BC office is nuclear emergency center

BOYNE CITY - If there is ever a major emergency at the Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant, the emergency operations will be coordinated from Boyne City.

Consumers Power Company, owners of the nuclear plant 12 miles away in Charlevoix, have established an emergency operations facility in an office building it was only partially using at 100 N. East St.

While the building continues to service line crews and so on for the power company, it now contains, in addition, headquarters for meeting emergencies—"to be the utility contact for state and local governments," according to Milton Jury, Nuclear Emergency Planner for Consumers.

Jury, whose office is in Jackson, said the requirement for an emergency operations facility came from the federal government. There is one off-site facility for each nuclear power plant, he explained.

At the center of the web of communication is the General Office Emergency Control Center in Jackson—a fantasia, Jury said, of computers, buttons, and flashing lights.

The center, in turn, is connected to a federal grid of computerized communication.

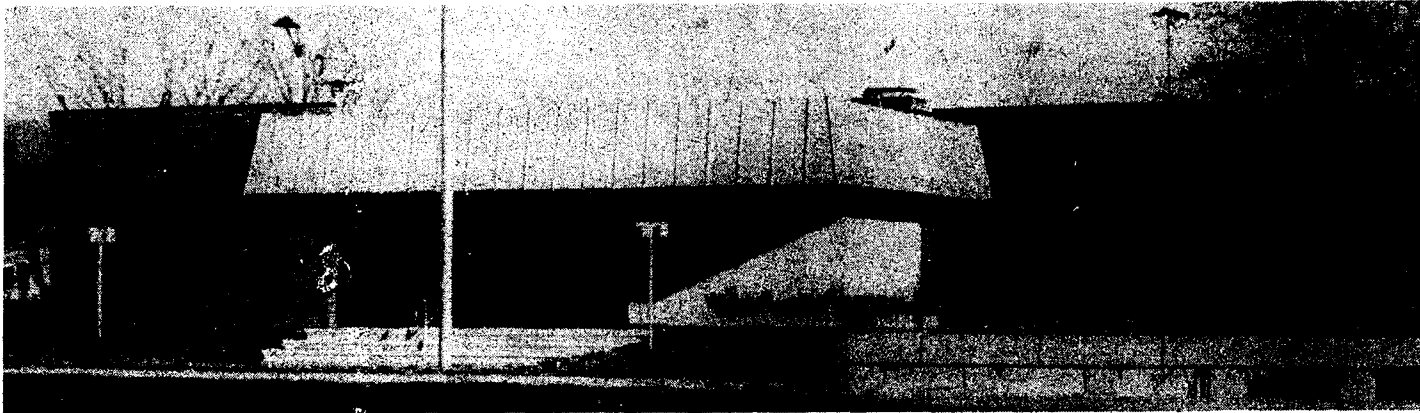

The Boyne City facility contains hot line telephones, radio, emergency generators, maps, and sufficient equipment to permit it to be "a good staging area for nuclear contractors, vendors, and government representatives," Jury said, all kept in a state of readiness.

Jury went on to say there are four classes of emergency situations: first, an unusual event, which would be some sort of plant accident that would have nothing to do with the release of any radioactive substance; second, an alert, also not "radiological"; third, a site area emergency which would have potential for problems of radioactivity; and lastly, a general emergency in which the public might be affected.

The Jackson office has a staff of specialists on call which would be flown to Boyne City to operate the facility whenever there might be a potential for the class four emergency. Up to 25 people at a time would be working on 12-hour shifts, he said.

The arrangements were made by Jury in coordination with Big Rock Plant Health Physicist, Charles Axtell.

Contact with the public comes not from the facility, Jury said, but through the joint information center set up at Holiday Inn in Petoskey. That center, he said, makes the immediate contact with all media.

This building will be emergency headquarters if there is ever a major problem at the Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant.

EJ Indians say input is ignored

BY JIM BAUMANN

EAST JORDAN - The local Indian Education Parents Committee is upset with the school district, claiming that their input is being ignored in determining how more than $12,000 in federal grant money is being spent.

Jean Dougherty, vice-chairperson of the parents committee, said the group had about 10 meetings to restructure the Indian grant which the school submitted last year. The original grant had been submitted hurriedly with a minimum of Indian input, she said.

The committee filled out dozens of grant forms, she said, calling for more of an emphasis on Indian cultural classes than for student tutoring, as the program is now structured.

But the Indians became angry when middle school principal Doug Shields, the local educational advisor for the Indian group, wrote a cover letter for the grant application stating his opposition to it.

"He commended us for our effort in restructuring the grant, but he said that he couldn't agree with us educationally," Dougherty said.

"What we don't like about it is that the school is telling us they know what is best for us."

Dougherty said 34 families and 62 students are included in the Indian Education group, and she said all but four of the parents want to reduce the tutoring emphasis of the grant.

"They showed us films about what people were doing in other Indian programs," Dougherty said, "and we decided we wanted more emphasis on cultural classes—Indian language, arts and crafts, and survival."

Dougherty said a representative of the U.S. Dept. of Education, which administers the Indian grant, told her that unless the local advisor (Shields) agrees with the grant request, the grant changes probably would not be approved.

As a protest, the Indians have destroyed many of the forms the school district will need to verify the number of Indians in the program next year. Dougherty said that as a further protest, the Indians may boycott the annual public hearing, which is to be held next week on the Indian grant.

Shields, who was only appointed to be the Indian education advisor a month ago, said he was not aware he had total veto power over the use of grant funds.

He said he registered his educational disagreement about reducing the amount of tutoring and asked the Dept. of Education to make a final decision on the question.

He also challenged the legality of the grant application, claiming that the parent committee approved it at a meeting that was not properly posted. Shields said he thinks a thorough "needs assessment" should be done to help determine how the Indian grant money should be used.

He said he bases his support of the tutoring program on the fact that it benefits 19 Indian students who are one or more grade levels below average. "They used this tutoring desperately," he said of the students.

Dougherty said the parent committee favors using the tutor for 10 hours a week, as in past years, rather than the 25 hours a week it has been expanded to this year.

