Railroad given deadline by Boyne City

The Boyne Valley Railroad has been given until next Tuesday, September 21, to cooperate with Boyne City on clean-up of the former railroad.

The city commission on Tuesday, September 14, authorized city attorney William McTaggart to inform the railroad board of the deadline.

The resolution authorized McTaggart to write a letter stating the deadline for removal of tracks in four city street crossings, for clean-up of debris from all city property and for deposit of $3,600 for repairs of city streets.

The letter was set to go to E. Dan Stevens of Atlanta, the attorney representing BVRR* if representatives of the company did not appear at the Tuesday night meeting. Two spokesmen, Pat Cassidy and Edward Thurston, had been expected for the noon meeting but did not appear.

Art Rouse of the railroad board told The Press last week the company will take care of clean-up. He did not say whether the company would restore places where tracks ran through streets.

City manager Tim Clifton noted that proceeds from the company's sale of track are estimated at $72,000. The board must still pay off hundreds of stockholders — most of them community residents who helped save the railroad from oblivion in 1976 by buying $10 shares in the tourist train. Rouse said earlier they would be paid $8 a share.

Clifton said the coming of winter increases the hazard of lack of clean-up. McTaggart added that with the tracks at the crossings severed at each end (the rest of the track having been taken up), cars crossing on one side cause the other end to lift, endangering oncoming traffic.

If BVRR were to fail to meet the deadline, McTaggart said, the next step would be to sue for costs.

When the apple tree drapes its loaded branches on the old Bohemian house, it's autumn, and a good one, in Bohemian settlement country, south of East Jordan, and elsewhere, too, in the county where black walnuts ripen and maples redden.

Tourist Park court ruling to be sought

Councilman Bud Kenny has again asked the East Jordan city council to reverse its decision, made in 1977, to have all mobile homes out of the Tourist Park by December 12, 1982.

Kenny, a resident of the park, made his request at a closed session of the council September 7.

Kenny said he felt he had basis for legal action, but he had no further comment at the time.

The council reaffirmed its deadline for mobile homes to be out of the park and said it will ask for a declaratory judgment from circuit court.

City attorney Tom Anderson said such a judgment "declares the rights of both parties as they exist." Anderson will file a complaint asking for a judgment from Judge Martin Bieghner.

The city, Anderson added, says the homes had leases and the city has the right to terminate the leases.

Anderson was also asked by the police committee to draft an ordinance to prevent people downtown from leaning on buildings and cars, other than their own.

The council approved asking bids on the city dock work, which includes splicing and driving deeper 21 of the dock's 32 pilings.

New deck, stringers and hardware will also be necessary, the total for the work coming to about $25,000, city superintendent Mike Dionne said.

The city will present the bid to the Waterways Commission of the state Department of Natural Resources, with the expectation of obtaining a 50 percent grant.

The city will amend the budget to obtain money for the project from contingency, street and sidewalk funds.

Sidewalk repair was shelved because of the lack of response from residents on the project — probably, Dionne said, because of the 60 percent cost which must be borne by the resident.

Dock repair would make room for two more boats, Dionne said. He also said Waterways would incorporate 50 percent of the repaired dock in the design of the marina.

Dionne opened three bids, one for a new vibrator-compact for $1,080; one for electrical work for $1,221; and one for a landfill caretaker. The last was awarded to Ernie Mathers for $299 a month. The job includes driving the trash compactor truck to the Kalkaska landfill.

New user fees were approved for Elm Pointe. Councilwoman Ellen Cihak said they were lower than rates charged for similar facilities elsewhere in northern Michigan.

Enrollment down 54 in Boyne Schools

Enrollment in Boyne City Schools dropped this year by about 54 students.

The middle school showed a gain of six students, but the elementary and high schools lost about 23 and 34 students, respectively.

This will not affect revenues coming from the state as in former years, because with increased property values, the school district will not receive enrollment-based state aid.

Attendance will receive strong scrutiny, however, as the regulations regarding unexcused absences have been tightened for high school students.

