Avalanche Preserve gets Boyne City Attention

Boyne City's Avalanche Mountain will get attention this year, thanks to a combination of Soil Conservation Service, Michigan Youth Corps, and the city contingency fund.

The combined effort is part of a face-saving job that will spread over a few years to prevent erosion on the steep side of the mountain.

At Tuesday's city commission meeting, district conservationist Terry De Bruyn reported on a topographical survey and a proposed walkway. The path would help to reduce erosion on the face of the mountain as well as provide for safety and enjoyment of the view from that eminence.

DeBruyn said the walkway would be comprised of 150 feet of wood-chip trail and about 250 feet of steps, spread out to ease the climb which is 187 feet high.

The walkway would end with a viewing platform, built at the point where the first chairlift tower used to be.

Commissioners reviewed the tentative materials cost which could come to $4,000, but which would be the main expense, and decided to approve the project.

"I don't think we'll ever have a better opportunity to do this," said commissioner Thelma Behling. "And something has to be done."

City clerk Tom Garlock added, "The question is on recreation (expenditure) how far can we spread ourselves...but we have to save the hill."

No line item in the budget covers the expense, although policy statements commit the city to advance conservation on the mountain. As a result the money will come from contingency funds.

A decision was necessary Tuesday in order to take advantage of an opening in SCS scheduling. The project may possibly be complete by September. Additional projects may be undertaken next year, both for safety and to prevent further erosion.

Commissioners questioned DeBruyn on another erosion problem, that of the north side of Boyne River, downtown. DeBruyn said the city's funding request is fifth on the priority list.

"Our engineers are strapped without funding," he said. The proposal has to go through the Resource Conservation and Development arm of the SCS. Hope is for the job to be done in 1985.

In other business, Garlock reported a produce stand will go in next to Pat's Bait Shop. The owner from out of town will serve the community from a mobile store which expands to provide shopping space, and which will be taken down and removed during winter.

A paved parking area will go in front of the stand, which Department of Agriculture approval.

Garlock said Front Street paving will be done by Thursday, and the seven new streetlights will go on. Seven more will be added by One Water Street to balance the effect.

A light for night fishing will go in on the south side of the river like the one already on the north side.

Michigan Bell will bury phone lines along the east side of the sidewalk. "Anything they dig up will be replaced as good as or better than it was before," Garlock said.

Problems with the concrete, back of Bartlett's Furniture, will be remedied.

EJ Postal employee files EEO complaints

Charges by a 43-year-old Vietnam veteran, Cloyce Carl Miller, are being investigated by the Equal Employment Opportunity section of the Saginaw District post office after Miller complained to them about the harassment that he has been receiving on the job at the East Jordan Post Office.

The charges are under investigation by Gertrude Bowman of the post office who is looking into harassment on the job due to Miller being the only male mail clerk in the office, general harassment about the job that he is doing, and harassment because he is a partially disabled Vietnam veteran.

The Charlevoix resident was hired by the post office on June 14, with, according to Miller, full knowledge of the disability that he sustained while serving in Vietnam.

Miller was injured when the convoy he was traveling in was hit by enemy rocket fire during a rocket attack. His vision was affected due to a scar on his retina in one eye as well as other injuries he sustained.

Miller is receiving benefits from the government amounting to a 40 percent disability.

Miller called Pat Kline, the district service officer working exclusively with Vietnam veterans, to help him try to work out the complaints with the management of the post office.

Kline is working with Miller, acting on his behalf as his representative to help make sure Miller's rights are protected.

"Any disabled vet has to put up with a lot," said Kline, "They all have a cross to bear and the employers should be able to respect that fact that these men have already given a lot to their country."

According to Miller, other veterans who were hired by the East Jordan Post Office were subjected to the same kind of treatment by the management and quit rather than face it. Miller said that he perhaps had more knowledge of the system and how it works as he filed a complaint against the management of the post office.

In reviewing his complaint, Miller said that "The State of Michigan treats their prisoners better than the East Jordan Post Office management treats employees."

The next hearing on the complaints will be Thursday, August 9, after the hearing was postponed from a previous date.

Miller, who is provisional employee of the Post Office is not protected by the union as he hasn't worked long enough to qualify, said that the union is also ready to file grievances against the present management of the post office.

