This ruly-poly boardwalk is the East Jordan dock at the park near the Iron Works headquarters. Public works superintendent Mike Dionne has a plan to straighten out the wavy walkway.

Dionne has plan to straighten wavy dock

Improving the present city dock in East Jordan may be the way toward eventually realizing the hoped-for marina, according to an analysis by city superintendent Mike Dionne.

Dionne told city council pilings on the south side are not holding the dock on a level because they aren't securely driven into the lake bed.

"They're almost floating," he said. No matter what the work crews do to fix the dock, he said, the movement of the pilings will make the work fruitless, as the dock is continually pulled out of shape.

Dionne explained what is needed is to splice the pilings so that they would be long enough to drive deeply into the lake bed.

The present pilings, though not long enough, are of such good quality that they are practically irreplaceable, he said. "They are pressure-treated yellow pine," he explained, adding they are also extra-large in diameter.

He said the 18 pilings could be spliced with the city has on hand and the only purchase would be the sleeves (for splicing).

A good repair job would not only preserve the dock's utility, which, Dionne noted, is not going to continue much longer, but would provide a good basis for expansion into the projected marina, when funds for that should become available.

Dionne had consulted marine authorities in Traverse City as well as Hal Forbrig of Lake Construction Company in Charlevoix. The company is at present working a few miles up the lake shore, Vern Stark told the council.

It would, according to Stark, be economical to have Forbrig move his equipment from such a nearby point and do the job.

Councilman Al Joseph pointed out the city is required to advertise for bids on any job over $750.

Stark said Forbrig would only be in the area a week or so longer.

"The other problem is," mayor Archie Nemecek said, "we don't have money enough for it."

The amount remaining in the marina fund is $3,500, but it has been reserved for use as seed money if the city receives a state grant.

The parks and recreation commission, according to city clerk Len Morris, has only $1,800 left to be used on supplies for all.

Walt Thorsen of the marina commission said, "We're about third on the list (for state aid) if funding becomes available," but he put that possibility as far ahead as 1984.

"We're not in a very healthy predicament right now," Dionne said.

"But," a resident said, "we don't want to lose what we have."

Boat rentals have produced revenues of $1,800 so far this season, Dionne said.

The council voted to advertise for bids and to amend the budget to provide funds. The total cost for stabilizing the dock could be over $15,000.

Water Street work to start after Labor Day

Step two of the renovation of Water Street water mains will begin right after Labor Day, one year after the initiation of step one, Boyne City manager Tim Clifton told the city commission at its noon meeting Tuesday, July 13.

This second phase, affecting Water Street between Park and East Streets, has been budgeted as a capital improvement and is part of a five-year schedule of city maintenance.

Because the second phase will be done on the occasion of being used as a temporary street and side streets and to install more of the old-fashioned manholes were installed at the intersection of Water Street.

The water mains on the blocks between Park and East Streets, Clifton said, are being replaced. One of the reasons for this will be the elimination of the old-fashioned manholes.

About the same number of parking places as exist now will be allowed in the new plan.

Rommelmann, who represents Granger Engineering, said a permit will be requested to round off the east corner where M-75 turns down East from Water Street. This will make it easier for semi-trucks to negotiate the turn.

A permit is necessary because M-75 is under state jurisdiction.

This includes other proposals for the intersection involving redesigning the opposite corner to relate driving lanes to Water Street's last two blocks, and resurfacing the intersection.

It isn't likely the state will turn down the proposal, Clifton said, but neither can the city expect much help from the state in paying for the work on the intersection.

The project is budgeted at $100,000, the funds coming not from water/wastewater budget, Clifton emphasized, but from general fund and federal revenue-sharing.

To save money, another item on the capital improvement schedule will also be undertaken this fall. It will be traffic control island between the County Star plaza and Front Street.

The commissioners decided on having one central entrance to the plaza on Front Street and one on Vogel. Another entrance on Front Street will be allowed on the far left for service use.

Rommelmann pointed out on a street plan where the inside line of the cement island would follow the right-of-way. Thus the plaza stores would not be deprived of any of the parking lot.

With only two breaks in the traffic island along Front Street, pedestrians walking on the island would have more safety, the commissioners agreed.

Street traffic, too, would be safer. All three breaks would be, for both entrance and exit. The island would curve up at Vogel Street and run to the entrance by the line of store fronts.

Cost of the project will be between $10,000 and $20,000, Clifton said.

Utility poles would not have to be moved but work on storm sewers is necessary, Rommelmann said.

Right now they are simply holes cut in a corrugated pipe with gratings laid across the holes. The pipe is close to collapsing, Rommelmann said.

The plan also calls for four or five trees to be planted on the island.

School boards do 'housekeeping' work

Area school districts took care of their housekeeping chores Monday as they held their annual organizational meetings.

In Boyne City, president George Shiotelis was elected by his fellow board members to another term. Mark Behling was elected vice-president, while Eleanor West was named secretary and Ray Towne was named treasurer.

The board set the following meeting schedule for the coming year: August 9, September 13, October 11, November 8, December 13, January 10, February 14, March 14, April 11, May 9 and June 13.

Meetings are held at 7:30 p.m. on the second Monday of each month. Unless changed on a per meeting basis, the meetings are held in the media center of the high school. Special meetings may be called as needed.

Banks were chosen to hold various school funds. Monies will be deposited in Northwestern State Bank, First National Bank and Trust, and Michigan National Bank of Grand Rapids.

The board also renewed its membership in the Michigan High School Athletic Association, which allows sports teams to participate in state-wide tournaments. There is no cost for membership.

A letter of retirement from teacher Betty Adgate was accepted with regret, and teacher Ricka Jarema was recalled from layoff. Jarema will teach high school science, replacing retiree Henry Lentz.

Board member Bill Chipman was named as the board's liaison with the Michigan Association of School Boards and as its representative to the Char-Em Intermediate District board. Eleanor West was named Char-Em alternate.

Boyer Falls school board's new line up is Art Saworski, president; Jim Churchill, vice president; Bob Winhusen, secretary; Don Wilson, treasurer.

The board formally approved the 30.47-millage request for 1983-84.

The new gym floor should be ready by school time, according to superintendent Carl Moser, with concrete poured this week and the wood flooring going in early in August.

The school's skylights were sold to John VanDorn of Boyne City, the only bidder.

Marilyn Bradford was approved for the position of social studies teacher. She will also coach girls' junior varsity basketball. Girls' varsity coach will be Joe Donaldson.

Decision on a new bus was referred to transportation committee for more study.

Boiler repair is necessary and bids will be advertised for.

Following an executive session, the board voted to inquire into the cost and availability of services of a professional negotiator.

It also voted for a 5 percent salary increase for administration. Board meetings will continue to be on the second Monday in the school library.

At the East Jordan school board meeting, officers chosen were Mary Jason, president; Bob Sherman, vice president; Ed Drenth, secretary; and Herb Griffin, treasurer.

The board voted to retain the law firm of Trun, Matthew, Maatsch, and Nordburr.

They also authorized a $900,000 tax anticipation loan to carry the school until winter tax collections are available. Bids will be advertised for.

Jason and Sherman will be the negotiating committee, with Griffin appointed as alternate.

The board joined the Michigan Association of School Boards, and appointed Griffin as its delegate to the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District.

Activities for the Unlimited Potential group were awarded $1,000 with the faint possibility that the state would award a second thousand. Last year to get started, the group had $2,000 from the state.

BC to hold tax hearing

The Boyne City school board will hold a public hearing on whether it can levy taxes already approved by voters.

Confused? It's all because of the state Truth in Taxation Law approved earlier this year.

Under the law, a government cannot collect more money from property taxes than it did the year before (excluding collections on new construction) unless it holds a hearing and passes a resolution to levy additional millage.

