Bus tax request on August ballot

A tax request to support county bus service will be on the August 10 primary ballot.

The request for .29 mills was approved last week by the Charlevoix County board of commissioners.

The tax, if approved, would be for three years — 1983-85. It would generate about $100,000 each year for the bus line.

Back when the county entered into a contract with the state to run the buses it was determined that voters would be asked to support the system once funding became more than 50 percent county responsibility.

This is the third year of the bus program, which is primarily a dial-a-ride system. The bus line is operated by the county commission on aging.

In the first year, the system was 100 percent state financed. Funding fell to 75-25 the second year and 50-50 this, under the terms of the contract.

The county board in March appropriated about $13,000 to keep the buses running through August 1983. This came up because the county and state fiscal years end at different times.

On April 1 fares were increased by a dime to help raise extra money to operate the system. At the time of the county appropriation it was noted that fares brought in about $38,800 from 80,000 rides up to that point in the fiscal year.

The bus line's current year budget is $260,000 and is expected to rise about $15,000 in the 1982-83 fiscal year.

Jobless rate at 22%

The unemployment rate in Charlevoix County inched lower during April, but still stood at 21.9 percent.

In March the rate had been 23.5 percent. A year ago April, the rate was 16.9 percent. April figures were released Tuesday by the Michigan Employment Security Commission office in Petoskey.

County figures showed 1,975 people out of work from a total work force of 9,000.

Emmet County has a 17.5 percent jobless rate, down from the 19.4 mark of March.

Dwayne Cox, manager of the Petoskey MESC office, said the employment picture is improving slightly because of the return of summer seasonal jobs.

The continued poor outlook for the auto industry, though, still is a major force in keeping northwest Michigan people off the job, he said.

The playground equipment in Veterans Memorial Park has been busy since the Boyne City High School student-built structure was installed last week. Members of Russ Harvey's industrial arts classes built the structure with materials bought by the city. About 12 teens worked on the project during the school year, Harvey said. Primary workers were Ray Stolt, Stu Goodall, Joe Gregware, Glenn Hardy, Fred Crawford and Mike Potter. Harvey said a similar piece, from a catalog, would cost between $2,500 and $3,000. The city's cost has been about $500, manager Tim Clifton said.

School tax proposals approved in county; Mellon, Chanda win

All tax requests on county school ballots were approved Monday.

Boyer City had one millage renewal request, East Jordan had two and Charlevoix three.

In school board races, Gary Mellon was the winner in Boyne City and Lawrence Chanda was the victor in East Jordan.

Mellon defeated Billie Ruth Reinhardt 284-104. Mellon is presently serving on the board, filling an unexpired term. His new term ends in 1986.

Chanda outpolled Greta (Gigi) Antoine in the race for a four-year East Jordan post. The vote was 389 to 147. William Olstrom was running unopposed for four-year seats in Boyne Falls. Don Griffith received 34 votes and Ruth Matelski had 42.

Two incumbents were unopposed in the Charlevoix balloting. Ardeh Wieland received 599 votes, while Elaine Martin Buddle received 580.

Boyer voters approved a 21.3-mill, one-year levy for operating funds to run the schools. (Last year, the levy was for 21.4 mills.) The vote was 310 yes, 97 no.

In East Jordan, voters approved a half-mill levy for school operations (last year's levy was 3 mills) by a 308-271 vote.

They also approved a half-mill (from the same 3-mill levy that expired this year) for maintenance and repairs of buildings. The tally was 289-269.

In Charlevoix, three millage renewals were approved. A 15.25-mill levy for operational capital was approved by a 498-234 margin, while a half-mill for five years to operate the public library (one of the few operated by a school district and not the municipality) was OK'd 487-262.

The third millage request was for .9 mills for two years to replace the roof on the high school. It passed 471-257.

There were no tax requests on the Boyne Falls ballot.

'Air force' sold by county

Charlevoix County is selling its air force. But it will still have its navy.

County commissioners last week accepted a bid of $24,751 to sell the county-owned medical evacuation plane stored on Beaver Island.

Commissioners have been trying for months to find a buyer for the plane. They solicited bids once before, then rejected them as being too low.

The bid accepted last week was lower than the high bid submitted last fall.

The plane is a 1953 DeHavilland Beaver the county bought in 1974.

The county and the two townships on the island will be reimbursed their expenses out of the purchase price. Peaine and St. James will each get $6,865.38, while the county will receive $6,212.42.

What will happen to the rest of the proceeds — about $5,800 — will be determined later. Commissioners suggested various uses, including setting up a medical fund and using the money to offset some of the cost of developing a county-wide house numbering system. Work on the numbering system is underway.

The plane was bought by Randy Gaddin of Paradise Valley, Arizona. Two other bids were received — one for $6,500, the other for $18,800.

The county's navy? The Ironton Ferry across the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix is operated by the county road commission.

10-point family life curriculum eyed

A program of family life education, which would include sex education, moved one step nearer to action Tuesday, June 15, at the Boyne City school board meeting.

Rev. Milton Walls reported for the board-appointed committee on human development a proposal to teach 10 concepts through elementary and middle school, a program to extend eventually to the high school.

The concepts include such topics as emotions, decision-making and physiology.

