EJ's Freedom Festival highlights late week

After all the activities on the Fourth of July in Boyne City, it becomes East Jordan's turn to provide some of the summer fun as their celebration really gets underway and will last all week.

The event that is drawing lots of attention is new to East Jordan and utilizes all of the snowmobilers, at least those crazy enough to try, called the snowmobile waterskip.

The snowmobiles are driven for a short time on land to get up the speed necessary, and then are driven out onto the water in an attempt to cross a given distance.

One problem is that those who do make it across the water will find the dry land part of the event is shortened and they will have to try it again. It proves to be a lot of fun, both for the entrants and the watchers.

The event will be at the East Jordan Tourist Park July 4 and will be starting at 10:30 a.m.

Then at 3 p.m., Freddy Fender and Jean Shepard will bring their country and western show to Murphy Field. They will also repeat the performance at 8 p.m.

July 5 is going to see a lot of polka dancers trying to outdo each other in the same tent at Murphy Field.

A Youth Day Parade is scheduled for the, starting at 10 a.m. and is open to all entrants. The parade will start lining up at the First Presbyterian Church on Williams Street.

Other events are scheduled for the day, including a pizza eating contest, a bike rodeo and a Christian Music Concert.

Saturday, the outboard racers start skipping across the water in the South Arm for the annual Firecracker Regatta. Both outboard hydroplane and utility class boats are expected to be running on the closed course. They will be starting at 10 a.m. and will continue on throughout the day.

The big event will be the Freedom

Festival Parade, which this year uses a theme of "Freedom, yesterday, today and tomorrow." The parade will start at 3 p.m. and will feature Canadian pipe band and drum and bugle corps.

The parade starts on West Street, Murphy Field, goes past the Sportsman Park up Main Street to Division and will end at the Third Ward Park.

Prior to the parade, the Annual Rotary Barbecue begins at 10 a.m. next to the ambulance building near Memorial Park. A bake sale and craft fair will be held during the day at the Senior Citizens' Center downtown.

While the polkafest continues again at the tent at Murphy Field, another Christian Music Concert gets underway in Memorial Park at 7 p.m.

A lighted boat parade will start off the evening activities, while the fireworks display is scheduled to start about 10:30 p.m.

Finishing out the weekend on Sunday will be the second day of the Firecracker Regatta in the South Arm.

All of the activities are coordinated by the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce and they will be happy to answer questions as to what starts where during the almost all week-long festival.

Behling found guilty in animal starvation case

Mark Behling, the Behling Road farmer who was accused of 44 counts of cruelty to animals after they were discovered dead on his farm last winter, was found guilty by a six-member jury trial after about four-and-a-half hours of deliberation.

The two day trial heard testimony from Dr. George Lombard, a veterinarian for the state Department of Agriculture who said that the animals died due to a lack of food and water, according to the autopsies that the department had done on several of the animals.

Visiting Judge John McCormick of Traverse City, who heard the case after 90th District Judge Harvey Varnum disqualified himself, considered all 44 counts as one criminal act and sentenced Behling to 30 days in jail or 30 days in the county work program and six months of probation.

No fines or costs were assessed against Behling.

Cruelty to animals is a misdemeanor and the maximum sentence could have been 90 days in jail and a $500 fine for each count.

In the trial, county prosecutor

Kraag Lieberman argued that Behling was responsible for the animals and that he had allowed them to starve to death. He said that the case was a "sad and gruesome affair."

In the defense, Behling's attorney Roy Hayes, told the jury that the animals Behling and a cousin had purchased were stunted and substandard. He told the court how the animals deteriorated until their death.

The conviction of Behling brought the end to the case but did not, according to Lieberman, explain the cause of the incident that created the problem.

BF schools okays $872,126 budget for 84-85 school year

A $872,126 school budget for the 1984-85 school year was approved Wednesday night by school board members in Boyne Falls.

