Smeltania Frostival features fun

The Avalanche Cross Country Ski Classic was down in numbers of participants this year, but everyone who showed up was very excited and enjoyed themselves to the fullest.

This year's broomball competition drew eight teams, some of them with up to a dozen members or more. The single elimination matches proved to be very competitive and action-packed. Denny Kruzel's team, shown here, played with five members against six and lost their match two goals to none.

With the restoration of the Statue of Liberty project, it was a good idea to build one here in Boyne City. This rendition was complete with greenish-copperish coloring.

One of the most populated areas at the Frostival was near the refreshment trailer where the folks gathered around a blazing fire

This picture is of the winning ice fishing shanty owned by Cory Furgeson. Furgeson was advertising lake frontage property and decorated the premises to attract attention.

In the children's dog sled racing there were fewer racers, but there were more spectators on hand. Last year's winner had trouble at the starting line and did not place. This black lab had an excellent run and made it look easy.

Smeltania brings Boyne business

If you asked any of the merchants around town whether or not the Smeltania Frostival was a successful event, they would all tell you that it was. According to a poll taken by the staff of the Press, most merchants had a day that was almost as good as their summer business.

The event itself seemed to be a little down as to the number of shanties, but the events on land more than made up for the lack of fishermen trying their luck on the small fish.

Winners for the weekend included Pete Harvey, who took first place in the smelt fishing contest with 271 smelt caught in the time period, followed by Tim Stevenson who caught 97 and Mike Edson with 58 smelt caught.

In the shanty contest, first place was won by Cory Furgeson with a shanty that was up for sale. He had it shown as a waterfront property and held an open house with signs from the realty firm. Honorable mentions were taken by Nord Schroeder with his double decker and the "hookers' haven" owned by Phil Johnson, Al Litzenburger, Gary Graye, Wayne Giem, Mike Seelye, Paul Snyder, Dale Parsons and Hans Kretschman.

In broomball, the action was fierce, according to some of those who were playing the game, but last year's winners, the Broombusters of Bob Mather's Ford, beat out the team from Bendix-Courter, to repeat as winners.

The dogsled contest was won by Jimmy MacNaughton who guided his dog through the course with fewer deductions than last year's winner, Jeremy Murphy. Third place was a tie between Chris Kessler and Megan Griffen.

A statue of liberty took the prize in the snow sculpting contest. The statue was constructed by Paula MacGinnis, Millie Smigrel and Jim Nugent for the over 16-year-olds, while Steve Vondran won for his rendition of a car.

All in all, the festival was a lot of fun for those who went out and braved the elements. Plans are already being made for next year's festival to make it better.

A meeting is planned for Thursday morning by the festival committee to go over some of the recommendations that have been received.

Boyne EDC gets new members

Two vacancies on Boyne City Economic Development Corporation were filled Tuesday. City commissioners approved the appointments of Andy Place who will replace resigning Art Gibbs and Judy Stowe will replace Chuck Rivard, both terms ending March 1986.

Commissioners also approved engaging Hill, Woodcock, & Schroders C.P.A.s to perform the city's fiscal year 1985 audit. The commissioners set a maximum fee of $9,050.

City manager Randy Frykberg said this year the job will include grant auditing, saving city costs. On the single audit will go two federal state-administered grants, both Small Cities Block Grants, one for the new well, street, lights and improvements and the other for the Air-Industrial Park study.

Frykberg explained that the auditing work "is not the kind of thing a municipality goes out on a bid for." Additionally, as the commissioners said, the city has been working with the auditing firm during the year.

Police officers honored

A Michigan Associated Chiefs of Police Certification was received by Boyne City, marking a job well done by the Boyne City police department.

Commissioners at Tuesday's meeting applauded police chief John Talboys and investigating officer Randy Howard for the honor. The certificate was signed by East Jordan police chief Joe Hammond. It marked the signal cooperation of Howard in stopping the kidnapping of an East Jordan child.

Snowblast set for East Jordan

You won't need a snowmobile to enjoy East Jordan's fifth annual Snowblast, coming up Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, Feb. 1, 2, and 3, but you will be watching, cheering, and riding the vehicle this weekend, starting with a safari at 6 p.m. Friday, leaving from Rainbow Bar parking lot.

Chamber of Commerce director Judy Shea said no registration is needed for the safaris.

Similarly, for skiers, a cross country fun night will be a chance to get together at the East Jordan Snowmobile Club, starting at 7 p.m. Take M-32 east of East Jordan to Alba Road (Mt. Bliss). The club is on the left, a few fields down.