Walls said if students had studied each the first four items on the committee's list he wouldn't have any of his counseling work to do.

The committee's design is to have students understand "the whole person." This would include the sex information appropriate at the various age levels.

As it is presently viewed, the instruction of the concepts would be informally developed.

And it would be more the result of reorganization of curriculum rather than a separate, new course of instruction, superintendent Rich Kelly noted.

The proposal now goes to the professional studies committee which will evaluate its part in the school curriculum.

The human development study took about two years. The committee was made up of a cross-section of those involved and of various viewpoints in the community.

It was formed following the state's recommendation (but not requirement) that some such program be instituted in public schools.

Insurance bids were also studied at the board's meeting. The board distributed the different categories between two agencies, R.A. Campbell and John Best.

Sections dealing with workers' compensation will be given further study.

A new consumer math textbook was approved for use by students who fail a math achievement test administered to all sophomores. And purchase of an updated aviation textbook was also approved.

The board came out against union philosophy on seniority scheduling as it might apply to layoffs.

Board members agreed that a part-time teacher should in the future not be rated as equal in seniority with a full-time teacher working the same number of days.

Board president George Shiotellis said determining a fair rating would be difficult, but said it should be more in terms of hours of experience than of days.

The 1980-81 seniority layoff schedule was approved by the board with the exception of one teacher whose one-hour-a-day employment did not seem adequate to the board to be ranked with full-time seniority.

The schedule approval was a necessary action, the board said, but they agreed that a new policy was the next step.

The professional studies committee reported that language skills have been the focus for the committee. One result is the change from a variety of options in English courses for high school students to a schedule of required skills and background, arranged by class level and including emphasis on writing and reading.

The program offers electives in English, however, to seniors.

Next year's coaching staff will have as head of varsity football, Bob Mc-Cullough, and assistant head of varsity football, Bob Wollenberg.

Head junior varsity football coach will be Dave Bricker, assisted by Gerald Anderson.

Once more Lois Kircher will be volunteer golf coach.

John McGeorge will be athletics director, assisted by Dave Bricker.

Gerald Ernst will be head varsity fall (girls) and winter (boys) basketball coach.

Fred Rice will coach cross-country, and Sue Hobbs and Sherry Gillett will coach high school cheerleading.

Principal John McGeorge received commendation and a plaque for his year's service during Rick Casper's sabbatical.

McGeorge will resume his teaching duties in the coming year.

changed its August primary date, and local deadlines are required to stay a relative number of weeks ahead of it.

Engaged?

The Charlevoix County Press publishes engagement and wedding announcements without charge. Pictures are welcomed, but we do suggest a few guidelines. Good quality black and white photographs, either of the couple or bride-elect, are preferred. All photographs are kept on file in the Press office and may be picked up at any time following publication; those pictures not picked up after six months will be discarded. Wedding and engagement announcement forms are available at our office or will be mailed upon request and the receipt of a self-addressed stamped envelope. While we try to publish each announcement the week that we receive it (and in the case of weddings, the first publication date following the ceremony), space constraints sometimes force us to delay the printing of the announcement for one or two weeks. Therefore, we ask that information be received at least two weeks before the intended publication so that we might better plan for its publication. We will not accept wedding announcements received more than four weeks after the wedding.

Korthase farm honored

The farm of Bill and Jean Korthase has been certified as a centennial farm by the state. A centennial farm is one which has been in continuous possession of the same family for 100 years or more and has a minimum of 10 acres. More than 4,000 Michigan farms have been certified as centennial farms since the program was inaugurated in 1948, according to secretary of state Richard Austin. The farm is located on Korthase Road in Wilson Township. It was purchased in June 1882 by Frederick Korthase, great grandfather of the present owner.

Owners receive certificates from the Michigan History Division of the department of state. Markers for the property are provided by Detroit Edison and Consumers Power companies.

Marshall Sayles

Marshall strings us along

The guitar is a wonderful thing. You can strum it, you can twirl it around and you can do a little dance with it. And if you can work out a creditable group of jumbled chords with it, you have a good chance of making some money.

Guitar music is our universal language without a haircut. It's true. Our society swoons to any modern ditty civilized by the wild sounds given off by a two hundred dollar box with a hole in it.

The guitar has taken the place of the piano. When I was young most every home in town had a piano. Many kids took piano lessons whenever their parents forced them into it. Since then we've come full circle. There are kids today who are ready to strike their parents if they don't buy them a guitar.

Sometimes a piano was accompanied by a violin. But the guitar has changed that. Today a guitar is often accompanied by someone who has fine tuned the art of screeching and yelling. Music lovers go for it in a big way.

If I had my druthers I'd turn the clock back to where parents refused to let a child go out and play until he had practiced his piano lesson—even though some hated it and, to get back at their parents, they grew up and sold shoes through the mail.

My folks bought a piano before I was born. When I was ten or twelve I went down, got a haircut, came home and sat down to the piano. I learned to play little tunes without my parents pounding on me. The black keys gave me fits so I picked out songs on the white keys.

In no time at all I could play that hot number called, "How Could You Believe Me When I Said I Loved You When You Know I've Been A Liar All My Life." Sheet music of that tune was selling like hot cakes.

