New Water Street draws pros and cons

Mayor Keith Fitzpatrick has his scissors poised at ribbon-cutting ceremonies on Water Street Tuesday. About 100 other city officials, business owners and area residents were on hand for the official dedication of the re-constructed downtown street.

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

BOYNE CITY - Water Street had its formal opening at ribbon-cutting ceremonies Tuesday morning. The complete renovation of the oldest block in town corrected and modernized invisible and well as visible street quality.

The old water and sewer lines beneath the surface of the street were crumbling, and new storm sewers and power lines were needed.

On the visible level improvements have been widely praised—and in some quarters, strongly questioned.

Praised were the safe sidewalks, the attractive planting, the pedestrian aprons, and the traffic laning.

"Traffic has slowed down," said Dave Smith, one of the owners of Harborage. "Outsiders have reported favorably." Smith said that it seemed less like a thoroughway now, and more like a shopping center.

The much-discussed pedestrian nodes at the end of each block are "a lot safer for pedestrians, that's for sure," according to Police Chief John Talboys.

Clifton pointed out that they were asking possible what people have been trying all along—to get out beyond the line of parked cars in order to see when traffic was clear for their dash across the street.

The nodes also prevent the illegal parking to the corner that frequently used to hatch problems.

City Clerk Tom Garlock noted that a recent Time Magazine article showed a modern street designed much like the new Water Street.

And many towns have been employing the design, Clifton said.

City commissioners said they heard reports that many towns have also been tearing out their nodes, but whether their conditions were parallel to those in Boyne City was not made clear.

City Manager Tim Clifton said planning meetings were held with the merchants before the "streetscape" was finalized. Keeping angle parking on the west side was one of the merchants' stipulations. The merchants approved the plans before they were enacted.

Furthermore, "We did check with traffic engineers and semi drivers before we approved the street plan," he said, "and they said they can get around those curbs. It isn't easy for them, but we don't really want to encourage them to use Water Street."

He said a truck route through the city but not through downtown was being studied.

Trucks servicing stores are expected to use alleys, avoiding double parking on Water Street.

Snowplowing, Clifton said, will involve a "minor procedural change" in that the plows won't be able to plow the whole street in a straight line, but making a couple of extra turns won't be hard.

The new traffic lanes "now conform to the standards set by the Michigan Traffic Manual," Talboys said.

Previously, he explained, the through lane was the left turn lane which is not according to state standards. Now there is the left turn lane by itself at both intersections, and through traffic as well as right-turning traffic all use the right lane.

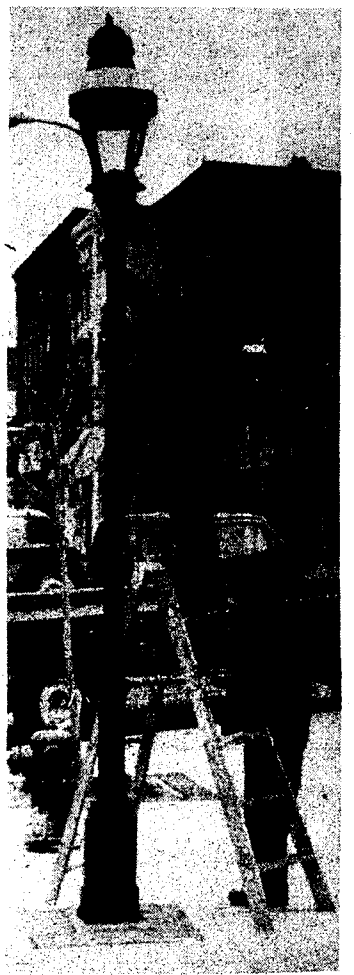

Talboys noted new overhead signs are ordered to put above the two intersections with arrows showing directions and lanes. These will help keep things sorted out, especially during times when snow falling obscures the street markings.

Clifton pointed out the laning prevents cars turning simultaneously from both directions from getting tangled, and the design follows the statewide pattern with the same dimensions.

Complaints have been made the new sidewalks did not cost the merchants anything while residents must pay 65 percent of the cost if they want new sidewalks in front of their homes.

Clifton said the charge is only for new walks. The cost of replacement is borne by the city. The replacement of downtown sidewalks falls in the same category as the repairs done recently on Park and Main Streets in front of private homes, for which the city did not charge.

City workers Gene Mast and Phil DeNise install one of the old-fashioned street lamps on Boyne City's all-new Water Street.

tors' comments add up to praise for how clean it looks. People also like the old-fashioned lamp posts.

Locally, the people who have lived a long time with the old Water Street, praise the new.

EJ showing its spirit for harbor project

EAST JORDAN - "This is not a profit-making thing," Walt Thorsen said, speaking of East Jordan's huge Civic Dinner, scheduled for Tuesday, Dec. 8, at the Civic Center.

Thorsen is chairing the event with the cooperation of various civic organizations and, most particularly, the senior center's Dorothy Pelton, Phyllis Legato, and Pat Berlo, city recreation director, who are in charge of the dinner itself.

The idea, Thorsen said, is to "attempt to involve the community and townships to pull together for the betterment of the entire area."

Thorsen listed building a marina at the top of things to be done.

