EJ again looking at harbor construction

EAST JORDAN - Resurfacing again is the city's plan for a larger harbor. City Superintendent Rush Cattell told city council last week that Keith Wilson, chief of the state's Waterways Division, had been invited up to review the 1980 study for a proposed harbor. The intent was to see if it would be feasible to proceed with construction.

The main concern, funding, was the stumbling block following another effort back in 1972. Although a city-wide vote overwhelmingly approved the harbor then, federal and state funds failed to come through. City Clerk Fern Morris. What did materialize before the program was dropped, was the launch site on the west side of the lake.

Funds again were not available in 1980 following completion in December of plans for 35 boat slips of various sizes.

Plans were drawn by United Design Associates of Cheboygan as part of the Shoreline Stabilization Project.

It was the project which in 1981 renovated Memorial Park in East Jordan, but again funding did not become available for the harbor. Then-Superintendent Herm Rasch said it would have to wait, possibly for city budgeting.

The 1980 plans called for $209,730 in dredging costs. According to local historian George Secord water used to be deep in that area, but when the bridge across the Jordan River was built, engineers let the sand dredged for the cofferdams simply flow in toward the shoreline.

Secord said city council did nothing about it at the time.

Besides docking, plans for the harbor project also include construction of facilities for small boat mooring such as water supply, electricity, comfort station, sewage pumpout, and harbor master's service building.

In 1980 the total construction cost was estimated at $996,457.

If the city were to get funding now, Cattell said it would come to approximately $1,200,000.

Revival of the harbor commission was proposed at the city council meeting. Cattell told Vernon Stark, who brought it up, that it should be studied.

Boyne City school gym floor replacement underway

BOYNE CITY - Elementary school children will continue to have gym classes outdoors until Nov. 20. By then the new floor should be completed.

At Monday night's special meeting the school board awarded the floor repair job to John B. Rossi Company of Grand Rapids for their low bid of $4,274. Rossi was one of three bidders.

In addition to the vinyl-bestos tile floor installation, the school asked for line inserts to mark basketball zones and also a circle for elementary gym class work.

Total cost will be $5,378, slightly above expected cost. The board decided to save on the cost by having floor preparation done by the school.

Original flooring, put down when the new school was built, became loose and unusable because of moisture. The board is seeking satisfaction from the floor distributors, the architects, installers, and contractors.

Meantime the school is considering selling off in lots the torn up flooring material.

Parents, students express concern over millage vote

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

EAST JORDAN - The school system won't close if the request for three mills is turned down at the polls Tuesday, Nov. 3.

But what Middle School Principal Doug Shields called a curriculum already "down to the bare bones," will be much worse off.

The millage election was called after the loss of some $145,000 of state aid which followed the enrollment drop of 79 students this year.

Shields said in a newsletter going out to East Jordan families, "The middle school has been devastated" over the last few years by state aid cuts.

Prior to that, he noted, the curriculum had been comparable to that of any school of the same size in the state.

Asked how the students feel, Shields said some, especially in high school, are expressing bitterness and frustration as they see dedicated teachers leaving.

Superintendent Tom Rossler said 146 students turned in to his office a petition to campaign for the millage.

Students in all three schools will be affected if the millage passes.

In the elementary school 1½ teaching positions will be reinstated of the 3½

Among the top priorities are 10 teaching positions. Rossler said also one special education teacher might well return on a part-time basis.

But no provision is made to do anything for extra-curricular activities, he noted. School sports have not been funded by tax monies since last winter.

About the increased number of study halls, Rossler explained that school was longer in former years, so two or three study halls weren't unusual. With school 1½ to 2 hours shorter, numerous study halls take on significance.

Responding to distressed parents at the last school board meeting who said people were seriously considering moving to places with less devastated school systems, Rossler said the administration is working on curricula and scheduling for next year in order to adapt to the new limitations and still produce a good education for East Jordan young people.

He said with considerable vigor that the community should not give up.

As Shields said, "This community has always supported its young people when the need is there." He added, "The need for support has never been greater."

designated to be cut, thus reducing the number of students per class and improving the time allocated for reading and math.