For example, students who like to stay an extra week past spring vacation on their jaunt to Florida will be among those who could face "rather stiff punishment for truancy events," principal Rick Casper said at the school board meeting Monday, September 13.

A change was instituted in the faculty handbook, also. Elementary school teachers must now file daily lesson plans with the principal's office.

Principal Jack Cyr said no volunteers had as yet offered to coach flag football at the middle school.

The after-school program for gifted students at the middle school will start September 27 under the tutelage of Sue Douglas.

In the high school, Casper said, the staff was happy that even though enrollment has decreased, the number of students in the more academically challenging classes has increased. For example, he said, "We have the largest physics class in years and over 100 students in beginning algebra."

Don Collier of the Charlevoix County Social Services Department requested that a student, formerly from Boyne

City Schools, be allowed to attend this year, tuition-free, even though she now lives with foster parents in the East Jordan school district.

"She may return to Boyne City; we don't know when," Collier said. Her brothers and sisters attend Boyne schools, he said, and she is fearful over the experience, afraid of riding the bus, among other things.

The school board noted that East Jordan has had an increase in enrollment and with a sufficient increase might again qualify for state aid. The child might make a difference, the board said, and voted not to make an exception to policy.

With Boyne City's lower enrollment, it was possible to rent two classrooms to the Char-Em Intermediate School District for its use this year in instruction of the hearing impaired and high intensity students. The rent will be 10 percent of the $62,000 program.

Larger enrollment of special education students prompted the board to recall Doris Lundteigen from half- to full-time teaching for the year.

With the resignation of Gerald Ernst, the board appointed Dennis Starkey varsity girls basketball coach and Ted Beyer JV coach.

Lee Ekstrom and Craig Perry came to the board with a proposal to harvest timber in the school woods. Ekstrom said there was sufficient mature timber to make the district some money.

The possibility of some firewood cutting done separately by high school students was also discussed.

The board approved going along with Ekstrom's proposal.

Mileage rates were raised by the board after three years of holding the line at 16 cents per mile for school business. The new rate is 20 cents.

And substitute teacher pay was raised from $33 to $35 a day.

Second bus vote set for November ballot

A second attempt will be made to obtain voter approval of money to help run the county-wide bus system.

The Charlevoix County board of commissioners last week decided to put the question on the November 2 ballot. Voters rejected an almost identical tax proposal in August.

This time, voters will be asked to fund the Dial-A-Ride system with a quarter-mill tax. The request voted down 1,753-1,328 at the August primary was for 29/100ths of a mill. The quarter-mill tax would cost the owner of a $50,000 house $6.25 a year. (One mill equals $1 in taxes for each $1,000 in equalized valuation of real estate, which state law says must be assessed at half its market value.)

The bus system is operated by Charlevoix County Transit, which is part of the county Commission on Aging.

A generous portion of its passengers are senior citizens and regular service is provided handicapped people using the Bergmann Center in Charlevoix, but the Dial-A-Ride buses are available to anyone in the county.

Right now, the bus system is funded by a combination of state and county funds and fare box revenues.

