Parents ask Boyne for third 5th grade class

A contingent of parents of fifth grade students spoke at the Boyne City school board meeting Monday night about their concern over the size of the classes.

Superintendent Rich Kelly explained that the total class size had dwindled to 58 by last year, so that although they had previously been divided into three classes, the number no longer warranted that.

Enrollment this fall, however, went up to 62, making 31 in each of the two classes. Parents and teachers objected to the size, even though they agreed the students were academically better than average. They said the teachers could not give sufficient individual attention to the top and bottom students within the 45 minutes of class time.

Other considerations were named: increased discipline problems and a need for a sense of stability before the jump next year to middle school.

Board members said they want the school to hold a high standard. They also pointed out union requirements and the present line-up of teachers would not make the switch to three classes at all simple. Possibly six classes could be affected.

The board may meet in a special session next week to resolve the problem.

As a consequence of a recent in-service meeting for teachers and administrators on assertive discipline, the middle school set up a committee to organize a policy to present to the elementary and high schools.

The policy will then go before the board for adoption, and letters will go out to parents.

Following a closed session, the board announced approval of a teacher aide contract for July 1983 to June 1984, giving a probationary level salary of $4.41 per hour, and going up to fourth year level at $5.49 per hour. The aides will also receive retirement benefits, single subscriber medical and hospital insurance, and paid holidays.

Appointed as volunteer coaches for middle school were: Jeff Evans for football, Ted Bayer, Jamie Vroman, and Ted Penny for sixth, seventh, and eighth grade girls' basketball. High school may get a ski coach, principal Rick Casper said, but no coaches are available for volleyball, wrestling, or ninth grade basketball.

The board also heard:

--Jan Biddick, Title I Coordinator is conducting an evening course for divorced parents, and for children of divorced parents during the day.

--Elementary school open house will be Wednesday, October 27.

--Middle school Challenge Program has started.

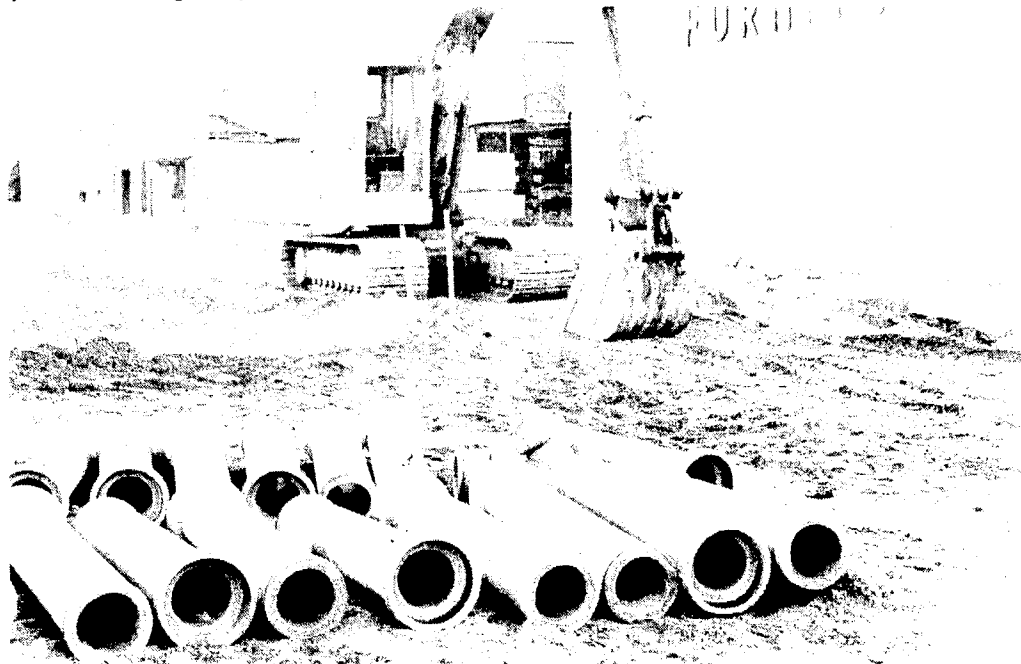

--Community education programs are filling the East Jordan and Boyne City schools in the evenings with a total of 21 enrichment classes and 28 high school completion classes.

--An inquiry about having a parent-school discussion group received such a big response, meetings will be scheduled for after the series on divorced parenting has finished.

--A landscape program for the front of the school, supported by donations, will get under way under the direction of Chuck Williams, landscaper, and Pat Wulff, parent.

--The 14 parents who have volunteered to help out in the elementary school library are making a big difference, according to principal Ed Snyder.

installed in place of the PVC pipe due to the presence of gasoline in the area.

Commissioners meet on Lake St. gas problem

After a special emergency meeting that was held last Friday afternoon, the Boyne City commissioners voted to spend an additional $3,500 to replace water and sewer lines due to the discovery of gasoline residues in the soil on the S. Lake Street project.

The gasoline was discovered in the soil during the construction of the sewer line when fumes from the gas were reported by workers from the C.H. Smith Company near the intersection of Ray and S. Lake.

After the discovery, eight test wells were constructed to find out where the gas was coming from and how much was in the soil. One of the test holes discovered gas in the front of Dr. Mellon's office at the corner of Main and S. Lake.

At the meeting, it was speculated that the gas was from a tank rupture at a gas station which used to be located where Dr. Mellon's office is presently located. The gas worked its way downhill through the soil to where it was found in front of Barrett's of Boyne Furniture.

According to project engineer, Phil Becker, of Granger Engineering, the gas was then blocked from further travel through the soil by a rise in a strata of marl that made a dam under the roadway.

Since the appearance to the gasoline was speculation, the engineers and the construction company don't know where the gas is actually from.

