Another hot, dry summer?

Are we in for a repeat of last year's hot, dry summer?

It has started off that way, that's for sure!

There hasn't been a good rain for more than three weeks, and the average high temperature for the first 14 days of June was an unusually high 87.6 degrees.

According to the official weather statistics kept by Herb DeNise in Boyne Falls, there was no measurable precipitation during the first 14 days of the month.

Small amounts of rain, .04 inches and .05 inches, fell on June 29 and 30, he reported. The last good rain—which wasn't exactly a down-pour—was .44 inches on June 22.

Only 2.5 inches of rain fell during the entire month of June. DeNise says that is below average.

So far, July has been hot. The high temperature on the first of the month was 79, and the mercury passed 80 every other day of the month.

The warmest days were last Monday through Thursday, July 6-9, when the high temperatures were 90, 95, 95 and 93, respectively.

It may finally be cooling off, however. The coolest temperature of the month was recorded early Tuesday morning July 14, when the thermometer dipped to 45 degrees.

Businessman may run

County board to state senate?

BY TRISH WRIGHT

The possible candidacy of Charlevoix Republican John Haggard, for this district's state senate seat was unexpectedly announced during Boyne City's Fourth of July parade.

In a recent interview with The Press, Haggard said that he is entertaining the idea of vying for the seat currently held by Democrat Mitch Irwin in the 1982 election year, but has not officially announced his candidacy.

"Politics has always interested me but now the economic problems of this state, especially northern Michigan, make me want to become involved at the state level to help produce a more viable area in which to live and work," said Haggard, who has been a Charlevoix County commissioner since 1976.

Haggard, 40, has owned and operated Haggard's Plumbing and Heating with his brother, Bill Haggard in Charlevoix, for the past 10 years.

He is a proponent of local autonomy and strongly believes that were it not for state intervention, Charlevoix County could be self-sufficient.

"Why should taxpayers here be forced to pay so much money when it goes to other areas of the state? I believe that the majority of people in this district would agree with me in saying that too great a proportion of our tax dollars are spent elsewhere."

Haggard said two issues during the 1982 election will be the tax burden of property, income and sales tax and the district's economic revitalization.

"When EDC (economic development corporation) legislation was formed we were remiss in not activating them. However, this county's EDC is now actively looking for industry to bring into the area as well as expanding the industries already here."

"I believe we would be living in a self-sufficient county were it not for the rules and regulations of bureaucracies in Lansing. Charlevoix County government is strong and so are our schools, cities and townships," said Haggard.

As an example of too much state intervention, Haggard cited school systems that are mainly funded by local property taxes yet are required to offer some programs which are mandated by the state. "If we are supporting the schools why shouldn't we be able to teach what we like...and as it is...too much money is spent on administrative work rather than education," Haggard said.

"I am delighted with President Reagan's budget plan and confident that he will get his tax cut plan. Hopefully, with Reagan's involvement with federal government inefficiency other governments will take heed and take a more careful look at their own jurisdiction."

Indications of Haggard's party loyalty were evident when on March 13, 1980, he raised a sign on the roof of his downtown Charlevoix business location declaring Haggard's as Reagan headquarters for the November presidential election.

"I believe in the party system and that the party should also reap the fruits of its legislation. Democrats often try to make people believe that the Republican Party is only big business oriented. Yet I've seen that workers here in the north are for more reform and less giveaway programs."

Haggard lists unemployment compensation, workmen's compensation and welfare reform as other critical issues in next year's state elections.

"For the past vie or six years these reforms have only been talked about. With myself and the right other people elected at the state level something can and will be done."

"Businesses in Michigan pay the highest rate in the nation for workmen's compensation, yet disabled persons receive the least amount of benefits. Something is drastically wrong and it may lead back to our court system. I believe that our courts are often writing law rather than interpreting it."

Another of Haggard's beefs is Michigan's full-time legislature. "Michigan is one of a very few states with a full-time legislature. I don't think it's necessary, especially when it costs approximately $4.8 million for legislators alone and that does not include their staffs, fringe benefits or travel expenses."

Haggard is optimistic about winning the seat that has been held by a Democrat since 1978. "We are now in the stage of re-apportionment and that may change the district boundaries. As it stands now, I would be looking for support in 15 counties and parts of two others. If I decide to run I will campaign on a full-time basis and give up my position in the business."

"I was born and raised in Charlevoix and can remember when this area was able to live on the three months of tourist business. That is not possible now. I feel that it's time to go out there and change the rules and regulations to encourage the proper economic growth of northern Michigan."

BC residents urged to go easy on lawns

BOYNE CITY - "The city is requesting people to refrain from sprinkling and to try to restrict their water use," City Manager Tim Clifton says.

Both reservoirs are low at this point, he explained, because the weather has been dry. With high temperatures recently, use of water has also increased.

"If you've just planted a tree, we don't expect you to let the tree die, or anything like that," Clifton said. But he asked that people be conservative until it rains.

"We don't need a sprinkling. We need a good rain!" he said.

Water comes from aquifers (underground lakes), Clifton explained. These are fed by rainfall. The north and south Boyne wells pump from aquifers to fill the two reservoirs.

"If we have a long period of dry or hot weather, when people use a lot of water, the aquifers don't have a chance to replenish themselves," Clifton explained.

He added, "Residents in North Boyne may be experiencing low water pressure because we are servicing the entire city primarily from the south well. The south well," he explained, "has a bigger capacity to fill the reservoir."

The city's chief efforts in the water department have been to find enough money to repair the city's long neglected water and sewer mains.

Clifton said Tuesday that now it appears they will have to modify priorities to either put in a third well for the city or a new and larger pump in North Boyne.

A great deal depends on what water resources there are in the ground.

He said they would make every effort to have it taken care of by next summer.

But for now, he stressed, there is no absolute ban on lawn watering, but the need is for water users not to let it run any more than necessary.