People are coming from miles away to Boyne City early Saturday mornings to shop through the many displays of produce that appear weekly at the Farmers' Market that is held at the Old City Park near the downtown. As the season progresses, more and more farmers will be bringing in their fresh-picked merchandise to sell.

DSS warning parents of fake workers

The Charlevoix and Emmet County Departments of Social Services are warning the residents of both counties to be alert to anyone attempting to remove children from their homes on the pretext of child abuse. There have been several reports of persons falsely representing themselves as employees of the Department of Social Services or the Department of Public Health and attempting to remove children from their homes. On July 25th, two women made such an attempt in Millersburg which is near Onaway. In May, five other incidents were reported in Beaver-ton, Sanford, Alma, and St. Louis areas.

Two suspects were involved in the May impersonations, and it is not certain whether one of these suspects was joined by a third in the Millersburg incident or if it was two different people. The four descriptions of the suspects have been released.

The first suspect was described as a white female, 30 to 40 years of age, 5'8" to 5'10", 180-250 lbs, broad full face, large nose, mole on upper lip and lower left cheek. She has yellowed or stained teeth, bad breath and strong body odor. She uses makeup base only or heavy makeup and is probably wearing wigs as her hair is described from dark brown to strawberry blonde.

The second suspect is a white male, 34 to 40 years of age, tall, heavy, stocky build, black curly hair, bushy eyebrows, large broad flat nose, and round full face. He talks with a southern accent and his right little finger is missing. He dresses neatly in a three-piece suit and has well manicured hands. He uses Old Spice after-shave lotion and wears mirrored sun glasses.

The third suspect is a tall, white female, 30 to 35 years of age, with dark hair. She has a very prominent scar on the right side of her neck.

The fourth suspect is a white female 30 to 35 years of age with dyed blond hair. She has a large mole on the left side of her face.

Four different vehicles have been described in these incidents. They include an older model AMC Gremlin, a dark blue 1975 Oldsmobile or Ford station wagon, a brown Chevrolet and a green car. Occasionally, the cars have had some type of shield on the door.

Richard H. Tilden and Jerry Jone-son, Directors of the Charlevoix County and Emmet County Departments of Social Services both indicated that when DSS employees intervene to protect endangered children they must have a court order and/or be accompanied by a police officer before they can remove children from their parents' home. Gerald Chase, Administrator of the District 3 Health Department stated that their employees do not remove children under any circumstances.

Since the impersonators in Millersburg had official-looking computer printouts which contained information about the victims of this attempt, people should be extremely cautious if confronted by anyone who makes accusations of child abuse and attempts to remove children from their home. It is suggested in such situations that people call their local police department and/or their local Department of Social Services before releasing their child to anyone.

Anyone who hears of this type of incident is requested to immediately contact their local police department and the Office of Inspector General in Lansing at 517-373-8485.

Lamprey control attempt set for Boyne, Jordan rivers

The continuing battle against the sea lamprey by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) will soon come to the Jordan and Boyne rivers.

Sea lamprey control basically consists of eliminating lamprey larvae in streams flowing into the Great Lakes, thereby protecting the Lakes' fish populations.

A FWS crew of fishery biologists and technicians with experience in sea lamprey control will arrive from Ludington on July 31 to set up mobile living quarters and laboratory facilities at the East Jordan Tourist Park.

Initial work will include stream velocity and volume measurements, water chemistries, bioassays, and placement of control equipment, according to Robert Morman, supervisor of sea lamprey control at the FWS Ludington Biological Station in Ludington. A critical study of stream flow patterns is done with rodamine WT dye, a material that may turn the water a bright pink, but is nontoxic to people, fish and wildlife.

This initial information will then be used to determine the amount of lampicide (TFM) that will be applied to the stream and the duration of the treatment.

The lampicide, at levels of concentration used in the treatment, selectively destroys lampreys, but is nontoxic to humans, pets, livestock and other animals. Once in a great while fish kills take place. For example, fish weakened through spawning may die as a result of the treatment, as well as other fish that are weakened by disease, spawning or are unhealthy due to pollution. In addition, any aquatic organisms, such as bait minnows, that are confined artificially in the stream water may be susceptible to the lampicide because of crowding and handling. Those individuals who keep such organisms should consider using an alternate supply of water during treatment.