The song I played best on the white keys was called, "I Scream, You Scream, We All Scream For Ice Cream." I was a quick study with that one.

There was another song going around that gave me trouble. I even fussed with the black keys until I got the hang of it. It was called, "Where Did Robinson Crusoe Go With Friday on Saturday Night?" Some people could whip that song out with no trouble at all.

My downfall with the piano was caused by a song called, "They Needed a Songbird In Heaven. So God Took Caruso Away." I could whistle it, but I couldn't finger it. And that did it. I was so frustrated I quit trying to pound out songs on the piano and took up newspaper work. Our neighbors thought it was a pretty good idea.

Playing by ear instead of learning to read music did pay off for some people. I know a saxophone player who worked in dance bands around the state for many years, even though he couldn't read a note. He made more money than I did when I was working on newspapers and knew what I was doing.

I think age and the generation gap has something to do with my not being able to get with modern music written for the guitar. I find it very difficult to swoon and be turned off at the same time.

If they were still turning out those sensible songs like they did when I was young, I'd buy a piano and do me some tall fingering.

On the white keys mostly.

Harborage owners: on schedule

An update on The Harborage at the June 15 Boyne City commission meeting brought the comment from Rick Smith that "in terms of our progress we are essentially on schedule."

City commissioners have received a few queries and complaints that things weren't moving according to outlines given the city prior to ground breaking in November 1980.

"We've been absolutely devastated by high interest rates," Smith said, but pointed out they have 16 units complete and another 10 to come in their third building, to be completed by the end of the summer.

"Proceeding prudently," according to Dave Smith, they expect to be able to have the 34 units promised by the end of two years.

It was 36, Smith noted, but because the larger number would create a crowded effect, they dropped two.

One of the concerns voiced by residents was that Front Street, which is showing the effects of hard wear, commissioner Marty Paul said, was due for its relocation this year.

"We would like to postpone it until next spring," Dave Smith said, referring to high interest costs. The Smiths indicated if they could have started, as they proposed, back in 1977, they would have been ahead of the present difficult economy.

As it is, they noted, "We are about the only building going on."

They said besides their regular 35 employees, their contractors, who are local whenever possible, make it almost 100 working on the site.

The floating marina construction will continue as the need grows, until the whole harbor is complete. With every dock equipped with electrical, TV, and telephone outlets and with the latest and best in low-maintenance flotation, Smith said, the marina has already been praised in professional circles.

He said, "We feel it will be the finest marina in Michigan."

The commission and the Smiths agreed on project reviews every six months, starting in July.

Also a new letter of agreement, proposed by commissioner Steve Moody, will be drawn up "to make the time scale reasonable" and to answer community uncertainty.

"The project will be completed," Smith affirmed.

Middle school end brings changes

With middle school divided between elementary and high school, East Jordan's principals are planning ways of taking advantage of the new arrangement.

Eighth grade will be under the high school roof, but principal Bud Ashton said it will be a separate group for the most part.

Exceptions will be the opportunity for advanced eighth grade students to take freshman algebra and such classes as shop, home economics or art, the last period of the day in high school classrooms.

High school teacher schedules, Ashton said, are the best yet. They will be teaching where they are best qualified, and in addition, Ashton said, the use of building space will be efficient.

High school courses will be improved by sequencing economics courses and offering computer and small engine classes.

Improvements in the elementary school reading program were announced by principal Don Peters at the June 8 school board meeting.

Music and half of physical education will be restored to the elementary school curriculum.

Superintendent Tom Rossler said the work on a strong basic school program would not be hindered by the '99 percent chance we will lose state aid based on enrollment."

The loss follows the state formula that takes school systems out of state aid when property values rise to a certain point.

Rossler said the school would not be able to take back the funding of athletics in the coming year, although some limited athletic program may be possible for the school in 1983-'84.

The Athletics Boosters' Club which entirely supported athletics this year, will be asked for help again for a restricted program, which will cut back on the number of games played.

The budget for such a program would ask for a pledge of $10,000 from the Boosters.

A new athletics head has not yet been appointed.

After school band is another activity Rossler called very important, but which, he said, the budget can not yet support.

This past year Band Boosters paid for band events costs, including the extra-curricular salary of band director Tom Stegall. Their contribution amounted to $1,750.

A decision on what next year's solution will be is expected shortly following a meeting with all concerned.

The "Say Yes to Michigan" commercials must be working if you take all the cars passing through the Boyne area as tourists.

Even during the week, I'm seeing more and more outstate licensees as I drive around the area packing up ads, taking pictures and finding out about new and different stories that need to be written.

There must be a zillion of them... and hopefully there are at least that many tourists visiting our beautiful area to look at the wildflowers and the water, and do all the other things that make summertime great.

We are really lucky, those of us who choose to live up North, because we have almost perfect summers and almost perfect winters.

We have a lot of disadvantages, sure, but perhaps the advantages make up for them for us who live here year around and have to contend with the blizzards, the ups and downs of industry and such.

For those of us who are working up here, this is the busiest of times, trying to play catch-up with the grass. And trying to play catch-up with the demands of the jobs we have, whether it's installing docks for homeowners or selling one of our neat condo projects. Speaking of condos, when we look out the back window of our new office, it sure is a pleasure to see the opposite shoreline and the continuing growth of our community.

