Divers find lost main while another collapses

Professional divers found the long lost sewer main that runs under the Jordan River in East Jordan. Considered the town mystery since 1957 when the bridge was built, the exact location of the pipe was necessary information when Memorial Park was renovated with grant funds. Part of the funds eventually could not be applied to rip-rapping the causeway because of fear of damage to the elusive six-inch sewer pipe.

With its whereabouts now charted, rip-rapping over to the boat launch can proceed. The information was also necessary to engineering the proposed city harbor.

Not so fortunate is the collapse of a city sewer at Spring and Esterly Streets. The city is looking at bids for its repair. A transfer of $5,300 to the sewer budget was made at the October 18 city council meeting to make up $3,300 deficit and allow for anticipated manhole jobs.

The council voted to reaffirm its position on dismissal of clerk-treasurer Fern Morris. The motion followed a request by businesswoman Doris Huckle that the council respond to two communications from residents and business people to reinstate Morris.

Representing the newly formed Charlevoix County Business and Industry Task Force, Chuck Sherk explained its purpose as "to create a more wholesome business environment in our county." Sherk expressed the general concern over Michigan's unattractiveness to new business because of hampering laws and said local improvements on regulations could help offset these difficulties and possibly put the county into the position of obtaining release from some of the restrictions.

He asked the city to pledge $1,500, money which would be added to pledges from Boyne City, Charlevoix and the county. The money would then rate a grant from the state's Small City's grant office. A total of $65,000 would operate the program.

Councilwoman Ellen Cihak, who had attended a meeting on the proposal, made a motion to have the Ways and Means Committee study it.

The council approved a zoning change from R-1 to R-3 to allow Tri Vest, Inc. to go ahead with plans for an apartment complex on Erie Street. The change will revert to R-1 if the apartments do not materialize in 24 months.

The council also approved a five-year tax exemption on $40,000 of improvements on the Ben Franklin Store.

A street light in the alley behind 509 Water Street is now in, reported city superintendent Mike Dionne. And street signs are being taken into the shop for cleaning and repairing.

A closed session on city litigation ended the meeting.

With one of the developers, Rick Smith, the project architect, Dave Trautman, Boyne City Mayor, Keith Fitzpatrick and the new City Manager, Randy Frykberg looking on, restaurateur Stafford Smith turns over some ground to symbolize the start of the One Water Street project here in Boyne City.

The project which includes a major sized restaurant, and a 100 plus room motel, along with some retail shops, will be built along the waterfront in downtown Boyne. Expected completion of the restaurant will be next fall, and the motel will be constructed immediately thereafter, according to project officials.

The entire project will be worth millions when it is completed and is one of the reasons why Boyne City is becoming one of the fastest growing communities in the area.

The restaurant will be managed by the staff of Stafford Smith who also has The Pier in Harbor Springs and Stafford's Bay View Inn in Bay View.

Boyne Auto gets parking compromise

He went in to get an express driveway and came out with a planter, but that was all right with Tim VanAlstine, who has been struggling since August to get his auto parts shop built next to the post office, on North East Street.

Last week VanAlstine pressed Boyne City commission for an okay on his one-way drive-through proposal. The 100-foot drive would have allowed quick parking for customers' pick-up of ordered parts. But VanAlstine had not yet brought the problem before the attention of the planning and zoning commission.

The problem was that he wasn't going to put in the required curbing along the drive, which would run between his proposed store front and the sidewalk. Protesting this would make his drive too narrow, VanAlstine pointed out curbing takes up two feet at its base, thus hopelessly reducing the planned 10-foot width.

When VanAlstine returned to the city commissioners on October 25, planning and zoning commissioners Marv Loding and Kate Schafer were there, too. It was a case of customer convenience versus pedestrian protection. After some discussion, the ordinance won out. (Sec. 6.40, stating that such drives require a minimum of 12 feet of maneuvering width.)

VanAlstine said he forgot the drive. He does have parking space planned. He said he would blacktop the 10 feet between the building and the sidewalk and put "no parking" signs on it.

Schafer, concerned with a setback in the growing improvement of the city's appearance, asked for a compromise.

That was when VanAlstine proposed a planter along the front of the store.

It will look nice, everyone agreed.

Student council plans for school sign

For years, students at Boyne City High School have wanted a proper sign out front, giving the name of the school and maybe also information on the event of the week.

Student council member Cindi Leech said that this year the seniors want to see that dream realized before they graduate. The student council could put about $800 with it, she said, but will probably have to sell candy or something to make up the total cost of the sign.

"It might be a thousand dollars," she explained. "We will make plans at our next meeting."

A local signmaker might design one and help the shop class to produce it. "Or," she said, "we might get some brick work done and buy a sign to fit inside."

At the same time, plans are being made by a group of parents for some landscaping to go in the area in front of the school. Two maples will also be planted next spring to honor former board members.

Curriculum development continuing

Curriculum development continues this year in East Jordan with teachers in social studies, science, and health organizing in after-school study groups. Superintendent Tom Rossler praised the staff members for their 100 percent commitment, and explained they will look at textbooks, work on continuity, and propose changes.