...while EJ says lawn watering OK

EAST JORDAN - With plenty of water available, the only concern city residents have here is how much it will cost to water their lawns during dry periods this summer.

The city Sewer Committee met last Friday and came up with a solution. The city will charge for the water use necessary for lawns and gardens, but will not charge the sewer portion of the water bill that would be affected.

The usual procedure is to charge each resident for the amount of water used and, for sewer use, the resident then pays an additional 200 percent of the water use charge. So the size of the sewer bill depends on the size of the water bill.

At last Tuesday's meeting the city council instructed the Sewer Committee to find a fairer way to handle the summer water use, since lawn watering does not involve use of the sewage treatment system.

Retroactive to July 1, the beginning of the summer quarter, the committee decided the sewer portion of the water bill will be figured on the resident's average use of water during the other three quarters.

Thus, if last fall's sewer bill was $25; the winter bill $23; and the spring bill $24, the summer bill would be the average, or $24.

Extra water used during the summer, however, will be charged on the basis of actual number of gallons.

As for all the extra bookkeeping in the clerk-treasurer's office? "We will manage," is all Fern Morris would say.

New EJ supt. swings into gear

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

EAST JORDAN - Superintendent Tom Rossler made a series of recommendations at the school board meeting Monday night.

"I will try to put together a revised budget by Sept. 1," he said, noting it was in part because the state had, in an unusual move, changed its fiscal year from July 1 to Sept. 1.

He also recommended "administrative reorganization," explaining this meant chiefly a review and clarification of responsibilities. This, he said, would be complete in two or three months.

He asked to apply for a state aid loan as well as the usual tax note to meet expenses until tax revenues come in. He said the state aid note would not have to be entirely repaid for about a year—until the next state aid was to be figured.

Putting in a pitch for local control, Rossler noted he objected to the state's paying out $800,000 for the Pontiac Silver Dome and at the same time, cutting school aid so sharply this year. He emphasized the district is drawing near the point of being ineligible for the pupil formula for state aid, and that the district can depend best of all on local revenues.

Rossler praised the Boosters and other contributors for all their work in providing athletics for the students, and said the new fee proposal, while not what anyone would desire, appears to be the only present solution.

At the same time he said the athletics program is not the only desirable program in financial trouble. He noted the Boosters had worked unusually hard to get millage passed for these programs as well as their own.

At the close of his report, Rossler for his wife and himself thanked the board and all those concerned for his opportunity to come to East Jordan.

"I have never," he said, "in my life been so warmly received and made to feel so at home."

This was the board's organizational meeting. They chose to have the same officers as they had last year: Mary Jason, president; Tom Galmore, vice-president; Edwin Drenth, secretary; and Herb Griffin, treasurer.

Meetings will be on the second Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Board of Education office in the middle school.

Board OK's BC teacher pact

BOYNE CITY - Following a few months of negotiations, the school board Monday approved a three year teachers' contract subject to approval and acceptance by the local teachers and the Northern Michigan Education Association.

Superintendent Rich Kelly and teacher negotiator Fred Rice both declined to go into any details, saying they had agreed to wait on full agreement.

The Boyne City teachers met on Tuesday night, but final approval won't come before the first week in August when NMEA reviews the proposed contract.

While the settlement is not complete, the rapid progress is in stark contrast to the situation in East Jordan where at least three questions, salary, binding arbitration, and layoff and recall, have held up settlement on last year's contract as well as the coming year's.

On the job

Tom Rossler, East Jordan's new school superintendent has been on the job for a couple of weeks now. He attended his first school board meeting Monday. Most of the time he is working in his office at the middle school with secretary Phyllis Hammond, left, and financial supervisor Ruby Dipinski.

Same dresses... 25 years later

The old-fashioned dresses in these two pictures were first worn during the costume contest for Boyne City's Centennial celebration in 1956. Later, during the 125th anniversary celebration in 1981, they were worn by the daughters of the one of the girls who wore them 25 years ago. In the picture at right, sisters Adrea and Brianne Korhase wear the same dresses worn by their mother Debra Lindsay Korhase, at left in the picture above, and her sister Judy Lindsay Hubble, at right. The dresses were made by Helen Seals, who had a dress shop in Boyne City at the time of the centennial.

EJ Boosters promise sports; Athletes will probably pay

EAST JORDAN - The full athletic program will be provided in East Jordan high school and middle school this coming year thanks to planning and fund-raising by the Athletics Boosters' Club.

Buck Cihak, president of the club, told the school board Monday night that $35,000 would be needed for a bare bones athletics budget.

To help fund this budget, Cihak asked for a 50-cent increase on all tickets except those for senior citizens and on the family season tickets. The board approved the increase which is expected to bring in about $4,000.

Cihak also asked for a membership fee to be collected from each team player. He said the highest amount asked would be $35 for basketball. Football would require $18.

The club is working on what to do for players whose families can not afford the fee.

"Pay to play" is not a good description of the proposal, Cihak said. It won't cover the cost of athletics. Other fund-raising efforts will also be needed as well as the continuing generosity of those who donate money for the program.

Schools around the state have been using fees as a way of sustaining interscholastic athletics. In this case, it will be the citizens, as the school, while administering the athletics program, will depend on the Boosters for the funding.

Cihak's request on fees was tabled for study and is expected to be acted on soon.

The board noted that athletic participation in leagues and tournaments will not be affected by the fact that financing is being born directly by citizens and not by the school.

Brothers of the Bush were honored last week during Boyne City's 125th anniversary celebration. Beard contest winners included, from left in front, Lloyd McGeorge, fullest red beard; Mel Howard, most neatly trimmed; Bob Towne, most unique; and Jim Adams, neatest trimmed full beard. In the back are Harold Ferris, oldest contestant; Leland Payne, most colorful; Larry Fineout, fullest; and Fred Loone, best goatee and mustache. Judging the contest were Harvey Varnum (a former red beard), John Talboys and Forbes Tompkins.