State fish and game agencies are contacted prior to TFM treatments as are municipalities that use streams as sources of potable water. Agricultural irrigators will also be notified and asked to suspend irrigation for a 24-hour period during and immediately after treatment.

Before development of the lampri-cide and the control program, sea lampreys had virtually eliminated lake trout populations in the Great Lakes. The control program initiated in 1956 by the Great Lakes Fishery Commission, was begun in tributaries of Lake Superior in 1958. Lake Michigan streams were first treated in 1960, followed by treatment of Lake Huron tributaries in 1961 and Lake Ontario tributaries in 1972.

The Jordan and Boyne rivers were last treated in 1981 and the current effort will be the sixth and seventh treatments, respectively, of the streams since 1961.

FWS records indicate the sea lamprey first invaded Lake Ontario in the early 1800's and subsequently entered Lake Erie via the Welland Canal around 1921. Within a few decades, the lampreys infiltrated the upper Great Lakes and severely reduced the number of lake trout and other fish species.

Repeated treatment of tributaries to the Great Lakes are necessary for control because of the impossibility of eliminating adult lampreys in the Great Lakes. Adult lampreys enter the streams to spawn, after which they die. The larvae live in the stream bottom for several years. Later, as adults, they move into the lake to prey on fish. The control program is designed to remove the larvae in the streams before they can develop into the adult parasitic form.

Swarm situation serious says city resident

Judi Kenyon looks with distaste at a spoonful of dead bees scooped up after they swarmed into her home in Boyne City last Saturday.

Judi Kenyon met about 3000 bees Saturday and decided no thanks. The bees had chosen her house for their new home, so Kenyon called LeRoy Barnes, a bee keeper in Walloon Lake. Barnes said later that she sounded pretty calm so he went ahead to finish cating calm.

When the phone rang again and Kenyon exclaimed, "I'm allergic to bees!" Barnes and his wife forgot a lunch and hurried over to capture the swarming insects.

Kenyon described the scene. Bees covered the windows, the light fixtures, and filled the closet. Barnes, she said, put his hands right into the swarm.

She found out later that bees are not likely to sting while swarming, but they will the moment they decide where to settle down. They naturally sting if they have to protect their arrangements.

What Barnes was trying to do was locate their queen, because the bees would not leave without her. It was a losing battle because the bees began getting in under the roof. So there was nothing to do but destroy them. A four-hour job for which the Barneses would accept no money.

Barnes said bees swarm when the hive becomes overcrowded. All bee keepers should be licensed, he said, as a means of making sure hives are tended well enough to prevent swarming.

While the swarming itself isn't dangerous, having bees setting up business in your house can be very dangerous to those with bee allergies.

Another swarm was reported last week when a delivery truck was covered with bees.

Kenyon said, as she surveyed the heaps of bee carcasses in her front yard, "I realize bees have their purpose, but when your sky is black with them, it's frightening."

That night she picked up the Readers' Digest to read something calming after a long day's bee clean-up.

The first article she turned to was—you're right—on bees.

RAPE

"Insensitivity to the trauma of rape is a vexing problem. We must stop treating rape as a sex crime - it is a crime of violence. It is the most degrading, severe battery and deprivation of privacy, dignity and civil rights a person can endure short of homicide. It should be treated accordingly.

PRISON OVERCROWDING

"I believe that if a person DESERVES to go to prison he or she should be sent there. The condition of our prisons is a legislative problem, not a judicial problem. The refusal to send repeat and serious offenders to prison does not solve the prison overcrowding problem. It creates a more serious problem. In the long run it CONTRIBUTES to the overcrowding situation by failing to deter crime.

SENTENCING

"The failure to impose a fair sentence INSULTS the victim and OUTRAGES the community. It leaves the criminal free to commit further crimes. We need more and better treatment programs and we should always strive to rehabilitate. However, sentences that lack the element of PUNISHMENT fail to DETER crime, degrade the victims and outrage everyone's sense of fairness.

CHILD ABUSE

"Having worked as juvenile officer and children's worker I have had the opportunity to observe the devastating effects that criminal sexual conduct has upon children. Many of them bear the psychological scars for the rest of their lives. If we are to deter the shocking volume of such crime we must send a message to those so inclined: If they are going to engage in such conduct, they assume the risk of receiving substantial punishment.