That additional millage is not really additional millage, though. It's the same 21.3 mills voters approved in June plus the county allocation of 9.1 mills which the district has gotten for years.

And that's a 10th of a mill lower than a year ago.

So what's the hearing and resolution all about?

Because assessments have gone up on individual properties, raising the total State Equalized Valuation of the district (that's the total of all the individual properties), the district would get more money than last year—which the law says it can't do without going through the hearing and resolution procedure so residents know they will be paying more.

Of course, they've been paying more for years as assessments have gone up. The law doesn't change that, it just requires school districts, cities, villages and townships to hold the hearings.

Boyer's Truth in Taxation hearing will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, July 26, in the high school media center. It will be followed by a special meeting of the school board at 8.

The "additional" millage the district will be levying if it approves the resolution will be 1.98 mills. The total school operating millage will be 30.4 mills. A year ago, the schools operated on 30.5 mills.

Without the resolution, the board would only be able to collect 28.42 mills and would have to cut the budget and or dip into the $175,000 expected to be left over at the end of the year.

Superintendent Rich Kelly anticipates needing that money next year, though, because he doesn't think assessments will rise as much as the 9.09 percent hike they took in 1982.

The 1.98 mills represents a 6.96 percent increase in millage over what could be levied without the resolution.

Hudson shows off new fire hall

Last August, Hudson Township residents voted to have their own fire department.

By September they finished the fire house—a concrete block building attached to the township hall.

By October they had their new $56,000 fire truck. "Are you sure you want a new one," the board of trustees had asked the residents. "A new one," they said firmly.

So the chassis, according to township treasurer Joan M. Wasylewski, is from Fletch's Garage, Inc., Petoskey, and the fire apparatus, built onto the chassis, is from Wolverine Fire Apparatus.

"No fire yet, thank goodness," Wasylewski said. "Hope the truck never gets used!"

Hudson Township has had no fire in the past year, she said.

"We had a contract with Elmira-Warner Fire Department for the south end of our township and with Melrose Township for the north end," she explained.

But Hudson decided a year ago it would be better financially and otherwise to vote a one-mill tax for 10 years and be independent.

"On Saturday, July 18, between 2 and 4 p.m. we're having an open house," Wasylewski said. Fire fighters will show the equipment, refreshments will be provided by the women's auxiliary, "and people can come see what their tax dollars bought," she said.

"We're really well equipped. We also have a used truck converted into a tanker," she added.

Seven men and one woman (Marlene Guerin) have taken a first aid course and a course on fire fighting in Petoskey, Wasylewski said. They are the core volunteer fire fighters. Gary Erber Jr. is fire chief.

Additional members are coming in when the courses are again available.

"We did a lot of research," Wasylewski said, noting that they checked out information with other townships, and from the state got all those guidelines that turn out to be expensive, but no doubt will soon be mandatory, she said.

Each fire fighter has a monitor at home. The Emmet sheriff's department sends the call out to the monitors after it is received at the sheriff's headquarters.

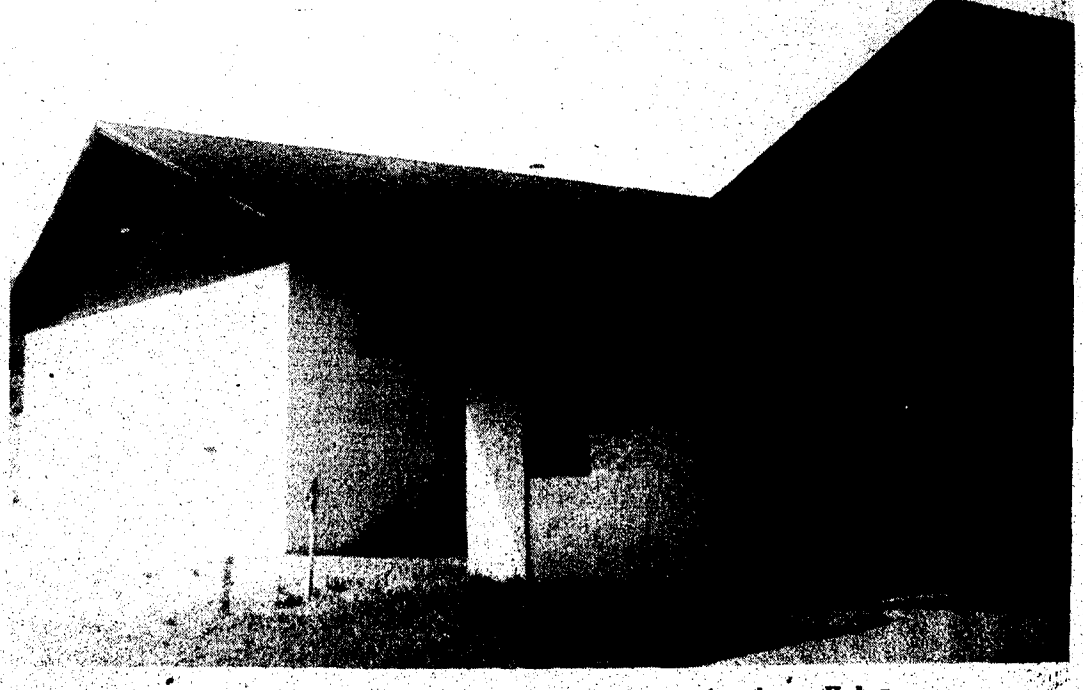

Hudson has to be dispatched by the Emmet County sheriff, Wasylewski explained, because, although Hudson is in Charlevoix, the county's monitoring tower is so far to the west the signal is not dependable.

Thus, until the Charlevoix sheriff's department can put up a more centrally located tower, Hudson fires should be reported to the Emmet County sheriff. Wasylewski gave the new number that she said everyone in the township should copy down. It's 347-2032.

Even with so much accomplished, there is, however, outfitting still to do. The women's auxiliary has had a bake sale and an auction and has bought three suits and the badges, so far.

"The badges cost $200!" Wasylewski noted.

Neighboring townships, at least, will have high quality fire fighting assistance to call on. Hudson itself still plans on having no fires.

An open house will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday, July 18, at the new Hudson Township fire hall attached to the township hall. The township is starting its own fire department after years contracting with neighboring communities.

Engaged?

The Charlevoix County Press publishes engagement and wedding announcements without charge.

Pictures are welcomed, but we do suggest a few guidelines. Good quality black and white photographs, either of the couple or bride-elect, are preferred. All photographs are kept on file in the Press office and may be picked up at any time following publication; those pictures not picked up after six months will be discarded.

Wedding and engagement announcement forms are available at our office or will be mailed upon request and the receipt of a self-addressed stamped envelope.

While we try to publish each announcement the week that we receive it (and in the case of weddings, the first publication date following the ceremony), space constraints sometimes force us to delay the printing of the announcement for one or two weeks. Therefore, we ask that information be received at least two weeks before the intended publication so that we might better plan for its publication.

We will not accept wedding announcements received more than four weeks after the wedding.

Caught between Canada and a trickle

The rising price of ego....
Twenty years ago when you made a mistake in public you often felt like two cents. Make a mistake in public today and there is no way you can feel less than a quarter.

Question: How come there are so many hills around Boyne City?
Answer: The glacier came down here about a thousand years ago and made them.

Question: What happened to the glacier?
Answer: It went back for more dirt.

The loss of our H2O and all that nonsense....
The high court allows as how no one section of the country owns the Great Lakes. The very dry and thirsty sunbelt states got wind of this and now are renewing their tinhorn attempt to pump our clear, cool water from here to there. They are serious about a water pipeline.