The money that the council agreed to spend will be used to replace 100 feet of a sanitary sewer line that was already installed with vitrified clay pipe. The installed line is made out of Poly-vinyl-chloride, a type of plastic that can disintegrate in the presence of gasoline.

Also included in the amount authorized by the city, is the replacement of a PVC water line in the area of Dr. Mellon's office. That was about 70 feet of pipe which wasn't installed until Saturday. The line was replaced with ductile metal pipe.

The meeting was called because of the gas problem and in the discussion at the meeting, the commissioners agreed to follow the recommendation of the engineering firm which was to only replace the lines in the areas of concern.

The other alternative was to replace both the sanitary and the water lines for the entire length of the block at a cost of approximately $10,000 and would have delayed the project's completion until next spring.

That alternative was recommended by the DNR.

The DNR also told Mel Howard of Mel's gas station, that he would have to replace the underground tanks that store the gasoline for his station. He agreed to do it even after another DNR employee inspected the test wells and found no evidence that any of the tanks were leaking and causing the problem.

Steve Smith of the C.H. Smith Company, the contractor for the job, said that even with the rain delays and the additional work, he still thinks that the project can be completed by the first of November.

Township landfill ordinance draws owners ire

The owner of Charlevoix Garbage Service expressed opposition to Eveline Township's proposed sanitary landfill ordinance at the October 13 township meeting. Dawson Way, whose licensed landfill is located near Ironton, came to the meeting with his attorneys and asked that the ordinance be submitted to the state's attorney general as a check on its legality.

"If you're going to enforce something," Way said, "you have to make sure it is enforceable." He pointed out the wording was different from that of its model.

The ordinance originated in the county planning department and covers the same ground as does the state's Public Act 641 regulating landfills. The purpose of the ordinance is to allow the township to enforce Act 641 regulations, instead of waiting for the Department of Natural Resources to step in to do it.

Way's attorneys say an expensive court suit might find the ordinance is pre-empting state powers, interviewed later by phone, one of the attorneys, Robert Hoffman, said that regardless of the fact that the ordinance might not be contradicting state law, it could still be a case of pre-empting.

Residents of the township, who live near the landfill, claim that Way is not following state regulations in his operations. They fear that their wells will become contaminated as have wells near other landfills, and they say they haven't been able to get the DNR to take any action on the problem.

"I have talked to 26 different public officials about this," said spokesman Lee Arnold, "with no results. But the landfill looks better than it did six months ago."

Five residents, living near the landfill, have had the district health department run tests on their well water. The department tested for bacteria and some of the chemicals classed as toxic and found the water to be safe.

"We'll have to wait for the DNR to test for the rest of the chemicals," said Arnold. But even if the water is

Boyne Falls sets discipline procedure for students

Boyne Falls teachers have adopted a plan for progressive discipline, school principal Joel Donaldson told school board members Monday night.

"Teachers were surveyed following the September 17 in-service day on assertive discipline in East Jordan and were all very excited about following through with a system where individual teachers share their discipline plan with students," Donaldson said.

According to Donaldson, all discipline will be progressive, defined to the students and followed through when disruptions occur. All teachers are allowed to individually maintain classroom rules for expected behavior, but no more than five rules should be defined so that students may have a clear and basic understanding of them.

"It's a progressive plan for positive reinforcement," Donaldson said. "The East Jordan presentation didn't teach us anything new, but it gave us a good handle on what should be going on in the classroom."

"The new discipline plan went into effect October 1, and thus far no detentions have occurred compared to 17 last October," Donaldson said. "This is a good indicator that we're doing things right."

Superintendent Carl Moser added that positive reinforcement is as much a deterrent against discipline problems as assertive discipline and he is very pleased to see teachers sending students to the principal for praise as well as reprimand.

"I feel this is a very healthy and positive step toward curbing discipline problems," Moser said.

The next month will be busy for teachers and administrators in Boyne Falls as they prepare for a University of Michigan accreditation check.

"It has been three years since we had our last check," Donaldson said. "It's expected that a team will come at some time this fall in order that we get a report by spring."

The accreditation check comes with a $157 fee which was approved among other school bills including a $750 energy audit. A meeting has been set for November 27, to discuss possible directions for making the school building more energy efficient.

"Steps will have to be taken," superintendent Moser said, "if the school is to economically survive the utility increases. In our present condition estimated utility costs over the next five years could amount to over $30,000."

The board awarded the winter snow removal bid to Paul Snyder for $30 per visit. This was the only bid received.

The fourth Friday enrollment count for Boyne Falls was reported to be 282 over the last count of 280. Two new students have been enrolled in the secondary level and one kindergarten student, according to Donaldson.

A request for the use of the school cafeteria by a community member was denied by the board in order to keep a precedence over private enterprise and real community need for the building facilities.

The board postponed discussion on summer tax collection until further data can be gathered. According to Moser a 50 percent summer tax collection could possibly curtail the need for the district to borrow.

Representatives from Mr. Morgridge's seventh grade classes at the Boyne City Middle School present the first check to Vera Tokoly for the Boyne Historical Museum Fund. Representing their classes were Eric Davidoff, Melissa Meads, and Heather Martin. Missing from the picture was Kelsey Bonney. Looking on is another member of the historical commission, Thelma Bekling. The students pledge and check will be on a plaque that is inscribed "Class of '89."

MICHIGAN APPLE ORCHARDS

On a recent trip to my childhood home I discovered that a storm had taken down all of the old apple trees, there was no orchard left. I was saddened and reminded that one cannot look back, and I believe it, however we can recall the good things of an older time with pleasure and maybe learn a little from the experience. Now when the leaves are changing and the days are becoming a little crisp cool; it is the time to visit one of our local cider mills, drink that delicious sweet cider, eat a doughnut for a bit of nostalgia and perhaps buy an apple pie.

