

Little progress in railroad sale talks

BY JIM BAUMANN

BOYNE CITY - The Boyne Valley Railroad will almost certainly not be operating this summer, as there has been little progress in working out a sale to a local development group.

Rick and Dave Smith had announced in February that Lake Associates, their condominium development group, was interested in buying the tourist railroad and pumping new money into it.

Lake Associates' purchase option has now expired, and Rick Smith says his group is "waiting in the wings."

"We still have a degree of interest in the railroad, but it's not as keen as it was six months ago," Smith said.

An appraisal of the assets of the railroad is expected soon, Smith said, and that could get the ball rolling again.

Railroad board member Tom Workman said he may have the appraisal within the week. The appraisal would set a value on the railroad's tangible assets such as rails, ties and equipment.

"As soon as we get the appraisal, hopefully there will be enough assets to better justify the purchase of the railroad to the people who are interested in investing," Workman said.

A year ago, railroad officials estimated their assets at $186,000 with $81,000 in debts. But since that time, researching records relating to the possible sale has raised some questions about the legal description of the railroad right-of-way, Workman said.

"The problem lies in the descriptions. The deeds are all written differently, and it may eventually have to be decided by a court," he said.

Meanwhile, however, possible purchasers like Lake Associates are hesitant about investing in the railroad when a precise listing of its assets is not really known.

These types of problems are frustrating, Workman said. "But if it produces something good in the long run, then it will be well worth the effort. And if it doesn't, at least we'll know we made every effort possible to try to save the railroad."

Workman said he and other railroad board members still hope to sell the BVRR to Lake Associates, because the developers are local and they want to operate the business as a unique tourist attraction.

"They are still the most promising of all the (prospective) investors we have talked to," Workman said.

Who's running for school board?

It's time for smiles and diplomas

It's graduation season, and the first high school seniors to graduate this year were from Boyne City High School, which held Commencement Exercises Friday. Boyne Falls students graduated Saturday, while Charlevoix's ceremony will be this Sunday, and East Jordan's will be on June 14. After the Boyne City ceremony, graduates and well-wishers mingled on the lawn in front of the school, taking pictures and exchanging smiles, handshakes and congratulations. Above, Arnold Bauer snaps a picture of graduate Daryl Tims, who is posing with his sister Dawn. Earlier, in the picture below, board of Education member Shirley Crozier handed out diplomas—including one to her daughter Cinda. One of the speakers at Boyne's Commencement was folksinger Sean Ryan, whose comments are reprinted on page 4 of this issue. (Photos by Jim Baumann)

School millages on the line again

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

Electors in Charlevoix County will vote on their school taxes Monday, June 8.

They will also cast votes for school board candidates and the millage for Charlevoix-E Emmett Intermediate School District. (See related stories.)

Whether or not they receive state aid on the number of students they have, all schools are being squeezed between decreasing state and federal aid plus inflationary costs, a double peril.

All school districts, including Char-Em itself, receive what is called categorical aid from the state towards paying for transportation, special education, and so on. This aid has been cut severely by the state, however.

In the case of Boyne Falls, for example, categorical aid went from $28,000 in 1980 to $7,200 in 1981. Superintendent Ray Mouch said, "No way of telling about next year."

Boyne Falls has already been off the formula of state aid based on pupil enrollment for several years.

So the struggles of Boyne Falls, East Jordan, and Boyne City to make budgets are reflected in their millage requests

BOYNE FALLS

Boyne Falls will ask 21.37 mills, the same as last year. This will be a three-year request for operational funds although it will be voted on again in each of the next two years.

But the school board is asking also for an additional 1.23 mills to make repairs in the buildings and on the busses. Mouch said if the 1.23 mills are not approved, the school system will have to make repairs anyway, but much more slowly—and expensively.

He said the school is trying for a $146,000 matching grant to go towards repairs. The school would have to pay half of the grant. Results on the grant application won't be known till October, however.

If the 21.37 renewal request does not pass? "Then," Mouch said, "We're in tough shape."

He would have to meet with the board, he said, and plan the next step.

Already planned for 1981-82 is this list of cuts which appeared in the last school newsletter:

- One teacher retirement; no outside replacement.
- one high school teacher cut, another taking reduced assignment.
- one custodian cut.
- one secretary cut.
- year-around community recreation cut—including staff.

The teacher cuts mean no high school shop class, no junior high art, and reduction in special needs programs.

EAST JORDAN

East Jordan is asking 21.2 mills, a renewal of the current tax rate, in its Proposition I. The school board, following the advice of voters attending a special meeting on April 28, made two additional requests: Propositions II and III, in order to specify what needs could not be covered in the 21.2 operational millage.

Proposition II asks for 2 additional mills to continue elementary art, elementary music, middle school special reading, middle school shop and home economics.

Proposition III sets .5 mill for athletics.

Since December the East Jordan Athletics Boosters Club has been sponsoring after-school sports both with finances and volunteer coaching and bussing.