Also on the list—an "up-lift" for the business area, new industry, improvement of the situation for present industry, and the building of apartment dwellings.

He said the speaker for the evening will be Keith Wilson, Chief of Waterways Division, Department of Natural Resources. Wilson will speak on the development of a marina for East Jordan.

The $4 tickets for the dinner are available from merchants, City Hall, and other interested people, Thorsen said. They don't expect to have any for sale at the door.

Merchants are donating door prizes, Thorsen noted.

There will also be entertainment. The Garden Club will decorate the tables. High school students will do the serving for the big sit-down dinner.

"It's a community event!" said Berlo. Asked how the 300 or 400 people will be served, she said, "We'll manage—with all the cooperation we're receiving."

Rotary Club members will cancel their noon meeting in favor of attendance at the dinner. Similarly the school board meeting has been cancelled.

Lions, Lionesses, Chamber of Commerce, churches, boards, and of course the Industrial Development Corporation of which Walt Thorsen is president, are all involved, Thorsen said.

He reminisced about East Jordan's public spiritedness. Back in the '20s, he said, the whole town closed in order to start up the Tourist Park which was then "all cattails and brush."

Everyone pitched in to stabilize the banks for the bridge when it was built—seeded it and planted the ornamental trees.

"And it was a work bee that started the Sportsman's Park," Thorsen said. This is the special East Jordan spirit that Thorsen expects to be manifested at the dinner, in the forwarding of progress for the city.

Autopsy finds no foul play in drowning of Boyne City man

BOYNE CITY - There was no evidence of foul play in the drowning death of Stephen Brannon, 24, of Boyne City, an autopsy report shows.

Brannon's body was found in Lake Charlevoix near The Landings condominium complex around noon on Sunday, Nov. 22. He had been missing since Oct. 17.

Divers searched the Boyne River and volunteers combed an area north of town soon after he was reported missing by his parents.

Brannon was last seen when he left a party early that morning.

An autopsy performed Monday, Nov.

23 by Dr. Robert Peterson at Otsego Memorial Hospital in Gaylord showed that the cause of death was drowning and there was no evidence of foul play.

Patrolman Randy Howard of the Boyne City Police Department said he is awaiting a pathologists' report before deciding if the case should be closed. That report is not expected for about 10 days, Howard said.

Brannon's body was discovered by eight-year-old Mark VanRuiten, who is vacationing at The Landings with his parents.

Mark was hauling a wagon of wood when he saw an object floating near pilings in the water. He told his father Ted, who called police.

Brannon had last been seen around 3 a.m. on Saturday, Oct. 17, when he left the Boyne City trailer park.

State police and divers from the state Department of Natural Resources searched the Boyne River on Friday, Oct. 30, and about 40 persons joined in a search of an area north of the city the next day.

Brannon, a life-long resident of Boyne City, was the son of Richard and Irene Brannon of 604 Earl Street.

Funeral services are scheduled for 2 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 25, at Stackus Funeral Home in Boyne City.

Brannon graduated from Boyne City High School in 1975. He attended North Central Michigan College for a year and was in the U.S. Army from 1979 to 1980.

He is survived by his parents; three brothers, Richard Jr. of New York, Christopher of Ann Arbor and David of Santee, Calif.; two sisters, Patricia Wilhelm of Grand Blanc and Kathryn of Clarkston; three nephews and three nieces.

EJ teachers approve pact

EAST JORDAN - A new teacher contract has been approved by the Northern Michigan Education Association.

The contract now must be approved by the East Jordan Board of Education.

Board president Mary Jason said the board will study provisions on binding arbitration, personal business days and wages, along with some less controversial items.

A special board meeting to vote on the contract will be called soon, Jason said.

Terms of the contract, which has been under negotiation since August 1980, will not be released until after the board approves the pact.

All kinds of public notices will go on 10 ft. kiosk

BOYNE CITY - A 10-ft. tall kiosk is being planned by the Chamber of Commerce as a community information board on one of the main corners of the business district.

The six-sided kiosk will have separate panels for different categories of notices, such as club and church news, dining, entertainment, recreation, shopping news and a business directory.

Kate Schafer, executive director of the Chamber, is raising money to pay for the kiosk.