But hark! Canada has as much claim to the Great Lakes as the U.S. does. And that noise from the sunbelt could provoke another "Falkland Islands" incident. If the sunbelt states don't shut up, Canadian troops will come and we, the innocent, will be caught in the middle and slain until it hurts.

The Falkland Islands have thousands of sheep. The Great Lakes have thousands of fish. Personally, I think that sunbelt pipeline idea smells like a bunch of fishy sheep dip. Let me repeat that in case you didn't catch it the first time: Fishy sheep dip. Fishy sheep dip.

Did you know that you can now get a free lesson in economics at the bank? You can and I got mine. It happened when I went in and asked for a loan at five percent interest.

Socialite: A person who does many of the same things you do, but is accepted anyway.

There's a can of nails on the shelf in the garage. Out of the five hundred or so, two or three are bent and unusable. Whenever I reach into the can for a nail I always seem to pick a bent one. It's like when you owe a man money. Of the thousands of people around, you are forever meeting him on the street.

Now, about draining our lakes so the sunbelt states can build more swimming pools. Such an act might also reduce the flow of water in the Boyne River. Perhaps to a trickle. A trickle, mind you.

Our forefathers built Boyne City around the river; and they slipped into their graves with no hint of claptrap from the south. Now, suddenly, their grandchildren are faced with a choice: Be shot by the Canadians or go fishing in a trickle.

I'd sure hate to be the one who is called upon to make that decision.

Frank Spencer always arrives at our morning coffee table wearing a hat. I didn't think much about it until someone asked why the rest of us always came in empty headed.

Riding with that old man and his spear

After a long day of short-term disappointments, unexpected bills, and hard work, here I was, riding home on the dial-a-ride bus. One of the problems had been a sudden breakdown in my car.

The bus ride is a pleasant experience, if you discount some of the bumps that make your eyes spin.

The driver is a good neighbor to the passengers. And takes them home down all those turn-off dirt roads, winding over the hills in the setting sun—those roads you wished you could explore yourself if only gas didn't cost so much.

The passengers are delivered to their farflung destinations. Now the driver has only you—and another 8 miles to go.

All this for only 60 cents. I begin to think of the tax money used to subsidize the bus service. It is a needed service.

There are so many needs. But over and over I have heard people in the money business saying inflation and the federal deficit are parallel.

The more the government spends above the amount of real money it takes in, the higher the inflation.

So everytime I hear someone say, "We're applying for a grant," I shudder, even though some people do make money from inflation (politicians), and even though "the money is there, so somebody's going to get it—it might as well be us."

And I get to thinking about Don Quixote, the Spanish gentleman, who put on the armor of a knight and went out to do battle with wickedness in high places.

See him go now. Up the marble steps of the Capitol he clatters on his bony horse. Then, eyes flashing with wild righteousness, he pinions a lobbyist to a column with his antique spear.

"Ah, antiques!" shouts the lobbyist, used to slipping out of such pinning-down. "That's it! Invest in antiques! With antiques you won't lose out to inflation."

Poor Quixote. It's worse than the time he charged, spear set, at a windmill back there in ancient Spain—thinking near-sightedly that it was a giant.

Or maybe that isn't Quixote, hidden in the armor. Maybe it's Kennedy saying, "Ask not what your government can do for you...."

Or Ford, turning down appropriation bills. Veto, veto, veto. Or Carter.

But, alas, white knight, how would I have gotten home tonight?

How would we have low-income housing or nice new marinas, to mention a few goodies.

And how the inflation still goes on. Lower, but still destructive.

How about it, Quixote? Would you ride around and tell people, don't ask your Congressman or state representative to ask for more money for your district? Would that be a loser, too?

It's been a long day, and the IRS just wrote to say I hadn't sent them enough.

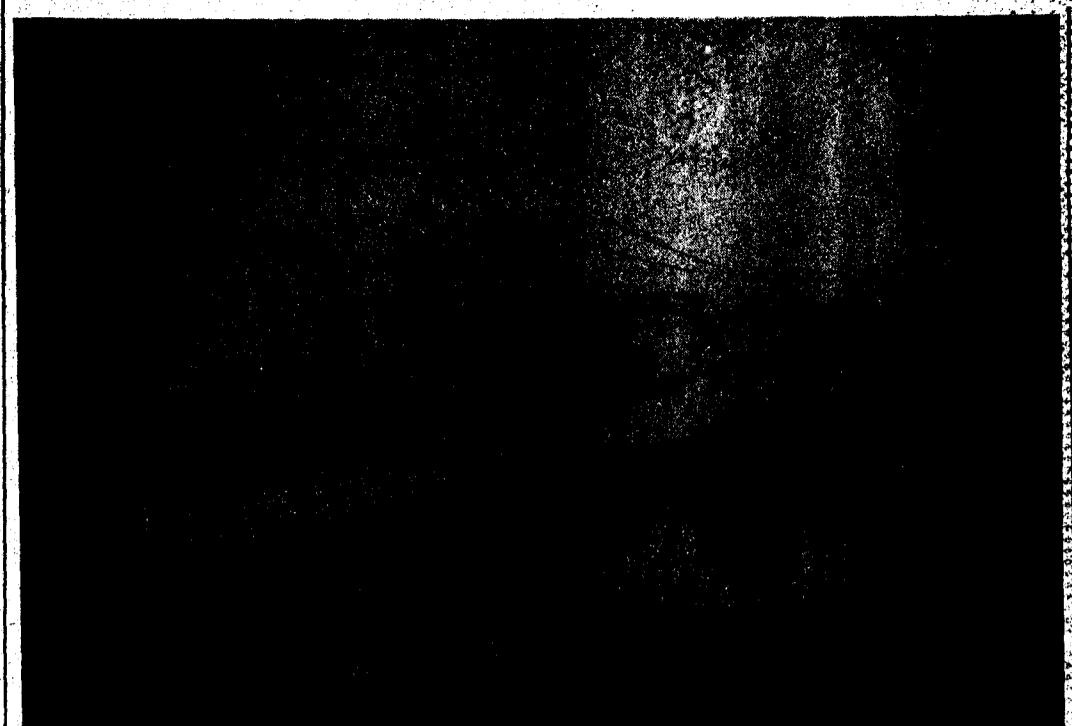

I think of the antique spear. The fight's been going on a long time, hasn't it.

The country road curves, and suddenly I see—each one glowing rose red as only they can do—yes, roses. Leaning over the edge of the dusty road toward us.

Look, Quixote! Did you see them?

Roses by the road. Beautiful, beautiful red roses blooming beside the road.

Festival lauded by EJ residents

Editor
We would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce board of directors, members, and Jordan Valley Festival Committee for presenting one of the finest 4th of July weekends in many years.

There was something to do minute for all ages and by the smiling faces and good feelings shown by all, others felt the same as we did. The parade was especially great this year and the local entries were super! It was heartwarming to see all of the local civic groups and church groups working together saying "Yes to East Jordan" and making the Jordan Valley

Festival a great one.
We had friends and relatives up from lower Michigan and I know they were impressed with all the fun things to do in a small and friendly community like East Jordan. We live in a great area!
Keep up the good work!

11TH District U.S. Representative

Small business plays a major role in northern Michigan's economy. However, many people are not aware of the extent that small business contributes to our nation's economy. Approximately 98 percent of the businesses in this country are classified as small (500 or fewer employees, excluding farms).

Small businesses account for almost half of the private sector Gross National Product and employ half of the workers in this country. Businesses with fewer than 20 employees provide two out of every three new jobs. About half of the new products developed since World War II were developed by small business. These products include such major innovations as the gasoline engine, the air conditioner, and the electric light.

Although small business is the source of our economic strength, smaller companies have a much harder time surviving periods of economic problems. Small businesses are failing at a rate of 25,000 per year, because they obviously do not have the resources and assets to fall back on that larger companies do.