Chamber already planning next Winter Festival

BOYNE CITY - All the good things of last year's first Winter Festival and more are being scheduled by the Chamber of Commerce for the weekend of Jan. 29-31.

Executive-director Kate Schafer said the Smeltania fishing contest (for smelt only) will be conducted by Pat Mitchell.

Michell and Tim VanAlstine are in charge of fish shanty rentals, which will be greatly expanded this year.

For the artists—hopeful and otherwise—the chamber is sponsoring a snow-sculpture contest. Andy and Cindy Place are taking charge of that.

And the fifth annual Avalanche Ski Classic, snowmobile events, and the second slide-glide-five relay competition are also in the weekend schedule.

Schafer said Sonya Eggers, who is in charge of sleigh rides, is signing up people who have sleighs and can give rides.

People interested in having another model rocket launch should contact Ron Bishop.

If the weather is right the Charlevoix Area Buffs will again fly their radio-controlled model airplanes.

To keep things warm, two evenings will be lighted up with bonfires. Also the Lions will have a giant bean pot and another huge pot of smelts.

Definitely this year, said Schafer, there will be a jail out on the ice, under the capricious authority of Smeltania's mayor, inaugurated that weekend for the festival.

Concessions will be headed up by Jerry Kelts. People wanting to set up a booth should call him in Boyne Falls.

More events will be scheduled and details will be printed as the winter high light draws closer.

G&W Plant future is 'uncertain'

EAST JORDAN - The future of Gulf & Western Stamping's operations in Mancelona and East Jordan is, at best, uncertain, according to Larry Webb, general manager.

"We are losing business we now have and the prospect for new business is bleak as the result of our higher production costs as compared to our competitors," Webb said.

"We have lost more than $2.3 million in automotive contracts in the past three months alone, as our automotive customers switch to lower cost producers," he said.

Both plants are tied to the automotive industry, producing mechanical assemblies such as hood latches, hinges and parking brake controls.

A recent study pinpointed wage rates as the major source of the problem. "Our people are being paid much more than the employees of our competition," Webb said, "and as the result, we have to charge more for our products than do our competitors."

Mancelona and East Jordan employees were informed of the situation during a series of plant meetings, and asked to make concessions on existing agreements including a freeze on additional increases.

"While the requested concessions would not make up the total difference between our employment costs and our competitors', we believe we could get more business," Webb said.

Mancelona and East Jordan employees voted on the company's request to take a $1.37 per hour pay cut on Oct. 29, turning it down by roughly a two to one margin. According to union officials, the East Jordan plant employees now earn an average of $8.61 per hour.

"Frankly, we were puzzled by the vote," Webb said. "We thought we had explained the situation thoroughly and everyone knew and seriousness of our position."

"While no one likes to consider a pay cut, our people now make more than double what they did five years ago. With that background, we didn't feel our request was an outrageous price to pay for job security. And to make no mistake about it. They were voting on their future employment," he said.

By this time of the year, the auto industry has usually completed negotiating contracts with its suppliers for the following year's model run. "For our operations, this means we should have a pretty good picture now of what our business is going to be from about mid-1982 to mid-1983," Webb said.

"It's bad news. We were in the running for two major contracts totaling $9 million—business that we would normally have been able to bring in. But not this year. Both contracts went to our lower-cost competition."

"We already have more than 50 percent of our work force on layoff, and unless we can reduce our costs substantially all we can forecast are more layoffs," Webb said.

The two facilities normally employ a total of about 600 persons, but are down to less than 275.

