Salmon weir proposed for Boyne River

A proposal to put up a salmon harvest weir in the Boyne River came as no surprise to Boyne City commissioners at their Tuesday, June 28 meeting, but they want public input before making a decision. A hearing date will be set.

Steve Swan of the Department of Natural Resources noted that with the East Jordan plant of chinook salmon, salmon runs would increase and with that, the increase of problems as fishermen crowd river banks to snag the fish, going upriver to spawn and die.

Snagging would become illegal all over Michigan by 1985, Swan said. But, he added, fishing will be good at the mouth of the river if the weir goes in in September in time for the six weeks of salmon run. Swan said 2000 to 3000 fish are expected to be heading into the river in the fall.

The weir, constructed of net and pilings, would harvest the fish before they spawn. Bob Gehl of Hart, Michigan, who was awarded the bid for statewide salmon harvesting, will foot the bill for materials and labor. Swan said Gehl was one of four or five operators to place a bid with the state. Because of the size of his investment, the state gave him a 10-year contract, to make it worthwhile.

Gehl, also present at the meeting, said he would probably hire six or seven employees locally for the six-week period. Fish would be packed in ice in crates and taken immediately to a processing plant. They will be marketed for human consumption. The DNR's share of profit will go directly to the fisheries department for support of sport fishing.

It will be interesting for tourists, said Swan, referring to visitors up for the fall color. The odor will be minimal as the relatively small area, around the weir will be kept hosed down.

The main consideration for the DNR, however, Swan emphasized, is sport fishing. He praised Lake Charlevoix for its already excellent fishing. Probably none better in the state. The increase of a salmon population can only help, he said.

Steelhead and other fish will be separated in harvesting the salmon and returned to the lake.

While saying they preferred the mouth of the Boyne for the weir, Swan said other locations could be studied. The commission suggested back at the bridge near Consumers Power. But if this site were selected, the river would still be closed to snagging.

In return for use of the city park property for the harvesting, Swan said, the DNR might be able to help out with river erosion problems. This is not the first appeal for use of public property by private commercial interests, but the usual response by the city has been to turn down such requests.

From the looks of it, they've got it all together. Employed this summer, thanks to the Michigan Youth Corps, are Mickey Tlaron, Joe Peters, Debbie Kennedy, and James Byars. Their supervisor Robert Dunnette said they will be working about 10 weeks. East Jordan school's financial supervisor Ruby Dlpzinski said the school "has the opportunity to hire three people" from this program. "We have the positions for them," she said, helping get buildings ready for fall. The program requires that the young people work only on public grounds.

Millage set, increased revenues in school budget

Expenditures for Boyne City Schools for the 1983-84 school year will rise by 11.6 percent over the year ending June 30, according to a budget plan approved by the Boyne City School Board on June 23.

The budget's passage set appropriations for the school system at close to $3.38 million. A rise in local revenue makes up the bulk of the increase, even though the district's millage rate will remain at 30.4 mills.

An estimated 5.27 percent increase in the total assessed property value in Boyne City will be the primary source of the budget increase.

In addition, state revenues are expected to increase sixfold over the present school year. However, because the district only receives categorical funding, state school aid would consist of only 1.07 percent of the district's total revenue.

Superintendent Rich Kelly pointed to several factors causing the total budget increase, particularly a 9 percent wage-and-salary increase for unionized school employees. He said the unionized workers are entering the final year of a three-year collective bargaining agreement.

Another factor in the increase, Kelly added, will be a 20 percent rise in purchases of teaching supplies and textbooks. This follows a 25 percent increase in this area during the preceding year, although the subsequent rises came after three zero-growth years.

Other notable increases over the 1982-83 budget include custodial (including utilities) and transportation services, in which estimated funding will rise by 14.1 percent. Next to basic instructional program expenses, the forementioned services receive the budget's second highest allocation.

Kelly noted that rising utility costs are the primary reason for the additional outlays. He said heating will cost 20 percent more, while electricity costs will jump 21 percent.

On a more positive note, Kelly mentioned that the district's share of community services expenses in 1983-84 will be lower than first predicted. The Straits Area Community Education Consortium recently decided to allocate Boyne City Schools almost $17,000 more than was originally planned, Kelly said.

Another significant move by the board last Thursday night was the passage of two resolutions presented by Kelly to borrow $893,000 against the anticipated 1983-84 tax revenue. This represents a 25.4 percent jump over the previous year's borrowing figure.

