

Sentenced to work, but jobs are hard to find

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

Thirty people sentenced to donate a total of 3,000 hours of work to agencies of their choice have had problems working off their sentences.

The people—arrested in the August county-wide drug bust and sentenced in Charlevoix County Circuit Court—have encountered rebuffs in their offers of free labor.

In East Jordan, city superintendent Mike Dionne began a search for answers nearly two months ago when one offender brought his difficulties to a city council meeting.

Dionne said the circuit court has no program yet. "No guidelines set up."

By contrast, he explained, the district court does have arrangements. One of the hang-ups most often mentioned by agencies—insurance coverage—is apparently taken care of by the court.

Dionne said he was told the district court has its own insurance programs to cover the problem if a volunteer was hurt on the job.

He said the court's guidelines say that having the volunteer's service does not entitle the agency to be involved as an employer.

Dionne is enthusiastic about the work service idea. "We're very pleased with the activities we have scheduled now," he said, and added they were looking forward to having another volunteer.

He said, "Instead of putting people (in jail) where it's a burden to the taxpayers, the taxpayers benefit, the worker benefits, and we derive a bit, too, over the cost of supervision."

At the Sheriff's Department, Corrine Russell, jail administrator, said it costs around $36 a day to keep someone in jail. Of course, the figure would vary quite a bit, she said, depending on how many were in jail at a time.

The jail holds a maximum of 25 people, she said.

The idea of work service sentencing as an alternative to a jail sentence when a fine cannot be paid originated with Sheriff George Lasater.

Lasater said about eight years ago, when he was a probation officer, he initiated the program, although at that time it had another name.

The present district court probation officer, Laurie Howell, said she tries to link the person with a work service sentence to a volunteer job in that person's community.

They don't have to work, she said. The choice is theirs. But, afterwards, she said, "they usually feel good about it as opposed to sitting in jail."

Offenders have been allowed $10 a day on working off their fines, but the scale is being adjusted to the minimum wage level.

Howell said one church and the Humane Society have agreed to use the volunteer labor. She would welcome any community agency's call, she said.

Volunteers doing work service, she added, are screened by her office for suitability for the volunteer work.

While the district court offers the choice between work or jail when fines can't be paid, the circuit court sentences were different.

The work service sentences were stipulated. They were not given in place of fines.

In addition, the circuit court, as Dionne said, has not yet provided guidelines.

For example, Dionne said the district court program requires anyone doing a work service sentence inadequately must finish the sentence in jail.

While reports have circulated that people with work service sentences from the drug bust were being accepted for volunteer jobs with the Charlevoix Social Services Department,

Fun, learning at 'Olympics of the Mind'

Olympics of the Mind provided excitement and entertainment when seven teams competed for the honor of going to the regionals.

Designed to promote creative thinking, the Olympics included a brainstorming session, a design competition and original puppet shows—called "cruppet" shows, for "creative puppets."

The structural design involved use of one-half ounce of balsa wood, assembled to hold weights and to withstand "earthquakes."

Pictured are the second place winners who managed to accumulate 37 pounds on their structure before it was crushed.

Going to Traverse City will be the team whose structure held an unbelievable 82 pounds. Team members are Bill Lytle, Joe Kornowski, Jeff Gee, Tim Nietupski and Carl Knop.

Cruppeters going to Traverse City will be Greg Kretschmann, Ted Jeffery, Steve Gee, Max Gibbard and Dave Russell.

The East Jordan competition was held at the middle school.

Working with the students to put on the Olympics were parents Ann Johnston and Nancy Carey of the Unlimited Potential group.

Hearings on future recreation

Charlevoix County is trying to determine what kinds of recreational activities are desired by residents.

A county recreation plan is being put together by Mike Davis, director of the Charlevoix-Emmet Youth Activities Program, and county planner Larry Sullivan. Davis is a member of the State Recreation Advisory Committee and was Boyne City recreation director.

They hope to have the plan ready by early summer.

The main source of funds for facilities improvements, the federal Land and Water Conservation Fund, has been cut off at least for the time being, though, by the government. But Davis is keeping an eye on other possible sources that may materialize.

Some information has been gathered through a consumer survey conducted in the fall. Other data has been put together through inventories done by Davis and by the state Department of Natural Resources.

More is expected as public hearings are held throughout the county in the next few weeks. Times and sites for the hearings will be announced shortly.

