Boyerne to seek grant for Peninsula Beach

A beach behind city hall in Boyne City would have cost $250,000 in 1981. But funding wasn't available at the beginning of President Ronald Reagan's presidency.

A letter just received by city manager Tim Clifton now reveals $2.3 million has been apportioned to Michigan for the fiscal year 1982-83. The letter, from the Department of Natural Resources, states that pre-applications for grant money may be resubmitted. The city commission approved submitting a pre-application for the beach.

The federal government will be saving on the delay, because in 1983 the city has a new site for the beach and fixing it up will cost less.

Clifton figured the total necessary would now be about $100,000 with the city's share amounting to $50,000.

Peninsula beach will not require the expensive breakwater planned for the previous site to keep sand from washing away. Also, it won't require rip-rap, sheet piling, or a boardwalk.

What it does need, Clifton said, is dredging to clear away debris, a bath house/concession, utilities, and beach construction. The last means establishing sand two feet deep on the beach with the sand going out under the water.

Storm sewer outlets, one at Main Street and the other near Maple, will have to be extended so as not to interfere with swimming safety. Above each pipe, Clifton said, a floating dock would be anchored, outlining the swimming area.

The outlet for the sanitary treatment plant, located at the beach, would be extended to 300 feet into the lake.

Where would the $50,000 city share come from? With the matching funds not expected until next year, if the proposal is approved for a grant, the commission appeared willing to work on trying to find an extra $50,000 for the city's share of the project.

Built with funds from the Boyne City Pilot's Association, the new hangar at the city airport will shelter seven planes. City manager Tim Clifton demonstrates the huge electrically-operated, bi-fold doors, 12 feet high and 41 feet long. "Sliding doors won't work in northern Michigan winters," Clifton said. The bi-folds cost about $3,000 apiece.

Rec commission asks 27 changes for veterans park

A complete review of the master plan for Veterans' Memorial Park has resulted in 27 recommendations by the Boyne City Parks and Recreation Commission.

Commission member Don Lockman said, "We felt the way the plan stood before, it wasn't what the people of Boyne City wanted."

The city-wide masterplan, designed by Johnson, Johnson, and Roy has not yet been fully implemented. Many of the changes proposed by the subcommittee actually preserve and enhance the park's present features.

Committee members presented their plan to the Parks Commission on February 17 after a study begun in November 1982.

Committee members were: Don Lockman, Steve Ryder, Bob Dunette, Cebe Gillespie, Sue Matison, Steve Moody, Dale Parsons, and Kate Schafer as alternate.

Their suggest masterplan revisions follow.

-Leave circle as is—problem of emergency vehicles with a one way street—senior citizens would not have access—viewing area proposed is too small and too close to area to be developed.

-Too many trees—plant less—choose large trees such as maple, ash, and rent a tree machine.

-Do not remove band shelter. If it was cleaned up, painted and new stairs installed, it would be used more.

-Omit tennis courts—enough courts with the high school and Rotary Park.

-Omit bridge over mouth of Boyne River—would interfere with the fishermen. Vandalism and safety would be a problem. Cost??? Use???

-O.K. the Veterans and American Legions plans for their proposed Memorial. Questions: is it possible to build a platform to match the pavilion...possible have a rock-face platform?

-Beach near the Little League field will not be needed if the Peninsula Beach site is approved. It is possible that the Federal grant for rip-rap and fill may not allow change of this area.

-Install some kind of curbing to prevent driving on grass (around the circle drive)—possible cement or railroad ties—would this be a trimming problem?

-Pour cement slab for basketball court—small area—re-locate if necessary.

-Fix water fountain at the lake—may rock in—

-Rebuild wooden piers—safety problem and liability situation.

-Install light at south side of river-mouth.

-Omit waters' edge pavilion—not needed—would create view blockage.

-Omit boardwalk on waters' edge—not needed—too costly.

-Clean up old trailer park area—remove cement slabs.

-Omit portable bleachers—band shell could be used for programs.

-Rebuild and relocate portable horseshoe court and shuffleboard area. Where?

-Install interpretive center at pavilion. Possible outside glass case—with photos of way the area looked in the lumbering days (Veterans' Park) with a direction arrow.

Supporters for flight station start millage drive

Supporters in the drive to bring a Flight Service Station to Charlevoix County held their first public meeting last Friday morning at the County Building in Charlevoix.

The drive, which is asking the voters of the county to approve a bond proposal for $750,000 in a special election to be held April 7, is to provide up to .5 mills for four or five years.

The supporters want the Flight Service Station to be located in Charlevoix county on land that has been set aside at the Charlevoix City Airport.