The new budget represents an increase of 9.76 percent or $77,565, in additional expenditures. $794,561 was budgeted in 1983-84. Revenues are expected to increase from $797,355, to $872,126, a $74,771, increase, 9.37 percent.

The $77,565 increase in expenditures represents a $54,000 energy loan the board is seeking in order to pay the bulk of a school energy project. Costs for the project will include the replacement of the heating system and new windows for the building. The project is expected to be completed this fall.

The board awarded the bid for window replacement to Foster Construction of Petoskey at $11,500. The low bid is $1,500 more than the board had anticipated spending for this phase of the project.

The board also adopted a 1984-85 athletic budget of $17,433, which includes a proposed $13,433 subsidy from the general fund. The hot lunch program budget of $34,300, which was also adopted, includes a $4,800 general fund subsidy.

Additional monies in the amount of $16,000 were budgeted Wednesday to pay for additional teaching time for Chapter I and special education programs. The school expects an increased enrollment next fall in these programs.

3 Glen's robbers plead guilty, trial for 4th

A trial date will be set for Phillip Paul Prerost of East Jordan, who is accused in the robbery of Glen's Market in East Jordan in March.

Three other men, also accused in taking part in the March robbery, pleaded guilty last week in 33rd Circuit Court in Charlevoix.

Donald Silva and his brother Arnold Ray Silva, Jr., face sentencing Monday, July 9 for conspiracy. Two other charges were dropped in plea bargaining.

Allen Evert Pease pleaded guilty to receiving and concealing the cash taken, but armed robbery and felony firearm charges will be dropped in plea bargaining.

The four were captured as a result of combined efforts by Michigan State police from the Petoskey post and the East Jordan police.

Conspiracy is punishable by a maximum sentence of life imprisonment and/or a $10,000 fine; armed robbery also receives a maximum sentence of life imprisonment. Use of a firearm is punishable by a two-year term, and receiving and concealing stolen property by five years and/or a $2,500 fine.

Knee high by the Fourth of July depends on your perspective, as the corn in Ralph Ellenburger's garden on Lake Street is almost arm pit high on little Nicole Andrick of Boyne City. The "almost three-year-old" is the daughter of Lynn and Michael Andrick.

Annual sign-up, recertifying for surplus food set for July 9

Those who are receiving free cheese and butter on the surplus food program in the county, must fill out a new form to recertify their status for continuing to get the surplus food.

In Boyne City, Monday, July 9, the Community Service Center will be open for those wanting to continue or get on the program.

In order to continue on the program, Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency will need complete documentation of a family's total household income.

Recipients are asked to bring either a copy of their 1983 Federal or State 1040 income tax return; a copy of 1983 state 1040 credit claims; pay-check stub or a copy of your check; a copy of your social security or VA check or a bank statement showing monthly amount of those checks; a statement from the VA or social security administration showing monthly or annual income; or is self-employed documentation of earnings for at least the last 90 days.

If you are a public assistance recipient, at least one of the following department of social services forms; current Medicaid card; most recent client notice; most recent application eligibility notice; your current monthly eligibility and income report.

Applicants who are unable to meet on the date listed will be recertified at

46 seek Boyne Falls superintendent position

Members of the Boyne Falls School Board are in the process of mulling over 46 applicants for the job of school superintendent this week.

The job opened up when Carl Moser, the former superintendent, resigned to become the Middle School principal in the Petoskey school system. Last Friday was the closing date for applications with the Boyne Falls system.

The board will hold a closed meeting this Thursday to go over the applications and will start interviews with the prospective candidates next week. The closed meeting to consider applications for the position is one of the loopholes that the state allows in the Open Meetings Act.

The meeting this Thursday will include university placement directors who will help in the screening of the applicants. After the initial screening, the field will be narrowed down and the finalist will be interviewed at an open meeting during the week of July 9.