Four hundred consumer survey questionnaires were sent at random to county residents in the fall. Davis used the 54 which were returned to chart the interests of residents.

The survey showed that 54 percent considered themselves active recreationists while 46 were passive.

Among those in the active category were 23 percent (of the total, not just of the actives) whose primary participation was in competitive sports, 10 percent in winter related activities, 9 percent swimmers, 9 percent watercraft users and 3 percent shooting sport participants.

Among the passives the responses were 14 percent (again, of the total) view events, 12 percent view sites, 9 percent land mobile, 7 percent fishing and 4 percent arts and crafts.

The planners have also determined which units of government provide the facilities which residents use. School and private facilities have not yet been included in the data.

The cities and villages provide more than half the facilities (52.2 percent). The state Department of Natural Resources provides 41.6 percent (parks division 25.2; forest management division 16.2 and public access site division 2); the county 3.4 percent and the townships 2.8 percent.

Only facilities listed by governmental units which responded to either a DNR or county request were included. Many units did not respond at all, Davis noted. Information on their facilities will be included following the hearings in all 15 townships and three cities. Eighty-five percent of all competitive sport facilities were provided by the cities and villages. Nine percent were township-operated and six percent were county-operated. These facilities were such things as ball diamonds, tennis courts, golf courses, etc.

One hundred percent of the winter-related facilities were run by the cities and townships. These facilities were ice rinks, sledding hills and ski hills.

The forest management division operates 73 percent of the trails, while the cities and villages run 20 percent. The other two percent were split between the parks division and the townships.

The parks division operates 89 percent of the camping site, while the county operates 10 percent and the townships one percent.

Fifty-six percent of the water-related facilities are operated by the cities and villages, while the parks division runs eight percent.

Good and bad news: 110 'new' jobs at UT, jobless rate at 24.7%

Charlevoix County's unemployment rate slid up to 24.7 percent in January, according to figures from the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

There has been some good news on the local labor front, though, as United Technologies Automotive Group has recalled 70 laid off workers and plans to hire 40 more.

The rehired workers—who were laid off at Christmas time—will not show up in MESC reports until the March figures are released, since they have returned to work since the end of February.

The county's jobless rate was 21.4 percent in December. January numbers were released this week; February figures are expected in about 10 days.

The statewide jobless rate for January was 16.1 percent, up one-tenth of a percent from December. The national rate was 8.5 in January and 8.8 in February.

There were 2,250 people out of work in Charlevoix County during January, out of a work force of 9,125. In December there were 1,875 off work in a labor force of 8,775.

Presque Isle County in the northeastern corner of the lower peninsula had the highest rate—36.4 percent—during January.

Emmet County's January rate was 19.3 percent while Antrim's was 26.6 percent.

Although the state jobless rate is not quite at a record percentage, the total number of unemployed people hit a new high in February.

There were 684,000 people out of work in the state during that month, MESC figures showed. That was up 7,000 from January. (State figures are compiled differently than local ones and are released about a month earlier.)

The state's highest jobless rate was 16.7 percent in 1958.

The Upper Peninsula was the only one of the state's 13 major labor market areas that had a drop in unemployment during January. The rate in the UP fell from 17.0 percent in December to 16.2 in January.

The highest rate in a major market area (the areas around big cities and the UP) was Flint, where the rate was 21.8 percent in January.

The increased workforce at UTAG was attributed to a boost in demand for automotive parts the plant manufactures.

Dimmer switches, turn signals and other electro-mechanical parts are made at the Boyne City facility.

The plant has 283 full-time workers. With the 40 additional workers, it will be near its maximum employment level.

Shields backers meet EJ board

East Jordan residents upset with the sudden announcement that middle school principal Doug Shields will be out of a job in the fall were scheduled to address the school board Tuesday night.

More than 500 signatures had been gathered on petitions asking the board to retain Shields as high school principal, in place of Harry "Bud" Ashton.

The petitions cited Shields' seniority (more than any other district administrator) and his "ability to work effectively" with students, parents and teachers as reasons he should be high school principal.

The principal position is being eliminated as part of a reorganization which will do away with the middle school. Students will go either to the high school or elementary. Where the grade split will be has not yet been determined.

The petitions were scheduled to be presented by a committee made up of parents and students who attended a meeting March 12 to formulate a strategy for protesting the board's March 9 action.

Shields was also slated to appeal the board's decision in a closed meeting Tuesday night.

