Members of the Boyne City Rotary Club alide one of the walls of the football field press box up and into position last Wednesday. The project was undertaken by the members of the club after it was discovered that the roof was leaking and the floors were getting rotten. One member of the Rotary Club said that Boyne City's new facility will be the best in the north.

Portside Art Society differs with East Jordan officials

Protesting the new city policy on fees for special use of public parks and buildings, East Jordan Portside Arts and Historical Society wrote their views out for the city council and presented them at Tuesday night's council meeting.

Their protest focussed on the fee they had to pay for the first time in 21 years of putting on the Portside Arts Fair the first week in August.

In their letter they said: "We can find no instance in the state of Michigan where a fee is charged for use of a public park to stage an arts fair, sponsored by a local, non-profit volunteer group, registered with the Trusts Division."

They pointed out that Michigan's governor and the federal government encourage businesses and industries "to help further the arts in America."

Their annual art fair, they said, is held for this purpose, endeavoring to further the fine arts understanding of the public, as well as attracting the visiting public to the community.

City council has just set rates for the use of the parks by civic organizations and other groups. They have emphasized that in the interest of fairness, they want to make no exceptions.

Rate setting is an effort to increase city revenues rather than increase city taxes, they said. It is something other cities are also having to do.

In paying their $150 fee, the society said, "We do question the apparent decision by the city council that creative artists are to be equated with commercial vendors; that our 21 years of volunteer efforts in founding the Arts Fair and the East Jordan Area Museum are so casually dismissed by this council."

The society submitted a request for reconsideration of the fee charge, saying, "Meanwhile it is our intention to continue to devote our efforts constructively, to make further contributions on behalf of all our citizens...excluding no one."

Boyne commissioners agree to help purchase new ambulance equipment

Upgrading the quality of ambulance service is expensive, Boyne City commission concluded at their noon meeting, agreeing to help sponsor purchase of new equipment. Ambulance chief, Henry Erber had proposed radio equipment that would allow extended communication with the hospital for advising on care of patients enroute.

With the $7,127 equipment, the service would qualify for a limited life care rating. Erber explained that there are three categories of service: basic care, limited life care, and advanced.

He said the state wants all ambulances with the same equipment. Then doctors won't have to take time to find out just the extent of care the ambulance is capable of. All cities will eventually have to provide advanced care, he said.

Commissioner Marty Paul asked how often the telemetry radio system would make a difference. Erber answered they could have used it 15 out of the 18 last runs. "I'm not saying we will save a life," he said, "but we can assist by starting care right away." This, he stressed, was the important feature of the new radio system.

Erber is licensed now as emergency medical technician, qualified to act on certain life-preserving procedures during the time it takes to get a patient to the hospital.

The Lions and Lionesses have already pledged $2,000 towards the purchase. In order to allow the purchase to get under way, the city, having no budgeted funds for it, agreed to underwrite the remaining $5,127 while further donations are made.

Lake Street rebuild set for fall

Renovation of Lake Street in Boyne City between Main and Water Streets will begin this fall, thus adding one more dimension to city renewal.

Plans are the same as those for Water Street, the two downtown blocks of which have been reconstructed already. One difference exists. The state will not approve of diagonal parking, and the state is loaning $170,000 of the $250,000 needed for the job.

The other $80,000, city manager Tim Clifton said, will come from the capital improvements contingency fund ($20,000), and a $60,000 tax-anticipation loan, to be negotiated by the city.

At the July 19 city commissioners' noon meeting, Clifton went through the steps leading up to construction, as he will soon be leaving office to work in Monroe.

In a letter, dated July 12, the state engineer for the Department of Transportation wrote that the city had been found financially capable of repaying the $170,000.

The 15-year loan is part of a program for Michigan cities, to be covered by a bond sale on July 27.

Boyne City won't know what interest they will pay until after the bond sale.

The loan will cover only the costs of street, sidewalk, and lighting reconstruction, because the loan originates from the transportation department. Replacement of the city's worn-out sewer-water lines will have to come from the city's $80,000.

The commission's approval for a proposed layout is still to come, as is bid opening.

Eveline Twp. to approve new Township landfill ordinance

Wanting to feel assured that the sanitary landfill operating in their neighborhood is safe, the Eveline Township board of supervisors agreed at their July 12 meeting to vote on a new ordinance. The ordinance, when passed, would allow enforcement of regulations in terms similar to those in Michigan's Public Act 641 regarding landfills.

For several months a group of Ironton residents, with Lee Arnold as their spokesman, has been pressuring various governmental agencies to review conditions at Charlevoix Garbage Service. The landfill, which is owned and operated by Dawson Way, is regulated by the state Department of Natural Resources, and is the only licensed landfill in Charlevoix County.

From the group's point of view, operations had been falling short of DNR regulations.

"But it does look a lot better than it did two months ago," Arnold told the township board.

Arnold also reported that water samples from several nearby private wells had been tested in a downstate city with no dangerous bacterial conditions found.

Samples will be taken from eight more wells. "I hope they can't find anything in them. I hope there's nothing wrong," Arnold said. The DNR also has recently taken a sample from the drainage water.

The group has questioned the fact that the landfill is uphill from a drainage ditch which spills over into a nearby field and can go on down to a pond and thence to Lake Charlevoix.

The people complain that the heaps in the fill are so high the steep sides cannot be properly covered each day, so that rain gets in and seepage from the rainfall can carry potential pollution to the drainage ditch.

And they worry about the fill being used as an unloading place for large amounts of toxic chemicals.

Reached later by The Press, Dawson Way replied to the last concern by saying, "Toxic chemicals are a toxic register. People have to give an accounting as to how they are disposed of. Our site is not eligible to accept them (toxic chemicals), because we are only eligible for what can go into a class two site."

Arnold had said the group wanted to have access to the fill limited to daytime hours as some means of control on what can be trucked into the site. Way answered that by stating that manufacturers are responsible for where their toxic wastes are dumped, not the landfills.

In response to the complaint about high steep-sided piles of garbage in his fill, Way said, "That's the way you put garbage in a landfill!" And he added, "It's covered!"

Way also sends samples from his monitoring wells to be tested every three months or so. They are checked "for everything the DNR asks for," he explained. "Chemicals, pH, oxygen, bacteria..."

The proposed ordinance would update the old one which said only township residents could use the fill. It also would make possible local enforcement of the DNR regulations.

EJ council looks at several charter proposals

As a result of study of the city charter to which the East Jordan ad hoc committee was assigned, city council has several new proposals to look at: (1) job description of clerk's position be made; (2) flow pattern of authority in city government be charted; (3) ad hoc committee be made permanent, present list of committees be streamlined, and new personnel committee be included in the list; (4) variances in zoning regulations be required to have a reverter clause.

The council approved reducing their 13 committees to the six suggested. These are: public works, ways and means, public service, parks and recreation, personnel, and charter and ordinance. Details of the roles of these committees will be worked out before council makes any changes in the present committee line-up.

The change in committee structure is not contrary to anything in the charter.

The study was undergone originally because parts of city ordinances, already adopted, were found to be in contradiction to the 1911 charter.

According to city clerk Fern Morris, amendments have been made to the charter in 1915, 1918, 1920, 1954, and 1978.

Committee chairwoman Pat Sweet said, "This is a very workable charter."

In other matters, city superintendent Mike Dionne noted that the harbor commission recommends an additional boat launch at the Tourist Park. Parking for Memorial Park may also be proposed.

Dionne said a number of condemned structures in town and one outside city limits are due to be burned.