Folks were waiting in line, trying to decide how much of this they should take or how much of that, at the annual Boyne City Fire Department Auxiliary's breakfast brunch that was held at Robert's Restaurant last Sunday. The proceeds from the breakfast is used to help buy the fireworks display that the firemen set off every Fourth of July. While the ladies make sure that the money is collected, the firemen themselves turn the tables on the ladies and do the cooking and wash the dishes as their part of the affair. This year, the showpiece of the brunch was the first public display of the old 1913 fire truck that the members of the department have been restoring. It will be featured in the annual parade that will be held Wednesday in Boyne City.

DNR needs direction from directors concerning water use

With the announcement of additional boat slips going in at East Jordan, and the amount of adverse use campaign that has caused the delay of the proposed boat slips for the Hemingway Pointe project, we wonder where the same people, who are against the development of any project that takes away the public's use of the water, were when the East Jordan project was announced.

We are not against the development of boat slips, because of many reasons. One is that boaters spend money locally and thus help support our businesses. And we all know that we need that money so that our local retailers will be able to serve us year around.

What we are against, is the direction, or the lack of it, that the Department of Natural Resources has not given us in the use of the waterways.

On the one hand, they agree with the riparian owner's right that says he can put in piers in the water out to a navigable depth. On the other, they say that the water on top of the land belongs to the public and that the public has the right to use it.

Both are right assumptions depending on which view you want to take.

But, in the case of Lake Charlevoix, which is connected to the great lakes, but at the same time is an inland lake that the property owners own out to the theoretical center of the lake. By considering that the lake is semi-private, because of the private ownership of the lands, a real bag of worms is opened up to those fishermen and other water sports enthusiasts who may want to use the water.

What we really need, is good direction from the top brass at the DNR so that those who have to make the decisions on marinas, breakwalls, docks and other intrusions into the lake, will be able to make a decision that is cut and dried.

In either case, one of the parties involved, either the land owners or the sportsmen, will have to be disappointed. It is very tough to make a decision that everybody will agree with.

So what is happening is that the Waterways Division is making decisions that are compromises. They are trying to appeal to both groups who want use of the waters.

If the DNR could figure out the rules, and then abide by them instead of making them up as they appear to suit the case, then everybody could know what to expect when private or public parties try to get more uses out of the lake.

We would like to see the same groups that are against the development of marinas work just as hard against those who, in the public interest, want to increase the lake usage through public monies, as those who want to increase the lake usage through private monies.

To us, there is no difference between the two. Both want to take part of the lake away from us to utilize.

We would feel the same if the City of Charlevoix ever wants to increase their city dockage as they have indicated in Round Lake. Or Boyne City if they want to take more of the lake for dockage.

But we need direction from the DNR so that all interests are protected, and that everybody would know what the rules are when they concern the use of the lakes.

Jottings

Wow, what a week for fireworks freaks.

If you want to watch the skies for those wonderful explosions of color and patterns, this is the week. You could have watched the displays in Petoskey last Saturday night, and if you read the newspaper quick, like on Tuesday because we are out a day early, Boyne City has their display on the Fourth proper, and this coming Saturday, East Jordan is scheduled to burn up the skies with varying forms of black powder.

Now, I won't say I am going to make all three, but I will admit to being a fireworks' freak.

It all goes back to the day when I was a member of the Jaycees in my other hometown, and as the Jaycees were the folks who provided the Fourth of July activities, I was assigned the job of the fireworks.

I think it was a little of my military training that got me the job. I had just returned from active duty and had all those old fatigues that could stand a few powder burns in the shirts.

Anyway, I had to order the display in February, and then arrange for the storage of the explosives when they arrived prior to the Fourth. When the truck came into town, we directed it to the city jail, which we figured was the safest place for the fireworks, nice and dry, no smokers were allowed, and it was just below the fire department headquarters.

I will admit that when it came time to set them off, there were times of trepidation, especially when one of the big ones had a fuse that allowed you to get about a half step away before the thing fired off to the sky.

