City alters beach plan, looks for DNR approval

Boyne's proposed Peninsula Beach is up for Department of Natural Resources approval. A few changes will include a promenade past docked pleasure boats out to the end to a lighthouse gazebo. Other changes will make for a narrower but longer swim beach.

A few changes on Peninsula Beach plans won Boyne City commissioners' approval at their noon meeting Tuesday. The recommendations will go to the Department of Natural Resources whose approval is all that's needed for the project to move.

City manager Randy Frykberg said the beach and its tie-in with the total waterfront development "is one of the most exciting things for the area."

With the development of One Water Street, the shoreline will have unified public access from the city parks all the way to the proposed beach.

The chief change in the beach plans is to move the position of the beach 28 feet. Formerly the plans called for a head dock for The Harborage Marina to run parallel with the manmade peninsula. With the change the dock will be omitted, the boat slips running up to a promenade along the edge of the peninsula instead.

The promenade will, by virtue of the shift, be on Harborage property, and maintained by the developer, but would be available to the public, for strolls out to the city's gazebo lighthouse at the end of the peninsula.

The other change was in the profile of the peninsula, making a narrower but longer beach.

Also on the meeting's agenda was a proposal for a millage request by the city historical advisory board to go on the city's special election ballot, scheduled for March 19.

The special election was originally planned for deciding on a city commissioner to replace the late Marvin Loding. Commissioners preferred the ballot to making an appointment.

In asking that the funding request go again, Loton Willson, chairman of the historical advisory board said he thought the number of issues on last November's ballot diminished the attention the board's millage request received.

The city commission voted to place the request for one mill for one year only on the special election ballot. Commissioner Thelma Behling noted that the request lost in November "by only 100 votes."

The historical board needs the funds to buy a building to use as a museum. The city has no one place at present to assemble or display historical materials and artifacts.

Willson said there were two buildings that were candidates to be the museum. The need is for about $35,000 to purchase and rehabilitate one of them.

One mill equals one dollar per thousand of property evaluation.

Frykberg showed the commissioners a letter from Michigan Historical Commission saying the Wolverine Hotel (recently, the Dilworth) was now listed in the state Register of Historical Places, "judged to be architecturally significant."

This acceptance by the state commission, Frykberg said, is an important element in the total project funding package.

Frykberg also announced that for the rest of the winter the landfill's Monday hours would be reduced to from 1 to 3 p.m.

A vacancy on the Board of Appeals was filled when commissioners elected Thelma Behling as one of the two city commission representatives.

The commission also approved the installation of a high pressure sodium street light to go in by the new ramp for ice shanties. Consumers will install the light in about a week, Frykberg said. It will cost between $30 to $40 per year.

East Jordan to buy more parking sites, ambulance

Two adjoining sites in downtown East Jordan have been approved for purchase for city parking lots. The city council at its January 15 meeting voted to amend the budget by $24,000 for purchase of the property belonging to Bill and Doris Huckle, located next to the Civic Center.

Earlier the council had voted to purchase the land and house next to it for $18,000. This property belonged to John and Anita Peebles, and is located on the corner of Second and Esterly Streets.

According to city superintendent Mike Dionne, the hope is that the city can develop part of the land this spring for parking for up to 30 vehicles. One advantage will be to take off some of the pressure for Civic Center parking, city commissioners said.

Dionne said that for the time being, the house will not come down.

The parking area will be put to work when the Chamber of Commerce begins its weekly bingo games. Also at the January 15 meeting, the council voted to rent the Civic Center to the Chamber on a one year contract with re-negotiation at the end of the year.

The motion passed over the objections of councilman Al Joseph who had reminded the council that rent for the Center had been set at $200 a night. The contract with the Chamber set it at about $75 a night, or $350 the first six months, $300 the second six months.

Joseph pointed out that weekly clean-up costs would total $911 for the year. Costs of opening up the building for 6 1/2 hours would be $1,137.50. Joseph also added in the purchase of tables and chairs, the possible purchase of a refrigerator and hot plate and a $400 floor-refinishing that building use would possibly entail.

To this, council members replied that some of the costs would occur regardless, and in sum, since the city did not contribute financially to the Chamber as many cities do, this was something that could be done.

A request for a special use permit went back to the zoning commission. The commission is to set a hearing date concerning the operation of Barbara Worgess' proposed home accounting service at 508 Main Street.

The city council acted on a proposal to purchase a demonstrator ambulance with 7,000 miles on it. Ambulance director Bernie Hammond said the total delivered price would be $29,900 on the $45,000 vehicle. Trading in the old ambulance would reduce the price to $26,900.

State picking up Task Force idea

Five months ago Dick Beagle accepted the job of directing the county's new Business and Industry Task Force.

Now the job of making up financial packages and contacting various state agencies will be simplified, for the state itself will be picking up on the Task Force idea.

Such resources as the Michigan Development Authority, state venture funds, and bonding are in the process of being coordinated into the state's Strategic Investment Fund, making about $60 million available at low interest for business loans.

Beagle explained that the state would not be giving grants to the private sector, but that funds can be obtained by a municipality for loaning to a business or industry.