Despite a good deal of controversy, Congress overwhelmingly has agreed to earmark a small portion of federal research and development money for small business.

The Small Business Innovation Research Act (H.R. 4326) sets aside 1.25 percent of each federal agency's research and development budget for small business. This amount would be phased in over a four-year period, beginning with 2 percent the first year. The bill also excludes from the set-aside in-house research, intelligence agencies, the Agency for International Development, and those agencies with budgets for research of less than $100 million.

There are minor differences between the House and Senate versions which still must be worked out, however, because of the strong support for the measure in both Houses, a small business set-aside bill should be signed into law this year.

Small businesses receive a minuscule amount of federal R & D funds now—as little as 3.5 percent overall and much less from certain agencies. A recent study showed that 80 percent of industry's research and development is done by only 200 firms. We all know that the cost per innovation in a small firm is much less than in a large one. As a result, small firms produce up to 24 times more innovations per R & D dollar than large ones, and their innovations are brought to market sooner than those of larger firms.

Large corporations and universities should not suffer from sharing such a small amount of the R & D money they've become accustomed to receiving, and the entire country should benefit from this bill.

13 graduate from Ferris

Thirteen county students graduated from Ferris State College this spring.

Kristine Cornell of Boyne City received a bachelor's degree in data processing. Susan Lillis of Boyne City received a bachelor's degree in criminal justice. Ronald Massey of Boyne City received a bachelor's degree in management.

Cynthia Morgan of Boyne Falls received an associate degree in commercial art.

Sundquist to be honored

Emma Sundquist of Boyne City will be honored Sunday, July 17 as the First Baptist Church, under the direction of Rev. John Beard, will celebrate Emma Sundquist Day.

The honoree has been a member of the church for 75 years, serving in every possible capacity.

2 candidates in Hudson

Two candidates are vying for the Hudson Township supervisor post vacated by Ron Crinki earlier this year.

Frank Wasylewski, who was appointed to replace Crinki until after the election and Don Griffith have filed as Democrats and will face off in the Aug. 10 primary. There are no Republican candidates.

The name of the winner in the primary will go on the November general election ballot, where the only possible challenge could be from a write-in candidate on either the Republican or Democratic side.

Guest at churches

Guest preacher at the Boyne City and Boyne Falls United Methodist Churches on Sunday, July 18, will be the Rev. William Mertz of Bay View.

His topic will be "The Danger of Emptiness." Erma Strangstad, organist-director, will arrange for special musical selections.

Jessup court dedication

Dedication of the Catherine C. Jessup tennis courts at Rotary Park in Boyne City will take place at noon on Tuesday, July 20.

Jessup was serving on the Boyne City commission when she died about a year ago. She had been actively involved in Rotary Park and establishing the courts.

Church picnic at Whiting

A church family picnic will be held at Whiting Park at 1 p.m. Sunday, July 18, for the Boyne City United Methodist Church.

Families are asked to take their own table service, food to share around the table, swim suits or other recreational materials.

"Best patch in the state" says Ag specialist

Out in a field, south of East Jordan, there's a green square, about a quarter-acre big—full of bushy potato plants.

They belong to Ledah and John Bennett.

Gordon Harris, the state potato inspector, said he's been all over Michigan and these are the best he'd seen.

A quick visit to the Bennett's farm reveals not just one potato patch, but two. The Bennetts put the quarter-acre patch in on April 29, and a second planting went in on June 1.

No, he didn't wait for the dark of the moon, Bennett smiled, though some do.

The earlier patch is mainly for digging through the summer to sell at the Boyne City Farmers' Market, Bennett said. But the Bennetts have already dug some for their own favorite scalloped potato dinner.

"Ate them June 30th," Bennett said.

The history of Bennett's potato growing began 60 years ago. "Always had potatoes," he said. "We've been on this place 30 years."

Ledah Bennett helps with the gardening. She enjoys it. Of course, they have the other usual garden crops, as well as the potatoes.

They plow in the rye cover crop and plant Red Pontiac potatoes, and fertilize them with 16-16-16. The Red Pontiacs are good for baking as well as scalloping. In the old days potato growing was big business around East Jordan. Now it has moved over to Elmira, Gaylord, and Alba, Bennett said.

The potatoes the farmers would keep for themselves would be buried in pits in those days with one foot of dirt and one foot of straw to keep them from freezing.

"You can do apples that way, too," Bennett added. But he has a root cellar, himself. That's for the second patch.

John Bennett says even a cold June didn't spoil his potato crop, rated best in Michigan by state potato inspector.

Cihak fills vacancy in EJ

Ellen Cihak has been appointed by the East Jordan City Council to fill the vacancy left by Russ Dietrich's resignation.

Dietrich, resigning because of illness, has another year to go on his term. Cihak will serve until the November election. She is running unopposed for the vacancy in the election.

Also nominated for the appointment was former councilwoman Pat Sweet. Sweet was proposed by councilman Cal Gotts because of her previous experience. She is running for the full term third ward vacancy in the November election.

Sweet was seconded by councilman Al Joseph, but the Cihak nomination was supported by Bud Kenny, Darwin Morris, and mayor Archie Nemecek.

Councilman Russ Gee was absent.

As Cihak took the oath of office, thunder rumbled from an on-coming summer storm. "That could be a sign..." said fire chief Dick Barnett.

In other matters, the council praised the Chamber of Commerce for arranging an outstanding Fourth of July celebration.

It expressed appreciation for the Bridge Tournament club's donation of $100 to the Civic Center—making the group a member of the center's Century Club.

The council approved spending $1,241 for a pager and for a new radio needed by the ambulance department. The radio is required for licensing the back-up ambulance.

Ambulance chief Ernie Hammond said the purchases would run $176 over funds budgeted for these items. The overage would, however, be covered, he said, by money from the ambulance donations fund.

The radio was purchased from the state because, Hammond said, "Nobody can beat state prices." But a bump on M-66 that the ambulance department has complained about will not be repaired soon after all.

Hammond said the railroad tracks crossing M-66 south of Charlevoix were to be torn up, but a new company has asked to service Medisa Cement in Charlevoix and may be awarded use of the rail route.

The possibility of a farmers' market in the city will have to wait until entrepreneur George Sackett can find someone to rent land from for it. His request for city property was denied in accord with city regulations which deny commercial use for non-city projects.

Complaints were brought to the council on littering caused by yard sale signs not being collected after the sales were over. Mayor Nemecek said citizens could follow up on their responsibilities.

A plea was made to "Please remove old Garage Sale signs", and a special Thanks was offered to all the people who made the 4th of July Festival so great.

Meeting adjourned about 9:20 p.m.

EJ City Council minutes

PROCEEDINGS OF EAST JORDAN CITY COUNCIL

East Jordan City Council met in regular session Tuesday, July 6, 1982 at 7:30 p.m., Mayor Nemecek presiding and all members present except Councilman Gee.

Minutes were approved, authorization was given to pay $62,395.55 in bills as presented, authorization was given to order a pager, radio and charger for the Ambulance Department, and bids will be advertised for repairing the City dock.

The Ambulance made 32 runs during June; Ellen Cihak was appointed to Third Ward Council position to fill a vacancy; St. Joseph's liquor License and Dance Permit were approved for their annual bazaar; Judy Shea was appointed to the Harbor Commission to replace Steve Brennan; Northern Michigan Hospitals Tag Day will be July 30th; a Farmers Market was approved; and Election Inspectors were appointed for the August Primary and November elections.

A plea was made to "Please remove old Garage Sale signs", and a special Thanks was offered to all the people who made the 4th of July Festival so great.

Meeting adjourned about 9:20 p.m.

A copy of the official minutes of the above meeting are posted at the City Hall for perusal during normal working hours.