Some of the names of the shells are almost as colorful as the shells themselves. All kinds of flowers, memories of forgotten fire fights, and revolutionary terms are used to describe the shells.

Thunder of the valley is just one shell that comes to mind, along with chrysanthemums, which are also beautiful to watch explode.

All of this brings back many memories of sweating and working very hard in a very short time to have a good display for the folks.

As each shell is set off from a mortar, which is a steel pipe placed in the ground, and you hear the muffled thump that sends the shell up in the air, the guys working the line are really running around trying to keep everything going off on time.

The guys who fill the tubes, have to clean them out also, as sometimes the shell leaves a little bit of burning material in the tube, and that could be dangerous to the next shell. We used to use a stick with a nail through it to swirl around in the tube to pull out the old material before putting in the new shell.

All the shells are sized by inches. The load reports are mostly three inches in diameter, while other shells come in four, six, eight, and nine inches across.

It's almost true the bigger the shell going in, the better the display in the sky, but most of the best shells in my mind are those in the six to eight inch class.

Anyway, a thought that makes a good display great, is that you are supposed to have two to three shells going off all the time. At least that is what they told us in the "helpful hints" section of the reading material.

Which is fine if you have a million dollars to send to the company every year.

Fireworks are expensive. You could probably say that every shell is worth about $10 average, so you can see after a display, how important it is to "spread out the display" to fill an appropriate amount of time.

According to Butch Erber, the man in charge of the Boyne City fireworks display, no show should last more than forty-five minutes.

Now, being a fireworks freak, I remember one show where just the finale lasted for forty-five minutes, at least it seemed like it. As I remember it, the show was a Valley Forge for a Boy Scout national jamboree back in the late 50s. Seems that the Japanese scouts donated a couple of million in fireworks for the scouts to watch, and that is what they did.

The finale that I remember seeing had about three levels. On the ground were all kinds of fountains spewing forth reds and greens and blues, while in the background it seemed like a wall of orange exploded and exploded. As all of this was going on, other shells were going off much higher with reds, whites and blues.

All together, it was an experience that will never ever be matched in my mind. But, I will still go out and watch fireworks whenever the opportunity arises.

Remembrances

Not all Indians had birch bark canoes as this picture of some Indian boys back about 1910 attests. This canoe was a hollowed-out log that the children were playing in when the photographer took their picture as they pulled into shore along the coast of Boyne City. If you have any old pictures of Boyne City, Boyne Falls, East Jordan, Ironton or Walloon Lake, bring them to our office so that we can make a copy for the newspaper.

Marshall Sayles

I need a new car. What for? What's wrong with it? Not a thing. It's in excellent condition from the tail-pipe to that thing-a-ma-gig under the hood. You mean the motor? Yes, that's it. The motor. Then why do you want a new one? For the smell! I like the smell of a new car.

If you want a new car so badly, why don't you buy one? Because they raised the price of the smell. When I bought this one, I turned in a junker for it and got a new car smell for only $4,700. Now they want me to pay over $10,000 for a smell that doesn't smell like the old new cars used to smell.

And, of course, you don't pay $10,000 for anything without a basement under it!

You've heard me talk before, haven't you?

Yes, but not about the smell of a new car. I once bought one of the largest Buicks made for only $5,200 and the new car smell lasted for two years.

If I were you and wanted a new car, I'd go out and buy one, to heck with the smell.

Well, there's something else. What's that?

New cars are being recalled. I'd hate to shell out $10,000 for a new car and have it whistled back for repairs.

I wouldn't talk too much about that if I were you.

Why not?

Well, I heard that when you were born your father mumbled something about going back to the hospital to see if you could be recalled.

Marshall Sayles

You're wrong about that one. When I was born I was in excellent condition from my tail-pipe to that thing-a-ma-gig on my face.

You mean your nose? Yes, that's it. My nose.

We were talking about new cars, remember?

And I was saying that I wouldn't buy one under any condition.

What would it take for you to buy a new car these days?