The council took note of problems the firemen had, which were caused by high winds during the fireworks at the Festival of Freedom. The same difficulties arose in other cities, as well. The council voted thanks to the Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations for a superb holiday.

The council also voted to send a statement of appreciation "for the many hours and years" that people of the Portside Art and Historical Society have committed for Portside Art Fairs, going back 21 years.

Farmers' Market now Wed. and Sat.

The senior citizen-sponsored farmers' market in Boyne City's Old City Park will be open Wednesdays now, as well as Saturdays. The additional hours were approved at city commission meeting, July 19.

Director Leanna Hardy said the requests for a Wednesday market came from both vendors and customers.

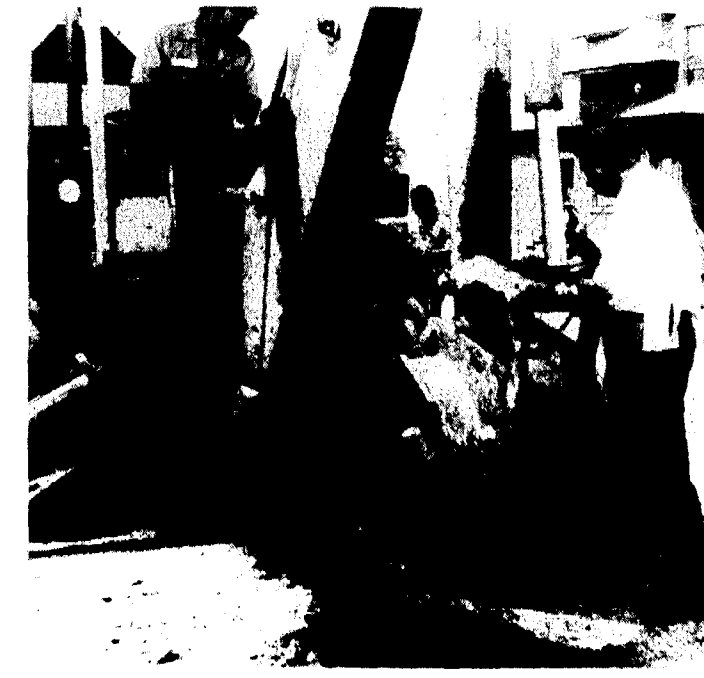

Voters approve fire protection millage

Taxes are going up in Evangeline Township, but they will be worth it because the tax increase is buying fire protection for the residents.

Last Thursday, the township held a special election and approved a .6 mill levy for two years. The millage represents a .5 mill renewal plus a .1 mill increase. The millage will raise about $7,568.

The voters, 26 out of the 400 registered in the township, passed the levy 20 to 6. Another proposal that allows the township to authorize the millage passed by a vote of 19 to 7.

Evangeline Township, along with Bay, Eveline and Wilson townships, have a contract with the Boyne City Fire Department for service. The one mill increase is to help pay for the new fire truck that will be delivered this year and other equipment that will be used for fighting fires in the township areas, as the new truck is a combined tanker and pumper truck.

C.H. Smith Excavating finally tore up the railroad tracks on Park and Lake Sts. from the old Boyne Valley Railroad. The rest of the tracks had been removed previously.

Workers from Hodgkies and Douma do the final preparation work for the new Front St. being relocated near a condominium development. The new road is expected to open on Thursday or Friday after paving is completed.

FOR LARGE FAMILIES

COOKING IN COSTA RICA
This is the way my niece, Maxine, who lives in the mountain area of Costa Rica cooks for her large family. They use very little meat, however their diet is rich in protein from vegetables, fruits and grains—most of which are grown locally. They eat lots of bananas; black berries, blueberries and many other kinds of berries and fruits are abundant. They make many cool drinks from the juice of berries and citrus fruits. They also drink lots of milk. They have six beautiful and healthy members in their family, though Maxine thinks nothing of cooking for ten people. She prepares rice and beans for the same meal. Here is a sample of Maxine's menus for a day.

BREAKFAST

For breakfast she cooks big bowls of oatmeal or they have rice which was cooked the day before. Costa Rica is a coffee producing and drinking country. They drink their coffee very strong, almost thick, and sweetened with sugar made from cane grown in the area. Syrup is squeezed out of the stalks and boiled down into cakes. The finely ground coffee and water is brought to a boil, then strained into another pot with a very fine strainer and kept hot on the back of the wood-burning stove.

DINNER

Their big meal for the day is at noon. Beans and rice are cooked separately. She might serve the rice this way:
Stir fry:
Sliced onions
Carrots, thinly sliced
a stalk of celery slices of green pepper
a clove of garlic, squeezed or chopped very fine.

In vegetable oil; when tender crisp she adds this to the cooked rice.
The beans will be served separately. They are cooked with sliced onions, slices of carrots and usually some garlic.

She also will serve another side dish of vegetables such as green beans or fried plantenos, and a salad made by mixing shredded cabbage with a ripe tomato, no dressing, just salt and pepper.

A favorite dessert is banana bread or fresh pineapple. Nearly all of these fruits and vegetables are grown locally and are abundant except celery which is very expensive. They buy it by the stalk.

SUPPER

Maxine fixes these rolls often for supper. She buys rolls which are like a French roll from a bakery. She splits them, covers them with a layer of cheese (farmers) then broils them until cheese is melted, adds a slice of tomato, a few chopped chili peppers

(these peppers are not too hot). Sometimes they put just a bit of the juice from the can of peppers over the tomato.

Maxine does not change the menus often, however there is a very good variety in each meal.

Here are a few observations from my sister, Margaret, who visits her daughter.

They serve salsa sauce with every meal. Their salsa sauce is not real hot. It is served separately so everyone uses as much as desired.

She sees no obese people in Costa Rica.

In San Jose fruit of all kinds is sold on the street. Slices of ripe pineapple are sold like ice cream is here. There are all kinds of restaurants in San Jose. One can buy a beautiful, huge plate of fruit for 50 cents.

The people are very clean and the girls are beautiful.

In the mountains the homes are built high off the ground with space below to store the wood for the stove, to keep the wood dry. It rains almost every day for a little while. Their houses all have polished hard wood floors. They cut a coconut in two and use the cut side to rub and polish the floor. This is typical of homes in Costa Rica. Everything is kept spotlessly clean and washing is nearly always done by hand.

In Costa Rica the prices of milk, beans and rice are stable, which is good for the people.

Saturday, June 23rd, hill family. About Richardi Park in Bellaire was the setting for a reunion of the Under-hills left New York and sailed to New Brunswick at the end of the Revolutionary War. They were also told instead of a rain dancer, there was an ice dancer in their midst who could have been responsible for Lake Charlevoix freezing over last winter. Max Ellison, a resident of Bellaire, recited some interesting poetry he had written. Lloyd Underhill of Marquette led the group in singing some special songs. Several in the group enjoyed the beach and swimming. The weather was beautiful and everyone had a very enjoyable day. Plans were made to meet June 23rd 1984 at Richardi Park.

Culture survives with beadwork

Louis Chingwa will present a workshop on Indian beadworking at the McCune Community Arts Center in Petoskey on Saturday, July 23, at 2:00 p.m. for the Nishnawbe Festival.

Mr. Chingwa will explain and demonstrate the steps necessary to create his Indian beadwork: constructing and stringing the loom, creating the design, and stringing the bead pattern.

The historic designs were symbolic patterns for ritual prayers and prayer meetings. Mr. Chingwa painstakingly reproduces many of these designs, taking great care not to misplace a single bead. He also creates his own contemporary patterns and custom designs patterns on request.