According to ad hoc committeeman Alvin Ranger, Congressman Bob Davis has worked for having the center located in his district in northern Michigan, but could not show a preference for any one county in the district.

Counties besides Charlevoix have arranged for an election, similar to the one the county commission has called here, as added encouragement to the FAA in making its choice.

It is felt that for Charlevoix County to get the facility, it would have to provide the same or a better offer in order to be selected by the FAA as the site for the FSS station.

Ranger said the FAA has a list of qualifications, and besides a satisfactory building, one of them is attractive living environment for the 50 to 80 trained employees it will bring in to the very technical operation of the station. He said geographical location is not important for the actual operation of the weather information service. Thus, Charlevoix ranks high on attraction and does not lose out for not being centrally located.

The proposed information center, 10,000 square feet in size, is designed to replace and update the kind of service provided by the eight smaller information stations now scattered through Michigan. Similar plans are being made in other states of the nation.

Weather information will be given at their request to commercial and private pilots for Michigan or anywhere their flights may go.

Ranger said the FAA decided to have counties compete for the center rather than pay for it with federal funds as a means of trimming down its budget, as well as having the locality most to benefit for the station to be the one to pay for it.

The county, however, would not be paying for the expensive equipment to be installed at the center. That would be on the FAA tab.

Other cities that have disqualified themselves from the bidding have said

Meeting slated in East Jordan on flight station

People with questions and opinions on the federal government's proposed weather information center will have their opportunity at a meeting called by the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce Monday, March 21 at 7:30 p.m.

To be held at the Civic Center, the meeting is to provide information to county residents before the April 7 election, when residents will be voting on a half mill tax addition to pay for a $750,000 flight station building if the federal government decides to locate the station near the Charlevoix city airport.

The important word is "if," because the half mill will not be collected if Federal Aviation Administration chooses to locate the station in one of the other 13 counties competing for the bid.

East Jordan county commissioner Tom Breakey said that although he had a few misgivings, one being use of tax funds for promotion of the proposal, he nevertheless "was not against the project."

What would happen if residents vote down the "if-millage"? Then, according to Charlevoix city manager Robert Hunt, the county would probably lose out, because the reluctance of the taxpayers would be seen as lack of support for the installation.

East Jordan airport needs tree cutters to clear safe lane

To get guide slopes cleared for landing at the East Jordan Airport, city superintendent Mike Dionne sent out a call for woodcutters. At the city council meeting March 1, Dionne said people wanting wood were welcome to participate in tree trimming and cutting at either end of the airport runway to clear a safer lane for incoming planes.

Those planning to cut wood must, he said, go to the city clerk's office and sign a waiver. The cutting will start Tuesday, March 14. Only marked or designated trees will qualify for being cut, Dionne said.

Dionne also discussed the need for a second generator to keep sewage lift stations in operation in case of a power blackout. The discussion was prompted by the availability at a low price of a state surplus generator. The city has one generator which the public works department is putting into working order. About $4,000 worth of wiring is also needed to have the stations equipped for generator use.

The council discussed purchase of the second generator, but they also proposed the present generator be fitted up to move from one station to the other to keep the lines cleared in case of a simultaneous blackout on both sides of the lake.

Contacted a week later, Dionne said the used generator turned out to be not what the city wanted.

Dionne also reported to the council that the city needs a new well house, new grit chamber, and new water loop connections, all of which would be subject of a 50-50 grant proposal to the Michigan Department of Commerce. The council approved putting in a pre-application.

Grants for two other projects continue to be pursued by the city and the Chamber of Commerce. These are the $75,000 small boat marina planned for the Tourist Park, and the city harbor, which, in a pared-down plan, may receive attention of the Waterways Division, according to the Chamber. If this is not feasible state public works funds may be available.

William Gregg Boswell was appointed to fill a vacancy on the board of reviews caused by the resignation of Ginny Giacomelli.

Work starts on Front St.

Work on the realigned portion of Front Street starts this week, according to The Harborage developer Rick Smith. "Depending on weather, of course, he added."

The portion involved is the stretch first approved at the request of The Harborage in order to allow more room between the beach and the roadway.

A second request was made late last fall for 650 additional feet to be moved inland. In its final form, The Harborage request was to move the 650 feet of street inland 50 feet.

The legal description for this change is not complete yet, so the present road

Boyerne offers abatement to electric cooperative

The Boyne City commission Tuesday added further encouragement to Wolverine Power Supply to stay in Boyne City. The commissioners approved a letter to Raymond Cristell, manager, offering a 50 percent tax abatement for 12 years to the company on the addition they would find it necessary to build on their present headquarters, if they were to continue to use the former Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative building. The Economic Development Corporation is meeting Wednesday with Wolverine officials on the question of possible relocation.