BC union rejects concessions; cops volunteer cut

Boyer City unionized employees have refused to open contract concession talks — while police officers have voluntarily negated a pay hike by cutting hours.

Members of Local 2759 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees voted unanimously March 15 not to reopen talks. The present union contract ends March 3, 1983.

Union president Lance Johnson, in a letter to the city commission, said: "Although we realize that our decision may result in indefinite layoffs that would have a devastating effect on basic services within the City of Boyne City, we feel that our group has already contributed more than its fair share in the struggle to hold down the cost of local government."

Johnson said "the politicians, the bureaucrats and the administrators continue to fatten themselves at the public trough" while field workers "make all the sacrifices."

In his proposed 1982-83 budget, city manager Tim Clifton said that without concessions from the union it might be necessary to lay off two street department workers in the summer and to lay off one water department worker and one wastewater department worker indefinitely.

Police department employees, meanwhile, have approved trimming hours from 44 to 40 per week. This, coupled with a 10 percent raise they were to receive based on 44 hours, leaves police officers with a $10 a year raise.

Dispatchers end up with a $3 to $13 pay loss over a year's time. Part-time dispatchers could lose up to $86 a year.

Chief John Talboys will cover for patrolmen who can not make their day shifts, thus reducing overtime to officers.

Talboys said the department employees decided among themselves to take the cut after he told them what kind of financial condition the city will be in during the fiscal year that begins May 1.

AFCME is disputing several items in the budget and statements which have been made in explaining those items.

The union does not agree with Clifton's explanation that non-union employees are receiving 10 percent raises to remain on parity with union workers. Union pay hikes for this year only amount to between 5.2 and 6.9 percent, Johnson said. Union workers received a 25-cent across-the-board raise March 3 and will receive 30-cent boosts on Sept. 3.

Clifton arrived at the 10 percent figure, he said, because the union will most likely receive a raise next March when the next contract goes into effect. In the past two years, he said, the union has received 10.5 and 10 percent hikes each year.

Johnson also questions the scheduled use of $100,000 in revenue sharing money for further sewer and water line work and renovation of Water Street. He said deferring $10,000 intended for purchase of gaslights would give the city enough money to offset any proposed concessions.

"Do we need the new lights now or do we need to repair potholed streets, leaking water and sewer lines throughout the community and properly maintain the sewage plant, thereby minimizing the risk of polluting our beautiful lakefront?" asked Johnson.

Other proposals in the budget questioned by the union include keeping the airport open in the winter, paying increased dues to the chamber of commerce, hiking fees paid to the city attorney and auditors and increasing the administrative service fee for the wastewater treatment plant. (Service fees are charged to self-sustaining departments which use the central administration to do their accounting, billing, payroll, etc.)

Petition drive seeks welfare limit

BY JIM SILBAR

If you are on welfare, or ADC, look out. Petitions are being circulated around the state to cut the amount of money you would get.

A campaign by the Save Our State committee has gathered over 25 percent of the signatures needed to place a welfare limitation proposal on the ballot Nov. 2.

The proposal seeks to hold payments for Aid to Dependent Children and General Assistance in Michigan to the average for similar programs in the five states closest to our borders. According to SOS, this could save the state at least $200 million, or about the amount the governor wants to cut from the budget.

Michigan is the third highest paying state in America, according to John G. Cross, University of Michigan economist who said the state was paying 52 percent above the national average for welfare benefits. And this was before our current unemployment crunch. The figure was from 1979.

According to figures released in January by Gov. Milliken's office, Social Services will account for 35 percent of the total state spending in the proposed 1983 budget. On the other hand, state funding for all levels of education will account for only 27.7 percent. Our lame-duck governor is proposing to cut $166.9 million from colleges and universities in order to help control the budget.

State Sen. Harry Gast of St. Joseph commented that "We've got to get our house in order. Our investment in our children's future is being threatened by our state's growing welfare system."

He added, "This proposal only asks that taxpayers get treated with the same sense of fairness as welfare recipients."

Gast introduced a bill in the legislature in 1982 to limit welfare benefits to the average of surrounding states, but the bill has never come out of committee to be acted upon.

The SOS committee is seeking to get 230,000 signatures on the petitions to put the issue on the ballot. They seem to think the drive is gathering momentum as tax notices and tax deadlines are making taxpayers more aware of the costs of government.

Locally, petitions may be hard to find. But I am sure someone is looking for people to commit themselves to try to hold down welfare costs.

A horse or a wife?

How to get married without a fist fight.....