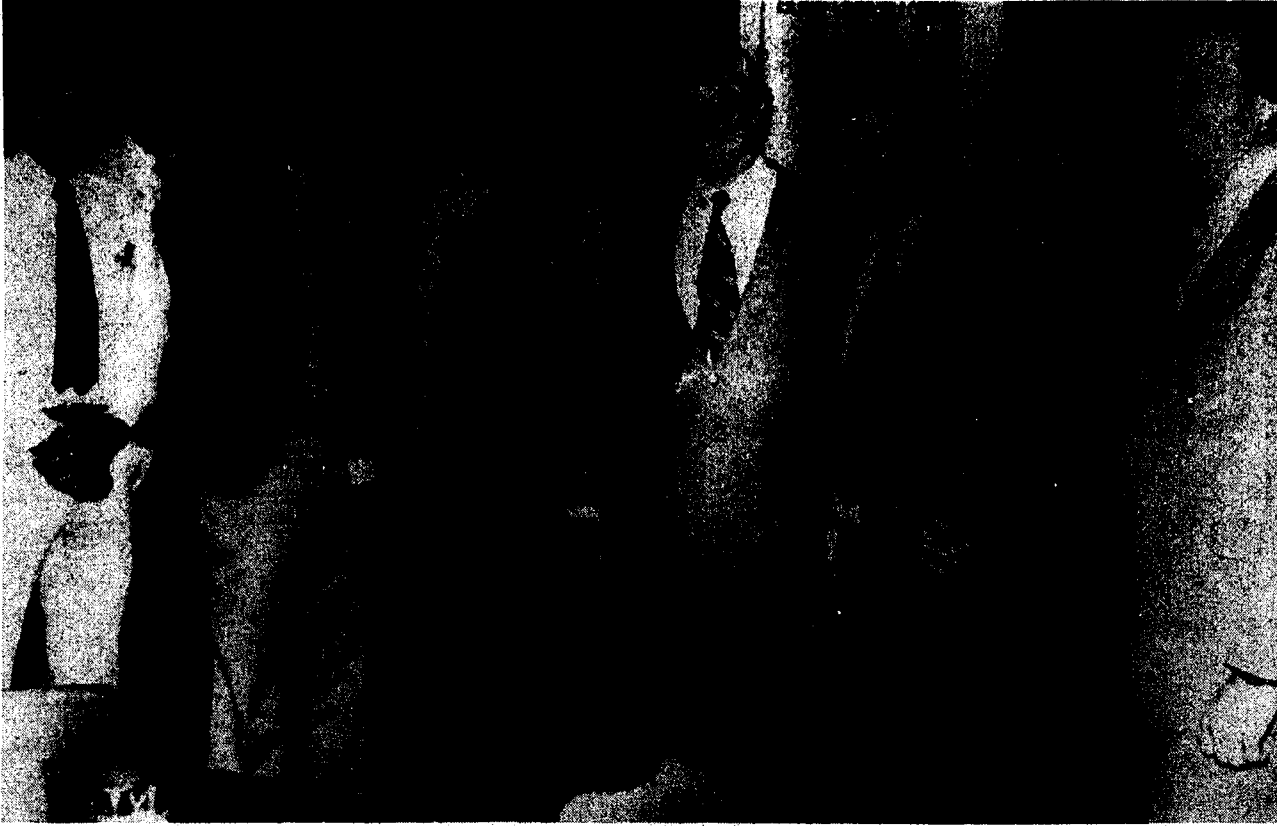

"The plain facts are that this downward spiral will continue until we get more business or everyone is out of work. We in management feel we have taken every step we can to lower our production costs. Now it's up to our people "to save their own jobs, it's that simple," Webb said.

The weather has been unseasonably warm for the past few weeks, but the people at Boyne Mountain Resort know that winter can't really be too far off. They've been making snow at the ski resort on cold nights.

The new board of directors of the Antrim-Charlevoix Board of Realtors was installed at a dinner meeting at the Weathervane in Charlevoix last week. Pledges help hospital and math students BOYNE CITY - As soon as official "Math-A-Thon Funbooks" arrive, the third, fourth and fifth graders of Boyne City Elementary will be busy trying to solve 200 or more math problems to help raise money for the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

The Math-A-Thon program was introduced and explained to the students at an assembly on Nov. 9. A short film was shown after which more details were given by Carole Hague, Title I math consultant, who is coordinating the program. When the students returned to their classrooms they were given a registration form and letter to take home to their parents informing them of the program.

The students have been collecting sponsors, asking for pledges of one, two or three cents per correct problem. This may sound like a small donation, but with over 200 problems for the students to complete these pennies will quickly add up to dollars for the children at St. Jude's.

"If a Boyne City Elementary Math Magician asks you to be a sponsor for the Math-A-Thon we hope you will consider doing so," Hague said.

The Math-A-Thon ends Dec. 11. If you have any questions, please call the elementary school.

Cooking

Thanksgiving on the farm meant raisin meringue pie

BY BEA SMITH

On the farm there was always some chore that had to be done and Thanksgiving was no exception.

We always set up the heating stove in the living room on Thanksgiving Day if we did not have company. If we had guests for dinner we set up the stove a few days before.

It seemed as if the tempo of our lives changed after we set up the stove in the front room. We no longer crowded around the wood range in the dining room to do our homework at the dining room table.

Our long evenings were spent around the oak library table where we played flinch, checkers and games we made up with dominoes and marbles. These were the years before TV and radio.

Every night I would go down to the cellar to get a bowl of apples and sometimes Mother would pop a dishpan full of popcorn. That buttered popcorn really disappeared fast.

Either Mother or my sister Fay played the organ and we sang hymns and popular music. Once in a while when we wanted to put off going to bed we would coax Mother and Dad to sing the old songs. They both loved to sing and we could put bedtime off quite a while that way.

We all sat around the stove and they would start off with, "After the Ball, On the Banks of the Wabash, Beautiful Ohio. Some of Papa's favorites were "Casey Jones and Won't You Come Home Bill Bailey." When we wanted more they sang the sad songs like, "Tie The Leaves So They Won't Come Down or the Baggage Coach Ahead.

When we could put off going to bed no longer we brought out our flannel nightgowns to warm them by the stove and we modestly took off our long winter underwear and slipped the warm nightgowns on and ran upstairs and jumped into bed fast because it was cold upstairs. The only heat came from the stove pipe that went through the room to the chimney.

We never had turkey for Thanksgiving on the farm. They were scarce in our neighborhood and expensive, but one time we almost had one. My sister

Margaret was going to start raising turkeys.

One Thanksgiving morning she bought a hen turkey from some people near the town of Clifford. She paid $5 for it and was going to buy a tom from Uncle Garfield who lived near us. She earned this money picking up potatoes.

That turkey was so nervous after a five mile ride in the back seat of our Model T Ford that she flew to the roof of the barn and sat there all day. Papa threatened to shoot her and have a real Thanksgiving dinner, but of course he did not.

Mother's Thanksgiving menu usually included baked spare ribs, dressing, cranberries, squash, jellies, pickles and pies. We butchered in November and had lots of good meat which tasted better to us at that time of the year than chicken did.

Mother's pies were very special. Sometimes she made this pie, I believe it might have been original with her as I have never known anyone to make it.

MOTHER'S RAISIN MERINGUE PIE

1 cup raisins
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
3 medium sized eggs or 2 extra large, separated

1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon cornstarch
Grind the raisins, add the water and sugar and salt, bring to a boil, add the three egg yolks-beaten to a lemon color and cook until thick. Mix the 1 tablespoon lemon juice with the cornstarch, add to the raisin mixture and cook until thick and clear.

Pour into a baked pie shell and top with meringue made with the 3 stiffly beaten egg whites and 1/4 cup sugar. This is a very rich pie so you will want to serve it in small pieces or you could pour the filling into those small tart shells instead of the pie shell. Bake in the oven at about 375 degrees until golden brown. About 10 minutes.

Special awards were given to eight 4-H members.

State horse show awards were presented to Sheila Harris, Laurie Sherman and Cinda Crosier, with Sheila Harris winning the horse sportsmanship award. Russell Eggers was given a novice award.

Leaders honored for longest service to 4-H included Shirley Crozier, 14 years; Beverly Walker, 12 years; and Lucy Stolt, 11 years.

Dave Stolt was presented with a 10 year leader award pin, and Glenda Reinhardt was given a five year leader pin. Project leaders Bob Schmoldt, Debby Peck and Nancy Brooks were also honored for their years of service.