Now all we have to do is plant an idea in one of our second-home owners who has some kind of light industry that he could move his plant up here, with Economic Development monies, tax incentives and our stable work base. He wouldn't have to fight the four-hour drive to get back down for the Monday drudgery.

If anybody is interested, he can call me or the city offices and we'll help him get started. We need more businesses here in the North.

The powwow is over

It wasn't the show we expected, although there were some beautifully costumed dancers.

Instead the Indians came to East Jordan for their own Indian social and cultural enrichment. Even in their dancing, the tone was one of dignity.

But they invited the spectators to join in some of the dances. These were social dances. "We don't do religious dances for the public," explained one Indian.

They drummed and sang, but not in words. Because differences in dialects might keep them from singing together, Indians chant wordlessly.

We watched and listened and tried to understand.

Indeed, with the present concern over the possibly weakening of the federal Clean Air Act, we are beginning to understand. Stewardship is more important than ownership.

The time so clearly and shockingly prophesized in 1855 by Chief Sealth in his famous letter to the President is now before us.

He wrote (excerpted): "The Great Chief in Washington sends word that he wishes to buy our land...We will consider your offer, for we know if we do not do so, the white man may come with guns and take our land...."

"How can you buy or sell the sky—the warmth of land? The idea is strange to us. Yet we do not own the freshness of the air or the sparkle of the water. How can you buy them from us...."

"Every part of this earth is sacred to my people. Every shining pine needle, every sandy shore, every mist in the dark woods, every clearing and humming insect is holy...."

"We know the white man does not understand our ways....The earth is not his brother, but his enemy, and when he has conquered it, he moves on...His appetite will devour the earth and leave behind only a desert...."

"But...because the redman is a savage he does not understand...."

"There is no quiet place in the white man's cities...what is there to life if a man cannot hear the lovely cry of the whippoorwill or the arguments of the frogs around the pond at night?..."

"The air is precious to the redman. For all things share the same breath—the beasts, the trees, the man. The white man does not seem to notice the air he breathes. Like a man dying for many days, he is numb to the stench."

"If I decide to accept, I will make one condition. The white man must treat the beasts of this land as his brothers. I am a savage and do not understand any other way."

"I have seen a thousand rotting buffalos on the prairies, left by the white man who shot them from a passing train. I am a savage and I do not understand...."

"We kill only to stay alive. What is man without the beasts? If all the beasts were gone, men would die from a great loneliness of spirit...All things are connected...."

"Our children have seen their fathers humbled in defeat. Our warriors have felt their shame. And after defeat, they turn their days to idleness and contaminate their bodies with sweet food and strong drink...."

"One thing we know...Our God is the same God (as the white man's). You may think now that you own him as you wish to own our land. But you cannot...."

"This land is precious to him. And to harm the earth is to heap contempt upon its creator...Continue to contaminate your bed, and you will one day suffocate in your own waste...."

"If we sell you our land, love it as we have loved it...And with all your strength, with all your might, and with all your heart—preserve it for your children, and love it as God loves us all."

"This earth is precious to him. Even the white man cannot be exempt from the common destiny."

21 graduate from adult ed

Twenty-one students of East Jordan-Boyer City community education program received their diplomas Sunday, June 6, at the Advance Board of Commerce building, half way between the two cities.

Community ed director Shelly Martin introduced the commencement speaker, Dr. Thomas Mayhew, director of community education in Baldwin, to the graduates and the nearly 200 parents, spouses, children, friends and teachers who filled the room to overflowing or stood outside, listening at the windows.

Mayhew began by saying, "I wish Ronald Reagan were here. This is America."

He noted that 87 women and men of all ages had graduated from the combined program in the past five years.

Graduates on Sunday ranged from 18 to over 60 years old.

Mayhew spoke of an 89-year old man in Baldwin who had quit high school to go fight in World War I, and who had returned this year to community ed to earn his diploma.

Mayhew also made a point of the fact community ed not only opens up job opportunities with the diploma, but also can capture a student's interest in an unexpected direction of study.

"We never know the impact adult education will have," he said.

The adult ed students attend for a year or more, usually going to three-hour classes in the evening, one to four nights a week.

The students received their diplomas from Eleanor West, Boyne City school board member, and Fred Stearns, director of the Straits Area Consortium.

After a brief tassel-turning ceremony, and the processional, played by Dava Maat, the graduates joined the spectators for a potluck dinner.

EJ works on 2nd dump problem

East Jordan apparently has solved its garbage collection problem but still is working on a way to dispose of rubbish such as old appliances, tires and furniture.

City superintendent of public works Mike Dionne has put in a "mobile transfer station"—a packer truck located at the present landfill. The state Department of Natural Resources has mandated that the city use a transfer station instead of dumping at the landfill.

But the city cannot use the present site as a "Type III" facility, one in which rubbish items are discarded, according to Arthur Caden, DNR district engineer.

The changes in garbage and rubbish collection are being made because the city landfill does not comply with the requirements of the state solid waste law—Public Act 641 of 1978.

The city has been under orders to close the landfill.