Buck Cihak, who heads up the Boosters, said the group couldn't shoulder the responsibility indefinitely.

Board president Mary Jason said (speaking of the entire ballot), "If you put $50 into your child's education, in a few years it would matter. But it might not (matter) if put somewhere else."

Concern has been expressed that the continuing lack of a 1980-81 teachers' contract might cause people to vote no on the millage requests. In a recent communication updating the negotiation situation, the board pointed out that voting down the millage would only harm the children, since it could not change the stipulations of the bargaining parties.

Superintendent Mel Rullman said salaries and salary increases would come from the 21.2 operational millage.

He noted a newsletter will be going out to the people in the school district. He said the school has cut back a half million dollars in three years, and that each future cut will be ever more severe in educational effects.

Some of the cuts already made in staff programs alone include:

- 1/3 elementary and middle school reading teacher.
- one high school English teacher.
- one junior primary teacher.
- four aides.
- three elementary teachers.
- one elementary physical education teacher.
- one librarian.
- occupations programs in health, commercial foods, cosmetology.
- athletics.

Rullman said regardless of how the vote goes, middle school guidance will be cut, and middle school and elementary school principals will be picking up added responsibilities in guidance, nursing, custodial, and secretarial tasks.

Furthermore, Rullman said, middle school and high school will have six periods instead of the present five. The length of the school day will be the same but each class will be shortened from

Kircher may reactivate dam

BOYNE FALLS—A dam on the Boyne River which hasn't operated since 1962 may be generating power again soon if a license application by Boyne USA resort is approved.

Boyne USA is owned by Everett Kircher, who lives near the dam. Power produced by the dam would be delivered to a substation adjacent to the dam and sold to Consumers Power Company.

Kircher is working through Great Lakes Energy Systems of Boyne City to re-equip the dam, which was formerly owned by Consumers Power. The dam was dismantled in 1962 and the property was sold to Boyne Mountain in January, 1963.

Boyne USA spokesmen did not return phone calls when The Press inquired about the dam project last week, and Great Lakes Energy official Phil Armstrong said he had been asked not to discuss details of the project.

The dam will apparently have no effect on property owners downstream from it, however.

Boyne City Manager Tim Clifton told The Press Tuesday he was initially concerned about how the dam might affect the river, but after reading the 40-page license application he sees no problems.

"According to the application, the dam won't affect the water level, temperature or volume," Clifton said, "so I won't recommend that the city commission object to it."

Boyne USA has applied for a license from the U.S. Federal Energy Regulatory Commission. According to a legal notice published by the commission, comments, protests or petitions to intervene must be filed with the commission by July 13. The application is also available from the commission, whose address is 825 N. Capitol St. NE, Washington, D.C. 20426.

According to the Energy Regulatory Commission, the dam powerhouse will contain a generating unit rated at 250 kilowatts, and the estimated average annual energy output of the proposed project would be 1.26 million kilowatt hours.

That might sound like a lot of electricity, but Consumers Power Company spokesman Richard Dahlquist of Cheboygan said it is "just too small to make it worthwhile for us, when you consider the labor, maintenance and taxes."

Consumers has in past years sold or dismantled about 44 hydro dams around the state, Dahlquist said. The company still operates 13 hydro dams, which altogether produce only about two percent of the company's electricity.

Handicap doesn't keep her down

BOYNE CITY - Local resident Grace Pratt has been honored as one of three Outstanding Northern Michigan Handicapped Persons.

She was given the award in Indian River last week at a banquet sponsored by the Northern Chapter of the Council for Exceptional Children. The award was given as a part of the observance of the International Year of Disabled Persons.

Those honored by the council were selected for making a significant contribution to their school, community or society independent of their handicapped characteristic.

Mrs. Pratt, 61, lives with her husband Roy at 407 S. Lake St. They retired here five years ago from the Grand Rapids area after vacationing in Boyne City for many years.

Mrs. Pratt has led an extremely active life, despite being plagued by the effects of polio, which she developed as an infant.

"I've always had a 'duck waddle,' a hesitation in my walk, and it's just been one of those things you live with. I never let it get me down," she said.

Mrs. Pratt worked as an elementary of the time now—but she is still quite active in Boyne City.

Mrs. Pratt is a member of the United Methodist Church, an officer in the Eastern Stars, and she has worked as an adult reading tutor in the school's Community Education program.

"She likes to drive whenever she can. 'I drove to Alaska three times in the 1960's, and I still like to drive. If I'm in the car, I try to get behind the wheel.'"

Being a former teacher, she says she will always enjoy young children. But she also likes teenagers. "I have never met a teenager or child who was not kind to me. Some people will tell you that teenagers are rude and thoughtless, but they better not tell me that."

"Wherever I go, whether I'm in the grocery store or getting in my car, kids ask if they can help me...and they don't even know me."

She has always been fond of the Boyne area ever since she and her first husband began camping at Young State Park after World War II.

Her daughters Nancy (Oakes) and Judy (Kenyon) learned to water ski on Lake Charlevoix and they, too, loved the area and have made it their permanent home.

