County voters reject Dial-A-Ride tax

Charlevoix County voters soundly rejected a tax request to help fund the county-wide bus system when they went to the polls Tuesday.

Fifty-six percent of the nearly 3,100 people who cast ballots were against increasing property taxes by 29/100ths of a mill to subsidize the Dial-A-Ride service. The vote was 1,753 no, 1,328 yes.

Up to this point the bus system has been funded by a combination of state grant money, fare box receipts and county funds. When the county signed its initial contract with the state to start up the system, commissioners said they would ask voters for tax support when funding became more than 50 percent local. The funding is at that point.

A county board vote earlier this year provides funds which should keep the system alive until at least August 1983.

In a county commission race involving three Boyne City incumbents, Oral Sutliff outpolled Casimir Toton and Marvin Loding as well as non-commissioner William Underhill.

The totals were Sutliff 99, Loding 76, Toton 43 and Underhill 27.

Long-time county board chairman Clyde Cunningham was ousted in his attempt to gain an eighth term. He placed third in balloting for the district five Republican nomination on the western side of the county.

East Jordan voters will be choosing between Cal Gotts and Bill Merwin when they select a new mayor in November. Gotts was the leading vote-getter among three candidates for the post being vacated by Archie Nemecek.

Gotts received 194 votes and Merwin collected 153. The third candidate, Al Joseph, received 97 votes.

Here are the results of other local races and ballot proposals:

BAY TOWNSHIP

Voters rejected a request to buy the old North Bay school building from the Boyne City school district. The vote was: 97 no, 31 yes. The school was last used in 1961 and has been a Bay community center on an off-and-on basis since. The purchase price was to be $8,500.

BOYNE VALLEY TOWNSHIP

A proposal to renew a three-quarter mill levy for two years to provide fire service and to levy a quarter-mill for two years to operate the township garbage "green box" was approved 109-36.

EAST JORDAN

Besides the mayor's post, city residents will vote on city council candidates in November. Running unopposed in the first ward is Keith Kenney, Gigi Antoine is unopposed in the second ward.

In the lone contest, Pat Sweet will run against Jake Roberts for one seat in the third ward. Ellen Cihak is unopposed for a second third ward post.

HUDSON TOWNSHIP

In the race for supervisor, Frank Wasylewski beat out Don Griffith in the Democratic primary. The vote was 48-46. There were no Republican candidates.

MELROSE TOWNSHIP

Joan Hass was the lone candidate for the supervisor's post. The Republican received 67 votes.

PEAINE TOWNSHIP

A proposal to renew a 1.25 mill levy for four years to help operate the Beaver Island airport was approved 28-23. A second proposal, to renew a four-mill levy for road improvements, was defeated 27-24. Voters defeated 35-16 a request for 1.25 mills for four years to operate the township hall.

ST. JAMES TOWNSHIP

Voters approved a request to renew four mills for four years for general operating funds. The vote was 39 yes, 28 no. They also approved a request to renew 1.25 mills for four years to operate the island airport. That vote was 35-33.

WILSON TOWNSHIP

In the race for supervisor, Raymond Guzniczak defeated Louis Fall in the ## Country Star lot fix-up scrapped

Plans to change the entrance to the Country Star Plaza in Boyne City have been put on hold for a year by the city commission.

The commission decided to table proposed storm sewer reconstruction and traffic island placement because the city and the plaza owners could not come close to agreement on what the traffic islands should look like.

The city had proposed islands which would funnel traffic into the shopping center through three entrances—two on North Lake and one on Vogel.

The plaza merchants, while favoring leaving the entire opening of the parking lot open to the street, last week presented an alternative which provided for islands at both ends of the lot and one at the center of the opening to the street. This would leave two 200-foot expanses for vehicles to use in entering and exiting the lot.

"Since the city proposal is completely unacceptable to them and their proposal is completely unacceptable to the city," mayor Keith Fitzpatrick said at the noon meeting Tuesday, "I think we should table it for a year so something can be worked out."

The construction was included in a $120,000 capital improvement plan approved in the 1982 city budget. The bulk of the work is in reconstructing the second block of Water Street in the manner in which the first block was done last year.

This includes constructing new sewer and storm sewer lines, repaving the street and reconstructing the sidewalks with pedestrian pods at the ends of the blocks.

The city was also going to have the North Lake Street work done at this time because the contractors had agreed to doing the work at a reasonable price because workers and equipment would already be in the area, city manager Tim Clifton said.

Clifton and several commission members said they did not want to spend the money to tear up the stretch in front of the plaza to replace the crumbling storm sewer there unless they were going to install the pedestrian and traffic-flow islands at the same time.

Commissioner Bill Grimm said he thought the Vogel Street side of the parking lot was a critical area because the roadway-parking lot separation is not clearly defined.

Commissioner Martin Paul suggested the city try to get the state highway department to lend a hand in planning the lot entrance since the road in front of the plaza is the most heavily traveled in the city. The road is a county road and not under state jurisdiction, but Paul said he thought the state would be willing to assist anyway.

Clifton told commissioners the present situation, where traffic can enter and exit anywhere along the nearly 250-foot stretch, was an example of poor planning by the city many years ago.

After the lot was paved, the city required installation of a storm sewer and only a "make-shift" pipeline was strung across the entrance, he said. That pipeline has since crumbled, leaving a paved gully running along the side of the street.

The decision to hold up on the Lake Street work will not effect the Water Street construction, for which contracts have already been let. That work is supposed to start right after Labor Day.

Harborage, BC reach new accord

Boyne City has approved changes in its agreement with the developers of the Harborage townhouse project following a meeting between the city manager and the owners.

Also, developer Rick Smith told the city commission at its noon meeting Tuesday, changes are being made in the berm which runs across the street from the complex. Complaints about the berm were aired by a resident at the meeting a week earlier.

Smith said he, his brother Dave and city manager Tim Clifton met to revise the 1979 letter of agreement between the city and developer after commissioners suggested making periodic updates of the pact at a meeting a couple months ago.

He pointed out that the construction schedule is "absolutely on target" as far as unit construction is concerned. The plan called for 36 units to be finished two years after construction began and Smith said 34 would be because one building was made two units smaller.

Realignment of Front Street, which was a hot issue when the Smiths proposed it, was originally set for approximately two years into the project. It is now scheduled to take place in 1983.

When the project is complete, projected for 1986, it will contain 108 units.

