

Sewage back-up destroys BC woman's home

BOYNE CITY - What once was the Jenkins house is now a disaster area — caused by a severe sewer back-up problem.

The Boyne City commission would like to help Lucy Jenkins and her daughter, but can't do much unless the city can find a way to prove it was negligent when there is no evidence it was.

A sewer back-up on Dec. 20 — less than a week before Christmas — was so bad it ruined the inside of the house and all of the Jenkins' possessions inside.

They had lived in the home, purchased through a loan from the Farmers Home Administration, for about six months.

A claim was filed with the city's insurance carrier to see if clean-up and repair costs could be recovered, but the insurance company this week rejected the claim.

No evidence was found that the city had done anything wrong or been negligent in any way in its maintenance of the sewers in the Jenkins' Pleasant Street neighborhood.

One cleaning company estimated it would cost $7,500 to $10,000 just to clean up the house. This did not include repair or replacement of family possessions.

The health department has declared the house a health hazard and has told Jenkins not to remove anything.

City officials think the massive back-up was caused because roots crept into the sewer main. A sudden surge through the pipes — caused by an unknown source — sent sewage into the Jenkins' house.

Only one other residence experienced even insignificant back-up, city manager Tim Clifton said. The house is new but the neighborhood and sewer lines are older, he said.

City commissioners were asked Tuesday, Jan. 12, by attorney David Fershee to help in whatever way they could.

Commissioners were generally sympathetic toward Jenkins and upset with the insurance company.

They directed Clifton to check over city records and see if there was anything that could be done to convince the insurance company to change its mind — in effect, to try to find negligence on the city's part so the claim would be paid.

About the only other recourse Jenkins might have, attorneys and commissioners said, was to sue the city.

"Let's go to court and hope we lose," commissioner Steve Moody said.

Fershee and city attorney William McTaggart agreed the court process could easily take up to a year.

Jenkins, who is on ADC and her daughter are sleeping on the couch at a relative's house.

She had hoped of taking college courses this spring but now is faced with finding a place to stay while still paying for a house she can't live in.

The Department of Social Services set $130 as the limit it would pay for her to find another place to live. She's tried to find something that cheap, she said, but there is nothing.

Fershee said he is working with the Farmers Home Administration to try to reduce or forestall payments on the $38,500 she borrowed to buy the house.

Clifton said the purchase last year of a "water jet" may help prevent sewer back-ups in the future. The machine would cut through roots and other blockages.

The problem, though, is not being able to anticipate where a blockage exists, he said.

There was, he said, no evidence that a problem would develop on Pleasant Avenue.

Bar incident brings complaint against EJ cop

By BARBARA CRUDEN

EAST JORDAN - About 40 residents attended a meeting of the city council's police committee Friday, Jan. 8, to voice opinions on whether Officer Ron Melinowski should continue to serve on the police force.

Both viewpoints were represented. The committee then went into closed session at Melinowski's request.

Committee member Russ Dietrich said Monday, Jan. 11, that he thought the city council, not the committee, would decide what to do.

"I think this is sort of heavy and it should be a council decision," Dietrich said.

Charles Sherk, owner of Chuck's Place, a downtown bar, had complained to the city council Jan. 5, that Melinowski had acted in an "irresponsible manner."

According to Sherk, Melinowski went into his bar two or three minutes before the 9 p.m. closing time on Christmas Eve and walked behind the counter, opening and closing doors. Sherk was not there at the time.

A customer, Russ Thomas, was arrested after reportedly commenting on the officer's behavior.

Thomas' attorney entered a not guilty plea for him at his Tuesday, Jan. 12, arraignment. A Jan. 27 pretrial hearing was scheduled.

Somewhere in the process of taking Thomas out of the bar, his leg was hurt — badly enough to require medical attention.

City attorney Roy Hayes halted Sherk's explanation to tell him he could fill out a formal complaint. Sherk said he was prepared to be legally liable in presenting the matter publicly.

Sherk filed a complaint against

Melinowski the next day. "I felt so strongly about this," he said later, "I didn't want it brushed under the rug."

Sherk said the officer was presuming the customers were overstaying closing time but actually they are allowed a half-hour after the 9 p.m. "last call" to finish their drinks.

He said there was no reason for Melinowski to be in the bar.

Support for Sherk was evident among the 25 people attending the meeting just for the discussion of Melinowski's conduct.

The officer's actions "were uncalled for. I couldn't believe this was the United States," said one customer.

A number added complaints of their own, some claiming nothing had come of previous complaints.

One resident, Rita Gibbard, said, "I think there's something drastically wrong when you have all this conflict going on."

Another, Vern Stark, said, "You can't condemn all the police."

Mayor Archie Nemechek asked for a council motion to meet to investigate the matter, but council member Al Joseph, who chairs the police committee, opposed the idea, saying it went against the procedure the council had earlier agreed on.

He called for a police committee meeting and his motion was approved.

Dietrich was applauded by audience members when he pledged he'd "make sure both parties get a fair shake."

According to the city charter, the committee has the power to act. But Dietrich said a decision would be left up to the council.

When the council might take up the dispute, he didn't know. "It's still under investigation," he said.