This workshop is the first in a series to be presented each Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Art Tree in the McCune Arts Center, Mitchell at Division Streets in downtown Petoskey, as part of the 1983 Nishnawbe Festival. The Richard Pohrt Collection of Indian Art from the Detroit Institute of Arts is on display at the Arts Center Gallery through August 27, at which time the Festival will close with an authentic native American banquet. There is no charge for any of the events except the banquet, which is $8 per person. Gallery hours at the Center are Mondays through Saturdays from 10 until 5. The Nishnawbe Festival is made possible by a grant received by the Crooked Tree Arts Council from the Mott Foundation.

Engaged?
The Charlevoix County Press publishes engagement and wedding announcements without charge. Pictures are welcomed, but we do suggest a few guidelines. Good quality black and white photographs, either of the couple or bride-elect, are preferred. All photographs are kept on file in the Press office and may be picked up at any time following publication; those pictures not picked up after six months will be discarded. Wedding and engagement announcement forms are available at our office or will be mailed upon request and the receipt of a self-addressed stamped envelope. While we try to publish each announcement the week that we receive it (and in the case of weddings, the first publication date following the ceremony), space constraints sometimes force us to delay the printing of the announcement for one or two weeks. Therefore, we ask that information be received at least two weeks before the intended publication so that we might better plan for its publication. We will not accept wedding announcements received more than four weeks after the wedding.

Opinions

With all the increases, when are we going to revolt?

When is someone in Lansing going to listen to the folks who elected them, after they recall that they are forcing us into signing?

Governor Blanchard is already facing that fact, and although the signatures are still a little short of the recall groups' self-imposed deadline, they still have the time to gather the signatures to force an election.

What are we talking about?

We are talking about the budget that was recently passed and approved by the Governor. It included almost everything that Mr. Taxpayer did not want to see in his government.

+Welfare and other social services up 12 percent.

+Aid to public schools up 33 percent.

+Aid to colleges and universities up 8.7 percent.

+Department of Mental Health up 14.2 percent.

+Department of Corrections up 15.2 percent.

+Department of Natural Resources up 21.5 percent.

+And the real kicker, the executive office budget up 12.4 percent from $2.6 million to $2.9 million.

One can go through the list of department and department and probably find almost every budget is up...not down like we taxpayers would like to see.

We are beginning to find a whole lot of truth in the idea that the special interest groups of the state control the legislature as they haven't shown the guts to say no.

You would think that in the economic times we are going through, our legislators would reduce the spending of government based on an old, tried and true theory.

If you lower the spending of the government, and you lower the taxes, you end up putting more money in the hands of the consumer.

If that is done, the consumer then buys more, and more people are put back to work to produce more of the items being purchased, and the government then makes back possibly more money from the workers in income taxes, etc. than the government lost by lowering the taxes.

Even a Democrat, John Kennedy, tried that theory and it worked.

Although we are basically still too dependent on the automotive industry, the increase in tourism and agriculture will not pull Michigan out of the depression we are in...we need some help from the people who pass the laws.

Let's face it, when the cars don't sell, the companies lay off the workers. Tax revenues from the loss of income taxes of the unemployed worker are less. Tax revenues from the sales taxes on new cars are less, as the average man cannot afford one.

At the same time, the unemployed worker is drawing from another state fund, drawing even more money out of the state coffers.

Sure, we could blame the auto companies for pricing their cars out of sight, but we would rather find solutions.

And we expected our elected officials to find the right ones to guide us out of the depths of being one of the hardest hit states in the nation. All the people in Lansing would have to do, is lower the taxes to follow what we think is some sound economic theory.

What did Michigan do? Raised the taxes 38 percent. All because someone said we would be $900 million in the hole this year.

A real economist would tell you that you solve that problem by cutting spending and cutting taxes. That alone may put those auto workers back on the job because the auto companies would not need all the incentive programs that they are running just to bring the buyers into the showrooms. More people might buy cars, which might put more workers back to work, which would bring in more taxes to the state.

We would like to know how the legislature can defend a tax increase when most of us are just barely getting by on the money we earn?

And more importantly, why aren't more people starting to revolt against the government and their unsound economic plan?

Marshall Sayles

You might as well quit laboring under the impression that I'm about to scratch off something giggly. Nothing could be closer to the false. It's 96 degrees on top of zero in this stuffy home office and the stupidity is the highest it's been this summer.

Imagine the sweat dripping from those folks who brave this heat to go downtown for groceries and toilet paper? The same people do the same foolish thing in a blinding snow storm. I know they do because they won't get out of my way so I can see where I'm driving.

Some folks in our town are mumbling about their summer taxes. They are too high; they have always been too high; and they always will be too high. Nobody in Boyne City has ever seen a tax assessment that made them laugh.

It's different out here in the boon-docks. We have once a year taxes that come due in February during the dead of the winter when we're broke. There was a time when we could laugh while paying our taxes out of the money in our hip pocket. But as the years passed, and it was discovered that we could see Lake Charlevoix from the window in our garage, the tax hammer hit like a woodpecker banging away at a dead elm.

That's the year we were forced to sell our wild grapes and grasshoppers to pay the duty on our land. If our taxes are raised again this year we figure we'll sell our gooseberries. They aren't worth a cent, but that's what people seem to be buying these days—things that aren't worth a cent.

I was upset when I wrote the above. So to get out of the foul mood, I went out onto the lawn and laughed two or three loud outdoor laughs. One neighbor said it sounded more like a cackle to him. The noise shook the bugs out of the mountain ash tree, but it didn't do a damn thing for our taxes.

Hot and dry weather killed our strawberries. Now our raspberries are beginning to look as though we should call in the vet. And our blackberries. Wow! If this heat continues, they're done for. This would give us a fruitless summer. Fruitless summers are the worst right after a fruitless winter.

When I saw how the heat was killing everything around us, I had a wild desire to flee to the maddening bottle. But just as I was about to sip the future punishment, a friend arrived. Using a clever mixture of castor oil and hypnotism, he saved me from myself.

He was the same friend who saved me from myself back when I was asked to give a straight, forward opinion on the earth shaking Front Street question: Shall we give the street to those nice people or let the increasing potholes decide its future? My friend said that since I was a coward, I should not have an opinion one way or the other. Which I didn't. But I'm sure glad it turned out the way I wanted it to.

Everything in this column is true. I always write true facts. I've never written a false fact in my life.

Next week we shall take up this question: What would Boyne City be like today if everyone who ever tried anything had succeeded? Please do not skip class.

Jottings

Sometimes, I think I should have all the answers of nature...I just have to keep watching everything around like all the nature programs on television on the public channels.

If you know of anyone with a Ferrari automobile, would you please have them park it in front of Lena's Wine Cellar so that I could win a small nickel bet.

The bet was made when after some discussion about their new patio room that is under construction, I made the remark that I would consider their restaurant to be very successful when I see a Ferrari parked in front of it. It has to be a Ferrari as the owners of the restaurant are both Italian, and any old German car like a Mercedes or a Porsche would not have the same flavor.

The bet also brought up the fact that we citizens of Boyne are seeing a whole lot of those expensive foreign cars driving around the town. We even saw a Rolls Royce parked at the Country Star the other day.

Maybe, we are getting the popularity of some of the other resort towns here in the north. Of course we like to think that our town doesn't have to put on "airs" because of the influx of the richer vacationer.

Even a few of the citizens here have said they like the town because of that fact. We are real people who can get along with any and all of the other folks. Well, almost everyone.

Have you sat in the sun lately and been visited by little copper-colored butterflies with their big, dark eyes and cool assumption that the world is theirs?

