East Jordan moves toward sale of Elm Pointe

Honoring public input on the possible sale of Elm Pointe, the city's lakefront park, East Jordan city council again heard questions and suggestions on the subject at the April 19 city council meeting.

The council's own proposal is to sell the property to either the state or the county. Thus, city superintendent Mike Dionne pointed out, the public will continue to be able to use the park with its 1,000 feet of shoreline.

Because the county does not have funds for such a massive purchase, Dionne's recommendation to seek support from the state's Kammer Trust Fund was approved by the council, as well as the proposal to send a formal inquiry to the county.

The value of the land has been set at a range of figures. The value at the time of its being donated by the Westgates to the city in 1972 was $195,997.

Suggestions offered by some of the 42 people attending the council meeting included forming a non-profit corporation for the operation of the park, and supporting it by various user fees.

But councilman Keith Kenney reiterated that the problem was first to obtain a large fund to invest in city projects and only second to be rid of Elm Pointe expenses. The projects have not as yet been prioritized, but among them are developing Sportsmen's Park, purchasing more lakefront property in town, moving the ball fields and putting in tournament parks, all with an eye to attracting tourists.

The council's point of view was to emphasize the sports potential of East Jordan, obviously in contrast to the view of those who wished to keep Elm Pointe as a beauty spot, attracting visitors for art events, social and educational events, and the historical museum, as well as beachside activities.

The contrast was summed up by Peggy Midener, who has worked in many of the Elm Pointe events. She said to the council, "You're saying to all the people who have contributed over the years 'It's nothing.' The decisions of the past were hard won, she said, and now they were giving it up in order to appeal to crowds of fishermen.

Her comments were applauded. Others noted that artists have stated they would not come if the Portside Art Fair were held downtown instead of at Elm Pointe. Another asked if this donation of the park to the city were sold, wouldn't that affect the likelihood of future donations.

Joel Evans, who lives in South Arm Township, said a real estate study he'd read advised municipalities "keep your recreational property." He added later that the feeling of the township, which would benefit in tax collection if the property were sold into private hands, still seems to be that the city keep the park.

Councilman Al Joseph's motion to have the ad hoc committee study ways of supporting the park if it were not sold, was approved.

The actual decision to sell is in the hands of city residents, as there would have to be a vote to approve the city's plan.

The council did vote to go ahead with construction of 40 boat slips for the Tourist Park, borrowing from the cemetery perpetual care fund, paying the prevailing rate of interest, and proposing to amortize the loan out of the docking fees collected at the park over a period of five years.

The council placed a $25 fee on seasonal use of baseball fields by any teams, including Little League. Mike Burr, who directs Little League activities, opposed the move, saying the cost could mean some kids could not play. He noted that Little League youngsters and their adult supporters contributed their efforts to maintenance of their fields, even putting up a $3,000 fence.

Councilwoman Gigi Antoine voted against the fee, saying her ward was against it, but councilwoman Pat Sweet said, "If everyone were treated equally there wouldn't be hard feelings." She added that there was a difference between reserving the field and occasional use by the public.

A $50 fee for rezoning was also set to help cover the costs of public notices and hearings. A $10 fee will be charged for the preliminary study for a building permit.

May 14 will begin a city-wide clean-up for Community Pride Clean-up Month. On May 15 the fire department will wash the city streets.

The tracks that cross both Park Street and East Street will be taken up by July 15, according to the recently settled suit that was filed by the city against the Boyne Valley Railroad. In the settlement, the monies will go for the replacing of the rails with a hard surface. The rails that cross Lake Street will be replaced in the upcoming street program for that street next year.

Boyne settles suit with BVRR

The suit between the city and the Boyne Valley Railroad concerning the trackage that was left in the roadways after the tear-up was completed was settled out-of-court Monday, April 25. The settlement, in favor of the city, calls for a clean-up of the right of way by July 15, and a sum of $1750 in damages.

The city will use the money to fix up the crossings on East Street and Park street. The crossing of Lake Street will not be completed until the street improvement project on that street is started next year.

The railroad has long been a problem to the city, but as City Manager Tim Clifton said, the "suit was settled amicably between all parties."

Boyne Falls sets curriculum goals for schools

Boyne Falls curriculum committee has proposed several new approaches to learning for its students. One will be "to make North Central an extension of our curriculum," principal Joel Donaldson said in a telephone interview Monday.

Most of the courses that Boyne Falls high school seniors would take would not be normally offered in any high school, Donaldson explained. They would be offered "as an extension in the field."

The idea developed from the fact that Boyne Falls was not able to offer advanced math courses. Such courses would only be available at metropolitan schools because, Donaldson said, only there would there be a large enough number of students wanting the course to warrant the classes and the instructors.

But with North Central Michigan College in Petoskey willing to accept the seniors for courses unavailable at their high school, Boyne Falls decided to go ahead with the idea, starting this coming school year. The requirements would include the student's having taken the ACT test, having a certain number of high school credits, and maintaining a certain level of grade points.

Donaldson said there are scheduling problems, but North Central was willing to look at them. Students would be taking language arts, math, or science courses. Dual credits would be earned; the same course would give high school credit and college credit.

Petoskey and Harbor Springs, as well as a few other neighboring school systems, also send students to NCMC for courses.

In Boyne Falls' pilot year, Donaldson said, there could be five students going to both high school and the college.

Meantime Boyne Falls will be adding an advanced course of its own to the high school curriculum. Donaldson said Bill Aten will teach trigonometry.

A third step in curriculum development will be the writing program which will set minimum writing standards from K through 12, the principal said.

"I've been talking this over for a couple of years," he said, "and have talked to graduates about it."

The committee, made up of teachers, parents, school board members, and himself as administrator, Donaldson said, is going to the teachers to have the staff sharing ideas, and setting up the appropriate skills.

Thus, a student doing science homework will have to pay as much attention to writing skills as one doing English.

Donaldson said he hasn't heard of other schools setting up a formal program like this, but the state Department of Education had a "writing week" this year. Also the reading conference in East Jordan stressed writing as a means to reading skill.

Elementary students wrote some books as a result, he said. The books have been made into actual book form, with laminated covers, and are now catalogued and placed on the school library shelves.

Writing is very much an education concern now, Donaldson concluded. "You have to be able to communicate what you know."

Martin busy in Adult Ed

Shelly Martin has her finger in a number of pies, from two big rummage sales recently to adult graduation ceremonies coming up June 4.

It's all under the adult education program, although Martin reported her youngest registered student is only 14 months old. He's in the swimming program which involves 60 people in lessons or recreational swimming, scheduled this spring at a private indoor pool.

Martin says the swimming program has a contractual agreement for use of the pool with two swimming instructors, Anne Johnston and Michelle Rick.

Grouped according to age and ability, swimmers have been meeting once a week.

At the opposite end of the scale from 14 months is the most mature student, aged 71 years, which gives some idea of the on-going quality of education, Martin said.

Besides swimming, this spring's enrichment classes include photography, karate, and beginning and advanced gymnastics.

"A very good class we have going on now," Martin said, "is 'I Can Cope,' dealing with terminal disease. People can still enter it."

Some of the classes, like "I Can Cope," are held in Boyne City at the high school. The swimming is held in the East Jordan area.

The two very successful rummage sales were held on two successive Saturdays, one in each city.

Elementary school students who made it to the spelling regionals were Chris Meads who won fifth place and Tonya Rofstar who won sixth. Both students were from Boyne City.

Brining to start

Road brining will begin in Boyne City at the end of this week, city manager Tim Clifton said. The brining is to lay dust on unpaved roads. The city contracts with East Jordan for the work.

OVA files suits in state, county over taxes, petitions

Organized Voters Of America, disappointed in the fact that their petition to reduce taxes in Charlevoix County was thrown out on a technicality, has broadened their fight to lower taxes to the state courts.

Last Friday, the group filed a petition for redress of grievances against the State of Michigan and Governor Blanchard for the passage of the 38 percent increase in the state income tax.

The OVA, citing the State Constitution, has outlined that the state is in violation of Article I, section 10 which states that the legislature cannot legally pass a bill that makes a tax retroactive.

The OVA asked the court to take on the process of remedying "...this apparent collusive advantage by the defendants of the plaintiff's trust."

Also named in the petition are most of the state legislators, the state treasurer, and its attorney general. The OVA ask that the court issue an immediate injunction prohibiting the state treasurer from paying out any of the retroactively collected tax monies until such time as the petition is resolved.

The petition also asked that the action to increase the tax be ruled unconstitutional and null and void.

The OVA also is asking that there be a change in venue from where the case was filed, hopefully to a location more central and less potentially prejudiced in favor of the state.