Area residents digging out again

Road commission crews are busy digging out side roads again, following the third major storm to hit Charlevoix County in 10 days.

Sunday's storm, fueled by 50-mile-an-hour winds, blew drifts as high as 8-10 feet tall over roads throughout northern Michigan.

As of mid-day Tuesday, only about 20 percent of side roads in Charlevoix county were passable, a road commission spokeswoman said. Crews, which had just finished clearing up from the past week's storms, were out again trying to clear roads.

Main roads were reported travelable after having been blown shut by the drifting snow.

A snow emergency was declared Sunday as law enforcement agencies asked motorists to stay off even the main arteries, some of which were not made passable until Monday afternoon.

25-year airport panel member not reappointed

EAST JORDAN - A 25-year member of the city airport commission has lost his post because he lives outside the city.

Bob Strehl was not reappointed when the city council made appointments Jan. 5. He was replaced by Howard Murray.

Strehl said he did not know he was not being reappointed until the morning after the council acted.

Last November, two members of the Elm Pointe commission were removed from that panel because they, like Strehl, did not live within the city limits.

Strehl pointed out that the airport is located in the township but is served by city tax dollars.

Cygurd Riley and George Secord had served on the Elm Pointe commission since 1975.

Appointments are made by the city council each year. The names are usually proposed by commission chairmen.

Commission and council officials expressed regret at the loss of these members, referring to them as "valuable" and "concerned."

During Strehl's tenure, the airport size has been increased by over 150 acres through various purchases of adjoining land. All approaches have been cleared.

Strehl said the airfield was started in 1939. "It was just a woodlot when I got interested. My goal was to promote an airport for East Jordan."

He said he hopes the commission will continue working toward improving the airport — constructing a building with a waiting room, providing lights and installing a telephone.

A flier himself, Strehl expressed regrets at leaving the commission. "I have a business in town, but I can't serve the city."

EAST JORDAN - A two-day winter event is being designed by the local Chamber of Commerce. They are calling it The Jordan Valley Winter Capers, and planning it for Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 16 and 17.

"We're not going big time," emphasized Chamber director Jeff Streelman, in charge of the event. "Just doing something to have a good time without spending a lot of money."

Streelman said they will kick off the event with a parade of snowmobilers starting at 10 a.m. Saturday. Entrants should beat Division and Main

The storm forced the closing of all county schools for the second Monday and Tuesday in a row. Most businesses were also closed on Monday.

The emergency declaration was lifted late Tuesday morning.

This latest storm brought relatively little new snow — the storms of New Year's weekend dropped about 20 inches on the area — but winds clocked at more than 50 miles per hour, a wind-chill factor of about 50-below zero and blowing snow made being outside Sunday quite hazardous.

The storm was part of a giant Arctic air mass that caused frigid conditions in large portions of the U.S.

streets by 9:45. Advance registration is not necessary.

Following that will be a Snowmobile Poker Run, in which contestants will be given maps to follow to locations where buckets will be stationed, containing envelopes. In each envelope will be a playing card.

Streelman said whoever has collected the best poker hand when the envelopes are opened at the end of the run will be the winner. "It's not a race against time," Streelman noted.

The Poker Run is being sponsored by the Trail Blazers, a snowmobile club in town.

The Lions Club is sponsoring a tug of war to be held next. Teams are being selected by weight. The tug of war will be held downtown at 2 p.m.

At 4 p.m. till everyone goes home, there will be a bonfire back of Al Thorsen's Lumber.

The Winter Capers event coincides nicely with the Fiddlers' Jamboree and Old Fashioned Square Dance being held the same day at the Civic Center.

According to Streelman it's all in the spirit of having a good time together. On Sunday, the Winter Capers continue their celebration with breakfast served at the Snowmobile Club from 6 to 11 a.m.

A Hobo Ski Tour is scheduled for 11 a.m. For this, Streelman said, contestants ski cross-country on a marked trail to look for items on a list—a scavenger hunt.

There is a $1 entry fee for the ski tour. First prize is $50.

At noon, Jack Vincent will be leading a long snowmobile "snowfari," leaving from the Snowmobile Club. Prizes for contests will be gift certificates.