Fluttering hither and yon, they are like random summer thoughts. They seem to be there. Ah—but reach for one and see how fast it is gone!

This season is full of butterflies. Not only the troops of little coppers, but white butterflies perched on white alysium flowers, and splendid black ones with blue, bordering their wings. There are large brown ones, banded in orange. Big tiger swallow-tails dart through the trees with unexpected speed and precision. And the viceroys are out—the ones that look like the orange monarch butterflies—this resemblance saving their lives because birds know how bad-tasting the monarch is.

Imagine summertime without butterflies. How sad it would look. The garden would stay garden and never take wing. The space between flowers would be empty without the flickering of butterflies, deftly sewing flower to flower.

In so many ways the lives of flowers and butterflies are intertwined. Even the powders that color butterflies' wings seem to have some ancient kinship with the pollen of flowers. The cocoons look appropriately like flower buds, the eggs like seeds, and often caterpillars look like stems and leaves.

I used to think butterflies were a little unworthy of study. So purposeless-looking, so fragile and temporary. Then one fall, I noticed, returning from a summer in the north, that every few miles there was a monarch butterfly, heading down the road in the same direction as we were going.

Sometimes we'd have to slow down to avoid collision, but usually they kept about 20 feet up, always staying between the walls of forest along either side of the road.

It dawned on me I was actually seeing the famous migration of monarch butterflies. One after another on their paper-thin wings they were fluttering 900 miles south. And enough would survive the journey to return in spring.

There are some little things that are as astonishing as the Grand Canyon is.

So I got a book on butterflies and began the trip into a whole realm of astonishment—How a butterfly, though she feeds on nectar, seems to remember the taste of her favorite leaves back when she was a caterpillar, and lays her eggs where the hatching caterpillars will have plenty of those leaves to gnaw on. How the caterpillars, in shedding their skin as they grow, will spin a little webbing on a leaf to hook their claws on, in order to climb out of their old skin.

How some species, closing their wings at rest, tilt them directly at the sun so that they make only a thin line of shadow, and thus escape notice.

Admittedly, it isn't worthy to dismiss it all because it's "instinct." However instinct may have been achieved in the first place is a matter of some wonder, too.

I knew a man with a huge mustache and a Teddy Roosevelt smile. He was the tough, silent type. Never ate vegetables, either. I discovered one day that his great enthusiasm was the study of butterflies.

"Bill," I said, glad to find at last an expert in person, "did instinct invent the colors of butterflies?"

He smiled the Teddy Roosevelt smile, but wouldn't answer.

Maybe it's enough just to sit in the sun and watch the butterflies, to see them feeding or resting or occasionally squabbling over precedence, and in general, sharing life with us, huge and stolid though we may be.

Bay Township set to approve new zoning ordinance

Bay Township moved to the last step before the final approval of the new zoning ordinance the township planners have been working on for the last two years.

In a special meeting held Monday night, the township board agreed to the final changes that the planners discussed and decided to wait for the final draft before giving the ordinance an approval.

In other action, the board approved a preliminary plot plan for the East Bay Development on Walloon Lake. The township officials approved the plan with the suggestions the planners had asked be included in the plan. The plan will now go to the state for another approval that has to be made before the property can be offered for sale.

Also discussed at the planning meeting, which was held prior to the special meeting, was a discussion of the proposed development being planned for Hemlock Point. That plan is in the final stages and is pending state approvals. Those approvals are expected in August, according to Charles Breitaup, the owner and developer of the project.

Re-elected to East Jordan school board, Shirley Bauer, year with the school on its feet and curriculum improvements underway. Mary Jason, president; Ed Drumth, secretary; and Herb Griffin, treasurer, expect a good

Country Star restaurant still set to open Aug. 1

Moving right along, the new Country Star Restaurant, Boyne City, expects to open August 1. The new building on Boyne City-Boyne Falls Road will have a second floor dining area. It will be completed at least six weeks before its sister, Country Star Market, will be finished.

Water for the restaurant will be hooked into the city supply, but in accordance with recommendations by the health department and the Department of Natural Resources, sewage, after preliminary treatment, will go direct to city lagoons.

Storm run-off will be collected by Country Star.

Moved by Commissioner Smith that the last paragraph on page 38 be corrected to read: "A recommendation on county participation in the suit will be forthcoming." There being no objections, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot for the acceptance of the minutes as corrected. Motion carried.

PRIVATE INDUSTRY COUNCIL APPOINTMENTS

The Chairman announced that the Governor recently finalized the Service Delivery Areas under the Jobs Training Partnership Act. Our representative area remains Region 10. Moved by Commissioner Matthew that the membership dues in the amount of $130 be paid upon receipt of a statement. There being no objections, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

Also noted were: 1.) an appropriations request from CHIP; and 2.) a notice from the State Tax Commission indicating that Equalization Directors must file the results of an equalization study with the Commission by December 31, 1983, with an interim report due by June 30. Commissioner Smith is to report on this.

SHERIFF'S DEPARTMENT

The Chairman explained that the Public Safety Committee met recently to discuss the Secondary Road Patrol grant program in the Sheriff's department. It was the committee's recommendation at that time that the request for part time personnel to function under P.A. 416 be denied because the grant budget provides for one regular deputy already employed. The committee makes this recommendation to the Board. After discussion, the matter was referred back to the Sheriff's committee for further review.

RESOLUTION--ACCEPT UNION CONTRACT (#83-028)

Moved by Commissioner Matthew that the following resolution be adopted:
WHEREAS, the Sheriff's Department employees have voted to be represented by Teamsters Local 129 for the purpose of collective bargaining since 1974; and
WHEREAS, the present contract expired on June 31, 1981; and
WHEREAS, both parties have presently reached agreement on a three year contract; and

WHEREAS, the County Commissioners have reviewed the contract signed by the local union; and

The Chairman reviewed the following items of correspondence and/or communication:

1. a letter from the City of Boyne City regarding a hearing on a commercial facility exemption certificate for Boyne Auto Supply, to be held June 14, 1983. Referred to Commissioner Sutliff.
2. a notice from the NRC regarding a meeting on the Big Rock spent fuel pool.

RESOLUTION--LEGAL REPRESENTATIVE FOR COUNTY (#83-029)

Moved by Commissioner Sutliff that the following resolution be adopted:
WHEREAS, a Petition has been filed in the Circuit Court for the County of Charlevoix captioned "Members and Supporters of Organized Voters of America in Charlevoix County, Michigan, and Karl Waldner, Plaintiff, versus Charlevoix County's Board of Commissioners and Its Prosecuting Attorney, Defendants; and
WHEREAS, it is in the best interests of both Defendants in this matter to have legal counsel;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the County of Charlevoix retains the law firm of Fenner, Barney, Hoffman and Gano to represent the interests of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners and the Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney.

ROLL CALL VOTE: Yeas, 5. Nays, none. Excused, Breakey, 1. Motion carried.

The Board recessed at 10:35 AM, reconvening at 10:50 AM.

TRANSIT SYSTEM REPORT

Commissioner Smith, on behalf of the Ad Hoc Transit Study Committee, submitted the report of the committee's review of the county transit system. He pointed out a number of concerns, particularly the miles on the buses and their replacement; more effective use of the buses on the runs they make; the source of funding should federal funds not be forthcoming.

Among the recommendations the committee made were that the transit program should be separated from the Commission on Aging and have a separate director; that rules for employees of the system should be developed and written into a formal policy; and that means of making the system more cost effective be explored.