SHOULD THE CASKET BE OPEN OR CLOSED?

This question can only be answered by the family, very seldom by the funeral director. There are several options to be considered by the family. The casket can be open during the hours of visitation and closed during the funeral service or it can remain open during the funeral service. It can also remain closed at all times.

Modern psychologists tell us viewing the body helps the family to accept the fact of death, especially when it may have been sudden or unexpected. If, however, the appearance of the deceased cannot be made acceptable, viewing may possibly be harmful. The customs of the family's faith and the influence of their clergyman's thoughts may help determine what is to be done.

The family's own wishes on the desired procedure will always be the guideline for the funeral director at our firm. We respect the family's wishes on all particulars of the funeral services as we try our very best to provide a truly personal and meaningful service.

More millage or more cuts for Char-Em

On the June 8 ballots of each public school district will be a proposition for millage for Charlevoix-Emmett Intermediate School District.

Char-Em will be asking for the one mill it obtained in 1969 to cover costs of special education in its 12-school district. It will also ask this year for an additional .8 mill because of state and federal cuts in aid.

Char-Em Superintendent Jim Shephard said the budget also suffers from increases in state-required programs.

The purpose of Char-Em has been generally stated as doing for schools what each school would have to do for itself less efficiently, particularly for handicapped students.

Tom Caldwell, Char-Em director of special education, explained it this way to The Press: "It allows for a greater effective use of staff."

He said some years a school will have a larger caseload of particular special education services and the next year it will be another school having unusual demands.

Char-Em can absorb the variations by redistributing the staff work, where separate schools would have to fire and hire, and Char-Em's library makes unnecessary the stocking of duplicate special materials.

So the shared millage permits shared services.

To cope with the reduced state and federal aid Char-Em has made up the $100,000 deficit in 1980-81 school year by:

- cutting one secretary.
- cutting the special ed placement person.
- reducing librarian to half time.
- eliminating all pay for staff conference trips.
- combining into one the two centers for trainable adults.
- using up their $50,000 carry-over equity.
- cutting 10 staff work days.
- reducing aide time, cut one aide.
- cutting supplies.
- cutting the pay-back to its schools for use of their facilities in teaching handicapped.

This last, of course, has put another drain on the member school budgets, amounting to about $32,000 to each school.

It is in spite of these efforts that Char-Em finds it necessary to ask for .8 mills more.

Char-Em officials agree that without the approximately $550,000 revenue from the additional .8 mill, they would have to curtail further services. These would be:

- not replacing a psychologist.
- cutting homebound teaching.
- cutting one administrator who monitors special ed programs and works almost continually on project-writing for federal funds.

- eliminating two diagnosticians and one curriculum resource consultant.
- cutting one vocational/special education consultant.
- eliminating all speech and language services to local districts.

As Boyne City Superintendent Rich Kelly has pointed out at school board meetings, the loss of Char-Em services does not mean that all of them can be dropped.

Those that are state-mandated must be picked up by the member schools. And because the state's financial support has been cut in the member schools as well, finding the money locally will help in any way she can.

Char-Em board candidates are unopposed

Beverly J. Sobleski and Gloria C. Wilhelm are running unopposed for the two six-year vacancies on Char-Em's board.

GLORIA C. WILHELM of rural Charlevoix said with six children you do get involved in their all having a good education.

"It's an interesting time," she said, "with the economy the way it is."

Wilhelm has worked with the board on other matters and said she finds it a learning experience. Of the coming six years she said, "I'm looking forward to it."

BEVERLY J. SOBLESKI, who lives, appropriately enough, at 600 Red School Road, Pellston, will fill one of the two vacancies on the Char-Em board.

Her name is familiar because she is district women's representative for Amateur Softball, and also will be Pellston recreation director.

Her interest in education springs from having a daughter and son in high school. And she is finishing her junior year in Central Michigan University, on her way to being a teacher herself.

About the job on the board, she said she expects to learn more about the intermediate school district in order to help in any way she can.

Your June utility bill may be the most important one you'll receive all year.

When you open the envelope containing your June utility bill you will find a very important booklet (or you might receive it as a separate mailing.)

It describes the new Michigan Residential Conservation Services program featuring a Home Energy Analysis.

The new service is offered by eight major Michigan utilities and meets the requirements of the Michigan Public Service Commission and the 1978 National Energy Act. It's available to all homeowners and renters who pay energy utility bills.

Even if you and your family are already conserving energy, the Home Energy Analysis can show you how to save more.

For a $10 fee, you will get a complete inspection of your home by an energy specialist from your utility. You will learn how effective your present insulation, weatherstripping, caulking and other energy cost saving measures are, and you will be provided with information on specific things you can do to reduce energy waste.

You also will receive a written computer analysis giving you estimates on how much recommended improvements will cost and how long they will take to pay for themselves. Information on contractors who can do the work, details on financing, tax credits and Home Weatherization Grants for low income persons also will be provided. After the work is completed, you may have it inspected by your utility.