Back in nineteen ought something, my dad could not decide whether to buy a horse or get married. He was running a little grocery store in north Boyne where friends hung around, picking at the cracker barrel.

The indecision about his personal life moved him to discuss it with his friends. Some favored the horse while others claimed that his curious behavior was proof that he was in much need of a wife. An argument broke out and, like the quarrelsome lumberjacks they were, they began slugging each other. My dad said it was the worst horse and wife fight Boyne City ever saw.

The horse people cleaned up on the wife people, but my dad decided to get married anyway.

Through the years that followed men became more sophisticated. Single businessmen learned to compromise. Today, they merely got out and get a wife who will work like a horse.

Last fall we saved $8,000 by not buying a Chevrolet. In February we saved $2,000 by not going to Hawaii; and just last week we saved $16,000 by not buying a Cadillac. Now we're giving some thought to saving $100,000 by not buying a condo in Florida. I have no idea how we are going to quit this habit of saving so much money. Just yesterday my wife saved 10 cents with a newspaper coupon she used to buy some toothpaste.

A friend of mine who was once an English teacher sued for a girl's hand and lost. She married another. When they were divorced my friend was winked at by his former love. This happened to him more than once with the divorced women always saying they should have married him in the first place.

"I can't stand it," the frustrated English teacher raved. "It's always he before me except after she."

It was the first time in my life that I understood a man without knowing what he said.

"What's that stuff out there?" I asked my wife.

"Where?"

"Come, look out the window. See, right over there."

"You nut," she said. "That's grass, where the snow melted."

"Grass! I'll be darned. I'd plumb forgot we had grass."

A lady, who reads this column, called to ask how I reached the dizzy heights of wisdom.

Dizzy Heights? I had never heard of the place and was curious. So I asked around. I was told that you go to Boyne Falls, follow the Thumb Lake road and then veer off on Camp Ten road and you run right into it.

So I did. But I didn't run into anything. I stopped at a farm house to ask how to get to Dizzy Heights and was told that I was the third fool who had passed their house since breakfast.

Imagine getting out there in the boondocks only to discover that you are a.....

Oh, oh. I'm sorry. Nature just moved in forcing me to chop this thing off. Quick!

Cheerleader coaches thank community

Editor,

As the coaches of the cheerleaders at Boyne City High School, we would like to thank the many people of the community who have supported our girls for the 1981-82 school year.

So often cheerleading is not recognized as a sport and is very often ignored as a very important part of our athletic program. Cheerleading has drastically changed in the past five to 10 years with more ability being portrayed in mounting and gymnastic ability. We feel very fortunate to be a part of this new "generation" of cheerleading. Our girls have shown an undetermined amount of dedication this past year, with total hours of practice time ranging from 4-12 hours per week. Placing first at regionals and 10th at state made these long hours of hard work worthwhile.

Special thanks to the Sports Boosters, Mr. Rich Kelly, Mr. John McGeorge, Mr. Dave Moyer, Mr. Ed Barden, Mr. Dan Houser, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Schlink and to all of the parents of these girls who supported us at the competitions.

We also thank the entire community for the support you have shown throughout the year and to the student body at Boyne City High School for their support by making signs for our girls to "fire up" and "to be the very best they can be."

Smiles and cheers of thanks to all of you.

Racquetball owner says 'thank you'

Editor,

I guess this is just a letter to thank everyone who patronized our restaurant, the Racquetball Restaurant.

For almost two years a few people in a town that needs quite a few things worked very hard to establish a business that everyone would say they were proud to have in their town.

I feel that we had reached this point or we were real close.

I also wanted to say that the three fire departments that were involved were fantastic. I've never seen men work together like these men did, not even in the army. They saved the rest of the block from going up in smoke.

The only thing that I've been thinking about for the last week is all the lunch crowds and all the friends that I've made. To all of you I would like to say thank you, and to my sister I want to say how sorry I am again.

The Home Energy Analysis: A Way to Save on Your Energy Bill.

The Home Energy Analysis is a new service provided by Consumers Power Company, under guidelines from the Department of Energy and State of Michigan. Its purpose is simple: to help you identify specific things that add to your energy bill and the steps you can take to reduce the amount of energy you use.

The Home Energy Analysis costs only $10 and it will show you how to use less energy. You'll even get a do-it-yourself energy saving starter kit.

To arrange for your personal home analysis, call your local Consumers Power office. And then before long...