Our forefathers did not depend on Johnny Appleseed to plant seeds along their roads. They planted complete orchards with a wonderful variety of all kinds of fruits on their new farms. I often wonder about the man who planted our orchard. He must have been a man of vision; I like to think that his good wife helped him choose the varieties as there were ripe apples for the entire summer season and for every possible use. By the time we moved to Silverwood in the early twenties the orchard was getting old, but still producing those wonderful apples. How I loved them and learned to climb almost every tree. I still recall the fright that I felt when I climbed one and was afraid to climb down and screamed for help until Mother came to catch me when I dropped to the ground.

The first apples to ripen were the Red Astrakhans, they were not quite so tasty as some that followed though they made the most delicious fresh applesauce. Then the Yellow Transparents, those apples were a softer sweeter apple, out of this world for eating. This tree produced apples only every second year and we looked forward to them. The Sheeps' Nose and Maiden Blush apples ripened between the early and late ones and were very beautiful in color and flavor. Later in the fall were the Snow apples; bright red outside with snow white within. They had a winey flavor and so very sweet. They made the best cider, along with the Wagners, each kind had a little different flavor. Then the big red Ben Davis and the Greenings with no color but great for baking, also the Russett Sweet apples which Mother baked with cider.

Last but not least were the Northern Spies; the perfect apples for pies and they were good "keepers" in our cellar all winter. I still like to buy Northern Spies for pies and wonder just how they arrived at the name. Spies are the perfect choice to use for this

DEEP DISH APPLE PIE

8 tart apples
1 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon butter

Pare apples, core and cut in thin slices. Put in a baking dish about 3 inches deep. Add sugar and spices and dot with bits of butter. Cover with plain pastry, trim edge and press with the tines of a fork. Prick top to allow steam to escape. Bake in a quick oven 425 degrees F. and bake about 10 minutes. Lower heat to 375 degrees and bake 30 minutes longer or until apples are tender. Delicious hot or cold. The old timers liked whipped cream on this luscious pie.

I came upon this old recipe in Mother's hand writing on a card yellow with age. How about making this

It reminds me of a girl I knew who wanted to be an athlete, but she looked like an exotic Eastern princess. She had a terrible time getting the field hockey coach to put her in as halfback.

With many people the drive to accomplish something isn't big enough to go against their appearance.

How lucky people are who look like what they are. The judge-type who is actually a judge. The dignified woman who is actually a corporation executive. The Brenda Starr, Reporter, who really is a knockout.

Maybe it was hard to take Hitler seriously at first. That little mustache and the funny hair. They say Napoleon was put down by classmates in military school because he was so short. Did he over-compensate?

Plenty of funny-looking men have made it to the top, but it took more work than usual.

With women it is a new thing to think about. Does a woman give up on the battle to be beautiful? Can she at last concentrate on something besides eyelashes and a straight nose? Something like a career in civil engineering?

Right now, she's trying to do both. Except some, like Agnes Mansour, who are really too busy.

Maybe eventually looks won't matter at all. Take Zeebo. His family just adores him. They see his splendor.

Engaged? Married?

The Charlevoix County Press publishes engagement and wedding announcements without charge.

Pictures are welcomed, but we do suggest a few guidelines. Good quality black and white photographs, either of the couple or bride-elect, are preferred. All photographs are kept on file in the Press office and may be picked up at any time following publication; those pictures not picked up after six months will be discarded.

Wedding and engagement announcement forms are available at our office or will be mailed upon request and the receipt of a self-addressed stamped envelope.

While we try to publish each announcement the week that we receive it (and in the case of weddings, the first publication date following the ceremony), space constraints sometimes force us to delay the printing of the announcement for one or two weeks. Therefore, we ask that information be received at least two weeks before the intended publication so that we might better plan for its publication.

We will not accept wedding announcements received more than four weeks after the wedding.

Marshall Sayles

I hate to admit it, but I fear I'm getting old. My head wants to get up before breakfast, but my body wants to lie there until noon.

What's the matter with computers? Nothing. They are doing many wonderful things to better our lives and promise to accomplish more miracles in the future.

Then why is there a general upheaval of my whole being when someone mentions them? There isn't really. It's just that I do not care for the way pitchmen talk about them.

Young folks are being bombarded with talk about their being lost if they cannot operate a computer when they go hat in hand for a job. Learn to operate a computer in high school or college or you'll be "out of it". Computers are the wave of the future, so get with it. All kinds of stuff like that is being used as a club over a young person's head—often by computer salesmen.

One gets to thinking that within a few years if you cannot operate a computer, you'll either be in the unemployment line or running for some office that will guarantee you three squares a day. If that is true, more than half of the country's work force will be unemployed.

When I was very young, I was told that if I did not learn to typewrite my working future would be a mess. Not wanting a messy future, I learned to type. Others did not and they made more money than I've ever seen.

I know a man who cannot type and who refuses to have anything to do with computers. He learned how to boil beans. He's good at it. People buy his beans. And he is quite happy with his work. Now his son is learning to boil beans.

I would like to hear what the computer pushers have to say about the future bean boilers of America.

An elderly man about my age gave me "what for" because I had clapped my hands over the on-going improvement of Lake Street. If there's anything I can't stand, it's people who live to a ripe old rage.

Now hear this. Under present law, you must come to a stop at a red light and, if no car is coming, you may turn right while the light is still red. You will notice that I said you must come to a stop. I was going through a green light when a fellow turned right on red without slowing down. If I hadn't hit the brake, he would have sent me to Maple Lawn by the way of Stackus Funeral Home. I've seen too many drivers turn right on red without slowing down.

If I were a Judge and one such drive came before me, I would hand down some cruel and unusual punishment, like sentencing him to sit through ten city commission meetings, with a stern warning to keep all side remarks to himself.