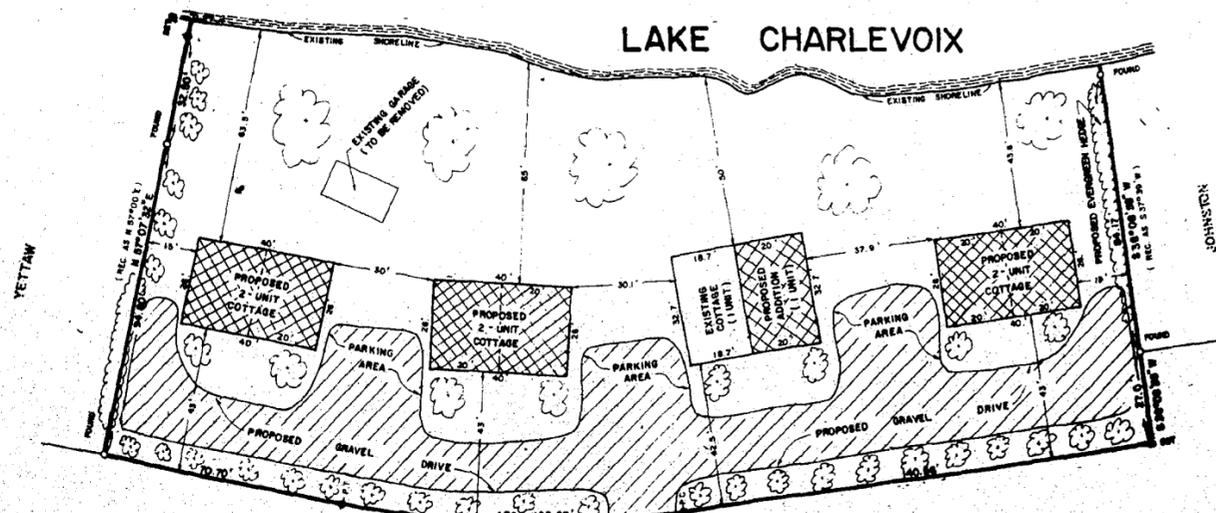

The county board in March approved appropriations totalling about $22,000 to keep the buses running until at least August 1983. And fares were raised in April.

The need for taxpayer money arose because the state share keeps diminishing, under terms of the contract between the state and county.

The state paid 100 percent of the costs of operating the buses in the first year of service. That percentage dropped to 75 last year and 50 this year.

Back when the contract was signed, county commissioners said they would let the voters decide whether to pay for the services once funding became more than half local.

The bus service is expected to operate on a budget of about $275,000 in 1982-83. The millage, if approved, would bring in about $100,000.

The layout for Jim and Marie Yettaw's proposed tourist cabins shows the need in two places for variances from the 50-foot setback from the lake and from M-66. East Jordan city council granted variances and also zoning change from residential to commercial to the Yettaws because the general area near Yettaws is developing as resort property. The council, as a result of the controversy around the commercial designation, wants a new ordinance, treating resort zoning separately from general commercial.

EJ OKs dental plan

East Jordan non-union municipal employees were given dental/optical insurance by city council vote on September 7.

Mayor Archie Nemecek said, "The union people had this, and whatever we give them we give our non-union people."

The new fringe benefits cost the city an average per month of $27 per insured employee.

City clerk Fern Morris noted that because of their situation in public employment, municipal employees are assigned higher than average rates.

Morris said that in recent years it has come "to the point where insurance companies were not writing insurance for municipalities. This has forced the cities to form insurance pools to service themselves."

The dental/optical program will, however, be handled by R.A. Campbell of East Jordan.

But workers' compensation is handled through a pool involving about 20 other Michigan cities.

"We've had very good luck with workers' comp pools," Morris said. She explained the Michigan Municipal League processes the payments for the workers' comp pools.

This can be cheaper, Morris explained, as the pools don't have the expenses of insurance companies nor of individualized accounts.

The success of the workers' comp pools, Morris said, has caused the Municipal League to establish a similar pool for municipal property and liability exposure. Public Act 136 of 1982 allows this and the league has prepared a proposal for implementation, Morris said.

Morris noted that being in a pool doesn't guarantee lower rates, but it does make insurance coverage possible.

East Jordan pays about $30,000 a year for workers' comp insurance, about $30,000 for liability insurance and approximately $35,000 for fringe benefit policies.

Lately when I go downtown to talk with people I only believe half of what I hear. My trouble is that I don't know if I'm believing the right half. If there's anything I can't stand, it's believing the wrong half of what I hear.

Until 10 years ago I had a handsome pot of the king's ransom. Not exactly well off, but heavily pursed. I felt good about it, even though I may have been underworked and overpaid.

Today, through financial mismanagement, I'm one of the government's nearly needy.