When these loans are paid back with their interest, they go into a local kitty which is then available to others for borrowing purposes.

In addition, Beagle said, the community's banks may pick up part of the project cost, with the desired result of increased community employment.

Another prong in the state's program is a "growth alliance proposal," Beagle said.

The state recognizes the local need for a professional staff and growth development activity, and is encouraging rural counties to group into units for access to the alliance.

Beagle is working on a growth alliance proposal for Charlevoix, Antrim, and Emmet counties. With the three counties contributing, each in its own manner, the state would then supply 50 percent of operation costs for three years.

Beagle said a three-county budget would be close to $150,000.

In such an arrangement a larger staff would be divided into specialized roles, thus making stronger support for local businesses, for example.

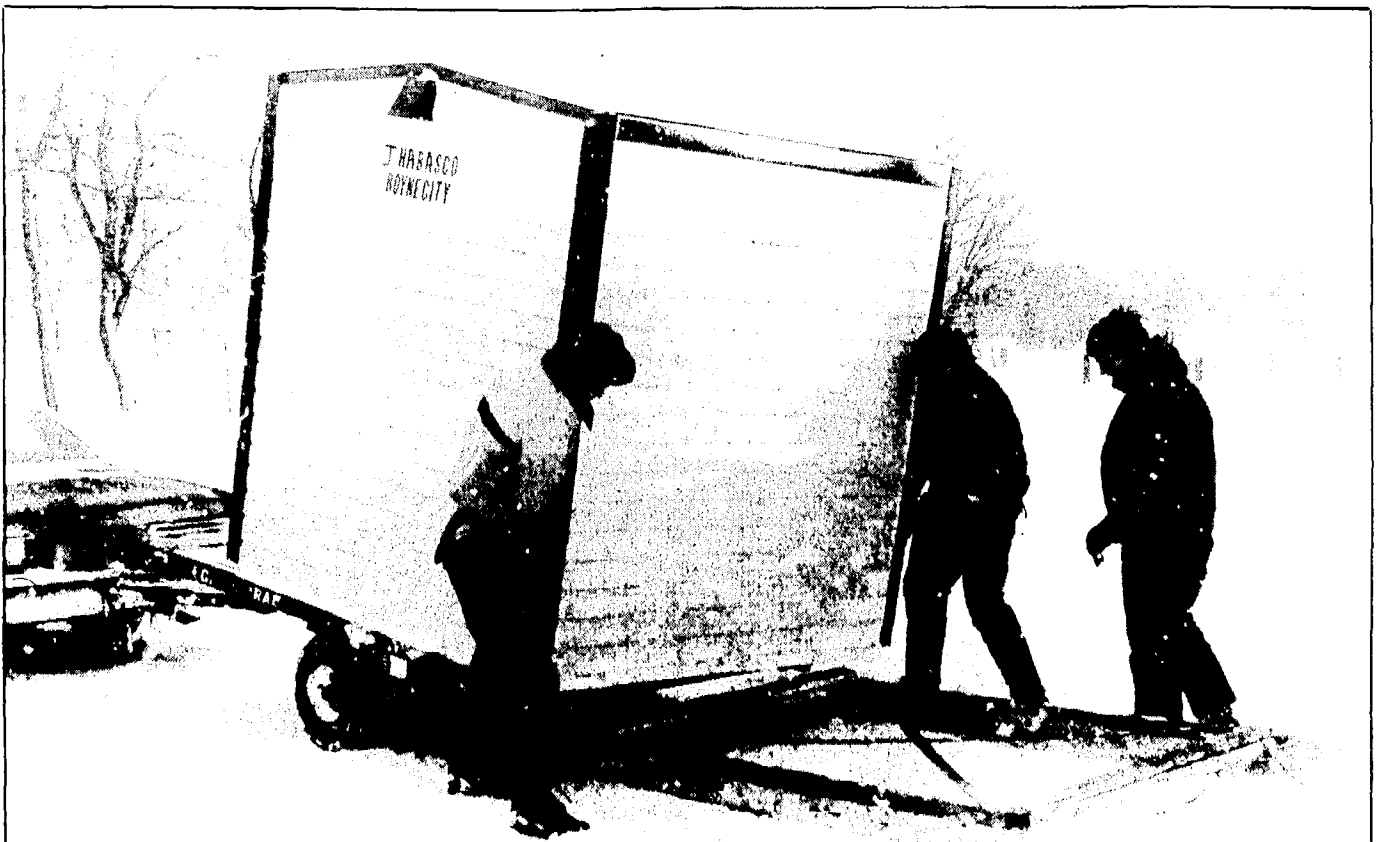

Beagle praised Charlevoix County for initiating its own Task Force. Antrim has begun work toward participating in the alliance and its funding for it.

Emmet passed a resolution last fall in approval of the concept and will begin organizing support soon.

Both Antrim and Emmet have been operating expanded Economic Development Corporations in place of a task force structure.

The state's goal is to set up about Getting ready for Smeltania means that you have to get the shanty constructed, and then find a few friends to help you move it out onto the ice. The Habascos worked Monday afternoon pulling their shanty out in order to be ready for the smelt fishing contest as well as all of the other activities at the Frostival.