Because property taxes are not collected until January in Boyne City, the district must stay solvent by borrowing funds to pay for early expenses.

The loan would be financed by "tax anticipation notes" sold to the lowest bidder, provided the Municipal Finance Commission approves the resolutions.

Prior to the board meeting, a special hearing reviewing both the 1983-84 budget and the increase in local property tax revenues for that year was held. Kelly's budget breakdown covered the bulk of this meeting.

The review of the revenue increase, mandated by the state's 1982 Truth in Taxation law, drew little response from the audience, largely because only a handful were in attendance.

Under the Michigan law, a local governing body may increase property tax revenue only after holding a public hearing and taking a vote on the increased revenue. Failure to oblige by this procedure would force the school board to roll back the '83-'84 rate to eliminate the added revenue.

Kelly estimated the increase in revenue for the '83-'84 year, not including estimated revenue from new construction, would total $84,118. The collection figure for new construction was set at $62,988.

Other board actions at the meeting included:

--Passage of a resolution to amend the '82-'83 school budget to decrease total appropriations from $3,086 million to $3,027 million, a 1.9 percent drop. While total revenues were actually higher than projected figures, several budget areas required less money than was originally estimated.

Kelly called the alterations "minor changes."

--Approval of the district's participation in the Straits Area Community Education Consortium, which has played a key role in winning state funds for Boyne City School's community education program.

--Awarding honorary certificates citing "meritorious service" to two board members leaving their posts, Mark Behling and Raymond Towne.

Behling, who decided against running in the recent board election, received a certificate from board president George Shietelis amidst applause from other board members.

Towne, who was defeated in the election, was not present at the meeting.

--Reviewal of a policy on the selection of school media material, with no decision taken. Board member Richard Wulff moved that the policy be voted on at the meeting, but other members overruled him.

Kelly said the board should move on the policy only after the public has considered it and responded to it.

The policy would allow the board to remove objectionable media materials which are brought to its attention through a citizen's complaint.

M32 bid awarded

As part of the 65 road improvement projects throughout the state, 11.5 miles of M-32 will be resurfaced by Hodgkiss and Douma, Inc., of Petoskey, in October.

They also received the bid to upgrade the rail along the roadway.

The resurfacing starts at the intersection of US-131 and will run west 1.6 miles from the Antrim County line.

The bid was awarded for $917,238. It was part of the $26 million dollars in road bids that were awarded by the Michigan Department of Highways throughout the state.

Fourth of July activities ready to go!

Henry Erber, Butch Erber and Fred Lehto amid a whole lot of jokes, kidding, and other jokes, played cook for the Firemen's Branch that was held last Sunday. Henry cooked the eggs, Butch muscled in to fry the bacon, while Fred had charge of spiking sure that the sausages were well done. The entire crew raised a lot of money for the city's fireworks fund, which they get to set off on the Fourth in front of an expected crowd of thousands.

Boyne City

A multitude of community groups and businesses are making this year's Fourth of July Celebration in Boyne City happen.

Sporting events, an art fair, a raft race, and a chicken barbecue will just be some of the festivities in town, which get under way Friday evening and finish up Monday at midnight.

Kicking things off will be the Men's Slow Pitch Invitational Tournament, which starts at 5 p.m. Friday at Rotary Park on State St. The tourney continues throughout the following day.

Meanwhile, starting at 6 p.m. Friday, the students of concert guitarist Robert Guthrie will hold a free recital in the Boyne City Theater.

Three Little League games are also scheduled for Friday and Saturday, beginning at 6:30 p.m. on Friday at the Veterans Memorial Park waterfront diamond. Two games are scheduled the following day at 10 a.m. and noon on the same field.

Also on Saturday, judging of the Retail Window Contest of local businesses will be held at 2 p.m. The contest is sponsored by Rainy Day Lady, with a make-your-own sundae to be awarded to the first place finisher.

An almost all-day event on Sunday is the seventh annual Waterside Art Fair held in Veterans Memorial Park. Crafted articles by area artists will be displayed and sold. The fair will continue through Monday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

A gymnastics exhibition is also scheduled for Sunday at 1 p.m. in the park.

East Jordan

For a town that's even smaller than Boyne City, East Jordan can put on quite a show when it comes to celebrating Independence Day.

The organizers of the Jordan Valley Freedom Festival are making it such a grand occasion that the festivities start five days before the actual holiday.