Me: When my time comes, if I can't take it with me I shall not go.

He: Why do you insist upon taking it with you when you know that it will sit there and melt?

Remembrances

While it ended up as the Beulah Home for Boys, this structure which was built back in the early 1800s, started off as H.B. Chapman's Hotel. It was located in the then thriving Bay Springs area which evolved into being called North Boyne. It is now part of the city and the hotel/home was located at the corner of Silver and John Streets. The hotel was built in the hopes that it would attract tourists, then veterans of the Civil War, before being sold in 1904 to become the home for boys. It was run by Herman Swift and was supported by the benevolent people of Boyne City. The first year, 98 boys made the building their home, attending school for six days a week from eight in the morning to four in the afternoon. The building had the only swimming pool in northern Michigan. The school and the building were closed in 1912. It was razed a few years after that and the lumber was carted to Charlevoix to help construct the Belvedere Club Casino.

BY JIM SILBAR

What is my mother going to do? I say that only because I have noticed that the Maytag Company is stopping the production of wringer type washers.

The last time she had to buy a washer, one had to be special ordered for her because, "that is the kind I am used to, and that is what I want."

It's not that she wasn't getting a good wash with some new-fangled automatic thing that would do everything but fold the clothes, but that old wringer washer in the basement was just the thing that she was used to using her whole married life.

Of course I can see why the company is stopping production of that type of washer, it was probably the reason that the Maytag advertising agency came up with the loneliest repairman campaign that they have been using for many years.

The darn thing just doesn't break down, I guess.

Another reason why they are stopping production is that all those machines that don't break down are still out in the homes being used all the time. And that is bad for a company that plans to sell us new and improved models each year.

I would venture that in my lifetime, our family had maybe two washers, and those were used severely as there were two boys who got into an awful lot of dirt. I know that for a fact because I was always building forts, caves, and when it rained, dams to stop the water before it flowed down the storm sewer.

And I caught a few slaps to make me remember.

Hey, do you want to get ahead of your neighbors? Do you want to be a step ahead of everybody else? Do you want to be really on top of things? Here is an easy way to do all those things and really get ahead of the crowd.

All you have to do is to set your clock back one hour a couple of weeks ahead of everybody else when they do it at the end of the month.

That way, you will be an hour behind the folks, but, at the same time, you will be ahead of the game.

Only because you will have done things before the other folks.

Those that do this, are also those who probably rake their lawn seven times during the fall to keep up with the leaves, wash their clothes in that old Maytag, even before they run out of clean socks, and are a step ahead anyway.

Tips on how to write letters to Editor

(Editor's note: The following tips were compiled from a public service campaign by International Paper, Inc. It includes information and tips on writing letters to the editor.)

When should you write letters to the editor?

Try it when you have a strong positive or negative opinion about a story, an editorial, or another letter in the newspaper.

Write when you have a strong comment or a new perspective about other events in the news, be they local or international.

Also, write when a publication makes a factual error that concerns you; or when you want to thank the paper for doing a particularly fine job or for supporting your point of view.

What's the most effective way to get started?

Don't procrastinate. News is perishable. So are letters about the news.

Read other letters to the editor in the publication that interests you. Figure out what approaches and what subjects seem to work best.

Do what professional writers do: start with a rough draft if you have time. Then refine your arguments and syntax and prepare the letter you will send.

What's the best format?

Be brief, concise. One typed page or two handwritten pages are plenty. Strive for neatness and legibility, with margins all around.

White paper is preferred. Personal stationery is appropriate too.

What should be included?

Start with a salutation. It's hard to go wrong with "Dear editor" or "To the Editor."

Refer to the subject and date, if you are commenting about something that appeared earlier. Thus, letters might begin with, "In your Dec. 21 editorial, you said..." or "I challenge the facts" and reasoning in John Smith's Dec. 15 letter about..." But don't spend too much of your valuable space recounting an argument with which you disagree.

Write a clear statement of your point of view, plus as much elaboration as you can offer in a brief message. Try to build on just one main idea.

Include your name, address, and phone number. Also identify your affiliation if you are writing for an organization or company.

Attach supporting material only if you believe it is essential. (Remember, the goal is to get your letter published so you can share your beliefs with others.)

What's the best tone for a letter?

When starting your draft, you might imagine you are talking face-to-face with the editor. In such situations, most of us probably would be straightforward, yet polite. So, it's wise to steer clear of irrelevancies, personal criticisms and such negative approaches as, "You people don't know what you're talking about" or "Your recent editorial was sheer stupidity."

The watchwords for writing letters to editors include reasonableness, honesty, balanced arguments and so on. State your facts accurately, whether drawn from relevant sources or personal experiences.

In truth, those are all characteristics we like to see in news coverage and editorials, too. Sometimes it's difficult to follow such guidance when a problem is really gnawing on us. But it's worth it when writing to a newspaper.

Give praise if it's deserved, too; and support the editorial stand of a newspaper if it's an issue about which you feel strongly.

What will happen to your letter?

Most likely, your letter will be read at a weekly newspaper by the editor. They might choose to run the entire letter; they might edit it and run key points; or they might not run it at all. Reasons why a letter might not appear include: too many letters on the same subject, limited newspaper space, an unclear point of view, too long a letter, too messy, or many others. (Try not to get discouraged if you don't make it into print. Keep in mind that your letter might have some impact, even if it isn't printed.)

What else can you do?

Write to other newspapers, if appropriate, or to special interest magazines. Writing too many letters to one publication, however, is an easy way to get the label of "crank."

Get friends who share your point of view to write. But ask them to write their own letters rather than copying a "formula" piece. A disservice will be done to your cause if everyone sends the same letter.

All in all, writing letters to the editor provides unique opportunities to comment and be active in the political government arena. Its impact can be as significant as door-belling and signature-gathering, and even more so, yet it's something that can be done effectively right from home.