Anyone interested in participating in 4-H as a member or leader may contact Leah Green at the Cooperative Extension Service in Boyne City Hall, phone 582-6232.

Two nights for play

EAST JORDAN - The East Jordan High School senior class play will be presented at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Nov. 19 and 20.

of Nancy Geer, R.N., and instructor at NCMC. Charlevoix Area Hospital Director of Nursing Services Barbara Rogers, R.N., said that at Charlevoix Area Hospital the students experience nursing care in a team nursing situation. She also observes that having the student nurses on the scene "infuses a new spirit among the staff. As the students are here learning, others get involved in that learning process. We all benefit from the stimulation."

Boyne City overhauls trash collection rules

BOYNE CITY - To limit or not to limit the number of trash hauling companies in the city continues to be a topic at city commission meetings.

Last Tuesday night the commission agreed on a public meeting with representative parties to discuss changes in the city code. No date was set. At present the ordinance limits the number to a possible four as a way of making sure trash collection is done responsibly.

The commission meeting marked the first use of the city's new computer for a financial report. "It's very smooth and saves a lot of time," says Edith Beck, treasurer.

An agreement was reached with the Chamber of Commerce that the contract with the city may be terminated by either party at any time. The C. of C. contract is settled each year at the commission's budget meeting.

This year's $3,300 went for various kinds of assistance from the chamber in providing data. In addition, if it weren't for the chamber, the city switchboard "would be bogged down with calls," a city spokesman explained.

New commissioner Bill Grimm was appointed to replace the late Catherine Jessup on the Zoning Board of Appeals. Shelly Cobe was reappointed and Steve Ryder appointed to the Parks and Recreation Commission.

EJ council is interviewing for new superintendent

EAST JORDAN - Applications continue to come in for the job opening created by Rush Cattell's resignation on Nov. 3. Cattell had been East Jordan's superintendent of public works for the two months previous.

The city council held a special meeting last Thursday night and will hold another meeting next Monday, Nov. 23, to interview a total of four new and four previous applicants.

Because the applications were so recent, the council will probably not advertise again, councilwoman Pat Sweet said. Nine additional applications have come in this month—all from within the state. About 60 had been received in September. Sweet said the question of requiring an engineering degree has not been settled yet.

No interviewing deadline is set. The council hopes to hire a replacement as soon as possible.

They will have the assistance of Williams and Works of Grand Rapids in checking the background of top candidates. The firm has done work for the city on engineering projects.

Some new twists on work

Some are saying that the women's movement is being driven back down—again. It isn't a new phenomenon. Even before the advent of the suffrage movement rose and lapsed, women have made concerted efforts to achieve their right to equal rank, only to have to make them again generations later.

One of the little-mentioned examples of this effort occurs in the Bible, beginning in Numbers 26 when Moses was outlining how the descendants of Israel would settle their property rights when they got to the Promised Land.

In those very patriarchal days, women did not inherit. Five sisters, daughters of one Zelophehad, of the tribe of Manasseh, objected that their father (who had died) would receive no recognition because he had had no sons—only five doughty daughters.

Moses took their complaint to the Lord and got the message that they spoke "right." As a result the ordinance was changed. Daughters could inherit—if there were no sons. A step, at least, in the "right" direction.

True to history, the five women had to step forward again, however. After Moses had died and Joshua took up the leadership, they were obliged to remind Joshua that they were to be assigned land along with all the men.

As I look at it, today the awareness is with us, but custom and fear affect the majority of women still. Also they shake their heads as they look at the excesses of a minority of their sisters and say, see what happens.

Betty Friedan, who incited the movement in 1963 with her book, "Feminine Mystique," has a new book out, called "The Second Wave."

Even before she wrote it, she pressed for women and men to work out a sense of justice together. She now also stresses the value of the family to society. I can't remember that she ever put it down, only that women weren't necessarily just homemakers any more than men were necessarily just fathers.

Details take over the picture as usual. But the women's movement suffers from two things, mainly—things for which it can take little blame, by the way.

The first is the distress many feel over the so-called sexual revolution, which really rolled out of the hippie movement. It is really a coincidence that women's rights hit the scene almost at the same time. However, I don't think it is fair to be critical of women's so-called sexual freedom unless we criticize men for it, too. Those who frown on feminism, nevertheless, continue to blame it for the increase in numbers of unmarried couples and the weakening of our family-centered culture.

The second problem comes out of our work patterns—mainly the eight-hour work day and the five-day work week.

This schedule is no more a human necessity than are designer jeans. But try to get employers to consider part-time work.

They tend to view part-timers as though they were lacking in the full-time workers' dedication and team spirit. They punish part-timers by paying them less per hour than if they were working full time. For the most part, they deny them fringe benefits.

Is it because most part-timers are women?

Yet studies have shown that people who supposedly work the eight-hour day actually may work for as little as five or six hours out of the eight. Not it is pointed out to employers how efficient and money-saving part-time workers could be?

Then take the woman who gives up work to raise a family. Eight to 12 years later she can re-enter the career world. Or can she?

processed and used a few days later for open heart surgery and other emergencies in the area.

Historian tells BF students about Hemingway

BOYNE FALLS - William Ohle, local historian and one-time acquaintance of writer Ernest Hemingway, spoke to the Modern Literature class at Boyne Falls High School last week.

Ohle, who was born in St. Louis, Mo., summered in Horton Bay as a child. There he made the acquaintance of Ernest Hemingway, whose family owned a summer place, "Windemere," on Walloon Lake.

"Ernest was nearly 10 years older than I was and as you know, a young man that age doesn't have much in common with a nine year old boy," Ohle told the class. "But I can picture him on the Dilworth House porch talking with his cronies, or sitting in a hammock writing letters; he was an avid letter-writer, and of course, a fisherman."

"I remember once he caught a trout in Horton Bay and the line broke. Ernest jumped in the water and landed the fish with his hands."

"Ernest was a nice, normal guy," Ohle added. "He was a bit of a loner, who loved to fish and camp. He loved to read and tell stories, and usually led the conversations with his buddies."