As ideas take shape, "committees will disseminate information to parents and the community," said Rossler. The full program will take close to a year to work out.

More imminent is the program to fingerprint children in the elementary school. The sheriff's department will do the work, and the prints will be turned over to the parents. None will be placed in school or sheriff files. The purpose is to have the information available in case police help was ever needed.

In common with other schools in the county, East Jordan is implementing assertive discipline, as presented in a recent area teacher in-service presentation. Enthusiastic about its simple, well-organized method, teachers reported that classes are more productive as a result and teachers and students are spared the emotional drag of disciplinary confrontations.

Appointed to coaching positions were Nancy Helland for basketball, Al Peterson for skiing, and Nancy Sherman for JV cheerleading.

The school will install drain channels on the new roof at an additional cost of $630, and purchase possibly 10 typewriters for classroom use and three for office use.

A video-taping of the workshop for students with Wendy and Brian Froud was shown.

EJ-Rasch case in court

The civil case of Herman Rasch versus the City of East Jordan began Tuesday, Oct. 25 in circuit court, before Judge Martin Breighner, and adjourned at noon due to rescheduling of witnesses. The trial was resumed Wednesday and is expected to go to the end of the week. A panel of six jurors will determine the verdict.

Formerly city superintendent in East Jordan, Rasch's complaint is in regard to severance pay allotted to him by the city.

Area trick or treaters to go out Monday

If you are out and about next Monday night, being careful is more than just a slang phrase. It's the time that East Jordan, Boyne City and Boyne Falls children will be out gathering all the goodies they can.

That is the night that both cities have designated as the night for the children.

In East Jordan, the little ghosts and goblins, along with the E.T.'s, the Pac-Man and others will be able to gather at the Civic Center for skating from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m., for those in the sixth through the eighth grades. Skating will be free for those who come in costume, recreation department officials have said.

In Boyne Falls, the children should know that they have a curfew at 10 p.m. for the little folks.

While in Boyne City, the mad rush to the house to show off the costume and ask for the piece of candy is going to squeeze between official hours of 5 to 7 p.m.

In Charlevoix, the hours will be from 6 to 9:30 p.m.

Ready for "ghouls and ghosties and long-legged beasts and things that go bump in the night"? As Halloween approaches, it's time to prepare for these spooky prowlers who will soon haunt your home in search of sweets.

And, since these days Halloween is usually more hazardous for the trickster than the treat, the Michigan State Medical Society suggests that parents take precautions to ensure the health and safety of Michigan's young witches, ghosts, and goblins.

Start thinking safety while considering costume options. With forethought it is easy to create an outfit which is both fun and safe.

Insist that youngsters wear light-colored or reflective clothing so that they may be more readily seen by motorists. Costumes should also fit closely so they won't catch on things and be short enough that the child won't trip on them. Flameproof cloth, wigs, and masks are crucial.

Consider substituting facial makeup for the face masks which often impair vision. Plan too for your tricksters to carry flashlights which will help them both see and be seen. Never allow them to carry candles or cumbersome jack-o-lanterns.

Safety, of course, involves more than costuming. Younger tricksters should be accompanied by an adult as they make their rounds. Consider doing this while it is still light. Older children should always travel in groups and carry enough change so they may call home if necessary.

Finally, parents should emphasize that tricksters return home with their treats untouched so that an adult may thoroughly inspect them for foreign material. Only wrapped candy and packaged baked goods should be eaten. Fruit should be washed carefully and cut open before being consumed.

The Michigan State Medical Society is pleased to offer these guidelines in the hope that the greatest hazard trick-or-treaters will face this year is a morning stomach ache.

COSTUME
*Design the costume so children can easily walk without tripping or entangling feet. *Have children wear comfortable, well-fitted shoes. *All wigs and beards should be designed so they don't get into childrens faces obscuring vision. *Use light clothes so children show up at night. Or, use reflective tape on costumes or make them flame retardant material. *Design costume to expand, so if it's cold, warm clothing can be worn underneath.

FACE DESIGN

*Use face makeup rather than masks so children can see easily. *Children can draw pictures of the faces they want parents to design on them. *Apply cold cream base and then design faces with makeup, pencils, lipstick, rouge, blush, eye shadow or clown white. *Types of faces can include witches, goblins, ghosts, pirates, Indians, gypsies, clowns, devils, cartoon characters or popular television and movie characters.