Well, I wouldn't pay over $4,700 and it would have to have that good, old new car smell with an iron clad guarantee that it would not be recalled for any reason.

Your trouble is age. You're just not with the way we live these days.

Yes I am

What do you mean?

Remember how I said I needed a new car? Well, I was just kidding. The other day I bought a can of that stuff you pour into a dish and slide it under the front seat. It gives that all new smell to your car. It cost $2. I figured I saved $9,998.

Yes, but your car is six years old, going on seven.

Suddenly I do not want to talk to you any more.

- MICHIGAN LATAs

 1. Upper Peninsula LATA.
 2. Grand Rapids LATA.
 3. Saginaw LATA.
 4. Lansing LATA.
 5. Detroit LATA.

All about LATAs, long distance calling, and Michigan Bell discounts.

LATA is a telephone term that's new to all of us.

Explaining that LATA stands for Local Access Transport Area doesn't help much, but LATAs are really very simple. They're telephone service areas. There are five LATAs in which Michigan Bell provides telephone service.

LATAs and long distance calling.

If you look at the map, you will see the five Michigan LATAs, including the LATA you are in. Now here's how LATAs work. When you place a long distance call from one LATA to another telephone number within the same LATA, Michigan Bell can carry the call for you over its own network. When you place a call from one LATA to another LATA, either in Michigan or another state, it will be handled by the long distance company that provides that service to you (not Michigan Bell).

For example, if you call from Detroit to Flint (two cities within the same LATA), Michigan Bell will still be able to handle the call as in the past. But if you call from Detroit to Traverse City (from a city in one LATA to a city in a different LATA), a long distance company other than Michigan Bell will carry the call. As you may know, there are now a number of different companies you may choose from to provide your long distance service.

Your long distance bill(s).

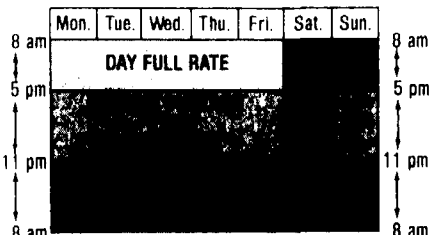

When you receive your Michigan Bell telephone bill, you'll find a page that lists your long distance calls handled by Michigan Bell. You may also find another page that lists long distance calls handled by other companies. This is because Michigan Bell may provide billing services for other long distance companies. Or you may receive a separate long distance bill directly from the company you've selected to handle your long distance calls.

Long distance discount periods.

Michigan Bell continues to offer discounts on direct-dialed long distance calls within each of the five LATAs. We suggest you save the chart below as a reminder of the times when you save 30% to 50% off the Day Full Rate.

NOTE: When you begin a call during one rate period, your call will be charged at that rate; however, should that call pass into a different rate period, your charges will change to the rate of the new period. For example, a weekday call that begins 10 minutes before 5 p.m. and ends 10 minutes after 5 p.m. will be billed at the full rate for the first 10 minutes and will be billed at the 30% discount rate for the last 10 minutes.

Save up to 50% on direct-dialed long distance calls. Schedule for direct-dialed long distance calls within Michigan LATAs.

- *During the Evening Discount Period, you pay 30% less than the Day Full Rate Charge for direct-dialed calls within each of the Michigan LATAs.
- During the Night and Weekend Discount Periods, you pay 50% less than the Day Full Rate Charge for direct-dialed calls within each of the Michigan LATAs.

CLIP AND SAVE

More long distance discounts.

If you make a lot of direct-dialed long distance calls within 30 miles of your calling center and within your LATA, you may be interested in Circle Calling Service. By subscribing to this service, you get additional discount calling periods during which you can save 30% over the long distance rates in effect at the time of your call. The discount applies even when regular long distance discounts are in effect. No installer visit is necessary for Circle Calling.

We suggest you take a close look at the various Michigan Bell services available to you. At Michigan Bell, we're always ready to help in the selection of the service that's right for you.