After Hemingway finished high school in Oak Park, Ill., he accepted a job as a reporter for the Kansas City Star. He left that job to become an ambulance driver for the Italian Red Cross during World War I. Hemingway returned to Horton Bay after being wounded.

"Ernest married Hadley Richardson of St. Louis in the old Methodist Church in Horton Bay. It was the first Saturday before Labor Day in 1921 and since most of the summer people had left, Ernest and his bride invited the whole town—about 20 of us—to attend their wedding."

"That was the first time Hadley had been there," Ohle added, "and as far as I know, it was the last time either of them were at Horton Bay."

Ohle had some advice for the aspiring young writers in the class: "Hemingway believed that to get a message across, each word must be clear and precise. Why say in a complicated manner what can be said simply? Hemingway also believed that one can't write about things one doesn't really know."

"And remember," Ohle added, "writing is very hard work. Hemingway had the capacity to write and rewrite, over and over, until he thought it was perfect."

William Ohle was a lifetime summer resident of Horton Bay, and since 1971 has lived in Horton Bay year around. He is an active member of the Little Traverse Bay Historical Society and has written many articles on local history.

School tells Indians: 'We know what is best for you'

Editor,
 Alien spaceships arrive in great numbers. Their journey has been long. They are tired and hungry. Surprisingly they encounter beings not unlike themselves.
 "So these are Earth people," the aliens think. "Their skin is a different color and the clothing is unusual. They speak a foreign language but seem friendly, though a little frightened."
 The Earth people befriend the Aliens and treat them as honored guests. They feed and shelter them. More and more Aliens arrive and make themselves at home.

Soon it is evident that there isn't enough room, so the Aliens say, "This is now our land because we are a greater number and have superior intelligence. Give us your homes and move on, Earth men!" "But how will we live without jobs or money?" they reply. "Go or we will kill you!" demand the Alien.
 The proud Earth men fight to keep what is theirs but they cannot win against the mighty foe. The victorious Aliens take possession of Earth.
 "You may have this small parcel of land," they say. "It is of little use to us and is far away, but you must no longer live like savages. You must give up your way of life and live the right way, as we do. We know what is best for you because we are superior."

 History tells us this happened in 1492. The ramifications are still being felt in 1981.
 The Federal Government has given monies to the East Jordan Public School System, under the Indian Education Act, to use for the "Special Educational Needs" of Indian students.
 This grant is called, Title IV, part A. The rules and regulations call for a Parent Committee to assess needs, form goals and objectives from these needs, and implement and evaluate the overall resulting program.

 Our Parent Committee has diligently performed its duties but the East Jordan Public School System is saying to us, "We will listen to your ideas but you really do not know what is best for your children. We are well educated and are great in number, so you must give up your wishes. WE ARE SUPERIOR!"
 We have fought to keep what is ours but cannot win against the mighty foe.

Let's get the experts to build us an ark

Editor,
 I am scared, I am really frightened and I look to the future with great trepidation. You may well ask—"Just what's the reason for this apprehension anyway, and why are you looking over your shoulder like that?"
 Well sir bear with me for a moment if you will and I'll try to explain. It seems we have recently been visited by a team of honest to goodness Federal Government Experts.
 This team has advised our city manager that we are imminently in danger of having yet another flood. Yes sir—we have had one. Admittedly it was some time ago and even if we haven't had calamities aplenty since the Millers first set foot on our shores but nary a flood, so according to these experts we must be almost due, at least by the year 2500. Government experts are supposed to be always right. Well—aren't they?

So you still want to know what makes me so jumpy? Well it's our city manager. He believes in the absolute infallibility of experts and wants us to get in line so as to be able to qualify for flood insurance.
 Our city commissioners, in their infinite wisdom, have accepted this warning of impending doom as the gospel truth and have reacted true to form. The experts have predicted that our most dangerous time will be between 200 and 500 years hence.
 Now if that doesn't shake you, reflect on this. What if our expert master planners ever got involved? That did it—eh? Maybe someone should check this out with the Old Farmer's Almanac.
 Purely as a precautionary measure I suggest we form a new committee, one that will recognize the urgency of the situation, and empower it to hire an expert naval architect to draw up the plans and some expert artisans to build us a boat (Note—a local lumber dealer has graciously offered to furnish the materials at a very modest mark-up over his costs.)

 I am sure our city manager has the expertise to get us a nice federal grant and guide this project along its critical path. In return the city could honor him by mooring the boat on top of the "Old Maid's Nipple" and christening it "Timothy's Ark."

Funeral director relieved our burden

Editor,
 Recently I lost my wife to a sudden illness and was faced with the responsibility of arranging for her funeral. I called our hometown of East Jordan to make arrangements and discovered that the old funeral home located there had been purchased by Tom Vanderwall.
 I contacted the Vanderwall Funeral Home and Mr. Vanderwall immediately relieved me of all other burdens concerning the funeral arrangements.
 I want the citizens of East Jordan to know how impressed my family and I were with Mr. Vanderwall's sincere attitude and professional ability to see to our needs during our time of sadness.
 The ceremony was conducted in a very respectful manner at the Vanderwall Funeral Home which has been recently remodeled into a very impressive and beautiful establishment.
 Please print these praises for Mr. Tom Vanderwall so I may in this small way thank him for his help and services.

Thanks for the gift of blood

Editor,
 I didn't concern myself too much with how important the blood donating program was, until this past summer. I always thought it was a wonderful service and praised the volunteers highly for working so hard for something so necessary.
 My husband has been giving blood for many years. In fact he is working on his third gallon.
 Many people may think you will only need a blood transfusion if you're in an accident or if you need surgery. This isn't always so.

 This past August I was diagnosed as having cancer. It is a blood cancer in the bone marrow.
 One of the first things the doctors ordered in the way of treatment for me was a blood transfusion. These transfusions made me feel 100 percent better almost immediately.
 When the doctor saw the improvement in my appearance the next day, he said, "Wow! You must have gotten tiger blood."
 I would like to personally thank those people who donated that wonderful blood for me. I really appreciate it.