Letters to the editor, handwritten or typed, are a welcome and important part of this paper. They should be under 750 words in length and signed by the writer, although he or she for special reasons may request that the name not be printed. The paper reserves the right to edit material.

Letters

Editor,

In these critical times when we are all concerned about nuclear warfare, our depressed economy, high unemployment, high crime rate, moral decay, etc., I would like to bring public recognition to a volunteer group of people who were working for free at the Boyne City Community Service Center at the Seventh Day Adventist Church on Park St. Last month at the cheese and grocery giveaway, they served 700 people in one day. Two women were handing out forms to the applicants to determine eligibility, and helping them fill them out when it was necessary. They ran out of typed forms and had to come up with hand written ones in hurry. Their smiling faces and willing attitude was a lesson in diligence. The fact that they were working as volunteers for no wage was a lesson in Christian service. The men and women in the supply room who were checking the forms and handling the food were certainly the busiest I have seen in a long time. Especially the young men who carried the groceries to the cars for the senior citizens and the handicapped, are to be highly commended. This is a very kind and thoughtful service and much appreciated. I wondered how many people who were being served realized that without these volunteers, this program could not exist. How many of us can honestly say that we are deserving as applicants for all of this free service? I have seen all kinds of people work at all kinds of jobs, but I have never seen people work as hard for wages as these people were working for free to serve their neighbors. It is time they were recognized and thanked!

Members of the Off Bridge Street Artists cooperative gallery in Charlevoix treated interested spectators to a demonstration of the ancient art of glass blowing over the weekend at Koucky's Crockery in East Jordan. The show, coordinated by Chuck and Nancy Koucky, was the fourth annual event of its kind.

Because of a power failure Friday morning the show was nearly canceled and the artists were kept busy looking for generators to run the 2400 degree furnace which held the melting glass.

The glass, which initially begins as a mixture of chemicals in powder form, requires a 12 hour preparation period and must be constantly heated. Friday's power failure came close to being a real disaster for the artists, threatening the furnace as the hot mixture of glass began solidifying inside.

By Saturday all was running smoothly again and the process of creating various shaped vases, paper weights and unique glass sculptures out of hot molten glass was under way. Spectators were invited to watch as the artists took turns at an art form which most rarely get the opportunity to practice.

With a long blow pipe the glass is gathered into a hot glowing ball which is then cooled with a blocking tool. The blocking tool is an object resembling a ladle made out of hard wood which must always be kept wet to prevent cracking. Then the glass is blown through the long tube to expand the glass. The size and thickness of the piece are determined by the amount of gathers of glass the artist puts on.

When the glass is finally formed to the artist's design it is placed in an annealing oven where it is cooled slowly beginning at 800 or 900 degrees. As the piece cools, the temperature is slowly lowered until the object is finally cooled.

Vince Perricanao, the newest member of the gallery and a professional glass blower, explained that glass blowing has evolved over thousands of years and was used by the Egyptians and the Babylonians. "It's not certain how it actually evolved," said Vince, "the process probably came about when someone built a hot fire in sand."

The process of glass blowing which was demonstrated over the weekend differs from that which most of us may be familiar with from fairs and other displays where delicate little pieces are blown with a torch. "This process requires higher temperatures, more equipment and energy,"

Off Bridge Street Artists treated the public to a display of glass blowing over the weekend at Koucky's Crockery in East Jordan. Here Koucky works gathers of hot glass to create a vase.

Blown glass pieces are on display and available for purchase at the Off Bridge Street Artists gallery located at 104 Clinton in Charlevoix. Along with blown glass you'll find jewelry, pottery, weaving, cast bronze, photography and painting which represent the many talents of these artists.

Bell to switch to new office Saturday

Sometime in the middle of the night on Saturday, a switch will be made and a whole new world of telephones will open up for those in the 582 calling exchange, according to officials from Michigan Bell Telephone.

The switch will be made putting the new electronic switching office that the firm has been building for the past year on line and working.

E.W. Reid, Michigan Bell's local corporate affairs manager, said the new equipment will bring some 3000 customers in the Boyne City exchange optional calling services such as push button phones, and four custom calling features.

When the equipment is placed in service, the first thing customers will notice is a lower pitched dial tone when they pick up the receiver, Reid said.

Another change with the new equipment is that customers will no longer be able to "short dial." That is, dialing a 2- and then the last four digits of the number. "Customers will have to dial all seven numbers or the call will not go through," Reid emphasized. The change to the seven digit dialing makes the Boyne City office consistent with other local services across the country, he said.

"The phones in Boyne City are part of the nationwide telephone switching network—the world's largest and most complex machine," Reid explained. "To keep a machine of this size functioning efficiently, there has to be standardization of its parts. Seven-digit dialing is part of that standardization."

Reid predicted that seven-digit dialing quickly will become second nature to local customers, adding that "the benefits of the electronic switching equipment will be well worth the extra two numbers."

With the existing equipment, some customers had phones that rang in sets of two rings. But with the new system, all one-party and two-party customers will have one-ring signaling, Reid said.

The new electronic switcher will work faster and more efficiently than the electromechanical equipment it is replacing. It can serve up to 5,000 customer lines and handle as many as 10,000 calls an hour.

The electronic equipment also will continuously monitor its own performance and automatically alert telephone company workers if it detects a problem.

Staff Sgt. Robert V. Gee, son of Dale A. and Maxine E. Gee of East Jordan, has graduated from the Air Force non-commissioned officer leadership school at Lowry Air Force Base, Colo.

The sergeant studied techniques of leadership, management and supervision.

Gee is a refrigeration technician with the 1010th Civil Engineering Squadron at Peterson Air Force Base, Colo.