The petition was sent to the 30th Circuit Court of Judge Michael G. Harrison in Lansing.

The OVA officials are asking that a jury trial decide the matter that the group calls "reprehensible and unacceptable."

In the case that was filed by the OVA against the Charlevoix County officials, the prosecuting attorney worded correctly in that the petitions are asking that the county library system receive a portion of the lowered millage.

This is against the rules, as technically how the money would be divided may not be asked, and monies may not be given to the libraries as they had not received any beforehand.

Prosecuting Attorney Scott Beatty told the commissioners that in his opinion, the petitions were invalid.

The suit, filed April 18, asks the court for redress of grievances brought about by the commissioners' actions. It says that the county officials are denying the public's Michigan Constitutional guarantee of the right to initiative.

It also says that the county officials had exercised authority which they do not have which, according to the petition filed by the OVA, will cause injury to the public's economic well being if not corrected by the court.

Of the petitions submitted to the county clerk asking for the reduction in the millage, the clerk certified that there were enough legal signatures to place the matter before the voters.

Last November, the voters approved the taking of the millage by the county.

The suit also asked that the presiding judge disqualify himself as he is on the payroll of the county.

Karl Waldner, the leader of the OVA movement, is now sitting back to see what action the courts will take in the matter, but, in the petition for suit, he said the OVA reserves the right to amend the grievance petition.

East Jordan schools will request renewal of 22.2 mills

East Jordan will request a renewal of its school millage of 22.2 with a separate request for one-half mill for building repair.

Superintendent Tom Rossler said if the state comes through with its promised school aid, the full amount of the millage, if approved by voters, will not be used. But with the uncertainty in state aid, he said, the school should make sure of a cash equity as a cushion.

The estimated budget for 1982-'83 is $2,360,000 with next year's going possibly to $2,470,000.

Rossler said the debt retirement was down from 6 mills to 2.75 last year. He said he doesn't yet know if it will be further reduced this year.

The school will need to purchase at least one bus in 1983-'84. Other "new" expenses are the restoration of the junior primary class and the athletics program, with, however, some support still from the Athletics Boosters Club.

The junior primary class provides additional reading preparation for children who would otherwise have a struggle in first grade. Reading coordinator Pam Allen says that these children otherwise not only slow the rest of the class but also wind up with struggling all through school. Staff members say that the junior primary class makes a big difference at an important point in a child's schooling.

Candidates for two school board vacancies are incumbent Herb Griffin, Bernard Schmidt, and Alina Meade. Candidates and millage will be voted on June 13.

Principal Don Peters explained the newly-completed K through grade seven promotion-retention policy. The policy committee, chaired by Carrie Graham, generally places students in fall classes simply by last name initials. Parents may request change by using a form provided by the school. Students will receive room assignments in August.

Regulations regarding holding students back at the end of a school year vary according to age of the student.

Peters noted that students at different ages have different results from being retained.

Parents will receive notice next year of possible retention of their child by March. Prior to this, the school has not had an established policy.

High school principal Bud Ashton reported that the high school students will fill out a questionnaire on driving.

"It's a legitimate survey," he emphasized. The purpose is to aid in finding ways of cutting down on teenage traffic deaths.

The survey is conducted by the Institute of Highway Safety with schools chosen on a representative basis as to being rural, near highway systems, in metropolitan areas, and so on.

Ashton said that schools where the survey was taken find that the death toll has decreased.

In Rhode Island, he said, students, following the survey, asked for an 11 o'clock driving curfew.

Part of the April 12 school board meeting was devoted to student presentations. Kay Holley's members of the eighth grade class, with help from a parent, Chuck Sherk, are investing imaginary capital in the stock market and each day spend 15 minutes on their study and investments.

Jeanine Keeney's sixth grade made a film strip of a doll actress finding friends in books. Narration and background music were also student-made.

Students in elementary school have also written and illustrated books, which have been assembled and laminated by parent volunteers. The books, circulated among the board and those attending the meeting, were much praised, as was the work of the sixth and eighth grade students.

The second free food giveaway was held last week for the residents of Charlevoix County. Included in this month's program was five pound cheese blocks, butter, and for the early arrivals in line, potatoes. It is hoped that there will be another program next month, but officials have not determined whether or not there will be.

Engaged?

The Charlevoix County Press publishes engagement and wedding announcements without charge.

Pictures are welcomed, but we do suggest a few guidelines. Good quality black and white photographs, either of the couple or bride-elect, are preferred. All photographs are kept on file in the Press office and may be picked up at any time following publication; those pictures not picked up after six months will be discarded.

Wedding and engagement announcement forms are available at our office or will be mailed upon request and the receipt of a self-addressed stamped envelope.

While we try to publish each announcement the week that we receive it (and in the case of weddings, the first publication date following the ceremony), space constraints sometimes force us to delay the printing of the announcement for one or two weeks. Therefore, we ask that information be received at least two weeks before the intended publication so that we might better plan for its publication.

We will not accept wedding announcements received more than four weeks after the wedding.

25-year milestone is tribute to commercial nuclear energy

The recent 25th birthday of America's commercial nuclear power program had special significance for one Michigianian. The milestone was a quiet tribute to Gil Keeley and his colleagues who have helped write nuclear history.

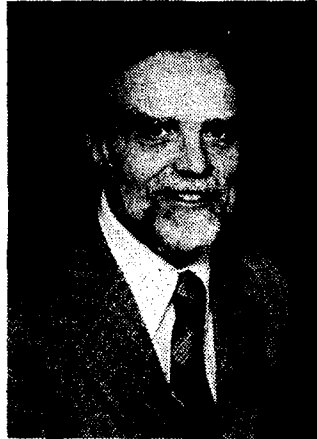

It began on Dec. 18, 1957, at Shippingport, Pa., only half an hour from downtown Pittsburgh. Quietly, in the early morning darkness, a new era dawned. For the first time, a power plant generated commercial electricity from nuclear power. Keeley was there, part of the team responsible for checking out the plant's systems, training operators and putting the plant into operation.

It wasn't the last time Keeley had a hand in nuclear history. Five years later he had moved to Consumers Power Company to help Big Rock Point, near Charlevoix, become Michigan's first (and the nation's fifth) commercial nuclear power plant. He has been with Consumers Power ever since, helping build a nuclear power program that in 1982 produced almost 19 percent of the company's electricity.

The success of nuclear power doesn't surprise him. Even in its infancy, Keeley and his colleagues saw nuclear power as the key that would end man's dependence on non-renewable fuels like oil and coal. "There was never any doubt that commercial nuclear plants would work," he says.

Experience has justified the optimism, says Keeley, pointing out that the technology has produced nuclear plants which are generating electricity safely, reliably and economically.

In fact, Keeley says the most frustrating problems have been bureaucratic, not technical.

Gil Keeley

"Although the regulatory process has produced some benefits, it has become overly conservative," says Keeley. "It is slowing the construction of specific nuclear plants, and development of the industry in general. Take hearings, for example. If I averaged up all my time in the last seven years, I've probably spent over 50 percent of it in hearings."

But, Keeley is optimistic that will change. "Coal, oil and gas can't provide all of our future energy. Eventually, necessity will make the regulatory process efficient and reasonable—the same way engineers have made nuclear power itself reliable and efficient."

"It's the same old story," says Keeley. "It's a matter of economics and need. I just hope the changes happen in time."

This advertisement is paid for by the shareholders of Consumers Power Company.

Womach to visit East Jordan

Merrill Womach, vocalist, recording artist and inspirational communicator, will appear in concert on Saturday, May 14, 7:30 p.m., at the East Jordan High School.

Womach has been acclaimed for his four-octave voice which has excited audiences all across the United States and in dozens of foreign countries.

His greatest distinction, however, is his ability to inspire and uplift with his singing—perhaps the result of extraordinary circumstances which have occurred in his life.

On Thanksgiving Day 1961, the twin engine airplane he was piloting crashed and exploded in a massive ball of fire.

Burned beyond recognition, Womach has accomplished what only a few have done from similar circumstances.

MERRILL WOMACH

He has come back to not only fly his own airplane again but also to sing again — with a new face, fashioned by more than 60 skin graft surgeries, and with a voice that critics say is better than before the accident.

During his concert he will share many of the incredible experiences relating to his remarkable recovery. A man of deep personal faith, Womach has encouraged, challenged, and entertained hundreds of thousands in personal concert appearances, on radio, and on television.

Merrill Womach's book Tested by Fire, has been ranked in the top ten on the National Religious Bestsellers List. His appearance in this area is made possible by the Presbyterian Church of East Jordan.