Pen pals for nearly 10 years, finally meet

When Laura Cook was in junior high, she signed up to have a pen pal from Japan. Last week after writing for nearly 10 years, her pen pal came to visit. Tadaaki Kusaka traveled to Boyne City by bus in a round-about way from Los Angeles. By now he is back in his homeland. Tadaaki was also a junior high student when he saw an ad in a magazine encouraging him to become a pen pal with an American student. Through the years, Laura and Tadaaki wrote about their families, the weather, normal things friends write to each other. One time, Laura recalled, Tadaaki sent her a small piece of paper containing just the paw print of his cat. Seven months ago, Tadaaki came to the U.S. to study in Los Angeles. He is a samurai instructor and junior high English teacher in Susami-cho, a town in the southern part of the main island of Japan. On Dec. 20 he boarded a Greyhound bus and set out to see part of America before returning to Japan on Jan. 10. He visited Phoenix, St. Louis, Memphis — "because I like Elvis" — and Chicago. From the Windy City he headed toward his pen pal's house in Boyne City. But the snowstorm on the New Year's weekend almost stopped him from arriving. "In Cadillac the driver said he could go no more, the snow was too bad," Tadaaki said. "I looked at my map, where I had gone all the way from Los Angeles. Only 100 miles to go." Tadaaki found another bus that took him to Traverse City, then to Charlevoix where the Cooks picked him up on Tuesday night, Jan. 6. "I got my dream," he said. Because he had to be back in L.A. by the 9th in order to catch his flight home, part of their time together was spent trying to arrange airline and bus transportation. While in Boyne, Tadaaki took his first snowmobile ride — and got thrown from the machine. He thought it was great fun. The heavy snowfall was exciting to Tadaaki — once it was no longer a deterrent to seeing his long-time pen pal. In the part of Japan he is from — south of Osaka — it snows, but soon melts, he said. Never before had he encountered the depth he found here. "It's beautiful," he thought, Tadaaki said. Tadaaki is engaged to a girl in his hometown and plans to be married next year. He would like to bring his fiancée to see America after their wedding. By Thursday, Tadaaki was back on a bus, heading to Chicago and a flight west. Then a flight much farther west.

One hand on back, other in pocket

Topsy-Turvy interlude: The flurry of holiday flutter, visiting children, grandchildren; a bout with the flu, combined with impassible three-foot drifts sprung a leak in the bunghole of my think tank, preventing me from putting black marks on white paper for a whole fortnight of days. After an evil wind had blown the great clutch of higgledy-piggledy annoyances over to Boyne Falls, I told a friend that I could return to my regular schedule of not doing anything. "Perhaps now," I said, "I can get back to writing a column for the Press." "You never could leave well enough alone," he said. "Did you ever get the feeling that all your friends were enemies?"

I was born, raised and wised up in Boyne City; it was here; long after my green apple bellyache days, that I shook the tree of knowledge, filling my basket. Shortly after my stage of peanut butter and short pants, I chanced to fall among certain of the poor who cursed and shook a fist at the world. They meant to survive, come Hell or Herbert Hoover.

My attention was somehow drawn to those who had become money changers or politicians, soon given to the picking of pockets. Not all were thus inclined, however. Many of the good folk sumbled head long into hard work and honesty. Along about the time my whiskers had begun to sprout and when I had begun to notice that girls had something boys didn't, many citizens were becoming confused. They knew not where to place their trust. Dishonest people pulled a dirty nasty. They assumed the look of the honest, going to church with reassuring smiles on their Sunday faces. Even the noble with visible scruples were hard put to detect a rotten apple. It wasn't fair. A crook should look like a crook. Life in Boyne City had become a puzzle. Whom should we trust? Suddenly there was a great boom in whom? Whom? A large group of pure simons were wont to charge city fathers with the responsibility of passing tough laws and wielding an oak club. "Rout out the town crooks!" became the rallying cry.

Marshall Sayles

City to determine waste plan

BOYNE CITY - The city commission will meet with state and county officials at noon Tuesday, Jan. 19, to discuss how Boyne might fit into the county solid waste plan. The city and many other communities throughout Michigan and the state Department of Natural Resources have been at odds for years over what constitutes an acceptable landfill. No municipal landfills in Charlevoix County are presently licensed by the state, although they are still in use. Prompting the upcoming meeting was a letter from the Charlevoix County Solid Waste Planning Committee which is putting together a county solid waste management plan. According to the letter, Boyne and other communities must notify the waste planning panel by Jan. 28 if and how they will fit into the plan. The state law under which the plan is being developed says all communities included in the proposal must be licensed, hold a construction permit or have a signed schedule of how they will comply with regulations. Boyne has none of these documents. Invited to meet with the commission are Larry Sullivan of the county planning commission and Art Cadan of the DNR. "I leave with mixed emotions," Hayes said, adding he has much respect for the people he has worked with in the city. "East Jordan has been fortunate in its mayors, council people and city employees." "They have had problems — not all the fault of any particular person — but they have dealt with them in an honest way. I think that's very important."

He can't find a volunteer job

EAST JORDAN - Larry Allen was sentenced to work in community service, but he has been unable to get a volunteer job. Allen took his problem to the city council Jan. 5 when Raymond Nemechek spoke in his behalf. Allen, arrested last August in the county-wide drug bust, has been trying since he was sentenced nine weeks ago to offer his services to the city street department. His offer has met with no success even though his labor would be free. Nemechek, Allen's brother-in-law, addressed Bill Breakey of the street department: "What's he going to do?"

He asked to put in the hours. He's got one year to do it, but he can only do it after working hours." Breakey responded that the winter season is a hard time to keep full-time employees busy, and he didn't have any work to give away. Besides, Breakey said, there were insurance problems. Nemechek said Allen "would shovel sidewalks, help supervise the skating rink - anything." Breakey said he could give Allen work later — in the spring. Finding Allen had no papers to show what he must do to meet the requirements of his sentence, city superintendent Mike Dionne said he would check it out with the district court. Allen later said others who had received similar sentences were confused about how they should go about it. Sixty people were arrested on drug sale charges in the county-wide sweep. The final 11 were scheduled for sentencing Jan. 13.