After a lengthy question and answer discussion which followed, it was moved by Commissioner Sutliff that the report be accepted and that a letter of appreciation be sent to each member of the study committee. There being no objections, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

The Board adjourned at 11:55 AM, reconvening at 1:12 PM.

AFTERNOON SESSION

Commissioner Smith reviewed the status of the maintenance of effort lawsuit and the county's participation in it. He indicated that the Social Services

Board recommends that the county not participate at this time because the County's MOE is already quite low and the legal costs could easily outweigh any monetary savings gained from the suit. Moved by Commissioner Sutliff that the Board concur with the recommendations of the Social Services Board. There being no objections, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

METERS FOR COPY MACHINE

Joan Blanchard, Equalization Director, outlined the need for department metering on the IBM copy machine in the law library. She indicated that the cost to install the meters will be approximately $360 plus a monthly rental fee of $17. Moved by Commissioner Smith that the following resolution be adopted:
It is hereby recommended the County Board of Commissioners purchase the Manatron Automated Appraisal System (MAAS) to create current property record cards for Boyne City and East Jordan to facilitate keeping the property record cards up to date on a yearly basis as required by P.A. 352, 1976.

The approximate cost to the County for the creation of the MAAS master file and the first year maintenance charge, will be $7,424; said funds to come from the contingency fund of the general fund budget.

The revenue generated from the assessing function may be used to offset this cost. There being no objections, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

RESOLUTION--PUBLIC HEARING ON PROPOSED MILLAGE RATE (#83-031)

Moved by Commissioner Sutliff that the following resolution be adopted:
P.A. 5, 1982 requires that a proposed additional millage rate be established and adopted by the governing body, prior to a public hearing, if a unit proposes to increase operating tax levies over the maximum amount allowed to be levied without a hearing.

Acting in accordance with P.A. 5, 1982, recommendation is hereby made that the County Board of Commissioners establish the proposed additional millage rate of .2264 to be levied in 1983.

The clerk is instructed to publish the notice of public hearing on increasing property taxes. The hearing will be held Wednesday, June 22, 1983 at 8:00 PM. There being no objections, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

RESOLUTION--OPPOSE PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY (#83-032)

Moved by Commissioner Harmon that the following resolution be adopted:
WHEREAS, the State of Michigan is in a serious financial crunch; and
WHEREAS, the Governor has recommended extreme budgetary cuts; and
WHEREAS, there is a "non-binding" Presidential Primary scheduled for May, 1984, that will cost the taxpayers of this State approximately 5 million dollars and further, will cost the County of Charlevoix an estimated amount of $10,000 and other governmental units within the County additional amounts of our taxpayers' dollars; and
WHEREAS, this primary is the same as a popularity contest without political significance;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners goes on record as recommending that the Michigan Legislature repeal the legislation permitting the scheduled primary election to be held in May, 1984, and further, that the Governor concur by signing such legislation.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that copies of this resolution be sent to Governor Blanchard, Senator Irwin, Representative Ostling and the Michigan Association of Counties. There being no objections, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

The Board recessed at 2:05 PM, reconvening at 2:40 PM.

VOLUNTEERS IN PROBATION

Nancy Ritsema, Gordon VanWieren and Gayle Gennett were present to discuss and describe the Volunteers in Probation program which has operated in this county for about a year and a half. Mrs. Ritsema indicated the group's concern for liability insurance coverage and outlined some possible options which they would like to explore. After a question and answer period, the matter was referred to Commissioner Matthew, insurance liaison.

Commissioner Smith reported on a recent meeting of the Planning Commission, indicating a change in the administrative fee schedule for zoning for Boyne Valley and Melrose Townships. They will now be billed an hourly rate rather than a set fee.

Moved by Commissioner Smith that the meeting be adjourned. All present in favor.

Next meeting, Wednesday, June 22, 1983 at 7:00 PM.

The law requires that counties provide and fund such mediation services. The funds will be partially reimbursed by an increase in the judgment fee assessed those utilizing the services. The matter was referred to Liaison Commissioner Smith and the Ways and Means Committee for a recommendation at the July 13 meeting.

Commissioner Grimm noted that this same type of marking buoys should be installed at the small City beach on N. Lake Street in North Boyne.

Commission Minutes

The Chairman then read a letter from Scott Beatty, Prosecuting Attorney, who had been requested to express a legal opinion as to Charlevoix County's relationship to the Emmet code through District Health Department #3. The Prosecutor expressed the opinion that Charlevoix County's liability exposure would be no greater with the proposed code than under the existing one. He further indicated that the proposed Emmet Code, if adopted, would be more defensible and enforceable legally and he recommended that Charlevoix County approve Emmet County's implementation of their new code. Moved by Commissioner Sutliff that the following resolution be adopted:

WHEREAS, on June 1, 1983, the District Health Department Number 3 Board passed a resolution approving the revised Sanitary Code for Emmet County; and WHEREAS, on June 9, 1983, at the regular meeting of the Emmet County Board of Commissioners, said Board also approved the Code;

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY SANITARY CODE AD HOC COMMITTEE

Commissioner Moerland submitted a letter recommending the appointment of an Ad Hoc Committee to study and revise the Charlevoix County Sanitary Code to bring it up to current standards. The Board is to study the subject and prepare a report with recommendations to be presented to the Board on November 23, 1983. In the interim, a status report will be presented October 12. The Chairman made the following appointments to the committee: Dorothy Custer, Environmental Concerns; Larry Levensgood, Code Administration; Scott Beatty, Legal Concerns; Irvin Sturm, Engineering & Trade Concerns; Oral Sutliff, District Health Board representative; Ralph Harmon, County Board representative. Moved by Commissioner Matthew that the appointments be confirmed. ROLL CALL VOTE: Yeas, 6. Nays, none. Motion carried.

The Board recessed at 7:45 PM, reconvening at 8:00 PM.

PUBLIC HEARING--INCREASE MILL RATE

The Chairman opened the hearing on increasing the millage rate to be levied for 1983. He indicated that the purpose of the hearing was to permit the County, if necessary, to increase the rate up to the full voted allocation of 4.7 mills. Under the Truth in Taxation law, the hearing is required because this would increase the levy from the current 4.55

Mr and Mrs Westfall from Advance were present to question the need to increase the levy. Mrs Blanchard, Equalization Director, at the request of the Chairman, offered an explanation of the tax limitation structure under which the voters authorized the County to levy a maximum of 4.7 mills for county use. She went on to explain how last year's levy of 4.55 mills will be affected by the Truth in Taxation law which says that no more revenue may be generated this year than last without a public hearing. She pointed out that, because of the increase in the State Equalized Valuation, even maintaining the 4.55 levy would generate increased revenue and therefore, a hearing is required. The most that the County can levy at this time is the 4.473 rolled back figure; hence the hearing is being held to permit any increase the Board deems necessary up to the 4.7 maximum. There being no further discussion, the Chairman declared the hearing closed.