Dionne is working on a way of taking care of Type III waste without having engineer tests and digging expensive monitoring wells, which are required for a licensed landfill.

He said the Type III items, along with Type II garbage, will be dumped into the city's recently purchased packer truck, crushed and transported to the licensed Antrim-Kalkaska Landfill, one of three in the area.

Overflow will be held in a "greenbox" until trucked away. The garbage, which can include household chemicals, is not allowed to be stored on the ground. The possibility of contamination of ground water is the basic reason for stopping dumping in the old way at the site.

The truck can hold roughly 20 cubic yards of compacted trash, Dionne said, compacting to one cubic yard every five dumped in.

Dionne said this compares more than favorably with an open 50-cubic yard container because it not only has the necessary capacity but also can be driven off without further handling.

The open containers are in use at some transfer stations in the area.

The public already has one other alternative in the area, Dionne pointed out. Kenneth Slough's Auto Parts accepts for salvage old cars, appliances and tires, although it does not pay anything for tires.

Caden said several illegal (unlicensed) Type III landfills are at present in operation around the county. "I hope some legal Type III's will be established," he said.

Caden also explained that there are two categories of trash which do not endanger the groundwater. One is broken paving material and the other is leaves and brush.

These may be deposited wherever suitable permission is obtained, and where, in the case of leaves and brush, there will be no blowing or unpleasant run-off.

He said East Jordan may use a corner of its landfill for composting dumped loads of leaves and brush. But he also said people should be encouraged to do their own composting and use the compost on their gardens and lawns.

Phase I at East Jordan, Caden said, is underway.

Prizes were awarded by the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce to three volunteers who brought in the most funds for the May 15 work-a-thon. Recreation director Pat Berle, left, presents a cassette recorder to Rickie Sue Snyder. Nicola Simmons receives a radio-cassette from Carol Tighe of the chamber. Billie Gettis stands with his first prize bike.

Al Dzwik of the Boyne City Knights of Columbus presents checks to Sister Pat Jemewicz for the Ironon Mentally Retarded Trainable Center and Sally Wolff for the Boyne City Adult Training Center's mental retardation program. The money was raised by a Tootsie Roll sale.

McTaggart leads lawyers

William R. McTaggart, Boyne City attorney, has been elected president of the Emmet-Charlevoix County Bar Association. He succeeds Edward M. Waud, Petoskey.

Other officers elected by the lawyers were Michael A. Aho, vice president; John F. Rohe, treasurer; and Jeffery W. VanTrece, secretary.

McTaggart has been an attorney in Michigan for 32 years.

The graduate of the University of Michigan law school practiced law in Flint, from 1950 until moving to Boyne City in 1974. In addition to the general practice of law, he is city attorney for Boyne City and attorney for several townships in Charlevoix County.

McTaggart said the local bar association in the coming year would inaugurate a program sharing specialized knowledge between attorneys in a continuing effort to improve the level of service provided to their clients.

McTaggart said that in each community a panel of attorneys specializing in particular fields of law would be assembled. Beginning lawyers and older lawyers who may be specialists in other areas will be encouraged to consult with the panel of experts when confronted with an unusual problem.

The sharing of the expertise, and free interchange of information between lawyers, McTaggart said, will enable all the attorneys to provide the highest level of service to their clients, which he said is a continual aim of the bar association.

Fire protection cost hike defended

Bay Township's complaint to the Boyne City commission about a .1-mill increase in fire protection costs brought no change in the fee to be charged to the township.

At the noon meeting of the commission, Tuesday, June 15, commissioner Steve Moody noted that while the township is paying .6 mills this year, the city voters will be paying 1.2 mills.

He added, people are paying for protection, not just for service, and each township is treated the same.

The city's fire equipment investment, according to clerk Tom Garlock, amounts to $197,000—something the townships would not want to have to supply for themselves.

The department serves Wilson, Bay, Eveline and Evangeline townships on a contract basis.

A new drinking fountain for children is being offered by the Boyne Valley Lionesses for installation in a city park.

Sheryl Gillett, president, and Mary Juday, secretary of the club, said they would like to have approval soon as the four by four-and-one-half foot fiberglass fountain is due to arrive soon.

Costing $1,100, the fountain is in the shape of a yellow lion with a large red mouth open from which the water fountain bubbles.

Commissioner Thelma Behling suggested that it might be put near the jungle gym.

The commissioners were appreciative of the gift offer, which is only

Haggard quits senate race

Republican state senate candidate John Haggard of Charlevoix has withdrawn from the race and made public his support for state Rep. Steve Andrews.

Haggard, owner of Haggard Plumbing and Heating in Charlevoix, announced his candidacy for the State Senate in Mid-May. "After carefully considering the field of Republican candidates for this 37th State Senate one of a series as the Lionesses plan to add a gift of equipment each year.

It will be necessary to take their proposal to the parks and recreation commission, the commission said. Their approval would be sufficient then, for the city commission.

seat," Haggard said, "I have concluded that Steve Andrews will, and should be, the dominant Republican in the primary, with an excellent chance for success in November's general election."

The new 37th state senate district contains the counties of Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Chippewa, Delta, Emmet, Grand Traverse, Luce, Mackinac, Otsego and Schoolcraft.