Record missed at Big Rock

An unplanned shutdown has kept the Big Rock Point nuclear power plant from moving into second place for consecutive days of operation. The reactor was shut down Thursday when a reset switch failed. That meant only half the safety system was functioning, so the operator took steps to turn off the reactor, said Phil Loomis, public relations director for the plant. Officials hoped to have the plant back in operation late Tuesday or early Wednesday, Loomis said. While a small amount of air leaked through "scram valves," Loomis said there was no danger at any time to workers or the public. The longest any nuclear power plant has operated is 392 consecutive days. While Big Rock engineers had not intended to try to reach that mark set at the Maine Yankee plant, they had hoped to reach 365 days before refueling. When Big Rock generated electricity for 343 days in 1976-77, it set the record up until that time. It was within four days of matching that mark when it was shut down Thursday.

Mrs. Hugh Graham celebrated her 80th birthday on New Year's day. Her children, Mary Wilson from Coldwater, Jean Dufresne from Benton Harbor, Jane Mayhew and Don Graham from East Jordan were here with their families. It was a surprise gathering with other relatives. Eleven grandchildren, five great-grandchildren and some neighbors dropped in. Mrs. Graham received many cards from Florida, their winter home. One card had 52 names on it. She also had a telephone call and flower arrangement from her daughter Lois Nelson from San Diego.

Over the holiday, Douglas Dougherty had as his guest his sister Janet Kiger and her three children and Mel Adams.

Michelle Dougherty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Du Wayne Dougherty Sr., was apatient in Charlevoix Area Hospita over the weekend. Mrs. DuWane Dougherty received work of her great uncle Louis Shapton's death Sunday morning. He had been a patient at Charlevoix Area Hospital since Christmas Eve.

Nora and Stacy Barrow have returned to Milwaukee after spending the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Barrow.

Happy birthday to these patients at Grandvue: Pearl Thompson, Agnes Woodcock, Joes Brotherston, Rena Lombard and Lillian Hampton.

The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints of East Jordan has named officers for 1982. They are: branch president Gilbert Fox, counselors Mercer Corey and Ted Mockerman, treasurer Cliff Pierce, secretary Darlene Renkewic, director of music Sharon Pierce, women's leader Pat Dunson, youth leader Darlene Renkewic, young adults Kathy and Howard Zoet, senior adults Ted Mockerman, religious ed director Bonnie Fox, publicity Helen Sparks, custodian Bill Dunson, librarian and book steward Ted Mockerman, solicitor Jerry Olson, auditors Bud Barnes and Thelma McKinnon.

The seventh grade Sunday School class at United Methodist Church in East Jordan has begun a clown ministry. They presented their Christmas program to the patients at Grandvue.

The first grade scout troop presented the "Christmas Spirit of Peace" under the direction of Michelle Boss. There was also the standard nativity presented by Troop 306. Troop 288 presented a puppet show created by their leader, Charlotte Mills.

This was followed by "Santa Claus is Coming to Town" presented by Troop 287. A candlelight investure was held by Troop 284.

"Santa Makes a Change" was presented by Troop 282. Each girl presented Santa with a different custom. Troop 271 sang "We Wish You a Merry Christmas." The winner of the Christmas tree presented by the Senior Girl Scouts was the Don Atchinson family.

The Girl Scouts will hold a dance for fifth and sixth graders at the Elementary School on Friday, Jan. 15 from 7 to 9 p.m.

HARRIET URMAN

Manager for bank

BOYNE CITY Harriet Uрман has been appointed manager of the Country Star Plaza office of Northwestern State Bank. She replaces Jennie Tomkins, who is retiring Jan. 8 after 20 years with the bank. Uрман has been with Northwestern for 18 years. She started in the bookkeeping department and recently has been head teller and administrative assistant at the downtown Boyne City office.

Ask the lawyer: Can S&L enforce clause?

BY LAWRENCE D. KORN
Q. - I wish to sell my house on land contract. There is a clause in my note and mortgage that says that I must first get the approval of my savings and loan association before I sell the property, otherwise they can foreclose on my mortgage. Since I will be making all of the mortgage payments, this doesn't seem right. Can the savings and loan association enforce this clause?
A. - Many of the banks and savings and loans associations have been insisting that their notes and mortgages be renegotiated with a higher interest when the mortgagor sells the mortgaged property. Frank Kelley, Michigan's attorney general, is disputing the right of the banks and savings and loan associations to enforce this note and mortgage provision. There also has been litigation in the courts seeking to hold such clauses unconstitutional. In recent months, some sellers have sold their property on land contract and not notified the banks or mortgage companies. You would be taking a risk to do so, since your mortgagee might foreclose on your note and mortgage. The banks and savings and loan associations get notice of a sale when they receive a notice that there has been a change in insureds on an insurance policy, or a notice from the county or city treasurer that someone new is paying the taxes. Since the issues raised are very complex and changing from day to day, I would suggest that you see a real estate lawyer. Q. - My father died three years ago, leaving property. How would I go about having the property transferred over to the children?

A. - You would have to file a petition in the probate court of the county the property is in listing the heirs and asking for the appointment of yourself, or one of the other heirs, as personal representative for the estate, and then list that property as an asset. If all of the heirs file "consents," the property might be transferred without the necessity of a formal hearing.