Update

BC zoning

BOYNE CITY - Zoning changes, which will affect property owners in the city, will be discussed at the new zoning ordinance hearing on Monday, July 20.

Prepared by the city planning commission, the revised ordinance is based on the city's Comprehensive Plan, approved a year ago. Copies of it may be studied at City Hall before the hearing.

City Manager Tim Clifton encourages residents to attend. "The nine people on the commission can't know all individual needs in the city," he said.

Also present at the meeting will be the city commission, and representatives from Johnson, Johnson, and Roy, Ann Arbor consultants who have worked with the city on the plan and the ordinance development.

The hearing will be at City Hall at 5 p.m.

EJ paving

EAST JORDAN - Al Joseph, city Street Committee chairman, reports street priorities for this summer are:

All of Hillcrest Drive, Woodland from Hillcrest to Orchard, Garfield from Second to Third, Third from Garfield to Nicholls, Main from Mary to Winter, and a valley gutter on Water from Cedar to Millie's Beauty Salon.

About 1,200 tons of asphalt will be bid on, with bids being opened at the council's next meeting on Tuesday, July 21.

City clerk Fern Morris said,

"Normally this is our non-paving year."

Last year the city used about 2,800 tons.

Work will be completed before the summer is over.

Softball

BOYNE CITY - The softball fields at Rotary Park will have a new public address system this summer, thanks to a $450 donation from local attorney Robert Klevorn and his wife Thelma.

The P.A. system is expected to be installed in time for the third annual Co-ed Slow Pitch Invitational Tournament on the weekend of July 31.

Also on that weekend, the Boyne Valley Lions will be dedicating a new building at the softball fields which will be used for concessions, scoring, rest-rooms and storage.

The co-ed tournament is co-sponsored by the Lions Club and Olympia beer.

Tournament Director Lynda Christensen reports that 14 teams will play in the double-elimination tourney. Nine teams are already registered, and others may sign up by calling her at 582-9555.

More jobs

The unemployment rate in Charlevoix County took a sharp and unexplained drop in May, according to figures released this week.

The Michigan Employment Security Commission reports that the jobless rate dropped to 14.9 percent, its lowest level since October, 1980.

The May rate was down 2.6 percent from the April rate of 17.5 percent.

More significantly, however, the 14.9 percent figure was also 1.6 percent lower than the jobless rate of 16.5 percent for the same month in 1980.

May represents the first month of 1981 where the jobless rate is lower than the same month of 1980. During the first four months of 1981, the jobless rate averaged about 1.5 percent higher than 1980—until the sharp drop in May.

The May figures show 1,400 people out of work in a labor force of 9,375. In April, an estimated 1,600 people were out of work.

MESC officials at the regional office in Traverse City said they weren't sure whether the unemployment rate drop was a short term quirk or the beginning of a trend.

Sports fee idea has merit

Paying a fee to participate in interscholastic athletics may seem like a new twist in school finances, but plenty of students have paid laboratory fees in public school, and in the old days they even paid for all their books, paper and pencils.

Editorial

The East Jordan school board is strongly considering such a fee plan, and many public schools in Michigan have already tried it and will do it again.

Superintendent Tom Rossler said at present it is a legally approved maneuver, and although he didn't like it and was sure others wouldn't, he said there seems to be no better alternative.

Since last December, the Athletics Boosters Club has done an unsurpassed amount of volunteer labor...keeping some of the athletics program alive entirely through their own efforts.

That they are willing to go for funding a full year's full program this coming year merits all the district's cooperation.

It's not that athletics are the boosters' only interest. Besides the valuable physical training they provide boosters do believe athletics also help greatly to give the school that necessary thing called school spirit that makes a school work.

This particular fee should not be called a "pay to play" fee, they say, because it won't be set high enough to cover the whole cost of the program. Boosters prefer to call it a membership fee.

And they are concerned about the students who might not be able to afford even the relatively low amounts being set, and are looking at in-kind payments where such students can either help with work necessary to put on a sports event or at odd-jobs.

There is a certain justice in the students' paying towards this special participation because they are having an experience not exactly shared by all the students, yet paid for as a not inconsiderable general expense.

That others enjoy their efforts, their skill, and the excitement tends to even things up financially and educationally. It not only makes school bearable to a large number of the students, but also it provides an important form of recreation for the rest of the town, as well.

It was pointed out at the school board meeting that communities have not been able to maintain a volunteer-supported program of this size indefinitely, but for one more year, at least, it looks like the best thing there is to do is to okay the fees and give the boosters a district-wide boost in their generous effort.

An important hearing in BC

An important public hearing will be held at Boyne City Hall at 5 p.m. next Monday. It is the first of several meetings which will be held to discuss and gather public comment on a major revision of the city's zoning ordinance.

Editorial

About 40 percent of the land within the city limits is not developed, and the zoning ordinance will play a major role in determining how that land will be used.

Zoning ordinances can and should play a major role in channeling growth and change so that it is compatible with a community's current and future needs. In Boyne City's case, the zoning ordinance revisions are designed to implement suggestions made in the city's 20-year comprehensive plan.

The ordinance changes now being proposed can be changed or over-ruled as time goes on, but such changes are not usually made without compelling reasons. For the most part, Boyne residents will have to live for quite a while with the changes that are made now.

For this reason, we urge city residents—especially property owners—to attend Monday's hearing, where the changes will be explained and discussed. Copies of the proposed zoning ordinance are available at City Hall for those who are interested.

We hope property owners don't find themselves saying, "But I didn't know..." a few months or years from now if they come across a zoning regulation they can't live with. It will take at least four months before the zoning changes are approved, and now is the best time for input and constructive criticism.