On Saturday at 9:30, a snowmobile parade will start the day off. "We're expecting some snow to cover the streets," said Shea.

Registration for the LeMans and Radar Runs on the lake begin at 10 a.m. at the pavilion at East Jordan Tourist Park.

Participants will have to run to their machine (snowmobile boots and all), start it up and run the course out onto the lake. Best time will win. The competitors will go singly in this rich race—about $500 in prizes and gifts, said Shea.

The competition begins at 11 a.m. At this time the pavilion will be open for warming and food concessions.

Children wanting to get into the spirit of things will have the chance at snowmobile rides in the park.

Meantime, skiers will be meeting at 10:30 a.m. for the Cross Country Treasure Hunt. Fun and prizes for kids and everyone as they take off through the woods from the Snowmobile Club.

The annual Lions Club Tug of War will take place at 1:30 p.m., after everyone has loaded up with lunch. The burly and the powerful will strain and struggle at the Tourist Park.

At 3 p.m. (registration, 1:30 p.m.) the Jordan Valley Rally begins from the Snowmobile Club. Participants will each receive a map of the secret course and be told the average speed to maintain.

Check points will determine if a competitor is moving by too early or too late. If such is the case, the competitor will lose points in the $800 cash purse rally.

Shea explained the arrangements as making general competition possible, and not, as in some races, so that only the best equipment can win.

A youth rally for those from 12 to 16 years will focus on precision and judgment.

At 7 p.m. snowmobilers will meet at the club for a safari on the new Jordan Valley Trail.

For those ready to come indoors, there will be a Las Vegas Nite at 8 p.m. at the Rainbow Bar downtown in East Jordan. Advance tickets for the affair are available from Lioness Club members.

At the same time East Jordan Civic Center will have a Country Square and Round Dance, one of the kind the center is famous for.

Sunday starts at eight a.m. with the Snowlovers' Breakfast at the Snowmobile Club. For those too worn out to arrive at that early hour, breakfast will be served until noon.

Noon is when those interested in the snowmobile Poker Run will have to register. This popular competition starts off from the Rainbow Bar downtown.

Besides the Chamber of Commerce, Trailblazers Snowmobile Club, East Jordan Sno-Mobilers, the Lions and Lionesses clubs, Rotary, and the VFW sponsor the festival with the cooperation of the city.

Snow impresses BC exchange student

It's summer now in Peru where Teresa's home is. But Teresa Arbaiza, as an exchange student, is in a classroom in Boyne City, far from home and warm weather. Still, she seems to have brought summer with her—her delighted smile and gentle friendliness.

She said she came here for new experiences, and snow is certainly one of them. Her Boyne City "family," Wendy and Roy Bruneel, will take her skiing this weekend. She is anticipating that.

Renee, the Bruneel's youngest of four children, is also in high school, and when she saw Teresa, she was with the student council's Heidi Lillis, so she is being made to feel at home.

Peru doesn't exactly have high schools. The system there, Teresa explained, is five years for primary school and five more for secondary.

At this point, Teresa said, "I'm university," but the subjects studied are very comparable. But one difference is that the study of a foreign language begins with the first year of schooling.

Teresa held up her hand with thumb and finger close together to indicate that it was a little at a time.

Some schools teach English, others teach French or German, she said.

In Boyne she is studying English, anthropology, typing, business law, government, and, for the first time, French. She said when she finishes school in Peru she will teach primary school children.

Teresa is from Lima, the beautiful, ancient capital of Peru. "So different," she said in her soft accent. "Traffic! Always going! Too quick—too fast. Here, you look out and see—" she gestured, "quiet!"

In Lima she and her fellow students enjoy TV, movies, the theater, sports events... And then she beamed. "And Kentucky Fried Chicken."

She and her younger sister and parents do other familiar things as well. For one, they subscribe to The National Geographic. And they go to the beach during Peru's hot summer.

"We live near the equator," she noted.

The beaches of Peru are long and sandy along the Pacific Ocean. The water is cold, "but not too cold," she said.

Peru has snow-capped mountains also. Cities there like Arequipa and Cuzco are cool, but the snow is too high in the peaks for any skiing.

Remembering the stories of the Spanish conquistadores who followed Columbus, we asked if Peru still mined gold. "Mining, yes, but no more gold," she said. But Peruvians still speak Spanish.

In answer to more questions, Teresa said there are some women now in government. She straightened and said proudly, "We have democracy."

So what is different besides the snow?