 It was a very secure feeling knowing there was a supply of blood available and there is no charge for this service.
 Please remember, the Bloodmobile will be in Boyne City all day Monday, Nov. 23, at Christ Lutheran Church on M-75.
 If you are a regular donor, please keep giving. If you want to be a donor, just walk in, you'll be glad you did and maybe your loved ones will be glad some day.

Stop making BC a tourist trap

Editor,
 I fully agree with Everett Sayles (Letter to Editor, Nov. 12).
 I wish these brainless wonders who come from the city would stop trying to turn our city into a tourist trap.
 Too bad they can't go back where they come from. Then we wouldn't have to pay such high taxes.

A high society good time was had by all Marshall Sayles

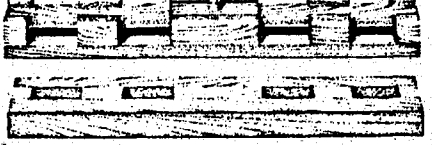

Wherein a humor columnist makes an awkward attempt at switching gears to become a chic, high society reporter, covering an evening's activities of our beautiful people.
 Barbershoppers Ladies' Night is an upswing outing that should happen more often—a wonderful sing-song evening among friends.
 Some 40 to 50 singers and their wives from around the north celebrated in the comfortable woodshed section of the Gray Gables. There was food and drink and laughter with quartet and group singing to entertain the ladies.
 Boyne area Barbershoppers are known not only state-wide, but have sung themselves into national prominence, bringing fame and some fortune to their hometown.
 Even though we cannot sing a note, we were invited to tag along and hear those who can. (My only familiarity with a note is at the bank.) And it seemed as though everyone in Boyne City was there. They weren't, but it seemed so.

 Jessie Willson and her husband sat across from us. He has been the glue that has helped hold the Barbershoppers together since they organized nearly 40 years ago.
 Peg Spencer and her husband were on our side of the table. Gen Varnum and His Honor were also at our table.
 Mrs. Keith Fitzpatrick brought along the mayor. He was able to attend since there's a lull in mayoring in Boyne City on Saturday nights. He is the group's treasurer who keeps the Barbershoppers out of debt so they can sing without worried looks on their faces.
 During dinner, Devere Middleton, a Barbershopper mainstay, made a gallant attempt at matching wits with a talkative gentleman named Frank who sat next to us. I think Devere lost the round to this fine musician who occasionally blows, even though he put his saxophone aside some time ago.

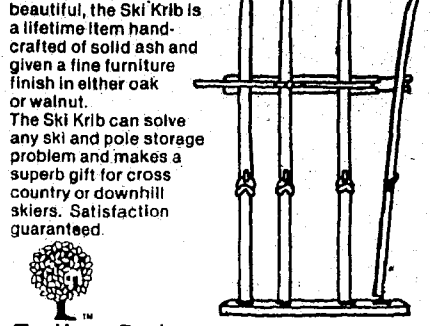

Roseann and Bob Herrmann were table hopping, greeting old friends who were happy to see them. They're the folks who have a warm spot for Water Street.
 Others were recognized but cannot be listed here because I do not know how to spell their names correctly. When I was an editor I found that spelling a person's name wrong cut terribly into my free lunches.
 Ladies' Night is looked forward to with much anticipation. The men's singing proves that they have spent long hours practicing in the basement of the church. It also proves that when they tell their wives that they must go to Barbershop practice, that's where they actually go.
 We were pleasantly tickled to be invited to join the festivities and, in the language of our early day society reporters, "A good time was had by all."
 Epilogue: When the last coffee had been sipped and the last songs sung, folks began filing out through the music bar and into the street. Someone called my name. It turned out to be George Secord, well-known Monroe Creek historian. It surprises me how often someone turns out to be George Secord whenever there's music and dancing in the air. We exchanged a couple of quick ones that cannot be repeated in a newspaper that sometimes falls into the hands of adults.

 It was thus that an upbeat clean-shirt evening of high society doings came to a giggling close.
No family? Church plans turkey dinner
 EAST JORDAN - The United Methodist Church will have its annual family Thanksgiving dinner at 12 noon on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 26, at the church.
 Anyone who has no family for Thanksgiving dinner is invited to join the church families that day for dinner.

Ouch! Loggers draw undefeated Snowbirds

BOYNE FALLS - The Logger girls basketball team had the misfortune of drawing undefeated Gaylord St. Mary as their first opponent in the district basketball tournament Friday night. The Snowbirds are 19-0 and ranked third in the state among Class D teams. They will also have the home court advantage in the district tournament.

Boyne Falls and St. Mary's will square off at 7:30 p.m. Friday. The winner will play either Wolverine or Inland Lakes in the championship game at 7:30 Monday, Nov. 23.

The Loggers have had a good season, as they boasted an 11-7 record with one game left. Coach Joel Donaldson concedes that St. Mary's will be a heavy favorite in the tourney. "But even the best teams make mistakes," he said.

"We won't try to do anything different. We just want to play a good game and try to force them to make mistakes with our defense," Donaldson said.

The Loggers' strengths this season have been their scoring and rebounding balance.

Pat Franckowiak, a senior forward who has been a starter for four years, is the leading scorer with a 10 point average, but the other starters are close behind. Franckowiak is also averaging about 10 rebounds a game, as are Karen Sevenski, Sandra Payton and Pat's sister Sharon Franckowiak. Payton, the center, and Sevenski, a forward, are both seniors.

Sharon Franckowiak, a junior guard, is in her second season as a starter, and Donaldson said she is one of the "finest female athletes in Northern Michigan."

The fifth starter is sophomore guard Kim Mikula, who leads the team in assists.