RESOLUTION--PROPERTY TAX RELIEF (#83-034)

Moved by Commissioner Smith that the following resolution be adopted: WHEREAS, the ad valorem property tax of the State of Michigan has become an ever-increasing tax burden which is not related to a person's ability to pay; and

WHEREAS, public outrage against property tax is reaching a rebellious level; and WHEREAS, many proposed constitutional amendments have been presented to the public by the governor, legislature and various citizen groups; and

WHEREAS, these proposed constitutional amendments have been inadequate and have been rejected by the voters of Michigan; and WHEREAS, the property tax is a local tax being levied, collected and distributed by local government; and

WHEREAS, the people in local government are the closest to, and have the most knowledge of, the problems and complexities of the property tax system;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners urges the Michigan Association of Counties (MAC) to take the initiative in creating a joint study committee with the Michigan Township Association (MTA) and the Michigan Municipal League (MML) and the Michigan School Board Association for the purpose of creating a comprehensive property tax proposal to amend the Constitution of the State of Michigan to alleviate an undue hardship on the property tax payers of the State of Michigan;

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Michigan Association of Counties, Michigan Township Association, Michigan Municipal League and the Michigan School Board Association, requesting their support and assistance in instituting this endeavor. There being no objection, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

The Chairman read a letter from Consumers Power Company regarding the Hemingway display in the lobby, indicating they have no objection to its removal to some other location. Commissioner Matthew will check to see if Bay Township would like it.

Commissioner Matthew reported on a recent meeting of the Mental Health Board. He indicated that per diem costs for the various agencies are being brought into line with each other and that new personnel policies are being developed.

The Chairman read copies of three resolutions from Antrim County:

- 1) regarding the appointment of the DNR director, referred to Commissioner Matthew;
- 2) regarding tax reverted lands, referred to Commissioner Smith;
- 3) regarding the State Officers' Compensation Commission, referred to Commissioner Sutliff.

Commissioner Breakey reported on a recent meeting of the Human Services Board at which it was proposed that the agency enter into a five year lease on their headquarters in Traverse City. Moved by Commissioner Sutliff that Commissioner Breakey be instructed to inform the agency that Charlevoix County is opposed to their acceptance of an unbreakable 5 year lease. There being no objections, the Clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot. Motion carried.

The Chairman reported on a meeting of the Manpower Consortium which dealt with the phasing down of CETA and the shift to the new Job Training Partnership Act.

RESOLUTION--RETIREMENT CONTRIBUTION (#83-035)

Moved by Commissioner Sutliff that the following resolution be adopted:

WHEREAS, Charlevoix County is blessed with loyal, hard working, dedicated workers and elected and appointed department heads; and WHEREAS, it is the desire of the Board of Commissioners that these people be justly compensated for their efforts; and

WHEREAS, Charlevoix County is a participating municipality of the Michigan Municipal Employees' Retirement System, established by Act No 135, Public Acts of 1945, as amended; and

WHEREAS, Act No 374, Public Acts of 1974, amended the said Act No 135 to permit participating municipalities to adopt a new contribution program for all members of a bargaining unit as provided in Section 41d of said Act;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Board of Commissioners of the County of Charlevoix does hereby elect to adopt Contribution Program IV, with members contribution 0% of their compensation, effective July 1, 1983 for all members not covered by a labor contract within the County of Charlevoix.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Clerk shall file a certified copy of this resolution with the Michigan Municipal Employees' Retirement Board within 10 days after its adoption. ROLL CALL VOTE: Yeas, 6. Nays, none. Motion carried.

Commissioner Matthew read a letter from the Charlevoix County Soil Erosion Control Officer to the Soil and Water Conservation District regarding enforcement of agriculture soil erosion permits.

Commissioner Smith reported on several matters including the current status of the proposed lamprey wier on the Jordan River; the maintenance of effort lawsuit; the emergency food grant; problems of no-shows on the county work program; and a meeting of the National Association of Counties Board in Wisconsin on July 18. He also indicated that Mr Saworski will be present at the July 13 meeting to answer any questions on the transit report.

Commissioner Harmon reported on a recent meeting of the Road Commission at which the possibility of raising the fee for use of the Ironton Ferry was discussed. It was reported that between April 15 and May 22, 4,480 vehicles crossed, generating revenues of $4,746. The status of the Interlocal Agreement was reviewed briefly; it is in the hands of the Road Commission's attorney.

Commissioner Breakey reviewed several requests from the Sheriff's Department. It has been indicated that there is the possibility of housing a female prisoner for a year which would necessitate the presence of a matron 24 hours a day; should this definitely occur, the Board will meet in special session to resolve the question. Also, the Sheriff is objecting to the incarceration of juveniles until such time as the jail is properly staffed and has adequate facilities to care for them. He has written to Judge Murphy expressing his concerns, particularly in light of the increasing number of juvenile suicides while in custody. Finally, the Sheriff stated he has a problem with staffing during the summer months because he loses one deputy to the marine program. This, with the P.A. 416 officer, one person on duty leave and marine vacations throughout this time, makes him short-handed during his busiest season. It has been recommended that more use be made of the part-time marine deputies during this busy season.

Moved by Commissioner Harmon that the meeting be adjourned. All present in favor.

Next meeting, Wednesday, July 13, 1983 at 9:30 AM.

5.2 million lake trout raised each year by hatchery

BY JIM HEIL

Fishermen trolling on the Great Lakes for lake trout can automatically determine the origin of their catches—provided the fish caught are each missing a fin or two.

Chances are that such trout spend the first months of their lives at the Jordan River Lake Trout Hatchery, a federal government operation deep in the timberlands of Elmira.

Since 1964, the hatchery has been stocking about 3 1/2 million lake trout fingerlings each year. Prior to their release, each fish is handled individually for a quick clipping of one or two fins (depending on the year).

Such tedious work is the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's easiest way of yielding information concerning the lake trout's natural reproduction patterns and other characteristics.

While the clipping is done by a group of temporary employees, the hatchery has a permanent staff of eight who see that the Great Lakes remain well stocked with lake trout. Their responsibilities extend well beyond the close of trout season.

The key determinant in the hatchery's location 20 years ago was an abundant and reliable natural water supply flowing from two springs. As a product of the federal Great Lakes Rehabilitation Program, the facility's builders had to carve through the woods of the Jordan Valley to construct an optimum site.

"You've got to put the hatchery where the good water supply is," says hatchery official Larry Wubbels. "That's the major consideration".

Today, a two-mile-long winding road off of U.S. Route 131 takes workers and visitors to the hatchery. It is obviously not a big tourist attraction, as it normally has just a few visitors each summer day.

Most of the hatchery's staff are practically living with the fish around the clock. The complex has five government-owned houses in which staff and their families stay throughout the year.

Without this easy accessibility to the hatchery, the staff would have great difficulty arriving to work during the winter months.

While the hatchery staff won't be restocking the Great Lakes with trout until October, they are continually preparing the new fish supply.

The hatchery—presently the largest of its kind in Michigan—has a series of outdoor cement raceways which contain brood stock (trout used for spawning) and fingerlings. The raceways currently are not filled to full capacity, but they should be by August.

In late July, those fingerlings now in the hatchery's indoor facility will be transferred to the outdoor runs, where they'll stay until they're ready for a natural habitat.

Stocking the lakes twice a year keeps the hatchery's raceways from becoming overcrowded. In October, 11-month-old trout are released, while 16- to 18-month-old trout are released from mid-April to late June.

The impressive brood stock at the hatchery can easily cause a fisherman to dream. The larger trout—some of them eight-year veterans of the hatchery—have grown to more than two feet long.

The brood stock remain in the raceways virtually throughout their lives, even through the coldest winter months. The fairly constant temperature of the spring water (between 40 and 50 degrees) keeps the raceways from freezing over.

In the summer months, the sun can often be a hindrance to the trout. Sun rays can deteriorate their scales, as well as cause cataracts which can lead to blindness.

The trout will normally hide from the sun by seeking refuge under several floating boards set in the raceways.

With spawning season coming up in the early fall, those trout which are at least three years old, will have their eggs or milt (sperm) extracted. This is one of the longest single tasks of the hatchery's staff, as it requires them to handle each adult trout individually.