Without the millage, Rossler said, many class sizes would continue over 30 with 36 in one kindergarten class.

If voters favor the millage, Rossler said, "the board of education will be able to reinstitute programs, which were (planned to be) cut, on a priority basis."

Revenue from three mills will not entirely cover the $145,000 loss, but the good news as far as schools are concerned is the withdrawal of property tax reform by the state government. This would have heaped on another approximately $60,000 cut.

Rossler said the first executive order cut of $3,650 had been taken care of. But the state is still figuring its budget shortages which could be anywhere between $270 and $600 million. Another, larger, executive order cut is expected by December and there may be more.

These are the factors that make it necessary to add back school programs "on the priority basis" if the millage passes.

Boyne is amending licensing for haulage

BOYNE CITY - Does Boyneland Refuse Garbage Service have one license or two, according to the city ordinance?

Confusing wording in the ordinance will be changed following two hearings of the amended ordinance approved Tuesday noon by the city commission.

The present wording states that the "city may issue up to four licenses to any one person..." Since Boyneland has bought up Powers, Boyneland now has, according to one interpretation, two licenses.

The matter becomes a problem in supposing one company buys up others until it has four licenses. Then no other hauler can start up business in the city.

Intent of the ordinance, however, is that no more than four separate hauling businesses can be licensed by the city, said City Attorney William McTaggart. On that basis, Boyneland would be viewed as having one license.

The commission did not propose to act retroactively on the question, but all future licensing will be according to the amended ordinance.

The ordinance will require that a hauler be licensed by the state, post a $1,000 bond, have specific storage location for the vehicle(s), and follow local regulations as to scheduling and so on.

Where the limitation of four originated, no one on the commission could say, but as McTaggart pointed out, with a sanitary, city-wide service, a responsible set-up is necessary. A proliferation of haulers would not be to the benefit of the city, he said, adding that four was a good number, somewhat more than the city would need for the present.

Hauling done by the city for its own purposes, City Manager Tim Clifton said, is not considered a business nor is haulage by any apartment-complex for its own service. These are not included in the maximum of four licensed haulers.

Census figures on the way...

Final 1980 census figures are on the way to county clerks throughout the state, which means that reapportionment for county commissioner districts will begin soon.

The federal census data is being sent to the clerks by Secretary of State Richard H. Austin. He said all census materials are being sent this week and should arrive before next Monday.

State law provides 60 days for county apportionment commissions to redistrict county commissions and file plans with the Secretary of State.

Charlevoix County Clerk Jane Brannon said Tuesday, she had received some census maps but she had not yet received any census figures.

Population shifts must be taken into account when county commission districts are redrawn, in order to provide districts of approximately equal population.

Redrawing the county commission districts—and also possibly redetermining the number of districts—is left to the apportionment board in each county.

In Charlevoix County, the board includes County Clerk Jane Brannon, County Prosecutor Scott Beatty, County Treasurer Anah Potter, Democratic Party Chairman Fritz Aillard and Republican Chairman Donald Hufford.

Halloween is approaching, and the evidence is everywhere! Angela Probble, 12, of East Jordan, made this pumpkin-headed scarecrow which stands on a hill overlooking passing cars on the East Jordan-Advance Road. Angela is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Probble.

The cash flow flew, so I can't flock south

I do not have quite enough education to write this column, but I am going to do it anyway. Doing things without quite enough education is what gets most of us through life.

Hundreds of birds flocking south used our lawn to rest and to leave calling cards. One large bird came up to my window, looking directly at me. I swore I heard him say, "How come you aren't flocking south? Are you nuts or something?" It isn't that I'm nuts or something. It's just that I've been unable to flock south since my cash flow flew.

Speaking of cash flow, both President Reagan and Governor Milliken went on television recently to point out that we are now in an economic recession. Thank goodness they've finally gotten the word.

I was fed up with some unnecessary criticism of the city the other day. So I put my hands over my ears and closed my eyes, saying to myself: Hear no evil, speak no evil, see no evil. Then I left Water Street and went home.