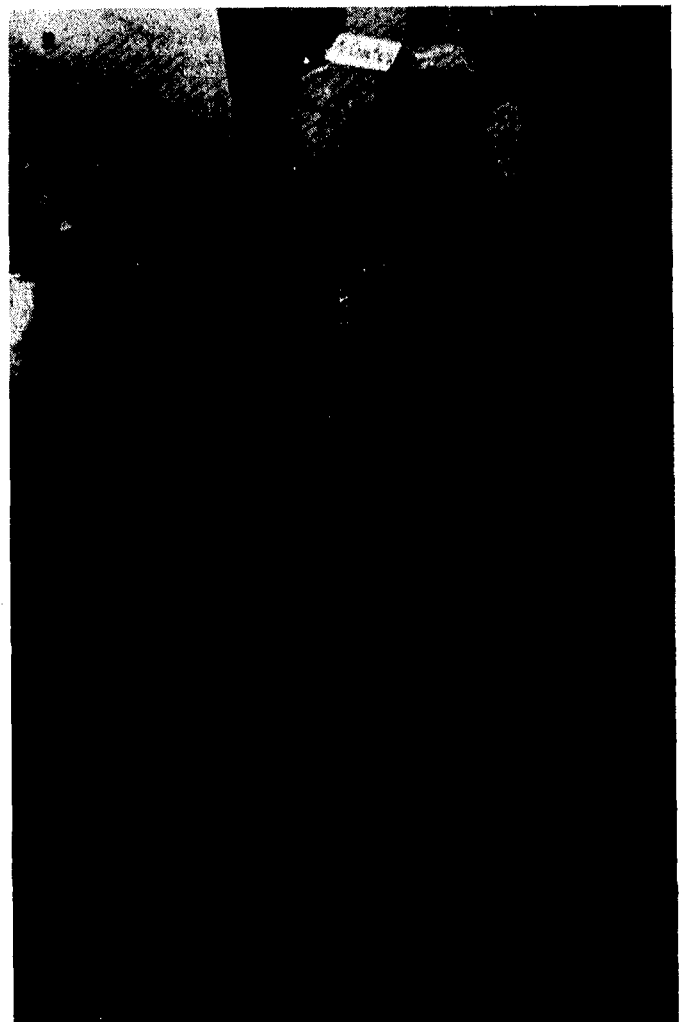

ACCESSORIES *Have children carry white shopping bags or use reflective tape design on bag. *Carrying flashlights will help children see better and be seen more clearly. *Make knives, swords or other accessories from cardboard rather than have children carry sharp objects.

INSTRUCTIONS

*Before your children leave, discuss the following with them: What route do they plan to follow? What time will they return? If children are young, who will supervise them? If children are older, with what companions are they going?

SELECTION

*Children should stop only at houses

No, this is not the hall monitor at East Jordan Elementary School. It is a student-made Halloween greeting to all who enter there.

Opinions

Yes, you can find it cheaper, but not better service

If you look hard enough, or are willing to endure the hardships, you will always find a place that can sell you a product that is from a bigger store, perhaps better, and maybe cheaper.

We all know that. We also know that you can't find better service behind the sale than you can get here locally.

In fact, you may, in some cases, pay a little more for that item, just because of the service that is behind the sale.

But to compare a self service, large discount store to those locally, is really an injustice to the local stores.

If the local store could buy things direct from the manufacturer, in hundreds of dozens at a time, he also could offer the same deal as the K-Mart, the Giantways and the Meijer Thrifty Acres.

But, he is a business man who like all of us, has to watch where he spends his money, and how much he is able to spend.

Perhaps some of our stores will never be able to compete on just price alone. But think of all the other things that he can compete with.

Like giving a donation to the Little League, supporting a bowling team, buying a candy bar from the cheerleaders, giving the junior class a discount on flowers for decorating the gym for the prom, and a lot of other things.

Stores out of the area wouldn't do that.

And if the item breaks down, after the warranty period, is the store that is 20 or more miles away going to go out of their way to help you? Some might, but we would think that more are just thinking of the dollar and tell you sorry, that you'll have to buy another item just like it.

Locally, the merchant is liable to go out of his way to try to help. He needs your business, and he wants to do his best to keep it. To him, you are a name, not just a dollar sign who decided to walk in the front door.

Yes, you can always get it cheaper. Like the community newspaper, we have our costs too. We can't offer the circulation numbers that the bigger newspapers can offer, but we do our darndest to get you a lot of the news that you would never find in the Free Press, the News, the Wall Street Journal, or even the local daily.

But just think where you would put some of those news items...on a bulletin board in a local store because a merchant has donated some space for the community to put messages on?

Even that is a service that the local merchant offers to help the community.

It all adds up to the fact that if we want to build a strong community, we have to support those who are trying to support the community. Even if it costs a few cents more.

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

I got lost the other day, and I am sure that a lot of other folks got lost along with me, even though I had a map showing where everything is located.

What am I talking about? About the new Country Star Supermarket, that's what.

While I was in the store last week, touring, looking and buying the few items that we needed around the house, I was enjoying the new facilities too much.

Of course I could find what I was looking for right away, because I was still used to the old store that I had memorized. I used to know exactly where the olives were located...but not the first time through the new store.

I had to look at the map, push the cart up and down a few more aisles than I thought I would have to, before I could find the item that I wanted.

Not that the store is wrong...it's just that they have enlarged many of the departments so that the selection is broader. At least it looks that way. It looks like they have doubled almost everything. From the frozen foods to the meat department and a few more.

It will take me some time to get used to the new, but I think I will not be alone with my thoughts, I saw others with the same look on their faces as mine.

With me, it happens everytime I get into something that is unfamiliar. It takes me a couple of times to get used to it.

Ask me in a couple of months, and I will be able to tell you a lot more about where to find things in the new store.

