artists—over 100 of them from Antrim, Cheboygan, Charlevoix, and Emmet Counties—will vie for awards running from the purchase prize, down through a $300 first prize, $200 second, $100 third, and honorable mentions in all categories.

Dennis R. Bojen, director of There's lots of room for art exhibits in the new Virginia A. McCune Art Center.

Jesse Besser Museum, will be the juror, and the awards will be announced at the reception.

Hours of the exhibit are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on opening day, May 2, and one to 5 p.m. on Sunday, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on week days.

The Little Traverse Civic Theater production of "Oliver" is another important event in the month-long celebration.

"Oliver," with Boyne City sixth grader Bill Casper playing the lead, will be performed May 7, 8, 9, 12, 14, 15 and 16.

Storm said Artists North had a work bee to get a gift shop ready for operation beginning in May. The shop will feature art work by area artists.

The center, she said, will also house art classes for children and for adults. Music lessons, too, are being planned.

The art center is located in an old church building.

And, she emphasized there will be a community room available as well to non-members for all kinds of community events.

The environment for all this activity is a very Victorian landmark.

Fran Tollas, Charlevoix Arts Council member, ticks off the huge stained glass windows, carved oak beams, and oak pews with their velvet cushions as some of the outstanding features of the old building. She commended the council's effort to preserve the building's original quality.

Some interior modification is necessary—white walls to set off the exhibits in the gallery. And modifications were necessary to make raised levels for orchestral and theatrical performances possible in the auditorium with its rows of pews.

On the ground floor there will be a permanent art gallery and already a couple of artists are renting studio space there, Tollas said.

So development is continuing. "They're looking for a grand piano (for concerts)," Tollas noted, saying a fund has been started for that purpose.

And events will continue apace, now that the arts council has such a hospitable focus.

The point made and underscored by Storm is that the center is for everyone, the Arts Council, as well. Everyone can belong. And the Virginia M. McCune Community Arts Center, launched this weekend, is now the capitol of this arts world of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

County planner

Final interviews for the position of county planner will be conducted Monday afternoon, May 4.

Interviewing of the top six finalists from a field of 56 applicants will be conducted by the executive committee of the County Planning Commission—Dennis Jason, Tom Wieland and Walt Thorsen.

Jason said the interviews would be held in the county building and will be open to the public, although an exact time and location for the interviews was not determined as of Monday.

The executive committee hopes to make a decision soon after the interviews, so a recommendation can be considered by the full Planning Commission at its May 7 meeting. Final approval would then be made by the County Board of Commissioners.

Jason said he hopes the new planner can start work soon. "We've got a lot of important work that needs to be done—like our new Economic Development Commission and a solution for our solid waste problem."

The position has been vacant since John Hess resigned April 3.

EJ park work

EAST JORDAN - Work began this week on the berm—an earthwork about four feet high—along the M-66 boundary of the Tourist Park.

The berm will be landscaped and all kinds of trees added, City Superintendent Herm Rasch said.

The idea is to provide a better setting for both tourists and local people who use the park.

Also part of this phase of park work will be raising the elevation of the drive for drainage, curbing, topsoil, and street planning, Rasch said.

As for the berm—it will go 1000 feet along the highway. More will be added in the next phase.

Funds are $30,000 from a federal grant and $7,500 set aside by the city.

Sheriff's posse

Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lassater is attempting to organize a group of citizens who own horses to assist the sheriff's department in volunteer duties that would include the search and rescue of lost citizens, downed aircraft and stolen property in wooded areas.

Members of the posse must be willing to contribute their time to the sheriff and act under his authority and direction. Volunteers will receive no compensation.

For more information contact the sheriff's department at 547-4461.

Lake pollution

BOYNE CITY - Storm sewers are lake polluters. That was the message at the city commission meeting Tuesday.

Commissioners heard a presentation by Charles Grant from Northwest Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission.

Grant described what his crew had learned in a storm water study ordered by Traverse City.

One thing, under the not unimportant heading of citizen participation, was noted by Commissioner Catherine Jessup.

"It doesn't help to pour our used crankcase oil, mineral spirits, and so on into the storm sewers," she said.

Clifton noted that it goes straight to the lake.