Ticket prices are as follows: Advanced Adult Tickets: $3.00; Adult Tickets at Door: $4.00; Children under 12: $2.50; Preschool Children: Free. Tickets are available in East Jordan at the following businesses: Northwestern State Bank, Jordan Valley Drugs, Jordan Valley Greenhouse, Galmore's Sales & Service. # Marshall Sayles

There are so many plans for development around town I don't know which one to be against.

There's a fellow out Ironton way who is a whiz at pulling up trees and planting them wherever you want. He happened to be working across the road from us so we asked if he could plant two maples in our front yard. He dug two nice half grown trees from our back forty and hauled them up to the house. "What's that?" he asked, pointing to a tag on a tree root. "It's the notice of our mortgage," I said. "Everything around here has a mortgage tied to it." I didn't tell him, but that's the root cause of our daily flow of glum.

All my life I've tried to live innocently. I did just fine until I moved back to Boyne City twelve years ago.

We needed some fertilizer for our garden plants. So the next time we went grocery shopping, we also bought some manure. At the counter everything was checked out in a routine manner just as though there was no difference between body nourishment and plant enrichment. Well, let me tell you something. There's a whale of a difference. I wish that Harry Truman were alive so he could explain it to you.

JUST TALKING: When I was young and growing, like most young people do, I attended school in the big building across the street from the library, the one that's torn down and ain't there anymore. In the fourteen years it took me to get through the twelve grades, I learned as little as I possibly could for fear that I would be set to earning a living after graduation. During all those years in that aging firetrap, I was the kid with two outstanding specialties: One was being late for school and the other was pimples. A lot of people think that the big school isn't there anymore, but they are wrong. Everytime I pass that corner I see the school just as it was forty years ago.

I turned every clock in the house one hour back on Sunday morning. When I got downtown, I discovered that everyone was living the fast life. I should have turned them one hour ahead. But when I got home I refused to change them. That's because I live a slower fast life than most people.

I was driving downtown the other day, minding what little business I have, when a black cat ran out in front of the car. I hit the brake, coming to a quick stop. The lady behind me also stepped on her brake, barely touching my rear end. If there is anything I can't stand, it's a black cat crossing my path and a woman barely touching my rear end.

I am telling you this because, like everyone else, I have a hard time keeping my mouth shut whenever something like that happens.

Have a happy weekend. Bring mushrooms if you find more than you can use.

I must do a lot of thinking as I drive around the area, going to Charlevoix, or East Jordan and Petoskey. I think about all the things that I could write about in this column. I think about all the stories that we have to leave out because of lack of space each week in these depressed times, and I will admit to you that I have some weird thoughts.

Some of them I can even remember. Like the other day, I was wondering what would happen to this area of hills if someone put up a dam just above the Niagara Falls. I wondered first how long it would take for the water to back up to reach us here in Charlevoix County.

Then I thought what would happen if it did. Can you imagine the top of Boyne Mountain being a beautiful waterfront lot?

Sure, almost all of us here in the towns would have to leave as the water rose to cover the homes, but, how far would we have to go to get away from the water? Could we just migrate to the top of the Elmira hill and start up a town up there?

Then I realized that if a dam were built, it would have to be several hundred feet high in order that the rising waters could affect us. My reasoning was that the water presently flows downhill to the sea, and if it were to be stopped, the dam would have to be quite high, quite large, stretching from the Georgian Bay area all the way to the mountains of Pennsylvania, before it would have any effect at all up here.

I also thought that it would take about twenty of the forty days of solid rain that Noah had in order to do anything at all to us.

Then I thought that we would be among the last to go. All of the big cities that are along the lake, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, and a lot of others are built on relatively low lying lands that surround the lakes. Most of them are on ground that used to be lake bottom back in the times of the great glaciers.

And then I thought about what all those people would do when their homes were flooded out.

I figured that they would all move up north where the ground is higher. They would also bring all their problems of crowding with them.

Just about that time, six or seven deer ran across the road in front of me and I lost all concentration on what those problems could be.

Thank God.

I sure am glad that we have had the sun shining these last few days. It gave my wife a chance to force me into helping to rake the yard, clean up the mess, put stuff away, and in general, start the spring cleaning.

We always do that, and most of things that have to get done, don't. There should always be time for looking at the sunsets, the clouds, the flowers, and the woods, I keep telling her. She keeps her mouth shut and just stares me back into action.

Someday when the kids have kids they will find out how hard it is to keep the house looking up to snuff. They only can see that the weather is bright enough to go outside with out a winter coat to play.

They're lucky.

This picture shows a cleaned up engine room of White's Mill Number One which was located on the lakefront about where the Veteran's Memorial Park is today. All the saws were run off of this steam engine by a system of belts that moved the power throughout the sawmill. The operator had his own desk so he could watch over the engine. The major drive system came off the big wheel in the background of the machine which also acted as a flywheel. This picture is from the collection of Ed Hartnell who has lived in the city since 1913. The picture was taken in 1918, just before the logging industry died in this area. ## Grimm says city must do something with landfill

"We need an educational phase here at this point," said city commissioner Bill Grimm Tuesday at the Boyne City commission's noon meeting discussion on solid waste.

"I've come to the conclusion that it is inevitable that we've got to do something," Grimm continued. He explained that the pressure of laws and regulations regarding landfills and possible contamination of groundwater make it necessary for the city to review its sanitary procedures.

At present haulage businesses as well as individuals take solid waste to the city landfill. New state regulations have withdrawn the city's landfill license, and present the possibility of heavy expenses for closing the fill.

Grimm, who had attended a solid waste transportation conference on April 13, said he was impressed with the practicality of solutions worked out by other municipalities. He suggested, and the commission approved, asking two of the speakers to come to Boyne City to talk.

One speaker, Ken Paquet, runs a private business with a major transfer station in Cheboygan.

The other, Bernard Fowler, is a public official in Grayling, which hauls waste from a mini-transfer station as a public service.

Both operations carry waste to a licensed landfill.

A third source of ideas would be Dawson Way, Grimm said. Way runs a private landfill business in Ironton.

Without pointing as yet to a particular solution, the commission agreed that both public and private waste transfer operations should be studied.

BC students get half day off

Students at the Boyne City schools will have a half day off while the teachers will be holding an inservice session or will be having Parent-Teacher conferences.

"I've come to the conclusion that it is inevitable that we've got to do something," Grimm continued. He explained that the pressure of laws and regulations regarding landfills and possible contamination of groundwater make it necessary for the city to review its sanitary procedures.

We Americans seem to have been suspicious from the beginning of anyone who is idle. In fact, we can't stand loafers—people who hang around street corners or sit and rock on verandas. Or people who are dukes or countesses or barflies, for whom time is something to fritter away.

The pace was set by the industrious Puritans who landed here in 1620 or so. For them, being industrious was one of the prerequisites for salvation. Only it turned out to be a materialistic salvation, as their hard work accumulated wealth, and capitalism flowered from the front pews.

So now people are restless at the sight of a child staring out the window. Or even sitting in the corner with a book.

"Haven't you anything to DO!" they cry out, almost inadvertently. "Why don't you help with the dusting!"

We were just coming to the point of commiserating with people who had to retire. "He'll die, if he has to leave that job," we said over and over. And new regulations for allowing some form of continuing work were being arranged.

But along came Recession. Now too many people want to work. Puritans, did you overdo it?

Ben Franklin said, "Early to bed, early to rise makes a man wealthy." (Actually, we ignore the part about "healthy" and "wise.")

"The business of America is business," said Cal Coolidge. And "What's good for General Motors is good for America." Charles Wilson said that.

So two bad things have happened. One is that everything went into having success in business in spite of "Babbitt."

And the other is that Faust came to America. Back in legendary time, Faust sold his soul once to the devil in exchange for success in terms of irresistible good looks and wealth.

True, he did it to impress a beautiful woman, and no one in the Wall Street Journal has identified who Americans want to impress, unless it is the Japanese.

But the basic concern is individual. The Puritans talked a lot about souls, in the process of selling theirs and ours.

Today we talk a lot about our selves instead. Maybe we both mean the same thing. Still, hard work is better, isn't it, if it keeps us from facing ourselves.

Men, and women identify themselves by what they do—"I am a salesman." "I am a nurse." But take away the job, and who am I?

Go ahead, answer who are you! America says, "Nobody."

That can't be true.

Commission Minutes

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
MARCH 9, 1983

A meeting of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners was called to order at 9:30 AM by the Chairman, I. Lee Moerland.

Roll was taken with the following members in attendance: Commissioners Matthew, Harmon, Sutliff, Breakey, Smith and Moerland, 6.

The pledge of allegiance to the flag was led by Commissioner Breakey.