A FRIENDLY LETTER

I have received a delightful and nostalgic letter from Francois (Cain) Ridgeway of Sacramento, Calif. recalling her childhood in Boyne City. She writes, "After a period of 45 years, I am starting to re-read the Charlevoix County Press." And she sends me some of her recipes for the "Cooking" column.

She moved with her family to Boyne City in 1929 and she fondly recalls her memories of the library, Methodist Church and school where she spent the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grades. Moving to a farm near East Jordan, she went to a one-room school for the eighth grade, graduating from East Jordan High School in 1937.

She states that her trips back to the area have been few and far between because none of her family live in the area now, though she likes to recall the good times she had here and wonders what happened to her childhood friends.

Here are three of her recipes. These goodies are great to make this time of year when we have those long evenings and indoor parties abound.

POP CORN CAKE

Pop about 4 batches of pop corn, if you have some left over, that is ok.

Put into a large bowl.

Take one cup honey and boil exactly one minute.

Remove from fire and add 1 tablespoon oleo and 1 tablespoon vanilla.

Pour over popped corn.

Meanwhile butter an angel cake pan.

Add the popcorn mixture and press into pan.

Leave overnight, in the morning it will come out the shape of the pan.

Can add peanuts if desired. Very important to boil the honey hard and only one minute.

UNCOOKED CREAMY FUDGE

1# box powdered sugar
1/4 cup cocoa
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cube oleo (1/4 lb)
1/4 cup milk
1 cup chopped walnuts
1 teaspoon vanilla
Melt butter, add milk.

Mix sugar, salt and cocoa together in a bowl.

Add milk and butter to the sugar mixture, beating until completely smooth. Fractions does this in a mixer.

Add nuts and vanilla. Stir again and smooth out on a plate.

P.S. I discovered that I had to add just a very little more milk in order to beat the fudge smooth. This must be done very carefully.

ORANGE SLICE CAKE

An alternative to fruit cake.

1 lb candied orange slices
8 oz. dates
2 cups walnuts
One 3 1/4 oz. can coconut
2 cups sugar
1/2 cup flour
1 cup oleo
4 eggs added one at a time
3 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup buttermilk

Chop orange slices, dates, walnuts and coconut fine and mix with the 1/2 cup flour. Set aside.

Cream the margarine and sugar, add the 2 cups flour and salt mixed together alternately with the soda and buttermilk mixed together.

Then add the orange and nut mixture. Pour into a well greased and floured angel cake pan.

Bake at 300 degrees for 1 hour and 45 minutes. Remove from oven.

While still hot pour glaze over cake.

ORANGE GLAZE

1 cup orange juice
2 cups powdered sugar
Heat to boiling
Cool cake, remove from pan and refrigerate overnight. Keep in freezer a few days before serving.

Smeltania Festival needed to liven up winter

Smeltania. While the word is a coined one, it serves the purpose rather well as the shanties are filling up the ice on the lake for the umpteenth time. And according to some of the fishermen, they really do catch smelt. We should consider ourselves lucky to have such festivals as Smeltania and the Snowblast. They certainly liven up the winter and create a friendly atmosphere for all those who participate.

With its start back in the depression days when smelt was only worth a penny apiece for those who bought them, to the festival of today, where the cost of getting the smelt is not a consideration at all, except for those who like to eat the little creatures and want to go home with a pail full. The traditions that were started years ago are still continuing, and the whole town is the better for it. We have enjoyed going from shanty to shanty for several years now, and we look forward to the continuing of the traditions for many more. Boyne City has two very unique festivals that could grow into real nationally known festivities. Smeltania and the National Mushroom Festival are two such things that the Chamber of Commerce should promote quite heavily. It would be nice to see the streets filled with cars from out of state with their participation in all of the events. The festivals are far more than just the local element, although we sure do enjoy a good time while they are happening. Sure, they both are a lot of work, and the clubs that donate their time and energy into providing all the activities deserve more than just a thank you. But that is about all we can afford at this time, at least until the festivals are bringing in the thousands that they should. In the meantime, we wish everyone who does participate, good fishing, good sledding, and good times.