"Oh," smiled the slender girl, "lunch! We have soup, rice, vegetables, fruit!"

"Lunch here—?" Again the thumb and forefinger. And she explained that the light meal of the day in Peru came at night.

Teresa is here until March 9. Then she and her sister who is in Lansing will return to Peru.

With gentle seriousness she said, "I will miss Boyne City."

Mothers' March of Dimes to start Feb. 4

This year's Mothers' March to raise funds to continue the March of Dimes' battle against birth defects is scheduled to take place in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties on February 4 through 16. Local volunteer marchers will call at homes in the area in this annual nationwide campaign to improve the health of America's children.

Opinions

When what's good for goose not for gander

It is amazing to us that the politicians can again and again speak with forked tongues. The latest case involves taxes and where the law was made by the politicians is now not being followed by those same lawmakers.

According to the property tax break that has been proposed by Gov. Blanchard, we are supposed to get a one time tax break because of the state having a surplus.

Now we all know that will never come to pass, because the state could probably find many other ways to spend the money that they say they have and we will not have a surplus.

But what we want to know is, when is the state going to follow the rules and regulations that they promulgated concerning the state tax tribunal.

That would really give us all a tax break that is both needed and necessary.

In 1983 the Michigan Appeals Court ruled the methods used for assessing property were both illegal and unconstitutional and they ordered the State Tax Commission to develop and impose guidelines to conform with the laws of the constitution.

So far, they have not complied and they should have been thrown into Jackson State Prison months ago.

According to the governor, through the state treasurer, the matter is under appeal. But the Supreme Court has not issued a stay order.

They ordered the Tax Commission was supposed to have had new rules in effect.

If the governor and the State Tax Commission had complied with the court order, Macomb County Taxpayers' Association estimates that the assessments on our homes and property would have decreased 15-25 percent over the two-year period.

The reason for this is the declining price of homes. In fact, median home prices in the midwest, according to the Detroit News, have decreased significantly. In 1982 the median price was $65,100. In 1983, it dropped to $56,600, and it took another drop in 1984 to $55,950.

The trend to lower home prices started in 1979.

At the same time home prices were dropping, the assessment increase on residential property went up 13.32 percent in 1979; up 16.81 percent in 1980; up 13.60 percent in 1981; up 8.44 percent in 1982; down .89 percent in 1983; and up 1.8 percent in 1984.

The catch is that when, according to law, prices of property decline, property assessments are supposed to go down too.

Said Macomb Taxpayers, "One of the main reasons why property assessment system is so corrupt is because the state has a vested interest in local property assessments. The state has created a formula device which basically decreases educational funding for our schools when assessments increase.

"As we pay higher and higher property taxes, the state, through the State Tax Commission and the Office of the Governor, and with the approval and consent of legislature, decrease aid to our schools and our local units of government. Under the system, approximately 30 percent of the school districts, including Boyne City and Boyne Falls, receive nothing at all in state funds.

"That means that while all of the taxpaying citizens of those districts pay school taxes to the state in the form of 2 cents sales tax, one cent per pack of cigarettes, one percent excise tax on liquor, as well as a large percentage of lottery ticket money, the school districts like Boyne City do not receive one penny in educational funding from the state."

School taxes equate to roughly 65-70 percent of the total property taxes that are collected each year. The rest of the tax money goes to county and local governments, intermediate school districts, or other extra voted funding that may apply in the county.

We wonder if the main reason the state does not want to decrease assessments is that if they do, those school districts who are currently not receiving state aid would be able to "come back into formula" and be eligible to receive state funds?

We, along with many other taxpayers, believe that declining assessments would be beneficial to all property taxpaying citizens of the state. If the State Tax Commission would comply with the law, funding for education would increase and could possibly reduce the amount that the school districts are getting in their millage rate. This could be a direct benefit to each and every property owner-taxpayer.

As it stands now, the state government gets to keep all of the money without addressing the problem of the property tax system or a reduction in state income tax.

It seems that the governor is trying to give us back a one-time break, while still allowing the state to collect an income tax of 4.5 percent as well as increase our property tax assessments once again.

If the state legislature would take the leadership role as it is supposed to do and represent the taxpayers, it would reduce both the income tax and force the state to comply with the court to cut tax assessments.

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

"It was so crowded with fudgies that you needed a little plastic knife to cut your way through the crowds," she said when asked about the crowds that were around the area last weekend.

And well it should have been with all the activities going on...and good snow for the skiers, too.