Building damage

BOYNE CITY - Damage to the water department building will not affect water supply, according to City Manager Tim Clifton. It does, however, "pose an immediate threat to the safety of anyone in the vicinity" Clifton noted.

The building was hit around 2:30 a.m. on April 25 by an automobile driver. There was also severe damage to the front of the car.

Health center gets $237,000 grant

EAST JORDAN - The East Jordan Family Health Center Rural Health Initiative grant for $237,000 has been approved for the upcoming year. This is the health center's fifth year of federal grant funding. The grant covers a period from April 1, 1981 through March 31, 1982.

The services provided by the health center will continue about the same as in the past year, according to Neal Colburn, health center administrator.

It is hard for Colburn to project what will happen with the grant funding at the end of this year. Currently, as a part of President Reagan's proposals, Congress is debating a "block grant system" where the federal government would give block sums of money to the states, and each state would be in charge of setting its own funding criteria, Colburn said.

"How this would affect the health center, it is just too early to tell," he said. "But even if the legislation passes, there won't be any funding changes for at least a year."

Colburn and the health center board have reviewed the budget and looked at the services which could become self-supporting in the future if necessary.

Colburn believes that possible future funding changes pose no threat to the continued existence of basic medical services at the center.

If the patient load at the center continues to increase at its current rate, Colburn is optimistic that the medical practice will be able to sustain two doctors if federal funding is discontinued.

Sensible ideas for Castle Farms concerts

A number of sensible suggestions have been made by neighbors and public officials who want to improve crowd and traffic control around Castle Farms Music Theatre.

The best sign is that a citizen's group has formed to provide better documentation of complaints about concert-related problems. The group can sort out the truly valid complaints and try to seek reasonable solutions to recurring problems.

We've heard all sorts of random complaints about things that have happened before, during and after concerts, but when they are all put together there is certainly a more compelling case for action.

People who live near the Charlevoix concert facility, as well as Marlon Township officials, hospital personnel, the sheriff and other county officials are getting fed up. Sheriff George Lasater said complaints of trespassing, property destruction, indecent exposure, drug and alcohol and numerous traffic problems were common last year.

Last year seemed to be a shake-out period. More concerts were held in 1980 than any previous year, and the township was still in the process of ironing out its crowd control ordinance.

Township officials tried to keep Castle Farms owner Arthur Reibel from holding several concerts by denying his permit requests. But the court would not stop concerts which were already planned, because the township could not prove that the health, safety and welfare of area residents was in jeopardy.

With one year's experiences documented, perhaps a better case might be made for stopping concerts this year if Castle Farms does not comply with township, law enforcement and health officers' stipulations.

Editorial

Frankly though, we hope our governmental system of compromise will prevail. We don't want to hear more "horror stories" about the concerts, but we also think Castle Farms should be given a chance to let the new activism of local citizens and officials sink in.

The sheriff and the citizens' group have some excellent proposals for dealing with the concert problems. But in all fairness to Castle Farms, a reasonable length of time should be allowed for discussion and implementation of these suggestions.

We agree with Sheriff Lasater that fencing in the parking area and prohibiting parking on all nearby roads would be a top priority for crowd control.

A head tax on tickets to help defray the cost of more police protection is also an intriguing idea which is worth pursuing. (Even a 25-cent tax per ticket would produce $2,500 if 10,000 tickets were sold.)

We think the idea of limiting attendance at concerts is, however, impractical. Energy would be better spent working on the other problems, which would make the concerts safe and pleasurable for any number of people.

Hopefully, Castle Farms and its neighbors aren't that far apart on key issues. The sheriff reports that Reibel already has plans to hire additional crowd control staff and to install signs directing concert-goers to line up their cars on the shoulder of the road, so other traffic can use the highway.

Reibel has also looked into the possibility of fencing for the parking areas, although he reportedly wants to delay this for awhile. Local pressure and better documentation of past problems will hopefully convince him to change his mind.

Castle Farms can truly be a fine asset for our county and its tourist-oriented economy, but significant changes must be made to protect taxpayers, property owners, drivers and concert-goers. Let's hope it can be worked out amicably—and out of court.