Marshall Sayles

Well, here I am freezing half to death from an Alberta Clipper when I should be basking in a Florida Scorcher. We heat with oil and a wood stove, but during 15 below zero weather I swear a blue streak, which also helps keep the house warm. If I were a religious man I fear I would freeze wordless, causing a terrible dullness to settle down around and in between Boyne City's huddled mass. * * * The Reagan administration is cutting government spending to the very core. I've seen a very core and it isn't healthy to look at. Even programs aiding the poor are being gnawed away. And the Democrats are yelling: To every man a mouthful, to no man a bellyful. I didn't say that, a Democrat did. I voted for Reagan and I believe everything Nancy tells him to do. * * * When I was a child, one father could arrange to support five children, but today five children are hard put to support one father. That's because the people we call our government in Washington set up nights fingering the nation's money supply, tightening the screws, loosening the screws, chasing the cost of living upstairs and then down into the darkened cellar of despair. Even a fool or an idiot can see what our government is doing to us and so can I. * * * Walking past a beer garden the other day a roundhouse whiff of brimstone seeped out the door, filling my nostrils. Curious to know what was afoot inside, I went in, sat at the bar and ordered my usual glass of water. One man was saying to another, "Well, as I was saying, I found her out in the barn milking a cow. I went up to her and right out asked her to marry me. She didn't look up. She just switched that thing towards me and I got it full in the face." "What the devil did you do," his friend asked, pouring beer from a bottle into a glass, not spilling one drop of the future driving impairment. "Not a thing," he said. "I just walked out leaving her milking that damn cow. And you know something? I wouldn't marry that woman if she had 10 cows and came a crawling to me on her hands and knees." "You fool," his friend said. "She'd be rich. No 10 cow woman is going to come a crawling to nobody these days." The man went on swearing and raving about his woman, saying terrible things. So I finished my water and left, although I didn't really want to go. I found the man so ugly my education was becoming broadened considerably. In fact, he was so mean it was almost a pleasure to listen to him. * * * Let me say something about what I have just written. Telling the truth is for those who have no imagination. * * * I have reached that age in life when I would very much enjoy walking all around inside that huge K-Mart store and not need a single thing they have got to offer.

Remembrances

Back in the days of tailor shops, boys in knickers would look in the window of the shop wondering when they were going to be able to wear long pants. This must have been the case with this picture taken in the early twenties in the Boyne City area, as this boy watches a tailor work at his craft.

Letters

Let nature clean river

Editor, The age old story of man improving on nature—man should not try to improve on nature, he should study it and learn from it. It has many lessons if many will accept it and understand that it has served its purpose from the beginning of time. Man can duplicate nature's conditions like our fish hatcheries, but he cannot change or improve on nature. I have spent a lifetime fishing and trapping rivers and streams, mostly small creeks where brook trout go to spawn. For many years I have trapped mink in November and December on feeder streams, which is what I call them, where the water is shallow, fast and has good clean gravel, and that is where the trout spawn many times with their backs out of the water. That is where you will find the mink and many other living things that feed on spawning fish. Some of the most beautiful sights that a person's eyes can behold wading up a stream are banks covered with beautiful clean fresh snow. There are stories to read in the snow about all the living creatures that God has created; yes, even the birds tell you stories, they feed along the streams and trout is on the menu. My book learning is not too extensive, but nature has given me some wonderful lessons, and I feel that I am indebted to her, and I would like to do something to repay her. That is why I cannot agree with the theory that some people try to put into effect, that in no way is related to what they want to accomplish. Man can destroy nature, but he cannot change it. Let us take for example what man and the Army Corps of Engineers did a few years ago. They spent millions upon millions of dollars to destroy what nature had created, the most perfect water purifier known to man—miles upon miles of lazy slow moving water that flowed down the Kissimmee River in Florida. Now the talk is to restore it back like it was, but it's too late, like many other violations man has committed against nature. What good can be obtained by taking sand out of the Jordan River or any other river? Sand is part of the river, just like the water is. No one has ever seen a trout spawn in deep water of a stream. They go to the shallow waters of the headwaters and feeder stream where nature has provided fast water over clean gravel. The Jordan River can only be helped by man leaving that beautiful river as God has created it. Take this money and hatch and release, that is the modern way to help nature. Look what man did to Bear River just above Mitchell Street Bridge. They took away the deep holes and bends where trout could live and feed, where they had protection, but man destroyed nature and its beauty. They made a mill race out of it, now there is no place for that trout to live, and to me, the beauty has gone.

Barbara Cruden

The way it looks, a lot of people work to grow old. They even seem to work at it. The other day Uncle Gerald muttered "oof" as he got out of his chair. "Must be getting old," he said. But I know why he was stiff. He had sat there for an hour and a half, hardly moving. No ten-year-old child would do that. That's why no ten-year-old gets stiff. I think we discipline ourselves to endure and then it becomes a habit. And then we say, "Ouch, I'm growing old." The poet Dylan Thomas was right when he wrote to his father, "Do not go gently into that dark night." I grit my teeth when I see people smile bravely and say, "Yup, the memory is the first thing to go." Untrue! Nobody tells them that they have come to think in a different way about everyday things. So used to them over the years, they come to pass self-reminders and plans through their thoughts in a hasty fashion, like an experienced housekeeper cleaning up. If they want to remember, they should slow down and become more conscious of what they're thinking. Itemize, in other words, the way they used to. Or maybe they're getting all wrapped up in themselves. No children to cook for, no job to jump for. How their world shrinks down to a self that shrinks even more, day by day. Oh, they are brave about accepting it, but that's the wrong use of courage. Fight self-centeredness. Do not go gently! I think some people know how to enjoy living in communities just for senior citizens, but it's very bad for others. Just one more encouragement to think of oneself as old. An elderly man I knew regained zest for life when a little child next door would sit on his front step just to talk to him and let him teach the names of the different kinds of vehicles going by on the road in front. A violin teacher I knew, who was 83, took up horseback riding and rode in the local shows. Yes, and fell off several times. A lonely woman I knew offered to listen to children who needed practice with their reading. Not everyone sits and broods over their seeming unimportance in the youthful world. Some go to school again. Some paint pictures. Others volunteer or serve in elected office. "But I don't want to do that," is what you hear — the last cry of the quitter. The best way to deal with that is just to get right up and do what one doesn't want to do. Without attention, who knows how many aches and pains would disappear. The old concepts of being old—they gotta go.