STATEMENT OF NONDISCRIMINATION July 8, 1982

Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative, Inc., P.O. Box 138, Boyne City, Michigan, 49712, has filed with the Federal Government a Compliance Assurance in which it assures the Rural Electrification Administration that it will comply fully with all requirements of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Rules, Regulations of the Department of Agriculture issued thereunder, to the end that no person in the United States shall, on the ground of race, color or national origin, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be otherwise subjected to discrimination in the conduct of its program and the operation of its facilities. Under this Assurance, this organization is committed not to discriminate against any person on the ground of race, color or national origin in its policies and practices relating to applications for service or any other policies and practices relating to treatment of beneficiaries and participants including rates, conditions and extension service, use of any of its facilities, attendance at and participation in, any meetings of beneficiaries and participants or the exercise of any rights of such beneficiaries and participants in the conduct of the operations of this organization.

Any person who believes himself, or any specific class of individuals, to be subjected by this organization to discrimination prohibited by Title VI of the Act and the Rules and Regulations issues thereunder may, by himself or a representative, file with the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, or this organization, or all, a written complaint. Such complaint must be filed not later than 180 days after the alleged discrimination, or by such later date to which the Secretary of Agriculture or the Rural Electrification Administration extends the time for filing. Identity of complainants will be kept confidential except to the extent necessary to carry out the purposes of the Rules and Regulations.

Jerry Sulak III of East Jordan learns first-hand how handcuffs work during the American Legion Cadet Officer Program at Northern Michigan University in Marquette. Twenty-six high school students took part in the program designed to give students interested in law enforcement careers an opportunity to see what they may be getting into. Sulak was the lone participant from the Lower Peninsula. Cuffing him is Marquette Corporal Hank Steede. Wray Vassar, program coordinator, looks on.

Hospital annual meeting set

Charlevoix Area Hospital's board of directors annual meeting will be held Tuesday, July 20, at 8 p.m. at the hospital. The meeting, to which the public is invited, will include reports from the board, administration and treasurer on the status of the hospital. An election will be held to fill three positions on the board. Tom Carey of Charlevoix, Roy Bruneel of Boyne City, and C. Max Novak of Charlevoix, have indicated they will stand for re-election to the board for three-year terms. Other nominations will be accepted from the floor. All members of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Association are eligible to participate in the election.

Boosters pledge to keep sports operating

Golf event for juniors

New officers for the East Jordan Athletic Boosters' Club are getting set for one more year of backing the school athletics program.

President Larry Chanda, who succeeds Buck Cihak, said, "I've got confidence we're going to make it again."

The Boosters have pledged $10,000 for the coming year.

New vice-president Alina Meade, secretary Ginny Carey and treasurer Ed Drenth round out the coming year's officers.

Total after-school athletics budget, Carey said, is set at $35,000, which is $5,000 more than last year. The gate receipts could amount to $10,000. Added to the Booster pledge, this leaves $15,000 to be picked up by the school district.

In addition to their cash support from donations and fund-raising projects, the Boosters also provide all kinds of labor, from coaching to cleaning up the field after games. This includes ticket takers, concessions, and many other details.

At their June meeting, the school board approved the appointment of principals Bud Ashton and Don Peters to be athletics department heads for their respective schools.

The program provides for girls' basketball, cross-country, running, and football in the fall. Winter sports are boys' basketball, girls' volleyball and skiing. In the spring both boys and girls have track, the girls have softball and the boys have baseball.

At the Boosters' first meeting for the new year on Monday, July 12, three committees were set up.

"All are super-big jobs," said Carey.

The concessions committee will be chaired by Lee and Linda Spence. Membership committee is in the hands of Lynda Ostrom and Bonnie Thomas. Alina Mead and Chris Hribljan will co-chair the Glen's slips committee.

"This will take the co-operation of all our members," Carey said. She noted a group of students helped by phoning members for the Monday night meeting.

"We decided to order Devil T-shirts, duffels, and jackets," Carey said. They will announce later what outlets will carry them.

Meetings for the Booster Club are on second Mondays. The next one will be Aug. 9.

August 4 is the registration deadline for the Springbrook Hills Junior Open golf tournament.

The tournament for golfers 14 years old and younger will begin at 8:30 a.m. Friday, August 6.

Trophies will be presented to the top finishers.

Entry fee is $3. Non-members must also pay greens fees.

For information call the golf course at 535-2413 or Jim Kelly at 535-2595.

CMU grads

Six county residents were named to the Honors List at Central Michigan University for the winter semester.

Patrick Anzell of Boyne City received straight A's.

Also making the Honors List with a grade point average no lower than 3.50 out of a possible 4.0 were Terri Morgan of Boyne City, Sheryl Cook of Charlevoix, Roxann Frank of East Jordan, Allan Stallard of East Jordan and Kimberley Barnett of East Jordan.

Co-ed softball tourney slated

The fifth annual Rotary Park Co-ed Softball Tournament will be held July 30-August 1 in Boyne City.

Proceeds from the 14-team, double-elimination tourney will go to continue work on the sports complex.

Teams in the co-ed tournament must consist of equal numbers of male and female players. There will be 10 players on the field at one time — again half of them male and half female. Teams may have up to 20 members.

Players must be at least 13 years old.

American Softball Association rules will be followed and umpires will be furnished by the Northern Michigan Umpires Association.

Entry fees will be the same as last year — a $50 sponsor fee and a $3 per player fee.

Sponsor trophies will be given to the top three teams. Members of the winning team will receive individual trophies. There will also be a team sportsmanship trophy awarded by the umpiring crew.

A concession stand will be open throughout the tournament.

Tournament director Lynda Christensen may be reached at 582-9555. Checks payable to Rotary Park Project may be mailed to Christensen at Box 1817 Marshall Road, Boyne City.

City putting sign on beach

A city sign, 4 by 8 feet in size, will be set up at Boyne City's new beach to warn bathers that there are no life guards, and that bathers should beware of washed-in glass and slab wood.

City manager Tim Clifton said at the commissioners' noon meeting Tuesday, July 13, that city workers, helped by residents, filled seven truckloads with the debris last week.

"It's not glass thrown on the beach by residents," Clifton explained. It is being washed in.

The city will groom the area with a "beach leach," Clifton said. Trash cans will be placed there also.

And a swimming area will be marked by buoys. He said swimmers should be aware of pilings if they swim outside the marked area. "They are too big for us to pull out," Clifton said.

Although the beach is located next to the city sewage plant, it is safe, Clifton said when it was made available almost a year ago.

The beach was made possible with the dredging for Harborage marina nearby. Harborage deposited some of the sand dredged up along the shoreline to give city residents a convenient spot for swimming and sunbathing.

Changes in Social Security checks

Changes in the past 12 months have strengthened the financial position of Social Security and have lessened benefits, according to Gordon Sattelmeyer, Petoskey branch manager.

One of the changes with greatest impact, he said, is in student benefits for those age 18-22. These payments will be phased out, with a 25 percent reduction in the years 1982, 1983 and 1984 until payments will no longer be made starting in May 1985.

There will be no further cost-of-living increases and no payments in May, June, July and August.

There no longer is a guaranteed minimum of $122 for new beneficiaries. Rather, they will be paid the actual amount due based on an average of their earnings.

Beneficiaries whose checks started coming in December 1981 or earlier will continue receiving the minimum.

A lump sum death payment of $255 will still be paid but now is limited to a spouse living in the same home at the time of death or to a spouse or child who in the month of the death is eligible for a Social Security benefit based on the deceased worker's record.

No one else can receive the lump sum. In the past, it was paid to estates, funeral homes or other eligible persons in every case.

Retirement benefits now begin with the first month a person is age 62 for the full month. If age 62 is reached, for example, in July, the first check comes in August. Prior to this change, checks started in the birthday month, regardless of what day the birthday occurred.