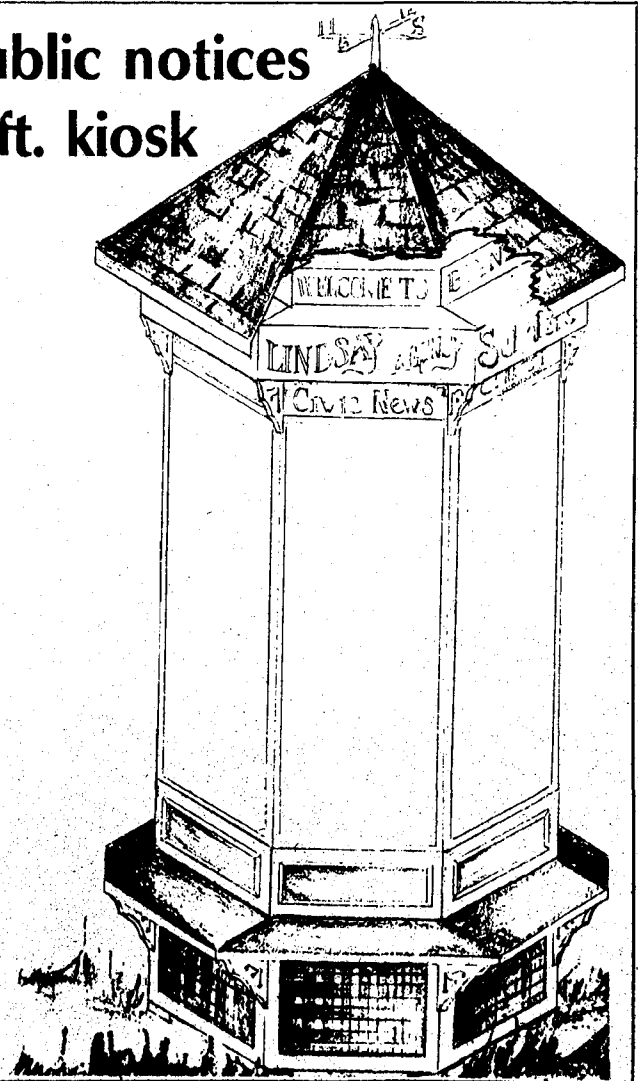

"The idea of the businesses building the kiosk is to give something back to the community and to show their appreciation for the redevelopment of Water Street," Schafer said.

It will cost about $2,000, and Water Street businesses have already pledged about $1,400, Schafer said.

Bruce Janssen of the Wood Shop made a drawing of the proposed kiosk, using an old photograph of a six-sided gazebo as a model. The gazebo was located in Old City Park, and a replica of that structure may also be reconstructed at some future date.

Schafer said bids would be sought on the kiosk project this winter, and she hopes it can be installed in the spring.

A definite location has not been chosen, but Schafer said the kiosk would probably be placed on one of the "pedestrian peninsulas" in front of the Ben Franklin store, Boyne Country Party Shop or the Chamber office.

East Jordan Iron Works and the city have settled the foundry's request for the city's abandonment of the stub-end of Garfield Street and the service alley. The city will receive in exchange 80 feet of lake frontage adjacent to Spring Street. Waterfront was desired for public fishing and for snowmobile access from the frozen lake.

Boyer trash hauling law may be revised

BOYNE CITY - The application by G and M Trash Removal service for a license to operate in the city—followed by a possible second applicant—has brought out that the city ordinance regarding trash hauling is unclear. The city is already served by Boyne-land Refuse and Garbage Service. The city commission scheduled a public meeting on the subject for its next regular meeting, Tuesday, Dec. 1, Gordon Block of the District 3 Health Department will answer questions at the meeting. One concern is that the state no longer does any inspecting.

Another is, whether Boyne should limit the number of trash hauling businesses that may operate in the city, as the present ordinance does. City attorney William McTaggart will provide the commission with a proposed ordinance. It will give the discussion some place to focus on, he said. The meeting will be for input only, the commission agreed. The time allowed for discussion will be limited. It was recommended that besides presenting a view at the meeting, people also leave a written statement.

New editor named for County Press

The Charlevoix County Press has a new editor. Don Dibley, former managing editor of the Ypsilanti Press in suburban Detroit, has been appointed to the position by Publisher James F. Silbar.

Dibley replaces Jim Baumann, who has resigned to take a newspaper job in California. Baumann had worked for the Press for five years as a reporter, editor and general manager. "We're sorry to see Jim go," Silbar said. "At the same time, though, the addition of Dibley will help move us toward our goal of making the Press a strong news-paper for Charlevoix County."

"I appreciate the time and effort Jim has put into making the newspaper one of the best here in the North country, and I am happy that he has found something to better himself in his chosen field," Silbar added.

Dibley, 33, comes to the Press with more than a decade of experience on weekly and daily newspapers in southeastern Michigan.

He has had extensive experience in reporting and editing news stories at the Ypsilanti Press, located between Ann Arbor and Detroit.

Before going to the Ypsilanti daily five years ago, he was editor, then business manager of the Spinal

DON DIBLEY

Column group near Pontiac in Oakland County.

Those papers were the winners of several reporting, editorial and sports awards while under Dibley's leadership.

He has also worked for newspapers in Flint and Utica.

Dibley, his wife Gloria and daughter Jesse live in Charlevoix, where they have recently purchased the Charlevoix Graphics printing company.

His dream: From scrap metal to research vessel

BY GERI SANTEK

IRONTON - It certainly lacks the stately grace of the Bay Queen, and it could hardly rival anything presently afloat on the lakes.

But the Aspen, that sorry hulk languishing in its berth at Ironton, is the foundation of ambitious plans for the Taylor family of Ellsworth.

Built in 1905, the Aspen put in over 40 years of service as a U.S. Coast Guard buoy tender in St. Ignace before it was retired in the 1950's and sold to private owners.

From there the history of the boat is hazy but Fred Taylor bought it in 1976 from Robert Timms and James Sawtelle, both of Charlevoix, who had planned to use it as a nautical museum and showroom for shipwreck furniture.

