Yule bar ruckus case is over: $100 fine for bar, officer cleared

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

Chuck's Place in East Jordan was fined $100 Monday, May 3, for serving drinks after 9 p.m. last Christmas Eve. The state liquor control commission handed down the decision on a police violation report, dated Dec. 29, 1981. The LCC dropped three other charges in the police report because of insufficient evidence. These charges were: selling to an intoxicated person, an intoxicated person consuming alcoholic beverage, and an intoxicated person loitering on the premise. Charles Sherk, owner of the bar, had given the city council a formal complaint on Jan. 19 on the police report, saying it was false in every respect. It was his second complaint. On Jan. 6 he had submitted a complaint on the officer's behavior in entering the bar Dec. 24.

On April 22, the Michigan Liquor Control Commission sent a hearing officer to Cheboygan County Courthouse to conduct a hearing on the police report. It was following this that the LCC hearing officer determined the fine of $100.

On April 27, another hearing was held; this one by the East Jordan city council police committee. After this hearing the committee dismissed the charges in Sherk's complaints except for those requiring the LCC decision, which had not yet been handed down. Only a few people attended the police committee open hearing. Sherk did not attend, although city attorney Roy Hayes said he had been invited. Chairman Al Joseph said one reason the investigation of Sherk's complaints had taken so long was that to find whether Officer Ron Malinowski was mentally unstable, as charged in the complaint, the committee had to obtain a professional opinion. The reason for the delay had not been made public because, under the open meetings act, it was a personnel matter, Hayes explained later.

"The professional source absolved the officer of any mental instability," Joseph said, adding, "This rules out that he is a danger to citizens (one of the other charges)."

To that, committeeman Cal Gotts added, "It was one person's opinion."

Another of Sherk's contentions was that Malinowski ordered all customers to vacate the premises. Joseph said, a February 1981 change in LCC rules said the doors now close at 9 p.m. on Christmas Eve and there could be no consuming after 9:30.

Actually, according to LCC district supervisor Kenneth Swathwood, questioned later by this paper, the rule that customers may remain for one half hour after the bar closes has been followed for over 15 years. The 9 o'clock closing hour has been a law for Christmas Eve for over 15 years.

By "closing hour," Swathwood said, the law means no more alcoholic beverages may be sold. The new rules, established in February 1981, do not alter these particular conditions, he said.

Noting that the entrance had been so close to nine as to be arguable, Gotts suggested at the committee hearing to Malinowski, who was present with his lawyer, that he could have come in at 9:20, for example.

Malinowski's lawyer, Mark Risk, said, "I think there was reasonable cause. Lights were on inside the bar. People were still going in."

According to Swathwood, it is legal for people to go in and out after 9 o'clock.

Committeeman Russ Dietrich said, "The other two bars were closed. It stood out like a sore thumb."

Risk pointed out that Malinowski did not enter for the purpose of closing the bar, but to find out what was going on. The altercation, he said, developed after he got in.

Malinowski added, "My intent was not to close the bar...I wasn't sure if there was a 9 o'clock closing. My book didn't say anything about 9:30..."

Joseph appeared at this point to disagree with Hayes on the right of the officer to close the bar. Joseph saying that he did.

Later, Swathwood stated, "The only people who can close a licensed establishment is the commission (MLCC) itself."

Actually, Malinowski had only insisted that the people in the bar had three minutes to get out, although according to the rule they had until 9:30.

Dietrich said, "He was wise. There could have been a ruckus."

Shortly after this, Jim Tomlinson, one of the witnesses that had been subpoenaed for the Cheboygan hearing, addressed the committee.

He said, "I take exactly the opposite—if he (Malinowski) had come in in a different manner, there would have been no ruckus..."

"The whole thing was so pointless. [Concluded on page 3]

Changes planned at theater

The Boyne Cinema will open this weekend for the summer — and some big changes are in the works.

The biggest change will be the addition of a bar for movie patrons, according to a theater spokesman. The theater is next to the Tannery and the Granary.

The entire interior of the theater is to be remodeled, the spokesman said. Seating will be removed so tables and booths can be installed.

A fully-enclosed patio will be constructed between the theater and the adjoining building so patrons can enjoy the night air before shows and during intermissions, the spokesman said.

Plans are to turn the facility into a dinner-theater, the spokesman said, with details to be worked out by August.

Owners plan to show first-run adult style movies and present concerts, then add the dinner-theater.

Efforts are underway to contract with a downstate theater group to produce plays for the dinner-theater.

The opening movie for the summer season is "Silent Rage." The theater has been dark, except for a few special events, during the winter.

Ole the Bo (Ivan Mills of East Jordan), left, is visited by boxcar-hitching days and lamented the passing of the era in Steam train Maury Graham, king of the hoboes, center, and which hoboes could live. Hafez (Al Zale). The three shared stories of their

Hobo king visits ailing duke

"The King of Hoboes is the only elected king in North America," said Steamtrain Maury, five times elected king of the hoboes.