As to the store itself, I happen to think that it was a great move. In the grocery business, as in other businesses, you have to "freshen" up your image about every five years or so. At least that is what the store design experts have told me.

So this means that, if you can't enlarge, you set up the store in a different way.

Purposely trying to confuse people like me, I guess.

But that moment of confusion shows that the store is doing something. It also means that you will have to look at a whole lot of items on the shelves that the store hopes you will not be able to live without, and consequently, make more purchases of the store's items.

This seems to be true not only with supermarkets, but with almost all types of stores.

The last men's shop I was in downtown had just undergone a new redecorating.

I couldn't find the socks. But I did find a pair of pants that I thought I would like, and right next to that were the sweaters, and then the shirts, and then the suits...and I am glad that I did not have the money burning a hole in my pocket or else I'm sure I would have purchased a lot more than a tie.

But back to the Country Star. If you haven't visited it yet, you will be pleased at what you see. Some of the most modern equipment that a supermarket can get.

Just ask for a map at the door and study it for a couple of seconds before you get lost like I did. And tell them you read about how much better the store is here in the Press.

I shall now endeavor to accomplish the task of making a number of accurate but yet pleasing statements. When you're talking about Boyne City, that's not always the easiest thing to do.

Turn your clock back one hour before you fall asleep Saturday night. If you do not, you will be riding on Daylight Savings Time while your neighbor will be hooked up to Eastern Standard Time. Lots of people will not turn their clocks back. I know, because lots of people do not do as I say. If they did, this old world would be a better place in which to cheat and fight and claw and scratch and make enough money to quit ordering all that Christmas stuff through the catalog.

Sitting in a Traverse City eatery with an advertising representative, our conversation had come to a momentary lull. We heard the man at the next table order his meal and when the waitress brought his coffee, she also laid the bill on the table. "Take that away," he said. "I came here to eat, not read."

Warm weather closed up shop and now the Devil with all his masks is staring us in the face. That's right. When you arise Monday morning, Halloween will have spread as far as the eye can see. Which means that summer went south to look for a better job, leaving us with dried apples and future miseries.

After Halloween and before November's real bite, there's an election to warm things up. It's Tuesday the eighth. Some people will be running for office and some won't. It tickles me whenever I make a profound statement like that.

But back to Halloween: I wish there was a special night for older people, something like Halloween for the kids—a night when we might kick up our heels without people staring and wondering if we'd gotten religion or perhaps a case of the worms.

The other morning I was still half asleep while shaving in the bathroom. My wife was fixing breakfast in the kitchen. Suddenly she burst into the bathroom saying, "My front burner's gone!" Not being fully awake, I cut my face three times before I understood what she was talking about. (This witty situation turned sour when we discovered that it costs fifty dollars to replace a front burner.)

I attended the ground breaking at One Water Street Saturday morning. It's wonderful that they put common sense aside and decided to construct a first class restaurant and motel complex at that site. Common sense has held us back long enough.

Barbara Cruden

The days have been gold; the nights, with the bright moon, are silver. It is a season of wealth. One digs into the earth for the potato harvest, but keeps looking up, looking to see what the light is doing now to the near trees and the far trees.

The light is King Midas touching everything, and we are in a palace. Or maybe a temple. It is impossible not to respond to the autumn scene, even in the midst of digging potatoes.

In a way it is like being invited to a grand occasion. What shall we wear—but not on our backs—in our minds!

Wear praise, of course. Praise is the green sleeves of pine trees. And wear joy. It is red as the maple. Wear a humble spirit, like the rust-colored leaves of the majestic beech tree. And truth, blue as the rare clear day.

Wear yellow for understanding. It is the color of those tall, thin poplars. And wear gold for royalty, or is it for purity. Thus we are proper guests of the season.

Autumn also reminds me of temples and palaces in another way. In some of the Mediterranean countries, temples and palaces are decorated inside with mosaic. With small pieces of glazed tile cemented to walls or floors or ceilings, the artists of 550 years ago, made great pictures and designs. Because of the thin line of grout between each tile, the pictures seem to answer one softly, and to say life is made of many little things that result in a large harmony.

I've only seen the mosaics in photographs, but when autumn comes, I see mosaics in nature. Every leaf is a separate chip now. In the tree, on the ground, like little yellow, red, and maroon tiles, they have been assembled into great scenes. Life-sized, of course!

Except that, unlike the coolly enduring mosaics of Europe, ours will not last. We can only care for the land, so that the scene will be created for us again, in the twelve months, in that certain readiness of time between hello, Autumn, and goodbye.

Children should abide by these rules: *Avoid using bicycles if costumes can get caught in the spokes. *Walk on sidewalks, not streets. *Cross busy streets at intersections or crosswalks. *Look both ways before crossing. *Avoid running out between parked cars. *Wait for proper traffic signals when crossing. *If there are no sidewalks, walk on the left side of the road, facing traffic.

TREATS

*Have children save their candy until they get home so it can be checked before eating. *Give them a meal or snack before going out so they won't be tempted to eat candy before they get home. *Parents should examine all candy. *Discard unwrapped or loosely wrapped items. *Wash fruit and slice it into small pieces, checking for inedible additions. *If anything is suspicious about treats, report it to police.