SS benefits climb July 3

Social Security checks will increase by 7.4 percent on July 3. This will be an automatic increase for the 12,800 beneficiaries in Emmet, Charlevoix, and Cheboygan counties.

Legislation passed in 1973 provided for automatic increases if the Consumer Price Index increased by 3 percent or more from the first quarter of the past year to the first quarter of the present year.

Maximum Social Security benefits for a worker retiring at age 65 in 1982 will increase from $679 to $729. For the couple retiring at 65 in 1982, the combined benefit will increase from $1,018 to $1,093.

AN ORDINANCE CREATING A COUNTY BUDGET STABILIZATION FUND; MONEY; APPROPRIATION TO THE FUND OF GENERAL FUND SURPLUS; ADDITIONAL TAXES; MAXIMUM AMOUNT; INVESTMENT; EXCESS; APPROPRIATION OF MONEY FROM FUND; PURPOSES; DETERMINATION OF INSUFFICIENT REVENUES; CONSIDERATION; AND PROHIBITED USE OF FUND MONEY.

SECTION 1. DEFINITIONS

- (a) "County" means the County of Charlevoix.
- (b) "Board of Commissioners" means the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.
- (c) "Fund" means a budget stabilization fund.

SECTION 2. PURPOSE

The purpose of this Ordinance is to create a County Budget Stabilization Fund pursuant to Act 30 of the Public Acts of 1978, as amended, being MCLA 141.441 to MCLA 141.445.

SECTION 3. CREATION OF A COUNTY BUDGET STABILIZATION FUND

There is hereby created a Budget Stabilization Fund for the County of Charlevoix.

SECTION 4. MONEY; APPROPRIATION TO THE FUND OF GENERAL FUND SURPLUS, ADDITIONAL TAXES, MAXIMUM AMOUNT, INVESTMENT, EXCESS

(1) Each fiscal year following 1982 the Board of Commissioners of the County of Charlevoix may appropriate by an ordinance or resolution adopted by a 2/3 vote of the members elected and serving, all or part of a surplus in the general fund resulting from an excess of revenue in comparison to expense, to the fund.

(2) The County shall not impose additional taxes producing revenue in excess of that needed for its estimated budget in order to provide for money to be appropriated to the fund.

(3) The amount of money in the fund shall not exceed either 15% of the County's most recent general fund budget, as originally adopted, or 15% of the average of the County's five most recent general fund budgets, as amended, whichever is less.

(4) The money in the fund may be invested as provided by law with the earnings of the fund to be returned to the County's general fund.

(5) If the money in the fund exceeds that permitted in subsection (3), the excess money shall be appropriated in the County's next general fund budget, but shall not be appropriated to the fund.

SECTION 5. APPROPRIATION OF MONEY FROM FUND, PURPOSES; DETERMINATION OF INSUFFICIENT REVENUES, CONSIDERATION

(1) Money in the budget stabilization fund may be appropriated by an ordinance or resolution adopted by a 2/3 vote of the members elected and serving of the Board of Commissioners of the County of Charlevoix for the following purposes:

(a) To cover a general fund deficit, when the County's annual audit reveals such a deficit.

(b) To prevent a reduction in the level of public services or in the number of employees at any time in a fiscal year when the County's budgeted revenue is not being collected in an amount sufficient to cover budgeted expenses.

(c) To prevent a reduction in the level of public services or in the number of employees where in preparing the budget for the next fiscal year the County's estimated revenue does not appear sufficient to cover estimated expenses.

(d) To cover expenses arising because of a natural disaster, including a flood, fire or tornado. However, if federal or state funds are received to offset the appropriations from the fund, that money shall be returned to the fund.

(2) In determining whether the County's revenue is not sufficient to cover its expenses, a reduction in the amount of money received for the fiscal year from any source in comparison to the amount of money received for the previous fiscal year, including a reduction in the allocation of state tax money, shall be considered.

SECTION 6. PROHIBITED USE OF FUND MONEY

Money in the budget stabilization fund shall not be appropriated for the acquisition, construction, or alteration of a facility as part of a general capital improvements program.

SECTION 7. EFFECTIVE DATE

This Ordinance shall become effective on the 31st day of December, 1982.

SECTION 8. SEVERABILITY

If any section, subsection, sentence, clause, phrase or portion of the Ordinance is, for any reason, held invalid or unconstitutional by any court of competent jurisdiction, such portion shall be deemed a separate, distinct and independent provision and such holding shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions hereof.

This Ordinance is adopted this 9th day of June, 1982.

CERTIFICATE

The foregoing Ordinance was adopted by the Board of Commissioners of Charlevoix County, Michigan, by a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the full Board, on the 9th day of June, 1982, and was duly recorded, posted and authenticated by the Chairman of the Board and the County Clerk as provided by law.

On a continual treasure hunt

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

Pat and Jerry Sweet operate Yesterday's Treasures in East Jordan. An old grandfather clock got Pat interested in antiques and that interest eventually led to opening the shop.

You can look at antiques as investments—the best investment there is, according to Pat Sweet.

Sweet and her husband Jerry own Yesterday's Treasures, an antique shop in East Jordan.

But even if you keep them mainly for furnishing your home, Sweet said, you still would want to maintain their value.