When I was purse heavy, I was paying seventeen cents for a gallon of fuel oil. Today it's about $1.30 per gallon. The oil company mismanaged my money.

Ten years ago I bought a real high-class automobile for five thousand dollars. Now I must pay a lot more for a four-cylinder plastic buggy. The auto companies mismanaged my money.

Ten years ago my electric bill was a few dollars per month. Now it's lots of dollars per month. The electric company mismanaged my money.

Ten years ago my property tax could be paid out of a tin cup we had on the shelf. Today most of us have to worry about borrowing money to pay our taxes. The state has mismanaged our money.

Faceless people have caused my interest rate to triple in the last 10 years. They have mismanaged my money.

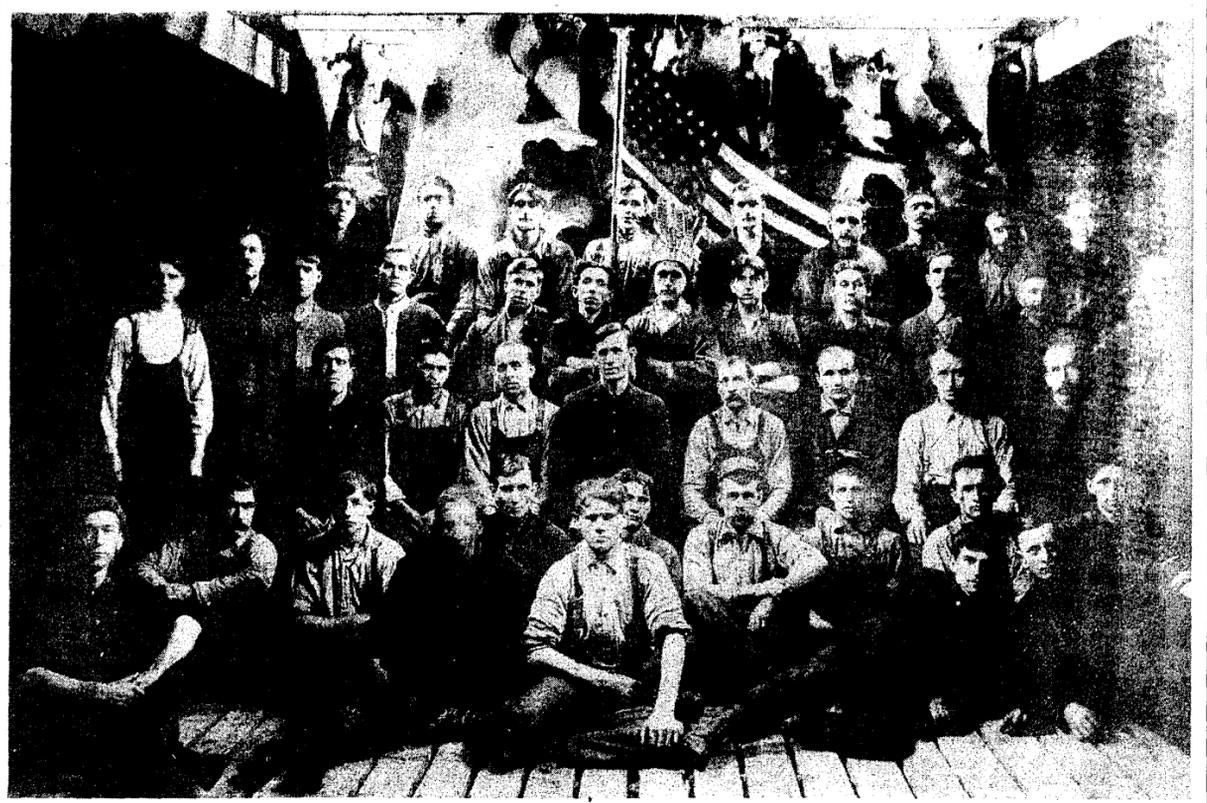

If all of those people had left me alone, allowing me to mis-manage my own money, I'd be fat and flush like a bishop; and I wouldn't be living from hand to pocketbook under an administration that insists that the more poor people we have the sooner this recession will be over.