Letter to the editor

Remarkable... lampposts are recycled

Editor,

Congratulations to the city for the installation of ornamental lamps, which were not bought new but taken out of storage, in Old City Park.

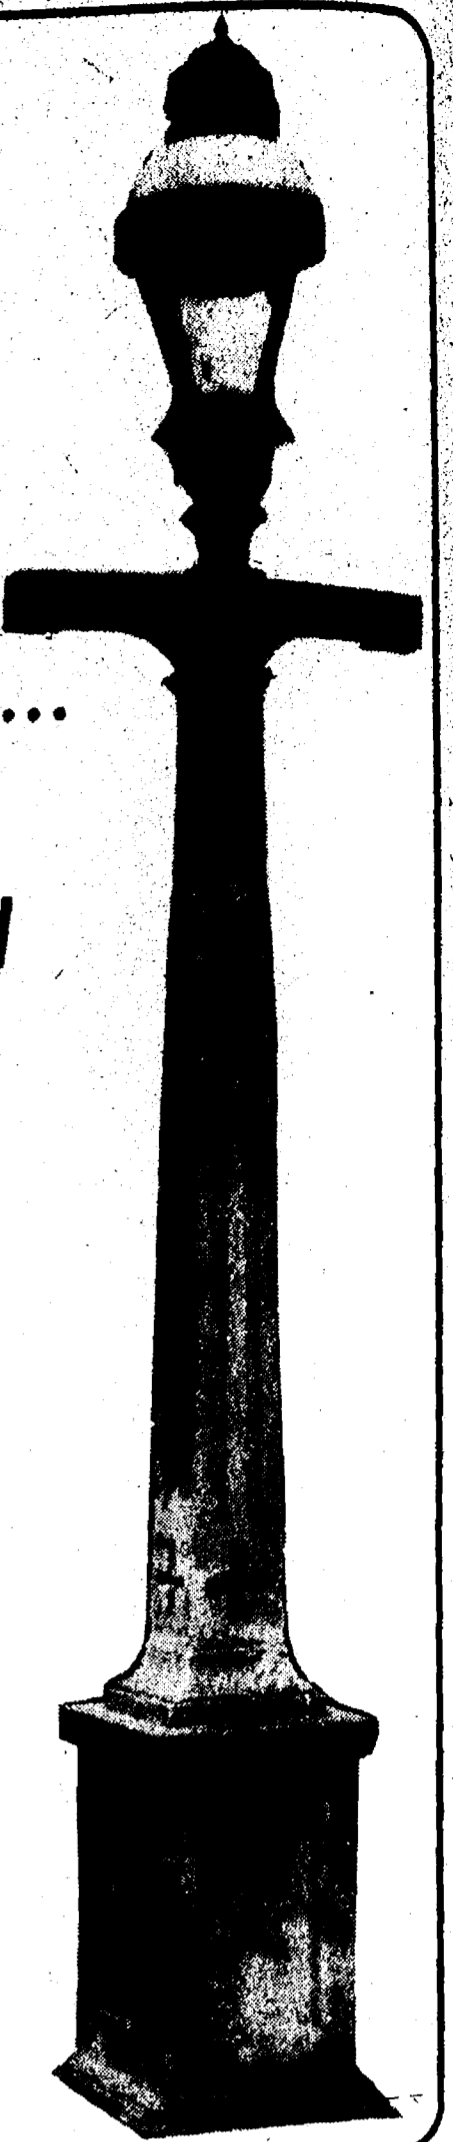

Looking at them, I would guess that these were Boyne City's "boulevard lights" of about 50 years ago. At that time, there were grassy parkways for one block on South Lake Street from Main to Pine, on South Park Street from Main to Pine, and on North Park Street from River to State. Each parkway had two lights, one at each end, which had two or three globes instead of the lamps.

I imagine these parkways were put in to add a touch of elegance to the newly paved streets. (All paving was concrete in those days.) They were removed in the early 1930's because of increased automobile traffic.

I recall with nostalgia the beaten path from school traffic on the one on South Park Street across from the Methodist Church.

In this throwaway society, it is remarkable that these posts were saved—to add a touch of elegance to our present-day park.