Facts down the line. We suggest that you watch for further informational messages in your newspapers and in your monthly telephone bills. Because your telephone business office is busily engaged in normal day-to-day telephone service matters, we are providing this toll-free number as a source for answers to the questions you may have about your changing telephone company.

FISH RECIPES

Fishing has never been a hobby of mine but it would be if I needed an excuse to spend a day like we did so many years ago on Brundage Creek near Honor. It was the middle of May, a misty green was beginning to show on the trees with splashes of wild cherry blossoms for contrast. We drove down a two track road over steep hills wondering if we would be able to return, to an old place where an old wooden dam had been put across the creek. The fishing season was on, however, we were the only ones for miles around. It was like a trip back in time at this long abandoned farm that had once been owned by Walter's Uncle Volney Gonder. The buildings were all gone, just old apple trees left to say that someone had once lived there. The thing that I remember mostly about that trip was the fact that I sat on a rotten apple and ruined my only and best pair of gray wool knickers—before slacks.

Now I think that it is a crime to use fancy recipes and flavorings except perhaps lemon juice and salt and pepper for those delicious fresh trout. Their own delicate flavor must be preserved. The old timers just fried them in a little butter or lard, seasoning them only with salt and pepper. My husband said that the best fish he ever tasted were the sunfish he and his cousin, George Gonder, caught on Round Lake. Just dipped in flour and fried in butter.

There was always a difference of opinion among the neighbors about how to cook the fresh fish that was always available. Sarah Smith always thought that they had to be fried and my mouth waters now thinking of how they tasted. Inez Graham baked her's with a special recipe which even softens the bones. May be Inez knew something we would like to know as her husband, Bert, lived to be over 100 years old.

With our modern freezers we can have fresh fish anytime. Last winter my neighbor, Bill Hammonree, gave me a good sized piece of frozen Coho salmon. I just let it thaw out then steamed it about 3 minutes in my pressure cooker, seasoning it with a little salt. It was the most delicious salmon I have ever had. So good in a salad. Here is a quick and easy salmon casserole.

SALMON POTATO CASSEROLE

- 1 large can salmon or the equivalent of fresh salmon
- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 small onion, chopped

- 1 can condensed potato soup
- 1 soup can milk
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- Potato chips, about 2 cups

Saute the onion and green pepper in 1 tablespoon butter or margarine then add the soup and milk stirring until smooth, add lemon juice. Put a layer of slightly crushed potato chips in bottom of greased casserole, then a layer of salmon, sauce, chips; continue until soup and salmon is used, putting a layer of chips on top. Dot with butter and bake at 375° until bubbly all over.

This recipe is good substituting 2 cans of tuna (6 1/2 oz. size) for the salmon and mushroom soup. Very good. How about broiling those fresh fillets or frozen ones on the market like this:

BROILED FILLETS

Place 2 lbs. of fresh or thawed frozen fillets on a well-greased broiler pan.

- Combine:
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup oil
- a little pepper

1 tablespoon minced onion
Brush over fillets. Broil about 3" from heat 4 to 5 minutes. Then brush again with sauce and broil until fish flakes easily with a fork.