The fireworks may not start until Sunday night, but East Jordan will be hopping before the weekend.

The Freedom Festival kicks off Wednesday night at East Jordan's Murphy Field, where the rock band PYRI will play under the Lions tent for youth ages 8 to 18. Admission is $1, and parents are also welcome. Go for it, Mom and Dad!

On Thursday, ten gallon hats and cowboy boots will be in style at Murphy Field, as the country/western band, The Pony Express, does some twangin' under the Lions tent. Admission is $2.

East Jordan will take on a Polish atmosphere Friday night as a Polka-fest will go on all night long under the Lions tent. Two polka bands, the Harmony Jacks and the Michigan Polka Beats, will be rolling out the barrel. Admission is $2.

Marching bands and other entertainers are slated for the festival's Youth Parade, beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday. The theme for this year's parade is "Clowns and Pets on Parade." It is open to both youth and non-youth entries, with prizes for the best youth participants.

Along with two bands—the Brethren (Mich.) High School Band and the Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario Pipe Band, several floats, horses, clowns, and other entries are sched-

MR. AND MRS. JOHN H. BENNETT

Elzinga-Bennett rites in Boyne City

On June 18 Dianne L. Elzinga, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Elzinga of East Jordan, became the bride of John H. Bennett of Big Lake, Texas, in a ceremony at the First Presbyterian Church of Boyne City. John is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bennett.

Given in marriage by her father in a ceremony performed by the Rev. Milton Walls of the Presbyterian Church, the bride was wearing a floor length gown with lace bodice and sleeves and simulated pearl and sequin headpiece. The bride's wedding dress was also the one worn by her mother at her own wedding.

Debbie Towne of Boyne Falls acted as maid of honor for her cousin, and Chuck Bennett of Midland Texas, brother of the groom, was best man. Bridesmaids were Lesli Zorn of Houston Texas; niece of the groom Tami Geister of Brown City and Lisa McGeorge, cousin of the bride, from Boyne City.

Groomsmen and ushers were Cary Elzinga, brother of the bride; Carl Rosik from Detroit and Jeff Brooks of East Jordan, friends of the groom; Tom Towne, cousin of the bride; and Pat Harmon of Boyne Falls, friend of the couple.

Megan Towne was flower girl for her cousin, and ring bearer was Ricky Jakubowski, nephew of the groom from Mt. Clemens.

A reception was held at the Eagles' Hall in Boyne City.

Dianne is a 1983 graduate of the East Jordan High School and John is a 1980 graduate of EJHS. John is employed by Starr Gas Co., Big Lake, Texas.

Deborah Noirot becomes bride of Irving Manville

In a June 25 ceremony at Charlevoix, Deborah J. Noirot of East Jordan became the bride of Irving M. Manville of Gaylord in a ceremony performed by the Rev. Larry Grooters of the Charlevoix Community Reformed Church.

Deborah, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Noirot of East Jordan was given in marriage by her father. Irving's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Irving E. Manville.

Deborah chose a taffeta lined organza gown with a Queen Anne neckline and Bishop sleeves. The bodice, neckline and sleeves were of Chantilly lace. The bodice was covered with tiny seed pearls and her chapel length train and hemline were accented with a multitude of ruffles. A hat and veil completed the bride's attire.

Renee Fisher acted as maid of honor for her friend, and Jim Cusenza, friend of the groom, was best man. Jane and Angela Noirot were bridesmaids for their sister. Groomsmen were Tim Smith of Kewadin, friend of the groom and Dennis Alexander of Gaylord, brother-in-law of the groom. Bob Copenhaver and Ray Sylvinski, brothers-in-law of the groom, and Larry Potter, brother-in-law of the bride served as ushers.

Music was provided by soloist Mary Vandermeer, a friend of the bride from Grand Rapids.

Sara Tebo, Irving's niece from St. Charles, Missouri, was flower girl. After a reception at the Boyne City Lanes and a wedding trip to Traverse City, the couple will make their home in East Jordan.

Deborah is an employee of Northwestern State Bank, and Irving is employed at Glen's Market of East Jordan.

Next Monday is the 4th of July and there is not a thing you can do to change it. So you might as well burst out cackling along with everyone else who is going to burst out cackling.

Boyer City and East Jordan (both parade-struck cities) usually celebrate the Fourth until the town is left hanging over the back of a chair like a wet towel.