Some of the recommendations may cost very little or nothing at all. Some you may be able to do yourself. Others will require the services of a contractor. In any case, the Home Energy Analysis puts you under no obligation to carry out any of the recommendations. However, you probably will want to do at least some of these, because now you will know a great deal more about how to make your home energy efficient.

Whether or not you decide to have a Home Energy Analysis, please read the booklet that comes with your June bill or by a separate mailing. It lists many things you can start doing right now to save energy and money. The booklet also tells you about assistance you can get from your utility to help you make your home more energy efficient—with or without the Home Energy Analysis. Lists of contractors and lenders, as well as do-it-yourself information also are available from your utility.

You can sign up for your Home Energy Analysis by returning the postcard in the booklet or by getting in touch with your utility. The sooner you sign up, the sooner you can start reducing energy waste in your home.

The Michigan Residential Conservation Services program is conducted through the utilities listed below. You can select any one of which you are a customer to perform your Home Energy Analysis.

Monday school board elections: Four try for two seats in EJ

EAST JORDAN - Incumbent school board members Mary Jason and Ed Drenth are being challenged by Terry Lord and Michael Burr.

The top two vote-getters among the four candidates will be elected to four-year terms on the board.

TERRY LORD of 304 North St. has lived all his life here, went to high school here, and now has two boys—one in school. Reasons enough to be interested in the school.

He ran for school board last year, but lost. Friends told him "not to give up on one try."

He said he's most interested in getting the teacher contract straightened out. But he also wants to get involved in all school board concerns—learn how to help.

Lord is lab technician at East Jordan Iron Works.

MARY JASON, 703 Prospect St., is now the president of the East Jordan school board and has served four and one-half years. She is running for a four-year term.

Jason, the mother of three school-age children, was a teacher after graduating from Michigan State University.

She has served in various capacities on regional church committees, on Crooked Tree Arts Council Board, and in other community activities.

Jason said her primary desire in running for school board is to do more for the students' curriculum.

"They don't have the vote, but they're the ones affected," she said, pointing out that high school is "it" in education for a good share of the students.

She also looks forward to new aspects of cooperation among the different groups working together in the school. She hopes, for example, that teachers can have more input in school decisions as they are being formulated.

EDWIN DRENTH, 600 Fifth St., has been school board secretary for two years.

He was originally appointed to fill out a term, elected for a year, and re-elected for another year.

"After the outcome of the recall election," he said, "I have a lot of confidence in the people of the community and in their support."

The Drenths have two children still in school. Their oldest son is in college and Drenth said his East Jordan schooling seems to have been satisfactory. "He's hung in there okay," said Drenth.

Getting the teachers their contract and getting the school a balanced budget are the two big tasks for the immediate future, Drenth said.

He is vice president and cashier at Northwestern State Bank.

MICHAEL BURR, 806 N. Main, has lived in East Jordan for ten years. He grew up and went to high school in New Baltimore Anchor Bay.

From there he went into the Coast Guard for four years. He now sells insurance and was vice president at Family Health Center during its establishment.

Burr, who has two daughters in school now, and one more starting in the fall, said in answer to the question as to why he was running for school board, "When you're not satisfied, you do something about it."

He added, "I would like to establish better communication. Every candidate says that, and I have yet to see it."

Burr feels his background should help him relate to the various groups and individuals and their problems. And about the budget? Burr said, "There's been a lot of questions about finances in the school system...It takes book-keeping knowledge to know how it could be done better."

BCHS Honor Society

Boyer City High School has a newly formed chapter of the National Honor Society, and 28 students became members during the first induction ceremony last Tuesday. Students must carry a grade point average of at least 3.2 for membership, while other factors such as leadership, service and character are also considered. The BCHS students who were inducted last week include Sheri Sutliff, Barbara Barden, Susan Stolt, Elizabeth Walls, Mary J. McGeorge, Kristen Gunderson, Georgia Hawkins, Vickie Stolt, Betty Schlink, Lisa Franchino, Becky Amesbury, Miauk LaCroix, Karen Eggers, Martin Neumann, Martin Moody, Cindy Scott, Stephen Kircher, Matthew Irwin, Mary McDowell, Christine Camburn, James Plachta, Todd Newville, Todd Rickard, Michael Bleganowski, Mark Bullock, Kerry Kruzel, Randy Welss and David Koteskey. School millages on the line again

about 55 to about 45 minutes. This way the same basic program of classes for each student can be offered with possibly fewer teachers.

BOYNE CITY

The Boyne City ballot will seek operational millage of 21.4, the same as last year's, in spite of the fact that the school is now off of the state aid formula and has suffered a 67 percent cut in state categorical aid.

Superintendent Rich Kelly pointed out also that if Char-Em doesn't have its .8 additional millage approved, the Boyne City school, like others, will have to offer the services cut from Char-Em—another dip into the general fund.

The school budget hearing will be in June, to be approved by July first according to new state regulations.

Already budgeted is another expected state aid cut further reducing categorical aid by about $28,000.