Dorothy Nowland hosted a noon luncheon at her home on Friday for the Laff-A-Lot Club, followed by games of Bunco. Juanita Miller won the high prize, with Myra Kurtz getting low and Ina Oliver getting Bunco. Their next meeting will be at the home of a new member Vivian Russell.

An all-day evangelism workshop was held Saturday at the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints, led by Greg Page of Mt. Pleasant, who also had the Sunday morning worship service.

A family get-together was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A.C. Fineout in honor of daughter Rose Ann Jepsen's New Year's birthday. Some of those attending were Rose Ann's husband Dane, Mandy and Holli, Marion and Bill Lanz of Portland, their son Scott and Karen of Lyons, Jan and Jim Fineout of Engadine and their children Terri and Jeff, who had been visiting their dad for a couple of weeks, Helen and Larry Fineout, Jackie and Jim Bates, Phyllis Bates and children Jackie, Gabe and Jenny, Bob McGee of Charlevoix and Jean Fineout.

Lowell Aimesbury is a patient at Bon Secours Hospital, 468 Cadieux St., Room 358, Bed B, Grosse Pointe 48225.

Mary and Paul Karl and daughter Amy of Climax were here over the weekend visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spencer and to ski.

Mrs. Jim Pearson, Janet Pearson and Russell MaGee were some of those from Boyne City to attend the funeral on Thursday for Clark Fraley in Sterling Heights. Mrs. Louise Magee returned to her home over the weekend after having been a medical patient at NMH for the past two weeks.

Several people of the Chandler Hill area received invitations to the wedding of former resident Peggy Curry, daughter of Connie Fraley, who married Douglas Sanford in Marquette on Jan. 2, but were unable to attend due to the weather.

Glenn Hardy spent the weekend in East Jordan visiting Dave Thompson and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Garth Bryan, wintering in Arizona, and Pat and Virginia Bryan were among those here to attend the funeral of Garth's mother Mrs. Florence Bryan on Tuesday.

Mrs. Esther Welch returned home over the weekend after spending the past two weeks visiting relatives in New Jersey and Mt. Pleasant.

Zella Stewart, Bee Howard and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hammond and daughter and Bud Gallop were among those from the area to attend the annual Beef Breeders business meeting and dinner held at the Holiday Inn in Gaylord on Saturday.

Wasylewski named Hudson supervisor

HUDSON TOWNSHIP Frank Wasylewski is the new township supervisor. Wasylewski was appointed by the township board to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Ron Czinski. His appointment was approved 3-1 by the board of trustees with his wife Joan abstaining. Wasylewski is the township's zoning administrator and has served on the tax assessment board of review. He will have to resign from the zoning post.

He is also a member of the committee setting up the township fire department.

Wasylewski aided Czinski in property assessments. The township supervisor is also its assessor. Czinski's resignation was effective Dec. 31.

Wasylewski's term ends with the November 1982 general election.

Local seed agent named

Thomas Bacon of East Jordan has been named as the local dealer for Stauffer Seeds, a hybrid seeds producer.

Bacon will assist area growers with hybrid seed corn, sunflower and alfalfa.

Clarification: No formal request

Last week's editorial on the county's protest against the Big Rock siren system asked Consumers Power Co. had not asked Charlevoix County to pay maintenance costs.

While the board did not receive a formal request from the utility, it had been Consumers' intention to make such a request, according to plant public relations director Phil Loomis. At a Nov. 9 briefing at the plant on the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's order that the system must be installed, Consumers' officials told representatives of the county they were going to ask for aid in maintaining the system.

That formal request was not made before the county board approved a resolution Nov. 24 stating they did not want the system installed on county property and did not think it was needed.

The utility then decided it would assume all maintenance costs. The county dropped its objection Dec. 30.

Erwin-Shepard rites held in Ga.

Deborah Lynn Erwin and James Allan Shepard were wed Dec. 19 in Marietta, Ga. The groom is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shepard of East Jordan and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Krulik of Charlevoix. The parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Erwin of Decatur, Ill. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Allan C. Shepard of Marietta. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Evan A. Abbott of the Smyrna Baptist Church. Wayne Goins, of Gas City, Ind., was best man. He is a friend of the groom. Dorothy LaBoy of Marietta, a friend of the bride, was maid of honor. The groom's sister, Lisa, was bridesmaid, while the groom's brother, Richard, was ring bearer. Iris LaBoy was flowergirl. The couple will live in Marietta where the bride is employed by MacDonald's and the groom by Smyrna Hospital.

Cooking

with Bea Smith

Here is a quick and nourishing meal to make for your family when you're too busy to fix a big lunch.

MAKE-A-MEAL SANDWICHES

- Deviled ham or luncheon meat
- Bread
- Butter
- Dijon-type mustard
- A few slices of onion sauted lightly in margarine, mayonnaise or salad dressing
- Sliced American cheese or grated cheddar cheese
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup milk; if more than 2 large sandwiches, double the milk and eggs.
- Dash of salt and pepper
- Make sandwiches with bread, butter, meat, mustard, onion, cheese and salad dressing. Beat egg with milk, salt and pepper. Dip the sandwiches in the milk mixture and fry like French toast. Serve hot.
- Make sandwiches like above but with a tuna fish salad mixture and fry the same way.