Got the Chills? Be alert to "hypothermia."

For millions of Americans, the chilling winds of winter mean more than snow and icy roads. They also bring the danger of "hypothermia." That's a fancy word for the condition in which the body loses heat to a cold or cool environment faster than the heat is replaced. Most vulnerable to hypothermia are the chronically ill, infants and the very old—in other words, those whose systems are generally not strong enough to conserve body heat when the temperature drops. If undetected, hypothermia can quickly prove fatal. Fortunately, awareness of the condition and its symptoms plus some commonsense precautions can prevent the worst from happening. Hypothermia means low body temperature, typically 95°F or lower. And temperatures in the immediate surroundings do not have to fall below freezing for hypothermia to occur. Even household temperatures close to 70° can lower body temperature below the normal 98.6°. Early detection is vital. Loss of body heat dulls the brain so that the victim is unaware of the condition and is dependent on the alertness, knowledge and action of others. Common warning signals are: confusion and reduced alertness; trembling on one side of the body or in one arm or leg; shivering, in the early stages, but absence of shivering as the condition worsens; cold and stiff muscles; cold abdomen and back; difficulty in speaking; slow breathing; bloated face, pale and waxy skin; forgetfulness; drowsiness; unconsciousness; low body temperatures. Anyone displaying these symptoms should be gently wrapped in a warm blanket and emergency help should be summoned immediately. Staying warm involves more than throwing another log on the fire. To guard against hypothermia, older persons should maintain a good diet because food provides necessary fuel and heat for the body. They should also drink plenty of liquids, but refrain from alcohol, which speeds up heat loss and makes it very hard to keep warm. Rest is also important, balanced by a moderate amount of exercise. Indoors, loosely layered, dry clothing will help trap heat around the body. Outdoors, a hat and scarf will cut down on heat loss. Take cold weather seriously - use caution and common sense.

McGeorge honored for membership gain

Twelve charter members of the recently reorganized Boyne City Historical Society made good on their pact Tuesday evening. At their organizational meeting last September, their goal was to enlist new members willing to work toward the development of a museum to house the many historic artifacts from the Boyne area that are currently stored in basements, attics, and garages.

Fulfilling their interest in old-fashioned crafts and skills, members brought a variety of "make it, bake it, stitch it, or grow it" gifts to honor the person who enrolled the most new members. Winning the treasure trove was Carol McGeorge, and Historical Society president, Billie Beckenhauer, even provided an antique trunk to put it all in.

Membership in the organization has grown from the original 12 charter members to over 50. Persons interested in the work of the Historical Society may contact Billie Beckenhauer at 582-9536.

There will be a Developmental Screening Clinic for all children who will be entering kindergarten in the fall of 1986. These clinics are sponsored by the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District. The purpose of these clinics is to provide parents information regarding normal child development, an opportunity to interact with parents of other three year old children, and to have your child informally screened in order to identify any potential learning difficulties which may arise during the school year.

These are a free

PROCEEDINGS OF THE EAST JORDAN CITY COUNCIL

The East Jordan City Council met in regular session, January 15, 1985, at 7:30 p.m., Mayor Merwin presiding and all members present except for fire chief Dick Barnett.

Minutes were accepted, transfer of funds were made and authorization was given to pay $36,991.79 in bills.

City treasurer Murphy reported that $125,929.22 matured at Charlevoix County State Bank and was reinvested at Northwestern State Bank for 61 days at 8.500 percent, $100,000.00 matured at Charlevoix County State Bank and was reinvested at Northwestern State Bank for 35 days at 7.900 percent.

Council agreed to lease the Civic Center to the Chamber of Commerce for one year at the rate of $300.00 a month for the first six months, $350.00 a month for the following six months. The Chamber is to use the Civic Center on Wednesday evenings for the purpose of bingo between East Jordan is having a Blood Drive on Jan. 14, 1985 from 12 noon to 6 p.m. at the Evangelical Lutheran Church in East Jordan.

Giving blood is a simple and relatively painless process. It takes less than an hour to complete. A one pint donation comprises less than 10 percent of the body's total blood supply and is restored in several hours. Yet that simple donation can have far reaching results. A single pint of blood can be broken down into as many as four components. These components can then be used to treat several patients suffering from diseases, such as leukemia or hemophilia or patients who may have lost blood as a result of an accident or injury.

The American Red Cross Blood Services, Wolverine Region, advises us that the present supply may not keep pace with the demand. More donors are scheduled as follows:

Feb. 13 - Charlevoix School District at Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District Service Center.

March 13 - Charlevoix School District at Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District Service Center.

If you are interested in attending the above clinics, or reside in a district other than those listed above, please contact Pat Gauthier, 547-9947, at the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District for an appointment or for further information.