Not only has someone mismanaged my money, but they have also mismanaged my thinking. I'll probably be able to straighten out my thinking, but I don't think I'll ever get that pot of the king's ransom back.

We received the new Christmas Sears catalog in the mail. There are many wonderful things to buy in this bright, four-color book of gifts for the family. But today's prices. Wow! In addition, the book is printed on very slick paper, making it worthless for anything else. (Why don't I say what I mean? Because I'm pigeon-livered and lack gall. If I had my regular liver and more gall, I'd tell you exactly what can't be done with this very slick paper catalog.)

I sat down and wrote a letter to my congressman telling him about the terrible things going on in Washington. After I had mailed it, I thought, what a foolish thing to do. He's been there for years; he knows what is going on.

Remember when teachers threatened to strike the kids instead of the school board?

This is how summer is:

Summer is green. It starts with the green sometime in late April and ends when the green goes.

Summer is being 16 years old, no matter our age. It is 16-year-old informality when life is like a summer camp. It is not-getting-things done, only enjoying.

It is celebration. Celebrating the warmth with picnics. Celebrating flowers with parties. Celebrating the str that is dressing gold on each of us.

Voices in summer float like music. (In winter they cut the air as saws do going through ice.)

In summer the roads look like stories, curving off through the trees, with purple carpets of shadow laid along the way. Stories forever beginning.

Summer is green beyond green into the depths of the woods, and blue beyond blue across the lake and swimming beneath the waves.

Summer is a thousand thousand invisible details all happening at once - invisible bacteria bustling through the soil, invisible music of crickets gliding the air, invisible breezes making the maples say hush to all concern. Invisible lengthening of hollyhock stems and ripening of berries in secret thickets.

We hate to see summer go. It has become like a dear child of ours who is growing mature and ready to leave home. We cling to the last days.

But we live here because another summer will come and we can live our lives over again, with enjoyment deepened by recognition - recognition of summers past, coming through again only better understood.

We will say, aren't the iris beautiful this year. We will ride again through the moonlight. We will take children to the lakeside and throw little stones into the water. We will have a much better vegetable garden and not lose our tomatoes to frost. We will watch the hills in all their moods. We will be 16 again, only wiser.

Between these lives, winter will be more than prepared for with stashes of squash and shelves of canned fruit. It will be rich from summer dreaming, too. Stuffed to the gills with summer, like a bear full of blueberries, we'll make it through the winter, more or less.

Winter is the season of counting over blessings. And it is the season of meeting truth, white and unequivocal as zero centigrade, and of Getting Things Done.

But not yet. The maple mosaic is still in greens. (We don't count a few rusty trees as representative!)

Time still to sit in the grass and play with the cat, to wander along the beach, or browse a yard sale.

Even though, down the wind, the time is slipping, slipping away.

Nun says thanks for article

Editor,

Thank you for the fine article which you recently published following your interview with me at St. Matthew's. The coverage was far greater than I had anticipated.

It was exciting to read your perceptions of a ministry that is so new that I am discovering more about it each day myself. I particularly enjoyed the warm, welcoming tone of the article.

The line about turning RFD numbers into homes was great! Several parishioners have commented on the interview. It has helped introduce me to the community and I am grateful.

Railroad loss is a shame

Editor,

In this day and age there is a time that we must agree with our friends and neighbors about how our town is quickly growing.

It seems that right before our eyes, the streets widen, the super markets change, condos go up. But the biggest shocker of all was tearing out the one thing in so many hearts, young and old. That is the destruction of the railroad.

It was truly the one thing that got this city growing and kept it going and supported a lot of people for a long time. It would almost seem it should have been voted on by all the public. It has such a sentimental value to many, many people in the area. I know places have to grow and times change, but not without notice.