The letter is in addition to previous communications, expressing interest in having the company stay in the city.

At the commission's noon meeting, Richard May, president of Boyne City's EDC, said two other cities are also vying to have the headquarters, and he has heard that one, at least, has offered a similar tax abatement. He said further, "It is my recommendation that the city give them the tax abatement."

"If they stay here," he said, "they will build a 1,500 square foot addition, costing up to $150,000."

The tax abatement would be on the addition only. The Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificate does not permit the present building to be included since it was completed a number of years ago. Exemption certificates are authorized by the state.

As city manager Tim Clifton pointed out, tax abatements and other kinds of considerations are offered in these times, where in other times, because of better economic conditions, cities were not hunting for business and industry to improve tax bases and employment problems.

At present Wolverine employs about 16 people locally, who would be subject to transfer if the company headquarters were to be moved.

The company is a result of a merger between Northern Michigan Electric and Wolverine power cooperatives.

Al Chanda receives from city recreation director Pat Beric the plaque which honors the East Jordan Lions Club for donating the entire cost of a $2,000 movable stage for the Civic Center.

Merwin named honorary Indian brave

with Connie Lingle
582-2194

If you say, "Hello, Ah-Ki'-Au-Nih-Neh" to Bill Merwin, you might get him to turn around, but his Indian name is still kind of new.

Mayor Mervin was honored at the March 1 meeting of the East Jordan city council when he was given his Indian name and welcomed as an honorary tribal member.

Pat Muma, chairman of the Powwow Committee, tied the armband of the Indian brave on the mayor's right arm, as councilwoman Gigi Antoine pronounced Merwin's Anishinabe name, Ah-Ki'-Au-Nih-Neh, which means earth man.

Merwin responded by saying, "It is truly an honor... I can see myself as earth man because I'm down to earth."

The council determined that the second annual Day of the Eagle, a gathering of Indians from Northern Michigan, would be held at the Tourist Park. The dates are May 28 and 29.

Antoine said the request for the park was sponsored by the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with the East Jordan Elementary School Anishinabe Education, Title IV-A.

Last year's powwow was held at the high school hockey field. Held by Indians for Indians, it featured speakers, drumming, Indian dancing and a banquet of Indian cooking.

Antoine teaches Indian culture to children of Indian blood under the Title IV program. Classes are once a week at the elementary school.

The powwow is an outgrowth of this activity, and Antoine plans to have the students participating in the construction of temporary lodges and a large teepee for the Day of the Eagle.

"In the years to come," she said, "we hope not just to have the Day of the Eagle this time of year, but an Ethnic Culture Day for all nationalities."

The Brownie and Junior Girl Scouts of Boyne City celebrated Girl Scout Sunday with the congregation of the United Methodist Church. Opinions

Interest groups, Democrats, try to justify tax increase

This newspaper is starting to get deluged with information promoting a tax increase. We are daily receiving material from the Democrats, trying to justify their asking for a tax increase, material from governmental bodies asking that a tax increase be supported because their favorite program would be "devastated" by a cut in the budget from the state, and others who have some sword they want to swing.

If the state is looking for fiscal responsibility, they had better look no further than themselves. The politicians are the ones who put us in this mess, and they should get some responsibility for trying to get us out. Sooner or later, Lansing is going to learn that you can't continually give things away, and not have to worry about how that continuing program is going to "be all right" when the times get tough.

We have heard many people around here suggest ways that the state could cut their expenses. From someone suggesting that a governmental "Hit man" to walk into each and every office in Lansing and to stop the employment of the top two persons of seniority in each and every office room, to someone else suggesting that they should also take the bottom two people along with the top two.

Another person was complaining that, now that the state government has driven away the industry, they are trying to drive the citizens out of the state.

Both ideas have merit, but for different reasons.

If we reduce the amount of people on the state payroll, we would not have as much of a problem. We would have to train many of the folks down in Lansing to become productive workers instead of just workers.

If we drive a lot of people out of the State, then we may not have to support as many through the Social Services and other agencies.

But, we don't think that either of those plans will get into effect. Michigan is a great state, and the way that it became great was and is through the people who populate it.

We would just like to see some fiscal action that will not create any more hardship on the citizens.

If it takes some drastic action of cutting back, then that is what we should do.

We are all against any tax increases so that the State can operate at the status quo. If we taxpayers have to change, then we should also ask that the state change.

Jottings

It must be spring. At least I have seen the robins, have heard the birds singing for mates, walked in the rain, wore my spring-summer coat and have started to think about summer.

The only problem is that I haven't yet gotten out to ski this season and now it's time to get the old golf clubs polished up. And the tennis racket, and get the kids bikes ready to go.