His wife, Lori, is the daughter of Richard and Norma Cooke of 31245 Gardendale, Warren.

A switching technician and Nathan Bess, the man in charge of the Boyne City office of Michigan Bell, prepares the main board so that it is ready to accept the last part of the switching equipment for the new telephone service that Michigan Bell is installing in the newly constructed building on State Street.

Teacher shortage predicted

"We need to prepare for the near future," said Tom Shepard, who is superintendent of Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District. Shepard said in about five years a serious shortage of teachers will become evident.

These and other matters were discussed at a hearing set up by the Michigan Legislature in Petoskey on October 14. It was the first of six to be offered around the state to collect input on education from educators and interested taxpayers.

Shepard, who attended the hearing, said technology is becoming another big consideration. Such things as video and microwave communications could beam the best teachers in the country into the classrooms of Charlevoix County.

Shepard's comment on funding was, "If you are going to do things over and above what you have been doing, it's going to take money, of course." But, he continued, not all good education requires more money or more school hours and days.

"We need to make the time we spend with kids be quality time," he emphasized. "It's not realistic to add to the school day. Some kids are already on the school bus for one and a half hours a day."

Another facet of discussion was the question of what is being expected of the young people. "We're not asking enough. We need to look at the expectations we have for our children," he said.

Right now 45 percent of the nation's high school graduates, he said, have not been trained for any particular direction and without having college-bound courses or vocational training, don't know where to head after graduation.

Devils roll over Mancelona 40-8

On Friday night East Jordan continued on its way towards the big showdown with Central Lake. The Devils accounted for 550 yards in beating Mancelona 40-8.

The key word for the week from coach Joe Etienne was "aggressiveness." He wanted the ball players to be aggressive on offensive blocking, and it certainly paid off.

In the first quarter senior halfback Chris Anderson ripped up through the middle for 77 yards and the first touchdown. Later in the quarter a Ted Snowden to Barry Mumich pass, good for 89 yards, provided the second score, with Mumich then getting the extra point. On the kickoff return starting the second quarter, Jim Hines of Mancelona returned it all the way 80 yards for the only Mancelona score of the night. Again in the second quarter senior fullback Darrell Spence skipped in from three yards out to make the halftime score 20-8.

In the third quarter East Jordan put the game out of reach with three touchdowns. First, Barry Mumich carried 37 yards to paydirt, with Ted Snowden carrying for the extra points. A few plays later Darrell Spence picked off a Ted Snowden pass good for 32 yards. Then senior fullback Mike Graham got in from the one yard line and also picked up the extra points.

Mike Graham led the overall attack with 126 yards and 12 carries followed closely by Chris Anderson with eight carries for 123 yards, Barry Mumich 77 yards on 10 carries.

Except for the kickoff return by Mancelona the defense played a strong game led by Jim Roberts 11 tackles, Darrell Burt 10 tackles, followed by Mike Graham and Scott Hart with seven apiece.

This week the Devils host Gaylord St. Marys with game time at 7:30. A good game should be in store as the Devils try to avenge last year's lost to them.

EJ Jayvees blitz Mancy for 6th win

BY MICHAEL BURR
In an awesome manner, the JV Devils of East Jordan blitzed Mancelona 44-6 on Thursday night. With all members getting plenty of playing time, the Devils were a total machine.

The Devils were led by Dave Russell, who had 18 carries for 134 yards and two touchdowns, and Mark Snowden, 11 carries for 108 yards and another two touchdowns. Other offensive contributions came from Bill Kraemer with a five yard TD plunge, Tom Galmore with a two yard jaunt, and a Greg Kitson to Bill Lytle 10 yard pass. The JV Devils rushed for over 330 yards on the evening.

On defense, coach Steve Poole's handy men had a field day. Fumble recoveries went to Kim McKinnon, Jeff Gee, Darcy Bennett, and Kevin Raymond. Quarterback sacks were credited by John Pixley, Tom Galmore (two), and Dale Schroeder (two). Leading tacklers were Bill Kraemer with eight unassisted tackles, and Kim McKinnon and Dale Schroeder with six and five respectively.

The defense held Mancelona to just one first down in the first half, and allowed them to score only in the last minute of play. Coach Rebec stated, "This is the best defensive effort of the year so far, with Dale Schroeder giving it 150% all night."

This Wednesday night the JV Devils travel to Gaylord to play the Snowbirds of St. Mary's. Both teams are undefeated at 6-0, and will be playing for the JV Championship of the Ski Valley. Game time has been changed to 7 p.m. on Gaylord High field.

Kimmo Kubeana takes off on a dead run after breaking through the line. He was finally driven out of bounds after this play which help set up the second touchdown of the game.

Ramblers take impressive Homecoming victory

Rob Musser runs into a bunch of Onaway defenders but he still made about five yards on this play. The Boyne crew really played well during most of the game that saw few penalties. Boyne won 20 to 6.

BY PAUL ZINCK
The Boyne City Ramblers Varsity football team took a 20-6 win in an impressive Homecoming showing in Boyne City last Friday night. The victory upped the Ramblers' record to an even three wins against three losses.

The Ramblers kicked off to start the game but the Onaway Cardinals fumbled the ball into the hands of Kimo Kuheana on their first play from scrimmage. Kuheana recovered on the Onaway 38 yard line.

The Ramblers took the ball down and scored in just ten plays, all of which were rushes. Stars in the Ramblers' first scoring drive were Rob Musser getting 13 yards on 5 runs, Kuheana with one ten yard rush, and Stacy Reinhardt gaining seven yards on a pair of carries. Reinhardt and Kuheana each picked up a first down while Boyne was aided by two Onaway miscues. With 7:19 left in the first quarter QB Mitch Kruzal pushed it across from just one yard out.

Kruzal passed to Reinhardt for the two point conversion.