Smith said projections of this sort are "only as good as the information at the time you make them." Weather, the economy and demand all effect the construction schedule, he said.

Smith told commissioners plans to modify the berm on Front Street had been in the works for a few weeks, but work did not start until this week.

A neighbor had complained to commissioners that visibility was diminished and that snowplows would have trouble in the area.

Smith said his engineers did not agree with that assessment, but the berm had not been built exactly the way it was supposed to have been in the first place.

He said it was built with lawn mowing in mind, but sloped more than the developers wanted.

Work to move it back began Monday, Smith said.

A llama leaps over the back of a camel during a performance of the Franzen Brothers Circus in Boyne City on August 5. In photo at right, fingertip precision is required as an acrobat balances atop a sphere. The circus attracted large crowds to its two shows.

Walking around an art show can produce some tired feet, so this visitor to the Portside Art Fair in East Jordan last weekend cooled her heels in the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix. Flint printmaker Dave Bigelow was awarded the purchase prize by Judge Carol Wald. Other prize winners were potter Charles Koucky of East Jordan, Traverse City jeweler Sheryl Cameron and photographers Dave Wellman of Indian River and Wayne Kent of Cadillac.

Landfill report encourages BC

Boyne City will continue to operate the city landfill as it has in the past, encouraged by city manager Tim Clifton's report that the landfill is safe.

In place of the expensive well-drilling tests asked by the Department of Natural Resources — so expensive that no northern Michigan cities have been able to afford them—Clifton had asked the county health department to test the wells of people living nearest the landfill.

Results of the bacteria tests showed no contamination. Clifton said bacteria tests are key to any possible contamination by various pollutants.

Health department director Dean Mikulski said that although the wells tested satisfactorily for bacteria, other results were not yet in.

"We don't want to say everything is okay," Mikulski said. "Nor that the landfill is at fault, if it should turn out otherwise."

He explained that the wells could be upstream from the groundwater under the landfill. He emphasized that that and other factors would make any results subject to interpretation.

The other results Mikulski referred to were tests for specific pollutants like perchlorethelene, found in solvents.

The ethelene family is used in degreasers, Mikulski said, by households as well as business and industry, and he mentioned paint thinner, for one.

Another solvent used constantly is toluene, he said—an ingredient in nail polish remover.

"You know it's got to be pretty wicked if it takes off nail polish," he said.

The health department staff is waiting for the state laboratory to send results on tests for these chemicals.

Mikulski said further that Littlefield Township wells tested okay as far as bacterial contamination went, but that they tested as contaminated when the full scan was in.

Clifton, who is on the county landfill committee, said, "If the state wants to close the Boyne City landfill, it is up to the state to prove it is polluting."

He said the city is operating a safe landfill, according to Act 81 (which preceded the presently enforced Act 641). And he referred to the recent Gladstone and Delta County court case which concludes that the state will have to pick up the tab for any costly changes ordered, as outlined in the Headlee Amendment.

Clifton reported that in a solid waste committee vote on acceptance of the final landfill plan, he voted no.

In general, it was a good plan, he explained, except that it asked Boyne City to operate a mini-transfer station in the industrial park or along M-75 south "in the area of Control Engineering and Top o' Michigan Rural Electric," instead of at the city's present landfill.

Convenience for other communities that might use it and road beds were cited as reasons.

That plan will be reviewed by the city commission August 17. A public hearing by the landfill committee will be held September 30 after all communities have had a chance to review the five-year plan ordered by the DNR under Act 641 of 1978.

Mr. and Mrs. Rex Green of Deer Lake will celebrate their 50th anniversary with a party that begins at 3 p.m. Saturday, August 14, at their home on Boyne City-East Jordan Road. They were married August 17, 1932 in Flint. Rex was born in Boyne, then moved to Flint where he met Alma, who was born in Roscommon. After he retired from AC Spark Plug in 1971, they moved to Boyne. Expected for the party are sons Ramon and Arnold, nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Rural views wanted in D-C

Northern Michigan Congressman Bob Davis says residents of rural areas should accept the invitation extended by the agriculture secretary to express their views on the future of rural development.

Secretary John R. Block

has asked citizens across the nation to write to the agriculture department on the needs and problems of rural residents.

Davis says Congress recognized the importance of this public consultation in the Rural Development Policy Act of 1980. The act calls for the secretary to submit to Congress a comprehensive rural development strategy that is based on the needs, objectives and recommendations at the state and local levels.

"People who live and govern in rural areas know best what their problems are and how to plan for the future," Davis said. "These citizens have, by the nature of their existence, been traditionally self-sustaining, independent people and I know they have some good ideas about government and its place in their lives."

Since the first rural strategy is to be developed by January 1983, comments must be received by August 25. Davis says comments can be sent to his Washington office: Attention Rural Development Coordinator, 1224 Longworth House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515, or directly to the Office of Rural Development Policy, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

More than 100 people attended the 50th wedding anniversary of Curt and Fern Roberts of East Jordan. Relatives and friends from as far away as Texas, Kentucky and Illinois attended a party at Whiting Park. The Jordan River Black Powder Club, of which the couple are members, was well represented and presented the pair with a Confederate flag.

Counting the people in Boyne Falls

Q. What did you do Saturday?
 A. I went to Boyne Falls to count the people.
 Q. What abnormal fancy drove you to do a thing like that?
 A. I needed to know how many came to the Polish Festival.
 Q. What was the sum total of your final figuring?
 A. It was either 10,391 or 10,390.
 Q. Then you don't know exactly?
 A. No. I went into the polka tent and one man was jumping around so fast I couldn't count him.
 Q. Why didn't you grab him and hold him still until you could count him?
 A. Polacks resent being grabbed and held still during a festival.
 Q. Why didn't you round off the number and make a wild guess about how many were there?
 A. I tried rounding off a wild Polack years ago and I am still wearing a back brace and false teeth.

 Q. Anyone who tries to count heads at a Polish Festival is a fool. Why were you trying to fool with the nice people of Boyne Falls?
 A. I was representing the festival chairmen of Boyne City, East Jordan and Charlevoix. They had secretly commissioned me to determine if the Polish Festival drew more people than any of their own summer festivals.
 Q. What are you going to tell them?
 A. I've got to report that my findings are incomplete because of that man who wouldn't stop jumping around so I could count him.
 Q. Do I detect an indication that you are stupid?
 A. Anyone who went to the Polish Festival and returned without a scratch is: 't stupid. He is just short of a genius.
 Q. Oh, so now you are a short genius with an incomplete number of wild Polacks who wouldn't stand still at the festival?