Maury (whose last name is Graham, "but I never use it") was visiting his friend and fellow hobo, Ivan Mills, retired from hoboeing and living near East Jordan.

Mills, better known as Ole the Bo, was dubbed Grand Duke of Hoboes by King Maury in 1980 at the hobo annual convention.

Mills, however, because of ill health, was unable to attend the Britt, Iowa, convention.

"Hundreds of hoboes used to come, but it has dwindled to about 16 or 17 now," said Maury. "But thousands upon thousands come to watch. It's a festival, you know."

Maury is often invited to railroad festivals, "being a railroad man, myself," he smiled. He cooks hobo stew, and talks about safety and hobo matters. He also goes to schools and so on to talk. "Being king means you give service," he said.

He has hoboed for 16 years, starting when he had to leave home as a youngster. That was for four years.

He didn't hobo again until his two daughters were grown. And then only in the summertime. Winters he returns home to Toledo and Mrs. Graham.

"You have to do it at least five years to be a hobo," he said. "Know the wild foods. Know safety for riding trains." Hoboes aren't bums, he explained. They ride the rails without buying tickets, but they do work. The only thing is they like to keep moving.

Also visiting Ole the Bo was Hafez, another "knight of the road" from Flint. Hafez (real name, Al Zale) said he's done everything from life-guarding in Florida to working on irrigation ditches in the state of Washington.

The eyes of all three men would brighten at their recollections.

Hafez (for hay fever), also a Grand Duke, said he's been off the road for 25 years since he married his Patricia, "but I didn't lose the hankering—like him," and he nodded to Mills, who agreed he's been wanting to go for eight years, ever since he's been confined by his poor health.

Mills is cared for by his daughter Beverly Daniels, who is bookkeeper at East Jordan Family Health Clinic.

Although, as Zale said, hoboes are usually loners, Mills receives letters from fellow knights of the road, who make it their business to keep in touch with each other, especially with those who aren't well.

Mills said he hoboed steady from 1929 to 1940, beginning when he lost his job in the Depression and couldn't find another.

He married in 1941, and from then on worked locally, "driving truck for Howard Porter, working in the creamery, the foundry, the cement block works, and the tannery."

"Hoboes are an endangered species," said Maury. All three men wore the hobo trademark red bandana that relates them to the railroad world.

"Trains are more dangerous now," Maury went on.

"Roof walks are off," Zale said. "Box car doors are closed. They were the side-door Pullmans in the old days," he explained.

"I don't think there are 10 hoboes left," Maury said. Migrant workers, hippies, hitchhikers and such don't count, he said. According to hobo definition, hoboes are people who go from job to job, going by train only. Between times they usually camp out by a river or in the woods.

Maury added to that, "a love of outdoor living and of building a circle of friends. I belong to about 250 families," he said seriously. "That's the most valuable thing in the world."

Many hoboes are writers. Hemingway and London were hoboes, he said, and they were also tramps.

A tramp, he explained, is not a bum. A tramp is someone who walks between jobs.

"Ask an old newspaperman," he said. "He will tell you some of the best printers were the tramp printers. And there were tramp woodworkers and all kinds of skilled people. And they

Mushroom hunt this weekend

At 10 a.m. Saturday as many as 500 mushroom hunters will drive through downtown Boyne City on their way to an undisclosed location.

Their goal will be to find enough of the elusive morels to qualify for the finals on Sunday morning and a chance at up to $75 in prize money.

This is the 23rd year of the National Mushroom Festival sponsored by the Boyne Valley Lions and the Boyne City Area Chamber of Commerce.

While the main event of the festival is the annual mushroom hunting championship, there are other activities this weekend. These include a flea market, a carnival and special mushroom-oriented items at area restaurants and retail stores.

There will be two free clinics on how to identify morel mushrooms, described by Chamber executive director Kate Schafer as "a must for first-time hunters."

Schafer suggests that hunters attend the 8 a.m. clinic, then take their finds back to the 2 p.m. session to make sure they have the real thing.

While morels are among the easiest mushrooms to identify — because of their distinctive shape and pitted appearance — they have dangerous, poisonous kin, which must not be eaten.

Rod Courtright, director of the Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Service office, will conduct both clinics in the auditorium at Boyne City hall, 319 N. Lake.

Mogel growth requires warm temperatures and sufficient moisture. Local experts, Schafer said earlier this week, are hoping for one more warm spring rain before the weekend to ensure a good "crop."

But, as the official entry form says, "Due to the uncertainty of spring weather and the fact that the date of the contest has to be set far in advance, the Chamber of Commerce cannot be responsible for what Mother Nature might surprise us with from year to year."

Schafer is expecting as many as 500 hunters on Saturday. Many come from southern Michigan and Ohio and, Schafer said, the chamber each year gets calls from all over the U.S. for information about the hunt.