Meanwhile, I am still stuck with wintertime activities when the weather says I should be thinking about spring.

But this time of year is a real indicator of what the summer may be like. In talking with a few real estate people in the area, there is a lot of activity as people are starting to look at houses and other real estate investments.

Last week, I saw someone out raking their front yard. And the seeds are on sale in the area stores.

I even have a couple of stories to write about softball, and a new spring soccer league.

To me, I had better start to think about spring, about seeing the wild flowers and maybe whether or not I will find any mushrooms.

Of course spring is the time of hope eternal. Some of the indicators in our business are the number of engagements and weddings that are planned for the next few months.

Another indicator is the Realtors telling people that now is the time to think about listing that home. And, of course, the new spring clothing that is appearing in our area shops.

Spring is definitely the time to think about changes. The only thing is, with my luck, we will have our first blizzard tomorrow.

And I might still get a chance to go skiing.

Marshall Sayles

Umpteen years ago this week, my folks made a misstep in the right direction and now I'm celebrating my birthday. I'm Pisces the fish, born so long ago I can remember when people survived an entire week on a week's wages. At this age in life I can now do anything I wish so long as it's legal and doesn't cause the city council to hold a special meeting.

A little further down the road I shall say something serious about Boyne City, but first let me tell you this: My recent affair of the heart put me on a $500 per day hospital mattress and kept me there so long our health insurance company showed signs of going broke. The trouble was caused by a build-up of fats in the veins called cholesterol. I was not sent home until my head was 92 percent fat free. If I were you and wanted to know how much fat was in my head I would not take my neighbor's word for it. I would take my head to the hospital and find out for sure just how free of fat it is. There's nothing like finding things out for sure.

Now for something serious about Boyne City: In a recent national magazine article it was said that Boyne City, Michigan is among the "sleeper" cities of the country. By that it meant that Boyne City is being over-looked right now, but is primed for rapid expansion once favorable economic conditions return. Some of that expansion is already on the drawing boards. Boyne's rapid development will place it among Michigan's most "fast moving" communities. So say the people who ought to know.

Ten years ago I quit drinking anything that contained alcohol; and I made the statement that lips that touch liquor shall never touch mine. Three months ago I quit using tobacco in any of its nasty forms; and I made the statement that lips that touch tobacco shall never touch mine. Last week I quit?&---#-+&?&+--- and made the statement that 1/2?&---1/2 1/4---#?+--- shall never touch mine. Heavens, if I keep this up I may go out of the touching business entirely.

In a recent nation-wide poll of 1500 people picked at random, it was reported that most of them approved the way the President is running this country. These scientific polls are said to be an iron clad guarantee of what most of the people are thinking. That makes me mad. Those polls are more of a tin clad guarantee, if you ask me. And I wish you would ask me. I've never been picked at random. I wish they would pick me at random, I'd sure tell 'em. But, no. They refuse to pick me at random. I think what the pollsters do is to go around and find a lot of random people who approve of the President and then pick them. Since I have a quarrel with the President, I'm not random enough to be picked. I looked up that word random and found that it also means haphazard. I ain't that either. What chance have I got to be picked?

I have heard and I have read that a restaurant will be built on the site of the Old BCG&A roundhouse at the end of Water Street. That's a wonderful idea. Let us hear no meddlesome tongues against it.

Barbara Cruden

One wonders what serpentine thinking brought magazine publishers to insert those little pieces of cardboard into their magazine bindings. I've come to believe it's so that when you're inspecting periodicals displayed at the supermarket, it won't work anymore to try to thumb through them.

Remember the "movies" you used to make in seventh grade social studies when the teacher wasn't looking? You drew the little stick figure on the margin of page 3, again on page 5, and so on to about page 27. Each time the little figure was moved one step closer to a cliff, until....

Then you'd thumb the pages and watch them flick past, making the little figure appear to run over the cliff.

Well, if they'd put those little postcard ads in your soc. books, you know what would have happened.

Just what happens when I try to see if the magazine has any good hairstyle ideas. (Hear my friends laugh!) Or good plans for building a deck.

The magazine pages go bzzap-plunk, right to the fiendish little inserted postcard. Then bzzap-plunk to the next one.

It's impossible to make a quick survey of the magazine. And who's going to scan it by turning every page.

Too bad. I might even have bought the thing.

I wonder if they make a deal with whoever runs the ad at the page where the card goes in. Does the rototiller company, guilty of the card that was inserted, get free insurance from New York Life on the facing page?

In that case, I would patronize neither of them. That's how disruptive those little-----are.

(Excuse me, I have to look up some abusive terms to use.) Yes. Maddening, nauseating, infuriating, nettling, roiling, aggravating little inserts.