PREPARING YOUR HOME

*Keep dogs away from front doors so they won't frighten children. *Keep a light on so it's easy to see steps. *Pick up tools, ladders, playthings or other objects from the yard so children won't trip. *Using flashlights in Jack o'lanterns is safer than candles.

MOTORISTS

*Slow down in residential areas. *Obey all traffic signs and regulations. *Watch for children darting out from between parked cars. *Watch for children in dark clothing walking down the road, on the shoulders or on the median. *Watch carefully when backing out of driveways. *If you're driving children, make sure they fasten seat belts. *Have children get out of the car on the curb side away from traffic.

MOTION CARRIED. Absent-1 (Behling not present at this time)

There were 13 people present of which 2 were from the media.

Spokesman for Granger Engineering, Phil Becker, gave a brief overview of the events taking place at the South Lake Street Construction Site since last Tuesday, October 11, 1983.

Gas contamination was found in an area approximately 100 feet long. The contamination was limited to the points marked 1, 3, 5 and 8. Test wells were installed at these sites. At points 2, 4, 6, and 7 no contamination was detected.

Larry Thornton, Michigan Department of Health Representative, was contacted and John Elford, D.N.R. Representative acting for Art Caden, was dispatched for the construction site.

Causes and effects of the gas contamination were discussed between the Commissioners, the general contractor Steve Smith, and Engineer George Granger.

Discussion ensued over the cost of replacing 300 feet of pipe of which some is already in the ground (recommended procedure by Art Caden). The cost would exceed $10,000, of which $6,000 would be attributable to the water main.

Replying to questions as to the authority in the final decision, Phil Becker of Granger Engineering advised: For the environmental problem - the D.N.R., namely Art Caden is the authority. Concerning the water line - it would be the Health Department in Lansing, namely, Tim Benton.

Concerning the sewer line - permits come from the D.N.R. Office in Roscommon (George Littleway and Art Caden).

After assurances from Engineer George Granger that he will seek concurrences for their recommendation to replace 170 feet of water main (100 feet is already done) and 100 feet of sewer main, plus 90 feet of leads at an estimated cost of $3,500.

The motion was made by Commissioner Behling, seconded by Moody, to proceed with the change as recommended by Granger Engineering.

Roll Call: All ayes. MOTION CARRIED.

Commissioner Paul made the motion to adjourn at 4:00 p.m., seconded by Commissioner Grimm.

Roll Call: All ayes. MOTION CARRIED.

ASCAP files suit against local concern

In accordance with the continuing efforts of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP) to license restaurants, giving them the right to perform publicly the copyrighted compositions of the ASCAP writer members. ASCAP is suing Char-Boyne, Inc. (Mr. Terrence Toomey, President) for copyright infringement.

In a recently filed complaint, the plaintiffs, who own the copyrights of the infringing musical works, claim that a number of their copyrighted compositions were performed without their authorization at The Granary Restaurant and Lounge on December 10, 1982.

The songs in question are: "Honeycomb" by Bob Merrill; "Song Sung Blue" by Neil Diamond; "You're Nobody 'til Somebody Loves You" by Russ Morgan, Larry Stock and James Cavanaugh; and "Summertime" by Geroge Gershwin and De Bose Heyward.

The lawsuit has been brought under the provisions of the United States Copyright Act of 1976 and is based on the internationally accepted principle that copyrights are property because the product of a person's mind is just as much his or her property as the product of a person's hands.

4-Hers honored at Monday night dinner

The big dining room at Whiting Park was filled with the inviting smell of roast turkey. A crowd of 4-H young people with their parents and leaders were lining up for the Achievement Day dinner, held October 24.

"Something like this meeting helps young people to get a positive view," said one parent, Lynda Arno. "It takes a strong individual to get into farming."

Waiting to get into line, a group of high school age boys and girls passed around the question of their futures. Two were definite about wanting to be farmers.

"I think the younger generation has to be encouraged," said another parent, Larry Boyer. The Boyers are expanding their own interest in an agriculture-based life.

The line of diners, filling their plates from the home-cooked specials, finally dwindled and Rod Cortright, county agent for Cooperative Extension Service began the evening by introducing Leah Green, the 4-H Program Assistant for Charlevoix County, and Betty Horrocks, 4-H director in Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Antrim and Alcona counties. Green then introduced those with reports and award winners to be honored on this second and final Achievement Day of 1983.

The reports, given by 4-H young people, covered 2- and 3-day conferences, the Capitol Exploration Trip, and spring Achievement Day when, as the youngest and smallest reporter said, "I twirled my baton and wore the wrap-around skirt I made."

A special-award jacket was given to Dan Kitely, whose farm animal project was judged Grand Champion at Emmet County Fair. Others also receiving special-award jackets were: Barb Stowe, Cheryl Boyer, Lisa Harvey, and Krista Sumner.

In recognition of 10 years of volunteer service to 4-H, Judy Clock, Harold Leech, and Sheri Huffman were given the Gold Clover Award. A Silver Clover Award went to Marsha Beishlag for her five years.