 A. Yes, you have summed up the total result of my final figuring.
 Q. So, what are you going to do next Saturday?
 A. That, my friend, is none of your damn business.
 Q. Oh, oh. A foul mouth. And right after you left the Polish Festival. Remember your back brace and false teeth. Do you want to be further thrashed, or thrashed further?
 A. I'm not worried. Once a man has been thrashed by a Polack any further thrashing is a waste of time.
 Q. Tell me, did you enjoy the celebration?
 A. Indeed I did. I was quite excited with the festival's highlight. It came when that man in the polka tent swung at me and missed.

The two-legged chair

"Madame Chairwoman—er, I mean, Mrs. Chairlady, er, chairwoman—!"
 Dealing with parliamentary nomenclature in this transition period, it's enough to make a person climb the walls just to get the floor to table a discussion.
 While it sometimes sounds as though it is a furniture shop, parliamentary procedure is really the guardian of our democratic way of life.
 And the seat of it is the concept of "chair."
 People who have been squabbling over chairman vs. chairwoman could have it easily resolved if they reverted to the original title, chair.
 When they say that "chair" is too impersonal a term, they are ignoring the very element that makes the whole thing work. In democracy, it isn't a particular person, but an idea that is important, and the first idea is that all persons are of equal importance.
 If, in the necessity of obtaining order, one person is in charge, how do you keep democracy from turning into dictatorship?

By a simple but remarkable arrangement, embodied in the "chair."
 Few people understand the value of the arrangement until they become chairmen or chairwomen, themselves.
 It calls for the chair person to be totally without power to express or direct his or her own opinion. That's why the office is the chair and not the person, because, of course, no person is without opinions.
 The function of the chair is only to provide order.
 Thus, the chair can ask if someone wants to make a motion to do this or that, but may not recommend such a motion, and certainly may not make such a motion him- or herself.
 The chair is bound to observe parliamentary procedure which has the actual effect of law, not only on the organization presided over, but also in the world beyond.
 Parliamentary procedure sounds involved, but it can be compressed into a few pages. Because of it, by knowing procedure, every person has an equal opportunity to project ideas and have them weighed by all the others.

 We may have become so accustomed to it, or so frustrated through lack of knowledge of how the procedure protects us, that we don't appreciate how remarkable, rational, and impartial a vehicle it is.
 Especially in that it copes with such irrational and partial beings as we are.
 So Madame Chairwoman or Mr. Chairman, whoever you may be, consider when you sit in the seat of power, the power is in the seat, not in you, a power that has existed maybe forever in our hearts, but only in the last years has been realized for us.
 As for nomenclature, in the spirit of impartiality, "chair" is the best, but to adapt to our present practices and especially to our present realizations, chairman is appropriate only if it is a man. Chairwoman is for her. Use chairperson only if the gender is unknown, or mixed, as in, "Chairpersons of all workshops will meet early." Simple!

Letters

Editor,
 I recently received the following letter and would like to share it with the people of Boyne City.
 It reads:
 "We have been property owners in The Villa De Charlevoix for 10 years. Our chalet has been used primarily for vacationing and ski weekends.
 "With the prospect of retiring we considered selling and moving to a more progressive community such as Charlevoix. We never thought of Boyne City as such.
 "That is until this year. The city is beautiful. The merchants have certainly given a feeling of prosperity and progressiveness. We are delighted with the effect.
 I can't tell you the difference we feel entering Boyne City. It no longer looks like a backward little town where there is no future.

 "It looks happy, interesting, fun and prosperous. Hopefully with this new attitude it will be prosperous soon.
 "We look forward to the day we retire and make Boyne City our home and we will hopefully contribute to the healthy atmosphere of the residents.
 "The merchants are to be complimented on their optimistic attitude and hard work not to mention their investments in the future of Boyne City.

 "I'm speaking not only for my family, but many of our friends that love the facelift on Main Street. Who needs Petoskey or Charlevoix? We have beautiful shops right here. Please keep up the good work. It is appreciated."

Hearing on sale of state lands

In an effort to target state lands suitable for exchange or sale, State Senator Mitch Irwin has called for a public hearing on legislation which would accelerate the state's process of declaring surplus public lands.

Scheduled for Friday, September 17, at 2 p.m. at the County Courthouse in Gaylord, the hearing will be convened by the Senate Committee on Consumer Affairs, Forestry, and Tourist Industries.

Irwin, chair of the committee, is seeking public input on the legislation which he introduced in the Senate prior to summer recess.

New poaching law in effect

Conservation officers are reminding residents that there is a new poaching law in effect.

The law—Act 181 of 1981 which took effect this spring—prohibits using spotlights, headlights or any other artificial lights to try to locate wild birds or animals between 11 p.m. and 6 a.m.

"We believe the new legislation will help protect the Michigan deer herd and other wildlife from illegal hunting and will also reduce the number of rural residents' complaints about shining on their property," said conservation officer Edgar Hall.

The old law allowed shining as long as persons were not carrying firearms or other weapons. Many poachers found ways around that restriction, Hall said.

The new law does not prohibit raccoon hunters from carrying lights during their hunting season.

Engaged?

The Charlevoix County Press publishes engagement and wedding announcements without charge.

Pictures are welcomed, but we do suggest a few guidelines. Good quality black and white photographs, either of the couple or bride-elect, are preferred. All photographs are kept on file in the Press office and may be picked up at any time following publication; those pictures not picked up after six months will be discarded.

Wedding and engagement announcement forms are available at our office or will be mailed upon request and the receipt of a self-addressed stamped envelope.

While we try to publish each announcement the week that we receive it (and in the case of weddings, the first publication date following the ceremony), space constraints sometimes force us to delay the printing of the announcement for one or two weeks. Therefore, we ask that information be received at least two weeks before the intended publication so that we might better plan for its publication.

We will not accept wedding announcements received more than four weeks after the wedding.

Updated master plan eyed for EJ

Development of a new master plan for East Jordan has been proposed by Chamber of Commerce president John Kempton. Kempton has asked the city council to start work on forming a group to work on a plan that would provide progressive continuity while city council membership changes over the years.