John Haggard presented proof copies of the county map for review and any necessary alterations. A discussion followed, with the Board deciding to examine the copies and make final comments at the March 23 meeting.

APPROVAL OF MINUTES OF FEBRUARY 23 SESSION

Moved by Commissioner Sutliff that the minutes of the February 23, 1983 session of the Board be accepted as presented. There being no objections, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

SECONDARY ROAD PATROL REPORT

Sheriff Lasater presented and discussed the 1983 budget for the Secondary Road Patrol grant. He also introduced Deputy Schneider who assists in the preparation of grant applications. The Sheriff indicated that receipt of the grant funds is dependent upon Board acceptance of the grant; as soon as that step is completed, the funds will be forthcoming. The total grant is $28,441. A question and answer period followed with the Sheriff explaining some of the requirements acceptance of the grant imposes on his department (e.g. filing of quarterly reports) and detailing some of the benefits to the County. Concern was expressed over the appropriate development of a control budget for the Secondary Road Patrol, separate from the general fund budget.

Moved by Commissioner Smith that the Chairman be authorized to sign the Secondary Road Patrol grant with the following qualifications: 1) that by the Board meeting of March 23, the Sheriff present to the Board his plan for deleting $28,441 from the general fund budgets under his supervision; and 2) that a completely separate budget for the Secondary Road Patrol be formulated. There being no objections, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

The Board recessed briefly at 10:20 AM, reconvening at 10:35 AM.

G.T. Long, representative for State Senator Irwin, briefly reviewed the proposed state income tax increase as well as some alternative proposals which would increase and/or add to the sales tax.

ALCOHOL SAFETY ENFORCEMENT PROGRAM

Sheriff Lasater presented the details of an Alcohol Safety Enforcement grant in the amount of $38,000. The grant would give the Sheriff's Department the option of utilizing the funds in concert with other law enforcement agencies in the county, which is what will be done. The grant has been approved by the State, but exact figures are not yet available, as the final paperwork has not arrived from the Department of Highway Safety. The Sheriff did explain that the main purpose of the grant is to get law enforcement officers on the road at optimum times for apprehending drunk drivers. These funds are to be used to supplement overtime funds for officers currently employed and are not to be used for hiring of additional personnel. The City of Boyne City, the Prosecuting Attorney, the East Jordan Police Department and the Sheriff's Department have requested funds from the grant. The grant will run for one year from the date of acceptance and is an out-right payment with no matching funds required. The County will be required to do all the bookkeeping for the grant, including amounts for other law enforcement agencies and the final grant budget will be subject to Board approval.

CLEANING ALLOWANCE FOR SHERIFF & UNDER-SHERIFF

Commissioner Sutliff raised the question of allowance of cleaning payment for the Sheriff and Under-Sheriff. He indicated he has made a brief study of the practice in surrounding counties where the policy seems to be to pay such an allowance. Moved by Commissioner Matthew that a cleaning allowance of $100 each be paid to the Sheriff and Under-Sheriff for 1983. ROLL CALL VOTE: Yeas, 6. Nays, none. Motion carried.

The Chairman raised the question of the Under-Sheriff's request for pay in lieu of time-off for 50 days of accrued vacation. The Sheriff recommended that the Under-Sheriff be present to answer questions and suggested that he be placed on the agenda for March 23.

IRONTON FERRY MANAGEMENT OPERATIONS AGREEMENT

The Chairman indicated the need to review the proposed operations agreement which would remove the Ironton Ferry from the direct control of the Road Commission and transfer it to the Transportation Authority. The Prosecutor is to review the documents and by the March 23 meeting, will have an opinion regarding the resolution and proposed agreement.

The Board recessed at 11:45 PM, reconvening at 1:03 PM.

AFTERNOON SESSION

Roll was taken with all 6 members in attendance.

Ray LaVoie, Director of the Youth Diversionary Program, presented a report outlining the purpose and services of his program. It was organized to keep pre-delinquents or first time offenders out of court by trying to put them in an atmosphere different from the one in which they experience problems. Among the services available are counseling, crisis intervention, and agency coordination for services to children in the program. The program is offered for juveniles in Charlevoix County, ages 8 through 17, who have the potential of becoming delinquents. Many of the children assisted are runaways or status offenders (e.g. curfew violations). Participants in the program are there strictly on a volunteer basis and are referred by a variety of agencies and individuals, although Probate Court and the schools provide the bulk of the referrals. A question and answer session followed.

Mike Davis, Director of the Youth Activities Program, presented a report on the scope and services of his program. The goal of the program is to create and coordinate a broad based, youth-oriented recreation program, with the targeted age group being 10 to 15. The main objective of the program is to provide a constructive, positive outlet for pre-delinquent or delinquent youth. While this program was originally funded by a joint grant to Charlevoix and Emmet Counties, currently it is funded by the basic grant from the Office of Children and Youth Services and Charlevoix County; operating only in Charlevoix County. Thirteen hundred plus children participated in the program in this county in 1982. At the request of the Chairman, Mr Davis provided a brief outline of the program's involvement with Emmet County and the Probate Court. Commissioner Smith suggested that Richard Knapp of the Department of Social Services be requested to appear before the Board of Commissioners within the next couple of months to discuss the Basic Grant Program. The Chairman read a letter from the principal of the Boyne Falls Schools, expressing their appreciation for the services provided to them by Mr Davis and his program.

The Board recessed briefly at 2:10 PM, reconvening at 2:25 PM.

HOUSE NUMBERING BIDS

Russell Geeck of the Building Code Department, presented various prices received for the numbered boards necessary for the house numbering project currently underway. Mr Geeck presented several types of signs and prices for the various styles. A discussion of the problems getting people to use the signs and/or numbers followed. The Chairman suggested that the numbering department arrange to speak to the Charlevoix County Townships Association regarding the project and its importance, particularly for emergency protection. Moved by Commissioner Sutliff that this suggestion be implemented and that emergency services agencies, postal officials and interested utilities be informed of the meeting and invited to attend. There being no objections, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

BOARD & COMMISSION REPORTS

Commissioner Sutliff reported on a meeting of the Board of District Health meeting held in Gaylord. Among the topics covered were a report on the TCE levels in the water of Petoskey and Charlevoix which are under better control at this point; the leasing of space in Emmet County; and a presentation on child safety restraint seats for autos.

Commissioner Matthew reported on a meeting of the Mental Health Board at which it was indicated that Bergmann Center is still not happy with the per diem they receive even though it has been brought into closer proximity to per diems received by other facilities in the service area. It was also indicated that a general belt tightening has been necessary, but no details of the effect on this area were available. The Chairman suggested that some effort be made to ascertain what impact, if any, funding cutbacks would have on services provided to this County. Commissioner Matthew indicated that the reduction is approximately 7.5% for the Mental Health District. The administration is trying to make major cuts in administration and case management with a minimal reduction in services provided.

Commissioner Smith indicated that the Planning Commission went on record supporting the addition of a staff person for the Planning Department.

The Chairman reported on a recent meeting of the Manpower Consortium at which some of the topics discussed included: the Job Training Partnership Act, which all the counties in the region have agreed should be administered on a regional basis; the organizational development plan for the partnership act which has been sent to the state for approval; and the desire of colleges for additional involvement in Manpower programs.

Commissioner Moerland also reported on the legislative conference of the National Association of Counties, recently held in Washington.

RESOLUTION--W. MICH. TOURIST ASSOC. DUES (#83-010)

Moved by Commissioner Sutliff that the following resolution be adopted:

WHEREAS, Charlevoix County has received a bill from the West Michigan Tourist Association in the amount of $425 for the balance of membership fees and publicity for 1983; and

WHEREAS, the West Michigan Tourist Association's publications and activities promote tourism which is a significant industry in Charlevoix County;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the bill from the West Michigan Tourist Association in the amount of $425 be paid; said funds to come from the contingency fund of the budget.

There being no objections, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

Commissioner Matthew reported on a meeting of the RC&D Board as well as the recent meeting of the Emmet Fairgrounds Activities Association Board at which new members were named; the fair schedule for 1983 was set (it will be August 22 through 27, shortened by one day); other events were scheduled; and the effort to revamp the fair by-laws was summarized.

Commissioner Smith reported on the most recent meeting of the Transit Ad-Hoc meeting. One of the difficulties in looking at the transit budget is that three different budgets are involved because of the state's fiscal years for various programs and the county's calendar year. Dan Parras of the State's Department of Transportation, indicated that the county should be receiving two buses from the State this year, with the possibility of 5 more next year. Mr Parras also indicated that federal funds for transit programs, which have previously funded the program at a rate of 31%, may be cut to 6%. If this happens, the State will cut funding from 60% to 40%; so conceivably, local funding requirements would be increased. He also explained that a recent state-sponsored study has determined that it costs 79¢ per mile to operate this county's buses, while the average fare is only 56¢.