A financial pinch had put an end to their plans and the boat spent several years for sale at a price between $12,000 and $15,000.

Taylor jokingly offered $4,000, and the two eventually accepted his offer.

Taylor's original intention was to tow the boat to the East Jordan Iron Works and sell the 200 tons of scrap metal. But that was before his family caught the explorer bug from a Jacques Cousteau television special.

Taylor, his father and younger brother began toying with the idea of using the boat as a research and salvage vessel which would ply the Great Lakes.

Soon the Taylors were gathering up equipment from auctions and from their own supplies. "The more involved we got, the more fun it became," says Taylor.

When finished, the Aspen will be a totally self-sufficient research and salvage vessel complete with laboratory and video equipment. "No one is really involved in salvage work," he says, "or much research."

To fund their research, Taylor plans to work closely with universities and other public institutions which receive grants to carry out their programs. "We could use our boat on a charter basis," says Taylor.

Taylor says the lakes could be used as a large-scale breeding ground for fish.

"The lakes have the capacity to support large stocks of fish for commercial harvest," he says.

"Michigan has the largest concentration of fresh water in the world and could support three times as many fish as it currently does."

He says the state of Michigan is not very interested in the idea, however.

According to Taylor, a commercial salmon industry could easily support itself in this area.

Salmon fingerlings of 7-12 inches planted in the lakes feed for 2 1/4 years and come back to spawn weighing an average of 25 pounds.

Taylor says that beyond the initial cost of the fingerlings, the venture is free of cost and has the added bonus of providing a "hothouse environment" which affords complete control over the harvest. "You can't raise cattle that way," he says.

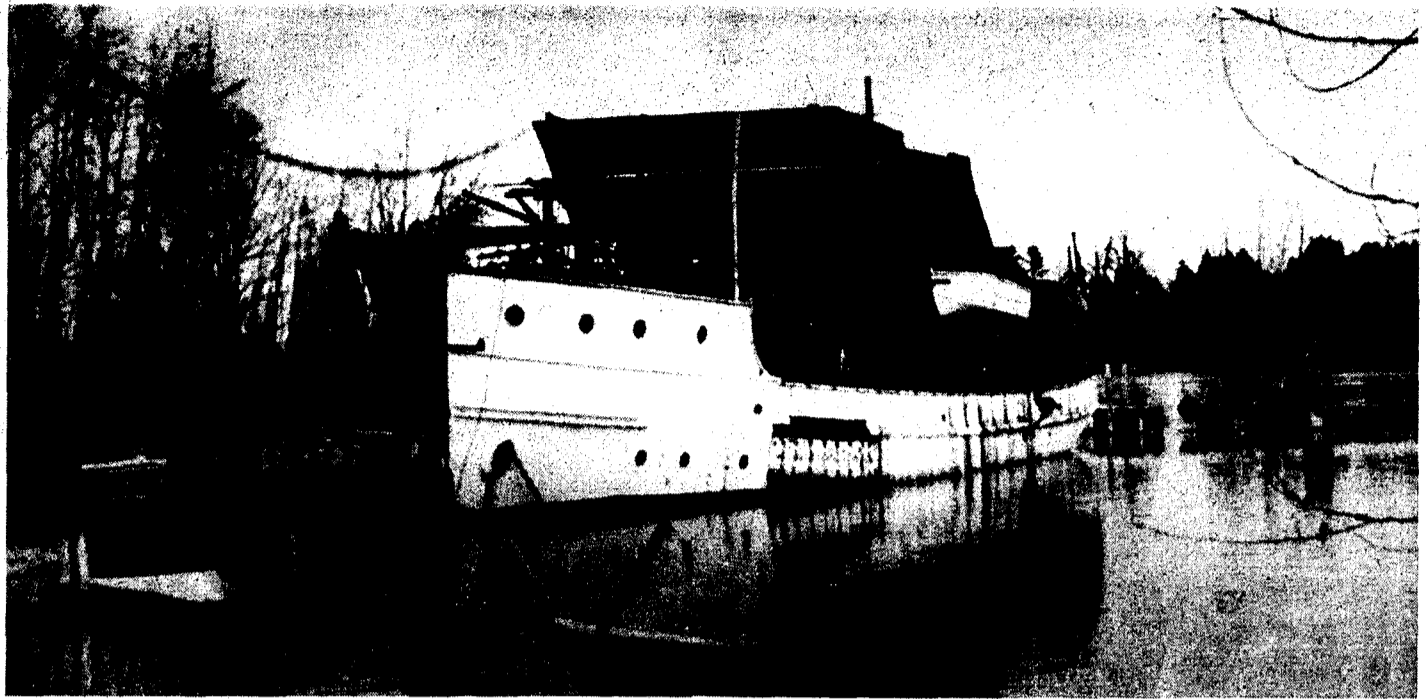

Taylor says the Charlevoix-Boyer area would be ideal for commercial harvesting because both the die-off and the harvest could be controlled.

There are also favorable areas in each of the Great Lakes—such as the Beaver Archipelago—that could be controlled as large-scale harvest grounds.

Perch is another fish that could be harvested on a large scale for U.S. consumption or for export, according to Taylor.