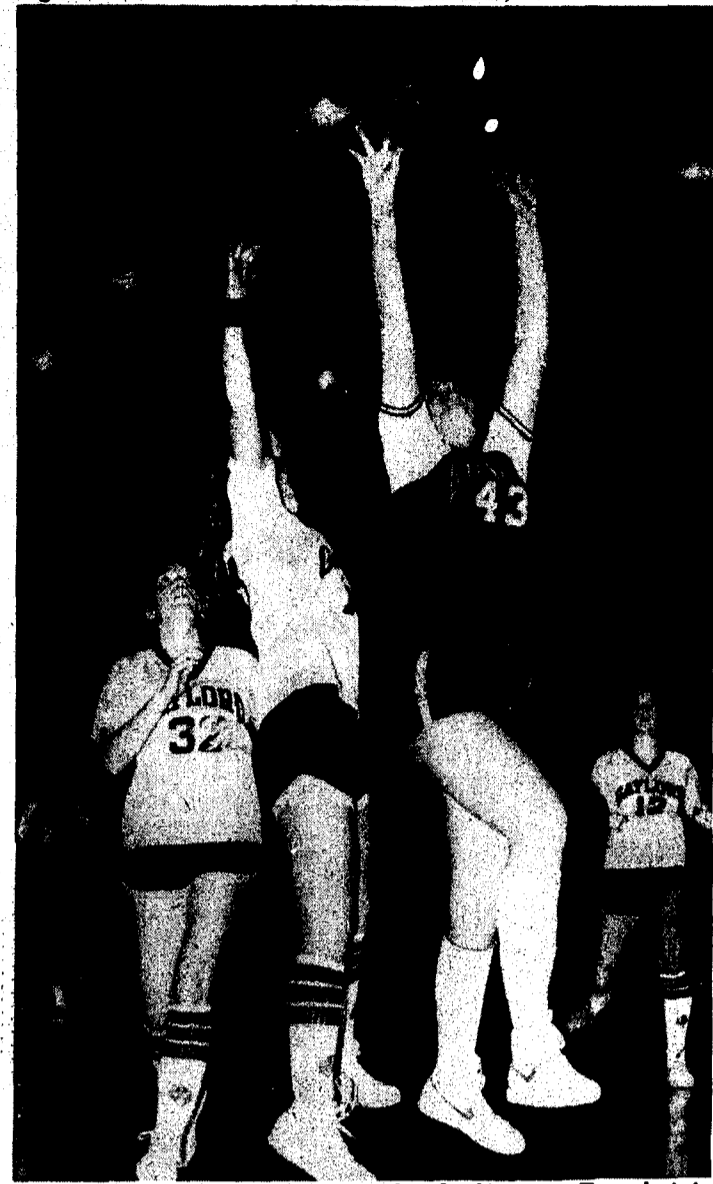

Patsy Grubaugh, a junior forward and center, isn't in the starting lineup but she usually plays as much as the starters in a reserve role. She is averaging 10 rebounds and six points per game coming in off the bench.

Another substitute who has been seeing a lot of action lately is Karen Franckowiak, a sophomore guard who is the younger sister of Pat and Sharon.

Boyne Falls had an up-and-down week last week, as they avenged an early season loss to Atlanta on Tuesday, but dropped a decision on Thursday to Alba, a team the Loggers had beaten earlier.

At Atlanta, Boyne Falls avenged an earlier 18-point loss with a 47-44 victory. Sharon Franckowiak led the Logger scoring with 13 points, while Sevenski added 12, Mikula 9, Pat Mikula 7 and Patsy Grubaugh 6. Grubaugh led the rebounders with 11, while Payton added nine.

In the 54-45 loss to Alba, Sevenski, Payton and Pat Franckowiak shared scoring honors with 10 points apiece. Grubaugh added seven points, and Sharon Franckowiak had six. Payton also pulled down 11 rebounds.

Rambler girls open district vs. Benzie Central

BY SCOTT PAQUETTE

BOYNE CITY - The Rambler girls' basketball team will open district tournament play Thursday, Nov. 19, playing Benzie Central at Kalkaska.

If Boyne beats Benzie, they will meet Traverse City St. Francis Saturday.

The winner of that game will be in the district finals against either Charlevoix, Kalkaska or Elk Rapids on Wednesday, Nov. 25.

All tournament games will be played at 7:30.

The last week of the regular season was a disappointing one for varsity girls, as they lost to both Gaylord and Cheboygan, bringing their record to 5-13 overall.

Tuesday's home game against Gaylord was chosen as "Parents' Night" with all of the girls' parents being honored.

In that game, Boyne jumped off to a quick lead and led by three points over Gaylord at the end of the first quarter. They continued the advantage throughout the second quarter, with the score being 26-23 at the half.

Boyne increased their lead by one more point in the third quarter, 39-35. But Gaylord exploded for a 24 point fourth quarter to beat the Ramblers 59-48.

Lori Paquette led Boyne with 15 points and 13 rebounds. Julie Paquette canned 12 points, and Shiela Smith added 10. Judy Upton grabbed 10 rebounds.

Boyne traveled to Cheboygan Thursday night to meet the league-leading Chiefs. The Ramblers kept with the Cheboygan pace in the first quarter, as each team scored 14 points. But the strong Cheboygan girls pulled ahead 32-25 at the half.

Boyne had problems in the second half. Failing to score a point in the third quarter, the Ramblers fell to a 45-25 deficit. Cheboygan went on to win the game 54-36.

Lori Paquette was Boyne's leading scorer with 14 points, 12 of them coming in the first quarter.

EJ grad to play basketball for Alma

EAST JORDAN - Delbert Ingalls, a 1981 graduate of East Jordan High School, is enrolled at Alma College where he is expected to be one of the top freshmen entering the Scot basketball program this winter.

Under first-year head coach Chris Ragsdale, Alma was 9-13 last year and returns seven lettermen for the coming season, which opens with a home game Nov. 24.

Ingalls won 10 letters at East Jordan including three in both basketball and football. He was a two time all-conference selection in football and earned all-league honors his senior year in baseball.

In basketball, he was twice named all-conference and was chosen all-state his senior year. He helped his team to a conference championship his junior year and a district title his senior year. His high school basketball coach was Bill Chase.

An honor student who ranked third in his high school graduating class, Ingalls plans to major in engineering at Alma. He is the son of Allen and Colleen Ingalls.

It's Beautiful...