When one of the periodicals I subscribe to arrives, I go through it first to tear out every one of those m., n., i., m., r., a., little inserts.

I think about sending them all to the EPA people so they can put them through their paper shredders. But even then they would still create toxic waste.

Maybe I need a Superfund grant. Because they invariably are in color.

Did you know that colored ink is much worse for the good earth than black ink is?

That's why you should buy only white paper napkins. (And use them after dinner to wipe up the floor where the children sat. It cycles the napkins again.)

That's why also one should be more devoted to newspapers like this one. No color.

And no little cards wedged into the folds.

But I probably have gone unreasonably, intemperately, immoderately, and uncouthly berserk over those m., n., i., m., r., a., little inserts. A friend trades magazines with me, and she never tears those things out of hers. And I know she reads most of the articles.

What self-restraint.

I'm so mortified, I never mention it to her. I don't write to my congressman for a law against the fiendish little-----.

But if I ever sit next to a magazine publisher at a banquet, or at the beach, or in a fall-out shelter, I shall haul out my you-can't-tell-it-from-the-original head of Medusa (you know, the one with serpents for hair that Perseus carried around) and--(well, you remember--Perseus used it to turn a sea monster to stone.) Just for awhile.

Letters

Dear Editor,

We would like to take this opportunity to say a warm "Thank you" to the East Jordan Rotarians for their work in preparing and serving the pancake supper on Tuesday, March 1st. The East Jordan Rotary Club did all the planning, advertising, and preparing of the pancakes and sausage and then very graciously donated the proceeds to the East Jordan Athletic Boosters.

Thanks, also, to the East Jordan Sno-Mobilers for the use of their excellent facilities; to the East Jordan Ski Team members who were there to help serve and clean up; to the East Jordan Volleyball team members who also helped serve and clean up; and of course, to the public for their support by attending.

It seemed like every member of our community came out to enjoy the delicious meal. The evening was certainly an all-out effort of community members working together for a mutual goal--raising money to support the athletic programs in the East Jordan Public Schools. The East Jordan Athletic Boosters are to be commended for the time and leadership that they are giving to this program which means so much in the lives of our many young school athletes. However, without the help and support of events such as the Pancake Supper, these excellent athletic programs could not be provided.

THANK YOU, EAST JORDAN!

Sincerely,
Bud & Ginny Carey

New county map to be issued shortly

A new tourist map of the county, nearly a year in preparation, will be out soon, according to East Jordan Chamber of Commerce director Judy Shea.

It will be attractive and easier to read than the presently available map, she said. Parks and other points of interest will be marked by symbols, and a key, listing roads, will be included, along with a list of annual events in the county.

A second brochure is also due out any day now. This one is for the attention of business people and manufacturers who could be interested in locating in the county.

It will feature information on such things as tax base, possible employment population, and transportation.

Both brochures have been funded through the county commission.

Waiting to get their second cup of coffee from the Eggers are frequent customers of the Horton Bay General Store. Mary Harris waits patiently with Harriet Housel, the past owner and other customers as the new owners, Jan Eggers with the coffee pot, her daughter Tracy, and both Raymonds in the back, wait to take orders from the guests at the counter. Service at the historic store is expected to remain as it has been for many years.

Eggers take over Horton Bay General Store

When you stop in for a fresh cup of coffee at the Horton Bay General Store, some new faces will be serving you. Ray and Jan Eggers have taken over as the new owners of the historic business from long time owner Harriet Housel.

Both Eggers will be working full time at the store, which will remain just as it is as no changes are planned at this time, according to Ray Eggers.

The Eggers, Horton Bay residents for the last 11 years, and the owners of the Horton Bay Bait Shop, will be moving the bait business down to a storage building that is next to the store as they consolidate both businesses.

The business at the store will continue to serve the customers in the same friendly way that the store has had for many generations according to Jan Eggers.

"We're trying to learn about all the things that the store has to offer, and Ray is trying to find out how things work for right now, but we will be moving into the apartment that is part of the store as soon as Harriet can find a suitable place for herself," she added.

Eggers, a past Penn-Dixie Cement Company worker, bought the store because he "always wanted a business, and wanted to work for himself."

be a family operation for the Eggers as their two children, Raymond and Tracy, will be helping out after school and on weekends. Both children go to the Boyne City Middle School.

As for Harriet, according to the Eggers, she will be staying around the area for a while to help out and to help them learn about the business.

On Dean's list

KALAMAZOO - More than 1,000 students are included on the dean's list for the first semester of the 1982-83 academic year at Western Michigan University. To be eligible, a WMU student must have compiled a 3.5 grade average in at least 14 hours of graded class work; 4.0 is all A grades.