A barrow full of money plus a moral

I pushed a wheelbarrow into the bank to get enough money to buy our weekend groceries. The teller thought it rather unusual for a person to draw off all his money at one time.

I explained that it took a lot of money to feed two people as well as those who might drop in and sniff around at mealtimes.

Looking at the wheelbarrow and noticing how rusty it was, the teller began to sympathize with me. People usually stand still when they sympathize. But as I rambled on with my miserable story the teller began moving around, sprinkling sympathy all over the place.

There's a moral here. (I said moral, not mushroom. That's a more. A moral is something that if you're smart you ought to know. Besides, I know how to spell. What's the matter with you, anyway?)

So the moral of the story is this: When it takes a wheelbarrow full of money to buy groceries for two people to eat in a house that isn't paid for, TIMES ARE TOUGH.

Ever since the government invented inflation, we've been living hand to mouth. Just the other day I checked the price of pickled pig's feet and put my hand to my mouth to stifle a scream.

Those who think that I actually wheeled a barrow into the bank can hold it right there. I used the word "wheelbarrow" as a figure of speech symbolizing how much is required to keep the wolf from the door these days.

The word "wolf" is also used as a figure of speech. There hasn't been a wolf in Boyne City since women asked the Supreme Court to muzzle 'em. Years ago it was a caution when the wolves did in Boyne City. I don't dare tell how they operated because in a small town the truth is sometimes looked upon as pure poison.

The word "poison" is another speech figure. I could have said "vexed" or "offended" or "horrified." But I didn't. I used the word "poison" because it smacks of stronger stuff and comes closer to hinting at Boyne City's bygone naughty truths.

Now, about pushing that wheelbarrow into the bank. Since you've forgotten I'll explain again. That word was used to emphasize the fact that it takes a heck of a lot of money these days to buy almost nothing.

Nothing, mind you. Nothing! That means zero with a great big hole eaten out of the center of it.

I find myself full of hope that I've gotten my point across; if there's anything I can't stand it's a man with a wheelbarrow so full of money he can't get his point across.

The explanation of certain words in this column was necessary. For whenever I write an article of such importance, I always do my damndest to be clear as well as Bible thumping honest.

I'll take mushrooms or Jelly Boynes

In a book called "Quest For The Best," author Stanley Marcus identified his conception of the good life. He writes that his whole life has been a search for quality and perfection. Like Diogenes looking for an honest man, Marcus picked up a silver candelabra and set out on a road to Purism.

I've never been there. Since I wasn't wearing Gucci Leather, my shoes wore out and my simple cotton frock lacked his heavy starch stamp of approval. Not to worry. I bought a Sara Lee pound cake, sipped a cup of Lipton and decided that elitism only named the size of my words, not my type. And besides Stanley Marcus really hasn't tasted or observed the best of everything. Because nowhere in the book was there any reference to the sampling of Northern Michigan manna, the morel mushroom.

I'll pass up pate foie gras any day for a bath of fresh mushrooms, morel style. Germany may have its Oktoberfest and Paris its season, but Boyne City's mushroom festival is as unique as any European holiday.

The National Mushroom Hunting Championship is coming up as fast as the morels in the woods. This mushroom, indigenous to our area, will soon be sought by competitive stalkers in a race against the clock. The 22nd annual mushroom festival on May 9 and 10 will include a carnival, parade, steak and mushroom dinner, a hunters' ball and even a mushroom seminar.

Boyne City merchants will be offering special discounts and prizes with in-store mushroom madness promotions. Even Neiman-Marcus couldn't come up with a better angle.

Stanley missed another delightful edible in Boyne City—"Jelly Boynes." They are the ultimate in jelly bean eating. Combine a red bean with a tan and you have peanut butter and jelly, or black and white for chocolate-coconut drops. The confectionery combinations are the brainstorm of Judy Kostin at Rainy Day Lady. They are as much fun to eat as mushrooms are to pick.

From a hill to a green beetle—that's art

A sense of art is like a sense of humor. When people haven't developed one it is hard to explain to them what they're missing. It's just that a sense of art, like a sense of humor, makes all the difference.