This, he says, would lead to support industries such as small canning operations, would create jobs for residents and would provide revenue by licensing commercial fishermen.

As a research vessel, the Aspen

Originally purchased for scrap, the Aspen will eventually be a self-sufficient research and salvage vessel complete with laboratory and video equipment.

would study the feasibility of the commercial fishing venture, testing the level of carcinogens, PBB, mercury and other contaminants in the lakes.

"You will have to know (these levels) or you will run into problems with the FDA because salmon and trout build up large amounts of body fat which are natural storage areas for chemicals," Taylor says.

Taylor sees a need to become involved and study lake problems and to isolate the areas of pollution. "It takes someone to arouse interest," he says. "Someone to say 'Why can't we do this?'"

Taylor estimates that completion of the Aspen project will take another two years and an additional $30,000 to $40,000.

"When we finish the boat, we'll methodically start on our work of studying the Great Lakes," he says.

3 interviewed for EJ superintendent's job

EAST JORDAN - Three candidates for the post of superintendent of public works were interviewed by city council at a special meeting Monday night. No decision was made.

According to councilwoman Pat Sweet, the three may be finalists, although the door is not shut on "anything that might come up."

City Clerk Fern Morris said the city had received 72 applications. This includes 60 received before the appointment of Rush Cattell in September.

One of the three interviewed was also a candidate in the final interviews before Cattell was chosen. Cattell resigned Nov. 3 after problems he had in past jobs surfaced. Sweet said, "I feel the general consensus is these are the last applications."

The council decided not to meet again before its regular meeting, Tuesday,

Dec. 1. "We're supposed to get background checks by Monday," said Sweet, who added, there was a good chance the council would know by Tuesday which candidate would have the post.

New pizzeria opens in Boyne

BOYNE CITY - The Amber Oven Pizzeria, a new restaurant serving pizza, spaghetti, lasagna and ravioli, has opened at 215 E. Water St.

Boyer City native Dave Behling is managing the restaurant for the owners - Mike and Neville Weeks and their father John Clark.

Behling said everything on the menu is homemade. He is aiming to create a family atmosphere in the restaurant, which will have seating for 50 when new tables and chairs arrive. Take-out orders are also available for all menu items.

The pizzeria will open at 4:30 p.m. daily, closing at 11 p.m. on weeknights and at 3 a.m. on Fridays and Saturdays.

Behling earned a degree in hotel-restaurant management from Northwestern Institute in Midland. Then he managed the Royal Fork Buffet in Tulsa, Okla., before returning to Boyne City to help open the Amber Oven.

Magistrate is returning to Boyne, East Jordan

Magistrate hours will be resumed on a once-a-month basis in East Jordan and Boyne City for the convenience of local residents and officials.

Wayne Barnett, magistrate for Charlevoix County since February, said he has scheduled the third Thursday of each month, mornings in East Jordan and afternoons in Boyne City, on a trial basis.

"The magistrate will see if the case load will warrant the trips from Charlevoix. If it goes to needing two times a month, then I'll do that," he said.

The cities have been without this convenience for a year, and news of its resumption brought a favorable response from the Boyne city commission Tuesday. "It makes more sense for one person to come here than for five to go over there," said city attorney William McTaggart.

City Manager Tim Clifton said the visits had been eliminated because of lack of business, "but we never knew when that magistrate would be coming," he said.

Barnett noted that it would save the city paying police overtime and gas if they no longer had to bring warrants to Charlevoix for signing.

Barnett's job also includes signing complaints, swearing in witnesses and holding hearings for people who want to contest traffic tickets and other minor offenses.

WWTV Channel 9 and 10, was recently in East Jordan and Boyne City taping segments for a new program series, "Our Yesteryears." The program will be 30 second historic features on East Jordan, Boyne City, Bellare, Central Lake and Charlevoix. Donna Smith of WWTV's "Northern Michigan Morning Show" will host the series. Smith is shown here doing the taping of one of the programs about the old town clock located outside the Boyne City downtown office of Northwestern State Bank. "Our Yesteryears," sponsored by Northwestern State Bank, Bellare State Bank and First State Bank of Charlevoix will begin airing early in January, 1982.

Old-time recipes from a class reunion

We all know that we cannot live in the past, we must always look to the future—though we need to look into and remember the good things of the past to guide us into the future.

I recently attended our 50th high school class reunion and found that it was delightful to recall our youth and remember the good times.

The year 1931 was in the middle of the Depression. We did not have money to spend, but what fun we had!

Of course I picked up some real old-time recipes. They are a part of our heritage and everyone is interested in food.

I was enchanted when I discovered that my hostess, Rosalyn, had a complete library of cookbooks going back in time to her great-grandmother.

Mrs. Anson (Wealtha) Hedgecock of Caberfae, near Cadillac, sent me this old-time recipe, a favorite of her family. I made it and relished it. It has a rich taste, half-way between chesapeake and custard pie with a buttery flavor.