They yell, dance, guzzle and hurrah it up with a small, rag-tag street bunch wandering around after midnight, reminding one of the "Ten nights in a barroom." I did that so seldom when I was young that I'd forgotten about it until just now.

Boyer City's Fourth parade usually starts up near the high school. It takes so long to get downtown a person doesn't know whether to fish, cut bait or get out of the boat and splash around for a while.

I have worked on parades, I have been in parades and I have seen a thousand parades and I want to tell you something. It takes a lot of hard work to make five thousand people come up with an oh, and an ah. I offered to help out on last year's parade, but they told me that I was too old and that I should stick to light employment, like being Mayor of Boyer City or something.

Last year at this time Boyer City entertained some five thousand souls, including an Irishman from Boyer Falls. (Read that again, paying particular attention to his nationality).

Our friend hit town like George Washington crossing the Delaware. Upon reaching Boyer Avenue, he struck up Yankee Doodle on a mouth organ, which is the most hair-brained composition ever scratched off on a piece of foolscap. I know because I finger the piano by ear and sing by mouth and I always quit when I get to the part that tells a man of my age to "with the girls be handy."

The Fourth wouldn't be the Fourth without the beer barrel and fireworks to top off the day. Personally, I don't think those who lighten up the sky receive enough appreciation for their hard work. So I shall give them credit here and hope the reader passes it on.

My only complaint is that the fireworks are not seen until the clock in the steeple strikes ten, which means that I have to stay up beyond my bedtime if I want to sit in the car and wonder what in the world is going on in the car next to us. It's a shame how, to a good number of people, the fireworks are secondary until you shall have reached the tottering age of forty.

Now, let me ask a final question. Why do we throw these fits every fourth of July? Until I was 14 I thought we were whooping it up in recognition of Boyer City capturing Bay Springs without firing a shot. I had no idea the annual burst of cackling was in celebration of the time we pointed toward the Atlantic Ocean, forcing England to git.

Resigning school board member Mark Behling receives a certificate for "meritorious service" on the Boyer City board. Behling is resigning because he will be moving into the East Jordan School District. Presenting the certificate to Behling is board president George Shtetels.

Boyer Festivities

Race will be rising early to catch the event's start at 8:30 a.m. Runners will have their choice of a two-mile Fun Run and an eight-mile challenge.

Both races begin at the waterfront park. Runners must register and pick up their numbers between 7 a.m. and 8 a.m. prior to the races.

The two-mile course is nearly flat and is run on a blacktop surface through a residential district. The Challenge course, after a stretch of flat road, has a series of hills and is run on both paved and graveled roads.

For the Challenge Run, first place awards will be given to the male and female overall winners. Medals will also be awarded to the first three finishers in each age division.

The late entry fee is $7 for the Challenge Run, with a T-Shirt provided for each registrant. The Fun Run fee is $3.

The much-anticipated Boyer City Fourth of July parade will begin on Monday at 10:30 a.m., starting from the Boyer City High School parking lot.

The parade's route will head down Boyer Ave. to Water St., then north on Lake St. to State St., then east on State and returning to the high school.

Five parade categories will be recognized, with first- and second-place plaques awarded to the winners in each of the following classes: individual, retail and industrial, civic, classic car, and church-club-fraternal.

The equestrian category was replaced this year with the classic car category because of the area antique auto clubs' involvement.

The Rev. and Mrs. Milton "Buzz" Walls of Boyer City's First Presbyterian Church will serve as the parade's grand marshalls. This is the church's centennial year in Boyer City.

Local clubs and volunteers will start dishing up the traditional chow for the celebration at 11 a.m. Monday. Starting at that time in Veterans Memorial Park will be the Rotary Chicken Barbecue, the Boyer Valley Garden Club Pie Sale, and the Boyer City Volunteer Fire Department Ox Roast.

Beginning at noon on Monday, five bands will perform in the park's amphitheater. The groups, who are donating their time to put on the free event, include PYRL, the Jelly Roll Blues Band, Defiance, Spike and the Heels, and Matrix.

The Boyer River Raft Race gets under way at 2 p.m. Monday, starting behind the Consumer's Power facility on Spring St. and ending at the mouth of the river.

Rafts must be homemade for the event and have been made in the past from steel drums and innertubes. Those interested in entering the race can participate by paying a $5 entry fee at City Hall by Friday at 5 p.m.

All proceeds from the race go to the Fireworks Fund.