The problem is, she said, that sometimes an old desk will get painted to match the rest of a daughter's room.

To recover the market value of the antique desk it would be necessary to remove the paint, Sweet said.

Besides, she added, antiques have their own character—something one would want to enjoy as is.

If you see something that looks like an antique, with one or more coats of paint on it, she said, try to see if the paint was put on over a coat of varnish. Varnish keeps the color from soaking into the wood.

Once paint has soaked into the surface, that's it, Sweet said.

Of course, if the paint job was part of the original concept, then it's something to keep. Sweet has an old dowry chest painted with the buttermilk-based paint used long ago.

On the ends, someone in another period of taste painted an imitation of wood grain over the original paint.

"That's all part of the story of the piece," Sweet said.

"You have to use a certain amount of feeling that may have to come by experience," she explained, "to know what to repair and what to leave."

"If you have a piece that is scratched or broken you might want it fixed up. But a wear mark on a chair rung, knife marks on a kitchen table—leave them. Some marks are considered part of the history of a piece."

She brought out a small set of drawers. On the top was a round black scar made long ago when someone forgetfully left a candle burning itself down.

"A good rule of thumb," she said: "If the original finish needs attention, it doesn't make sense to retain it."

Sweet said to refinish a piece of old furniture like the country primitives mainly available in this area, first clean it with something like Murphy's oil soap, then apply a sealer that sinks into the wood.

A coat of semi-penetrating finish follows, and finally a tung-oil varnish. Not a glossy varnish, and not a polyurethane, Sweet said. The first is not appropriate and the second is a non-penetrating coating which, Sweet says, can peel.

In the old days furniture was finished with linseed oil and turpentine. But, Sweet said, if an old finish is not repeated every year or so, the wood dries out.

She added, repeated oil finishing makes the piece become darker and darker.

The Sweets do a great deal of furniture restoration. Son Brian has taken over the stripping department, doing this also, of course, for customers with modern pieces.

When they first began acquiring antiques, Sweet said, their children thought it was all junk. They preferred living with modern things, but now that they're grown, she said, they are beginning to be interested.

It was her grandfather's mementoes that started her interest in antiques, Sweet said. Then she made her first antique purchase—a broken-down clock bought at the community auction at the East Jordan Tourist Park.

Five years ago it became a business, the buying, refinishing, and selling of antiques (which must be at least one hundred years old) and collectibles (items from more recent periods).

As she repairs those that need attention, Sweet says, she becomes more and more attached to them. When they are finally ready to be displayed for purchasers, she said she can hardly bear to part with them.

"But you can't keep everything," her husband says.

Artists open co-op gallery

Linda Beers Aydlott and her husband Jerry are two of the artists involved in Off-Bridge Street Artists, a new arts and crafts shop in Charlevoix. Artists from throughout the county are members of the group displaying there.

A playfully stylized stone-ware frog clings to a stone-ware vase. Soft wood scarves almost float from hooks on a display panel.

One-of-a-kind furniture, jewelry, clothes, and bronze objects, paintings, and photographs—the kind you never tire of—on display at Charlevoix's newest shop, are all produced by 15 artists from in and around the county.

Called Off-Bridge Street Artists, the gallery is owned and managed by the group "in a totally democratic fashion," according to Linda Beers Aydlott, who is one of the two, designing the jewelry.

"We voted on everything," she laughed. "When someone would say 'where do we put this panel?' we'd take a vote!"

The shop, located at 104 Clinton Street, is having its grand opening on Saturday, June 19, from 6 to 11 p.m. with refreshments and artists present.

Regular hours will be 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., the artists taking turns in its operation.

Besides Linda Beers Aydlott, the artists from the East Jordan area are her husband Jerry Aydlott, photography; Nancy Carey, photography; Nancy Riggs Koucky, weaving; Chuck Koucky, pottery; Daniel Cote, water colors; Robin McMillen, stained glass and woodworking; and Joe Spaulding, furniture.

From Charlevoix are Ray and Tami Bier, potters. Joe Moffit is a potter from Norwood. Steven Kendall of Petoskey does oil and water color paintings. Rebecca McMillen, from Boyne City makes dresses, pants, and shirts; Diane Hubert of Cedar, jewelry; and Scott Nelles of Rapid City, cast bronzes.

Most are also members of Artists North.

No more than four artists of a kind will be admitted to membership in Off-Bridge Street Artists, Aydlott said. They want variety, she explained, but not competition among the contributing artists and not too much of any one medium.

The members are contributing a monthly fee toward operation costs. They also vote on the inclusion of any new members.

Challenged over the use of the word "art" applied to objects designed for usefulness as well as admiration, Aydlott said, "Art includes crafts if the crafts are of a high caliber."

The bronze candlesticks there in the shop would be objects of art even if no candles ever burned in them. And in a photograph hanging on the back wall, a jewel-like frog clings to lily pads and dares anyone not to call it art.

The Old Baker still runs

Some people's pet thing is antique glassware, or maybe stamps. A.D. Graham's pet is an old steam engine.

The number of people who have driven by Graham's place on the East Jordan-Ellsworth Road and said, "Hey, look at the old steam engine," would probably break a Guinness world record.