BUTTERMILK PIE

For an 8-inch pie you need:
½ cup melted oleo

2 eggs
1 scant tablespoon flour
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup buttermilk

For a 10-inch pie you need:
¾ cup melted oleo
3 eggs
1½ tablespoons flour
1½ cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup buttermilk

Beat together buttermilk, eggs, sugar, flour and vanilla. Add melted butter. Pour into an unbaked pie shell and bake at 400 degrees for 10 minutes; then 350 degrees for 40 minutes.

My sister Margaret came all the way from Florida to attend this reunion. She brought me this recipe given to her by an 85-year-old friend.

Janet McLelland came to America from Scotland when a child, one of nine children. Janet still makes Scotch shortbread as her mother did, serving it with tea.

JANET'S SCOTCH SHORTBREAD
1 stick of oleo and 1 stick of butter each

½ cup sugar
2 heaping cups all purpose flour

Soften the oleo and butter, add sugar and mix with your hand until there is no grain. Then add half of the flour, mix well with a wooden spoon, if you wish. Then add the rest of the flour, mix well with your hand. Add more flour as needed until your hand is clean and the bowl also.

Spread out onto a 10 by 13 inch pan or cookie sheet, pat down to about ½-inch thick, prick well with fork and bake 45 minutes at 300 degrees or 275 if your oven is quite hot. Cool in pan and cut into squares or 1x2-inch oblongs.

Holiday dinner

Call 538-2974 to reserve a spot at the Thanksgiving dinner the church is sponsoring for Methodist and Catholic church families and those who have no families to have their holiday meal with.

The dinner will be held at noon Thursday at the Methodist church.

Thanks for a true Christmas gesture

Editor,
The red-ribbon bows and holiday greens you see decorating the old-fashioned lamp posts on Water Street are the handiwork of Paul and Carol Hanes, owners of Gocha's Women's Apparel.

This was a true Christmas gesture—they made these decorations and put them up on their own time and at their own expense. What a perfectly lovely gift to all of us! Thank you, Paul and Carol.

State recreation agency on block

Editor,
I am a resident of Charlevoix County and every day I see the benefits recreation and tourism provide to our state.

Government leaders seem to have forgotten the importance of recreation to our "quality of life" and our economy.

Public recreation agencies provide 42 percent of all Michigan recreation. Local government agencies provide for more than half of this opportunity.

These public agencies with the assistance of Recreation Services Division (only agency in state government mandated to assist local government on recreation concerns) have developed a fantastic recreation system across this state. Many, including Recreation Services Division, have been identified for elimination. I am shocked. Recreation is a needed public service—especially during recessionary times.

What will happen to the millions and millions of dollars the public has invested in state and local recreation? Not to mention that many parks and programs will be eliminated and the public deprived of their recreation opportunities.

The beginnings of a remarkable downtown

Editor,
On behalf of the Boyne City Area Chamber of Commerce and its board of directors, I would like to thank the Boyne City commissioners for the beautiful new appearance of Water Street.

I would also like to acknowledge the excellent performance of the Boyne City administration and the city workers throughout the project. The project went smoothly thanks to their skill, cooperation and sensitivity to the needs of those businesses directly affected by the renovation.

Acknowledgement is also due the project engineer (Granger Construction), the general contractor (M & M Excavating), and the subcontractor (Hodgkiss & Douma). They all were hard-working, courteous and capable.

I have heard several good comments from elderly residents and parents of small children who have expressed appreciation for the pedestrian "peninsulas" at the intersections. They feel safer crossing the street because they feel more visible to oncoming traffic and believe drivers are more aware of them.

A lot of people have expressed their delight with the turn-of-the-century type lighting and the decorative brickwork around the posts and trees. Others have said they are looking forward to spring when the trees are blooming and the ornate wood and iron park benches are set up on the sidewalks.

Our city commissioners are deserving of our gratitude and praise for the beginnings of a truly remarkable downtown in which we can all take great pride.

Chamber agreement should be terminated

Editor,
Mr. Florenski and Mr. Crain have every right to feel short-changed by our last election. Whenever the City of Boyne City subsidizes the Chamber of Commerce—$3,300 this year—and the chamber puts out a political paper advocating the defeat of certain candidates who are paying taxes into the coffers of the city—then something is dead wrong.

Mrs. Kate Schafer's protestations that the subsidy money was not used for this purpose is simply silly. It doesn't matter a single whit which pocket the money came from as all the pockets are in the same pair of pants anyway.

In light of the Chamber's abuse of the subsidy money the city should not have renewed the agreement. It should be terminated at once. A public apology is also in order.

Many choice phrases come to mind to describe this type of shenanigans by both the city and Chamber but unethical will do for now. Mr. Grimm is to be commended for not allowing himself to become a part of the deal.

I don't know about Mr. Florenski but I'll give good odds that Mr. Crain pays more city taxes than most if not all the council members, or the city manager, or the city clerk or any of the rest of the city employees. Could be that he pays more state and federal taxes also. Can anyone really blame him for not wanting to help finance his own defeat? It's no wonder the Chamber can't support itself.

It is always a good idea, while enjoying your drink of water, to remember who dug the well.

Mail delivery loss protested

Editor,
It seems the local postmaster has too little to do with his time so he's taken to harassing people, especially elderly, impoverished women.