ON THE DAY CHARLEY HAD HIS HOME ENERGY ANALYSIS...

...THE AUDITOR COLLECTED DATA ON HIS HOUSE FROM TOP TO BOTTOM...

...CHECKING INSULATION, AND SPACE AND WATER HEATING SYSTEMS...

...THEN THE AUDITOR FED ALL THIS INFORMATION INTO A COMPUTER THROUGH CHARLEY'S TELEPHONE...

...AND THE COMPUTER SENT BACK A COMPLETE ENERGY ANALYSIS OF HIS HOME...

...THE AUDITOR WENT OVER THE ANALYSIS WITH CHARLEY POINT BY POINT, GAVE HIM ENERGY TIPS...

...AND LEFT HIM WITH DUCT TAPE, WEATHERSTRIPPING, AND A SHOWER RESTRICTOR TO REDUCE WATER FLOW...

...THE AUDITOR EVEN TOLD CHARLEY HE'D BE BACK IN A FEW MONTHS TO CHECK ON ANY WORK THAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN DONE...

...CHARLEY WAS VERY HAPPY—NOT ONLY BECAUSE NOW HE'D SAVE MONEY ON ENERGY FOR YEARS TO COME...

...BUT ALSO BECAUSE THIS WAS THE FIRST SHOWER RESTRICTOR HE'D EVER OWNED.

Watch for more information with your next Consumers Power energy bill. You'll save money on energy for years to come. We Can Help.

Two promotions have been announced at Northwestern State Bank. Judy Brabbs, left, of Boyne City has been appointed administrative officer of the Boyne branch. A bank employee since 1976, she has been executive secretary to the branch manager. Yvonne Price of Boyne has been appointed data processing officer in the computer department of the Boyne office. The three-year employee has been working in the bookkeeping department.

Boyne to buy new fire truck

Boyne City is going to buy a new fire truck. It probably will be close to a year before the city gets it. And the city commission hasn't decided yet how to pay for it.

Approval to seek bids from companies that make fire trucks was given by the city commission during a budget review session on Thursday, March 18.

The truck could cost as much as $75,000, city manager Tim Clifton estimates.

There is no money in the proposed budget to buy a fire truck — but there is $10,000 for purchase of new hoses.

Two methods of paying for the truck were discussed, but no decision was made.

One method would be financing it through a bank or other loan institution. The main drawback to this, Clifton said, was that the city could end up paying twice the cost of the truck because of high interest rates.

The second method would be to increase city taxes for a year to raise the money. The tax rate would have to be boosted by three mills ($3 per each $1,000 of assessed valuation of property).

The proposed budget has the same tax rate as the 1981-82 budget — 18.05 mills. Of that 16.22 is for operating expenses; the rest is to pay off bonds used for purchase of the city hall and for sewer line construction.

The city has a limit of 20 mills for operations that can be levied without a vote of the residents. A three-mill fire truck hike would remain within that 20-mill limit.

Commissioner Thelma Behling said she did not think taxes should be raised. Commissioner Marty Paul cast the lone 'no' vote on a motion to allow the administration to proceed with pre-purchase work. (Steve Moody was absent.)

The fire department wants to purchase a combination tanker-pumper to replace a 1965 tanker with a pump that broke down three times last year.

The new truck would have a 1,000-gallon per minute pump and 1,250-gallon tank. The old one has a 350-gallon per minute pump and a 1,000-gallon tank.

The city would be buying 1,000 feet of five-inch hose but the rest of the equipment on the old unit would be put on the new one.

Having the new truck would aid firefighters — one of whom told commissioners he did not trust the old pump to keep working while he was inside a burning building — and would help lower the city insurance rating.

Chief Butch Erber said the city now has a "high 7" rating (1 is best and 10 is worst on the rating scale).

Gary Drury popped in two free throws for the Rayders, then Wes Schroeder of Reed City Lakes; sophomore Ken Fitzek of Gaylord St. Mary's; seniors Cary Murch and Matt Knudstrup of Mancelona; and senior Mitch Kewaygeshek of Pellston.

Others receiving honorable mention were: Bellaire's Eric Stilwell, Steve Stoneburner and Dave Gregory; St. Mary's Dann Smith and Brian Shomach; Harbor Springs' Pete Kelbel,

With time running out, the Rayders had to foul to try to get the ball away from the Coyotes, but the strategy failed. Reed players sank five straight foul shots and it was all over.

The score was knotted at 32-32 midway