RESOLUTION--TYPEWRITER FOR PLANNING (#83-011)

Moved by Commissioner Harmon that the following resolution be adopted:

WHEREAS, the County Planning Department has had the IBM Selectric typewriter in its office for nine years; and

WHEREAS, there has been an increasing repair rate of the machine, causing a hardship in getting work done correctly and timely; and

WHEREAS, there is adequate money within the Planning Department budget and the office supply line item for the Economic Development Corporation, to pay for the typewriter;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Planning Department be authorized to take $500 from employee training (961), $400 from printing & binding (729) of the Planning Department budget, and $600 from the office supplies (727) of the EDC, and that these funds be transferred to capital outlay to pay for the purchase, at a price of approximately $1,420.

There being no objections, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

CHICAGO CLUB APPEAL

The Chairman reported on the appeal of the Chicago Club assessment. The Charlevoix City Council has agreed to pursue a further appeal. Moved by Commissioner Breakey that the County support an appeal to the Court of Appeals, said support not to exceed $800. There being no objections, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

CORRESPONDENCE & COMMUNICATIONS

The Chairman read the following communications:

- 1.) the annual report of the Northern Michigan Substance Abuse Agency.
- 2.) a resolution from VanBuren County opposing Phase III of the State takeover of the courts.
- 3.) a letter from the National Humane Society of the U.S. opposing pound seizure for research purposes.
- 4.) a letter from the Beaver Island Fire Committee requesting that the two townships on Beaver Island be given the largest portion of the proceeds from the sale of the evac airplane. Moved by Commissioner Smith that the Clerk be instructed to distribute the payments to the island in accordance with the resolution dated December 23, 1982. There being no objections, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.
- 5.) a letter from District Court regarding the construction of a security countertop which was referred to the Audit Committee.
- 6.) a letter from Mr Loding regarding a meeting of the Substance Abuse Agency to discuss the up-coming budget cut. The matter was referred to Commissioner Matthew.
- 7.) the Chairman announced a conference on the diversion of Great Lakes waters to be held in Kalamazoo on March 24 and 25.

Moved by Commissioner Sutliff that the meeting be adjourned. All present in favor.

Next meeting, Wednesday, March 23, 1983 at 7:00 PM.

Unlimited Potential present film festival Screening Clinic set by Char-Em

As the final part of their photography series, Unlimited Potential in East Jordan has sponsored an art teacher/photographer to spend this week in the elementary school.

U.P. parent Anne Johnston said that the artist-in-residence is Mike Friend from Rock Elementary School near Marquette.

Friend's specialty is in working with children in producing movies on 16 m.m. film. The movies he showed to successive groups of students on Monday were made by youngsters, and illustrated various animation techniques.

There were brief, but imaginative, "shorts" which the children drew and photographed, in much the same way as the more elaborate Disney films are made.

Children also made characters out of clay. A clay figure would be photographed, then moved and photographed again, until a whole story-telling sequence was recorded.

They used the same process with real children also, with hilarious effect.

Friend will spend the week with small groups of children, helping them produce similar films.

Johnston said that on Friday, April 29, films from children from all over will have two showings at the school, once at 1 p.m. and again at 2:05 p.m. in the cafeteria.

Honors list

James Oliver of East Jordan has been named to the Dean's Honor Roll for the winter day term at Lawrence Institute of Technology, having maintained a 3.5 grade point average as a full-time student.

There will be a Developmental Screening Clinic for all children who will be entering kindergarten in the fall of 1984. This clinic is sponsored by the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District. The purpose of this clinic is to provide parents information regarding normal child development, an opportunity to interact with parents of other three year old children, and to have your child informally screened in order to identify any potential learning difficulties which may arise during the school years. This is a free service with appointments made on a first come, first served basis.

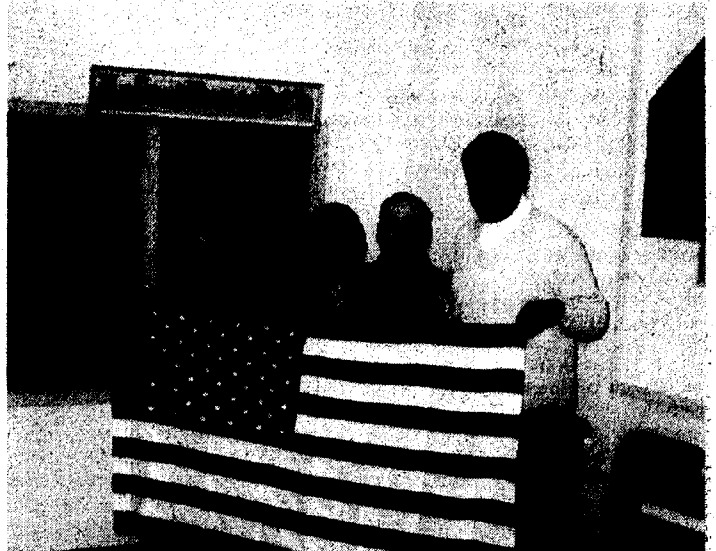

The clinic is scheduled as follows: Central Lake/Ellsworth on May 11 at The Children's Place Nursery School, Central Lake.

If you are interested in attending the above clinic, or reside in a district other than the one listed above, please contact Pat Gauthier, 547-9947, at the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District for an appointment or for further information.

Boyer City Fire Chief L.B. Erber, along with Assistant Chief Nord Schoder, firefighters Fred Lehto and Dennis Amesbury attended the FMC Fire Apparatus Operations and Maintenance School in Indianapolis recently. The school teaches the basic and advanced operation and maintenance of the new FMC fire truck that the city recently purchased. It showed the men how to effectively operate the truck and its equipment as well as how to maintain the equipment on both the new truck and other currently owned fire trucks in service.

All the men received certificates for the two-day course that is based on classroom and field exercises.

Firemen attend school

There is a new flag flying out in front of the Charlevoix County Road Commission's garage that was donated to the road commission by the women of the VFW Post in Boyne City. Making the presentation and accepting the flag were Marie Lorton, Bob Stowe, Eunice Jensen, Delbert Ingalls and road commission chairman John Kujawski.

Middle School Honor Roll

The following students are on the honor roll for the 3rd marking period. In order to be placed on the honor roll at Boyne City Middle School a student must earn a B or higher grade in all academic subjects for the nine week marking period. Students who receive all A's are designated with an asterisk. Students who are on the honor roll each of the four marking periods for the year will receive an award at our honors assembly the last day of school.

BIG BROTHERS/BIG SISTERS BUDGET DETERMINATION

John Kurtz, a representative from the Big Brothers/Big Sisters organization was present to hear the Board's decision regarding the group's request for funding from the County. Commissioner Sutliff, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, indicated the Committee would recommend the funding request be granted. Moved by Commissioner Sutliff that the appropriation of $3,500 be allowed; said amount to be invoiced to the County and paid on a quarterly basis. There being no objections from those present, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

The Chairman reviewed the following items of correspondence:

- 1.) a letter from Vivian Visscher, St. James Township Clerk, regarding the distribution of proceeds from the sale of the air evac plane. The matter was referred to the Ways and Means Committee.
- 2.) a letter from the Department of Social Services directed to the Treasurer regarding a fund transfer for the purchase of floor covering. The matter was referred to the Ways and Means Committee.
- 3.) resolutions from Ingham, Bay and Mason Counties opposing the state take-over of the court system. They were referred to liaison commissioner Smith.
- 4.) a resolution from the Oceana County Board of Commissioners urging state officials not to accept a pay increase scheduled to become effective January 1, 1984. The matter was referred to the Ways and Means Committee for review.
- 5.) a letter from the Emergency Services Director, Earl Muma, explaining training of employees of public agencies involved in emergency evacuations and/or disasters. Some of the agencies are not participating in the training because of the cost involved. Commissioner Breakey read a letter from Consumers Power Company regarding their annual financial contribution to the state for training in emergency preparedness. Commissioner Breakey is to write to the State requesting budget information from the Emergency Services agency in an effort to determine if any funds would be available to the county for training purposes.
- 6.) a letter from the Prosecuting Attorney regarding his dual representation of Charlevoix County and the EDC. Moved by Commissioner Matthew that the Chairman be instructed to prepare a letter to Mr Beatty indicating the Board's awareness of a possible conflict of interest. Should such a conflict arise, the Prosecutor would removed himself from representation of the EDC. There being no objections from those present, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

COUNTY MAP

Anne Thurston, Doug Shields and Kate Schaeffer, all of Boyne City, were present to answer questions regarding the county map. Each Commissioner presented changes and/or corrections to the map.