Believing in this difference, The Crooked Tree Arts Council has, you might say, bent its back to the effort of fostering the sense and giving opportunity to enjoy it. We celebrate with them in the opening of their new Virginia McCune Arts Center.

So what is art?

One way of saying it is, art is something done that gives others a new and deeper feeling about life and/or the universe.

In non-art terms, I guess that's pretty heavy. It certainly does not apply to the use of the word art as a skill, such as the art of making friends or the art of fly-casting, valuable and complex as these may be!

The trouble is with art as with humor, if we take it literally, we miss the point.

Barbara Cruden

They don't write books about how to appreciate a joke, but they do write at length about art—like now! But that is no doubt because it is thought that humor already belongs to the masses since we in the masses have to laugh off our troubles.

Art, on the other hand, is thought to belong to the rich and snooty. Not so! But they do know, as they know these things, how to market it better. They can afford the time.

Still, we do not need to be wealthy to look at the hills around us and feel the answer they give us. Some days they look so patient, and some days the sun hits their brown backs and they look as though they may rise in a second and roar like lions.

And we look at them when the mist drops delicately among them and marks, "This is near. This is more yonder. Feel the difference; feel the depths."

Mist talks that way, but we don't—what would people say!

Besides the hills and the rocks, lakes, bird feathers, gnarled stumps, shiny green beetles, clouds and everything else up here, there is art made through the hands of people. And we look at it the same way.

It may be a painting in grays—about grays. Not about hills, even! But we look at it as we look at the hills—for qualities.

It is a pity ever to think art is just for a few.

It took me time a-plenty to like present day art and to like symphonic music. But I liked some, and came back for the rest.

Look how long it takes to really know the hills! We have to spend years with them, feeling them.

This is to say thanks to the years Crooked Tree—and all art teachers, art lovers, and artists—for what they have been doing to share the sense of art. May they continue—in all the strength of the hills!

Barbershoppers harmonize for 35th year in Boyne City

BY JAMIE BAUMANN

BOYNE CITY - This community will once again come alive with barbershop music this weekend when more than dozens of barbershop singers come to compete in the 35th annual Bush League Show and Quartet Contest.

Everyone is welcome to join in the fun. This year's Bush League variety show will begin at 8 p.m. Saturday at Boyne City High School. The show will feature the Sounds Around, a professional barbershop quartet.

Also featured will be A Positive Endeavor, last year's contest winner from Traverse City; the Sweet Adelines, a female barbershop chorus from East Jordan; this year's champion and runner-up quartets from the afternoon quartet contest; and Boyne City's own Snowbelt Chorus. Tickets for the evening show cost $3.

Barbershop quartets from all over the midwest will be coming to compete in the quartet contest, which begins at 2 p.m. Saturday at Boyne City High School.

During the afternoon contest five judges will judge the quartets on stage presence, interpretation, balance and blend, and arrangements. Last year 12 quartets entered the contest. Tickets for the afternoon contest cost $1.

An afterglow, which is open to the public, will be held at the American Legion Hall, at the corner of Lake and Main Streets, immediately following the evening show.

An all-events ticket is available for $8 for people wishing to attend the contest, the show and the afterglow.

"We aren't really pushing the all-events tickets this year, because seating for the afterglow will be limited," Dr. Robert Martin, publicity chairman for the Snowbelt Chorus said.

According to Martin, the Barbershoppers have had a hard time finding a place in Boyne City to accommodate this year's afterglow. In the past it has been at The Dilworth, which is now closed.

Other local dining establishments aren't big enough to accommodate 250 people without closing their doors to the public on a Saturday night.

"The Weathervane in Charlevoix was glad to have us," Martin said. "We're offering them 250 people for a cash bar and limited buffet. But the feeling was that we wanted to keep it in Boyne City. Finally, someone came up with the Legion Hall."

"People come from all over—the Sault, Battle Creek—just to hear the contest, the show and to come to the afterglow," Martin said. "Barbershop music has quite a following."

The theme for this year's show is 35 years of barbershopping and will feature songs from the late 1940's and early 1950's.

Boyne City's Bush League Contest is one of the oldest annual barbershop programs since the founding of the national S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. (The Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America).