Each sexually mature fish is anesthetized before being artificially spawned. Because of simple spawning methods, each fish is only out of water for a few minutes at most.

The female is spawned by injecting a small amount of air into her body cavity through a hypodermic needle. The slight pressure created gently forces her eggs out into a shallow pan. A five-pound female produces about 12,000 eggs.

Meanwhile, milt is collected from male fish by suction into a small bottle. Several eyedroppers full of milt are mixed with each pan of eggs to fertilize them.

The fertilized eggs are then placed in incubators inside the hatchery building. The incubator, resembling a chest of drawers, also houses the fertilized eggs from two smaller Michigan trout hatcheries.

A continual flow of well-oxygenated 45-degree water is passed through the eggs to incubate them. The trout eggs take about 10 weeks to hatch.

With spawning out of the way, the hatchery's staff's next major task is stocking the Great Lakes in October. Fewer trout are released in the fall than in the spring, but the staff's routine is the same.

Rather than counting the fish, the staff estimates the number released by weight. About 30 of the 11-month fingerlings equals one pound, as the weighing occurs in a net as the young trout are loaded into a tank truck parked along the raceways.

The truck's payload can be tilted, forcing out as many as 40,000 fish within five minutes through a circular opening when the fish are released to the lakes.

Trout stocking specialists have made recent findings which radically changed the traditional means of stocking the fish. They found that trout released along shores tended to spawn in that area. This threatened the trout's reproduction potential, as the fish naturally spawns along offshore reefs.

Hatchery personnel started correcting this error recently by releasing trout off of boats. The favored method is stocking the lakes from ferry boats, as tank trucks can back up to the boat's side and dump its entire load into deep water.

The U.S. Coast Guard also cooperates with the hatchery by serving as a trout transporter. This requires extra care, as the fish go through additional stress while being moved from the tank truck to special boat tanks.

"We're not going to raise fish for up to 18 months and then have them die," Wubbels says.

Of the 5.2 million fingerlings which leave the Jordan Valley hatchery each year, about one-third of them are brought to the two other federally operated trout hatcheries in Michigan. Both are in the Upper Peninsula.

The remaining trout are released in all five Great Lakes, with Lake Michigan receiving the lion's share. Of the 88.5 million trout released by the Jordan Valley hatchery since its inception, nearly half of them went to Lake Michigan.

Despite such impressive figures, Wubbels says the potential for natural reproduction could be greater if fishermen released those lake trout catches that aren't sexually mature. Lake trout weighing less than six pounds most likely have not reached adulthood, he says.

"We have to limit the take somehow if we're going to build up the spawning population," he contends. "You have to have some public support of limiting harvests of young fish."

The Great Lakes trout population may soon be enhanced by the present construction of the Iron River Lake Trout Hatchery in upper Wisconsin. But Wubbels says cooperation from fishermen is necessary to keep trout numbers from dwindling.

"I've always felt it's an important program to build up fish supplies," he says. "It's good for the economy."

On Dean's list

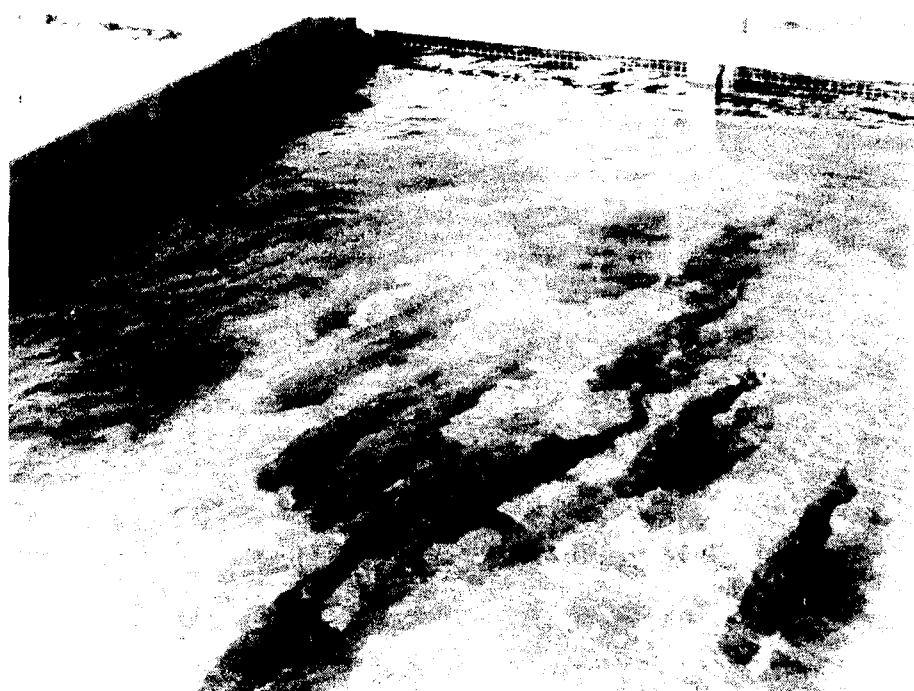

Graceland College in Lamoni, Iowa, has announced that Terri Louise Landon of Boyne City has been named to the honor's list. She is the daughter of Thomas and Lenore Landon.

Steven Dean Morgan, Boyne City, has been named to the dean's list. He is the son of David and Marlene Morgan.

Those listed on the Dean's List achieved a grade point average between 3.25 and 3.64; those named to the Honor's List achieved a grade point average between 3.65 and 3.99.

Cleaning out the outdoor fish raceways at the Jordan River Lake Trout Hatchery is one task undertaken before the spawning season begins. The decaying cement walls are considered a minor problem, and they'll probably be patched up before long.

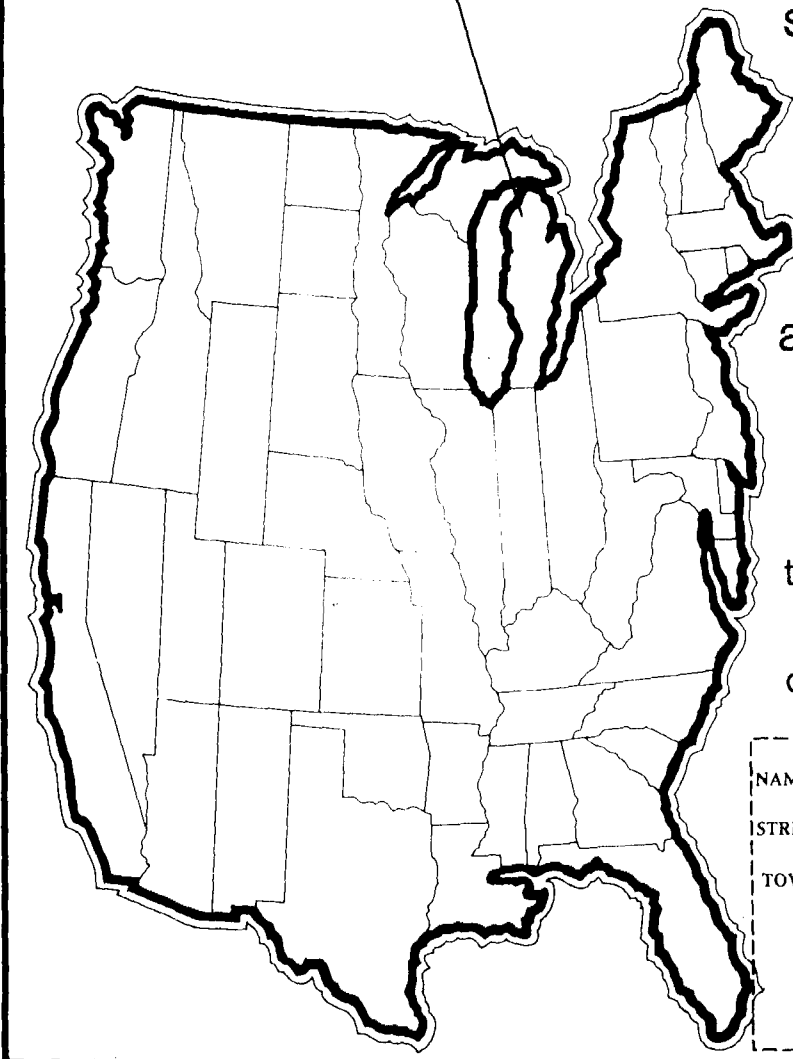

Some of the smaller brood stock at the Jordan River Lake Trout Hatchery swim about in one of the hatchery's several outdoor fish raceways. The adult fish—some of which have grown to beyond two feet—are spawned in the early fall to produce about 5.2 million fingerlings each year.