He specified concern for where development could be fostered and city business district or districts focused. He said also a plan would help the city in establishing its priorities.

The council offered to establish a new commission or to give the proposal to the planning and zoning commission. The planning people will be offered the opportunity first.

Kempton said the Chamber had a list of names of people who were very interested.

The Chamber also announced its proposal to use beautification funds, collected during Community Pride Week, to have low, evergreen shrubs put in at the GAR park to mark off the back line and corner, to give the park a setting.

Chamber director Judy

Shea suggested "it would be a start" on enhancing the downtown park.

The council asked the park committee to work with the Chamber on the proposal.

In order to coordinate the city's packer-truck trips with the hours at the Antrim-Kalkaska landfill in Mancelona, East Jordan's landfill hours are changed from 9 to 5 p.m. on Tuesday, Thursdays and Saturdays to 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. on those days.

New rates, which feature a 25 cent charge for each 30-gallon trash bag, will go into effect on August 17, city superintendent Mike Dionne said. The rates are lower than those charged at comparable landfills, he said.

He reported receiving a closure order to sign from the Department of Natural Resources, but said after consultation with the landfill committee, he is holding off on signing until the DNR specifies the activities already approved for the site—the packer-truck, and the limitation on dumping anything but broken paving, and leaves and brush.

Dionne said, "We've complied with closing the fill for garbage and waste. And that's all we could budget for this year."

Closure costs would have to wait for next year's budget, he said.

An airport lighting proposal continues to be up in the air because the Aeronautics Department's audit is not yet in. But the council voted to go ahead with a letter of intent.

City clerk Fern Morris displayed the plaque, unexpectedly received from Aeronautics, honoring the city for its airport paving job.

Mobile home owners try to alter EJ plans

Mobile home dwellers at East Jordan's Tourist Park turned out for last week's city council meeting, bringing a lawyer with them.

Their lawyer, Gregory Justis of Petoskey, asked that the mobile home people be allowed to remain at the Tourist Park.

In 1977, following a council vote, Dec. 12, 1982, was set as the deadline for the removal of all mobile homes, making the park strictly a camping site, as well as a public park for people living in the East Jordan area.

The mobile homes had been permanently located, and as one owner said, they had been asked in 1967 or '68 to get longer trailers and put them on concrete pads.

Their letters to this effect came directly from the city superintendent.

The mobile home owners complain they will not be able to recoup the expense of their investment. Their rents are $117 a month plus $36 a year in taxes. Unoccupied, the mobile homes cost $72 a month.

Justis suggested the council might have to take the route of condemnation proceedings.

He said originally there were 41 such homes. It is now down to 20, and all but one of these, he said, are summer people, mostly retired.

Justis proposed letting "natural attrition" take place with the remaining 20, no new homes going in whenever any were closed or moved.

He said the people "do not want to litigate the issue."

The council decided to have city attorney Tom Anderson discuss the matter with Justis. Following that they will call a special council meeting.

A June 29, 1982 letter to a private citizen from Howard Tanner, director of the Department of Natural Resources, confirms the position the city council has taken that, as he says, "Had the city not decided previously to require that the mobile homes be moved...the project could not have been approved for funding."

Tanner refers to the Coastal Management Program funds awarded the city for park renovation.

BC Schools set tax rate

Boyer City Schools formally set its tax rate for the 1982-83 school year at 30.4 mills on Monday night.

That is one-tenth of a mill lower than the past year's tax rate. One mill brings in $1 for each $1,000 of state equalized valuation on property.

In order to set the rate at that level the district held a hearing July 26 in accordance with the state Truth in Taxation law which was approved earlier this year.

The law says a taxing body (such as a school district, township, county or city) cannot collect more from property taxes than it did the year before until residents have had a chance to be heard.

Because property values have risen, according to local assessors' figures, the amount each owner must pay has also gone up even though the millage rate was lowered.

The board accepted a bid from Northwestern State Bank for a loan to give the district operating capital until tax money is collected following issuance of December bills to property owners.

The $712,000 loan must be repaid at 10.3 percent interest. The bank's bid was the only one the board received.

The board also awarded contracts for dental insurance and student dental coverage for employees. This is the first year the district will offer dental coverage for employees. Ninety-two of the 130 district employees will be covered by the dental insurance.

Delta Dental was awarded the two-year contract. Coverage begins September 1.

A laid off teacher, Katherine Copeland, was recalled to teach elementary art. She replaces Betty Adgate who retired earlier this summer.

Two teacher aides, who were working part-time, have had their employment terminated. The building trades classes will be split into four sections, instead of their previous three, with principal Rick Casper teaching the fourth in order to facilitate the move.

The board has decided to maintain current prices for hot lunches. Elementary students will continue to pay 75 cents for lunch, while middle and high school students will pay 90 cents. Adults will pay $1.40.

The reduced price lunch will be 40 cents, and milk for adults and students will cost 15 cents.

EJ club ready for annual flower show

They always do something involving swans, show chairwoman Bernadine Greig said. Swans are so much a part of East Jordan.

The show will take place Monday, Aug. 16, from noon to 4 p.m. at the Civic Center, one-half block east of Main Street.

"The Added Touch" is the theme of the show," Greig said. "Members of the garden club will display their talents by showing how flower arrangements can provide the added touch to every room of the house."

Some of the arrangements will make use of fruits and vegetables.

Another group, Greig said, will be informal arrangements for breakfast in the kitchen, showing how to combine a place setting, cloth, and flowers.

"The horticulture section of the show will include specimens of various flowers, fruits, and vegetables grown by members in their own gardens," Greig said.

All categories in the show will be judged and ribbons awarded.

Flower show committee members are Phyllis Malpass, Polly Sinclair, Deanne Hurwitz, Emily Coward, Betty Yenni, and Joanne Schenck.

Road tax checks down again

Even though state road tax revenues were up for the first time in 2 1/2 years, East Jordan was the only Charlevoix County community to receive a larger payment in the second quarter of 1982 than it did a year earlier.

State gas and weight tax revenues were up one percent over the same three months of 1981, the state Department of Transportation reported.

Higher collection costs and other deductions resulted in a one-half of one percent decline in net revenues, the department said.

Gross receipts for the first nine months of the state's fiscal year, which ends in October, are down 2 1/2 percent.

The money is used to repair and maintain city and county roads.

Charlevoix County received $235,271 this year, compared to $235,533 last year.