Boyne City resident Loton Willson is one of the original members of the Boyne City Chapter of S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A.; he is founder of the Bush League Contest. Willson is still active in the Snowbelt Chorus and was honored during last year's Bush League Contest.

The Snowbelt Chorus, which will sing for the evening show and the afterglow, has approximately 35 members from Mackinaw City, Indian River, Wolverine, East Jordan, Charlevoix, Petoskey—as well as Boyne City. They practice weekly in Boyne City.

Harold Mason of Walloon Lake is general chairman of this year's Bush League Contest.

East Jordan's chapter of the Sweet Adelines, female counterparts of barbershop singers, will be performing Saturday. Here are three members of a quartet which dressed in humorous costumes for their own show last fall.

The Sounds Around is the featured professional quartet at this Saturday's variety show.

Next weekend...mushroom hunt and more

BOYNE CITY - Two dinners, a breakfast, a mushroom hunters' ball, bargains in the stores, carnival rides and a mushroom slide presentation will be featured during the National Mushroom Hunting Championships on May 9 and 10.

The mushroom hunt itself is always the main attraction, though. The hunt, now in its 22nd year, is co-sponsored by the Boyne Valley Lions and the Boyne Area Chamber of Commerce.

The unique hunt will start with registration from 7 to 9:30 a.m. Saturday. The "Parade of Pickers" winds through town at 10 a.m. on the way to the secret mushroom hunting grounds.

After the 90-minute mushroom hunt, judges will count the morels, and finalists will be announced at 1:30 p.m. at Veterans' Memorial Park.

Finalists in both resident and non-resident categories will return for another hunt on Sunday, and the overall winners will be announced at 4 p.m.

Carnival rides will be set up in the lakeside park a few days before the hunt and will stay there through the weekend.

Besides being the first day for the mushroom hunt Saturday is the big day for all other festival events.

From 7 to 11 a.m., the Boyne Valley Lioness Club will host a pancake breakfast at the American Legion Hall, 306 S. Lake.

A free seminar and slide presentation on "Mushrooms and Mushroom Poisoning" will be presented from 3 to 6 p.m. at City Hall by John H. Trestrail III. Trestrail is a poison information specialist and associate director of the Western Michigan Poison Center in Grand Rapids.

After the hunt, hungry mushroom pickers have their choice of two dinners. A swiss steak and mushroom gravy dinner sponsored by the Masonic Lodge will be served from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Masonic Temple, 214 N. Lake.

Also from 5 to 7, the VFW Auxiliary will be hosting an all-you-can eat ham dinner at the VFW Hall on Highway M-75 South.

The Mushroom Hunters' Ball will be held from 9:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. at the Mogul Inn, featuring the Fred Balsler Trio, a polka band.

The Charlevoix County Press and more than 20 additional businesses are sponsoring "Mushroom Madness" in local stores on Friday and Saturday.

Sale prices will be offered, and in many cases, customers can pick a mushroom from display boards in stores—with a percentage discount marked on the back of the mushroom they pick. (Details on offers by individual stores will be in next week's Press.)

All ages enjoy 'Sunday at the Memories'
 BY KATHY JOHNSON
 Petoskey, Torch Lake, Prudenville, Chesaning, Birmingham and other places.
 "I want to apologize for not looking like I sound," said Ray Durkee last Friday and Saturday as he began his four hours of nightly memory music, radio trivia and unquoteable bloopers.
 Durkee, who refuses to be photographed because "the theatre of the mind has its own image," played to overflow crowds of 20- to 69-year-olds. "Sunday at the Memories" fans who traveled to Gaylord from Boyne City, trivia and bloopers. Now Durkee broadcasts live in Denver each week and also tapes shows to be syndicated to 100 stations across the United States.
 Along with his Sunday show Durkee also makes numerous personal appearances throughout the country. Probably most amazing is Durkee's popularity with a wide cross-section of age groups. Many of those who came to see Durkee were in the 20- to 30-year crowd and many others came dressed in the clothes of their youth—sweaters buttoned up the back, leather jackets, ponytail hairdos, and rolled-up blue jeans.
 The crowd participated in trivia games and those with the answers ran through the Chalet Inn to collect their prizes—trivia books and WWRM mugs.
 Everyone left smiling and making plans for a return trip next year. Durkee too. "I do enjoy getting back to the small towns. It's always nice to come back," he said.