Opinions

In a primary, the minority can control

Next Tuesday, the next circuit court judge, the next sheriff, the next county clerk, the next state representative, and quite a few other political contests will be decided.

Decided by what could be less than the majority of voters and perhaps not who the majority of voters want to serve them. Why? Because the voters making the decision on who to vote for in the general election this coming November, will be the ones who can control what the rest of us voters will get a chance to vote upon.

All those political positions will be decided by a lot less than the majority. About 75 percent less if the norm votes next week.

Yes, only about 25 percent of the voters will control who we will be able to vote for in November, and they will influence the entire political scene for the next few years because of their voting.

When you add the fact that a Democrat being elected in Charlevoix County is a real rarity, you can see the importance of the primary election, and the fact that very few voters could almost control the fate of the county and the area.

One person running for office told us that if he receives only 3,000 votes for the two county area he represents, he will be assured of winning in November.

For that reason, it sure doesn't make much sense for the volunteers, and the voters who are supporting the various candidates to spend the hundreds and hundreds of dollars trying to influence the very few voters to vote for their candidate. And the monies that office holders will control and spend every year that they are in office are being told by the "stay-at-home" non-voters that they don't care how and what for the money is spent upon.

Only by voting can we, the electors, be able to apply some controls on those we elect. We can demand accountability for the spending of the funds, and for the return of services only if we vote.

We urge all those who are reading this editorial to make sure that they read all they can about the candidates, know what they stand for, what their qualifications are to represent us, and how they stand on various issues.

And most importantly, get out of the house and vote. After all, the voters control the future.

Marshall Sayles

I was shaving in the bathroom the other morning pleased as punch at that shockingly handsome face when suddenly I was in the dark.

I don't mean just ordinary dark. I mean door shut, no window in the bathroom dark. Blacker than that new blacktop at the tail end of Front Street.

The lights were not out long, perhaps ten or fifteen seconds, but long enough to stop me from shaving lest I rend that splendid proboscis assunder.

In those few seconds, if I had rearranged my prize-winning features in such a manner that it would have caused people to point and ask questions, I would have sued the pants off our juice supplier. (Well, maybe I wouldn't go quite that far. For all I know there might be a weaker vessel among the powers to be.)

But ah! With the lights back on and my fetching image all shaved and lotioned, I got to thinking. I would never sue our supplier of ins and outages. Most of the time our electricity is in, not out. Besides, where would I go for current? Not to the store. An economy size bag of Amps and Ohms wouldn't keep our TV going through a Ronald Reagan press conference. Horrors!

And not to Consumers Power Company. I've heard through a vine of grapes that they may go bankrupt and sell their electric poles for firewood. One hears whispers that if they, by chance, should remain in business they may raise their rates so high there won't be any high left. (Imagine getting high merely by turning on your lights?)

If you think Consumers is in trouble, you should have been around when the REA went into the business of throwing alternating current into every farm, barn and outhouse. A Democrat administration did it. And when the first rural switch was flipped some Republicans went outside and bayed at the moon.

But when those moon bayers discovered how much more they could sell to an all-electric farm, their howling seemed to wane. They stopped ranting and referred to the brand new REA as one of the Democrat's agreeable blunders. (Today, some Republicans are employed by the REA. How's that for standing the world on its head?)

But to get back to slashing my face all to pieces in the dark with blue blood dripping off my chin. If that should happen, and if I were to become unrecognizable to the vast number of well-placed people I know, most of whom live in Elmira and Clarion, I'd sue—weaker vessels and all.

Or I would threaten to shun Walter Mondale and turn my conscience over to the safe deposit box of the Republican Party.

A trick like that should come as a clap of thunder to the Democratic Party. And I'll bet the juice would flow into our house, not willy-nilly, but all the time—even during Monday night football games.

At least an intelligent person would think so.

Me being the intelligent person.

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

Things are sure poppin' around here, what with the Polish Festival, the art shows, Castle Farms, and Polo.

If someone comes up to me and says that he is bored, there is nothing to do. I'll look him straight in the eye and tell him just a few things that he can do for openers. Then I will tell him what he can do with all his spare time, like visit some of the golf courses, or take in some water sports.