A Resolution to amend the 1984-1985 budget by $24,000.00 for the purpose of a property purchase was adopted.

Council increased city clerk O'Rear's salary from $14,000 to $14,500.

Goldie Turnbull painting heaven after seeing visions of it in sleep

Goldie Turnbull has a message for everyone. Now that she is almost 89 and confined to a wheelchair, she can't spread it very well herself, so she asked the newspaper to print it.

According to Mary Fattal, activities director at the Petoskey Nursing Center, Goldie, as everyone there calls her, has been having visions in which God tells her resurrection is coming. Fattal said Goldie, who is a resident at the center, is a very alert and lovable lady. "And very determined." She said Goldie does not behave in abnormal ways and is well-liked.

Goldie began having visions about three years ago. How often? "Well," said Fattal, "she's had three in the past year."

At that point, Fattal asked Goldie to talk into the phone while a Press reporter took notes.

"Three years ago," began Goldie in an elderly but firm voice, "I felt I had to go out the front door." She explained the door was over in another wing of the building. At the time her wheelchair was one that had to be pushed by someone.

"I didn't know why I had to get out there," she said. She asked for a push from those that passed by in the corridors. Some pushed as far as they were going. Some pushed a few steps.

At last she came to the front door. Goldie said it was after midnight. "I waited a long, long time for someone to open the door."

Eventually someone did, pushed her through, and "When he closed the door," she said, "I was in the most beautiful place, all covered with flowers. I sat there a long, long time admiring the flowers."

"Then God said to me, 'Goldie, this is heaven.'"

She said she eventually fell asleep and when she awoke, she was in her room and it was morning.

Since then her visions have been about the message—the message that "the resurrection is coming sooner than it (says) in the Bible." There are more devils than angels now, she explained. That's why it must be soon.

And instead of a world being destroyed, as it says in the Bible, the world will be saved and transformed.

"We are all going to live on earth in our own homes," she reported. And everyone that is evil, she said, "He will blot out from our memories."

But she hastens to add that God is very forgiving, and those who change their ways will not suffer.

Goldie was born in Harrisburg, PA, moving to northern Michigan with her husband 30 years ago. Her mother died in giving birth and Goldie was told that her grandmother took the baby in her arms, asking that God make her His child.

Some 40 years ago Goldie had a vision three times. She thought she was seeing a picture because it was very like one of Jesus that she had actually seen. But she was reassured that the scene was a vision. The second two times that evening, her husband saw it, too.

As Fattal said, after so many experiences, Goldie is sure that the visions are more than dreams.

So besides encouraging others to obtain forgiveness, Goldie tries to bring them closer to the feeling of heaven by painting pictures of the garden she saw, with rows and rows of red and blue blossoms.

The big ones she sells for $15, the next size for $10, and the smallest for $6. The money goes for paints and paper. Any left over, she gives to fellow residents who don't have money for small items.

She feels an almost overwhelming sense of responsibility about the message, for, she says, God isn't telling it to anyone else.

The American Red Cross Blood Services, Wolverine Region, advises us that the present supply may not keep pace with the demand. More donors are needed. January is National Volunteer Blood Donor Month. We encourage you to give blood in 1985.

More than 95 percent of all Americans reaching age 72 will need blood or one of the products derived from blood in their lifetimes. Please answer the American Red Cross's call by going down to your local blood drive to donate blood. By giving up a small portion of your time you can help to make certain that blood will be available when you or someone else needs it.

Any group or business wishing to contribute to Michigan 4-H or directly to the Charlevoix County 4-H program may contact Green at 582-6232.

28 of these alliances statewide. Beagle explained, "The state itself has tried to do this task force thing, but its chief effort is in promoting the state." It would pass along leads (of an interested business or industry) to local organizations.

Would this bring about the kind of hot competition that occurred when the federal aviation communications center was being bid for by a number of communities?

Beagle said an emphatic no, calling the federal government's approach "a totally inept thing."

With the state, a constant supply of computer data informs communities on what businesses or industries are making inquiries. The community then may, as Beagle said, "put its best foot forward."

Businesses will make their own decisions," he said, noting that the local agency has the responsibility for seeing that development not "outstrip resources," the supply of labor, the capacity of utilities, and so on.

Beagle is on the go much of his working hours, to Lansing, to meetings with business people, to gatherings where the latest in financing is discussed. "A good part of this job is keeping up with all the programs coming along and seeing how they fit," he said.

This busy career began at Michigan State University he said, when he switched from studying mechanical engineering to urban planning, which seemed to him more open-ended.

Beagle worked for Ann Arbor Railroad as marketing and development manager. Just before coming to his present position, he worked for a somewhat different three-county development program in Wexford, Osceola, and Mecosta.

JVs win again for EJ

BY STEVE GEE
After losing their first three games, the East Jordan junior varsity have won five in a row. They defeated the Pellston Hornets 69-56 Friday night to up their conference record to five wins and one loss. The young Devils have put it all together as of late, and have looked outstanding in the last two games. Their defense has improved tremendously and their ability to find the open man is uncanny.