She has even gotten calls from New York restaurants wanting the names of people who might sell them the delicacies.

The competitors will have 90 minutes to gather their morels on the official "hunting grounds" which are not disclosed until that morning.

The top five finishers in each of four categories will return, at 10:30 a.m. Sunday for the finals and a shot at the $75 first prize, $50 second prize and $25 third prize in each class.

The four classes are resident men, non-resident men, resident women and non-resident women. Residents are those from Charlevoix, Antrim, Emmet, Cheboygan or Otsego counties.

Contestants must be between 10 and 60 years old. Those over 60 may compete if they have a doctor's certification that they are fit.

The contestants will have to work fast to approach the record set in 1973 by Stan Boris of Petoskey. Boris gathered 953 morels in 90 minutes.

A carnival, offering rides, games and concessions, will be operating in Veterans Memorial Park from Thursday through Sunday.

The flea market will be held in the park from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and from 10 to 4 on Sunday.

A complete festival schedule of events appears elsewhere in this issue.

Not working but not worthless

We went to the annual barbershop singing program at the high school Saturday night; and then we went to have a bite and a sip at the "After Glow." We didn't get home until the wee hours. It took me longer to rest up than it did to get tired. Wee hours have been doing that to me lately.

Carry a dictionary and fight the newspapers....

My friend said that reading the newspapers upsets him. "I wish they would quit saying that I'm unemployed and idle," he said.

"You are unemployed," I said. "No, I'm not," he said. "I looked it up. My dictionary says that if you are unemployed you are not occupied with an activity of a constructive nature. I've been using all my energies in a constructive nature searching for a paying position. I am self-employed. And I am not idle. I'm looking for a job every day."

He said that his dictionary describes an idle man as worthless, useless and at a standstill.

"I resent being called unemployed and idle," he said. "That's a reflection upon my character."

"What do you want the newspapers to call a person who has been laid off?" I asked.

"They could have said that 35 men were released from their positions, instead of throwing that unemployed and idle stuff at us."

"Whatever they say won't put any money in your pocket," I said.

"That's true," he said. "But they don't have to use words that make us look as though we ain't worth a damn just because we've been laid off."

It upsets me when I'm given something to think about that I've never thought about before.

Mark Twain took a paper bag, scratched something on it and sold it for a thousand dollars.

So I tried it. I scratched off a column on a grocery sack. My wife filled it with garbage and threw it in the trash. One of the best columns I ever wrote lies quietly in the city dump.

On top of that I paid for having it hauled away.

Sunday is Mother's Day. Right now I like Pa's day best.

Barbara Cruden

If he or she is interested.....

Warning: Any good-natured male chauvinists who may occasionally read this column may want to skip it this time.

The reason is personal pronouns. I've read the snappish things the more malevolent chauvinists have said on the subject and don't want to rile up the nice ones I know.

But for the rest, the problem circles around the use of "he" to refer to any unidentified person, beast, or bug.

Every woman or girl has to make a continual mental adjustment to know that "he" (or "him" or "his") includes "she" as well.

So? What's so big a problem? It's one more reminder, that's all. One more reminder, given from one to 20 times a day, that she is considered only incidental to the world of real events.

And the problem also is that women, as well as men, get used to it as they grow up. So they say, "Oh, what's the point of arguing about that!"

I remember encountering "he" as a child.

"Every child should study hard so he may grow up to be president."

Right away I caught on. It didn't matter how hard I studied because I was only a girl.

But now schools and publishers of textbooks have begun to mend their ways, thanks to the women's rights movement. Children get to read books featuring girls in action as well as the Tom Sawyers and Jacks and the Beanstalks.

Yet the ubiquitous "he" is hard to circumvent.

"Watch the spider," the teacher says. "See how he wraps up that fly?"

In this instance, the teacher has actually mis-sexed the creature because the spider with silk spinnerets is always "she," not "he." But I chose the example because I've heard it and because it shows how overpowering the

"he" habit is. When a girl studies the manual for obtaining a driver's license, she must translate "the driver turns on his lights" to "her lights," automatically.

The applicant, the taxpayer, the investor, the teacher, bank teller—each is "he" when he (seel) appears in applications, directions, analyses and other general writing.

Enough! We're supposed to be used to it. But I'm not. If it doesn't matter, then let those who say it doesn't matter try using "she" instead.

"The applicant must sign her name...."

"The child who studies will make herself a name someday."

"Let every taxpayer look to her own conscience."

Yes, let every man see how it feels to be included yet not included in the discriminating pronoun.

Many writers nowadays try plural pronouns instead.

They don't say "every taxpayer" anymore. They say "all taxpayers." Then, using "they," they don't have to struggle along with "he or she."

Thus— "All taxpayers must look to their consciences."