Kelly said the past year has seen six teaching positions eliminated (some of the people going to half-time), four non-instructional staff members cut (one having retired), middle school football and basketball dropped, high school wrestling and golf and ninth grade basketball dropped. (Booster club funding kept some of the sports programs running.)

For the coming year, the position of assistant principal was eliminated, one more teacher will be on half-time and the community education director will be a half-time position.

Kelly said even with these cuts the budget may possibly be pushed up about six percent with inflation. The increase will be covered, as in the other schools, by an increase in property tax revenue, which in the Boyne City school district is expected to go up about 11.50 percent.

Local school board officials have repeatedly said their schools have never had the wide curriculums of the metropolitan schools. They have had few frills.

In presenting the millage request this year they have stated their effort was to continue a basic education and respect the tax-paying capacities of the electors.

No opposition in BF, BC

The Boyne City slate has two four-year terms open and one two-year term. None of the candidates have any listed opposition. Eleanor West and George Shiotellis, presently serving, will have another four years.

Richard Wulff will come on the board for a two-year term.

Boyer Falls school board president Art Saworski and board member Bob Winhusen will resume the duties of their past four and two years, respectively. They have no opposition candidates.

Saworski will stay on another four years. Winhusen another two.

Charlevoix voters will elect 3

In Charlevoix, two four-year terms and one two-year term will be filled. Three candidates, Michael J. Bonello and incumbents Max Novak and Doris A. Pearl are running for the four-year seats.

Candidates for the two-year seat are Robert Drenth and Thomas LaBlance. MICHAEL J. BONELLO, 202 Elm St., is running for one of the contested four-year seats. This is his first time to run for the school board.

Bonello, who is chief anesthetist at Charlevoix Area Hospital, has lived in Charlevoix six years. He graduated from Ferris State College and the University of Michigan, studying also at Hurley Medical Center.

"I feel there is need for a closer tie with immediate student needs and community interests," he said.

MAX NOVAK, 208 Nicholls St., said, "I think I'm completing eight years. It doesn't seem like that."

Novak, president of the school board, is running for another four.

He is retired from 32 years of teaching in Charlevoix schools, and now four of his five grown children are teachers.

He considers the financial situation the most pressing problem, saying, "I think it's going to be very challenging, given the possibility of another year of cuts."

MRS. DORIS A. PEARL of Gennett Road, was appointed in the fall to serve out an unfilled term. She said, "I thoroughly enjoyed serving on the school board. I feel it's a contribution I can make."

She said she had no special issue to push. She just "hopes to do the best I can in the job."

She is interested in young people and is the mother of two children in school.

Besides that? "In order: a housewife, a farmer (beef cattle), and Norwood Township zoning administrator," she said.

ROBERT DRENTH of Black Road has been on committees for the school board. One thing leads to another.

"I've always been interested in education. I think everyone should take the chance of serving," he said. Drenth has four sons, three in college and one in high school.

Besides learning the ins and outs, Drenth, a self-employed plumber, said, "With education costing so much, I want to see that it's worth the money."

He would also like to see the board communicate more with the public.

THOMAS E. LABLANCE, North Carson, has five children in school.

He said, "The reason I am running is that I feel that anyone who has children in the school system has an obligation to make a contribution to the school. They can do it in different ways. My way is running for the school board."

LaBlance, who is the owner of an insurance agency, was chairman of the building committee for the addition to the high school.

Well, with what our insurance paid for our stolen stereo, less depreciation... this is all we could afford.

Graduates, don't be afraid to dream!

It's high school graduation time, and The Press has asked some of the Commencement speakers for permission to reprint their speeches. The following comments were made to Boyne City High School graduates Friday by local folksinger Sean Ryan. More speeches from Boyne City and other Commencement exercises will be printed in the next few weeks.

First of all, allow me to say that I am deeply honored to speak to the 1981 graduating senior class here at Boyne City High School.

When I was first asked to speak, quite frankly I was scared to death. I couldn't think of anything that I could possibly say that would really be of any significance to a graduating class, but then I realized that if you thought enough of me to invite me to speak, I should at least give it my best shot.

So let me begin by passing along to you the same advice that my father gave me. He said "Take my advice...and don't ever take advice!"

Of course he also said, "If wine, women and song are ruining your health...give up singing!" As most of you know, I took his advice and didn't take his advice!

Twenty-one years ago, on Jan. 6, 1960, and believe me, it seems like it was only yesterday, I came to America from Ireland. I was 13 years old then.

My first experiences in this country during the decade of the sixties were brutal.

I witnessed the assassination of President John F. Kennedy—The civil rights struggles in the South—The assassinations of Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King—The pain and anguish of the Viet Nam war—and the most devastating blow of all—the death of my parents when I was 18.

Frankly, I became a very bitter and disillusioned young man...disillusioned with the human race in general, and with America in particular. I gave up on people; but to this day, I'm not ashamed to admit it. I am not ashamed to admit it because it has taught me one of the most important lessons of my life.