My friend, Lillian Biggs, sent me this luscious pie recipe which she received from her daughter-in-law, Jen. Lillian says, "Jen is a gourmet cook. All the gals of her bridge club raved over this when she served it."

FROST ON THE PUMPKIN PIE

- Crust:
- 1 1/4 cups (18 squares) graham cracker crumbs
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/2 cup melted margarine
- 1/8 teaspoon cloves
- Filling:
- 1 can sour cream-vanilla or vanilla frosting supreme
- 1 cup sour cream
- 1 cup pumpkin
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves
- 8 oz. carton (3 1/2 cups) frozen whipped topping, thawed.
- Heat oven to 350 F. In small bowl, combine all crust ingredients. Stir. Reserve 2 tablespoons crumbs for topping, press remaining crumbs over bottom and sides of a 9- or 10-inch pie pan. Bake 6 minutes. Cool.
- In large bowl, combine all filling ingredients except whipped topping; beat 2 minutes at medium speed, fold in 1 cup whipped topping, pour into crust. Spread remaining whipped topping over filling, sprinkle with the 2 tablespoons reserved crumbs. Refrigerate at least 4 hours or overnight. Store in refrigerator.

Hospital to sponsor stop smoking clinic

Charlevoix Area Hospital is sponsoring a five-day Stop Smoking Clinic beginning Monday, Jan. 18, at 7:30 p.m. The program, open to anyone in the area, will be held Monday through Friday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. The session will be held in Charlevoix Area Hospital's classrooms on the lower level of the new wing.

Raymond Hamstra and Gary Russell, both experienced leaders of similar clinics around Michigan, will lead participants through the process of quitting smoking.

Hamstra has conducted over 40 clinics in the Detroit area for the American Cancer Society and Michigan Cancer Foundation.

Russell holds a master's degree in public health and has considerable experience conducting stop-smoking clinics. Each participant will be given a booklet containing daily specific suggestions for dealing with the desire for a cigarette. Participation will be limited to approximately 40 participants.

Those wishing to join the group should register by Friday, Jan. 15, by calling the Charlevoix Area Hospital switchboard at 547-4024. There is a fee.

East Jordan Council Minutes

East Jordan City Council met in regular session Tuesday, January 5, 1982 at 7:30 p.m. Mayor Nemecek presiding and all members present.

Minutes were approved, authorization was given to pay $57,756.57 in bills as presented and the necessary transfers were made.

Mayor Nemecek made appointments for the new year: Ambulance Administrator Hammond gave his report for the year showing 337 runs in 1981; only one bid was received for the old dump truck and rejected as too low; visitors appeared before Council to complain about the Police Department, to ask about "Public Service Jobs", to request that old Chemical road be snowplowed, and the Chamber of Commerce announced that a Snow Festival will be held January 16th and 17th in East Jordan.

Announcement was made that the Original Michigan Fiddlers' Association will be at the Civic Center January 16.

Attorney Hayes offered his resignation effective whenever a replacement is named; a vote of Thanks was extended to Robert Strehl for his service as Airport Manager; the west portion of Glen's Market property was rezoned from C-1 Commercial to R-3 Residential with a reverter clause if construction is not started within one year; and action on P.A. 495 of 1980 regarding the withholding of a portion of Fire Insurance payment until clean-up repair of damage is done, was tabled to next meeting.

Committee meetings were scheduled for the following: Street Committee 4:00 p.m., January 6, 1982 and Police Committee 7:00 p.m., January 8, 1982. The meeting adjourned about 10:30 p.m. A copy of the official minutes of the above meeting are posted at the City Hall for perusal during normal working hours.

Fern L. Morris, CMC City Clerk

Boyne City stretches victory string to 6 with 2 wins

The Ramblers extended their winning streak to six games with victories over Onaway and Gaylord last week. Their record is now 7-1 over all.

Wednesday at Onaway, Boyne grabbed a 20-17 first-quarter lead, increasing it to 41-34 at the half.

In the second half, the Ramblers continued to pull ahead, holding a third quarter lead of 60-50 and an 80-62 advantage at the buzzer.

Coach Bob Taylor was pleased with his team's performance in their first game after the holiday vacation.

Brian Vroman paced Boyne With 26 points and 20 rebounds.

John Tompkins tossed in 21 points and grabbed 19 rebounds. Brad Musser added 15 points and Shawn Aimesbury had 7.

Saturday night, the Ramblers traveled to Gaylord to defeat the Blue Devils 68-48.

Boyne led throughout the game, with quarter scores of 21-14, 35-26 and 51-38.

Vroman played another excellent game, scoring 30 points and bringing down 17 rebounds.

Tompkins had a fine night on the boards, with 25 rebounds and 12 points. Brad Musser put in 12 points and Corey Fish added 7 points and 10 rebounds.

As a team, the Ramblers hit 15 or 20 from the free throw line.

Taylor praised the team's defense, as they held Gaylord to only 48 points.

The coach said Aimesbury and Rickard "did a super job on defense," and junior Kevin Fitzpatrick "has been coming on strong." Boyne hopes starter Ken Wilson will be recovered from an injury in time to play in Friday's home game against the strong and tall Cheboygan team.