Harbor nips Ramblers by 2 points in opener

Boyne City quarterback Brad Musser sweeps around left end on his way to a 44-yard touchdown. Musser's score, his second of the game, gave Boyne the lead in the Ramblers' game with Harbor Springs, but the Rams came back with another TD of their own and a two-point conversion to win the game 14-12.

By PAUL ZINCK
A two-point conversion stood between Boyne City and victory in the Ramblers' first football game of the year.

Harbor Springs won the season opener 14-12 on a fourth quarter touchdown and subsequent two-point play. The Rams' winning touchdown came at the end of a 64-yard drive, highlighted by a 45-yard run by halfback Mike Fuhrman.

The score came on a 19-yard halfback pass from Pete McGonigal to Nate Parsons, with 5:44 left in the game. The two-point conversion came on a pass from quarterback Tor Larsen to Eric Holliday.

The Ramblers opened the scoring with 8:43 remaining in the second quarter on a one-yard sneak by quarterback Brad Musser. The touchdown drive began on the Harbor Springs 32 yard line following a fumble recovery by Bob Genson.

Later, in the second quarter, the Ramblers had a 60-yard drive which took them to the Harbor 3 yard line, where they fumbled the ball. Musser had a 20-yard pass to Tom Moody to start the drive.

After the fumble, the Rams held the ball until the half and went into the locker room trailing 6-0.

Harbor tied it up in the third quarter, when with 7:09 left, McGonigal ran 14 yards for a touchdown. The drive covered 70 yards.

The Ramblers went back in the lead shortly into the fourth quarter on a 44-yard run by Musser. Again the try for the extra point failed.

The Rams' tying score came on a fourth down and four yards to go situation. Larsen handed off to McGonigal, who headed to his right as if it were a running play. As tacklers converged on him, he lofted the touchdown pass to Parsons in the end zone.

McGonigal was the leading ground gainer in the contest, picking up 141 yards rushing on 22 attempts and snaring two passes for 73 yards. Musser, one of just five seniors on the Ramblers' squad, rushed for 70 yards in 12 tries and completed nine of 13 passes for 64 yards.

Stacy Reinhardt picked up 38 yards rushing, while Moody and Kevin Fitzpatrick each hauled in four passes.

In all, the Ramblers had 132 yards rushing to the Rams' 197. Boyne gained 64 yards through the air and Harbor picked up 75. "I think we grew up tonight," said Boyne coach Bob McCullough after the game. "I think it was a learning experience. Musser threw well, Fitzpatrick was catching the ball well and our defense did well."

Harbor coach Lee McGonigal said of the Ramblers' play: "They were very spirited and their young defense was tough."

Friday the Ramblers take on Gaylord, which lost 16-0 to Rogers City in its opener.

JV's inches from victory

Boyne City and Harbor Springs played to a 0-0 tie in the opening junior varsity football game of the season.

Boyne came within inches of winning the game as time ran out.

With 30 seconds remaining in the fourth quarter, the Harbor quarterback was sacked, forcing a fumble. Defensive tackle Jeff Sobleski picked up the ball and ran it back to the Harbor 10 yard line. The play had begun on the Boyne 40.

Boyne ran two running plays in the final eight seconds but was stopped six inches shy of the goal line.

Boyne coach Dave Bricker said that was the only time in the game either team advanced inside the opposition's 10 yard line. Ramie Leist intercepted a pass and John Toton recovered a fumble in the first half.

Bricker praised the overall defensive play of several Ramblers, citing defensive end Mike Gabos, defensive tackle Dale Sutton, noseguard Norm Howard and linebackers Todd Fall and Leist.

East Jordan rebounds to tie Jo-Berg

Mike Graham's three touchdowns gave East Jordan a 20-20 tie with Johannesburg in the opening game of the season for both teams. The Red Devils took an early lead, then fell behind when Jo-Burg ripped off three long scoring passes in the second quarter.

East Jordan fought back, though, to knot the score in the third quarter.