The Board recessed briefly at 8:12 PM, reconvening at 8:30 PM.

UNDER SHERIFF'S VACATION CLAIM

The Under-Sheriff, Dale Boehm, presented his request for payment in lieu of 50 days earned vacation time which he has been unable to take. The matter was discussed and taken under advisement with the Under-Sheriff to be advised of the Board decision after the day meeting in April.

RESOLUTION--SECONDARY ROAD PATROL BUDGET (#83-012)

Moved by Commissioner Breakey that the following resolution be adopted: WHEREAS, in the development of the 1983 general fund budget, anticipated Secondary Road Patrol funds were included in the Sheriff's Department general fund line item budgets; and

WHEREAS, in order to provide for more accurate grant accountability it is desirable that said Secondary Road Patrol funds be in a separate control budget; and WHEREAS, it has been determined that the amount of said Secondary Road Patrol grant is $28,441; and

WHEREAS, the Sheriff has reviewed the general fund budgets under his supervision in order to determine from which line items funds can be taken; NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the 1983 general fund budget be amended to remove amounts from various line items as detailed on the attached list; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that said sums be transferred to a separate control budget for Secondary Road Patrol, pursuant to P.A. 416 of 1978, to be disbursed by the fiscal officer, Anah H. Potter, County Treasurer, in accordance with claims presented.

There being no objections from those present, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

INTERLOCAL TRANSPORTATION AUTHORITY AGREEMENT

Scott Beatty, the Prosecuting Attorney, discussed the proposed interlocal agreement for operation of the Ironton Ferry. He felt the Transportation Authority could be implemented despite the lack of state funding originally anticipated. A discussion of the matter followed, including questions of how operation of the Authority could be implemented. Concern was also expressed that, if the agreement is implemented without proper state approval, the County could be excluded from any future funding which the State might make available. Moved by Commissioner Harmon that the Chairman and the Prosecutor meet with Mr Hoffman, attorney for the Road Commission, to begin preliminary work on implementation of the agreement, with final steps dependent on approval of the agreement by the Attorney General's office.

There being no objections from those present, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

ALCOHOL SAFETY PROGRAM

The Chairman discussed various aspects of the Alcohol Safety Program grant. The Prosecutor discussed his department's need for word processing equipment. The Alcohol Safety grant will contribute $5,000 toward the purchase of such equipment, but it will be necessary for the County to contribute the balance of the funds which will be approximately $5,000. Moved by Commissioner Breakey that the Alcohol Safety Program grant be accepted and that the Sheriff be instructed to begin implementation of the basic portion of the grant while the Prosecutor researches the cost and other ramifications of the purchase of a word processor. There being no objections from those present, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

ANIMAL CONTROL REIMBURSEMENT BUDGET

Moved by Commissioner Sutliff that the Chairman be authorized to sign the Animal Control budgets for submission to the District Health Department as part of the reimbursement program. There being no objections from those present, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

The Chairman reviewed the following additional items of correspondence:

- 1.) a letter from the Department of Natural Resources regarding the placement of a lamprey barrier on the Jordan River. The matter was referred to Commissioner Breakey.
- 2.) material from the Bell Telephone Company regarding the centrex system. A Bell representative will discuss this system at the April 13 meeting. Department heads will be invited to sit in on this presentation.
- 3.) a note from Michael Davis of the Youth Activities Program requesting permission to prepare a catalog for Charlevoix County similar to one used in the Detroit Recreation program. He will be requested to make a report and the matter will be discussed at the April 13 meeting.
- 4.) a letter from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission regarding check valve failures in water cooling systems.
- 5.) a copy of a letter from the State Department of Social Services to the local DSS regarding collection fees from Probate Court.
- 6.) a letter from the EDC to the Board requesting appointment of project directors for the W-A Development project. These will be reviewed at the next meeting.

RESOLUTION--REPAIRS FOR NUMBERING SYSTEM CAR (#83-013)

Moved by Commissioner Sutliff that payment for repairs to the car used by the numbering system made by Village Car Care in the amount of $426.08 be approved; said funds to come from the contingency fund of the budget. There being no objections from those present, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

Moved by Commissioner Harmon that the meeting be adjourned. All present in favor.

Next meeting, Wednesday, April 13, 1983 at 9:30 AM.

JANE E. BRANNON, COUNTY CLERK

I. LEE MOERLAND, CHAIRMAN

Sculling makes 1st appearance in Area

It's a brand new sport this year in Michigan, but according to Robin McMillen, the first club in the United States actually started with shells whizzing up and down the Detroit River in the late 1800's.

It is rowing shells that McMillen is talking about. He sells them from his shop, about six miles southeast of East Jordan. More specifically his are "cruising shells," propelled by nine-foot oars of clean, trim spruce wood, and carrying one person.

McMillen plans eventually to build the shells himself.

They differ from racing shells in being 26 inches wide instead of having the racer's 12 inch beam. And they are built of heavier fiberglass to give the strength and durability needed if you have children using them, or if you want to feel calm about loaning yours to your friends.

McMillen explained they are still impressively light weight. Two people can easily load the 70-pound, 19-foot boat onto the top of a car.

Once at the lake, it takes about 10 or 15 minutes to set the boat up for action—mainly to ready the outrigger-like attachments that hold the oarlocks. You can't swing the nine-foot oars from the narrow beam of even the cruising shell. The outrigger gives a three-foot fulcrum on each side.

Fast? They go about eight knots—about 10 miles an hour.

"In fact," McMillen commented, "that seems to be the first reaction of people—the amount of speed you get for the effort."

There's no comparison with the average experience in rowing even a little dinghy, he emphasized, because "these boats are designed for rowing!"

Part of the speed is attained through turning the oars so that the blades are horizontal as they arc through the air on the backswing. Part of it is the sliding seat. A lot is in being in good shape.

"Rowing is the second most aerobic exercise known to man," McMillen said. "The first is cross-country skiing—all-out skiing."

He explained that at peak output, such a large amount of a person's muscle mass is called into operation, the rower could burn 1400 calories in an hour.

"The exercise is really good for major joints and for the lower back because it allows you to strengthen yourself without the pounding characteristic of other sports," he said. Safer than jogging or bicycling, he continued. "No oarsman has ever been bitten by a dog." Or hit by a car.

Women as well as men love rowing these slim, colorful arrows. Rowing has its mystique. A big seller, lately, is a book on rowing by Olympics rower Stephen Kiesling. The book is "The Shell Game," and it envelops the reader with the whole "thing" about rowing.

The sport has its aesthetic side as well as having its tremendous value as exercise, McMillen said.

"Although you can row hard, you can also cruise quietly and effortlessly." Because calm waters are most likely to occur in the morning or evening, rowers get in touch with wild life, the bird choruses, the sunsets, and beautiful effects on the water during those hours.

"We were pursued by a swan yesterday," McMillen laughed, and added, "There's something really nice about being out on the lake then."

The shells operate on wide waters. "My boats are unswampable," he said and explained they are decked over except where the rower sits. McMillen's boats come from a company in Connecticut called Small Craft.

They're for anyone from 7 to 70, he said. Adjusting for different sizes of rowers is a matter of a few seconds.

Ahead, McMillen sees group trips on the wider rivers of Michigan, one possibility being from Ellsworth through the chain of lakes, and coasting along Lake Michigan back to Lake Charlevoix.

He sees rowing clubs and racing events.

But first a lesson on the requirements of the sport. Rowing is one thing to learn and rowing a shell with its rolling, nine-foot oars is much more.

McMillen, who is a member of the Traverse City Rowing Club, will set up classes on a phone-in basis, he said. Three people would be a minimum.

Are any shells built for more than one person? Yes, there are two-, four-, and eight-seaters, he said. "An eight-man shell can be rowed to a speed of 18 knots and pull a water-skier behind it."

As he said goodbye, McMillen pointed out one more thing: "It's a developmental sport in that the more you learn, the more you want to perfect your skills." Quite obviously that includes McMillen.

Out in action, Robin McMillen demonstrates the swift new cruising shell which he expects will be popular in Michigan lakes this summer.

The crowds that attended the Little Traverse Homebuilders Association's Builder Show were enthusiastic about the upcoming building season according to officials at the show. Attendance was good and a lot of interest was shown in the displays that the builders provided.

Themm opens realty in Charlevoix

A conviction that the northern counties, such as Antrim, Charlevoix, and Emmet counties, are ready for more residential and second home development has inspired Charles F. Themm, 52, to open Char-Kay Realty Co. at 1002 So. Bridge Street (opposite St. Mary's Church) in Charlevoix.