The Ramblers may have problems underneath the bucket when they face the Chiefs three big men at 6-foot-11, 6-foot-7 and 6-foot-5.

Alanson defeats Loggers

The Loggers met the toughest team in their league Saturday night, when they traveled north to take on Alanson.

The speedy Vikings had little trouble with the Loggers, as they ran away with a 73-37 victory.

The big difference on the scoreboard came from Alanson's repeated fast breaks, as the Vikings led 24-4 at the end of the first period and 45-14 at half-time.

"They have a very quick outfit," admitted Logger coach Dale Reinhardt. "Actually, our offense looked better than it has in past games, but they were so fast and their break really hurt us."

Most of the Logger scoring came from Tim Smith, who made 27 of the team's 37 points and grabbed 9 rebounds. Norm Mahanke brought down 7 rebounds.

State Bank and Trust Company and Uncle Sam can help you accumulate your First Million Dollars!

It's hard to believe. But it's true.

The money invested in a State Bank IRA is tax-deferred.

That means there are no taxes on your contribution until you begin to make withdrawals at retirement. Even then, you'll only pay taxes on the amount withdrawn each year.

Best of all, your contribution is deducted from your gross earnings. So the taxes you would have paid will earn interest instead, year after year after year.

That's why the new State Bank IRA is the most exciting savings plan we've ever been able to offer.

Introducing the new State Bank IRA.

(Individual Retirement Account)

Here are the basics:

- *Anyone can open a State Bank IRA, regardless of any other retirement plan currently in effect.
- *You can invest up to $2,000 a year or 100% of your wages—whichever is less.
- *If your spouse is working, he or she can also invest up to $2,000 a year.
- *You can contribute annually, monthly, weekly, or any other way that fits your budget. But remember, the sooner you begin, the faster your interest begins to build.

Now it's up to you.

If you're 25, 35, 45, 55, even 65—or somewhere in between—stop by the main office of State Bank & Trust Company or call 347-5050 and ask for Marshall A. Lincoln, Assistant Vice President. He can help you plan for a very comfortable retirement.

There is a substantial interest and tax penalty for early withdrawal prior to age 59½. But the benefits of an IRA have never been better or available to more people.

After all, it's our job to help you invest your money wisely—today and for the future.

The State Bank IRA.

It's the kind of service you'd expect from State Bank & Trust Company of Petoskey.

How to dress for cross-country skiing

"Many people confuse a simple cross-country ski tour with an arctic expedition," says Lee Allaben, former president of the National Ski Touring Operators Association.

"They wear enough for several skiers and end up looking like a human clothes rack soon after they start skiing."

Even in its most relaxed form, he notes, cross-country skiing generates a good deal of body heat and moisture. Too much clothing traps body heat and moisture, leaving skiers flushed, hot and sweaty.

"It's best to dress with several layers of light clothing that can be easily taken off or put back on," he says. "That way you can adapt to changes in body temperature and weather as your skiing tempo and the day change."

Allaben also advises making sure you have adequate clothing to put back on when you stop to rest along the trail. A general X-C wardrobe might include:

- A knit wool hat.
- A cotton-polyester blend turtleneck.

--A wool sweater. (Even when wet, wool insulates.)

--A windbreaker, either a nylon knit or cotton-polyester blend that "breathes," is wind resistant, and shed snow.

--Loose pants or knickers. Nylon knit, cotton poplin or polyester blends are good because they're wind resistant, and shed snow. A pair of good jogging suit pants often work well.

Blue jeans and light corduroys are absorbent, not wind resistant and are often cut too tightly to allow comfortable unrestricted motion. They also ice up easily around the cuff.

--Knicker socks or gaiters. Knicker socks should have a smooth texture to keep snow from clinging and balling. Gaiters (cotton poplin shells that wrap around your ankles and lower leg) are an excellent way to keep snow out of your ski boots.

--Long underwear. This may prove too hot on a warmer day or if you are a particularly active skier.

--Gloves or mittens. Wool mittens give you some warmth, even if wet.

--A day pack is a useful cross-country ski accessory. You can carry all the clothes you take off and then put back on because of variations in your body temperature caused by changes in the weather and your skiing pace.

It's also an excellent place to keep your lunch and other necessities you want to carry.

Ski touring: A different kind of experience

There are two kinds of skiing: Alpine (downhill) and nordic (a.k.a., ski touring or cross-country.)

Ski touring also has been called "the quiet sport" because of its peaceful, more relaxed—some might say serene—approach, the back-to-nature aspect of the sport.

No lifts. No motors. No noises except the whoosh, whoosh as ski tourers glide over old logging trails or through the woods on specially cut cross-country trails, or maybe along a rolling course set on a nearby golf course.

"If you can walk," goes one ZC axiom, "you can cross-country ski." The parallels are obvious: nordic skiing, at its basic point, is simply walking and gliding on skis.

A nordic ski is more narrow than an alpine ski and the binding is different.

XC bindings hold the toe to the ski while the heel lifts as it does in a natural walking movement (alpine bindings secure the boot to the ski).