East Jordan cheer leaders earned second place over all

On their final evening at cheerleaders' camp, put on by United States Cheerleaders Association, the East Jordan cheerleading team was awarded second place over-all trophy. They also received the award for the most enthusiastic team at camp and first place over-all on their pom-pom routine.

This all puts the squad in the position of eligibility for the national competition in August in Lansing.

In addition, according to the team advisor, Phyllis Hammond, cheer-leader Ronette Bennett qualified for individual competition at Lansing when she won a fourth place out of a field of 150.

The Association camp was held July 6-9 at Traverse City community college. Training on all three days started with 7 a.m. breakfast and went to 5:30 p.m.

Evenings were for competition among the 13 teams participating. Then, Hammond said, yet another training session followed competition.

During evening competitions, East Jordan came off with two second place ribbons and two first place ribbons.

Bennett and Kelley Healey also received camp talent ribbons.

With so much success behind them, the team members are plunging into a round of fundraising to get them to Lansing. Car washes, pop can collections, "and donations readily accepted," said Hammond.

Dates of fund raisers are:

Saturday, July 23 and July 30: Car wash at the Northwestern State Bank parking lot, 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Tuesday, July 26: Pop can drive, 6:30-9:30 p.m. The girls will be going door to door in East Jordan collecting returnable bottles and cans that anyone would like to donate.

Former resident awarded national honor

The United States Achievement Academy announced that Thomas H. Hamlin has been named to the 1983 United States National Award winners in physical education.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. Less than 10 percent of all high school students are recognized by the academy.

Winners are recommended by coaches and teachers and the selection is based on the student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit and dependability.

Tom is the son of Herb and Joyce Hamlin, former residents of Springwater Beach in Boyne City. He attended school in Boyne City before moving to Eustis for high school.

Charlevoix Hospice granted tax exempt status

Charlevoix County Hospice's hope to begin serving the needs of terminally ill people and their families by this fall was given a boost with the granting of federal and state tax exempt status.

Charlevoix County Hospice, which was formally organized last year, has sought tax exempt status in order to raise necessary funds to underwrite the training of volunteers and other expenses preparatory to making their services available.

The achievement of tax exempt status was announced at the annual meeting of the organization in late June.

It was also announced that the East Jordan Family Health Center has made office space available and a telephone has been installed so persons wishing to assist Hospice or learn more about its work may call Charlevoix County Hospice Director Kathleen Smith at 536-2842.

New members of the board of directors were announced and officers elected at the June annual meeting.

David Strawbridge, D.D.S., Charlevoix, Ellen Addington, Ellsworth, and Thomas Anderson, an attorney in Boyne City were elected to the board. Camille Green, Charlevoix, and Carol McTaggart were re-elected to the board.

Charlevoix County Hospice officers for 1983-84 are: Carol McTaggart, president; Camille Green, vice president; Ellen Addington, treasurer; Carol Allport, secretary.

Dorothy Pelton, director of the East Jordan Senior Citizen Center, and Hospice board member, will serve as chairperson for the education and training committee; Charles McDowell, chairman of the board of Northwestern State Bank, will continue to serve as chairperson of the finance committee; Dr. Strawbridge has agreed to chair the patient and family service committee;

Dionne outlines EJ improvements

Trying to talk to East Jordan city superintendent Mike Dionne is often a matter of taking notes as he is departing for somewhere.

Last time, asking what's new brought these items to be ticked off: 100 percent increase in parking at the Tourist Park. New roof on the Tourist Park recreation building. New walk around the shore front. New island. New promontory. And a resulting new quiet anchorage.

The old caretakers' building was moved out and new office facilities set up. More sanitary facilities, and 17,500 square feet of new picnic area, Dionne said, winding up the list.

Dionne noted it was $50,000 worth of work accomplished with less than $25,000. Of the $25,000, 80 percent was state money from the Coastal Zone Division, and the other 20 percent "mainly in-kind services" on the part of the city, Dionne said.

What else is new? City dock renovated. New finger slips. Airport lighting is in. Well house #1 has had wiring replaced, new ventilators, new insulation.

Volunteers, giving time as "good neighbors" will assist people and their families in a variety of ways from helping with meals and friendly visits to running errands or babysitting. The Hospice professional team, who also serve as volunteers, will provide services ranging from medical needs to assistance with insurance and obtaining any special equipment.

The Hospice concept is to offer an alternative to the terminally ill so they may choose to live their life until its end at home, with their families in familiar and comfortable surroundings. Hospice's focus is on the quality of life remaining.

That reminded Dionne of the reservoir job. "First time it was completely drained in about 50 years—since it was built." The department of public works scrupulously cleaned it. The reservoir also got a new roof this year.

Going back over the year, Dionne came up with: new Norway maples—55 of them—planted along city streets—and the new Towering Blue Spruce which will be used as a Christmas tree downtown.

He noted the city had a restored and more efficient DPW garage and police/ambulance buildings.

The department has also restored nine pieces of equipment from a 1967 pickup truck to a high-ranger. "More cost-efficient to restore them."

The DPW built a brine tanker for dust control, and installed a sprinkler system in the GAR park, where the city also put in benches.

Saying something about Elm Pointe parking lot as he left, Dionne disappeared through the city hall door.

Oh, well, catch him at city council meeting.

It's a play at the plate and the runner is.....! The play turned out to be a crucial one in Boyne City's one-run loss to Tri-Rivers.

The 13-year-old Senior League players saw their season come to a close last week when they lost a heartbreaker to Tri-Rivers at Indian River. Here, a Tri-Rivers player swipes second base in a close play.

Boyne batters blasted in Districts

Boyne City All-Star teams came up with the short end of the bat last week in their first taste of district tournament play. Both teams lost, although one of them went to the seventh inning before falling behind.

Leading the Boyne All-Stars with hits was Brandon Billings who had two for the afternoon game. Chris Reich added one more hit for Boyne in the losing effort that ended the team's play.

Thursday, the younger team of the Senior League Division traveled up to Indian River and lost a thriller to Tri-Rivers, 5 to 4.

Boyne led the game until the top of the seventh when the Tri-River team drove two runs in to go ahead in the game. The one run advantage proved to be all it took as Boyne couldn't muster a drive to even up the score.

Leading the 13-year-olds in hitting was Kevin Beebe who socked the ball for a double. Singles were hit by Kevin Zimmerman, Keoki Kuheana, Jim Stackus, and Brian Napont.

Both teams were managed by Bud Beebe and coached by Tom Hennessy.