The cities didn't do any better, as Boyne got $23,622 instead of the $23,739 of 1981, East Jordan got $14,150 instead of $13,987 and Charlevoix received $20,797 instead of $20,906.

The village of Boyne Falls received $2,834. Last year it got $2,849.

Head Start sign-up set

Today is fair sign-up day

Glaucoma screening

Two free glaucoma screening clinics have been slated for Charlevoix and Petoskey August 18-19.

According to the National Society to Prevent Blindness, glaucoma is one of the leading causes of blindness. If glaucoma is detected in its early stages, however, the malady can be stayed and blindness prevented.

One out of every 50 Americans has glaucoma and doesn't know it, according to the society.

The clinics are sponsored free to the public by Christian Record Braille

Around Walloon

BY PAT TAYLOR
535-2234

Thirty-four who attended Charlevoix County Normal got together July 27 at March Lodge for a potluck dinner. A cake was brought by Georgia Birley, who graduated in 1910 from County Normal. Bea Howard was the youngest who graduated there. Invited to the get-together were Mrs. Birley's niece Gertrude Ney-mark and her daughter, Toots Simon.

Margaret Danzeisen and son Mark, of Marlton, N.J., left July 25, after visiting her parents, Don and Julia Kon-dziela, for 10 days.

Elizabeth Hale of Wayne, her son Don, and daughter-in-law of Pontiac and guests visited Mrs. Hale's sister and brother-in-law, Margaret and Chuck Sherk over the week-end of July 18.

Ralph Taylor and wife, Pat, attended the former's 50th Petoskey High School reunion July 29 at the Bay View Inn. Thirty-three graduates and spouses and two ex-teachers, Art Trelor and Arnold Wol-gast and wife, attended.

Larry and Barb Stark and children of Cedar Lake spent overnight with her parents, Bob and Natalie Yaich of North Shore Road. The former will return the weekend of August to the Yaichs to celebrate the 15th birthday of their son, Todd.

Bob and Natalie Yaich enjoyed a trip to Nova Scotia July 1-16. Mrs. Yaich was appointed last December 31 as Grand Representative of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island in Michigan for the Order of Eastern Star Grand Chapter session in Halifax. Friends of the Yaichs, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Paxton, also attended. They went across the Soo, through Canada, down to Bar Harbor, Maine, where they crossed on the boat to Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, then to Halifax Digby, to St. John's, New Brunswick. They then went across the Bay of Fundy on a ferry and back across to Sault Ste. Marie and home.

You just don't see too many of these classic boats around the lake anymore. This one, the "Victoria" was brought here for a week from California by the president of California Steamboats, Inc., Gordon Wiles. Wiles has been coming to Walloon since his childhood.

Steam-powered boat visits Walloon

BY JIM SILBAR

Are you looking for something a little different for that man in your life's Christmas?

If you were at Walloon Lake in the past few days, you could have seen that special present to give that guy who enjoys things that are slightly antique, slightly different, and definitely classy.

What we are talking about is a boat. Not just a boat boat, but, "The Victoria," a recreation of an 1880's steam launch.

The launch, a 25-foot beauty with a beam of 6 feet 6 inches, was brought to the lake by Gordon Wiles, president of California Steamboats Inc., and a long-time summer visitor to Walloon Lake.

He stopped for a short visit and a mini-vacation prior to taking the boat east for a show.

Wiles, who grew up too late to have even seen one of the steam launches that were so popular before the turn of the century, happened on the idea of building an authentic steam launch after playing around with radio remote controlled models.

He decided it would be more fun riding in a life-sized boat than just a little model ("little" in model boats is something under five feet long).

So he sat down at the

If you have a launch, be prepared to polish the brass. Wiles spent some time polishing prior to going out on a cruise of Walloon Lake during his short stay.

proverbial drawing board, looked at a lot of pictures of the old boats and came up with this rendition that is designed with good taste and all the opulence a boat of that era had.

The hull is all wood and is constructed of five layers of western spruce in what is known as the West System. It displays the classic plumb bow and has a fantail stern. The paintwork is superbly done in a deep looking, plush feeling, classic black.

At the back of the boat is the ladies' salon. This area of the launch has a solid coach-type roof with etched glass windows around the front to keep the soot, smoke and weather away from the fair ladies. The seats are placed around the aft and are of a tufted naugahyde. The salon will seat four in comfort.

Of course, no proper steam launch is complete without a "Windermere Kettle." The "Victoria" has one, made of solid brass, and according to the builder, will bring your "spring water to a boil in seconds" for afternoon tea or coffee.

When the weather gets brisk, the open areas of the salon can be covered with the roll-down, all-weather curtains. You could put the curtains down and cruise around with your helmsman running the launch while you are having a romantic affair. It is almost like a limousine with mirrored windows so no one could see in.

After you walk forward through a etched glass and mahogany door, you may run into the boiler, a vertical fire tube type with 57 feet of heating surface. The firebox is ready for a wood or coal fire on the standard boat, but the "Victoria" has the optional oil-fired furnace with just about every kind of control and back-up system you may desire.

The boiler is covered with mahogany and brass for a better appearance. While working pressure is 150 pounds, the safety valve is set at 180 so you don't really have to be a certified steam engineer in order to own a boat like this. From "cold iron," it takes about 30 minutes to work up a head of steam to get the launch moving using the oil-fired boiler.

All that steam drives a two-cylinder engine with one cylinder for high pressure (it's a three-inch size, for technical readers) and a five-inch low-pressure cylinder. Both the strokes are four inches. These, in combination with a 19-inch by 28-inch right hand turning wheel, drive the launch easily at about six knots.

If you want to see the engine work, you should probably get the Hayes Unique "A" frame so you can see all the things an engine does as it is turning. Or, you could get your launch installed with a Burleigh column engine. Both are set up with a "Stephenson" reversing gear, and both offer around 10 horsepower. Each cylinder is covered with mahogany, and brass to complement all the other working parts.

And speaking of brass, the brochure describing the launch says "there is plenty of brass to keep the engineer polishing."

Almost everything on the boat is unique, like the helmsman's station which has a free-standing steering pedestal with an etched glass monocle windshield. Just enough to keep the wind out of the eyes.

The wheel is made of wood and brass and is a traditional type. One of the spokes is wrapped with a line and when that is at the 12 o'clock position, the boat will go straight.