And to their pronouns. In the old days "thee" was the singular form for "you." Now we say "you," meaning one person and "you" again, meaning more than one, and it hardly ever seems confusing.

We could abandon "he" and "she" in the same way and use "they"—as we already do when we say, "If anyone comes, they should go right to the shop."

"They" is actually incorrect for use with "anyone," which refers to one person. But let's go ahead with it, and even expand the idea: "Let every taxpayer look to their own conscience."

Or else we could do a great thing—invent a totally new pronoun—something that hasn't been done in the memory of man (woman!).

People have tried this already, of course. A few years ago someone in the National Organization for Women suggested "zhe" as the pronoun to use when the person could be either a man or a woman.

And there have been other suggestions.

To be quite serious, I would like to suggest a word that would be useful in another way, too.

Popular songs and Valentines are short on words to rhyme with "love." There are only three.

So, what better yardstick for designing a new "he or she" pronoun than one that rhymes with love.

Bar dispute...

[Concluded from page 1] To me, Officer Malinowski was upset. It appeared to me he was 'rude and overbearing' (as described in Sherk's complaint).

Tomlinson added, "We were treated like a bunch of criminals." He said that was the consensus of all the people there, and that "the whole thing was allowed to get out of hand."

The matter should be settled, he said. "You must have a working relationship between the police department and the community."

Tomlinson also denied Risk's suggestion that people were being served after 9 o'clock.

Returning to the subject of Malinowski's alleged "rude and overbearing manner," Joseph said the LCC hearing didn't bring that out and only one of the letters written voluntarily by the witnesses mentioned it.

Malinowski said, "I don't feel I was overbearing. I feel I was doing my job. If it seems I was rude and overbearing, I'm sorry."

Joseph said, "I feel he was acting in a professional manner, doing what he thought was necessary."

The committee then voted to dismiss the first complaint.

One part of Sherk's second complaint was dealt with—the part concerning the date on the police report to the LCC, which Joseph verified from having seen it in the police office.

"I understand where the man was coming from," he said referring to Sherk and the fact that the report was not public knowledge until after Sherk had made his Jan. 6 complaint.

But, he added, "If the LCC says it was a false report, 'I'll personally file charges against the officers.'" Officer Paul Timmons was also on duty Christmas Eve and signed the report with Malinowski.

With no further objections from those at the hearing, the committee voted, "case closed."

Afterwards Hayes explained the committee could not have listened to the witnesses at the two earlier police committee hearings because "that would have put the committee in the position of trying a case before other than the proper authority."

He said, "They (the witnesses) had that opportunity tonight."

Explaining further, he said, "The council role is to establish policy and see that its employees are carrying out the policy." This meant it could not, he said, try cases of legal infractions, such as whether the bar had stopped serving at 9 o'clock.

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

Up here in the north...you have to learn how to deal with incompetency.

I mean Mother Nature herself. I was really primed for a good spring, for hunting the elusive morel, smelt dipping, fishing for steelhead, watching the marsh marigolds grow among the poison ivy and all the things that cause me to like spring.

But some dumb person messed with the calendar, and I don't even know if spring has finally arrived. I always used to think the Ides of March, April showers, the time change and all that warm weather were the forerunners of spring.

This year sure fooled me. Some of the oldtimers around here say even they can't remember the last time it took so long for the ice to leave the lake.

But certain things, like the smelt, have built-in devices that say run up the rivers, streams, creeks and — hopefully — into my net so I can get some good eating.

I must confess, though, this year I probably will not get a chance to go out dipping smelt. I've gotten so I can't tolerate cold water in my middle age, and I would rather try to get some sleep than stay out all night like I did in my youth.

Of course, by not going dipping I also don't have the job of cleaning the smelt. I don't mind maybe a couple dozen. But when it comes to that five-gallon bucket, most of them get turned into fertilizer in my garden. I can't get the kids to help me; they call the job "gross" and suddenly leave for parts unknown when I tell them about a job I want them to do.

Perhaps I will have better luck with the mushrooms. At least you don't have to gut them, just wash the dirt off. That is, provided I can find any. Almost everyone I have talked to in the last few days have their certain, special secret spot just ripe with morels. Of course, they won't tell me where it is or take me along.

One guy offered to take me out to Chandler hill, drop me about 10 miles off the beaten path and watch me try to find my way out of the woods. But he was just kidding...I hope.

I am looking forward to searching for those tasty morsels, cooking some deep-basted in butter and eating them. Anybody know any really good recipes?

We need each other

Editor,

On behalf of our 120 members, I would like to thank you for affirming what every business person and wise shopper knows: It pays to shop and buy locally.

A local purchase is an investment in the welfare of the whole community. Healthy businesses mean good jobs and regular paychecks, solid tax base (20 percent of taxes collected locally) and convenience to community residents in need of a variety of goods and services.

Also local businesses are substantial contributors to community-based activities and projects such as United Way, bowling, softball and little league teams and school projects from the yearbook to athletic fund-raising events.