CHARLES THEMM

Themm says, "I think now is the time. I find many indications that the area's economy is beginning to perk again, after the last few years of a recession era." He added that he "already has received inquiries, taken some listings, and is now working on the new company's first sale closings."

Chuck is in a good position to observe, having been in the banking business the last two decades, and more recently involved in insurance and real estate sales in the Bellaire, Central Lake and Charlevoix areas.

He explained his company will deal largely with residential, commercial and farm real estate sales.

He added that "it's rather expensive to have industry here in our northern area, however, this same area has so much to offer, that with good planning and some thought, we have a terrific opportunity. If we can come up with more small, light industries, such as Lexalite, Texas Instruments, Dover Industries, and the like, it would be good for our total population and area. The north provides the executives and the company engineers the clean air, fine lakes and streams, forests and hilly surroundings that make good living up here, and that is appealing to such persons.

"However, I do think in the long run, the second home, and the resort industry has proven to be our largest solid economic element for our northern communities."

Mr. Themm and his wife Kay live at Island View, south of Charlevoix, with two of their children, Cynthia and Geoffry, both in Charlevoix High School. The eldest son Dale is married and lives near Bellaire.

The Themms came to Charlevoix in 1969 from Imlay City, Mich., to assume the duties of vice president and loan officer at First State Bank, Charlevoix. From 1972 to 1981 he served as the vice president of Bellaire State Bank, and as branch manager of the bank's branch at Central Lake, where he became very involved in community affairs.

He is a former member of the mortgage committee of the Michigan Bankers Association, was a director and vice president of the Northern Chapter of the Bank Administration Institute. He has served as a director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce in the early 70's, is now president (for the second time) of the Central Lake Chamber of Commerce where he was instrumental in the Turn-of-the-Century Renovation in 1978. He has served as a trustee for the Romeo/Almont Community Hospital in the sixties before moving north.

East Jordan students take Industrial Arts honors

One of the entries in the Northern Michigan schools industrial arts fair was a student-made wood-burning stove. John Buick's stove will be one of the entries to go from East Jordan as competition moves from regional to state competition.

Norm Cook, who teaches metal-working at East Jordan High School, said the students did very well at the regionals, held April 22. The state judging will take place April 28, 29, and 30 at the Grand Rapids Civic Center. The show is open to the public.

Going to Grand Rapids will be student sheet metal work; wrought iron work in porch tables and log rollers for chain sawing; machine shop hammers and C-clamps; and metal art work.

Adult Ed

Of all the pies in the adult ed. program, none is more important than the high school diploma program, open to those over 18 years old.

Martin said anyone interested in earning a high school diploma can call at any time (582-6765).

"The quicker they sign up, and the quicker we get their records, the quicker they can start," Martin said.

This year there will be three graduating from classes held for senior citizens at their respective centers in East Jordan and Boyne City.

Two students will be graduating from the Charlevoix County Jail program.

From adult ed. evening classes, 18 students will be graduating from Boyne city and 10 from East Jordan.

The school systems of the two cities support adult ed. through their membership in the Straits Area Consortium, funded by the state. Modest fees are, however, charged for enrichment classes.

Martin said she is always open to requests for any particular kind of enrichment class.

"Watch the papers this summer," she said. "We'll be offering a computer class which will be brought in from Traverse City."

"Also, daytimes, we will have tennis classes taught by Ken Kruzell."

Martin is helped by secretary Arline Collins, and either one will be glad to take calls for further information.

GRANDMA'S HERB GARDEN AND THE WAY THEY LIVED

My current reading has been about New Netherlands and the Holland Dutch in colonial America. Those pretty Dutch girls married the Ulster (Scotch-Irish) soldiers who were sent here by the English to fight in the French and Indian War—hence my background. So naturally I am interested in their survival, what they ate and what their homes were like, their gardens and livestock.

It just boggles my mind to think of everything a homemaker had to know just to survive. They might not have been familiar with the "classics" but they knew how to weave their own cloth as well as raise the flax for linen and sheep for wool, how to preserve their meat as well as how to butcher it, to make their soap and candles, their cheese and butter. They had to make their clothes without the aid of sewing machines and to know what plants to use for medicines and to care for their sick without hospitals, nurses or doctors.

The ship that brought the first settlers to New Amsterdam brought their livestock with them and the cows died quite soon after arrival, so the Dutch West India Company decided that it was impossible to plant a permanent colony there. After being persuaded to try again and take especially good care of the cows on shipboard (they most likely treated them better than the passengers); then when they were taken off the ship were not given food for 24 hours to get them used to the land; the cows survived. The company then decided that a permanent colony was possible.

The colonists brought their seeds for vegetables, herbs and flowers as well as cuttings for fruit trees with them, and discovered many new plants grown by the Indians. Grandmother had her herb garden and I am all for that. Now it is garden planning time and many of us are studying those beautiful seed catalogs. How I love to read them even though I do not have space for a garden. I will plant more herbs in my flower beds, like fennel, caraway, anise and dill, to the chives, mint and parsley that comes up every spring. How delicious those fresh garden vegetables are when flavored with fresh herbs. Just a sprig of mint in boiled new potatoes or peas, and chives in creamed dishes are just the beginning.

For a taste of spring before the garden grows try frozen green beans prepared this way.

TASTY GREEN BEANS
1 medium onion, sliced
1 package frozen green beans
1 level tablespoon flour
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ cup sour cream
1 teaspoon dried sweet basil
Salt and pepper to taste
Cook the onion in ½ cup water for a few minutes and then add the frozen green beans and cook as directed on the package until tender. Add the butter, sprinkle the flour over the beans and add the sour cream. Cook on low heat until thick, stirring most of the time until smooth and slightly thickened. Season with the sweet basil, and the salt and pepper.

Here is another year-round vegetable dish using caraway seeds. Caraway is one of the worlds most popular flavors, its seeds are used for flavoring soups, pickles, rye bread, cheese, goulashes, baked apples, spiced beets and esc-

In some ways it is not a new business, because The Hair Stop, under Tom Burr, was in business only a month and a half ago. In other ways it is new because Sylvia Attinger is reopening the beauty shop.

But then Sylvia used to have the business at that location when it was called Guys and Gals. Old or new, East Jordan welcomes the operation of the shop, which shares the downtown office building on Esterly Street with Mike Burr's Insurance Shop.

The reopening is a double event, because it will be celebrated with the visit of a prominent beautician from Grosse Pointe.

David Cockell of Maier-Warner Beauty Shop will be at The Hair Stop on Monday and Tuesday, April 24 and 25. Cockell brings with him the added expertise gained from his yearly trips to London to study under Vidal Sassoon.

"Not too often are people going to have an opportunity like this!" said Mike Burr.

Cockell is a friend of the Burrs. His visit will bring new hair styling as well as start things rolling again in gala style at The Hair Shop.

An unquestionably new business is Tom's Diesel Repair. "Tom" is Tom Reid, and his line is repair, not only of diesel trucks, but also of tractors and automobiles.

Reid is a licensed car mechanic and is also licensed for diesel repair. He will go out to the job, he says, working wherever the need is.

Then there's Bud and Linda's Snackin' Wagon. Obtaining permits in different cities to operate this new business brought Bud and Linda Barnes to East Jordan city council recently, but it turned out the city didn't have the exact ordinance to fit.

While that problem is being resolved, the Barnes will drive their brown and yellow van around to sell Coney Islands at events in the area.

What's a Coney Island? Barnes said it's something you don't have around here—a special hamburger sauce on all-beef hot dogs. The sauce recipe? "A guy gave it to me years ago and asked that I not give it out," Barnes said, adding that he's made his own improvements on it.

The Snackin' Wagon will also have regular hot dogs, sandwiches, coffee, lemonade, cool drinks, candy, and gum. It will come to auctions, festivals, and other events. Last year Barnes, whose full name is Solon Barnes, Jr., became unemployed and couldn't find work. Finally the only thing to do, he said, was to just start up a business, and become self-employed.

Another new business is Progressive Financial Research and Services, with an office on the top floor of Ben Schenck's building.

Three East Jordan men are pooling their expertise in this enterprise: Brian K. Sweet, Keith & Kenney, and Mark J. Daneff. Kenney and Daneff are also serving on the city council.

Sweet explained, "We do marketing concepts, investment information, loan information and processing service, and rental management."

The business also carries a home listing service. It's full time for all of them, Sweet said; "Might say it's more than full time!" He noted that Daneff was full time since putting on a manager at his gas station.