Elected to 4-H council for terms of two years each were Larry Boyer and Charlie Myers, adult members, and teen members Mary Murray and Heath Green.

Certificates were given to a number of persons, not in 4-H, but who nevertheless had been of special help.

Project pins were awarded to the following: Patty Schmoltdt, Beth Jones, Jerry Schmoltdt, and Trina Zimmer for livestock; Cheryl Boyer, Aaron Brock, and Eric Green for citizenship; Kim Hand, Lisa Harvey, Dawn Brock, and Paula Harvey for clothing projects; Dawn Fraley for dairy; and Todd Robinson for entomology.

In foods, Eve Reinhardt, Becky Robinson, and Matt Speltz; horticulture, Krista Sumner; horse, Patsy Puroil, Tricia Wiltjer, Carla Hoffman; leadership, Kim Mikula, Mary Murray, Heath Green; public speaking, Jacob Robinson, Kelly McNew, Susan Peters, and Heath Green; crafts, Amy Alger, Lori Fox, Brenda Stolt, Eric Giom, and Sara Cain.

Arts award pins went to Chanda Ranstadler, Kim Mikula, Angie Chase, and Lynn Seelye; style show, Lori Fox, Whendi Pierce, Mike Horton, Heather McKay, Lisa Hooker, and Holly Reyes; veterinary science, Jamie Nelson, Heather Thayer, and Matt Speltz; and a pin for 19 projects went to Jennifer Moreau; for 16 to Aaron Brock and Cheryl Boyer; and for 15, Jacob Robinson.

Leaders in 4-H who have given time and energy, some of them for more than 10 years, were honored. They were: Larry Boyer, Nancy Brooks, Claudia Grutsch, Chuck Kitely, Mrs. Chuck Kitely, Charlie Myers, Jim Nelson, Dr. Merle Plagge, Bob Schmoltdt, Mrs. Bob Schmoltdt, Lucy Stolt, and Leah Green.

Having dinner at one of the tables with her five-year-old 4-H son Tracy was Barb Brooks, who explained to The Press reporter how it is one gets into the organization. "You don't have to live on a farm," she said. Brooks' day-care children loved to help her cook, so she found out they could submit their accomplishment to 4-H. It wasn't long, she said, and she was a 4-H leader, meeting with her group once a week.

At first she thought she didn't have enough background to teach anything. But, she said, "Once you get into it, you enjoy it." And the fringe benefits help, too, she added. Going on 4-H-sponsored trips and conferences "you learn a great deal—and the trips are like mini-vacations!"

East Jordan JV's power passed St. Mary's

BY MICHAEL BURR

In the battle of unbeaten JV Powerhouses this past week, the Devils held strong to beat Gaylord St. Mary's 12-6.

It was a night for defense, with two teams who were accustomed to scoring big, only getting three touchdowns. The last four plays of the game provided as much excitement as one could stand.

In the first quarter, Mark (the rabbit) Snowden scampered around left end for 20 yards and the first score. This held up till late in the second quarter when St. Mary's got their only touchdown to knot the score at 6-6 for the half.

After a very down-to-earth halftime talk by coach Bob Rebec and coach Steve Poole, the Devils came out to finish the battle. Midway through the third quarter, Bill Lytle ran under a perfectly thrown pass from quarterback Greg Kitson and darted 25 yards for the go ahead TD.

After seesawing back and forth, Gaylord used a good pass play to get down to the Devils' four yard line with 1:44 left. At this point the defensive wall of Mike Goebel, Bill Kraemer, Dale Schroeder, Jeff Gee, Bob Gots, Tom Galmore, and Kirk Raymond dug in and put up a stand like Patton's Third Army. On four pounding plays ending at the six inch line, Gaylord tried unrelentingly to punch it in, but the defense didn't give in. The battle and the war were over with East Jordan the victor.

For the night on offense, Dave Russell carried seven times for 89 yards, and Mark Snowden five times for 65 yards. On defense, Dale Schroeder led the way with 12 tackles, Terry Burt with 11, and Bill Kraemer and Dave Russell with nine each. Pass interceptions went to Kraemer, Snowden, and Lytle, and fumble recoveries to Mike Goebel.

Boyerne win streak halted by Grayling 18-0

BY PAUL ZINCK

The Boyne City varsity football team took the chin last Friday night, losing to the visiting Grayling Vikings. The final score totaled less than the 40 degree weather it was played in, 18-0.

The Ramblers of Boyne took a two game winning streak into the game, but emerged with a record of three wins against four defeats on the year. Boyne kicked off to open the game and Grayling took the return out to their own 39 yard line. Three plays and six yards later, however, they punted on fourth down. Boyne let the kick fall and the Vikings downed it on the Boyne City 40 yard line. The Ramblers started their drive with 9:35 left in the opening period and with Mitch Kruzel calling signals.

After a Stacy Reinhardt one yard carry, the officials caught a Grayling player jumping offside and moved the ball forward to Boyne's 46 on second down and four. Reinhardt picked up two more yards on another carry and sophomore Rob Musser had a six yard run to get the first down on Grayling's 46.