The Little League team playoffs begin at 3:30 p.m. Monday at the waterfront diamond.

Blisters and sweat will be the consequences of the celebration's annual "Grudge Tugs," which start at 5 p.m. on Monday behind the Chamber of Commerce building.

The men-and-women teams are limited to five members and 800 pounds each. Teams interested in competing can contact Jim Howell at First National Bank in Boyer City.

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

There sure is an interesting way to have an urban renewal plan up here in the north country. Just call the fire department to have them burn down your blighted, disrepaired building.

Down where I was from, they had an urban renewal program to tear down the downtown and then, hopefully rebuild it. But, if they had followed the way of those up north, they could have saved a ton of federal money by just letting their fire department practice on the buildings.

As it was, they tore down each building separately, carting all but one off to whatever landfill they used. The one was taken up to Crossroads Village, a historic themed park near Flint, to have it rebuilt into the historic structure it once was.

Up here, it seems that a lot of the buildings were constructed rather haphazardly. And because of that, it is often easier to burn it down than let it stand or try to rebuild it.

Of course, some of the buildings up here are historic, and they need to be preserved. After all, this area has been noted historically as a vacation center for at least a hundred years, and maybe the Indians used the area for vacations before that.

We have a lot of structures here in town that have some merit historically. And the members of the historical commission are trying to keep us in touch with our background so that our sons and daughters will be able to enjoy the same sights as we presently do.

The look of our town is one of the deciding factors for the vacationer to return to every year.

And the people of the town are another big reason. Friendly, down-to-earth types, who may not care that the person sitting next to them may be worth millions. To most, the millionaire is treated just like you and me. Good service is just one more attribute we folks have.

And if you think that you are treated wrongly here, just go to one of the big cities and find out how a number feels.

If you were one of those who missed the firemen's brunch last Sunday, you missed a great meal for a Sunday morning. It seems that the firemen talk Robert's Restaurant into turning the place over to them just so that they can turn the tables on the wives and cook a breakfast fit for several kings and queens. The brunch is supposed to bring in money for the fireworks fund, and it does do that as well as provide another place to go that is different for Sunday.

The crowds who did attend were treated to a huge choice of fresh fruits, a superb selection of pastries, and of course, the usual choice of eggs, pancakes, sausage and bacon.

But the real thing about community breakfasts is the people you see out and about. People who want to enjoy the company of some of our fine folks that live in the area.

Even a lot of the second homeowners came to the brunch, probably attracted to the restaurant because of the fire truck that was parked out front.

One wag suggested that Butch Erber, the local fire chief who was really into cooking the bacon and sausages, was trying to get a little practice just like Henry Erber, another fireman, did a couple of weeks ago when a tree along side of his house caught on fire and he had to call out the department.

One thing though, I noticed a couple of somewhat burned at the edges type of pancakes. Maybe these guys are so used to charred wood that they thought that's the way it is supposed to be. I noticed something else, too. Nobody ate the burned ones, they waited until a fresh batch came out of the kitchen for their plate.

But all in all, the firemen are some pretty good cooks, the folks who went to the affair are some pretty good eaters, and the fireworks fund is a little bit richer because of the concern of the guys who set them off.

With the weather and the wind, the boaters were out in force over the weekend, from the little sailboarders zipping across the lake, to the guys with the big ones, it seemed like every boat in the marinas, both public and private were out for a sail.

Sailing when there is a breeze is a lot of fun, especially when the boat is washing the deck as the sail is pulled tight to the wind. I saw several catamarans out there, looking like they were one hundredth of a second away from disaster, but the sailors let out the sail, turned a little away from the wind, and probably just had a whale of a time scaring the passengers who were not prepared for that kind of leisurely hike across the water.

This is just a little column in a little paper, but I want to say something very big. Maybe it won't seem that big to you. Maybe even, you know it already. But when I think what it's done to people who don't know it, I think it's very big.

I will tell you in a minute what it is, but first it should be noted that this big conclusion has been reached through experience. I have taught all ages of students except for 10 and 11 year-olds. And as I stood there, explaining or asking questions, I watched the faces.

I could see the A students, clicking away in their minds. I could see the not-A students, too.

Here is one I put in the front seat. Again, he is not listening. There is another, trying to dig out a pen, and not listening yet. Turning around, distracting another student, trying to borrow a pen from him.