Payments to parents of children receiving benefits will now end when the last child reaches age 16 rather than age 18.

Beginning in 1983, a working beneficiary will get full benefits regardless of earning at age 70 or older. The upper age limit before the change was age 72.

Social Security disability benefits are not designed to be life-long benefits. Full reviews of all cases on a three-year cycle are now underway.

Sattelmeyer said the changes were designed to reduce program costs to the Social Security Administration without drastically affecting workers receiving retirement, disability or survivor benefits.

Further changes are under review by a national commission scheduled to report to President Reagan by December 31.

Symphonette percussionist breaks stereotype

Think of a percussionist and what image comes to mind? The one in the back of the orchestra who sits for long periods of time counting measures of music then suddenly jumps to his feet with a crash of cymbals, a thunder of timpani, or, taking a whack at the bass drum runs back for a gentle "ting" on the triangle. This is the percussionist.

David Wiles, a percussionist with the Northwood Symphonette (and Midland and Saginaw Symphony Orchestras) is skilled in all the stereotyped techniques of percussion, but his true artistry goes far beyond.

He is a composer, innovator and maker of instruments that make sound. He is fascinated with sound. "Think of a romantic candlelit dinner," he says, "that is the mood and image I like to think of when composing and performing my 'sound-sculptures'."

He does just that, shaping and creating textures with sound. Whether with ceramic bells, welded brake drums, metal "stroking rods," antique temple bells, wind chimes, marimba, timpani or tam-tam, Wiles involves the audience. They become participants in his creativity.

A graduate of Interlochen Arts Academy and Oberlin Conservatory, he has successfully combined the life of an artist with the life of a performing professional musician. As a former instructor at the Midland Center for the Arts in metal-smithing and sculpture, he is always observing, searching out new welding techniques, new materials and new ways to ferret out "the sounds."

There is another facet to Wiles, as president and owner of The Gumbo Rubber Stamp Company. Wiles is a "nut" about rubber stamps, even to the point of incorporating their use in an original composition during a recital as a 1980 associate fellow at the Northwood Institute Alden B. Dow Creativity Center.

His home is his studio. Fascinated with construction, it is always in some new phase of remodeling. The tantalizing aroma of one of his vegetarian concoctions welcomes visitors. It is a whole-wheat crust filled with a ratatouille mixture, smothered with melted cheese...something of a cross between pizza, quiche and a casserole. Music plays from the first step on the porch where his metal sculpture "door-bells" herald your arrival, to the speakers and stereo emanating haunting sounds of Harry Partch, Black-Earth Percussion or, David Wiles.

Wiles is a gentle soul. One of those rare individuals who is instantly likeable. He believes in what he is doing; whether installing solar panels for efficient use of energy (his family owns a wood stove, window-insulation, solar-heating business), cooking 15 recipes of his cheese and vegetable combination to put into the freezer, processing orders for his rubber stamps that come from around the world, or talking about his music. He is a sincere hard worker who is in perpetual motion and a thinker who wonders about things. Marks of creativity.

Wiles will complete work toward his masters degree in music at the University of Michigan this fall. He has been there often, performing with The Current and Modern Consort, a group of percussionists dedicated to playing new compositions. Many are the works of David Colson, founder and conductor of the ensemble, who is also a member of The Northwood Symphonette.

Wiles and Colson are in the vanguard of the sound of the future. Wiles' rubber stamp business now has designs for "color notation" of music. He finds his diversified interests an advantage when creating new sounds. "Soothing percussion," he calls it, "solo percussion is creative but must have credibility that goes beyond emotions." Wiles has the credibility. Watching him perform is a happy experience for audiences of all ages.

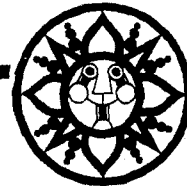

Wiles is a featured soloist during The Northwood Symphonette's Festival of the Lakes tour of northern Michigan. He performed July 4 on Mackinac Island and will appear July 15 in Charlevoix. The piece he will perform is by Heuwell Tircuit, an American composer who has spent a great number of years living and composing in Japan. "Odoru Katachi" is the title of the two-movement concerto commissioned by Thor Johnson in 1962 for the Chicago Little Symphony.

The commission by Johnson stipulated that a "demanding" piece for solo percussion be written for a versatile chamber orchestra. Johnson conducted its premiere 20 years ago and 168 additional performances of the work.

The concerto reflects the influence of Tircuit's many years in Japan. Freely translated "odoru Katachi" means the essence or soul of dancing. The piece utilizes many rhythms of Japan with the first movement indicative of Noh and Kabuki ideals and the allegro movement representing street musicians. The score calls for the use of an atare-game (metal triangle). Wiles fashioned one by welding an old brake drum to get just the right sound.

75th anniversary for WL yacht club

As Commodore Pierce Bray puts it, the Walloon Yacht Club isn't so much a building as it is an idea. And the idea is boating.

"You don't have to be a sailor to be a member," Bray said, however. "We have a large number of members who don't race themselves, but like to see the races."

This summer the Walloon Yacht Club, with a membership of about 80 families, is celebrating 75 years of sailing, power boating, and boat-watching.

Bray, who came into the Walloon experience in 1960, said, "Many people grew up in the yacht club—even several generations."

For the celebration, Bray said, 16 races are scheduled through the summer for Highlanders, 17s, Snipes, and for open class. Even non-members will have a chance, the commodore said, sailing in an all-boat race this weekend.

The 17s, according to a former commodore Marjorie Kroeger, were designed specifically for Walloon waters. The keel-type sailboat, now popular elsewhere as well, is named for its 17 square meters of sail area, she said.

Walloon Lake's irregular shoreline and hills make for irregular winds. That unpredictability makes sailing Walloon interesting, Kroeger said.

Whatever the cause, Walloon is the scene of a "most active sailing program," Bray said. And if anything, he added, the sailing is increasing.

"People value things that are natural," he said. "That's why people like sailing." Of course, the club is not made up of old salts. Bray said, "Some are experts. Some are not. Everybody has fun."

The club has a manager who is also the club pro. Indeed, Bray said, manager Steve Church's wife Nanette is also a pro with the advantage of being a native of the original sailing country—Norway. She and Steve give sailing lessons to students of all ages.

Sailing isn't all of Walloon Yacht Club. Power boating has its innings, too. Motor boaters made up most of the membership of the club when it formed.

In addition, the club members gather for dances and other social events.

"We're having a dance Sunday, August 1," Bray said.

"And August 7 is the date of our big 75th anniversary celebration," said Kroeger.

The Walloon club was formed on September 1, 1907, with 34 charter members. Many of those early members were summer residents from Indiana. A couple were permanent Petoskey residents.

The first commodore was Fred C. Adams of Kansas City. Elected as vice commodore was Arthur Nulsen and named as secretary-treasurer was Xene Y. Smith.

Membership fee was $1 and annual dues were also a dollar.

Early records, which Kroeger watches over, are incomplete. They show the club was reorganized in 1926 but not why or how.

Through its first 50 years the club used private homes and the Walloon Lake Country Club to hold meetings and social events.

In 1957—the club's golden anniversary year—it moved into a building in the Walloon Village area.

Ten years later the club built a storage building on the country club grounds and moved its meetings to the country club.

In early years races were held on Walloon and at other clubs such as Bay View. A three-race regatta was held each year on Walloon.

One of the boats used on the lake at that time was the W, a forerunner to the 17 which was also built locally. There were only six W's built before the 17's came into being in the 1930s.

The Review Trophy Races began in 1946 and continued for a dozen or so years. Walloon's trophy case contains three trophies from that series—one for each of the three times it won the series for three straight years.