Musser gained two yards on the next play and then Kruzel was trapped behind the line of scrimmage for a one yard loss. On the next play a Kruzel pass to Mike Looze fell incomplete, but the Vikings were caught for a 15 yard pass interference penalty. The penalty yardage put the ball on the 26 yard line. Another Kruzel pass was incomplete and Kimo Kuheana, Boyne's senior fullback, was stopped for a two yard loss. On third down, a Rambler pass was deflected at the line of scrimmage and fell incomplete. Tony Napont punted the ball through the endzone and Grayling started their drive on their own 20 yard line with 5:51 left to play in the first quarter.

Scott Trudeau picked up the first Viking yard in his first rush and Jon Nicholas had a four yard run to make it third down and five on the 25. Starting QB Jim Stewart pitched to Rodney Patterson on the next play, who gained 10 yards and a first down.

Nicholas was stopped for no gain and Patterson was caught in the backfield for a five yard loss on the two ensuing plays. Stewart kept calm however, and on the next play, completed a 14 yard pass to Darrin White. The pass was not long enough for a first down and Grayling had a fourth down and one yard to go situation on their own 44 yard line.

Viking coach Bill Klinger wasted no time in making up his mind on what to do. Seconds later his decision paid off as Stewart kept the ball and broke through the line. He and a Boyne defensive back started a foot race and Stewart won after eluding the Boyne player on the 35 yard line. Stewart easily ran the last 35 yards to score with 2:31 left in the game. The Boyne defense redeemed themselves on the two point conversion attempt, as they strung out the left side run and prevented the extra points.

After taking the ensuing kickoff out to their own 42 yard line, the Ramblers took the ball downfield. Musser gained seven yards on two carries and Reinhardt picked up 12 yards on his pair of carries, but Boyne could only get as far as the Grayling 39 yard line before punting. Napont's punt once again bounced through the endzone, and the Vikings once again started their possession from their own 20.

Time expired in the first quarter before another play was executed and Grayling took their 6-0 lead on the other way.

After an incomplete pass, Patterson rushed for nine yards and Barsie Cross picked up six yards for a first down. Cross was stopped for no gain on the next play, but Stewart completed a seven yard pass to Mike Hickey on the Viking 42 yard line. Then, with just over nine minutes left in the half, Nicholas rushed for 18 Nicholas's run gave Grayling a first down on the Rambler 40 yard line.

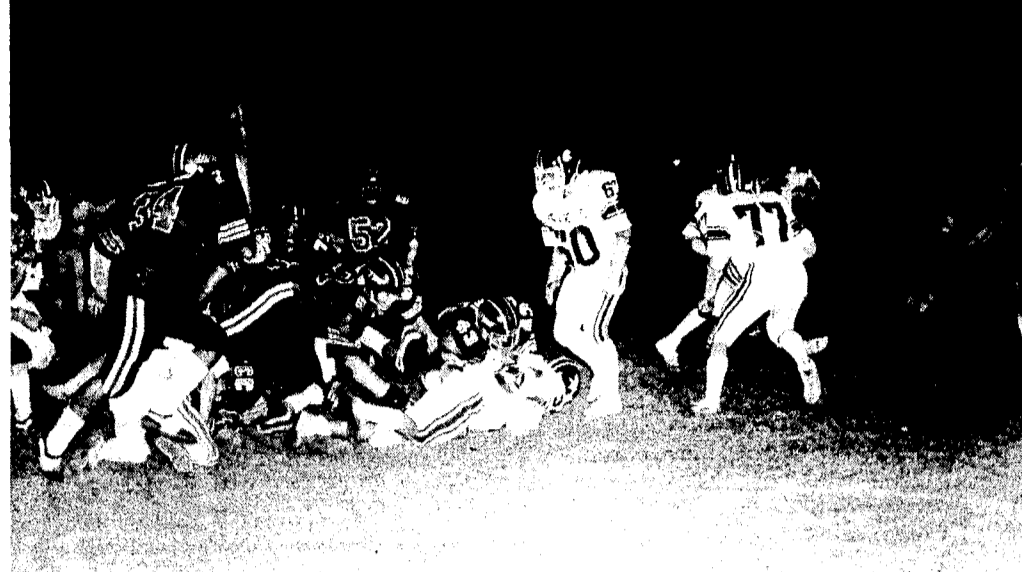

Cross picked up another four yards and Nicholas ran for another yard to the 35. On Cross' run, Grayling was flagged for illegal motion, but a dead ball personal foul penalty against Boyne moved the ball forward to the 25 yard line. The Ramblers stopped Nicholas for no gain before Stewart completed a 10 yard pass to White. A pass into the endzone dropped incomplete and the Ramblers were called for encroachment.

The penalty moved the ball up to the 10 yard line, and gave the visitors a second down and five yards to go. Patterson rushed for one yard to the nine and another pass into the endzone was incomplete. On fourth down and four from the nine, Patterson made a diving catch of a Stewart pass to score Grayling's second TD. The point after attempt was short, to leave the score at 12-0 with 6:28 remaining in the half.