Place places ..er finishes in Boston run

Editors' note: We asked Andy Place, the owner of Harborside Sports to write about his run in the famous Boston Marathon that took place April 18. This was his second time at the race, and we wanted to know his feelings as he ran. This is his story.

BY ANDY PLACE

What do Hopkinton, the Pru, Heartbreak Hill, Patriot's Day and 26.2 miles of cheering people have in common? Ask any runner, they'll say The Boston Marathon.

This year was the 87th annual running of the event that starts at Hopkinton and finishes at the Prudential Center in downtown Boston. The tradition bound marathon is run by the Boston Athletic Association from a small room that is donated to them in the Boston Gardens. And yes, entries are being accepted for next year's run. In going to Boston for the second time to run in the race, I remembered the first. Last year I was overwhelmed by this historic city that seems to be on the run. Everyone seems to be running, or at least, wearing running shoes. When it was all over, I found out that I wasn't mentally or physically prepared to run in this unique event. I finished with a time of 3 hours, five minutes and 21 seconds. My body was totally destroyed.

The world famous course had taken its toll and it took me three days before I could walk without some kind of pain or straining my muscles.

But this year, I returned to Boston with only one thought. Revenge. I wanted to beat the course that had beaten me the previous year.

To me, that race was not a race with me going against the other runners. I was going one-on-one in battle with the race course. All in all, it is really a race against the elements, the hilly terrain, and the weather.

I left Boyne City this year prepared for the battle.

A good friend and a training partner, helped me drive out to Boston and to race as a "bandit", an unofficial runner.

Throughout the 16 hour drive, the Nike hospitality party with free popcorn and movies, Runner Magazine's free beer and bagels, getting lost on the transit, and finally a visit to World famous marathoner Bill Rodgers's Running Shop in the Faneuil Market, our thoughts of the race and how we were going to finish were foremost on our minds.

Race day came too early for some but at least the weather did not seem that it would be a large problem as the temperature was in the 50's, the sun shined on occasion, and a 10 mile an hour wind was at our backs.

We took the bus to the start early and waited. At noon, the race started.

6600 entrants took off at the gun and nearly 3000 "bandits" took off almost at the same time down the narrow two lane road from Hopkinton. Each runner has their own reason for running, but each had the same goal... Reach the Prudential Center Finish Line before their strength ran out.

I started slowly, running a eight minute first mile, following my pre-race strategy just as I had planned it. It's easy to wear yourself out at the start just trying to go around everyone else at the start.

I was feeling good and had picked up my preplanned pace at about the ten mile mark. Flashbacks of last year's race reminded me tht this was where I started to fall apart last year, but I felt strong all the way through to the 15 mile marker.

At 17 miles, I was running a pace that would be a lot better than where I finished one year ago, but then I felt my legs starting to go on the small hills that lead up to the famous Heartbreak Hill.

Someone yelled 2:09 at the 20 mile mark, so I knew if I could get over Heartbreak Hill, I could beat the course.

The hill loomed in front of me, it looked a mile high and a mile long. But I got over it and thought it's all downhill from there, but I hadn't counted on my legs starting to tighten up and feel like there was no muscle to make the bones move.

Coming down Chesnut Hill, around 22 miles, I had lost some time that I had worked ahead, but not a lot. I felt, if I could just keep moving.

The next four miles I had to run carefully to keep my leg muscles from pulling. I was crawling along with my legs aching when I turned off Beacon Street, just a few blocks from the finish.

I turned down the driveway to the Prudential Center and bang, my hamstring muscle pulled.

I limped down the driveway slope to the finish. My pulled muscle started to loosen up just as I went over the line to finish with a 2 hour, 56 minute, 45 second time.

I became an emotional battlefield. I was relieved I had finished, happy I was under three hours, disappointed that I hadn't broken the 3:50 time that would have automatically qualified me for the next year and mostly frustrated that I didn't overcome the course like I had planned.

Walking was no longer a voluntary action. I had to think about every step I took and about the pain I was enduring doing it.

After about a half hour later, I could walk without a limp and my mind had eased the pain. I found my running partner, who, with the help of some cheering Wellesley College girls, had made the Beacon Street turn in a very respectable time of 3:07. He had to go straight while I had made the turn as the race officials will not let an unofficial runner cross the finish line. He came out with a draw against the course too. He ran an excellent time for a first ever marathon, but the course had given him a pain in his legs that lasted for several days.

As we headed out of Boston there were still people trying to finish the race, six hours after the start. The course had taken these souls to avenge our minor victories.

We were glad that we had survived even though we hadn't conquered the course, but, it did not conquer us, and we'll be back next year.

The first fish plant of the season was made last Monday when 10,000 brown trout yearlings were dropped into the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix. The lake is also going to get 20,000 more brown trout, 60,000 lake trout, and 60,000 rainbow trout. Both the Boyne and the Jordan Rivers will also get 10,000 steelhead in each river. At the Pine River in Charlevoix, 75,000 brown and lake trout are to be planted this season. Lake Louise will get 10,000 splake yearlings, while Walloon Lake is scheduled to have 50,000 lake and rainbow trout planted. The Bear River is scheduled to receive 24,000 fall fingerlings of a special brook trout hybrid.

Ceremonies planned for chinook plant in Jordan

Ceremonies to mark the first planting of chinook salmon in the Jordan River will take place Wednesday, May 4, between 3 and 4 p.m. at Webster Bridge.

Dr. Howard Tanner, head of the Department of Natural Resources, will be on hand for the event, as well as for a reception held at the Jordan Inn from 6 to 7 p.m. The reception will be followed by a dinner. Both are open to the public.

The East Jordan Chamber of Commerce has spearheaded interest in obtaining chinook salmon from the DNR in order to increase sport fishing in Lake Charlevoix.

Many local organizations have backed the Chamber's efforts, with the result that 300,000 fingerling chinook will be put into the river this spring and another 250,000 will go in next year, according to Chamber executive-director Judy Shea.

By 1984 or '85, the salmon will be mature and head back to the river to spawn. By then, Shea said, the DNR plans to have constructed a salmon weir as part of a lamprey weir, which will barricade the Jordan, preventing illegal salmon snagging and making it possible to commercially harvest the salmon.

DNR officials explain that salmon will die anyway after spawning, so that collecting them at the weir simply facilitates the harvest, which in turn will help pay for the program.

Fishing for the salmon will take place in Lake Charlevoix as the salmon gather for spawning. Some of the fish, before returning to the Jordan, will have gone all the way to Lake Michigan where also they will be the object of sport fishing.

Because the season has been cooler than is favorable to the fingerlings, the initial plant will only be part of what will be put into the river as the season develops.

Shea said that in addition to the salmon, the DNR has been planting other kinds of fingerlings for future sport fishing.

Staff Sgt. Michael G. Tinkham, whose wife, Cindy, is the daughter of Eugene and Ruby Belford, Boyne City, has been decorated with the Air Force Achievement Medal at Hicham Air Force Base, Hawaii.

The medal is awarded to airmen for achievement or meritorious service and acts of courage.

Boyne girls take 3rd in three-way

Boyne City's girls came out at the short end in the three way track meet that was held Monday afternoon finishing in third place with 29 1/2 points. The meet was won by the Petoskey girls who garnered 93 1/2 points. Charlevoix took the second place with 33 points.

Burns' Clinic assists handicappers

The Burns Clinic is assisting its handicapped patients in obtaining parking permits for handicapped designated parking. Applications for permits can be requested from all reception and nursing stations, patient relations advisors and the main registration desk. The forms will be signed by a Clinic physician and mailed to the Michigan Secretary of State. Parking permits are mailed to the applicant within two weeks.

Handicapped parking permits are available to any individual who has a condition which makes walking difficult. In addition to individuals with obvious handicap, this includes those with heart, respiratory and other medical problems.

Beginning April 1, 1983, a state law takes effect which sets a minimum fine of $20.00 for illegally parking in a handicapped-designated spot. Previously, the City of Petoskey fined illegal parking at $5.00 and Emmet County set its fine at $15.00. The higher amount is intended to discourage those without handicaps from using these special parking places.

Glen's Save-Share

"Helping to Build a Better Community Together"

This is one example of a non-profit group making use of the Save-Share Program to help raise funds. There are many more groups using it too.

Glen's wants everyone in East Jordan to know about Save-Share and hopes more groups will use it to raise funds.

All a group has to do is register with the store manager and begin saving the green cash register tapes. Glen's will pay 1 percent of the total qualified amount of all tapes brought in by any registered group; and not just once, but each time a group brings in $25.00 worth of slips or more.

See Martin Braman,
Glen's Store Manager
or Doug Soderquist, Ass't. Manager, for details. East Jordan