For those who don't know which way the helm is pointed, it's nice to just look to find out which way you are headed

West Arm ends race season

After the final race on August 7, the West Arm Sailing Club presented its annual trophies and awards.

The Commodore's Trophy (best overall finish in series races) went to John Andrews (Hobie Cat 16) with two firsts and one second.

The Curtis Cup was awarded to John Andrews for his first place finish in the series races based on corrected handicap finishes.

Second place series (handicap) went to Arnie Morowa (Sunfish), third place—Bill Fairhurst (Ensign), fourth—Nancy Shepard (Highlander) and fifth—Dietrich, Margarete and Detlef Gersdorff (Highlander).

Trophies were awarded to the first three places with pennants to fourth and fifth.

The Sunfish series winners were: first—Arnie Morowa, second—Elaine Smith and third—Birgit Gersdorff. Each received a pennant.

The "sailor of the year" plaque was awarded to Nancy Shepard by selection of the members of the club.

Don Andrews was voted commodore for the 1983 season. Forty sailboats entered the three series races with 10 sailboats entered in the Sunfish/Phantom/Porpoise race.

The final race of the year was held on an ideal racing day with 16 sailboats entered.

Finishing first overall was George Hartman in his E Scow. Fifteen seconds behind George was John Andrews in a Hobie 16.

The remaining overall finish was as follows: third—Nancy Shepard (Highlander), fourth—Detlef Gersdorff (Highlander), fifth—Bob and Pete Schoenfeld (Rhodes 19), sixth—Tom and Cathy Kidd (Snipe), seventh—Bill Fairhurst (Ensign), eighth—Ray and Jean Marx (Wayfarer), ninth—Bob Hartman (110), tenth—Arnie Morowa (Sunfish), eleventh—Crothers (Snipe), twelfth—Don, David and Brad Owen (Buccaneer), thirteenth—Elaine Smith (Sunfish), fourteenth—Birgit Gersdorff (Super Porpoise), fifteenth—Franz Schoenfeld (Sunfish) and starting but not finishing was the Ryan crew (S) in a 17 sq. meter.

Using the Portsmouth handicap, the corrected finishes were as follows: first—Bob Schoenfeld (Rhodes 19), second—Arnie Morowa (Sunfish), third—Tom Kidd (Snipe), fourth—John Andrews (Hobie Cat), fifth—Bill Fairhurst (Ensign), sixth—George Hartman (E Scow), seventh—Ray Mark (Wayfarer).

Medallions were awarded to the first three corrected finishes, with pennants awarded to fourth and fifth.

All-lake regatta on Walloon

The fifth annual All-Lake Regatta will be held on Walloon Lake on Friday, August 20.

The race will be held at Camp Michigan on Camp Sherwood Road in Bay Township.

The skippers meeting will begin at 1:30 p.m. at the boathouse and the race will start at 2 p.m. Trophies will be awarded and refreshments will be served following the race.

Northern notes

There once were millions of passenger pigeons in the Petoskey area. Now they are extinct—the victims of man. There is an historic marker telling the story of their demise next to the state fish hatchery on U.S. 31 in Conway.

'Police' coming to Castle Farms

The Police, a British rock band, will be performing at Castle Farms Music Theater in Charlevoix on Sunday, August 15, at 7 p.m.

The group has had three gold and one platinum album in their four-year career. This will be their only performance in Michigan this summer.

Appearing as warm-up acts will be Oingo Boingo and The English Beat.

The Police's biggest hit records in the U.S. have been "Don't Stand So Close to Me," "Every Little Thing She Does Is Magic" and "De Do Do Do, De Da Da Da."

Their first hit single was "Roxanne," which came from an album, Outlandos d'Amour, which was produced for just $6,000 and sold more than one million dollars worth of copies.

Also reaching "gold" status was Regatta de Blanc, while Zenyatta Mondatta "went platinum" by selling more than one million copies.

Their current album is Ghost in the Machine, which has also reached gold status.

Members of the group are singer-bassist Sting, guitarist Andy Summers and drummer Stewart Copeland.

Steamboat. . .

Concluded from Page 3 the Irish Boat Shop in Harbor Springs.

After you turn the valves, flip the levers, blow the steam whistle a couple of times and head down the lake.

Located around the steering station are three fold-down seats for the guests or crew. The entire cockpit is filled with beautiful mahogany and brass brightwork.

The bow of the launch has a small cuddy and room for storage. The "Victoria" has a small head installed in the cuddy for convenience.

Keeping the classic look is difficult with a reproduction, but the launch has been modernized with traditional brass oil lights now electrified. There is even a "guest" 50,000 candlepower spotlight to ease night docking.

Those who are interested in looking at the boat up close will be able to Saturday and Sunday, August 14-15, between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. at

After viewing, Wiles intends to take the boat to Newport, Rhode Island, for a wood boat show and then back to California for another show in mid-September.

If you are interested in purchasing a boat like the "Victoria" the company plans on going into production shortly. It will take about six months to build one, so you can have it just in time for next year's Venetian boat parade. It's sure to be the hit of the parade, and it will really show your good taste in classic boats.

One last thing for all you noise lovers—there is no sound of an engine roaring, just the thump, thump, thump of the propeller turning over as you glide up the lake.

Nothing beats this beauty in class, because it is an authentic classic.

A "Windermere Kettle" sets in the ladies' salon of the steam-powered boat. The area has a solid coach-type roof to protect riders from soot, smoke and the weather.

Tony Wilburn puts the finishing touches on a cake at the Beach House Restaurant. Wilburn is the new chef at the Boyne Mountain Resort restaurant.

'Private' restaurant open to public

How do you take a restaurant thought of as a private club and turn it into a hot spot?

Tony Wilburn and Blake Woodard are doing it based on their past experiences in the business.

They have given the Beach House, Boyne Mountain's restaurant on Deer Lake, a new menu, totally different than the traditional fare at the Mountain. The menu features fresh meats, cut daily.

The operation, owned by Boyne Mountain Resort, is totally open to the public these days.

According to Gary May, the executive chef for the resort, the restaurant serves only fresh meats and produce. Frozen, portion controlled, prepacked foods are only good for high-volume restaurants, Wilburn said. "We want to appeal to people who enjoy eating and who want only the best items at reasonable costs."

Wilburn is from Muskegon where he grew up in a cooking family; his mother was a cook at Churchill's of Grand Rapids.