Simply put: We need each other. Kate Schafer, Executive Director, Boyne City Area Chamber of Commerce

Hobo...

King Maury is writing a history of hoboes, as they slowly disappear from the American scene.

"The most important reason for the dwindling number is crime," he said. He turned to his friends. "Remember the old fellow with braces on his legs? We lost him last year," he said, turning back.

"They stabbed him 10 times for the three dollars they took off him."

Maury said young people today who have the courage to enjoy freedom should stay off trains and away from hitchhiking.

"They should put a pack on their backs and walk. Walk to the woods. See the country," he said.

Among the pictures Maury carries with him is one of a man and wife hobo team. "They've been at it for two years now," he said.

Then he pulled out a poem by a friend that said, "Royalty in humble garb.... Such a free soul is mighty rare."

The students are: front, Lynne Ahl, Helen Wuscher and Deldre Kovac. Standing, Aaron Shohet, Lenore Hammers, Bonnie Nevil, Chad Atkins and Bozanic.

Interlochen students at Boyne

Interlochen Arts Academy's creative writing students are bringing the world of poetry and short stories to Boyne City's elementary and middle schools Thursday morning.

The performance is part of a five-day Michigan tour supported through a grant from the Michigan Council for the Arts.

In addition to reading their works, the students will offer a workshop in creative writing designed for students in the fourth through 12th grades.

Interlochen's creative writing program was established in 1975 with a grant from the Ford Foundation.

This year students enrolled in Interlochen's creative writing program captured several prestigious awards. Three were finalists in the national Arts Recognition and Talent Search competition. And Academy students won first prizes in the Wayne State Manuscript Day and the Eastern Michigan University Writer's Conference.

The Interlochen Center for the Arts is comprised of the Interlochen Arts Academy, a co-educational boarding high school, and the National Music Camp, an eight-week summer program.

Interlochen's 1982 "Show on the Road" project features academy groups in various courses of study including drama, dance, band, orchestra, piano, choir, creative writing, brass and percussion.

East Jordan High's top 10 students this year are actually 11. There was a tie for 10th in the academic standings among the graduating seniors. The top 11 are: front, Todd Ingalls, Donna Schroeder, Chris Pinney. Second row,

Ice-making firm opens

Boyme City has a new business—Snowcap Ice Co., owned and operated by Robert Riley.

Riley's eight machines produce ice cubes and ice blocks for wholesale orders. Riley said he supplies party stores, gas stations, and other stores within a 20-mile radius.

The block ice is in a 12-pound size, Riley said. The blocks are wanted for ice boxes on boats and in summer cabins.

"Not much ice business in the winter," Riley said.

Better than winter, Riley's machines can each produce 16 pounds of ice in an hour.

Riley lives in Indian River and commutes to his ice business here on 214 Ray Street every day.

How did he get the idea? "Saw an ad last July," he said.

Scholarship from Rotary

The East Jordan Rotary Club will award a scholarship of $1,000 to a 1982 graduate of the East Jordan High School for the purpose of continuing his or her education at a recognized school of higher learning.

The Howard P. Porter Scholarship award will be based on citizenship, leadership, ambition, cooperation and length of residence in the community.

The selection will be made by a committee made up of the high school principal as chairman, the guidance counselor, a teacher chosen by the principal and Bill Porter representing the Porter family.

The selection is to be made in May and the award given at graduation. The money will be paid to the college or university in which the recipient is enrolled.

Bike-a-thon scheduled in CF fight

The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation will be sponsoring a "Cyclin' for CF" Bike-a-thon Saturday, May 15, from 8 to 2.

Marty McCullough of Eta Nu Sorority is the volunteer chairwoman for the 1982 event.

The course will begin with registration at Waterfront Park in Boyme City and will run for six miles.

A participant may complete the course as many times as he wishes.

The event is open to all persons who obtain prior sponsorship for at least 10 cents per mile.

All proceeds will go to benefit children stricken with Cystic Fibrosis.

An official CF T-shirt will be awarded to all those who bring in $25-$49; a tennis visor to those turning in $50-$99 and both a T-shirt and visor to those turning in $100 or more.

To participate, contact Marty McCullough at 582-9848 for further details and registration forms.

It's Community Pride Month in EJ

May in East Jordan is Community Pride Month for the Chamber of Commerce—and everyone who wants to get involved.

The Chamber has a series of events scheduled, some in cooperation with city departments, like the spring leaf pick-up, finishing up this week.

On Friday, May 7, middle and high school students may pick up pledge forms for the big community clean-up day on Saturday, May 15, from noon till 5 p.m. Pick-up points are the schools, Dressel Realty, and the city recreation department office.

Chamber executive director Judy Shea said the students can collect pledges on a work-a-thon basis for work contributions on clean-up day. Prizes will be awarded, and there will be a hot-dog picnic for all clean-up workers, young and older, starting at 5 p.m. The pledge money will go for city beautification, Shea said.