We also urge city residents to avail themselves of the columns of our newspaper's Viewpoints page to comment on the proposed changes after the upcoming public hearing.

Letters to the editor

Editor makes rash judgment, says EJ city council member

Editor,

In reply to the editorial titled, A Step Backward in E. Jordan, dated July 6:

The title "City Superintendent" vs. "Superintendent of Public Works" is essentially a matter of terminology. Both titles share basically the same duties, responsibilities and authority, and both are under the direction of the city council.

The one true difference being, Superintendent of Public Works more aptly describes the function of the office. The editorial proceeds to advocate the naming of a city manager, (which in fact would be duplicating some of the present duties and responsibilities of the clerk-treasurer's office) and is not allowed under the present city charter.

The editorial presumes that the city council based its decision by over-reacting to "personality clashes with one individual" and the inability to "get along with the current council". I would like to state that there were many incidents involving more than one personality and councils other than the present body.

As to the reference made to "council clinging to its power," many communities and school boards alike are struggling to retain, or in some cases regain, that power because it is simply—government for the people and by the people—through the process of elected representatives.

Every two years a council representative is given a vote of confidence for his actions or is removed from office for not representing the true feelings of his constituents. The appeal of passing on the problems and responsibilities to "one person in charge" is a step toward a "Big Brother" syndrome; apathy at its best.

The editorial stated that "Council members have other full-time jobs to worry about and are paid almost nothing for looking out for the city." The question is then—Why do they do it? Because they care about their hometown community, its problems and its progress and they have chosen to actively participate rather than sit back and complain.

You make reference to special council meetings being called to discuss things like swimming lesson fees. There was no special council meeting called for this. Rather, it was called for another topic of discussion when the fee question was mentioned only to expedite publication of the rates in the local paper rather than wait until the next regular council meeting. I charge you with misrepresenting the facts and, in turn, portraying the city council as frivolous.

The question of full knowledge of personnel policies for employees is very questionable at best. If an administrative official, after being employed nearly four years, was unaware of such an important existing policy, how then does this constitute admirable executive and administrative qualifications?

Finally, I am assuming the editorial was written by the editor whom I have not seen at a council meeting for a long time. Am I correct in assuming that these editorialized opinions are based upon second, third or even fourth hand information?

I'm sorry, Jim, but I think you called this one wrong.

P.S. If you need a heading for this, might I suggest one—EDITOR MAKES RASH JUDGEMENT...or perhaps—EDITOR REACTS RASHLY.

Editor's note: Our reference to the special council meeting on swimming lessons was taken directly from the June 4 city council minutes as published in this newspaper on June 18. Those minutes read: "The meeting was called by Mayor Nemecek to consider rates for swimming lessons." No other topic of discussion is mentioned in the minutes. Our reporter was not present at the June 4 meeting because it was a specially scheduled meeting which the media were not told about ahead of time.

To address another point, it is true the editor has not covered the city council as his news beat for the past year, but he has covered it for four of the past six years. The July 6 editorial was written after consultation with the Press reporter who has been responsible for covering council meetings.

No longer down in the dumps

Thoughts while waiting for our tomatoes to ripen:

Years ago, after the excitement of a long holiday weekend, a person would sometimes feel down in the dumps. But not any more. Dumps have been replaced with sanitary landfills. Imagine a person who doesn't feel well saying, "I feel down in the sanitary landfill". I think cities should bring back dumps for people to feel down in.

I went over to East Jordan the other day to look up an old friend. He wasn't at home, in the restaurant, nor the bank—nowhere to be found. It turned out to be a wild goose chase. So I gave up and returned home. If there's anything I can't stand it's chasing a wild goose around East Jordan.

I like that sign in the office at Erber's service station in Boyne City. It says they have a new employee incentive plan: Either work or get fired.

Before and a few days after the 4th, the weather was a scorcher. It was so hot at night we couldn't sleep. During the day we couldn't work outdoors or inside. The humidity was close to 70 and the temperature was well over 80—just miserable. It's what we had looked forward to all last winter.

Back on the yo-yo side of 20, when I had the world by the ears, I sometimes did things for which I'm now ashamed. But through the years I kind of wised up and didn't do like that anymore. Wouldn't it be nice if a person didn't have to wait so long and could wiser up all of a sudden? It disgusts me that it took nearly 60 years to get the hang of wising up. And even now I hear people saying that a wised up newspaperman bears watching.

You know those folks who hold out a can to collect money for the needy? I used to think nothing of dropping in a whole quarter. But since everything costs so much, I must watch every penny. Now I glance around to see if anyone is looking when I drop in 10 or 15 cents. Inflation has lowered my standard of giving.

A friend said he returned home to find that his dishwasher had worn out and now he's going to have to replace her.

CPR, not luck, saved Mark's life

Editor,

The past week has been a very emotional time in the life of the Bauer family with the accident Mark had in the water.

Through prompt action of our neighbors, the Carlsons, and his father, Mark is alive and increasingly getting better from his brush with death.

The reason for this letter is because of the reaction we had that we were "lucky" that we knew what to do. It was not luck that saved Mark's life but C.P.R. (Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation) and the grace of God.

The Bauer family hopes that this will prompt other people in the area to take C.P.R. classes given by the American Red Cross.

Mark knew how to give C.P.R. and even demonstrated it to his high school classmates in a speech he gave in school a few weeks ago. Mark knew how important C.P.R. was then...and given by others it saved his life.

We thank all the people who are praying for his recovery. Prayer does conquer all.

Good anniversary coverage, turnout

Editor,

On behalf of the city commission, I would like to congratulate your staff for their excellent coverage of the 4th of July events and 125th Anniversary Celebration festivities in the City of Boyne City.

Your numerous articles and schedule of events helped promote the largest turnout that the City of Boyne City has had for our 4th of July festivities.