A man stopped in Petoskey to ask how much it would cost to put a telephone call through to the smartest banker in the world. He was told that it would probably run at least $50 or $60. He didn't have that amount with him so he forgot about it. A few days later he was in East Jordan asking the same question: How much would it cost to telephone the smartest banker in the world? Nothing, he was told, that's a local call.

Schools are beginning to close around Michigan with a lull in student instruction while the taxpayers are being taught a lesson.

A fellow said to me: "When you are dead and gone, you will notice how quickly your writings will be forgotten." Heavens, I hope not. I'd hate to be dead and gone and still here to see what happens. (Perhaps you know one or two dead and goners who are still here.)

I enjoy humming along with the beautiful music of WVOY. It isn't the generation gap or that I hate rock and roll. It's just that I've never gotten the hang of shaking my head and yelling along with the music.

I looked outdoors the other day and saw snow falling upon the Just as well as the Unjust; not quite measuring up to either of those kind of people, I stayed in the house.

One of these days Halloween will move up 131, circle Boyne Falls and land like a hungry ghost on the back of Boyne City—tricking or treating all over the place. When I was a kid I seldom went to Boyne Falls on Halloween. Like Russia, I found that I could wear myself out trying to trick a Polack.

Where the Clifton controversy is

Some people in every community are interested in what's going on down at city hall. Some people keep track—it's almost part of their nature.

And some do it out of a sense of duty. And a whole lot of people depend on these others to feed them the proper opinions. So that when voting time comes around, they "know" how to react. At least they feel as though they know.

It's really hard to know enough to be able to vote properly. There is so much. We have to be citizens of city (or township), state, and country, too. Not to mention county. And we are the guarantors of our schools as well.

We could spend all of every day, trying to be informed citizens.

Just finding out the background of everyone on the ballot would take two weeks at least.

The result, dear Thomas Jefferson (who sponsored this whole idea), is that we go around feeling half-guilty, half-bored, and full of opinions but not knowledge, because we can't know everything.

Sometimes I think Jefferson wasn't looking beyond his own nose. I think he thought everyone was as wrapped up in politics as he was.

Still, we have no one to trust our freedom to but people like ourselves who must be watched because of our ignorances, our sometimes slipping ethics, and our pleasure in power. There is no super creature provided to do it so that each of us can turn to our own affairs.

Yes, we know. The simplest solution, of course, is to read the newspaper—consistently.

This paper considers proper coverage of the problems and decisions of governing bodies to be its chief responsibility. Hours and hours are spent to collect and boil down the information that appears in each mere six inches or so of print.

It is the paper's contribution to Mr. Jefferson and to the voters of this county, to save them the hours it would take to be informed.

It is surprising how many people express strong views that are only partially backed by information. Knowing that Boyne City water rates jumped more than they ever have and that the city manager managed to have them do so isn't knowing enough.

More than once the reasoning behind this necessary misfortune was presented in the paper.

It must be hard for Tim Clifton to see letters and reports printed in this paper that are critical of his efforts when the comments are based on lack of information.

Still, the paper must report public statements fairly. The paper must print letters. The writers and editor are no more all-wise than those who govern; the free press in this country is not to stand in judgment of what the public may or may not be told.

And Clifton hasn't been perfect. Who in the world doesn't need to be watched and questioned? But those who have watched and questioned have seen a man who is alert and conscientious above the average.

Those are two most valuable qualities in government. Like gold, the silver is the know-how. Clifton's know-how is praiseworthy—it goes to the sources, the specialists, before making recommendations.

Two things have gone wrong. The people didn't all read the papers; the city manager doesn't like being yelled at. More than most he suffers from a preference to be reasonable.

Elections are coming. This local paper not only reports—as other media do—this paper also provides editorial comment. This paper is the responsible organ of communication for this county.

Not only for Boyne City's city commission election, but also for East Jordan's city and school elections, there are serious concerns on Nov. 3. To be dealt with by informed people.

When business is good it pays to advertise; when business is bad you've got to advertise.