In the meantime, some of the other parts of the Boyne Boom have started to slow down. Construction wise, I mean, while the contractors get time to catch their breath before they tackle some of the other jobs that are to start soon.

Again and again I keep hearing from other folks in other towns that all of the Boyne folks are lucky to have so much development going on in the town. They keep reminding me that the address of the eighties is going to be Boyne City. I hope so, as I know a lot of people who are betting the same thing.

And I wouldn't want them to be proven wrong.

Just this last weekend, one of the townspeople said to me that we are turning into a tourist type town as he came downtown last Sunday night and saw all of the lines waiting to gather in a few calories at some of the local food spots.

I wanted to be among those who are telling him that he is probably right. We are turning into a tourist type of town, albeit slowly. Almost too fast for most of the local folks though. I also hear them complaining about how long it takes to get through town.

At least we don't have to worry about the bridge going up every 30 minutes. Maybe we could reinstate our campaign to get that half of the Zilwaukee bridge to go over the Boyne River so those who want the traffic to build up can have their way.

Now I would like to see a bridge myself, but I would like to see it put over the river somewhere in the vicinity of the airport, and have it go from M-75 on the south over to State Street on the north, heck, just make it go all the way to Wildwood Harbor Road up at the top of the hill.

Then I would like to see the County Road Commission do a couple of other things while they are building the bridge, like take the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road and have that made into a state highway.

And then have them also curb and gutter, complete with storm drains, M-75 as it comes into town and make it a four lane road.

While all this is going on, I would like to see the city make Lake Street a four lane road, too. From the intersection of Water Street all the way north out to the city limits.

If I could get a lot of people to tell our city manager the same thing, such might be put on the planning for some time down the short road, if I can use a cliché to reinforce the point.

Then we could bring the Bosses over to Boyne to show us how to plant geraniums, or some other kind of plant that would stay blooming all summer.

But then, do we really need to have someone come in, or someone to tell us what was done in another town? My thinking says that we should try to do things different than other towns. If only because we are different.

East Jordan is different than Boyne. The Falls has their own unique little community also. Each should be able to have its own identity, just like Charlevoix is making theirs.

Enough of my rantings and ravings. Be sure and vote for me to be king and then we will be able to do all the things that I want to see in the community. At least be sure to get out and vote next Tuesday.

Editor,

In the summer, the name of the game is baseball, and northern Michigan takes this sport seriously.

Your season's coverage of area Little League and Senior league action was outstanding, especially the team pictures.

Your sports columnist, Jerry Froats, is on a roll, and it is his column that we read first.

Thanks for your support of young people in this community.

BV Garden Club plans annual show

Thirty members of Boyne Valley Garden Club met on Thur., July 26th at Litzenger Apts. This marked the opening of a new year for the Club—new officers having been installed at the June meeting. Newly elected president Winifred Shields opened the meeting with the Club Collect.

The tentative budget for '84 was presented and adopted. Two workshops were scheduled for the latter part of August.

Boyne Valley Garden Club will stage its fifth Flower Show on Thurs., Aug. 16, 1984 at the Presbyterian Church of Boyne City. General Show Chairman Nellie Floodquist was given time to present problems still facing those responsible for the success of the show.

Following the business meeting, Phyllis Block of Charlevoix presented a program entitled "Simplicity in Summer Arrangements" and she did exactly that—creating seven outstanding arrangements. For several she used road-side flowers and foliage. Garden flowers were also used in arrangements that could be used for a variety of occasions.

Hostesses for the afternoon meeting were Lola Steinbrecher, Agnes Darbee, and Helen Lake.

Born to Mary Cay and Rocky Puska, of Newaygo, at Mecosta General Hospital in Big Rapids, on July 15, their

Cooking

FROM MY MAILBOX

I would like to pass along a mixture of ideas and recipes from my mail box which I am happy to share with other readers. I realize that when someone is happy enough about a recipe to share it with me, it is always very special.