Neither team could penetrate the end zone in the final period. Graham scored two of his touchdowns on short runs and the third on a 35-yard pass interception.

The junior's first tally came in the first quarter when he went over from the one to cap a long march. The try for the extra point failed.

In the second period, Jo-Burg got hot and scored three times on passes of about 40 yards.

The Red Devils bounced back, though, and put eight more points on the board. Graham scored from three yards out and Barry Mumich ran for the two-point conversion.

In the third quarter, Graham picked off a pass and raced into the end zone to knot the score at 20-20. The try for point, which would have given the Devils the lead, was unsuccessful.

Graham was the workhorse on offense, carrying the ball 20 times for 134 yards. Mumich also had a good night on the ground, rushing for 72 yards. Bob Sherman led the defense with 14 tackles.

The Red Devils are idle this week. On September 24 they will meet Bellaire, which dropped its opener to Atlanta by a 20-6 score and this week goes up against Central Lake.

BF, BC girls win tournaments

Boyne City and Boyne Falls girls' basketball teams started their seasons off on a high note as they won tournaments.

Boyne won the Central Lake Girls Basketball Invitational while Boyne Falls won the initial Alba Girls Basketball Classic.

Julie Paquette's six points in the closing moments gave the Ramblers a come-from-behind 43-39 win over Ellsworth in the finals of the four-team Central Lake tourney.

The Lady Loggers withstood a late surge by Albá to win 21-19. Paquette hit 14 points in leading all scorers. Teammate Liz Sturm added 12. Ellsworth's top scorers were Cheryl Elzinga and Julie Veenstra, who had 12 points each.

It was Paquette's two field goals and two free throws that brought the Ramblers back from a 38-37 deficit in the final minute.

Boyne had led 14-10 at the end of the first period, but the game was knotted at 23-23 and 31-31 at the end of the second and third quarters.

The Ramblers advanced to the finals by rolling over Bellaire 44-29, while Ellsworth whipped Central Lake 62-25.

Boyne jumped to a 16-4 lead in the first stanza and was never in danger of losing its lead. Paquette again was the top scorer with 14 points and Sturm contributed 10.

Bellaire took the consolation game with a 41-33 victory over host Central Lake.

Boyne Falls held a big lead at halftime of its title game but saw that advantage dwindle. The Lady Loggers were up 17-7 at the midway point after holding only a one-point margin, 6-5, at the end of the first period.

In the third period, the Loggers managed just one point, however, as Alba closed the gap to 18-11. Alba continued to outshoot the Loggers in the final stanza, 8-3, to come within two points by the final buzzer.

Patsy Grubaugh and Sharon Franckowiak led the Loggers' scoring with eight and seven points, respectively, while each hauled down 11 rebounds. Anita Hoogerhyde led Alba with six points.

It took overtime for the Loggers to win their opening game, but they took over in that time — outscoring Alba 12-0 to post a 51-39 victory over Buckley.

Boyne Falls held an 11-9 advantage after the first period but the game was tied at 21-21 at the half. In the third period, the Lady Loggers slipped ahead 28-25, but Buckley again came back to knot the score at 39-39.

Kim Mikula was the top scorer for Boyne Falls with 14 points. Grubaugh added 12, while Sharon Franckowiak and Karen Franckowiak each contributed 10.

Sharon Franckowiak grabbed 11 rebounds and Grubaugh snared 10.

Buckley's Stacy Jewell led all scorers with 28 points — only two of them from the foul line. Mancelona was defeated 24-16 by Alba in the first round, then lost 29-16 in the consolation game.

THE REAL BEAUTY OF THIS FIRE IS THE WAY IT SLASHES FUEL BILLS.

An ordinary fireplace draws in room air and sends it up the chimney — waste you just can't afford.
A Fuego fireplace insert turns your fireplace into an efficient heater. Because it burns with the damper 92% closed, heated air is vented back into the room.

Enough to substantially cut your fuel bills.
The Fuego uses 1/4 as much wood so you spend less time working — more time relaxing.