Five candidates seek 3 seats on BC Commission

BOYNE CITY - Five candidates are running for three positions on the city commission next Tuesday, Nov. 3.

Voters can cast their ballots at city hall from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Each voter can vote for three (or fewer) candidates in the election.

Incumbent commissioners Steve Moody and Keith Fitzpatrick are running for reelection. Newcomers making a bid are Elmer Crain, Rudolph Florenski and Bill Grimm.

One of the commission seats to be filled is that of Catherine Jessup, who died Oct. 19 after serving for nearly four years.

Newly elected commissioners will take office at the first city commission meeting after the election.

The Press asked each of the five candidates to respond to three questions:

1. Do you think the present city commissioners and administrators are doing a good job? Why or why not?

2. What do you think about the changes that have been proposed for the city zoning ordinance?

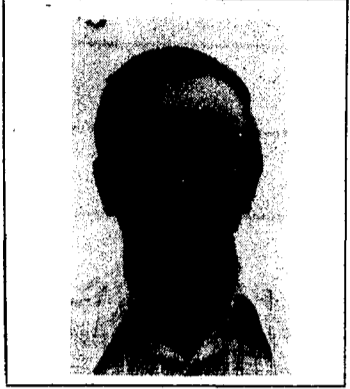

3. Ideally, what will Boyne City be like in the year 2000?

Their answers, plus some personal background, are printed below:

to follow it, plan for plan, like they are now doing, I would be against it.

I think changes should be incorporated to protect our citizens from losing their businesses and from a lot of future worry. Especially if they are in an area zoned commercial and industrial before and now being zoned residential.

[3] Boyne City in the future? It will probably have condominiums all along the beach and boats so thick they will have to have an in and out. My idea is a beautiful view of the sunset and plenty of work and enterprise and beauty.

RUDOLPH FLORENSKI

A former county commissioner, Rudolph Florenski, 40, lives at 635 E. Main St., Boyne City. He is a self-employed carpenter who has lived nearly all of his life in this area.

Florenski is a veteran of the U.S. Army and a member of St. Matthew's Catholic Church.

Here are his answers to the Press questions:

[1] City officials doing a good job? The present city administration is not representing the majority of taxpayers who pay property taxes in town.

Why I say this is because 80 percent of the capital improvement fund is being spent on Water Street!

These merchants must accept the fact of price competition, which stimulates business, not new sidewalks and new streets!

[2] Zoning Ordinance changes? Some of the city zoning is good for a select few and counter-productive for some non-establishment property owners in Boyne!

[3] Boyne City in the future? I am not God, so I can't predict what the City of Boyne City will be like in the future or whether or not the human race will exist by the year 2000! We should continue building commercial and residential improvements in Boyne City!

BILL GRIMM

Bill Grimm, 55, recently retired after working for 33 years as the district conservationist for the USDA Soil Conservation Service. A resident of 315 State St., he has lived in Boyne City for 31 years.

Grimm holds a bachelor's degree in soils from the University of Wisconsin, and he has taken graduate courses at Michigan State University.

He is a member of the Boyne Valley Lions, American Legion and F.A. and M. Lodge. He was a veteran of World War II.

He served as a board member with the Char-Em Intermediate School District for six years, he was active in Boyne City Little League and is an elder in the local Presbyterian Church.

He gave these answers to our questions:

[1] City officials doing a good job? Current city commissioners appear to be doing a good job. I may not agree on some of the decisions they made but I do recognize they had more data from which to make a decision.

As for administration—I don't know—however, there's always room for improvement.

When policies, procedures, public relations, etc., can be reviewed, perhaps a judgment can be made then.

[2] Zoning ordinance changes? I haven't had time to review ordinance and I feel I'm not qualified to respond. However, every home has their own zoning—sometimes a family will remodel a home and in a sense makes a zoning change and so it is with government. Zoning ordinances should be updated to reflect the needs of the community. I'm not against zoning revisions as long as they are fair, have public input and protect the city's environment.

It appears both city commission and city planning commission have done this. Perhaps public relations could have been better in its initial stages.