I wish to thank Blanche Perszyk of Lake Ann for her letter about "cakes we have lived with." She tells about "Aunt Martha's whipped cream cake" which was her mother's contribution to picnics—two or three layers, simple vanilla, with lots of good country whipped cream generously applied between layers and on top. For home consumption her mother made molasses cake made in a large rectangular pan and covered with boiled brown sugar and cream frosting or lemon sauce. "There were 8 of us kids so cake never lasted long! I recall that we grew up with Hersheys cocoa, not chocolate, but the powdered cocoa." Blanche sent me this recipe that her mother used for many years, clipped from the "Michigan Farmer" magazine.

CRANBERRY DESSERT

In a flat sided 4 inch high round casserole she layered:
1-Cranberry sauce (either strained or whole)
2-Rolled white crackers
3-Whipped cream
Repeat until full and top with whipped cream. Chill several hours to blend flavors and set. Thanks, Blanche.

The recipe for the cranberry dessert and the next one convinces me that we should not limit our pumpkin and cranberry recipes to the fall and winter holidays. The canned ones are as good any time of the year. June Morey of Ferndale, sent me this recipe by way of her Mother, Anne Jenkins.

PUMPKIN ROLL

Ingredients:
½ cup pumpkin

3 eggs
1 cup sugar
¾ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Combine all the above ingredients and mix well. Line a greased jelly roll pan with waxed paper and grease wax paper. Pour batter into pan. Bake 375 degrees for 15 minutes. When cake is done flip over on a tea towel sprinkled with powdered sugar. Remove waxed paper. Roll and refrigerate one hour.

Filling:

1 cup powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 teaspoons margarine

Combine all ingredients until smooth and creamy. Unroll cake and spread over entire top surface. Reroll cake and refrigerate one hour.

Keep refrigerated. A nice summer dessert.

Anne's sister sent me this next recipe "from a nice restaurant in Stonestown, San Francisco, enjoyed on April Fool's day, 1984."

BAKED BANANAS

Ingredients:
4 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
1 teaspoon lemon juice
4 firm ripe bananas
1 tablespoon dark brown sugar
Dash of nutmeg
Roasted walnuts

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

1-Put butter, lemon rind and lemon juice in baking dish and place in oven for 2-3 minutes, just long enough to melt butter. Remove and stir.

2-Peel bananas, cut into thirds on the diagonal and put in baking dish, turning so they are coated with butter mixture.

3-Sprinkle brown sugar, nutmeg and walnuts over them

4-Bake 8 to 10 minutes.

Serve hot with heavy cream, warm syrup and muffin.

From Donna's Kitchen with Love.

P.S. Let me reassure you that these baked bananas are very good served without the cream and syrup if one is counting calories.

Grandview Aux to hold meeting

The next regular meeting of the Grandview Auxiliary will be Thursday, August 9, at 2:00 p.m. at the facility. Mary Herbon will speak on "The East Jordan Family Health Center—What We're Doing—Where We're Going." Mrs. Herbon is a member of the Board of Directors of the East Jordan Family Health Center, and in March she attended, along with two other directors, the Annual Meeting of the National Association of Community Health Centers in Washington, D.C. They also took that opportunity to visit the Michigan Congressmen in Washington to discuss problems facing the community health centers.

The Grandview Medical Care Facility had a very successful Tag Day on July 13, due to the generous support of the communities in Charlevoix County and the hard work of the members and friends of the Grandview Auxiliary. Approximately $3,000 was collected. This permits the Auxiliary to purchase six additional wheelchairs for the facility.

Big Rock back on line after refueling, maintenance

Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant was returned to commercial operation after being shut down since May 30 for maintenance and refueling.

Big Rock Point, located five miles northeast of Charlevoix on Lake Michigan, is one of two operating nuclear plants owned by Consumers power and generates approximately 70,000 kilowatts of electricity.

During the outage, approximately one-third of the fuel in the reactor's core was removed and replaced with new fuel bundles. In addition, many maintenance activities were completed, including the replacement of a water line which had developed a leak prior to shutdown.

"Although the plant was ready for startup early Monday, regulatory delays postponed its return to service until today," said David P. Hoffman, Big Rock Point plant superintendent. "Despite the delay, the plant is now back in operation at a time when electric demand is typically at its peak because of heavy use of air conditioning equipment by our residential customers."

Assisting the plant staff with round-the-clock outage work were approximately 30 of the utility's field maintenance workers from Muskegon and Bay City along with other Consumers Power employees from Jackson and Midland and contract personnel from Michigan and out of state.