The Ramblers returned the following kickoff out to their own 17 yard line but three plays later had to punt the ball back to the Vikings.

Grayling let the Ramblers down the ball on the Viking 44 yard line. They then drove 64 yards in 3:33. The drive, which took just seven plays, included a 23 yard pass from Stewart to White and a pair of Trudeau carries for 10 yards. With 1:21 left in the half, Nicholas took it in from three yards out to wrap up the scoring. The conversion attempt once again fell short, making the score 18-0 with 1:21 left in the first half.

This week the Ramblers will travel north to take on the Rogers City Hurons and then will wind up their season at home against their nearby rivals, the Petoskey Northmen.

On one of the occasions, the Boyne City Ramblers were all over the Grayling offense, as in this shot of a large group of defenders getting to the Grayling ball carrier. The team could not hold them well enough, though, as the Grayling team had a good passing game that combined with some strong running to put the Boyne team down to a record so far this year of three wins and four losses.

East Jordan win over St. Mary's sets up biggest game of year

At East Jordan on Friday, the Devils took the measure of Gaylord St. Mary's 34-12, scoring in each quarter.

In the first period senior fullback Barry Munich went in from nine yards out, and quarterback Ted Snowden kicked the extra point, putting the Devils on top to stay 7-0. Midway through the second quarter Snowden hit Rich Raymond with a pass good for 11 yards, with Snowden again kicking the point making it 14-6.

In the third quarter East Jordan got two scores. First, sophomore Aaron Spence ran it in from the 12 yard line, and later, right end Tony Ruhlman went in via the aerial attack from 30 yards out. Snowden then threw to Raymond for the two pointer, upping the score to 28-6. In the last quarter the teams traded scores with East Jordan's Munich going in from the one yard line.

On offense for the night, Barry Munich carried 16 times for 102 yards, Mike Graham, before being injured, carried three times for 100 yards, one being a 56 yarder, and Aaron Spence 10 for 97 yards. Quarterback Ted Snowden went 3 for 8 passing good for 50 yards. All total, the Devils accumulated 405 yards offensively.

The defense was led by senior middle line back, Darrell Burt, with 14 tackles, followed by Jim Roberts with 10. It was a good, strong, defensive effort by the whole team, keeping the Snowbirds in tact.

This week the Devils are preparing for the game of the year, with the showdown at Central Lake on Friday at 7:30. This game as expected will determine the Ski Valley Conference Champions. Coach Joe Etienne has labeled this week as "dominate the opponent" week.

Kim Mikula works around a defending Alba Wildcat as she tries to add to her point total in the Alba game. Boyne Falls took both games of the week with the help of her scoring.

Rambler basketballers lose to Charlevoix 41-34

BY PAUL ZINCK

The Boyne City Rambler girls' basketball team took a last quarter defeat last Thursday, at the hands of the Charlevoix girls. The final score was 41-34.

The Michigan-Huron Shores Conference game offered four of the top 18 scorers in the league. Two Boyne girls, Liz Sturm and Tracy Preutz, were sitting in the 16th and 18th spots respectively, as of October 25. For the Red Rayder girls, Ann Wagner sits in the ninth spot while Rhonda Buchanan currently holds the 15th position.

Boyne City took the lead at 4-2 and then kept it through the first three quarters. They went on to take a first quarter lead of 9-7 and were up by that same two point margin at halftime. The Rambler score at the half was 17-15.

The Rambler girls held on through a close third period to hold a 27-26 lead heading into the final stanza. A tough Charlevoix team took their first lead of the game on the first bucket of the fourth quarter. The lead changed hands a few more times before the lady Rayders took a one point lead about midway through the last eight

Boyerne Falls wins two

BY PAUL THEISEN

The Boyne Falls Loggers had two wins last week in girls' basketball action.

Tuesday, Boyne Falls hosting Onaway, was a real thriller, as it kept the spectators on the edge of their seats. The gymnasium was echoing with the sounds of clapping and shouting, as the lead kept being knocked back and forth during the last quarter.

Ending the first quarter, the score was 11-8, Boyne Falls favor.

At halftime, Onaway grabbed a one point lead leaving the quarter with 26-25.

As the game went on Onaway increased their lead, leaving the third period with a score of 40-33.

The final period didn't seem to be in anybody's favor as the score was knocked back and forth. Some say it's skill or team work, and some say that it's just luck that the clock ran out when Boyne Falls had the small one point lead, building to the final score of 47-46, Logger victory.

For the winning Loggers, Kim Mikula scored 16 points, and teammate Monique Churchill scored 10.

The Thursday night game at Alba was boring in comparison with Tuesday's win. The Logger girls took a first lead and remained in the front throughout the ball game, ending the first quarter with 7-6.

The final score in the third period was 29-24, Boyne Falls still remaining in the lead, as the final was 43-29. Boyne Falls managed to pull out in front a bit further each quarter before the clock ran down.

For Boyne Falls, Kim Mikula scored 13 points and Karen Franckowiak scored 10.

Janel Chippa scored 8 points for the losing team, Alba Wildcats.