[3] Boyne City in the future? Who's to say! If Boyne City can become more positive, if it can capture the community spirit it had in its early history and during the 40's and 50's, there's no telling what could be accomplished.

The ingredients are there. All it takes is for the community to unite and become more involved. If the community had the positive attitude, initiative and foresight similar to the town's forefathers, many things are possible.

How Boyne City will look in the year 2000 pretty well depends on the "gusto" of its citizens.

KEITH L. FITZPATRICK

Fitzpatrick, 51, lives at 1144 Charlevoix Ave., and he works as an accountant at the local United Technologies plant. He has lived all of his life in the area.

Fitzpatrick has been on the city commission since 1966, and he is now serving as mayor.

His responses to our questions:

[1] City officials doing a good job? Yes, I think the present city commission and administration are doing a good job. I think the results of their efforts are self evident.

[2] Zoning ordinance changes? The changes to the new city zoning ordinance brought up by the group of citizens at the planning commission public hearing were well-founded. I am pleased that the planning commission was able to resolve most of them.

[3] Boyne City in the future? In the year 2000 I would like to see Boyne City not over-developed, with utilities in good shape, a sound tax base with a good balance between residential, commercial and light industry.

STEVEN M. MOODY

Steven M. Moody, 54, is finishing his first four-year term as a city commissioner. A resident of 701 Spring St., he is the director of marketing for Courter, Inc. He has lived in the area for 20 years.

Here are Moody's answers:

[1] City officials doing a good job? Yes, I think the present commission and administration are doing a good job. However, it is unfair to give the credit to the commission and/or the administration solely.

Our successes are shared with the many committees and the many, many individuals that make up the various committees.

It is through the efforts of these unselfish individuals that the planning of the community takes form for the future, and even though everyone will not be satisfied with the decisions, it should be noted that it is the result of many dedicated people working for the betterment of the community.

[2] Zoning ordinance changes? Basically, I am in accord with the proposed zoning ordinance. However, I am against an ordinance that will not permit an existing non-conforming use to exist or expand its operation. I am of the opinion that a non-conforming use will run its course and that with time it will resort to a conforming use, or a future zoning ordinance will recognize that the planning was either in error of the city's growth has taken a different direction.

I recognize that this is planning by exception, however, we must be considerate of the individual (or individuals) that preceded the rezoning ordinance. Further, I am confident that there are sufficient controls that can be enforced to prevent abuses by existing non-conforming uses.

[3] Boyne City in the future? Ideally, Boyne City in the year 2000 will be a community of approximately 4,300 people, diversified between light industry and resort business to maintain a stable economy; a vibrant business district catering to the community's needs; and a city with above average streets, sidewalks, curbs and gutters, water and sewage system.

I do not foresee Boyne City becoming very large in the future as we are not located on a major highway nor do we have a natural resource conducive to large industry.

This is fortunate for us, as I think the majority of the people in Boyne City would rather keep the city to a nominal size.

ELMER CRAIN

Elmer Crain, 61, is a resident of 125A Stewart St., Boyne City. He has lived in the area about 31 years and has owned and managed his own well drilling business for 44 years.

He has a high school education and has served as president and vice-president of the local REACT citizens' band radio assistance group.

His answers to the Press questionnaire:

[1] City officials doing a good job? The present city commissioners are doing a good job as far as they know. But there are a lot of things going on that they don't even know about. In other words, the city manager is doing things and making decisions that city commissioners wouldn't approve of if they knew about.

If I get in I am going to try to keep a tighter rein on him.

[2] Zoning ordinance changes? The changes that have been proposed for city zoning ordinance were drawn up by a company that has never zoned any city within a 75 mile radius of here. Their view might not be good for our area and

Joseph Rebec

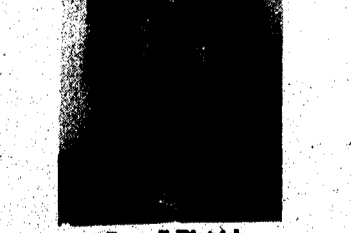

Joseph Rebec, 41, lives at 434 S. Lake St. He has lived in East Jordan most of his life. He lives at 434 S. Lake St.