And, not counting physical handicaps, there are 16 other obstacles to learning: fatigue, rebellion, a mind "trained" only to appreciate looks or physical prowess, a mind blurred with drugs, sheer laziness, fear, restless energy, lack of confidence, no background of reading at home, no respect for education, no understanding of the meaning of striving for a goal, a skill at passing the buck, lack of concentration, personal dislike of the teacher, desire to be the center of attention, and inexperience in setting aside personal demands in order to make way for learning.

If the last one could be turned around, the other problems would at least take a back seat. The big "IF". People suppose that sitting in a classroom will make their children settle down and accept the big IF. Lots and lots of times it doesn't.

The result? "The kid is dumb!" The child comes to believe it, the parents come to believe it, and, in a sense, the school comes to believe it, too.

The big IF is important, but bigger than that is the thing I set out to say: Nobody knows what intelligence is.

So nobody knows what the maximum of intelligence is in a human being. But it isn't like a cider jug—sometimes full, sometimes only partly full. So—nobody can say "I'm not smart."

From what I have seen, intelligence can be encouraged and encouraged, and grow and grow, just like the ability to love, an equally mysterious endowment. Indeed, when you love someone and they come to love you, intelligence seems to flow more freely.

I don't know if schools should grade students on the big IF, but if they did, parents would see a correlation between being willing to learn, and getting A's in classes.

Not all problems would disappear. Personality conflicts and the student's lack of background in thought processes relative to, say, chemistry, can still put an earnest student in danger of flunking. But not because he or she is dumb!

Nobody I have ever met is dumb. Maybe layers and layers of mucky things like lack of practice in concentrating, lack of will, any of those 16 things—lie like old rubble over the live springs of thinking.

The depth of the rubble is what makes the difference, makes someone say, "That kid is dumb." But I know if the student has three things: plenty of time, plenty of willingness to learn, and textbooks and instruction at his or her level, he or she can learn and can uncover the unfathomed deep springs of intelligence.

Go tell Mr. Reagan's council on education that!

Two candidates in EJ race

Two candidates for mayor in East Jordan will be voted in next fall's election. They are the incumbent Bill Merwin and candidate Linda Barnes.

Running for council seats are the following: First ward—incumbent Mark Danef and Cliff Gibbard. Second ward—incumbent Al Joseph, unopposed.

Third ward—incumbent Ellen Cihak and Calvin Gotts.

Because no more than two candidates are running for each office, there will be no run-off election in August. Voting will take place in November.

Princess Winnifred [Anne Eckstrom] helps a lady in waiting [Sue Douglas] who is trying to become a princess as the rest of the cast of "Once Upon A Mattress" looks on. The performances, which will be a first for the high school drama department because of its being a summer production, are going to be July 14-15-16 on the Boyne City Elementary School stage. A special matinee performance will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday. All other performances will start at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at The Boyne City Chamber of Commerce, Boyne school administration office, Charlevoix County Press office, and from cast members. They will also be available at the door providing the performance is not sold out.

Drama club to hold first summer production

Summer theater will make its first appearance in the Boyne City area if a group of interested and talented adults and students have their say-so this July 14-15-16.

The group, working as part of the Boyne City High School drama department, will be putting on the fairtale comedy-musical, "Once Upon A Mattress," at the Boyne City Elementary School stage for four shows including a matinee show to be held Saturday, July 16.

The purpose of the group says producer-directors Jackie and Bob Wollenberg, is to give the young actors and actresses some additional experiences along with the school plays. They will also get a chance to work with more experienced adults who are in the play.

The adults, all from the local area, include past members of the drama departments, and others who have had past college experiences when they were taking classes.

If this season's production is well received, the Wollenbergs say that they are planning more for the next summer season.

"One thing we want people to understand though," said Bob Wollenberg, "is that our summer production has a smaller cast compared to the spring show that the school drama departments do. The plays we will present are just as good with great production numbers, but by working with smaller casts, it won't be quite the same."

He added, "The smaller cast we are using will give us a chance to do many more shows because Broadway writes a whole lot more for smaller casts than they do for large ones."

For this premier show this summer, held in the air conditioned elementary school, the cast has been in rehearsal for about a month. The leads include Anne Eckstrom, a Boyne City third grade teacher, who will be playing Princess Winnifred. Kate Schafer, the former director of the Chamber of Commerce, is going to be Queen Aggravain. Jim Douglas, a service coordinator of Little Traverse Hospital, is listed as King Sextimus the Silent, while Tim Moody will be playing Prince Dauntless.