The Press not only should be commended for informing the citizens of Boyne City of upcoming events, but also your coverage at the various happenings of the week, and the splendid articles and photos which followed the festivities.

Thank you for sharing the events of Boyne City's 4th of July and 125th Anniversary Celebration with the citizens of Boyne City and neighboring communities. The success achieved is due in part to the performance of your staff. Again, we would like to express our appreciation for a job well done.

Precariously perched on my feminist soapbox

I don't get on the feminist soapbox very often. It's a precarious perch for a non-purist. However, there are three things troubling the waters enough for me to want to talk about: Phyllis Schlafly, the Moral Majority opinion of Sandra O'Connor as a Supreme Court Justice and the Literary Guild.

They all fell into place when I took a break from an attempt to repair a window latch. I sat down to open my mail and realized that the Literary Guild thought they had my number.

The sales approach for subscribing to their book club was an affront. Pictured on the front of the glossy pamphlet was a woman sipping a glass of wine and reading books about bodies and baking. The headline read, "You've earned it...take a break with the Literary Guild."

I may be peculiar but if I'm going to take a break the last thing I want to while away some wasteful minutes with is a cookbook or someone's detailed analysis of sensual massage. I want to know how to fix that window latch.

Well over half of the books with which they tried to entice me into their circle had something to do with moving my body of the mysteries of a food processor.

Half of the books could have been written or appreciated only by Xavier Hollander and the other half should have been sent to Phyllis Schlafly, the good miss two-shoes of our age.

I recently witnessed Schlafly's fall on national television. Dressed in a snug fitting skirt and sweater, she shocked most of the audience with her provincial thinking.

According to Schlafly, if a woman is going to work in the same office as a man then she ought to expect sexual advances from her male co-workers, as that is the nature of the beast and the woman's place really is at home. (Unless of course she wears a tent dress to work?)

That kind of reasoning is demeaning to both men and women. But apparently Schlafly has some support since a few members of the television audience thought it too cruel to make her walk across the stage in an unprovocative manner as had been requested by a member of the audience.

She couldn't do it dressed like a 1950's sweater girl. That should have ended her credibility, but she continued posturing that women should not interfere in a man's world.

Interfering made me think of Jerry Falwell, spokesman for the Moral Majority, and his opposition to Reagan's newly appointed Supreme Court Justice, Sandra O'Connor. This woman is no enemy of the American people. She appears to be eminently qualified for the life-long position. And since the all male Supreme Court bench precedent is shattered, I have to say that I'm glad this woman is the recipient of such judicial honor.

Perhaps Rev. Falwell should reassess his accusations against O'Connor. She was the choice of President Reagan just as Reagan was the choice of the Moral Majority.

Those wonderful gardens

I think that the Boyne City and East Jordan area has some of the most beautiful vegetable gardens to be seen anywhere, and I mean anywhere!

They are really thriving now and I am thrilled to see them when I walk to town or ride in the country. And how good those vegetables are—picked fresh, from the first leaf lettuce to the late winter squash taste.

Those of us who do not have a garden of our own can get those wonderful vegetables and fruits at our farmers' market now at Old City Park in Boyne City.

I have been waiting impatiently for it to open on July 18, and it will be open from 8 a.m. to noon every Saturday for the rest of the summer.

Green beans grow fast and mature early, and I think that the simplest way to cook them is the best. Just cooked,

Jelly Roll

Sheer energy in action

BY JAMIE BAUMANN

Sheer energy is the best way to describe the polished performance of the newly-formed Jelly Roll Blues Band.

They sell T-shirts that say "Rhythm and Blues is back" and they are doing their part to make sure that is so.

Jelly Roll has been formally together as a group for only two months, but the musicians have been friends for several years. In fact, it is really the combination of two former duos plus Marty Ward on saxophone.

Members of the band are Patty McPeak and Bob Crosser of Petoskey, Craig Stadtmiller and Marty Ward of Boyne City and Graham Fineout of Horton Bay.

"Patty and Bob were playing as a duo through the winter, and Graham and I were also a duo," said Stadtmiller, Jelly Roll's versatile keyboard player.

They started playing together on open mike night at the Park Garden in Petoskey.

"We had been talking about trying to do something together for a long time," said Patty McPeak.

Stadtmiller said, "The crowd response to the group on the open mike nights was really good, so we decided to join forces."

McPeak said, "But we really needed a saxophone. Marty and I have been friends for a long time. We asked him to join us."

Thus, two months ago, the unique sound of the Jelly Roll Blues Band was born—Crosser on bass, Fineout on drums, Ward on sax, Stadtmiller on piano and McPeak singing.

On stage, the Jelly Roll really cooks. They are lively entertainers passing complicated solos from instrument to instrument.

People who are familiar with Crosser and McPeak from their softer dinner music days will be pleasantly surprised when they see McPeak dancing and belting out the songs.

Stadtmiller has been playing the piano for 25 years. He was born into the music business. His dad played with Tommy Dorsey.

Ward has been playing the sax for 12 years and his practice has paid off.

With Stadtmiller and Ward passing the lead back and forth, you don't miss the sound of a lead guitar.

Fineout has been a drummer for eight years. Both he and Stadtmiller were members of the locally popular Hot Sauce a few years ago before they became a duo.

Crosser and McPeak are also seasoned musicians.

The group has put together a new repertoire of songs which allows each musician some show-off time. They try to practice three days a week.

"We're trying to put together an album," Stadtmiller said. "In the fall, we hope to go on the road."

The Jelly Roll Blues Band will be playing at the Park Garden in Petoskey Thursdays through Saturdays in July. They will be playing Sundays at the Mogul Inn in Boyne City.

"Let 'em roll Jelly Roll..."

Young Americans

They give lively performances

BY TRISH WRIGHT

Action, audience and applause are the three elements at every performance of the Young Americans and the American Musical Theatre.