He started cooking seven years ago and has worked at the Greenich Country Club in Grand Rapids as a sous chef and as a cook at the Courtyard restaurant and Royal Plaza hotel in Tampa, Florida.

He lists his specialties as whitefish, cream soups and plate presentations.

"I realize it is going to take time for the people to find us, but for now I like the feeling of being one of the hidden 'in' spots in the north," Wilburn said.

The staff, trained by maitre d' Blake Woodard, seats you where you would like, on the patio if the weather is nice or at a spacious table inside. Woodard came to the Beach House from Mt. Pleasant where he worked at the Embers.

The restaurant is located on Deer Lake Road, about three miles south of M-75 out of Boyne Falls. It is located on the lake, so there are pleasant breezes and views of sunsets.

Three plays at Interlochen

Three Theater Arts Department productions open this week at the National Music Camp at Interlochen.

The intermediate division will present two one-act plays and the high school division will present a musical and a Shakespearean tragedy.

"The Mystery of Mouldy Manor" and "Nobody Sleeps" will be performed by the Intermediate Division on August 11 and 12 at 7:30 p.m. in Grunow Theater.

The high school division will perform Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Carousel" and Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" on alternate nights (on August 13, 15, 18 and 20 for the former and August 14, 17 and 19 for the latter) at 7:30 p.m. with a 1:30 p.m. matinee on August 15.

The performances will be held in Corson Auditorium.

Waterfront Art Fair this weekend in Charlevoix

The 24th annual Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair, Saturday, August 14, will see a select group of 165 fine artists gather on the grass of the town's waterfront park to display painting, sculpture, ceramics, jewelry and other works.

The fair will attract not only art lovers but collectors and buyers for galleries who say they hold their buying for this one-day fair because they know there will be a range of high quality art.

Many downtown Charlevoix merchants report the gathering of artists and art lovers results in the single biggest day of business. Some 10,000 people will come on August 14 for the art fair.

The fair is a panoply of color stretching over the terraced park, sloping from Bridge Street to the edge of Round Lake Harbor's yacht basin.

Over 700 artists vied this year for the 165 openings. Early spring a committee of jurors reviews slides submitted by each artist, selecting those whose works meet their standards of quality.

By mid-April, motel owners say reservations are filled for art fair weekend, so many people plan summer vacations around the show.

Exhibitors such as Henry Benson of Florida, whose impressionistic paintings are displayed around the country and who exhibits from "Maine to Milwaukee, Texas to Alabama," calls the Charlevoix show, "Consistent. It attracts quality art. The people who come to buy are knowledgeable and very responsive. It has gotten to the point that I expect to sell at Charlevoix."

Similarly, painter Pat Eberline of Midland, says "Charlevoix is by far the best show I do. It is rated among artists as one of the top shows in the country."

Fair organizers estimate

over $200,000 is spent in art purchases at the fair.

Among other notable exhibitors at this year's fair will be: Steve French, watercolorist; Paul Sweeney, watercolorist; Peggy Brown, watercolorist; Lawrence Favorite, sculpteur; Verna Hill, ceramic sculpteur; Sharon Pellar, glass worker; Harvard Professor Richard Titebaum, watercolorist; Sandra Marchetti, intaglio etcher; Joseph Bomano, sculpteur; Dee Knot, painter; Russell and Sue Bolt, painters and ceramicists; Todd Warner, ceramic sculpteur; and Pat Mayhew, abstract painter.

Buyers arrive early Saturday morning as the artists are setting up their displays.

Kurt Stevens, manager of international relations for Dow Chemical who also buys for the corporation, says, "I often come seeking specific artists' work, such as Fran Larsen or Norman Brumm. One year I spent $2,000 at the Charlevoix fair."

Roger Miller, owner of Galleria Louisa in Grand Rapids, calls the Charlevoix fair, "One of the finest in the state because of the high caliber of the artists."

Musical comedy about north

"North Country Opera," a musical comedy about the contrasts of life in the big city and in northern Michigan, will be performed August 21 and 22 at McCune Arts Center in Petoskey.

The show will begin at 8:30 both nights. Tickets are $5 at the door.

Performers are mostly Ann Arbor folk singers and actors.

Lead roles are played by Connie Huber and Michael Smith. Incorporated into the stage setting is a band made up of Kevin Lynch, Gary Reynolds and Kelly Schmidt.

Huber plays Sari Jean, a bartender in her native town of Grand Marais in the Upper Peninsula. Local characters played by Cheryl Dawdy, David Menefee, Charlie Weaver and Jamie Valen define through conversation and song the experience of living in the small town north.

Enter Smith, a college-age adventurer, and a hasty romance develops with Sari Jean. By the second act years have passed and Smith, now a stockbroker in Detroit, begins to ponder his life and wonders about the girl in Grand Marais.

The bartender of the "Motown Lounge" played by Des Ryan, urges him on. And, in the final act, he returns to Grand Marais.

Sleeping out for a summers night

BY BARBARA CRUDEN

Camping out under the stars is one of the treats of a summer vacation. But if you can't get away or afford a big trip, try a night under the stars in your own backyard.

And if you're worried what the neighbors will think when they catch sight of you out there as the sun comes up—well, invite the neighbors, too. All of them!

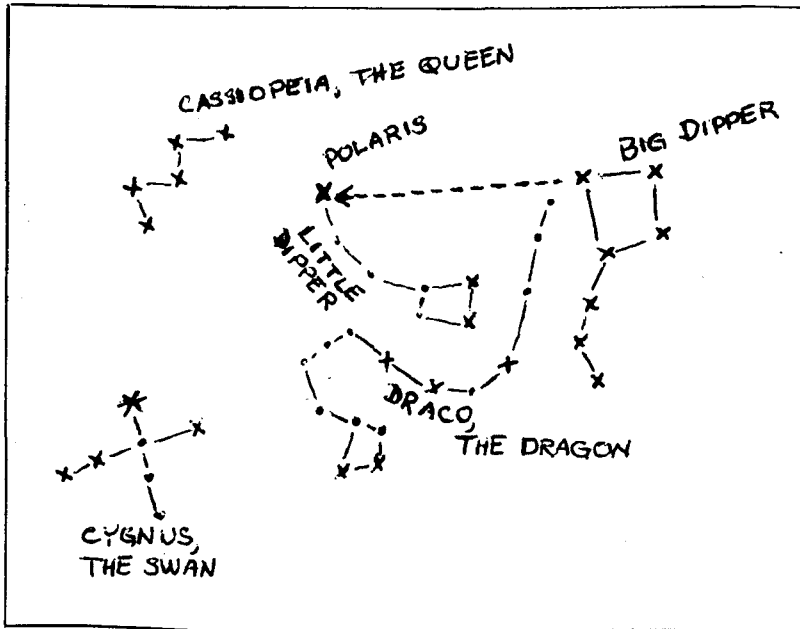

Try to include someone with a guitar and someone who knows a few constellations.