The '70's was what I call the "I" decade; everybody seemed to be "looking out for Number One." We became a selfish, hedonistic, "Don't give a damn about your fellow man" society.

I spent the early part of the seventies in Chicago as an English teacher in a community college, and a part-time guitar player-singer in the local bars.

I discovered that I had no individuality to others...I was part of the crowd...I was confused. To be honest, I was lost in the reality that I really didn't know who the hell I was. In retrospect, I realized that I was at a crossroads in my life, and I had to make a decision.

I also realized that any decision I made was mine alone, and I had to accept responsibility for that decision. In the autumn of 1974, I resigned from teaching, sold everything I owned, except my guitars of course, and moved to Northern Michigan where I found a home. And here is where I plan to stay.

Living here in Northern Michigan, I have realized that the beauty of America is not in its monuments in Washington, D.C.; it is not in the magnificent splendor of the Grand Canyon; it is not in the varieties of fudge sold on Mackinac Island during the summer.

The strength of America is not in the total of its gross national product; its not in the power of its armed forces; its not in the amount of fudge sold on Mackinac Island during the summer.

The beautiful strength of America lies in its people's faith that this country, in spite of its past trials and errors, is still the best country in which to live; blessed with abundance for those who are willing to dream and then work hard toward the realization of that dream. Don't be afraid to dream!

Dreams founded this country... Dreams settled this country... Dreams put men on the moon. Dream, but don't be disappointed if your dreams don't come true!!

Don't take everything you hear and see and swallow it without question! Speak up! Ask why?? And then as why not?

Don't be afraid to be different, but respect the rights of your fellow man to be different also. Be true to yourselves and be true to your fellow man, and by God...your dreams just might come true.

I ask you to look at your classmates and families that are gathered around you tonight. Don't be afraid to touch them with your hands and with your hearts...For this group of people, neighbors and friends all, will never be together again as we are now.

I beseech you not to save your love and kindness for some other day, for there is far too much senseless hatred and violence in the world that has to be overcome.

In my homeland today, there are young men dying on hunger strikes...The last hurrah of a bitter war that has lasted over 800 years.

Eight weeks ago, some misguided soul tried to assassinate President Ronald Reagan.

About three weeks ago the spectre of senseless violence reached out and touched Pope John Paul II. It would be well and good if we could just close our eyes and have the ugliness of these realities dissipate like the morning fog over Lake Charlevoix. But they won't go away. They were with us in the '60's, in the '70's and now in the '80's.

You know, the only thing necessary for this ugly evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing! We are all creatures of one world: A world full of mystery, wonder, joy and pain. It really is a beautiful place in which to live. It will remain such if we set as our goal for the 1980's, the welfare of humanity.

Take time to work—

It is the price of success.

Take time to think—

It is the source of power.

Take time to play—

It is the secret of perpetual youth.

Take time to read—

It is the fountain of wisdom.

Take time to be friendly—

It is the road to happiness.

Take time to dream—

It is hitching your wagon to a star.

Take time to love and be loved—

It is the privilege of the gods.

Take time to look around—

It is too short a day to be selfish.

Take time to laugh—

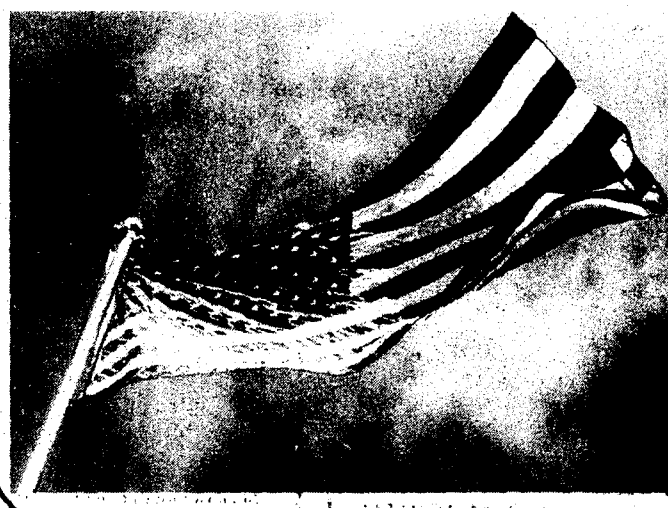

It is the music of the soul.

Thank you and God bless you all!

Flags a-flying

Flags were flying, veterans were marching and bands were playing all around the county on Memorial Day. The East Jordan observance, above, was moved from Memorial Park to Main Street because of construction in progress at the park. Below, the Boyne City observance was revived by the Chamber of Commerce and local veterans' organizations after a year's hiatus.

'National Marshall Sayles Week'

A week for do-nothings?

Congress should set aside a special week so the nation can join in recognition of those people who have never done anything.

I think we should celebrate a "National he hasn't done anything week". Now don't say, "There he goes piping off again." This stuff is important.

It's true. The country should whoop it up for those whose individual accomplishments have never amounted to a tinker's.