Here are his views on the issues:

[1] Is city being run well? Yes. Some of the issues that have been before city council should have been handled with less delay, but for the most part I feel the present council is doing a good job.

[2] Improvements? I would like to see several city streets repaired. I would like to see some type of city sponsored activities for youths (not necessarily athletic activities). And, I would like to see the materials in the public library updated.

[3] City's future? Ideally, in the year 2,000, East Jordan will be a thriving industrial and resort community.

Patricia Sweet

Patricia Sweet, 44, has been a member of the city council for the past four years. Before that, she served on the city housing commission.

She has lived in the area for 20 years, and she and her husband own Yesterday's Treasures, an antique sales and restoration shop in downtown East Jordan.

A 1956 graduate of East Jordan High School, she now lives at 301 Mary St., East Jordan.

Here are her answers to the questions sent to her by the Press:

[1] Is city being run well? I believe the present city council and administrators are attempting to continue a forward thrust of progress and growth under very difficult times for the community. With economic conditions as they are, a "belt tightening" attitude prevails, along with a desire to continue the best maintenance, improvement, and expansion of the city's facilities and services, and determined efforts to continue progress toward our long term projects, such as the Tourist Park, Water and Sewer Dept., Landfill and our harbor.

[2] Improvements? Major city improvement projects that I would like to see on the council's priority list include the upgrading and expansion of Water and Sewer Dept. (An example—a detailed drawing of all existing lines which at present the city does not have), the implementation of Phase II of the Tourist Park project, and after 10 years in the planning stage—implementation of the harbor dredging and development project. (We are the only community on Lake Charlevoix without adequate harbor and docking facilities).

[3] What would I like East Jordan to be like in the year 2000? That's easy—a community without any major problems, that in looking back in retrospect, the councils of the past had done their jobs by planning for the future.

Two city council races in East Jordan

EAST JORDAN - Four seats on the city council will be determined at the polls here Tuesday, Nov. 3, although there are races for only two of the positions.

Voting will be held from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the Civic Center in downtown East Jordan. (A school millage election will also be held at the same time in the Civic Center. One end of the center will be used for city voting, while the other end of the center will be used for school voting. Details on the school millage question are discussed in another story in this issue of the Press).

In the two contested city council races, Preston Kenny will oppose Joseph Rebec in the first ward, which includes the west side of the city. The winner will replace Gilbert Fox, who decided not to run for reelection.

The Press asked each of the candidates who have opposition to answer the following questions:

1. Do you think the present city council and administrators are doing a good job? Why or why not?

2. In recent years, major city improvement projects have included the Civic Center, street construction, Tourist Park, Memorial Park shoreline, and a new boat launching ramp. In the future, what types of major improvements do you think the city needs?

3. Ideally, what will East Jordan be like in the year 2000?

Their answers, plus personal background information, are printed below:

A 1978 graduate of East Jordan High School, Joseph Rebec is running for public office for the first time.

Employed as a shipping clerk, he is 21 years old and has lived in East Jordan most of his life. He lives at 434 S. Lake St.

Here are his views on the issues:

[1] Is city being run well? Yes. Some of the issues that have been before city council should have been handled with less delay, but for the most part I feel the present council is doing a good job.

[2] Improvements? I would like to see several city streets repaired. I would like to see some type of city sponsored activities for youths (not necessarily athletic activities). And, I would like to see the materials in the public library updated.

PRESTON KENNY

Preston "Bud" Kenny was elected to serve on the city council from 1979 through 1980, but he did not run for reelection. Now he is seeking another term.

The Press was unable to reach Kenny for a statement on his views, and he did not respond to our mailed questionnaire. He is reportedly on vacation.

RUSSELL DIETRICH

Russell Dietrich, 61, is running for the city council again after serving on the council from 1959 to 1962.

He has also been on the city zoning board and the board of appeals. He was a fireman from 1960-68.