Starting Monday, May 18, after a presumably busy weekend, clearing out the garage, attic, basement, and so on, East Jordan residents may have their "household junk" collected, Shea said, if they have it placed on the curb.

The collection will go by wards again, with the last collection day being Thursday, May 20.

The Chamber is scheduling other events for the month, involving tree planting, flowers, and some painting projects, also. The kick-off, proclamation was read at the May 4 city council meeting.

On Thursday, April 29, the Chamber met to set up committees for beautification, special events, industrial development, community relations, and publicity-advertising.

The committees will be bringing in project ideas as the year progresses. More immediately, the Chamber is launching a membership drive which will include, besides local businesses, industry and individual "citizen" memberships, Shea said.

Officers this year are Dr. John Kempton, president, and Jeff Streelman, vice chairman.

Piano scholarship auditions

Crooked Tree Arts Council of Emmet and Charlevoix Counties is offering a piano scholarship to the Bay View Conservatory of Music.

These auditions are open to high school students in Emmet and Charlevoix counties. Auditions will be held on Monday, May 24, at 7:30 p.m. in the McCune Arts Center of Petoskey.

Requirements for the audition are as follows: one major scale and its relative minor (memorized); a short technical exercise or etude (may be read); a composition from the Baroque or Classical Era (memorized); a composition from the Romantic or modern era.

For more information concerning audition contact June Zoerhof at 347-6497.

Chuck Robinson of Boyne High was the grand prize winner for ninth and 10th graders at the state competition held by the Michigan Industrial Education Society. Chuck, a 10th grader, made his fiberglass and redwood canoe during shop classes this school year. Matt Seeley took a seventh place in the state finals with his canoe project.

Property values up

The equalized value of property — on which taxes are based — in Charlevoix County rose 9.64 percent in the past year.

The county board of the valuation at $367,664,946 for 1982. The 1981 state equalized valuation was $335,329,006. The state could still alter the 1982 figure.

In 1981, the SEV was 11.13 percent higher than the year before.

The city of Charlevoix has the highest equalized value of any single community at $2,461,000. It rose 8.1 percent from $48,521,900 in 1981. The next two highest totals are in Hayes Township, at $39,974,600 (up 6.5 percent from $37,546,241), and Eveline Township, at $36,920,800 (up 9.9 percent from $33,597,700).

Boyer City's total valuation is $30,315,950 (up 10 percent from $27,556,150) and East Jordan's is $18,170,400 (up 9.7 percent from $16,561,750).

The highest percentage changes were in Chandler Township, which rose 40.5 percent, and in Peaine Township, which went up 24.2 percent.

The lowest percentage increases were in Wilson Township, at 4.5 percent, and Charlevoix Township, at 5.4 percent.

Other township totals (with percentage of increase and 1981 total in parentheses) are: Bay $16,910,500 (10.1 percent, $15,360,200), Boyne Valley $18,092,862 (12.6 percent, $16,058,931), Chandler $7,071,111 (40.5 percent, $5,032,598), Charlevoix $30,127,200 (5.4 percent, $28,573,300), Evangeline $11,516,579 (6.4 percent,

EJ boys place second in own track meet

The East Jordan boys' track team hosted five area schools on Saturday, May 1, at an invitational track meet.

Capturing first place was Charlevoix with 191 points while East Jordan placed second with 121 points. The remaining teams were Mancelona with 68 points, Inland Lakes with 25 points and Alba with 15 points.

Bill Spence's shot put of 51 feet, 6 inches, broke the 1952 school record of 45 feet, seven inches held by Don Whiteford. Spence's record put gave him a first place in Saturday's meet.

Greg Cyr, who holds the school record in the high jump at 6 feet, 3/4 inches, captured first place with a jump of 6 feet.

Steve Graham, who has set a school discus mark this year at 145 feet, one-half inches, was second at this meet, throwing the discus 138 feet,

1 3/4 inches.

Barry Mumich of East Jordan was third in the long jump.

Other placing Red Devils were Dan Nachazel with a third in the pole vault, Mumich with a second in the 100 yard dash and the 220 yard dash, Tony Ruhlman second in the 120-yard high hurdles and fourth in the 300 yard low hurdles, Rick Hawley third in the mile run and a fifth in both the 400 yard dash and the 880 yard run.

East Jordan's 880 yard relay team captured third. The team consists of Spence, Nachazel, Mike Graham and Mike Ciszewski.

East Jordan's 440 yard relay team was also third. The team consists of Spence, Ciszewski, Steve Graham and Cyr.

East Jordan's mile relay team of John Buick, Nachazel, Ruhlman, and Tim Russell took fourth.

Coach Bob Snyder says Mumich could do very well in the dashes while Cyr is promising in the high jump. Steve Graham and Karlskin are other good bets for East Jordan in the discus while Hawley should do well in distances and Nachazel in the pole vault, the coach said.