This time of year—especially around August 12—shooting stars fly by. On the 12th there ought to be at least one a minute. Some are as quick as a blink, but some trail across the sky in long arcs, long enough to say "ooh" as you watch them go. And big enough to leave a shower of sparks just before they disappear.

But even if you can't make the 12th, or it should turn out to be cloudy, pick any clear Friday night (when you won't mind missing some sleep) and camp out.

Another good thing about this time of year is that, away from house lights, there are few insects to bother you.

And one more good thing about a backyard is you don't need fancy equipment—just

This is about the location of the constellations at 9 p.m. halfway through August. The dots are the faint stars, the Xs are the brighter ones. The very bright one in Cygnus is called Deneb.

an old mattress, a cotton blanket and two wool ones and a pillow and maybe a sheet of plastic or a poncho, to catch the dew.

A wool blanket will cope with dew, if the noise of the plastic is bothersome. Wool can keep the dew from penetrating through and will dry quickly in the morning sun.

The best outdoor sleepwear is either a sweat shirt-and-pants outfit or something loose like that. Perhaps the quilted nylon shirt and pants you wear in the winter under your sport clothes would "suit" you.

As the dark deepens, and the stars grow brighter, some people become a little nervous. The combination of being out in the open and being face-to-face with the universe may take a little scoop of adventurousness. And a flashlight.

The flashlight shows quickly that the fearful rustling sounds you hear are just your cat nonchalantly licking his fur as usual.

And a flashlight is also useful in pointing out stars.

You can point out the North Star, or Polaris, even if you never have seen it before. The method is simple.

Get a general idea of which way is north. Then look for the Big Dipper (see the star chart above.) Follow the line made by the two stars that mark the outer side of the cup. It leads straight to a not very bright star which is Polaris, the only star that never changes position from one end of the year to the other, because it stands directly over the North Pole of the earth.

Once you find Polaris you can locate several constellations by checking the star chart with your flashlight.

Not on the chart, but easy to find, is the Milky Way—a faint, irregular swash of pale light, arching across the sky.

The Milky Way is really millions of stars, too far away to see separately. Still they are part of our watch-shaped galaxy. You are looking through the thicker part of the galaxy, when you look at the Milky Way.

When you look at the northern or southern sky, you are actually looking out of the top or bottom of the galaxy where the star mass is thinner.

Campers-out don't mind waking up now and then through the night. It allows them to see how the constellations have moved, how they rise and circle just as the sun or moon does.

And there could be northern lights.

And you might catch the dawn, like the song sparrow does—watch the sky turn the colors of a Peace rose, and feel in touch with a great peace yourself.

Comic brass ensemble at Interlochen

The Canadian Brass will bring its mixture of comedy and virtuosity to Interlochen's Kresge Auditorium at 8 p.m. Tuesday, August 17.

The Canadian Brass has delighted audiences from China to Carnegie Hall with equal doses of brilliant brass playing and humorous stage banter.

Consisting of Ronald Romm and Frederic Mills on trumpet Graeme Page on French horn, Charles Daellenbach on tuba and Eugene Watts on trombone, the Canadian Brass was formed in 1970 and turned full time in 1977.

Operating on the theory that two hours of non-stop brass playing can be deadly (whether for the audience or for the players has never been quite determined), The Canadian Brass has developed a performance style that "simply shakes the cobwebs of pomposity right out of centuries-old performing style."

For its Interlochen appearance, The Canadian Brass will perform Gabrieli's "Canzona No. 4," Vivaldi's "Concerto grosso," Mouret's "Rondo," and a movement from Bach's

"Brandenburg Concerto No. 2." Also on the program are works by Mozart, Debussy, Puccini and Fats Waller.

Scottish music in Elk Rapids

The Grand Traverse Highlanders will present "The Scottish Tatro," an evening of traditional Scottish dance and music, August 28 in Elk Rapids.

The performance—featuring The Royal Canadian Regiment—begins at 7:30 p.m. at Glowicki Field in Elk Rapids.

The Stained Glass Cabinet Company is new this summer in Charlevoix, but in Traverse City, where the main store is, the company has been in business since 1978.

The new shop, right next to Staley's Hardware, is a small wonderland of things to see and touch and, of course, take home.

Shoppers look through the Stained Glass Cabinet Co. store in Charlevoix. The store features handmade items of wood, glass and flowers.

Where woodworking, stained glass merge

It started with stained glass, years ago, store manager Patty Smith said. Her husband Tim next invested in some woodworking equipment to make furniture for their home.

Smith said, next thing, friends wanted him to make them some. Not long after, the Smiths were in business, selling his work.

Tim Smith now also combines the two skills, producing cabinets with stained glass doors, for example.

Patty Smith said, "The furniture is beautiful in itself, but with stained glass, it becomes a conversation piece."

The cabinets, shelves, and tables are made primarily from pine and oak, finished with a hand-rubbed oil finish.

"Half the business is custom," Smith said. "If a piece the customer likes happens to be too wide, they will make it to order. Or make a completely new design, if that is what is desired!"

One's eye goes to oval bevels, as Patty Smith calls them, hanging in the light.

The flowers in them, Smith said, were grown at Tim's parents' 68 acres of wild and garden flowers.

"Tim's mother is a professional artist," Smith said, "and she selects the flower combinations personally. Queen Anne's lace is a favorite."

The original shop started out with two people, Smith noted. In less than four years there were 22 people working for the company.

"We take apprentices," Smith said. "The sales people take stained glass lessons, and lessons on oiling and finishing. Everybody knows how to do a little of everything."

Patty Smith decorates and sets up the stores—they have another in Leland.

Her experience in Charlevoix has delighted her. "The first week we opened, we had half the shop owners in town come in to welcome us," she said.

Once in, it's hard to leave—hard to leave the company of the handcrafted products of the Stained Glass Cabinet Company.