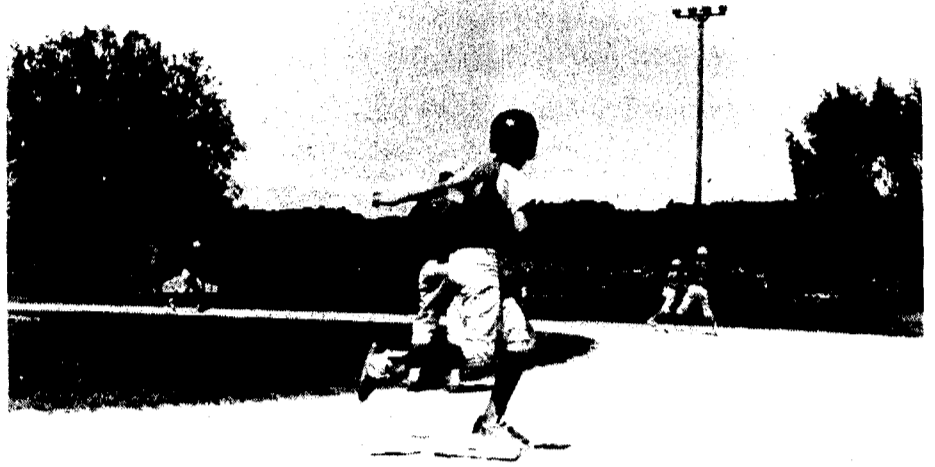

Serve with a tossed salad, broccoli and baked potato.
A terrific meal!

FRUIT SAUCE

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1 cup water
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 3 cups sliced fresh strawberries

In medium size saucepan, combine sugar, cornstarch, water and lemon juice. Bring to boil over medium heat, stirring occasionally. Continue boiling 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Cool. Stir in strawberries or other fruit.

Serve over warm shortcake. Very good!

Eric Richards, playing for the Tigers, gets on base with a single in the game his team had against the Orioles last week.

Barbara Cruden

When cows lie down, people say it will rain. Somehow I can't picture cows on their feet for days through a drought. They do lie down, though, when skies are gloomy.

Is it to keep a dry spot under themselves? Cows do not discuss things, wag their tails, or purr, so the only thing is to make a study.

In my study, which I make as I drive about on errands, I observe it does rain when cows lie down. But then sometimes it doesn't. Do cows lie when they lie, or is it all the rain's fault, I wonder.

I am disregarding the fact that I sometimes observe an occasional renegade cow, standing while the others lie down and look the other way. That is a study in itself. Perhaps my next one.

Meantime I add up the other rain indicators to compare with my cow quotas. First of all, is the wind blowing the trees so that the undersides of the leaves show?

I also add the posture of the new moon—is it upright or coasting along on its back? I learned that from our wealthy neighbor's chauffeur when I was a child.

Later, as one does, I acquired experience. Thus I always can add in leaving my car windows open, doing the wash, and planning a parade, or at least a picnic.

One of the more esoteric of rain signals is the call of the rain crow, also known as the cuckoo.

Not many people know we are haunted by black-billed and/or yellow-billed cuckoos, but we are. These elusive birds live in the wooded margins of fields and rarely allow themselves to be seen, even though they are very handsome.

The cuckoo says "keow keow keow" in a low sound that, nonetheless, carries across the field and beyond. I always thought it sounded like a drop of water falling, only much magnified.

Perhaps that's appropriate, but I haven't heard one today, so can't add it.

The radio announcer just said "possible showers," I can't get anything to tip the scales today, it seems, and although the cows were comfortably ensconced in the grass, it doesn't rain.

I guess for now I resign from the scientific and take up the poetic. Rain is like romance. You can add everything up, but it waits for one undetectable degree of change somewhere and then—run for cover! Unless you are a cow.

Editor,
"The Spirit of '76," what was it? It was the conviction that the next step on the road to happiness—liberty, was worth risking the first step—life. It meant that the desire for growth was stronger than the desire for security. Or, instead, perhaps, it was the realization that without growth there could be no security.

As a child matures by accepting increased liberty and corresponding responsibility—independence—so too must a society grow. More government, therefore, is never an improvement. It is like the surgeon's decision to amputate—what is cut off is liberty, the potential for growth.

This 4th of July, this Independence Day, may the citizens of Michigan pause and make their direction straight. More government is never an improvement. When politicians offer more government as a solution, recognize that they are admitting a failure, that they are amputating liberty, advocating a return to the womb.

Then look for leaders who the goal of a society that becomes increasingly voluntary, that relies progressively less on government. Look for leaders who understand how to apply the goal to all public institutions and questions.