Using his or her poles to maintain momentum, a ski tourer can break easily into a longer glide with each step, quickly catching the rhythm of the stride 'n glide sport.

Whereas alpine skiers duck back into a base lodge for lunch or a snack, XC skiers usually bring their own meals or munchies, in a backpack or, more likely, in a fanny pack, belted at the waist.

They can stop along the trail for a spontaneous picnic, similar in many ways to spring skiing picnics at alpine ski areas.

Take the children skiing

Ski areas are well aware that children-their instruction and their care-are a vital consideration in skiing families.

The industry has made giant strides from the days when a ski instructor wound up riding herd on a pack of toddlers in some remote corner of the base lodge.

The need for professional, qualified nursery programs is a primary consideration at ski resorts, certainly any area which hopes to focus on family business.

Most ski areas have a nursery or day care center where children may be left for a morning or a day while skiing parents hit the slopes; some nurseries even have more than a babysitting service, offering ski instruction to their own-or the area's-junior program.

Generally speaking, ski school directors agree the average child of 4 or 5 is a quick-to-learn skier.

He or she has good balance, can understand the instructor (through imitation if the vocabulary is mystifying) and usually has a positive attitude, being willing to "Try and try again."

Basically, one reason for kids' quick success in learning to ski is because they simply want to have fun. They enjoy riding the lifts and they try to get down the hill as fast as possible so they can ride back up. And they aren't as fearful of falling as adults.

Children who are 3 or 4 years old might prefer to sit and eat snow, or throw it, than ski on it but, given a chance to develop at their own pace, they do quite nicely.

The key is not to rush kids; let them learn to enjoy snow, then they'll learn to enjoy skiing.

A youngster's introduction to skiing should always be done with a fun approach, possibly with other children of the same age.

It might help to remember that at an early age, a month one way or the other could make a great deal of difference on a child's muscle strength and body coordination.

Don't rush the sport for kids.

With various climbing and sliding games, under close supervision of a ski instructor specially trained to work with young children, kids soon take short slides for themselves, maybe aided by an outstretched hand or a rope around the waist.

Here's how to protect your investment in skiwear

Ski clothes can be fun. Their colors, styles, tailoring and gadgetry create excitement for the sport.

But a ski wardrobe is also an investment.

Ski clothes are sturdy, functional and built to last. With a little extra thought for the care of your ski garments, you will get the largest return on your investment. Here are some suggestions for washing and caring for ski clothes.

Each garment, by law comes with specific laundering instructions, most often appearing on a label sewn inside.

Take time to read and follow these. With all the new fabrics, and especially insulations, individual care will maximize the life of your garment.

Down parkas and vests are best machine washed and dried. It's a good idea to wash garments separately in a mild detergent, turning the garment inside out and making sure all snaps are snapped and zippers zipped.

Tumble dry clothes at a low setting, again with zippers and snaps shut tight.

Throw in a few tennis balls or a clean sneaker while the garment is drying to puff up the loft and keep the down from settling in clumps.

If you should remove the parka or vest from the dryer and find it's still damp, hang overnight and fluff up the clumps with your fingers after the garment has completely dried.

As a rule, dry cleaning down garments isn't a good idea—repeated dry cleaning can damage and break down the fibers, causing the down to lose its life and loft.

Dry cleaning fluids can also wear down the waterproof coating used on many shell fabrics.

If the label inside your garment does read "dry cleaning permissible," be sure the cleaner uses only a non-chlorinated, petroleum-based solvent.

Labels should also be followed for laundering insulated pants, bibs, parkas, suits and garments with high-loft polyester insulations.

If the label says to machine wash and dry, follow the instructions given above (you can eliminate the tennis balls). To protect trims and details, it's often a good idea to wash and dry the garments inside out.

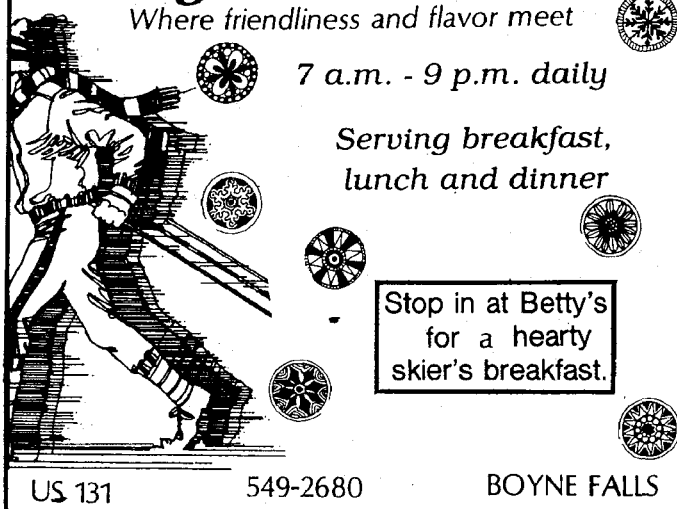

Sweaters, if the label does not read "dry clean only," should be hand washed separately in cool water with a mild soap to keep colors bright, then rolled in a towel and afterward dried flat to keep their shape.

The same is true of knit hats. Cotton and cotton/poly T-necks are best machine washed and dried.