Graham says it's the one he drove when he first got out of high school.

"I broke in on the thing when it was practically new... Hauled water for it, too."

The engine was built in 1924 in Swanton, Ohio, and Graham says it was first owned by a custom thrasher in Brown City. The concept of a movable power plant was very useful in those days, and the engine not only travelled around to power threshing machines but also sawmills.

Graham adds that it has also moved houses.

It weighs nine tons and the two cylinders together have 60 horsepower.

Out West, Graham says, where fields are big, such traction engines were used for plowing.

"It takes about a ton of coal on a hard day's work," he says. "Too expensive now, but coal used to be cheap in Michigan."

He says on occasion he still uses it to thresh, and, of course, every year drives it in parades in East Jordan and elsewhere, and takes it to the Polish Festival.

Graham lost sight of the engine when he went to work in Detroit in the '30s and '40s.

He and his wife Beatrice moved to East Jordan in 1945. "Worked for Bill Porter for eight years," he says, "and for 19 years for Mt. Clemens—Gulf and Western it is now."

It wasn't until 1967 that he saw the old Baker again. "I looked it up when I heard it might not have been cut up for World War II. Fellow from Detroit owned it. Took three years before he'd sell."

"Cost me $2,100," Graham smiles. "It cost $2,500 when it was brand new."

"Had to go through the whole thing to repair it," and yes, he says, he had to make the parts.

Graham belongs to an engine and thrasher club in Buckley which has a show every year.

The Baker, he says, is about average in age.

Down in East Jordan's Memorial Park is another old steam engine—built in 1909, Graham says.

Graham, along with a few others, has been going over

This Baker steam engine was built in 1924 at a cost of about $2,500. A.D. Graham, who had used it when he was young, rediscovered the machine and paid $2,100 to make it his in 1967.

the old engine to see if it would move.

But not likely—the boiler tubes leak, he says. And of course, this engine's huge weight requires it to run on tracks. But the old Baker is likely to be out and about again soon with parade and festival time coming up. And, who knows, we may yet get a crop of wheat.

Tree tripping

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

Girl watchers we have, and in more recent times we have added bird watchers. Even, of late, cloud watchers—making the scene in New York City.

To these let us today add tree watchers.

Tree watching is relatively safe and easy, of course, but it too has its refinements. Once we begin watching trees, it becomes clear that certain trees in certain moments of light or frost or wind are especially treasurable.

The other thing about tree watching is that it surrounds us with tree friendship, for if we observe the trees we pass on our daily errands, they gradually become our intimates.

Or is it written somewhere that we must take trees for granted?

It can become a matter of pleasant importance to look for favorites along various routes in the county.

There is, for example, the wide-reaching red oak at the corner of Zink and Pleasant Valley. And an ever-increasing list of others: the huge weeping willow on M-66 back of the house next to the florist's, and farther up the road on the left, a splendid white pine.

And there are the fluttery white poplars along the road at Ironton, the solemn, tall twin pines on Korthase, a lone hemlock on M-32, a non-native twisted sort of umbrella tree on Pleasant Valley in Boyne City, the maple near Elm Pointe that is the first to turn flaming red, and the list goes on.

Most senior of all our living associates, mature trees seem past trying to make an impression on us as we go by.

The young ones do swish and chatter, but their elders line the streets or command the hills with serenity enough to make us feel like impulsive children by contrast.

Have you ever walked under the pale green heaven of the silver maples along Park Street by the United Methodist Church in Boyne City.

Or, leaning against the trunk, looked straight up a beech tree, up through the branches where sunlight makes green lanterns of the leaves, up until your gaze breaks through to the blue sky?

They say plants respond to the feelings of other organisms nearby. They say we can talk to trees, but then why should we have to wait for what "they say."

We talk to horses, cats, parakeets. As easily, we can talk to butterflies, crickets, roses—and trees.

Perhaps it's a cultivated pleasure, tree watching, tree-talking, walking around one just to watch the shapes among the branches change, as the forms of statues change as we walk around them.

Tree watching is a bit easier come by, at least in northern Michigan, than going to an art exhibit, however. But as in art watching, the feeling for it grows and grows...

Boyne swim classes slated

Students must be seven years of age or entering second grade to register. The cost for the eight-week session, July 6 to August 25, will be $6 per child, not to exceed $13 per family.

Classes will be offered to pre-swim schoolers. These children must be four years of age by September 1982. These classes will be

Walloon water system fix-up loan sought

A $115,000 federal loan is being sought to upgrade the Walloon Lake Water System.

The privately owned system serves about 150 buildings, according to Joann Hass, Melrose Township supervisor and co-owner of the system with her husband Alfred.

The improvements would be a new well, an auxiliary well, reservoir repairs and distribution changes.

The 73-year-old water system serves three township fire departments as well as providing water to its 150 customers.

The state and district health departments have been seeking improvements in the system for several years, county planner Larry Sullivan said.

On Sullivan's recommendation, the county planning commission recommended approval of the loan application. The request now goes to the Farmers Home Administration, the lending agency, for review and possible approval.

The commission recommended against approval of a $1 million grant for Boyne Development Co. which proposes putting 396 mobile homes and 250 homes on an undisclosed site in Boyne City.