East Jordan jumped out to a 15-10 lead at the end of the first period. Pellston shortened the deficit to one, early in the second period, at 15-14. That is when the Devils came alive. They outscored Pellston 26-9 the remainder of the half to take a 41-23 lead into the lockerroom.

The Red Devils coasted on the rest of the way leading 55-37 at the end of the third and finishing at 69-56. The Devils sank 31 field goals, were 7-14 on the free throw line, pulled down 62 rebounds, and blocked 7

Task Force

Anybody with an interest in developing Charlevoix County is welcome at the county's Business and Industry Task Force office, he said.

Beagle was chosen last year to represent the county in a multifaceted endeavor to improve business in the area. Business and industrial leaders obtained area support, accumulating $25,000 locally, and $35,000 from the state for a one-year "start-up."

The office, located in the Boyne City city hall building, has been solidly busy ever since.

Beagle said, "Our board of directors has put up front the retention of business, and the improvement of the climate for business."

He explained that before heading out after new business, his role was to attend to needs already in the area.

Beagle described one aspect of the job. In viewing any possible improvement, a big need for a business is to consider permits. With the Task Force office as a center for the county, Beagle is in a position to help match the development to the requirements of a host of permits (sanitary, zoning, building, etc.).

Beagle replied, "It would take a good bit of time to make these rules exactly the same...In many cases they should not be exactly the same, because communities have developed rules to fit their particular needs."

Instead, he said, his role was to find ways of fitting them, and to keep time and inconvenience to a minimum.

From permits to the actuality of new business progress, Beagle has to tap into his know-how and into hundreds of agencies.

You might say he's a wander-upper in all senses of the word.

EJ plucks Cardinals

BY STEVE GEE

After trailing by six at halftime, the Red Devils plucked the Cardinals of Johannesburg-Lewiston in the second half. The Red Devils won by a score of 75-63 to up their overall record to 6 and 3 and their conference record remained at 5-1.

East Jordan led 9-8 midway through the first period but found themselves trailing 16-14 at the end of the period. Things were looking worse in the second period as the Cardinals scored six points in a row to take an 8 point lead. At halftime the Red Devils trailed 34-28. East Jordan's two big men, Mike Goebel and Gary Coolman only had 10 points between them.

After regrouping at halftime, the Devils came out of their shell and turned the game around. They outscored the Cardinals 25-10 in the third period and 22-19 in the final period to win 75-63.

The Red Devils sank 26 field goals, were 23-33 on the free throw line, pulled down 45 rebounds, and totaled five blocked shots.

Scott Hart, who had four points in the first half, scored 21 points to lead the Devils. Mike Goebel finished with 18 points (six for six on the free throw line), Gary Coolman totaled 10, and Todd Nachazel added eight. Nachazel played a great defensive game and had many assists.

Goebel led the Red Devils with 15 rebounds. Coolman had 9 caroms and Hart grabbed 7. Goebel had three of the five blocked shots. East Jordan will travel to Harbor Springs Friday.

Boyne varsity drops fourth in a row

BY JERRY FROATS

The Boyne City Ramblers' varsity basketball squad made it four losses in a row last week as they dropped two games. Tuesday's game with the Gaylord Blue Devils resulted in a 70-59 score for Gaylord, and Friday night's game wound up with the Ramblers losing by eight points to the Cheboygan Chiefs, who are currently in second place with a 72-64 score.

Against the Blue Devils the Ramblers matched speed with Gaylord as both teams played run-and-gun action, but the Ramblers' press could not keep the Devils from scoring consistently and Boyne fell behind 18-22 at the end of one quarter of action.

In the second period Gaylord began to break the Ramblers' press effectively and bombed the hoop from way outside and Boyne struggled for rebounds. With time running short before halftime the Ramblers were down 27-40 until Jeff Johnson put up an offensive rebound and brought the team within 11 points at the half.

After Gaylord scored the first two buckets of the second half the Ramblers began to play good catch-up ball as they allowed just 9 points to be scored against themselves. Merle Carson made the score 31-45 on a pass to the low key area and the score went to 33-45 on a Rambler fast break.

Boyne City's zone defense began to pick off Gaylord's passes late in the quarter as Mike Gabos hit a free throw after being fouled on the fast break and made the score 38-51.

With Gaylord getting wild in the passing department Steve Rickard hit one from the top of the key and brought Boyne within 10 points at 1:51 remaining. Boyne finished the quarter trailing 45-51 but had knocked off some 10 points from Gaylord's comfortable lead.

The momentum of the game swung back to Gaylord's favor in the final quarter as the Devils began to penetrate the Rambler zone and hit the open man well. With three minutes left to play the Ramblers frustrated themselves as they had an opportunity to score, but missed on a string of five offensive rebounds.

The Ramblers had balanced scoring as five players hit double figures. Johnson led Boyne with 15 points, Carson, Rickard, Gabos, and Kevin Snyder all scored 10 points each, while Scott Penny and Tony Napont added two points apiece.

Against the high ranking Cheboygan Chiefs Boyne performed considerably better as they kept within striking distance most of the game. The Ramblers fell behind 20-10 in the first quarter of action, and cut that lead to six points 32-28 in the second period.