Outstanding people receive honorary degrees, Pulitzer prizes, men and women of the year awards, Nobel prizes, civic structures named after them, pictures in the papers and countless other awards and days of recognition. They've done worthwhile things for their fellow man, standing three heads above the crowd. Their contributions are appreciated by all.

But how about the other 95 percent who never get so much as a tip of the national hat? I'm speaking of the masses who do little beyond being good citizens, working hard, paying their taxes and having a quick beer before supper—the people who make this country and its celebrities possible.

Our outstanding citizens are the nation's roof—supported by a solid foundation of men and women on the street, working stiffs, average Joe's—a highly important, seldom recognized huddled mass.

It sticks in my craw that I am a tax-paying huddled mass with little valued accomplishment beyond fixing that leak in the kitchen sink. This makes me a house hero, but unsung elsewhere. Thousands of people in my category of life hanker to be sung elsewhere.

In an effort to help, I have made a list of those roof holders who should be honored during "National he hasn't done anything week." Check here to see if you should feel celebrated.

You must: Have a suit for weddings and funerals, but no shoes that match; pay your taxes before they put the place up for sale; get thrown out of work the day before your wife is to have her third child; play the lottery, hoping for a quick million; have gotten off welfare as soon as you could; told the police you would get that muffler fixed when you received your next paycheck; do not understand how your neighbors do it; have a weak picture tube in your black and white TV; wonder how anyone can possibly afford to live in a condominium; panic when you make out your income tax for fear the IRS will haul you off to jail; make more money than those all "A" students in your old graduating class; get up in the middle of the night and jiggle the toilet handle to stop that damn noise.

Some may wonder how people in this category could possibly hold up our nation's roof. That's because they do not have my keen sense of what a huddle is thinking when it masses.

Since my life fits nicely into the above list, I may ask Congress to call it "National Marshall Sayles Week." Only because it would symbolize the lives of those who, like me, have never been a national benefactor of a pound of succor nor a bag of solace; and not out of any personal, egotistical reasons: Heavens, no, I wouldn't do that. What's the matter with you?

The shorter name would save money when it comes to printing the committee's letterheads; and the title is guaranteed to stir things to feverish pitch. I get a lump in my throat just thinking how I am able to help my fellow man.

As head of the revolution, I shall insist that any person, institution or committee receiving national acclaim must not say, "Look what I (or we) have done." But rather, "Look what the people of this country have made it possible for me to do."

Our mass of good citizens, who have never done anything, deserve to hear that kind of talk.

If you don't believe this, you are against me. And somehow or other I'll get you for it. So watch it.

I got sort of puffed up talking to a policeman the other day. I asked him how many people he thought the city could handle during the rush to honor a nation of roof holders with two left feet and a Canadian nickle.

"I don't know," he said. "All I've seen so far is a fast talking crowd of one."

Char-Em helps the handicapped

Education is to enable one both to do, and to be. This pertains probably even more to the handicapped than to other people who can help themselves. But of course there should be help for everyone.

So it's millage time again. And on the ballot will be your school district's request for funds. Also on every ballot in the 12-school district will be a request from Charlevoix-Emmett Intermediate School District, better known as Char-Em.

Unless you are on a school staff or have a handicapped child, you may not have much of a concern about what Char-Em is. Quite naturally!

But Char-Em nonetheless is the electors' concern. That's because Char-Em either teaches the handicapped among us or else sees to it that they are taught. These include: learning disabled, blind/partially sighted, mentally handicapped, deaf/hard of hearing,

Our Schools

emotionally handicapped, physically handicapped, speech handicapped, and severely impaired.

And the funds to do this come partly from the federal and state governments and partly from local taxes. That's where the millage counts, and more than formerly, given the slashes in aid from government.

Char-Em is asking .8 mill more this year—1.8 mill total.

Be sure you notice it on your ballot.

Letters to the editor

Cancer donations are gratifying

Editor,

The Charlevoix County Unit of the American Cancer Society is currently wrapping up its 1981 residential and business crusade in Charlevoix County. On behalf of the unit, I would like to extend a sincere "thank you" to the residents of this county for opening their doors to contribute to our drive.

A special thank you also goes out to the dozens of Cancer Society volunteers who took part in the month-long effort and to you and The Press for allocating valuable space to news of our activities.

Everyone may be happy to know that the residential crusade has seen an increase in donations in every community in the county compared with last year's totals, and money is still coming in.

It's difficult to give when economic conditions are difficult. Therefore, it's particularly gratifying to see the interest shown by Charlevoix County residents in helping fight cancer.

This year, 805,000 Americans will be diagnosed as having cancer, and approximately 405,000 will die. In Michigan this year, some 31,000 people will be diagnosed as having cancer, and approximately 16,000 will die.

On a more positive note, however, it should be noted that one-third of those who get cancer this year will be alive at least five years from now. There are over three million Americans alive today who have a history of cancer...two million of them with diagnosis five or more years ago.