I have lived in this house for 18 years and had mail to my door from the day I moved in. The present postmaster has determined that I am no longer eligible for this service. He claims he can "save seven minutes" on my block (at least 10 delivery stops) by jeep delivery over foot delivery.

That "seven minutes" of walking time was seven minutes of local labor bringing some pennies into Boyne City.

Get in on the ground floor. Subscribe today to a growing newspaper.

Whatever it costs for the jeep, gas, oil, tires, etc. wasn't mentioned, but that takes money out of Boyne City for labor, elsewhere. Is that saving?

In letters, the postmaster has claimed it is 240 feet from somewhere to my back door (my lot is 132 by 132 feet) so he can no longer deliver mail to my door. I will not have a box at the street for the snowplows to knock over (among other things) which after the original "free installation" it'll become my duty to keep up, repair, etc.

Is there anyone else out there who is disgusted with the present heavy-handed withdrawal of services this postmaster is forcing on us?

Boosters thanked for helping sports

Editor,
I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the people who have made our cross country, football, and girls' basketball seasons a success.

The tickets takers, the concession stand workers, the announcers, the people who mowed and lined the field, the clean-up crews, those who drove the cheerleaders and athletes to the games, and the ambulance crew all deserve a big thank you from the fans, the parents and the student participants. Without the Sports Boosters, East Jordan would not have a sports program.

A Thanksgiving Message

Today, the traditional day of counting blessings taken for granted throughout the year, we give our thanks for the blessings we enjoy as citizens of a free democracy.

We are grateful for the freedoms which we often take for granted... the right to choose our religious faith... to elect those who govern and the obligations of the governed to guide... to criticize and even condemn those who misuse their official responsibilities.

As a nation and a people, we're grateful for the beautifully rich soil we are blessed with and the means to produce food to feed not only ourselves and our allies, but also the hungry throughout the world.

We send our wishes, hopes and prayers that next year, on this day and everyday, we can be thankful for the blessings showered on those less fortunate... the presence of the dignity of man among the poor... the return of love, decency and morality into the hearts of the powerful... the enlightening of the minds of those who oppress... and the returning of peace to this currently troubled world.

On this day of family unity, as we relax from the food and drink which has filled our bodies, we offer a prayer to the god of every faith for unity, love and blessings in the world, such as those felt within our homes this day.

'Over the river and through the woods...'

Sometimes it doesn't pay to ask questions about a custom. One should just ride with it, and, as the waitress says, "Enjoy!"

Thanksgiving is one such enjoyable custom. While few of us these days can merely go "over the river and through the woods" to get to grandmother's house for the holiday, it's still pretty compelling to gather with whatever family we may have, even though we may have to drive all day to get there.

Sometimes the getting there is the high point. The kisses and hugs, shouts, and cries of "how he's grown!"—and the wonderful odors from the kitchen—are usually followed by a sort of diminuendo of "want to put your things in here?" and "No, Jenny the cat doesn't like children to grab it."

The usual problem of having to talk to everyone at once melts into family joshing. A warm glow settles in below the surface. When people ask me, "Why have children," I say, "So you can have Thanksgiving." Of course, that's meant with a small "t," too.

But Thanksgiving does cook up questions—especially with that long drive and time to think. Think about people who don't have family, who learn to make family out of their church or their community, realizing perhaps that having a family in the usual sense is simply training for service in the family of man.

Think about being alone on Thanksgiving—a sad affair—it's so easy to be sad then. So easy. And one must not.

This day of all days, one gets out a piece of paper and lists all there is to be thankful for. It may sound simplistic, but it is valid—and health-giving.

Our times have made us almost reluctant to be thankful. It's going onto the second-generation since the atom bomb. Besides, newscasters every day dig up every devastation they can for us.

Nevertheless, if one is not willing to pass the day in gloom, one can fill more than one piece of paper with things to be thankful for.

A continual recognition of good makes life a better kind of thing. I know quite a few people who live this way—not particularly conscious that they are doing it. They are just more ready to laugh than to complain. They are strong when trouble comes. Somehow they just believe in good.

They may not be religious. They may even feel there is no God to thank on Thanksgiving Day, but they are not afraid or too hardened to be glad.

And who's to say being glad and thanking God are really not degrees of the same thing.

And you thought milkweed was just a weed

I have difficulty using my brain before noon, but I'm going to give it a try anyway.

Remember when someone discovered that you can wring alcohol out of garbage and use it in your car? Well, they've done it again. Now they've found how to produce gasoline from milkweeds.

Every farmer in Charlevoix County can look out his window and see gallons of gas growing in his field.

I've got enough milkweeds in my own field to get back and forth to town all winter. I knew that if I sat on my hind end long enough something good would happen to me.

An innocent little note in last week's column sort of laid an egg, getting me into hot water. I hate that. Laying eggs in hot water ain't my cup of tea. A person can get an awful burn doing that.

The papers are saying that northern Michigan has had its Indian Summer. Now I can't wait until we get over our Polish Winter and head into our English Spring. Personally, I like our French Summer best.

When I heard that Boyne City was going to do a bang-up job renovating Water Street, I couldn't believe my ears. And then when I saw it happening, I couldn't believe my eyes.