Mayhew's first start ever

EJ junior hurls no-hitter

EAST JORDAN - Junior Kevin Mayhew, pitching his first game as a starter, threw a no-hitter Monday to beat Gaylord St. Mary's, 3-1.

Mayhew, a junior lefthander, struck out eight opposing batters and walked five in the seven inning game.

Coach Buck Cihak said Mayhew has a "very sharp curveball—it's like it is falling off the end of a table."

"We used Kevin a few times last year as a relief pitcher," Cihak said, "but this was the first time he ever started a game for us."

The no-hitter gave the Red Devil varsity baseball team a split in their season opening doubleheader after losing the opener, 3-2, in extra innings.

Despite Mayhew's no-hitter, the game wasn't decided until the end as the Snowbirds scored an unearned run on a walk and two errors in the first inning.

The Devils scored in the third on a double by Kevin Russell, a single by Tom Peters and a sacrifice fly by Mike Spence. They took the lead in the fifth as Dave Morris singled, advanced on another single by Peters and scored on an error.

The Devils added an insurance run in the sixth as Del Ingalls was hit by a pitch, stole second base and came in to score on a single by Morris.

East Jordan had seven hits in the victory, with Peters and Morris getting two apiece.

In the opener, the Devils outhit Gaylord St. Mary's 8-3 but lost by a 3-2 score. The Snowbirds won it in the top of the eighth inning as they scored on two walks and a single.

The Red Devils took an early 1-0 lead on three singles by Ingalls, Spence and Doug Peck in the second inning, but St. Mary's went ahead in the fifth on a walk and a home run.

East Jordan tied it at 2-2 in the sixth as Bob Castle doubled, Mayhew had a pinch-hit single and Shannon Bennett came through with a sacrifice fly.

The Devils see their next action at home in a 4 p.m. doubleheader against Central Lake this Thursday.

Cheeseburger pie —a recipe for all ages

May granddaughter Diana makes this cheeseburger pie and it is a favorite with all the members of our family.

It's a recipe for all ages. Children and teenagers love it. It is easy to make and almost a meal in itself.

Cook the ground beef in a skillet just enough to remove the extra fat and liquids. Then add milk, catsup, crumbs, onions, salt, oregano and pepper. Spread in an unbaked 9-inch pastry shell.

Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes. Toss cheese with Worcestershire sauce and spread on top of meat. Bake 10 minutes more. Let stand 10 minutes before serving.

With this serve:

ELLERY'S FRUIT SALAD

My brother-in-law specializes in making fruit salads. They live in Florida, where all kinds of fresh fruit is available, and he combines what he has handy. He will start with an apple or two, a large pear (he does not peel it), grapes, raisins, oranges, sunflower seeds, and peanuts. Sometimes he puts in a little chopped celery or a few sliced strawberries or blueberries. This salad is delicious without any dressing. It is great if you are trying to cut down on sugar, as many of us are.

We had this for lunch a few times with toasted homemade whole wheat bread and a hunk of cheese—delicious!

The Greenwood Eagle Burns Unsplit Green Logs

without the usual dangerous creosote build-up.

The secret to burning green wood efficiently is the only patented, all refractory firebox in the industry. Refractory plates are cast from the same exotic, high temperature resistant materials used in ore melting ovens to hold molten steel. The refractory firebox stores heat and directs heat back into the core of the fire. The firebox becomes hotter than the fire itself and stays hot - hot enough to burn green wood and creosote causing gases.

EFFICIENCY Unique EAGLE technology offers up to 50% better heating efficiency than other wood stoves.

ECONOMY The EAGLE heats the entire home. • Eliminates fuel bills. • Burns less expensive, unsplit green wood.

CONVENIENCE Holds 700,000 BTU's of green oak for infrequent loading. long overnight burn times • Takes logs 13" diameter 32" long, no splitting • Easy loading.

CLEAN More complete combustion results in less creosote build-up, less air pollution and less ash residue.

SAFE Laboratory tested and approved for safety to U.L. standards.

Many Eagle owners not only reduce oil bills - they eliminate them.