More proof that crusades and donations are working: three-fourths of the victims of Hodgkin's disease, whose cancer is detected and treated promptly are expected to live normal life spans. Five years ago, osteogenic sarcoma, a form of bone cancer, killed four out of five of its victims. Today, with chemotherapy, four out of five are surviving.

Putting it another way: 10 years ago, acute lymphocytic leukemia killed nine out of 10 of its victims. Now, half to three-quarters of these people are free of the disease five years after diagnosis.

Again, our deepest appreciation to all who played part in this year's successful effort.

Joan Hoffman, President
Charlevoix County Unit
American Cancer Society

We need a roller rink

Editor,

I think Boyne City should have more activities. For instance, a roller skating rink. People like to have fun and skating is fun. I think it would be an ideal thing to have.

Roller skating is not just for younger people; it's for adults, too! If we had this I think people would come together and do something instead of sitting home watching TV.

Roller skating is lots of fun and it's a good way to meet new people.

I think this would be something to really consider.

Section 1. Preamble

The Board of Bay Township finds and declares that the interests of public health, safety and welfare of the citizens of Bay Township require the regulation, licensing and control of assemblages of large numbers of people in excess of those normally drawing upon the health, sanitation, fire, police, transportation, utility and other public services regularly provided in this township.

Section 2. Definitions

a. "Outdoor Assembly" hereinafter referred to as "assembly," means any event attended by more than 300 attendants, all or any part of which includes a theatrical exhibition, public show, display, entertainment, amusement or other exhibition, including, but not limited to musical festivals, rock festivals, peace festivals or similar gatherings, but does not mean:

Friends, gardens and herbs

Many of us do not have enough space for a garden when we live on small lots. In trailer parks or apartments. However, I have learned through the years that a great deal of the fun of having a garden is to be able to slip outside while I am cooking to get an onion, parsley, or a sprig of mint for the ice tea.

I have found that one can have their herb garden in the kitchen window or any spot in the flower border outside.

A small bush of mint is always green and very attractive. Chives will be in any sunny spot every spring and parsley comes up every year in a sheltered spot. Even a clump of sage or dill is pretty growing with your flowers.

My first experience with a garden of my own was in a low spot on a vacant lot next to our home in Flint during World War II. I thought that I needed a victory garden.

The clay soil was as hard as cement. I could hardly get a shovel into it but I spaded a spot about 12 feet square and planted lettuce, carrots and some beans.

The soil was too hard for carrots to grow and those cute little bunnies and robins that I had noticed hopping around the yard ate everything green. Finally, we had a heavy rainfall and everything was flooded. That was the end of my gardening for many years.

I have had some really fun gardens since that time. The large area Jim Behling shared with us out on Behling Road was nothing but pleasure for us.

I planted flowers in about every other row. I was told that marigolds would keep the ground moles out and it seemed to do the trick. I had lots of gardening advice from the neighbors and what wonderful friends I made.

Frank Behling, across the road, always has one of the most beautiful gardens in this area. He works at it year-around and he knows when and how to plant everything.

He has the first strawberries, the earliest peas and new potatoes. He was always sharing these delicious products with us. He says he plans to have creamed peas and new potatoes for the Fourth of July.

Our grandmothers and their grandmothers all had large vegetable gardens. They also had their herb gardens.

They were beautiful, fragrant and necessary. They used herbs to pickle, and preserve their foods, to make their drinks, for medicinal purposes, for creams and perfumes and as sachets for moth prevention.

As early as 1690, Dr. William Salmon published "The Family Dictionary or Household Companion." It was a very popular book in the English colonies. In the 1690 edition was a recipe for "Pease Porridge, or Soop."

We all remember the nursery rhyme....

"Pease porridge hot,
Pease porridge cold,
Pease porridge in the pot
Nine days old."

He added sorrel, spearmint and "chopt" parsley to the beef broth. Thick stews and soups were especially popular, particularly among the many people who were poor or had no teeth.

Here is a recipe taken from "Early American Herb Recipes," by Alice Cooke Brown.

RHUBARB POOL

Scald a quart or more of rhubarb, nicely peeled. Cut into pieces an inch long, pulp through a sieve, sweeten and let it stand to cool.

Put a pint of cream or new milk into a stew pan with a stick of cinnamon, a small piece of lemon-peel, a few cloves, coriander seeds and sugar to taste. Boil ten minutes.

Beat up the yolks of four eggs, add a little flour and stir into the cream. Set over the fire until it boils, stirring all the time. Remove and let it stand till cold. Mix the fruit and cream together then add a little grated nutmeg.

Practical Housewife, 1860

In response to my request for mushroom recipes, Mrs. Clementine Coon dropped off her recipe for mushroom gravy. It's VERY good, she says!

MUSHROOM GRAVY

Take one quart of cleaned mushrooms, put in frying pan, and enough chicken, turkey or beef broth to cover. Simmer until tender, adding more broth as needed. Then add about two tablespoons of corn starch and half cup of milk. Simmer again until it's done, and gravy is somewhat thin. Pour over toast or brisquet, and add more salt and pepper if needed.