Among the students are: Thomas E. McNamara, of Charlevoix, and Yvonne E. Grant, of East Jordan.

Smith named director

Kathleen Smith of Boyne City has been chosen as director of the Charlevoix County Hospice, it was announced by the organization's Board of Directors this week.

Charlevoix County Hospice, founded in 1981 and formally organized with a Board of Directors last fall, hopes to begin serving the terminally ill and their families by early summer.

The selection of a director has been a priority with the organization, despite the fact that it is operating entirely under volunteer direction.

Mrs. Smith, who has been acting as Interim Administrator for the organization since its conception, agreed to continue serving in a volunteer capacity, until enough funds are raised to provide a director's salary.

"The first funds we raise will go toward necessary office expenses and establishing our training program for volunteers," the new director pointed out during a recent interview.

Since moving to Boyne City in 1978, Mrs. Smith has served as a discussion leader for the "Coping?" group. "Coping?" is a discussion group organized for people with a life threatening disease.

She also serves on the Boyne City Board of Review, and was president of the Boyne City Library Advisory Board from 1979 to 1980. She was a co-founder and member of the governing board of the Boyne Valley Natural Foods Cooperative and Superintendent of Youth Education for the Universal Center of Awareness Cor., of Vacaville, Cal.

A Chicago area native, she explained that the

KATHLEEN SMITH

Mrs. Smith worked previously as office supervisor and supervisor of computer operations for the Household Finance Company, Niles, Ill.

She is currently enrolled in a program through North Central Michigan College, studying psychology and gerontology. She received certification as a hospice volunteer after 22 hours of classes through the Hospice of Alpena, and has attended innumerable workshops and study sessions sponsored by the Michigan Hospice Organization and the Michigan League for Nursing. She received an Associate's Degree from Solano Community College in Suisun, California, and is an ordained minister with the Universal Center of Awareness of Vacaville, Cal.

One of her first objectives as Director of Charlevoix County Hospice will be assisting the organization obtain its tax exempt status so that it may begin raising funds and training volunteers.

As Hospice Director, Mrs. Smith says she considers herself an "advocate for terminally ill patients."

She explained that the Charlevoix County Hospice program will serve such patients and their families through home-based programs. The primary purpose of the organization will be to enable the terminally ill to receive care in their homes, while stressing the quality of life.

The Hospice Director said the core of Hospice is the volunteers who will be trained to assist the families, with daily routines, in order to minimize the family's burdens. Two groups of volunteers will be part of Charlevoix County's Hospice. One will consist of lay volunteers who perform "good neighbor" type activities. The other will include professional volunteers from such agencies as counseling, mental health, social services, law offices, insurance companies and the like. The professional volunteers will form an interdisciplinary team directly overseeing each individual's care.

All volunteers will receive up to 22 hours of training, Mrs. Smith explained. This training will focus on dealing with death and dying and the arts of communication and listening.

The director pointed out that the Hospice concept is world-wide. It is a concept of "alternative care for the terminally ill, which maximizes the quality of life, when the quantity of life cannot be extended," she said quoting Dr. Josefina B. Mango, former executive director of the National Hospice organization.

Charlevoix County Hospice hopes to begin bringing its services to the homes of the terminally ill by this summer.

Real estate firm selected as affiliate

Schmidt Real Estate of Traverse City has recently been selected as an affiliate of Consolidated Hotel/Motel Brokers, Inc., a Houston based organization of real estate firms marketing hotels and motels on a nationwide basis. Schmidt Real Estate is the only real estate firm in Northwest Michigan now serving hotel/motel need through Consolidated.

Schmidt Real Estate has been doing business in the Northwest Michigan area since 1937 and continually has been a leader in real estate sales. They currently have over 30 full time sales associates and five offices in the Grand Traverse area. They have been very active in the past in marketing hotels and motels and with the affiliation of Consolidated Hotel/Motel Brokers, Inc. they will be able to improve education in the industry and broaden the marketing into national wide. It is a fact that over 90% of the motel sales are to people from local other than where the hotel or motel is located.

Consolidated brokers concentrate on hotel/motel sales, exchanges, leasing, financing, feasibility and consulting. The other than where the hotel or motel is located.

organization concentrates on the educational and training of brokers and their associates. The group will conduct seminars and forums for brokers, associates, buyers and sellers. "This new approach is designed to bring the national marketing process for motels/hotels into the local market place where the average broker and sales associate operate. The key here is to tie in a strong local identity with a national marketing network," said Cal Schoene, President, Consolidated Hotel/Motel Brokers, Inc.