The Ramblers went off a little in the third quarter and trailed 58-47 as the fourth period began.

The Rambler defense held the Chiefs to 17 points in the quarter but could not hit enough buckets to even the score by game's end.

Carson led the Ramblers in scoring against the Chiefs with 21 points while Johnson was good for 11 points in the game.

With his eyes intently on the basket, Jeff Johnson prepares to let one fly from near the sidelines. Johnson scored 15 points in the matchup against Gaylord and was Boyne City's top scorer in the game.

Devils nip Pellston, now tied for 1st

BY STEVE GEE

After leading by 10 at halftime, the Red Devils had to work hard to pull off the victory. East Jordan defeated Pellston 65-59 Friday night, and thanks to a Central Lake loss to Harbor Springs, the Devils have moved into a tie for first place in the Ski Valley Conference.

East Jordan jumped out to a 13-6 lead early in the first quarter and extended it to 23-14 at the end of the period. The second period was more evenly matched as the Red Devils outscored Pellston 12-11 to take a 35-25 halftime lead. It looked as though East Jordan would chalk up another victory. But things would get shaky in the second half.

Pellston cut the margin to 6 towards the end of the third, but the Devils moved it back up to 8 and they led 49-41 at the end of the third period. The fourth period is when they really needed it. They fought off the Hornets the rest of the way and won 65-59. East Jordan sank 25 field goals, were 15-30 on the free throw line, and pulled down 52 rebounds.

Gary Coolman had an outstanding game as he led the victors with 26 points. Goebel totaled 19 and Scott Hart pitched in with 7. Goebel pulled down 21 rebounds, Coolman grabbed 14, and Hart had 6.

Boyne Falls struggling in basement of standings

BY JERRY FROATS

The Boyne Falls Loggers are continuing to struggle in varsity action as they hold sole position of the basement in the Northern Lakes Conference with a 0-5 win-loss record. The Loggers stepped down last week by losing two games, one to the Mackinaw Comets Tuesday night 70-79, and another to Alba on Friday night 65-78. Alba took a step up in the conference with their win over Boyne Falls and recorded their first victory of the season.

Tuesday's game with the Comets found Boyne Falls playing a team who boasts one member scoring 30 points a game and the Loggers did not prevent him from making it three in a row.

After one period of action, it looked as though the Loggers might get their first conference win as they got off to a good start taking a 22-18 lead into the second quarter, but took a 42-37 deficit into the lockerroom at half-time.

In the third period, the Loggers came up with 13 points, while Mackinaw scored 15 points and Boyne Falls trailed 57-50 as the fourth quarter began.

After scoring the first eight points of the period Boyne Falls led 58-57, but the Comets rose to the occasion and deprived the Loggers of victory in the final three minutes.

Three players hit double figures in the game for Boyne Falls with Ross Payton scoring 19 points. Brian Bennett and Steve Jarma hit for 10 points each.

In the basement game with Alba the Loggers played even with the Wildcats in the first quarter at 13 points per team, but the Wildcats canned 25 points in period two and took a 38-27 advantage at the half.

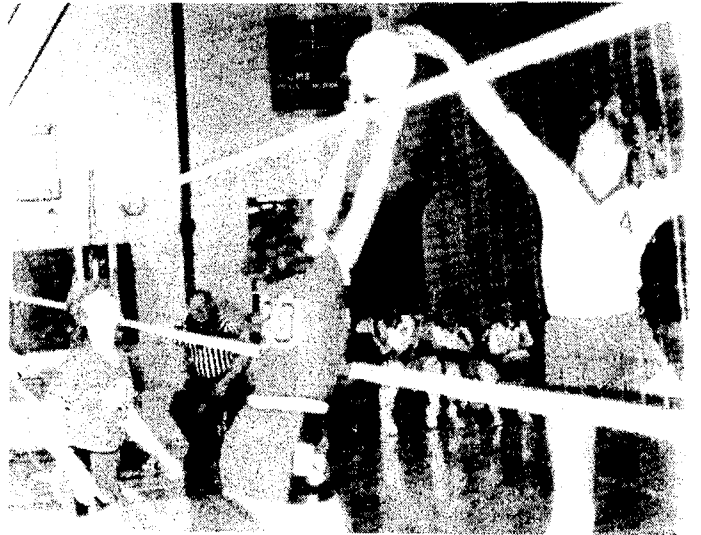

The Loggers scored better in the third period for 18 points but Alba outshot Boyne Falls for 22 points and led 60-45 going into the final quarter.

The Loggers outscored Alba 20-18 in period four, but it was not enough with a long way to go to catch up. Bennett poured 22 points through the hoop for the Loggers and Jarma scored 10 points.

In this Friday's action the Loggers will celebrate Homecoming against a powerful Ellsworth team, and Tuesday, Jan. 29 will play host to the Alan-son Vikings.

In girls' volleyball action last week, the East Jordan Red Devils fell to a fine Kalkaska team. Here Angela Noirot attempts to block this spike, while Shandra Sweet looks for the ball to come her way in the varsity match.