A total of 21 actors and actresses are included in the play. If sales for the performances are successful and there is a profit from the performances, it will be split between the school drama department and the Chamber of Commerce's fireworks fund. All performances will start at 8 p.m. with the exception of the matinee which will start at 2 p.m.

Tickets are available at the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce, Boyne school administration office, Charlevoix County Press office, and from cast members. They will also be available at the door providing the performance is not sold out.

Garden Club hears program on arranging

The June meeting of the Boyne Valley Garden Club had been designated Presidents' Day honoring president Vi Mangios, and past president Alice McClain and Connie VanHoegen. Presidents from area garden clubs and local sororities and service organizations were invited to share this special occasion.

Mrs. Anna Belle Webb of Charlevoix gave a program on flower arranging. She is known for her love of flowers and is a recognized authority on this art.

She exhibited (previously arranged) flowers and demonstrated how an altar piece for a June wedding could be assembled. She concluded the program by making a display of garden vegetables.

Hostesses Winifred Shields and Ellen Wilkinson had prepared a beautiful tea table which was enjoyed by all.

Auto Club urges halt to prediction

The Automobile Club of Michigan has urged the National Safety Council (NSC) to halt its pre-July 4 holiday traffic death and injury predictions because they are inaccurate and damage the travel industry by making motorists needlessly fear holiday trips.

The Auto Club also urged Michigan's media not to broadcast pre-holiday death predictions. "The council's predictions incorrectly imply that it is more dangerous on a holiday weekend to take an overnight trip than it is to stay home and use the car in familiar areas," stated Auto Club president Jack Avignone in a letter to NSC acting president Charles Gilchrist.

The Auto Club also noted the NSC's figures are guesses which lack scientific backing. An Auto Club analysis of holiday traffic accidents over the past five summers shows that 77 percent of the fatalities occurred within 25 miles of home to persons not on vacation.

"The Safety Council's holiday statistics actually discourage overnight or weekend holiday trips and urge persons to stay near home where travel is the most dangerous," he said.

Another false implication of NSC predictions, according to the Auto Club, is that it is more dangerous to drive during holiday weekends than non-holiday weekends.

used to participate.

The parade starts at the Sportsman's Park and finishes up at G.A.R. Park on Main St. in East Jordan.

From 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on both Saturday and Sunday, outboard hydro-plane boats will race along the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix in the Firecracker Regatta. The pits will be at the Tourist Park Beach, with judging at the city dock.

Events in the regatta will include three closed course races and one marathon.

The Jordan Valley Arts and Crafts Fair will be held in Memorial Park from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Artists wishing to sell their works can reserve a booth by phoning the Chamber of Commerce at 536-7351.

Those with big mouths could fare well in the festival's Pizza Pie Eating Contest held at noon on Saturday in front of the senior center on Main St. The participant who can consume the most pizza in five minutes wins.

For a $2 entrance fee, La Pete's Pizzeria will furnish pizza and soft drinks for any hungry competitor.

Children will have the chance to see and touch a variety of animals at a Petting Zoo held from 1-4 p.m. on Saturday. The zoo will be set up between Jordan Auto and Bruce's Barbershop on Main St.

Kids who think their bicycles are built for speed can compete in one of three bike races Saturday at 4 p.m. Three courses will be set up for three different age groups.

Registration for the race is at 3:30 p.m. at the East Jordan Iron Works Parking Lot.

Those who prefer water sports can observe or compete in the Jordan River Canoe Race, starting at Webster Bridge at 9:30 a.m. on Saturday. The race will finish up at Sportsman's Park.

The Polkafest will resume Saturday, as well as Sunday evening, under the Lions tent at Murphy's Field, with two bands performing. Admission is $2.

Highlighting Sunday's activities, along with the fireworks display after sunset, will be a chicken barbecue in the ambulance garage across from Memorial Park.

Aspiring lumberjacks might want to compete in the 53-inch Cross Cut Saw Contest held at 1 p.m. Sunday under the Lions tent. Cash prizes will be given for winners of each division.

The festival's greatest daytime event, the Grand Parade, will get underway at 3:30 p.m. on Sunday. The parade's route starts at Murphy Field, goes to Sportsman's Park, up Main St. and to Watson Field.

The parade, boasting a theme of "Sing a Song of Freedom," will feature the following bands: the Elks Drum and Bugle Corps from Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario.