As recognized leaders, the principals in Consolidated have served as speakers and panel members for national seminars in the hotel/motel field and at national hotel/motel organizational meetings.

They have been widely published in industry trade journals. Consolidated's officers have extensive experience in the brokerage, management, financing and development of hotel/motel properties.

Students visit hospital

Some 60 students from Charlevoix, East Jordan, Boyne City, Ellsworth and Beaver Island schools spent last Wednesday afternoon getting a first hand look at possible careers in the health field at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Annually, the hospital invites area students to visit the hospital and hear from working professionals about their jobs and what training is required for them.

The sixty students were divided into small groups and given tours of the major departments, so that each student had an opportunity to see the hospital at work and to ask questions.

Kathy Boss, the director of patient services, explained that students who wanted to have further exposure to the hospital can make arrangements to come back to learn more.

NMH announce 12 scholarships for med jobs

The Northern Michigan Hospitals Auxiliary announced that 12 health career scholarships will be awarded this spring to eligible high school and college students.

Scholarship applications for the sponsored annual awards are available upon request.

Twelve scholarships, in the amount of $500, are given each year to students entering or enrolled in an accredited Health Services program. The auxiliary funds 10 awards and the board of trustees the remaining two.

For further information on these awards, contact Scholarship Chairperson Lynda McKnight at (616) 526-2937 or the Auxiliary Volunteer Office at (616) 348-4568, 416 Connable, Petoskey, MI 49770.

Applications for the 1983-84 school year must be completed and returned by April 30, 1983.

Area students to learn about REA

Area high school students will have an opportunity to learn about farm and consumer cooperatives at Michigan Rural Electric Youth Days '83 to be held April 21 and 22 at the 4-H Kettunen Center, Tustin. This second annual event is sponsored by Top O'Michigan Rural Electric Cooperative, along with other rural electric co-ops in the state.

Three students from each rural electric cooperative will be selected to attend Rural Electric Youth Days '83.

Tom Hanna, Manager of Top O' Michigan in Boyne City, said students will be selected on the basis of their interest in cooperatives, their commitment to rural life, and their leadership potential.

Hanna said chosen students will learn from a variety of activities and speakers about co-ops in general and rural electric co-ops in particular. They will also take part in mock board meetings, where "they will make the decisions for a change."

"Rural Electric Youth Days will acquaint the students with the vital role that cooperatives have in rural America and rural Michigan," Mr. Hanna said. "This is a worthwhile educational experience, especially for those students who plan to remain in areas and occupations where co-operatives will play an important role in their lives.

A total of 40 students are expected to attend the event, which is coordinated by the Michigan Electric Cooperative Association, Lansing.

Walls travels with Alma choir

ALMA - A long-week tour with the Alma College A. Cappella Choir is ahead for Elizabeth Walls of Boyne City during Alma's winter term break. From Feb. 26 through March 3, the 61 choir members will present concerts at one church in Michigan and four in Canada. Elizabeth, a sophomore, sings alto in the choir.

The choir's first concert is Feb. 26 at the First Presbyterian Church in Royal Oak. After that there are four concerts in Canada. In addition to concerts on campus during the school year, the choir annually presents concerts in major Michigan cities and sings for Sunday worship services in Presbyterian churches in Michigan. The choir also tours each year during winter term break. Every second year, during Alma's four-week spring term, the choir undertakes more extensive tours which have included, in recent years, tours to the west coast, the Soviet Union and Poland, and in 1981, Scotland.

Elizabeth, a 1981 graduate of Boyne City High School, is the daughter of the Rev. Mr. Milton and Mrs. Diana Walls, Boyne City.

Doctor joins staff

The Board of Directors of the East Jordan Family Health Center announces that Ted R. Scofield, M.D. will be joining Mitchell Carey, M.D. and Edwin Newington, physician assistant, in medical practice at the family health center. Dr. Scofield will be replacing Dr. Bruce Lindsay, who will be leaving in July to accept a fellowship in cardiology at Washington University in St. Louis, Missouri. Dr. Scofield is originally from Davison, Michigan. He attended Kalamazoo and earned his medical degree from St. Louis University. He then completed a residency in internal medicine at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York City. After completion of his residency, he agreed to stay on for an additional year as chief medical resident at Sloan-Kettering.

Dr. Scofield's excellent training in internal medicine will be a definite asset to East Jordan Family Health Center, especially since he will be taking over the practice of Dr. Lindsay, who is also an internal medicine specialist. Dr. Scofield and his wife, Barbara, and their four week old son, Devlin will be visiting the area again in March and moving here in early July.