The same thing happened when I heard that millions were to be spent on the old Tannery site. I couldn't believe it when I heard it and I couldn't believe it when I saw it.

I've had this trouble with my eyes and ears ever since I moved back to Boyne City from East Jordan 10 years ago. When I was in business in East Jordan, I believed everything I heard and everything I saw. And I saw and heard some dandies. I wish Boyne City had East Jordan's knack of producing dandies you can believe in before they happen.

Just the other day I read where lack of property tax money will soon force some Michigan schools to consolidate—like East Jordan being forced to join Boyne City. That's another thing my ears and eyes are going to have trouble with.

The mail just came. A very important letter addressed to "boxholder" informs me that there is a big profit to be made in raising worms. The sheet says it's a clean business with no odor. Hal I know a worm who is in a clean business with no odor and he hasn't made a profit in years.

I always watch Monday Night Football. My wife doesn't care for it because Howard Cosell's voice stirs up her nerves. Last Monday night I asked her what time it was and she said, "It's 20 minutes to a headache."

There's some talk that I have written letters to the editor, signing a different name. That's false with honey hanging out all around the edges.

I haven't written a letter to the editor since President Franklin Roosevelt began taking money out of the rich man's pocket and handing it over to the poor. The poor turned hand springs over the idea, voting Roosevelt into office for 16 years.

Boyerne girls lose district opener

BY SCOTT PAQUETTE

The Rambler girls' basketball season ended Thursday night with a 72-50 loss to Benzie Central in the first game of the Class C district tournament in Kalkaska.

Benzie Central attacked with a full court press at the start of the game and continued to use it throughout most of the evening.

This caused the Ramblers to commit a number of turnovers, and Benzie Central jumped to a 15-10 lead at the end of the first quarter.

A strong second quarter enabled Benzie to increase its lead to 37-24 at the half.

In the third quarter, each team scored 13 points, bringing the score to 50-37. The final quarter showed more successful outside shooting by Benzie as it went on to win 72-50.

The Ramblers had a poor night from the line, making only 16 of 35 free throws, while Central put in 18 of 23 attempts.

Senior Lori Paquette led the Ramblers' scoring with 19 points. Julie Paquette, a junior, tossed in 16.

Boyerne was successful earlier in the week, beating Central Lake 55-36, on Monday night. It was the Ramblers' second win against Central Lake this season. The first victory was in a pre-season tournament.

The score remained close throughout the first half. After the first quarter ended in an 8-8 deadlock, Boyerne went ahead 20-19 at halftime.

The Ramblers came on strong in the second half, pulling ahead 35-28 at the end of the third quarter.

Boyerne outscored Central Lake 20-8 in the last quarter, giving it the 55-36 victory.

Lori Paquette led Rambler scoring with 18 points, followed by Michelle Russell with 16.

Teri Heiermann came off the bench with a fine performance, adding 13 points.

In junior varsity action, Boyerne also came out on top, posting a 42-34 win.

Keisha Crozier had a good night, tossing in 22 points. Tracy Pruetz followed with 10.

Gaylord press drops Loggers from tourney

BOYNE FALLS - The Loggers girls basketball season came to an abrupt end Friday night at the hands of Gaylord St. Mary, the No. 3 ranked team in the state.

St. Mary's man-to-man, full-court press was too much for Boyne Falls, as the Loggers fell 68-36.

The Loggers' own press couldn't contain the Snowbirds, whose record reached 20-0 as they advanced to the finals of the state Class D district tournament on their own court. The loss gave the Loggers a 12-8 final record.

Boyerne Falls coach Joel Donaldson said his team's press forced St. Mary into a few turnovers, but the Gaylord team's press and rebounding were too much for the Loggers to handle.

The Snowbirds' so dominated the boards that the Loggers generally got only one shot each time down the court, Donaldson said.

St. Mary led 15-6 at the end of the first quarter and increased their lead to 38-15. By the buzzer ending the third quarter they had built up a 54-23 margin.

Junior guard Sharon Frankowiak led the Loggers' scoring with 12 points, while her sister Pat added 7. Pat, a senior forward, was Boyne Falls' leading rebounder with 7.

Cold EJ cagers lose by 4 in district

EAST JORDAN - "We were ice cold the entire game," said Coach Mike Bos, explaining the Red Devil girls' four-point loss to Central Lake in their district tournament opener last Thursday.

The 36-32 loss dropped East Jordan's record to 11-9 for the season - not a bad showing for a team without a senior on the roster.

"I'm really looking forward to next year," Bos said. "We'll have everybody back, plus five girls from the junior varsity team...and they finished 16-3 this year."

All that depth will be welcome after having only seven or eight players on the roster this season. Only seven girls were available during the district tournament, and three fouled out - leaving only four players on the floor for the last 30 seconds of the game.

East Jordan committed 16 fouls in the second half of the game, a factor that helped the Central Lake overcome a 19-12 halftime deficit and win the game.

"It was just one of those nights when nothing would go in the basket," Bos said. "We had fast break after fast break where we would miss a layup or a short shot."

Juniors DeEtte Looze and Joelyn Ingalls led the Devils with 10 points apiece in the final game.