Each team took a possession before the Cardinals finally sustained a good drive. After a Tony Napont punt was downed on the midfield stripe, the visitors went on the move with 2:36 left in the opening period. Dale Kubacky and Steve Brockway carried most of the load for the small 15 man Onaway squad. Brockway picked up 23 yards on four carries but most of that was on his first carry, a 22 yard gain. Kubacky just one gain of 16 yards.

Kubacky's run gave the Cardinals a first down and goal to go at the Rambler nine. They picked up one more yard to the eight before time expired in the first quarter. Changing ends to the field didn't help, though, as Onaway lost two yards on the next play and had a pass fall incomplete to give the Ramblers the ball on their own ten yard line with 11:10 left in the second quarter.

Boyne moved downfield to the 49 yard line in 11 plays before turning the ball over on downs. Musser and Reinhardt each picked up 12 yards. With 6:04 Boyne tried to punt on fourth down and three but a bad snap from center forced Napont to try a pass. The throw fell incomplete and it was Onaway ball on the Boyne 49 yard line.

This time Onaway moved the ball well against a stingy Rambler defense. On their first play from scrimmage Kubacky scrambled 49 yards as the Cardinals hit paydirt. The two point conversion didn't fall through for them though, as a Mike Bebee pass fell incomplete. The score was 8-6 in favor of the hometown Ramblers with 5:49 left to play in the first half.

Once again each team took the ball once before Boyne had possession again. After a Joe Rachuba punt the Ramblers had possession on their own 25 yard line.

Musser rushed for five yards before a personal foul penalty against Onaway gave Boyne a first down on the Cardinal 49 yard line. On the next play Kuheana ran around the left side for a 38 yard gain to the Onaway 11 yard line. Reinhardt picked up another four yards before Rob Musser went right up the middle for the seven yard touchdown. Kruzal's conversion pass fell incomplete this time to leave the score at 14-6 with only 22 seconds left in the half.

There was no scoring in the third quarter and none in the fourth until Boyne drove 23 yards in 2:30 to score on a four-yard Reinhardt run. After Reinhardt returned a Rachuba punt 38 yards to the Onaway 23 yard line with 11:10 left to play in the game, the Ramblers used 6 more running plays before hitting paydirt. Reinhardt also contributed two other rushes to account for 14 of the Ramblers' 23 yards.

Reinhardt's touchdown wrapped up the scoring at 20-6 in favor of Boyne. The Rambler's played out the final 8:37 of the game however, before celebrating the Homecoming victory.

The Ramblers will stay home next week to host Grayling, who beat St. Ignace last Friday by a score of 7-6.

Boyne really had their defensive efforts well tuned last Friday as these five tacklers hit on an Onaway runner. Dave Wandrie [62], Craig Napont [43], and a host of others.

BF wins-loses in week's action

Boyne Falls took Mackinaw City last Tuesday night in a revenge game from two weeks ago, when the Rockets nipped the Loggers 59-57.

The Logger girls grabbed an early lead on Mackinaw, on their own floor, ending the first quarter with 16-6.

At the half, Boyne Falls increased their lead to 34-18.

Third quarter brought on more points for the Loggers, as they held the lead with 53-27.

The final score reached 71-45, another victory for the Loggers.

For Boyne Falls, Kris Bell received top scoring honors as she pulled in 26 points. Kim Mikula was behind her for 19 points.

For Mackinaw City, Lynn Zielinski scored 12 points, and Kim Kruger and Judy Paquet both scored nine in the losing effort.

EJ basketball has ups and downs

At the beginning, the season always starts with great hopes, but about half way through, it looks like East Jordans girls' basketball season were wishing it could be a whole lot better than it has so far.

The team has played up and down games so far this year, winning four but losing six in their quest to develop a winning team.

This last week, the team added another win and a loss to their record after a win against Pellston on Tuesday, 48-20, and a loss on Thursday to Gaylord St. Mary's, 27-44.

On Tuesday, the Devilettes followed the lead of Robin Sweet who had 11 points for the night. Kim Etter ended up with eight for the team, and Laurie Stanek added seven points and had four assists to her credit.

Top defensive player for the game was Anne Crawford who pulled in 12 rebounds. Every team member contributed something to the score according to the statistics of the game.

Thursday, it was a different story. After beating the Gaylord St. Mary's team earlier this season, the Devilettes went cold and it seemed like nothing would go through the hoop.

Top scorer for the night was Laurie Stanek with eight points, followed by Roxanne Hoffman with six. On the defensive side, Robin Sweet had 17 rebounds for the team, and Hoffman helped keep the St. Mary's team to just eight points before fouling out.

After the game, Coach Michael Bos said "We can beat any team in the league for seven-eighths of the floor but we just can't score when we need it."

Free-throw shoot-a-thon set

Girls' basketball teams of Boyne City High School are having a freethrow shoot-a-thon on Saturday, Oct. 19. The girls will be asking for pledges based on the number of free-throws they can make out of a thousand attempts. Money will be used for video equipment and/or season basketball trip. The girls and coaching staff appreciate the continuing support for the sports program.

Service Changes and New Features for Boyne City Customers

Beginning Saturday, October 22, 1983, new electronic telephone switching equipment will begin serving customers in the Boyne City 582 exchange. There will be changes in phone service, and some optional features will become available. The service changes are:

- You'll hear a lower pitched dial tone when you pick up your receiver.
- On local calls you'll need to dial all seven numbers to reach your party. If fewer numbers are dialed, the call won't go through.
- You'll need to call Repair Service for code numbers to call other parties on your line.
- All 1- and 2-party customers will hear only one ring.

Two new optional services will become available for a small monthly charge as a result of this change: TOUCH-TONE® calling and CUSTOM CALLING SERVICES.