Other clubs participating in the series were Burt Lake, Little Traverse, Harbor Springs, Crooked Lake and Belvedere.

A high point in the club's 75 years came in 1978 when it hosted the National Highlander championships.

Forty-six Highlanders from around the nation participated in the six-race event.

Kroeger says the event was notable for the varying wind conditions which prevailed throughout the week. Boats would often find themselves in dead spots, she said, as other racers whisked by, driven by powerful gusts.

On the cover

Seventeens, a boat designed for sailing on Walloon Lake and now used extensively elsewhere, take part in a race on Walloon last Saturday.

Walloon is one of the most heavily raced lakes in the north.

Walloon racers

BY STEVE CHURCH

The congenial competition continued on Walloon this week, with the Sunfish enjoying exhilarating conditions both Tuesday and Thursday, while Saturday was marked by light airs for the Country Club series of two races.

Fickle winds did not dampen enthusiasm of appetite as Ginnie Nelson's crew fed 65 on the west lawn of the club between the races.

Results through Saturday are:

West Arm sailing

BY DAN ANDREWS

The West Arm Sailing Club had its first race of the 1982 season on Saturday, July 10, on a day that had a little of everything: wind, no wind, rain, sun and overcast skies.

Elfven sailboats entered the race on the West Arm of Walloon Lake. Crossing the finish line first were John Andrews and Mike Scriven in a Hobie 16.

The next series race for the WASC will be on Saturday, July 24, at 2 p.m.

Symphonette members serenade at gallery

The old and the young will be featured Wednesday, July 14, when two members of the Northwood Symphonette will be playing on the front porch of the Old Bay Street Garage, now known as Gallery Christine, Plus, in Harbor Springs.

The "young" are Anne Precuill, harpist, and Robin Poor, flutist, who will fill the afternoon with music.

"They are so good you wouldn't believe it," said Sally Schorr, local chairwoman for Symphonette activities, referring partly to the fact that the two musicians are in their last year of college.

Schorr said that besides music, there would be helium balloons to float around on the harbor breeze.

Visitors may look at art while listening to music if they come inside the gallery.

The Old Bay Street Garage, as it was known for many of its 100 years, is these days ultra modern, the walls inside hung with the latest in contemporary art.

Nine years ago Christine and Gordon Jeynes started the art gallery on the premises.

They pushed walls back to make more room for Gallery Christine, Plus. The old balcony outside in the front of the building was taken down, Jeynes said, much to the dismay of local people.

But only because it was on the verge of falling down. The Jeynes promptly restored the balcony in safer condition.

From it is a splendid view of the harbor.

In the old days it looked

For want of a nail the shoe was lost; for want of a shoe the horse was lost; and for want of a horse the rider was lost; being overtaken and slain by the enemy, all for want of care about a horseshoe nail.

Franklin

down also upon the extension of the railroad that brought summer people up from mid-western cities.

Here they de-trained with their big steamer trunks, the ladies and gentlemen be-hatted and be-gloved.

Horse-drawn buggies and then chauffeur-driven cars were brought to the old garage for repair, and Jeynes said the place was the favorite for chauffeurs who gathered to gossip about their families and the latest in automobiles.

Nowadays, you step through the door to be greeted by a miniature scrap of stateliness known as David. David is a tiny Yorkshire dog of perfect unflappability. The Jeynes say he is the "Plus."

Bronze figures by John Mills; wood figures by Latvian sculptor Julius Skroderis, 90 years old; realism, abstraction, expressionism in paintings by artists across the United States and Hawaii; stone sculpture by Glen Michaels; raku and porcelain figures and vessels by Hanne-lore fill the gallery.

"People," Jeynes said, "are beginning to realize they can get fine art here, not just in London or New York."

She gravitated to an oil painting of a modern sailboat.

"This is by Paul Van Demark," she said. She explained that his work is not only appreciated for its beauty, but also for its technical accuracy, rated top notch by sailors. Not far from the taut sails of Demark's boat, the Harbor is filled with its counterparts, blown along by the same crisp breeze that's blown there for 100 years—and more.

Event at Show of Hands

Show of Hands of Petoskey announces a special "Christmas in July" taking place July 12 through 17.

For those unfamiliar with Show of Hands, it is one of Northern Michigan's most unique businesses. A cooperative started in 1979 by a few local craftspeople has now grown to over 100 contributing artists and craftsmen.

High quality and personal service prevails in the shop which is ideally located at 408 Petoskey St., across from the large municipal parking lot between Howard and Petoskey Streets.

Annually, a day is set aside to introduce new items to the public. This year so that summer visitors in the area may take part in this event the week of July 12 has been designated for a display of the many Christmas items Show of Hands has to offer.

Plan on more than a "quick glance" while visiting this shop as there are four rooms of high quality, one of a kind items.

Hours are 10 A.M.-5 P.M. Mon.-Fri. and Sat. 10-4.

Young Americans put 4 shows on the road

For the first time, the American Musical Theatre and the Young Americans are touring from Petoskey down through Michigan and to Fort Wayne, Ind., with four musical theater productions. Petoskey is the summer home of the Young Americans musical group. Opening the season is a musical variety show that honors Richard Rodgers and his work with Oscar Hammerstein. Precision choreography and vocal harmonies work together to make this an evening of fun for the entire family. Following "To Richard Rodgers, with Love," is the 50's musical "Grease." The latest revival hit on Broadway is a humorous operetta written by Gilbert and Sullivan called "The Pirates of Penzance." The fourth musical is the Broadway and movie hit "The Music Man." This is the schedule of performances:

Petoskey: Richard Rodgers: July 13-16 and Aug. 20-22, Grease: July 20-23 and Aug. 10-12, Pirates of Penzance: July 27-30 and Aug. 13-15, The Music Man: Aug. 3-6 and Aug. 17-19.

The Music Man: Aug. 9. Saginaw: Richard Rodgers: July 22-23, Grease: July 29-30, Pirates of Penzance: Aug. 5-6, The Music Man: Aug. 12-13.

Fort Wayne: Richard Rodgers: July 24-25, Grease: July 31-Aug. 1, Pirates of Penzance: Aug. 7-8, The Music Man: Aug. 14-15. Kalamazoo: Richard Rodgers: July 27-28. Lansing: Richard Rodgers: July 26.

Traverse City: Richard Rodgers: July 17-18, Grease: July 24-25, Pirates of Penzance: July 31-Aug. 1, The Music Man: Aug. 7-8.

Grayling: Richard Rodgers: July 19, Grease: July 26, Pirates of Penzance: Aug. 2.

Art Day at Interlochen

The art department at Interlochen's National Music Camp will present an "Art Day" on July 17. The all-day event will feature demonstrations in the visual arts, live music and dance.

From about 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the courtyard behind the art building, art department faculty and students will demonstrate various art media such as raku pottery, plaster face-casting and painting form model.

Visitors may also view a student exhibit in the gallery. The exhibit, exploring several media, opened on July 10 and will close on July 24.

Faculty and students from the dance department will perform modern dance throughout the day, improvising to the sounds around them. Live music will also be provided by students and faculty.

Northern notes

The Ironton Ferry appeared in Ripley's Believe It or Not. Ferries have been traversing the 586 feet across the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix at Ironton since 1876. The present ferry was built in 1926. It is operated by the Charlevoix County Road Commission.

Willis and Judy Planck and children spent six days vacationing in Detroit last week. They attended a Tiger ball game, saw the Detroit Zoo and visited relatives. Then it was on to Sandusky, Ohio, and Cedar Pointe.

Mike and Ronda Brasch of Sault Ste. Marie visited her parents Jim and Wilma Socia last weekend. Also visiting was another daughter and son-in-law Greg and Brenda Walsh and children.