Dietrich, who has lived in the area since 1953, is a maintenance supervisor at Harbor Industries in Charlevoix. He lives at 916 Main St. in East Jordan.

In answer to our question on whether the current city officials are doing a good job, he said he feels their record should speak for itself.

Responding to our second and third questions on future city improvements or changes, he said:

"I feel they have been very fortunate in getting the projects done that they have and have done a super job, but the way the economy is I feel we should back off and concentrate on maintaining what we have for awhile.

PATRICIA SWEET

Patricia Sweet, 44, has been a member of the city council for the past four years. Before that, she served on the city housing commission.

She has lived in the area for 20 years, and she and her husband own Yesterday's Treasures, an antique sales and restoration shop in downtown East Jordan.

A 1956 graduate of East Jordan High School, she now lives at 301 Mary St., East Jordan.

Here are her answers to the questions sent to her by the Press:

[1] Is city being run well? I believe the present city council and administrators are attempting to continue a forward thrust of progress and growth under very difficult times for the community. With economic conditions as they are, a "belt tightening" attitude prevails, along with a desire to continue the best maintenance, improvement, and expansion of the city's facilities and services, and determined efforts to continue progress toward our long term projects, such as the Tourist Park, Water and Sewer Dept., Landfill and our harbor.

insuring growth and expansion in an orderly and efficient fashion. That they had fully anticipated our community's needs.

The East Jordan City Council held a public hearing on a request to abandon the west end of Garfield Street and an adjoining alley Saturday, and the meeting was adjourned for awhile so city officials could walk down to inspect the site. The road closing has been requested by the East Jordan Iron Works to allow the foundry to have better security for its storage yards which are adjacent to the street and alley. No decision has been made on the road closing, but most council members appeared to be favoring a land swap with the Iron Works. Garfield Street is sometimes used as a lake access site by local fishermen, boaters and snowmobilers. City and Iron Works officials will meet again at 7 p.m. Friday to discuss the situation. In a related matter, city attorney Roy Hayes advised the council that in his opinion, three members of the city council who are employed by the Iron Works should abstain from any vote on the matter.

Penny and Mark Petrusky and son Ryan of Cy Falls, Ohio, were here over the weekend visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Price. The Price family got together on Saturday night at the Granary for an early birthday celebration for brother, Hal Price.

Ramblers burn Saints in the snow, 48-6

BY SCOTT PAQUETTE
BOYNE CITY - Despite freezing temperatures and a snow-covered field, the Boyne City Ramblers looked impressive in a 48-6 win over St. Ignace last Friday night.
 "The guys were fired up and took charge early," said Coach Bob McCullough.
 "They played two good halves," said Coach McCullough. "They're a good bunch of guys and we play well against schools comparable to ourselves."

This Friday, the Ramblers take on a bigger school when they travel to Gaylord. The Blue Devils lost to Cheboygan, 26-8, last week, but their season record is 5-2 overall and 3-2 in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference.
 Boyne City now stands at 2-5 overall and 2-3 in the conference.
 Against St. Ignace last week, Boyne's first touchdown came midway through the first quarter on a sneak by John Tompkins. Benji Williams scored with 1:20 left in the quarter and the Ramblers jumped to a 12-0 lead.

 The next touchdown came in the second quarter on a long pass from Brad Musser to Shawn Aimesbury. Another pass to Kevin Crandell made the conversion good.
 The Ramblers' fourth score was like an instant replay...another touchdown pass to Aimesbury, followed by a toss to Crandell for two points. At the half, Boyne had a commanding 28-0 lead.
 The Ramblers kept the momentum going in the second half, with a smooth run by Bob Christy which was good for another six points.

 A St. Ignace fumble in the closing minutes of the third quarter set up the next Rambler touchdown, with Musser throwing to Tompkins for the score.
 Boyne's defense also looked good, allowing only one St. Ignace touchdown which came on a short run in the fourth quarter.
 Boyne's final score was made on a run by Todd Ward with 18 seconds left in the game. The conversion pass to Bob Genson was complete, bringing the final score to 48-6.
 No statistics were available, but the Rambler offense controlled the football throughout most of the game.