Largely responsible for this acclaim are Milton Anderson, director and founder of the Young Americans, and Charles Stevens, producer of the American Musical Theatre, who have once again returned to Petoskey with the exuberant, talented young people who sing, dance and play their way into the hearts of their audience.

The faces of the performers may change from year to year but the professional quality of the entertainment offered on stage by the Young Americans and their accompanists never varies.

Renditions of Richard Rodgers' music will be presented this summer with the same flair and precision that has characterized all previous shows. And the performances of Jesus Christ Superstar and Show Boat will be spectacles of lavish scenery and choreography.

A total of 43 performances have been scheduled for the Petoskey area, the summer home of the 150 members of the theatrical troupe.

The season opened with Broadway, a production that will tour the nation in 1983 and will play the Brea Civic Auditorium in California later this year. Petoskey audiences were fortunate to preview some of the finest musical numbers ever to have reached Broadway lights before the show goes on the road.

The American Musical Theatre with a 134 member cast is performing the movie classic Show Boat at the Petoskey Middle School now through Aug. 6.

In the past few weeks the school stage has steadily been transformed into a riverboat and levee. "I wanted the audience to come into the school, where they've been numerous times before, and get their socks knocked off," said Jerry Reinhardt, set designer.

Reinhardt, who holds a Master of Arts in Theatre and Theatre Design, wanted to create a festival environment. With a crew working 14 to 16 hours a day a set was completed with an old fashioned paddle wheel and the banks of a southern town at the turn of the century.

Show Boat's director, Harry Johnson, believes that the extensive set Reinhardt designed will promote the romantic theme of the script.

Bustle dresses, colorful costumes and love sagas such as "Old Man River," "You Are Love," "Bill," and "Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man" promise to make this a riverboat pageant.

"Showboat is romantic and old fashioned and it should be a heart-warming experience. It has all the old songs that anyone over 30 will remember," said Johnson.

The performance of this movie, which was originally made in 1924, not only contains the lyrical score of Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein but also carries the warmth and talent of the American Musical Theatre.

Beginning July 10 and running through Aug. 2 will be Jesus Christ Superstar at the Petoskey High School. Music, colors, sound and lighting have been orchestrated to produce this rock opera of today.

Michael Cody, reputed to be one of Hollywood's leading choreographers, directs the opera which the American Musical Theatre describes as speaking to the world in a language and music particularly apt for our time and condition.

Performances will be each Friday, Saturday and Sunday with lower volume on Sundays.

The curtain will rise on "A Tribute To Richard Rodgers" on Aug. 11 at the Petoskey High School. The six performances ending Aug. 16, will include a collection of the most popular and finest music that are owing to Rodgers.

The Young Americans will feature songs from South Pacific, Carousel, State Fair, Oklahoma, Me and Juliet, The Larry Hart years and The Sound of Music in this show which has played over 45 states.

On Monday, Aug. 3 and Sunday, Aug. 9 the American Musical Theatre will delight audiences with a special dance concert.

Tickets for all performances are $7 and are available by writing American Musical Theatre, Box 474, Petoskey, or by calling 347-1333.

Lakeside Players to present "The Good Doctor"

The Lakeside Players Theatre from Boyne City and Petoskey will be performing Neil Simon's "The Good Doctor" Thursday, July 30, August 7, 8 and 9 at the Harbour Inn in Harbor Springs. Curtain: 8:30 p.m. The show will be coming to Boyne City in late July.

The play, directed by Kate Schafer of Boyne City, is a comedy of short scenes which are adapted from Anton Chekov's short stories.

"We wanted to do something light for the summer audiences," said Schafer, "something the people could have fun with."

Ticket prices are $4 and tickets can be obtained in advance from members of the Lakeside Players or at Schafer's in Boyne City, Photo Art Supply in Petoskey, Hovey Drugs in Harbor Springs, and Hite Drug Store in East Jordan, or at the door.

Lakeside player director Kate Schafer of Boyne City [right] helps Jackie Brennan and Larry Willis of Petoskey with a scene from "The Good Doctor."

Magician performs every night

Take your family to dinner and see a professional magician perform at JD and Company in Petoskey.

The magician who will amaze you with his tricks is Andy Bennett, an MSU junior in public relations.

Bennett, who is living in Petoskey for the summer, began doing magic shows when he was seven years old. So he has been performing for 13 years.

"I've performed over 500 shows," Bennett said. "I've done them for almost any type of occasion imaginable, but mainly for banquets or birthday parties."

Bennett's grandparents, who raised him, gave him a magic set when he was seven. Then his grandfather took a great interest in his magic.

When Bennett was nine he went to the Annual Magic Get-Together in Colon, Michigan, which is the magic capital of the world.

At the convention, he was one of the youngest recognized performing magicians.

Located in Colon, is the Abbots Magic Company which was founded by Percy Abbott and famous magician Harry Blackstone. It is one of only five major magic manufacturing companies in the world. Bennett gets a lot of his equipment from them.

How does a magician learn his tricks? He practices. He reads the volumes of books on magic which are available. He joins magic fraternities in which the members trade secrets.

Bennett is a card-carrying member of the Society of American Magicians and the International Brotherhood of Magic.

He was one of the founders of the Little Finger Magic Ring in Traverse City.

Magic clubs are called rings after the "Old Chinese Magic Ring Trick." It is rumored that this trick is so old that it was found in Egyptian hieroglyphics. Thus, the name is used for magic rings.

At JD and Company, Bennett performs two shows nightly for the dinner hour. Between shows he often walks from table to table performing close-up magic.

It's an enjoyable evening of entertainment for the whole family.

Veteran magician Andy Bennett performs amazing tricks each dinner hour at JD and Company in Petoskey.

Local musicians on TV

BY JIM BAUMANN

Boyer City folksinger Sean Ryan has been doing quite a bit of recording lately—for a new weekly television show and a new record album.