BY SUSAN BUICK

EAST JORDAN - The girls basketball team takes an 11-8 record into the district basketball tournament at Central Lake this Thursday night.

The Red Devils will have their hands full in the 6:30 p.m. tourney opener, however, when they will face the host team. East Jordan and Central Lake have split in two previous meetings this season.

If East Jordan wins its first game, the Devils will then play at 6:30 Saturday, Nov. 21, against Bellaire, a team they have beaten twice this year.

The winner of Saturday's game will play in the tourney finals at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 24, against either Ellsworth, Alba or Mancelona. Ellsworth, with a fine 14-3 season record, is favored to win the district, but East Jordan was one of the few teams to beat the Lancers this season.

Bos has been coaching the varsity team for three years, and the junior varsity team for one. He described the season as being a successful one.

"The league was fairly balanced, except for the Gaylord St. Mary's Snowbirds, who had an outstanding team," said Coach Bos.

Members of the eight-girl team include juniors DeEtte Looze, Joelyn Ingalls, Gayle Crick, and Mickey Purroll, and sophomores Kim Etter, Anne Crawford, Robin Sweet, and Laurie Stanek. There are no seniors on the team.

Center DeEtte Looze, averaged 12 points and 15 rebounds a game. She set a new school record of 31 rebounds in a game against Ellsworth this fall.

Looze described the season, saying, "We did fairly well this year, but there were a couple of key games we lost that we shouldn't have. If we would have won against Harbor Springs, for instance, we would have been higher in the standings, and we only lost by two points."

She added that another problem was having only eight on the team. "When we had foul troubles...we didn't have much bench to back us up."

Ingalls, the team captain, also noted that the team should have won a couple of games they lost. "Gaylord St. Mary's was the best in the league, and I expect them to do well in the state," she said.

For the varsity, each player's merits mention, according to Coach Bos.

Looze has scored over 200 points and has had over 260 rebounds for the season. She made 58 percent of her free throws. Her cousin, Joelyn Ingalls, has scored over 170 points.

Guard Gayle Crick has made over 160 points and averages 56 percent on free throws. Gayle made 22 points in two games and 20 points in another, making her the high scorer for those three games.

Kim Etter, also a guard, has made over 110 points for her team.

Coach Bos praised Mickey Purroll for her rebounding and good defensive play and Robin Sweet for her jumping and rebounding.

"Anne Crawford has made a 110 percent effort and is also noted for her super rebounding," said Coach Bos.

"Laurie Stanek, who moved up late in the season from the JV team, proved to be an asset to the team."

East Jordan's junior varsity team ended its best-ever season with a 16-3 record.

The eleven-member team was led by sophomore Bonnie Testa, who had several games of 20 points or more. Testa was proud to say, "No other JV team has beaten Harbor Springs' JV team for three years but us."

Dylan Sedelmaier, the team captain, said "We did better than last year, and with five sophomores moving up to the varsity next year, we should have a good varsity team."

Sedelmaier, Danielle Baker and Roxanne Hoffman are first-rate in rebounding skills, according to Coach Bos.

Bos said, "All the members of the team play together well, are good defense players, and hate to lose."

Dear Chief Barnett,
Just a note to let you know that my wife and I appreciated the quick response of the East Jordan Fire Department to our call in the early morning hours of Oct. 23, 1981.

You and your men exhibited a high degree of professionalism and we were particularly gratified by the great care you took to hold the damage to a minimum.

Sincerely,
Clinton E. Davis

Some humor for the week... Here's how you can live on $15 a week:

Whiskey and beer	8.00
Wife's beer	1.65
Meat, fish, groceries	credit
Life insurance (wife's)	.50
Cigars	.90
Pinochle Club	.50
Hot tips on horses	2.00
Dog food	2.50
Poker game	2.50
Total	16.65

This means going into debt, so cut out wife's beer!

BC school to hold fair

BOYNE CITY - The elementary school will sponsor a student book fair on Nov. 18 and 24. Students will be able to browse prior to sale dates.

The book fair will be open during the hours of 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Media Center.

The book fair committee invites all students, parents and visitors to attend the fair. The fair will encourage student interest in reading and in building home libraries, and all profits will be used to purchase computer software.

The elementary school is sponsoring this event, with Nancy Holland serving as book fair chairperson. The committee also includes Renate Smith, Wendy Stadt, Gail May and Linda Fineout.

"The book fair display will include attractive new books from many major publishers in all popular price ranges—wonderful books to read or give as gifts," Holland said.

All reading interests will be represented, including classics, fiction, biographies, adventure stories, science, nature, crafts, mystery and reference books. The committee is working with Educational Reading Service, a professional book fair company, to furnish selection of books.

A village park gazebo in California was the site of an October 10 wedding uniting former Boyne City resident Sabra Nancy Lipski and Edward Allen Roberts.

The bride was given away by her father, Jan A. Lipski. The Lipski family are former residents of Boyne City, and now reside in Atascadero, California. The Groom's parents are Earl Roderts and Thelma King, both of Atascadero. The Groom's uncle, Rev. James Roberts, officiated at the ceremony. The bride walked to the altar to the Wedding March from "Lohengrin by Wagner, and the recessional was the Wedding March from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" by Mendelssohn. The song "Sunrise, Sunset" was the special selection played for the parents of the couple.

The bride wore an Alfred Angelo gown in a high-necked Edwardian styling with lace overskirt and a chapel-length train. Her finger tip length veil was trimmed with matching lace, and fell from a Tudor-style cap of lace and flowers and seed pearls. She carried a Victorian nosegay with silk flowers and ribbons in the traditional wedding colors of white and pale green.

Miss Cheryl Crane, friend of the bride, was the maid of honor. Attending their sister as bridesmaids were Georgia and Carla Lipski. The flower girl was four-year-old Amy Hathaway.

Best man was David Holmberg, friend of the groom, and the ushers were John Saltzman, friend of the groom, and Dennis Heines, a cousin of the groom. Both the afternoon ceremony and the champagne buffet reception were held in Templeton Park with more than 70 guests helping the couple to celebrate. The two tiered traditional wedding cake was baked by the