The Clarion reunion will be held at March Inn again this summer on July 17. All old students from Clarion school, their spouses and families are invited. It will again be a potluck dinner and get-together.

Arden and Delores Barnhart of Warren visited all their families in Walloon and her mother Jesse Padgett of Boyne City on the 4th of July weekend.

Norm and Kathy Stevens and their two daughters of Livonia visited his parents over the weekend. Michelle, the eldest granddaughter, stayed to visit her grandparents for a week.

There were 40 family members at a family reunion at the A.C. Fineouts last Sunday. Attending were Versa's sister Jackie Bates and Jim and Julie Bates, mother Myrtle Bates, Larry and Helen Fineout, Jill Christinson, Dennis III, Bill and Marion and Tim Lang of Portland, Phyllis Bates and children from Petoskey, Janet Adams and daughter Shawn from Rexton, Jean Fineout of Charlevoix, Bob McGee, Jim and Jan Fineout and Jeff, Terri and Natalie of Engedine, Kevin and Lynn Fineout, who is in the Air Force in Florida, Ron Fineout from the Army and from California, Rose Ann Jeppen, Robin, Scott, Mandy and Helli from Boyne City.

Bruce and Pam Carlson and daughter Jessica of Sterling Heights spent the 4th of July weekend with her parents, Bob and Gloria Hull.

Sunnyview means apples, pears

The bright yellow signs on Route 32 and Mt. Bliss Road near East Jordan say, "Sunnyview" and point the way to Francis and Stella Otto's apple and pear orchards.

The young couple purchased the 115-acre farm in Jordan Township from Eva Brighton who operated the orchard under the name Brighton's for a number of years.

"Last year was our first full year," Stella said. Before that she "interned" at a cherry farm while her husband Francis interned with Gerber (baby food) vegetable growers.

Now Stella managed Sunnyview while Francis commutes to his Gerber's job.

She said she is expanding the orchards, setting out more young apple trees, sweet cherries, peaches, and apricots.

This is in addition to the 20 acres now in mature apple trees and another 20 in pears.

Pears are Stella's favorites. They have Clapp's Favorites, Bartletts, and Boscs, she said. And most of the varieties of apples.

The Ottos plan to continue marketing the fruit and offering it for pick-your-own, as well.

Castle aim: older audience

The "Oak Ridge Boys" are the featured attraction at Castle Farms Music Theater's first concert geared toward an older audience.

In the past five years the Castle has presented top rock acts aimed at teens and young adults.

Changes have been made in the audience area of the outdoor theater to accommodate family and adult concertgoers. Reserved seating for 3,000 people has been added and the berm has been grass-covered for those not in the reserved seating area.

The Oak Ridge Boys have won numerous awards in the past three years, including best instrumental group in country music, best country band and best vocal group in country music.

Thanks to their big hit "Elvira," they have become one of the most successful contemporary country groups in America.

The "Oak Ridge Boys" will appear at the first "Michigan Summer Stroh Down" at the Castle on Saturday, July 17.

Other concerts already announced for the Castle are Rick Springfield, Heart and John Cougar.

Beaver Island shows off its museums

Beaver Island Museum Week will be held Monday, July 19, through Saturday, July 24.

The event is sponsored by the Beaver Island Historical Society in an effort to generate interest in the island's colorful history.

Dedicated to preserving the island's past, the society collects and exhibits in its museum artifacts from the three cultures which have dominated the island — Indian, Mormon and Irish.

The Marine Museum exhibits items from the island's once-thriving fishing and lumbering industries. The museum is housed in a renovated net shed located on the harbor.

Crafts demonstrations and a used book sale will be held each day in the Print Shop Museum.

The following special events are scheduled during the week:

Monday — the Sweet Adelines and Local Favorites entertain on the porch of Print Shop Museum at 8 p.m.

Tuesday — Protar home tour.

Wednesday — Children's tour of Print Shop Museum and Marine Museum. Also, slide show presentation of Galapagos Islands by R.V. Dietrich of Central Michigan University at Marine Museum at 8 p.m.

Thursday — Pet show, "all ages and sizes of pets and owners welcomed," at Print Shop Museum at 2 p.m. Also, slide program and talk on history and natural history by Elaine Smith in Marine Museum at 8 p.m.

Friday and Saturday — Attic treasures sale in Print Shop Museum from 1 to 4 p.m.

Walloon readies for annual auction

The fourth annual Walloon Lake Auction and Garage Sale has been set for Saturday, August 7.

The location will be the same as previous years, Vert Vile's Boat Storage, 4356 Smith, Walloon Village.

The sale starts at 9 a.m. rain or shine. The committee is headed by Homer Golden of the Ed Behan Tweed Shop.

Golden said, "The total area deserves a big pat on the back for the tremendous success of last year's sale. The media, the workers, and the customers accomplished three things last year and we're looking for the same this year. Number one, they had a good time. Number two, they were able to purchase a lot of bargains. Number three, they added to the fund that is devoted to the quality and preservation of the watershed known and loved as Walloon Lake."

The committee is collecting items such as antiques, furniture, appliances, boats, sporting equipment, toys and tools, household items and collectibles. Drop-off points have been established around Walloon Lake. Anyone with items too large to handle may call Roy Belknap at 347-4379.

Other drop-off points are: Dr. William Heisel, 6849 Indian Garden Road, Ray Blanz, 6638 Lake Grove Road, Dr. John Hauser, 2808 Wildwood Harbor, Bill Fisher, 5073 Country Club Shores, Pete Rentschler, 2816 Shadow Trails Road, Carl and Priscilla Rasmussen, 1140 North Shore Drive, Mary Beier, 484 W. Wildwood Road, Jim Kurtz, Raycraft Road and Vert Vile's Boat Storage, 4356 Smith (off North Shore Drive).

One early donation bound to be a crowd pleaser is a Chris Craft 1951 mahogany "Holiday" boat. This gift has been made by a longtime Walloon Lake resident and the boat has always been used on the lake.

Another early arrival is a 14-foot mahogany German-built sailboat in top condition.

Pennsylvania Pete will be the auctioneer. Food will be available with the proceeds going to the local Boy Scouts.

The committee is assisted by the Walloon Lake Volunteer Fire Department. All donations are acknowledged with a tax deduction certificate.

For further information, call Golden at 347-8107.

Error will slip through a crack, while truth will stick in a doorway.

Art auction-chance to get 'gussied up'

A gala affair for art lovers—and just lovers of gala affairs—will be the Auction for the Arts at the Virginia McCune Arts Center Thursday, July 22.

The Epsilon Jass Band will be playing as people begin to gather at 7 p.m.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m. right after bids have been awarded for the day-long Silent Auction, the art auction will put on the block paintings, sculpture, pottery, and fabric designs donated by the artists, and antiques and art pieces by private donors.

Lynne and Tom Borman of Petoskey, who are chairing the event, say the fund-raiser can be an excuse for getting as "gussied-up as you wish." A cash bar and complimentary "snicky-snacks" will be available, and for those who don't want to lose their place in the bidding, waitresses will ferry orders from the bar.

This will be the third annual auction to "promote the arts and the continuation of all that the Crooked Tree Arts Council supports," Tom Borman said.

In the broad range of categories to be auctioned will be such items as wood-block prints, Victorian chairs, a kite by a custom kite-builder ("It has a handsome design on it," said Borman), one-of-a-kind pottery—"Oh, and there's a fabric design of iris flowers, stretched over a frame, with the irises padded into a third dimension," Borman added.

Items will be on display till the auction at the Arts Center for study by prospective bidders. Some will have a minimum bid limitation.

Auctioneer will be a well-known and effective bidder from Detroit, Borman said. Her name is Dory Diggs.

And some things will be auctioned off by people from the area, known for their flair for these things.