"East Jordan has one of the stronger teams in the conference," said Snyder. "Gaylord St. Mary and Pellston should be the tough competition."

East Jordan has won the conference the last two years.

The Red Devils next meet is scheduled for Thursday, May 6, against Gaylord and Harbor Springs at home.

Mayhew no-hits Mancelona Devils lose

The East Jordan girls' softball team lost twice to Central Lake, 9-4 and 11-1.

Deanna Skrocki was the losing pitcher in both games.

Anita Lytle began the second game but tore tendons in her leg in the second inning. She will be out the rest of the season, according to coach Jane Mayhew.

The top hitters in the doubleheaders were Kim and Donna Schroeder and Lori Kraemer.

A no-hitter by Kevin Mayhew got East Jordan's Ski Valley Conference baseball season off to a good start, after the Red Devils dropped the opener in a doubleheader with Mancelona.

Mayhew, who also threw a no-hitter last year, struck out five during the five-inning game as the Devils racked up an 11-1 victory.

In the first game, East Jordan committed nine errors in the first three innings and went down 13-2.

Mancelona had four home runs among its nine hits in that game. East Jordan managed only three singles. Doug Peck took the loss.

In the nightcap Kevin Russell powered a home run and Peck chipped in with a pair of hits as the Devils breezed behind Mayhew's fine performance.

Boyne track clips Petoskey

Despite a running exhibition by Petoskey's Troy Goodrich, Boyne City slipped by the Northerners by one point, 85-84, to win a four-team boys track meet.

Trailing were Sault Ste. Marie with 43 points and Gaylord with 28.

The Ramblers took first place in five events while Petoskey won seven, but Boyne tallied more second and third places to take the win.

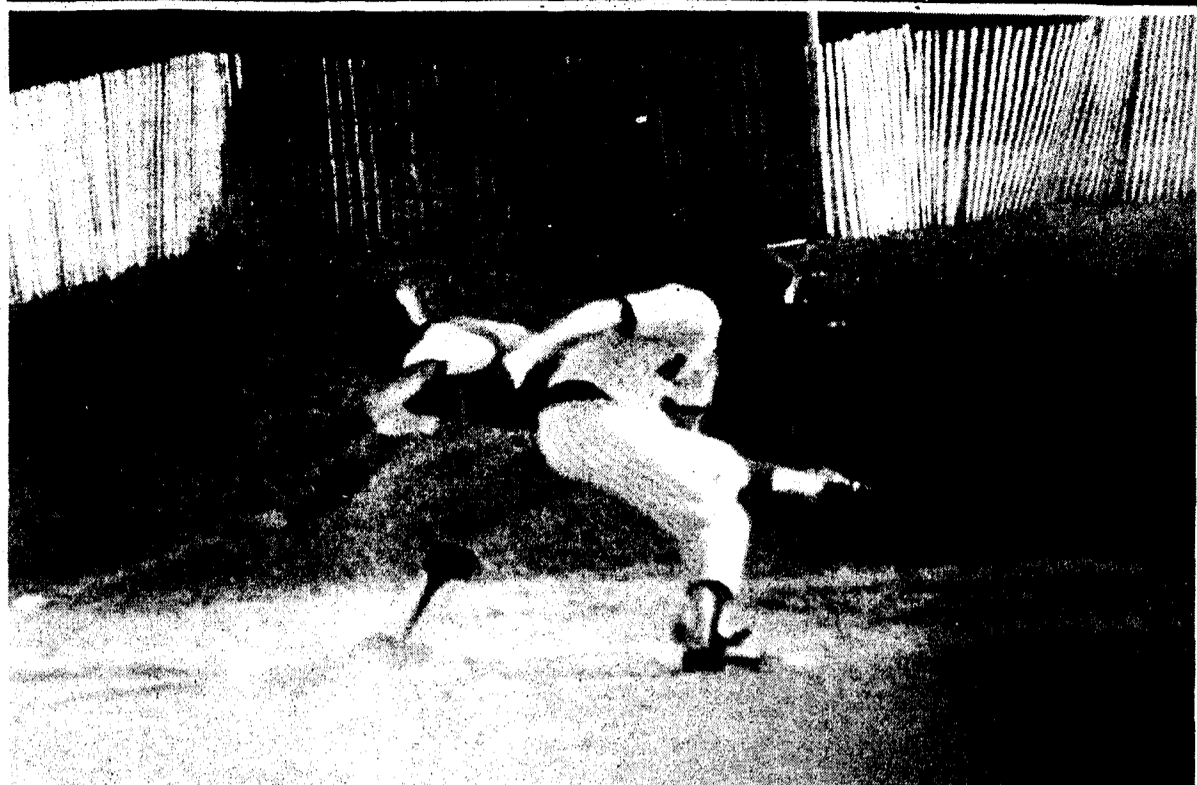

The outcome wasn't decided until the final event when Petoskey won the mile relay and Boyne finished second.