The television show, Hello Michigan, features Ryan and several other northern Michigan entertainers. It is being aired at 11:30 p.m. every Thursday on two northern Michigan TV stations (channels 9 and 23.)

Hello Michigan is produced by Gary Morse, owner of the Brownwood restaurant and entertainment complex near Eastport, and Guy Courter, an independent television producer from Traverse City.

Morse wanted to sponsor the show to call more attention to what he feels are top quality, yet overlooked, entertainers in the area.

Traverse City and Petoskey get a great deal of downstate publicity, he says, but the "in between" areas really have more to offer in the entertainment field.

Morse is making Hello Michigan available to downstate television stations as well as having it on two stations in the North.

Featured entertainers besides Ryan are Barnstorm and Oscar Felio from Brownwood; the Schussy-Cats from Schuss Mountain; Roger Harcourt and Shhh-Boom, from Traverse City; and comedian Craig Sebert from Traverse City.

Each entertainer taped enough material to fill half-hour segments of the show. All of the taping was done in a marathon 20-hour session that began at 11 a.m. on June 13 and ended at 7 the next morning.

Ryan, co-owner of Ryan's Public House, said he thinks the show "is a super idea" to promote the area and its entertainment.

Some of the songs he sang for the TV show include "The Wreck of the Edmund Fitzgerald," "The Green Fields of France," "The Dutchman," "City of New Orleans," "Vatican Rag," "The Bricklayer Song," "Today/Where Are You Going, My Little One," and "Nevada Jane."

Ryan is starting work on his second record album, and some of the tapes from the Brownwood recording session may be used.

He also recorded an entire evening of his songs at his own pub about two months ago for possible use on his new album. The exact format of the album hasn't been finalized yet, but it will definitely include some live material.

If the quality of the live recordings from his pub and Brownwood aren't good enough to put on record (crowd noise is hard to control), then he will at least use some of the live introductions to the songs.

Then he will record the songs in a studio. Bob White of Charlevoix radio station WKHQ handled the live recording session at Ryan's Public House, and the station has facilities for Ryan to record in their studio.

That, he says, is great. His first album in 1976 was recorded near Detroit, and it all had to be done in one day. Now Ryan can drive to Charlevoix virtually any time he wants, record one or two songs at the KHQ studio, and go home.

No release date has been set for the new album, which might turn out to be a two-record set.

Before the new album comes out, though, Ryan hopes to re-release his first album, "For My Friends," possibly before the end of the summer.

All 2,000 copies of that record sold out a few months after its release in the summer of 1976. The highlight of that album is "Farewell to the Rails," a 24-minute medley of railroad songs.

Also on the album are "Sixteen Miles to Seven Lakes," "Mr. Bojangles," "Mother Country," "Gunga Din," and "She's My Lady," the latter being one of Ryan's own compositions.

Good folk

Jim Lombardo and Rick Beeman of Charlevoix are Clockwork. They will perform their folk music Monday, July 20 in the Weathervane's Gristmill Room in Charlevoix.

Stars perform at Interlochen

Interlochen Center for the Arts will be presenting a variety of entertainment throughout the rest of the summer.

On Thursday, July 16 Dixieland clarinet player Pete Fountain will be bringing his New Orleans sound to Interlochen at 8 p.m.

On Friday, July 17 England's greatest mime artist Geoffrey Buckley will be performing.

High Country Andy Miller, Reuben Trudeau, Jim Baker, Gene Beer and Rock Elzinga were the original High Country.

They dig country music

They specialize in country music as the name High Country would imply.

They like to play songs by George Jones, Merle Haggard, and Don Williams as well as other country artists.

"We do some 1950's stuff and some light rock and roll, because the people seem to like them, but we are mainly a country band," said steel guitarist

Gene Baker of Charlevoix.

The band is currently going through a transitional period. The original five were Jim Baker of Petoskey, Rocky Elzinga of Charlevoix, Gene Beer of Charlevoix, Andy Miller of Clarion and Rueben Trudeau of Central Lake.

In May, both Miller and Trudeau left the group. Gregg Mattson of Boyne City is currently playing lead guitar.

Baker, Elzinga and Beer have been playing together for three years. Baker is the lead vocalist and bass guitarist. Elzinga plays drums and Beer plays steel guitar.

In February, the original High Country cut an album, which the group has been selling on weekends while working nightclubs in the area.

The record was recorded right in Charlevoix at the Music Shop in cooperation with WKHQ radio.

"We sell an average of 8 or 10 albums per weekend," said Beer. And we'd like to do some more promotional concerts."

High Country chooses songs they like or ones that are most requested to add to their repertoire. They will be playing on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays at the Tucker Inn in East Jordan through July.

Paragon just loves to play their rock and roll

BY JAMIE BAUMANN

Paragon, a rock band from Boyne City and East Jordan, loves to play their music. And in East Jordan, they are very popular with the teenagers, who frequently ask for their autographs.

The band members are drummer and lead vocalist Joe Trojanek of East Jordan, guitar player Jim Karlskin of Boyne City, guitar player Dan Patrick of Boyne City, and bass guitarist Michael Cornell from Boyne City.

Trojanek, Cornell, and Karlskin have played rock music together for just over a year. Patrick recently moved to Boyne City from West Virginia and has played with the band for only two months.

The band is civic-minded and has played for various community projects in both Boyne City and East Jordan including last year's Moonlight Madness and this year's Fourth of July open air concert in Boyne City and teen dances at the Polka Tent and the Civic Center in East Jordan.

"We're really not in it for the money," said Trojanek. "We just like to make people happy with our music. In fact, most of the money we make we put right back into equipment to better our sound."

When they are trying to pick out songs to learn, they listen for songs with twin guitar leads and 3-part vocals.