They held on to the ball well, and had an effective passing game considering the chilly weather conditions. Senior Todd Rickard is "a good ball carrier and was consistent in getting the tough yardage needed," McCullough said.

Boyne cagers fall to Charlevoix

BY SCOTT PAQUETTE
BOYNE CITY - It was a tough game for the Rambler girls when neighboring Charlevoix visited Boyne last Thursday night.
 When the two teams met earlier in the year, the Rayders took the contest by eight points. The rematch in Boyne was an exciting one, with Charlevoix again coming out on top by three points.
 The Ramblers started the game with a full court press, causing early turnovers for the Rayders. At the end of the first quarter, Boyne led 11-8.
 The Ramblers hustled and played aggressive defense in the second quarter, and things looked good for the girls as they pulled ahead to a 24-16 lead at the half.
 But in the third quarter, the Rayders outscored the Ramblers, cutting their lead to only four points, 38-34.

 Fouls and costly turnovers hurt the Ramblers as Charlevoix pulled ahead for the first time halfway through the fourth quarter.
 A Rayder bucket with 15 seconds left clinched the victory for Charlevoix, with the final score being 52-49. It was a tough loss for the Ramblers, who were trying to break a three week winless streak and ended up losing their sixth game in a row.
 Michelle Russell led the way for the Ramblers, tossing in 15 points. Shiela Smith had 13, and Judy Upton and Julie Paquette added six each. Lori Paquette grabbed 13 rebounds.
 Boyne was 11 of 20 from the free throw line, compared to Charlevoix's six of 20.
 In junior varsity action, Charlevoix also came out on top, 42-35. For Boyne, Kathy Kircher was high scorer with 14 points, followed by Keisha Crozier with six.
 Earlier in the week, Boyne had another home game with Cheboygan. The strong Cheboygan team won the game 76-48. Judy Upton paced the Ramblers, putting in 18 points. Shiela Smith and Mary Beth Tims contributed 12 each.
 This Thursday, Oct. 29, Boyne hosts Rogers City. The Ramblers travel to play Petoskey next Tuesday, Nov. 3.

EJ must win remaining games to salvage a winning season

EAST JORDAN - Finishing the season with a winning record is now the goal for the Red Devil varsity football team, which lost a 16-6 battle at Central Lake Friday.
 This Friday, East Jordan travels to Inland Lakes, and they finish the season at home with Bellaire the following Friday, Nov. 4.
 The Devils are now 3-4 for the season, and they'll have to win both games to salvage a winning record for the campaign.

 The performance of fullback Bill Spence was about the only bright spot in last week's game. The senior ran for 196 yards on 27 carries, including a 61 yard touchdown in the second quarter.
 Cold temperatures and a snowy field contributed to the Devils' downfall as they lost the ball six times on fumbles and twice on interceptions.

Boyne golfer fourth in state

BOYNE CITY - Rambler golfer Steve Kircher took fourth place in the state Class C golf tournament in Kalamazoo Saturday.
 Kircher, who took first place last year, said he did not really play well, however.
 He stroked a 79, while medalist for the meet was Steve John of Detroit Country Day High School.
 Kircher said his putting was his downfall, as he three-putted four greens and took a total of 36 putts. When he won the state meet last year, Kircher needed only 25 putts enroute to a score of 77.

Long streak ends

EAST JORDAN - The junior varsity's 35-game unbeaten string finally came to an end last Wednesday as undefeated and previously unscored upon Central Lake beat East Jordan 18-6.
 It was the first loss by an East Jordan JV team since the beginning of the 1978 season.
 Despite the loss, East Jordan Coach Bob Rebec said his squad played one of its best games of the years. "We played them pretty even, I'd say," Rebec commented. "We held them scoreless in the second half, but we were behind 18-6 at halftime and we just couldn't catch up."
 Mike Baier ran for 110 yards on 13 carries and a 57 yard touchdown for East Jordan. Red Devil quarterback Joe Buick had the other TD on a one yard sneak. Buick also completed four of six passes for 78 yards in the game.