Winners for Boyne included Ed Boyer in the discus, Jim Brabbs in the two-mile run, Scott Stackus in the 330-yard low hurdles and Jon Bragenzer and Brian Vroman, who tied in the high jump.

Boyne's team of Kevin Crandell, Shawn Aimesbury, Vroman and John Tompkins won

Sport in the area

A Boyne Falls runner is tagged out as he leaps toward third base during the Loggers' 9-1 loss to Alba in the first game of their doubleheader. The Loggers, who were opening their season while Alba had played some games already, also lost the second game.

Loggers bomb Alba

The Boyne Falls girls' softball team came out hitting in its doubleheader with Alba.

The Loggers won 20-2 in the first game and 26-17 in the second.

Pat Frankowiak was the winning pitcher in the first game and Kim Mikula won the second game.

Outstanding hitters for the Loggers were Karen Sevanski who hit a home run in the first game and Mikula who had eight hits during the doubleheader.

Coach Dale Reinhardt's team scored seven runs in the third inning of the first game and nine runs in the fourth inning of the second game.

Loggers drop pair in debut

BY SUSAN BUICK

The Boyne Falls Loggers' boys' baseball team lost twice in its opening doubleheader with Alba. The Loggers lost the first game, 9-1 in seven innings and the second game 7-6 in five innings.

Coach Bill Aten said, "It was a shaky opening game. The kids were tentative at bat. It was their first time against another pitcher besides one of their teammates."

The losing pitcher in the first game was Tom Towne and Tim Smith was the loser in the second game.

Bruce Crouterfield and Scott Niedling were the Loggers hot batters and Jay Gee was the outstanding defensive player.

The Wildcats scored six runs in the first inning of the first game on their way to the easy win. Alba struck early again in the nightcap, scoring four times in the first inning.

The Loggers tied the game in the last inning at six apiece, but couldn't hold on.

In the first game, the Loggers committed seven errors and in the second they made five.

"The second game was definitely better than the first," said Aten, "Alba had some games under their belts."

The Loggers have 16 games scheduled this season, most in doubleheaders. Their first home game is May 10 against Wolverine.

Aten is coaching the team for the first time this year. "I don't know the strength of a lot of the teams we'll be competing against. Johannesburg, Pellston and Alanson will be the teams to beat."

The Loggers had just six practice days outside before their season got underway.

Seniors on the team are Crouterfield, Steve Floranski, Gee Norman Mahanke, Tom Murray, Niedling, Kevin Reynolds and Karl Theisen. There are four juniors: Clifford Leazier, Tim Smith, Clarence Stark and Towne.

Sophomores are Ken McNew and Bob Williams. Kelly Harmon, Norman Hausler, Billy Sparks, Joe Williams and Brian Walker the freshmen.

Aten is looking for Hausler and Joe Williams to be good infielders. He also expects a lot of Smith, who is a good pitcher along with Mahanke and Towne.

Smith is the team's strongest hitter, but Crouterfield and Gee are also good hitters.

"It was a real big turnout," said Aten.

"It's even the biggest team I know of in several years. I'm really happy about that. The purpose is to be out there and play."

EJ drops two squeakers

Gaylord St. Mary beat East Jordan in two squeakers 4-3 and 3-2.

The losing pitcher in the first game was Kevin Mayhew who pitched a seven-hitter. Kevin Russell and Mayhew were the leading hitters for the Devils with two hits each.

Coach Glen Mayhew said, "They played a good game but they came up short."

In the second game, the Devils had seven base hits and the Snowbirds three. Scott Meade had two of the Devils' seven hits.

Both teams scored their runs in the first inning.

The losing pitcher was Doug Peck.

EJ girls split pair

After a wild 21-11 opener, East Jordan and Mancelona settled down in the second game of their softball doubleheader.

There were 30 walks in the first game, as Mancelona won the lopsided affair.

Mancelona had only five hits in the high-scoring game, while the Red Devils picked up just two. Anita Lytle was the losing pitcher for East Jordan.

In the second game, East Jordan got only four singles but put five runs on the board to only two for Mancelona.

Deanna Skrocki was the winning pitcher, going all five innings.

Kim Schroder, Lytle, Donna Schrader and Dylan Sedelmaier collected the Devils' hits in the nightcap.

Vroman selects Northwood

Brian Vroman, Boyne City's two-time all-state basketball player, has chosen Northwood Institute as his college.

Vroman, who scored more than 1,800 points in his high school career, has signed a "national letter of intent" for the small business school near Midland.

Vroman was named to all-state basketball teams both years he played at Boyne. He attended Wolverine High in his freshman and sophomore years.

This year he was named first team all-state by the Detroit Free Press, the Associated Press and the United Press International.