Big Rock Point is the oldest commercial boiling water reactor operating in the world and the second oldest commercial nuclear plant operating in the United States. When it began commercial operation in December 1962, it was Michigan's first and the nation's fifth commercial nuclear plant.

"This year's outage was routine with no unexpected problems," said Hoffman. "The company's management and plant staff were pleased to be able to return the unit to service almost on schedule."

New SCORE chapter organized for area

A local unit of SCORE the Service Corps of Retired Executives, has been organized to serve Northwest Michigan according to Raymond L. Harshman, Michigan District Director of the U.S. Small Business Administration. The SCORE unit is jointly sponsored by the Northwest Regional Development Corporation, located in Traverse City, and the SBA.

SCORE, which was established in 1964 and is sponsored by the SBA is a national organization of retired business persons who volunteer their time to help both prospective and current small business people become better managers. "SCORE counseling is an integral part of SAB's programs," said Harshman. "The reason for 90% of all business failures is poor management and SCORE is an outstanding resource to address this problem. I am delighted to announce that this service is now available in Northwest Michigan. This year SCORE counselors will assist over 4,000 current and prospective business owners in Michigan."

SCORE will be headquartered locally at the Northwest Regional Development Corporation's offices at 160 East State Street, Traverse City, Michigan 49684. Appointments can be arranged by calling 616-946-5922. Counseling is free and all information is held in strict confidence.

In order to help SCORE serve the Northwest Michigan small business community, additional volunteers from all business disciplines are needed. Men and women who have had successful business careers and who would be interested in sharing their knowledge and experience, should consider joining SCORE. For more information, contact Jim McConnell at the Northwest Regional Development Corp

Marchinkewicz, Zundel to chair Bike-a-thons

The Central Regional Office of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital announced today that the following individuals in Charlevoix County have agreed to chair the 1984 Bike-A-Thons in their communities.

Mrs. Phyllis Marchinkewicz for Boyne Falls and Mrs. Sharon Zundel for Charlevoix will each chair separate Bike-a-Thons this fall.

At St. Jude, scientists and physicians are working side by side seeking not only a better means of treatment, but also the causes, cures and prevention of these terrible killers.

The Bike-a-Thon program is dedicated to "Jamie". Jamie is from Ohio and was diagnosed with leukemia in May of 1983, and began treatment at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. Today, her cancer is in remission and she is doing quite well.

Funds raised in the events this fall will help assure the continuation of the work at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

Lamprey

Since the advent of lamprey control, lake trout have survived and are showing promise of become self-sustaining through natural reproduction, according to the FWS. Most of the lake trout planted in the Great Lakes are produced in FWS hatcheries.

Sea lamprey control also benefits brook, brown and rainbow trout, and coho and chinook salmon planted by the Departments of Natural Resources in states and provinces bordering the Great Lakes.

The FWS emphasized that the fishery now enjoyed in the Great Lakes is dependent on sea lamprey control, and would soon decline or disappear if the control program were discontinued.

IT'S TIME FOR A CHANGE!

We need teamwork in Lansing—coordination between Local, State and Federal Governments.

Ken Staley has accomplished this many times during his service to the public

Look at the record of our Charlevoix team under his administration.

- The Corps of Engineers Pine River Channel work hung fire for 10 years before the Corps finally accepted responsibility to do the project during his administration as Mayor.
- He initiated a Boundaries Act Amendment which aided in saving 7,000 jobs in the Battle Creek area.
- Convinced the Environmental Protection Agency of Charlevoix's water needs and was instrumental in obtaining a $2 million grant from State and Federal sources to aid in development of new water system.
- Encouraged city cooperation with S TATE Highway Department and Keep Charlevoix Beautiful which has resulted in a corridor of petunias along the highway.
- Actively promoted salmon fishery in Charlevoix County — 400,000 chinook were planted this spring which will promote tourism in our area and rid our beaches of alewives.
- Promoted Sand Dune Control and recreation development at Mt. Mc Sauba through the State Youth Corps and Federal Soil Erosion Agency.
- During 8 years on Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners was instrumental in bringing about professionalism and new dimensions and new innovations for better and more efficient county government.