They all play "by ear," Karlskin said. "None of us can read music well." They just hear something and then learn to play it.

To please the crowds, Paragon also uses special lighting techniques and at one point in their show, they use bright flash like an old-fashioned powder flash.

Cornell dances with the crowd as he plays his bass guitar. Watching Paragon perform, it's easy to see that none of the group would rather be doing anything else than making rock'n' roll music.

Dan Patrick and Jim Karlskin of Paragon perform in the Lions' Tent in East Jordan.

Northwood Symphonette to perform

A kick-off benefit for the Northwood Symphonette will be held Monday, July 20, at the Virginia McCune Art Center in Petoskey.

Symphonette founder Don Jaeger, who recently returned from China, will be presenting a film called, "From Mao to Mozart: Isaac Stern in China" at 8 p.m.

The film will be followed by a violin recital by Chinese violinist Zhu Pei. Pei will be accompanied by Marilyn Abbott, a Northwood Symphonette member.

The Northwood Symphonette is a group of professional musicians from all over the country under the direction of Jaeger. They will be touring our area in August.

They will be appearing at Holy Childhood Church in Harbor Springs on Saturday, Aug. 8 and Saturday, Aug. 15.

They will perform at St. Ignatius Catholic Church in Good Hart on Wednesday, Aug. 12. On Friday, Aug. 14, they will be at the Community Reform Church in Charlevoix.

For times and ticket information for both the benefit and concert tour call the Virginia McCune Art Center in Petoskey at 347-4337.

The concerts, which are sponsored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council, will be held in church auditoriums in this area.

Country Star serves inexpensive meals

Quite probably the best all around family restaurant in the entire north country is a rather unimposing looking place in Boyne City. The Country Star Restaurant not only feeds more people nightly in Boyne City than any other restaurant in the city, and probably the entire county, but it feeds them well and inexpensively.

The Country Star menu provides a good variety of selections, but judging from the number of persons that daily go through their buffet lines, the menu receives a comparatively scarce workout.

My husband and I are both accomplished eaters and we can be found dining out somewhere at least two nights out of seven. "Fine dining" is important to us, but good food is the primary ingredient, followed by service and price. One of those two nights out is probably at the Country Star.

No one who has ever eaten at Country Star could possibly argue about the quality of the food. Gourmet it ain't. Just fine cooked meals like most of us wish mother could have made. The fried chicken on their buffet is not to be beaten.

Buffet entrees include such items as meatloaf, Polish sausage and sauerkraut, roast pork, sliced turkey

Dining Delights

By Kathy Johnson

breast, fried fish, spaghetti—and fried chicken. Their fried chicken is the main entree Saturday through Thursday with fried fish taking its place on Friday. The entrees come with a nice variety of fresh vegetables—broccoli, potatoes, beans—and one of the nicest salad bars in the area.

The salad bar includes plenty of clean crisp lettuce and all the goodies to make it a meal. Then you can select from jellies; heavenly hash; potato, macaroni, and green pea salads; ripe and green olives; corn relish and variety of other fruit and vegetable salads.

The service at the Country Star is excellent. Pleasant women, from young to older, take care of your drink orders—or menu item. You are not over-served, but you do receive frequent check-backs on your drinks and to be sure that everything is all right.

One of the few area restaurants where I can honestly say "I've never had a bad meal there," the Country Star in Boyne City is open seven days a week serving lunch and dinner until 8 p.m. nightly. On Sundays there is a buffet from 11:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. throughout the summer.

And senior citizens receive a real break at the Country Star. Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights are Senior Citizen Nights, but prices throughout the week are very inexpensive.

Here is a nice, attractively decorated restaurant with fine food, good service and affordable prices where one can afford to take the entire family.

Beaver Island

Schooners to yachts

BY DAVID GLADISH

Schooners used to wait in line in St. James Harbor on Beaver Island, to load lumber from the sawmill. That was at the turn of the century, when the Beaver Island Lumber Company was set up to log one of the last stands of virgin pine in the state.

Today the only vessels of that era left in the harbor are the ones on the bottom. Instead, the harbor is speckled with masts and sails of pleasure craft on a summer day.

But the interesting thing is that many of them moored at the very site where that early sawmill stood. The property is now a marina with two docks and 25 moorings.

Actually, there was a succession of mills there. The first one the lumber company built burned down, and they built a second. After the company days, Gus Mielke operated a mill, which also burned down, and he, too, built a second one on the same site. This last mill was still working in '57. But instead of sawing pine and shingles, it was sawing box timber. What's that? It's for wooden boxes. They shipped fish in them.

By '59 nothing was going on at the mill any more, and Phil Gregg went in to partnership with Walker Hill to make it a marina.

Unfortunately the mill building itself was unsafe for any use by then and had to be torn down.

But history always leaves its traces once you find them. The original blacksmith building is still standing and is now in use as the marina office. The engine that ran the mill was saved and is being rebuilt.

And, although the lumber company took its railroad with it, you can see the bumps in the asphalt street where the "sleepers" are still under it. They lie near a street of frame buildings built to house Beaver Island Lumber Company employees.

A trace of logging history that fascinates me is what the mill left under the water of the harbor. I asked Phil Gregg what was there.

"Well," he said, "One way they used to get logs to the mill was to boom them—tow them up the island shore in a big floating cluster." Then the logs waited in the harbor till the mill got to them.

"And the hardwood ones waterlogged and sank if they weren't used soon enough," Phil went on. "I'll bet there are 10 or 12 feet of logs piled out there." He indicated the area beyond his dock where the quietly moored boats bobbed on the surface.

Phil ought to know. He dredged up hundreds of them to make room for the docks. But 10 feet! On the surface the waterlogged grid would dwarf nearly every boat on the harbor today.

The mills came and went, like the schooners. Now it's yachts and fishermen that come and go, day by day and summer by summer.