- TOUCH-TONE CALLING

The modern way to keep in touch. All push-button phones give you push-button dialing but not necessarily the speed and convenience you expect. That comes with Michigan Bell's exclusive Touch-Tone® service.

Because only Touch-Tone service transmits a special high-speed signal that gets you from one phone to another with great speed and accuracy.

Custom Calling Services will be available to 1-party customers. It includes the following features:

- Call Waiting
A tone indicates that someone is trying to call you while you are already on the phone. You can hold the first call and answer the second.
- Call Forwarding
This feature permits the transfer of an incoming call to another phone number.

- Three-Way Calling
You can bring a third party into your phone conversation.

- Speed Calling
By dialing a 2- or 3-number dialing code, you can reach a frequently called number.

If you have any questions about your phone service, please call your service representative. The number is on the first page of your phone bill.

You can order any of the Custom Calling Services or Touch-Tone® service, or get more information about them, by calling toll free: Residence customers call 1 800 482-8060; Business customers call 1 800 482-3820.

Deputies, Aging Commission to sponsor

daily check for seniors

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department in conjunction with the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging, will be sponsoring a program to check daily on elderly citizens or handicapped citizens of Charlevoix County who live alone and would like to have a courtesy call once each day to check on their safety.

Volunteers will be recruited to contact one to six citizens who request this service. Volunteers can make application by contacting Sheriff Lasater at the Sheriff's office.

The program is designed for elderly and handicapped citizens of Charlevoix County who live alone and feel that this daily phone contact would be in their best interest.

Several citizens in Charlevoix County over the last few years have been in a position of a health or medical emergency in their home and have been unable to seek help until a relative or neighbor checked on them. Hopefully this program will help eliminate this potential problem with our elderly and handicapped citizens living alone.

Citizens interested in being involved in this program may request this service by contacting Sheriff Lasater at the Sheriff's office: 547-4461.

Charlevoix Hospice appoints hospital staff physician

Charlevoix County Hospice, Inc. has announced the appointment of Dennis M. Joy, M.D., Charlevoix Area Hospital staff physician, as Hospice Medical Director.

As Charlevoix County Hospice Medical Director Dr. Joy will be a consultant to Hospice patients' personal physicians, serving, along with members of the medical advisory committee, as a backup to patients' personal physicians.

The Hospice Medical Director will oversee the admission evaluation of patients admitted to Charlevoix County's Hospice program and serve on the medical advisory committee.

Charlevoix County Hospice will be ready to serve the needs of the terminally ill and their families in the Charlevoix area in early November. This month, 15 men and women from throughout the county complete an intensive training session. These volunteers are the crux of the hospice movement, providing "good neighbor" type service to patients and families.

The Hospice volunteers, working with the professional volunteers from the medical community, enable terminally ill people to choose to die at home in the warmth and comfort of their own family.

The concept of Hospice involves a concern for both patients and families.

Dr. F. James Stewart of Charlevoix, recently pointed out to a hospice volunteer training session that pain control is fundamental to hospice and pain can be accentuated by problems at home.

Therefore, Mrs. Smith continued, the coordinated care and support for patient and family has a direct effect on a patient's comfort.

Dr. Joy, a Diplomate of the American Board of Family Physicians, is a Michigan State University graduate with a medical degree from the University of Michigan Medical School. He served his internship and residency at the University of Minnesota, moving to Charlevoix to join the Charlevoix Area Hospital staff in 1974.

Group proposes new task force

"We don't want to be the ones to turn the lights out here," said Josh Barnes, president of Lexalite International Corporation, Charlevoix. Barnes is one of the business people committed to setting up a central business bureau for the county.

Meeting recently in East Jordan, Barnes, Bob Hunt, Charlevoix city manager, and Chuck Sherk of the county Economic Development Corporation talked to business and industry representatives on the benefits of the proposed Charlevoix County Business and Industrial Task Force.

Such an office, Barnes said, could "stop redundant rules and inspections" by coordinating the regulations among the agencies involved in business operation. A major part of the Task Force's function, he said, would be to serve as a one-stop shopping service for businesses looking for expertise or advice on regulations.

Barnes called the Task Force "a last ditch effort to keep businesses from folding or leaving the state."

The three Chambers of Commerce have been working on the idea for nearly a year, according to East Jordan Chamber executive-director Judy Shea.

She explained that the county's EDC has no paid staff. With an office, the Task Force could connect up the various agencies, although it would not duplicate something like the EDC, which would continue to provide low interest loans for financing packages for area business.

"The Task Force would work closely with the EDC," Shea said. In addition "it could set up a pool of lower Workers' Compensation costs. It could also set up a free trade zone where duty-free imported products or materials could be processed and marketed through export." It could help with transportation problems, act to homogenize regulations in the county's cities, and apply to serve as a sample county in the state's tests for such things as the effect of doing away with the single business tax.

"We're open to ideas," Shea summarized.

The different cities in Charlevoix County have an economic base in common, she said. It's not like Wayne County with a mix of big city and small suburb needs. "So really doing something on a county-wide basis makes sense," she said.

The next step for the project is to disseminate enough information to prepare the way for funding the Task Force office. Shea said they would apply for about a two-third matching grant from the state's Small Cities office, if the remaining third could be supplied by $5,000 to $10,000 from the county, $10,000 from business and industry, $3,000 each from Boyne City and Charlevoix city governments, and $1,500 to $1,700 from East Jordan.

Landfill

Concluded from Page 1 satisfactory, the group says their concern is to keep it that way. Once groundwater becomes contaminated, cleaning it up can be a severe problem, or even impossible.

The unusual fact is that the legislation is for before, not after, the damage is done.

Dave Willson, township supervisor, said the ordinance that Way objects to is being reviewed by the township attorney, Stephen Graham. Willson explained, "We're not trying to rush into something that would hurt anybody."