East Jordan kids go to Au Sable institute

Where do you find animals in the winter woods? Fifth grade children, for example, study the winter environment. This includes, besides learning where to find animals in winter, learning how they survive, learning how to use a compass and snowshoes; and learning a bit about weather forecasting and the temperature/humidity index. Sixth grade children learn problem-solving through principles governing wildlife management. Au Sable days start at the kindergarten level when children are given a day of developing observation skills.

Win over Elks moves Ramblers in districts

BY PAUL ZINCK
The Ramblers fought off a third quarter challenge by the Elk Rapids Elks by scoring 28 points in the fourth quarter to take a 73-55 victory in the first of the District games held Monday night at the Boyne City arena.

The Ramblers, seemed to be in control for the whole game, with the exception of the third quarter when they let the Elks come up to within five points.

With the victory, the Ramblers now advance to the second round Wednesday night when they play Traverse City St. Francis, while the Elks have been eliminated from further tournament play. St. Francis received a bye in the first round draw.

The game with the Elks started slow, as both teams tried to figure out each others defensive strategy, but Boyne put the first points on the board and then scored again in the opening minutes of play. From that base, the Ramblers took a lead that they never relinquished. The score at the end of the first period had Boyne ahead by four points.

In the second period, the Ramblers continued their scoring drive, moving the score to a 17 point advantage by the halftime. Boyne's Tim Winters had seven points that he added in the quarter while Mike Harris and Brad Musser each put 6 points on the board.

The Elks Paul White had the hot hand in the third period, scoring 10 points on five field goals. Teammate John Kennedy added another seven as the Elk Rapids cagers closed up the gap to six points with just eight minutes left to play.

Boyne's Harris and Winters dominated the boards in the game, each having 13 rebounds in the contest. Brad Musser took the scoring honors with 20 points, ripped down six rebounds, and aided the team with three of Boyne's nine steals for the evening. Musser hit 10 of 16 shots from the field.

As a team, the Ramblers hit 13 of 23 charity shots and 30 of 72 from the field. Winters had a fine 15 point performance coming off the bench and Harris added another 13 points.

This jump shot by Brad Musser sails over the head of an Elk Rapids defender and on into the basket for two more points in the district championship games being played this week at the Boyne City High School. The Ramblers defeated the Elks and move on to play Traverse City St. Francis this Wednesday night. Game time is at 7:30 p.m. The Elks have lost their chance for the tournament with the loss Monday night.

Frank Pritchard, the ski patrol director at Boyne Mountain, sorts through some of the canned goods that was donated by members of the ski patrol for a food drive to aid the citizens of the Boyne Falls and Boyne City area. The drive was started because of a need to help provide some assistance to deserving residents due to the high unemployment conditions of the county. The food was given to the Community Services Center in Boyne City for distribution to the needy families.

A new umpires organization has been formed for Northern Michigan called the Slo-pitch Umpires Federation.

Volleyballers end with wins

BY ERIKA HERHOLZ
The East Jordan junior varsity girls' volleyball season ended on a good note with wins over Boyne City and Petoskey. High scorers for the last game against Petoskey on Monday February 28 were Tracy Drenth and Erika Herholz, both with seven points.

In the three-game match the EJ jv's took the first game 15-10, lost the second game 15-4, and won the third 15-3.

The girls' record for the conference is 11 wins and 5 losses.

High scorers of the season were Jeannie Eddy with 102 points, co-captain Melissa Parmer with 91, and captain Tracy Drenth, 79.

Coach Bonnie Grover was presented with a bouquet of roses in appreciation, and assistant coach and scorekeeper for the jv's Carmen Murphy was given a carnation. The parents of the players were also given carnations at the end of the game.

In a fund-raising project the girls served at a pancake supper given by the Rotary Club of East Jordan at the Snowmobile Club. Proceeds go to the EJ Athletic Boosters to support school athletics.

Smith sets record in Logger win

BY PAUL THEISEN
The Boyne Falls Loggers traveled to Atlanta last Tuesday, only to come home with a disappointing loss to add to their record.

The game was uneventful for the Loggers as Atlanta grabbed a stiff lead in the first quarter, making it impossible for the Logger players to catch up.

The first period ended with the score 27 to 7, Atlanta leading. By the half, Atlanta had pulled their lead up to a 60-26 score. And by the end of the third the points showed 84-39 in the rout. The fourth quarter ended up with the Atlanta victory 99-51.

Boyne Falls Tim Smith received top scoring honors, pulling in 34 points, along with 13 rebounds. Clarence Stark hit for six points in the game.

At Friday night action at Boyne Falls arena, the Loggers came out a winner as they defeated Alba 72-51.

It was a hot game for the Falls' Tim Smith as he broke the old varsity high school point record for the most points scored in a single game by an individual. The old record was 41 points, while Smith passed through that and scored