Look for leaders who will explain the goal and its applications to people long confused by false leaders who have directed them backwards. Look for leaders who will implement these applications, these solutions.

This Independence Day may the citizens of Michigan make their direction straight—and may peace, progress and prosperity follow each other and the citizens of Michigan into the future.

Virginia L. Cropey,

Editor,
While visiting in Boyne City for the past three weeks, I have been enjoying the Little League baseball games. I was impressed by the real sportsmanship of the young players, but the behavior of one of the coaches was appalling. This man constantly screams and swears at his team. It makes one wonder if winning is important for the sake of the kids, of his ego.

I was particularly impressed by the Boyne Falls Loggers. They hold first place at this writing. I had occasion to watch several of their games, and not once did I hear their coach or manager show anger. I did, however, hear them offer encouragement to their boys who struck out or didn't quite make it to base.

Both are to be commended along with their team. Their obvious respect for each other, both the kids and the adults is most definitely a winning combination.

Several thousand one and one-half inch long walleye were planted in Lake Charlevoix last week. The effort of the Lake Charlevoix Walleye Association brought in the fish and raised them from fry in a pond donated by Everett Kircher. The Association members netted out the small fish with the help of the DNR for the planting just off the boat launch in Boyne City. The fish will reach legal size in about a year, according to Pat Mitchell who is heading up the program.

"Kid Hater" puts in lots of time helping kids enjoy Little League baseball

BY JERRY FROATS
He "hates kids" he says with a smile, and most of the parents and the players involved in the Little League in Boyne City know it isn't true, as Jack LaForest has worked with the players and parents for the past 24 years.
The ex-Howe Leather Company worker is also known as Big Jack or "Frosty" in some of the other endeavors that he participates in because he is also active in the Operation R.E.A.C.T., a CB radio alert program in the community. "Frosty" is a self-appointed title that he uses whenever he gets the urge to be long-winded on the radio airwaves.

Big Jack used to umpire most of the Little League games, but now he just fills in when there is no one else available. He spends most of the game time in the announcers booth, where he keeps track of the statistics, Little League equipment, the young spectators, and the safety of the players. He is always warning the players on deck to "keep your eye on the batter. A foul ball might put you on the bench, or worse, in bed".
Jack has some nick-names that he has bestowed upon some of the youngsters, such as "Hot Dog", "Itty Bitty", "Gasket", and many others. These names are used in just as he is very jovial with the kids most of the time, but "he can come down hard if you're acting up or goofing around" says one youngster.

Jack is also a groundskeeper and takes great pride in keeping the playing field in immaculate condition. If it rains, he does his best to get the diamond ready for action by game time. Boyne City will host the All Star Tournament this year, and Jack wants The Boyne field to be in prime condition.
Most of the parents, coaches, and ball players have gone to Jack at one time or another to ask certain questions whenever there is some uncertainty on a play or rule, and he usually knows the answer. "The games just are not the same when Jack's not here", said Mrs. Bob Towne. He's been around so long that another voice sounds foreign over the loud speaker.

No one knows when Jack will retire his involvement in the Little League, but he will most likely be here until the great Little League of the skies calls him away. Those involved with the Little League wish him the best while he is here in Boyne City.

Jack LaForest, on the right, discusses just one of the aspects of the Little League program with some of the others involved. LaForest is in charge of making sure the field is ready to play, and he spends many hours working on it to make sure that it is in tip-top shape.

ning three run homer to left field from James Bartlett. Gregg Kitson singled in a run and the 4-0 lead ran through the second inning. Each team scored once in the third, and East Jordan got another in the fourth to give themselves a 6-1 lead. The Astros threatened with a two out, three run rally in the bottom of the fifth, and once more in the sixth before East Jordan Lumber shut them down.

For the winning team, Bartlett and Kitson led the hitting. Bartlett accompanied his homerun with a triple and being responsible for five of the team's runs. Kitson hit a double along with his R.B.I. single and got a base on an Astros error.