It was a weekend that made one think of the good old days of the seventies, another was suggested as he tallied up the money that was made in his shop over the weekend.

All of the allocades in the world were coming from those who needed it the most, the merchants of the area. After all, these are supposed to be the lean times, the dead of the winter, and the tourists, skiers and snowmobilers weren't spending their money like the merchants thought would happen.

Happily, that wasn't the case as all of the usual stops for the visitors were almost filled to capacity.

And what does that mean for most of us? Well, for one thing, maybe some business up here won't have to go bankrupt later on this spring, or maybe the money that was earned in tips by someone working in a touristy place just spent it on something that he or she was wanting for several months but couldn't afford it.

Money has a way of begetting more money when it is spread around the area. Maybe we are heading into good times this summer.

You remember good times, don't you? That was when you had enough money so that you could afford some meat other than hamburger, even though the meat today is priced less than some of the other convenience foods that can be purchased at all the stores.

It also means that you don't have to have that can of tomatoes that you put up last fall with all the other canning that you did.

And it can mean that you could afford a store bought valentine instead of one that was home made. It also means that you can go out fishing for smelt because you want to, instead of having to so that the family can be fed.

And you could have enough money to buy gas and oil for the chain saw so you can go out and cut up enough wood for the rest of the winter.

For all those folks down in sunny Florida, we would just like to say that the weather up here has been just fine. Not as cold as where you are or were a couple of weeks ago, but we are getting lots of snow everyday that we have to keep cleared off the driveways and the roads.

Why I know of a place where the snow must be 15 feet deep right almost in the downtown area.

Of course it may not stay that way, as the city workers have a way of clearing the snowpiles and banks just after they read this.

The snow, though, is the right kind of stuff. Skiers call it powder. We don't usually get that kind of snow, ours is heavier and the wind blows more to send it into the places where we just finished plowing and cleaning.

Which makes me want to wonder about those who are moving up here into the north country when they retire. Why would someone want to move up north here, just to shovel the snow?

I would want to retire to some south seas island where a snowfall is something that you read about in books, not live it.

Someday, when I get a chance to be king, I will make the mechanics of kingdom invent a machine to melt the snow away rather than have plows move it to the side of the road.

If we had a machine to melt the stuff, it could only be used in the places where it isn't wanted. The snows that fall on the ski slopes could stay on the slopes while those snows that fall on the roads would be melted.

The only thing that would make the machine a failure though, would be the fact that all the melted snow would go into the sewers and become frozen again, before it has a chance to work its way into the rivers and outflows to the lakes.

Darn, another good idea that has problems I can't solve. Sounds like the politicians who say that all problems have solutions, it just costs a tiny weeny bit more in taxes.

Mr. Reagan has been properly crowned for the second time and the Super Bowl is a thing of the past. Now Saturday is Groundhog Day. There is always something.

Life and I nearly came to blows at our house on Super Bowl Sunday. Snow plugged the driveway. The road to town was a mess. It was four above outside and the wind tried its best to blow the chill factor through the windows and under the doors. But the furnace was going and it was nice and cozy inside—until halftime.

At halftime our furnace coughed three or four times, spit out an oil slug, belched a death rattle and died. If there's anything I can't stand, it's something dying at halftime. It might have had the courtesy to wait a couple of hours until the game was over. After all, I had a whole dollar bet on the outcome.

We phoned up our furnace man and he said there was a fuse burned out on the wall next to the furnace. Replacing it would chase the chill factor back outdoors and down the hill into Boyne City where it belonged.

I found a box of fuses and screwed one into the socket. And guess what? Yes, please, guess what? The fuse was the wrong size. The original furnace fuse had not burned out in 13 years and all that time we had a nice, handy box of wrong size fuses waiting patiently on the shelf.

I am not yet capable of walking on water, nor do I have the strength to plod three miles through unplowed roads to buy a fuse at a hardware that's closed on Sunday afternoon.

So what does a highly intelligent man do when he is half nuts? He throws another log into the fireplace and asks the Lord to please don't let our toilet freeze until we can get a fuse in the morning. There's nothing worse than a frozen toilet during a championship football game. (Suppose your team made a terrible error and you couldn't wait another minute?)

The Lord smiled upon us and we only shivered half to death until we could get a fuse to start the furnace the next day.

After the twenty four hour farce had ended, I got to feeling pretty good. After all, the television reported that I had won forty-six dollars in the State Lotto contest, and then, too, I had won a dollar on the football game.

Now, tell me, how many people can make forty-seven dollars in a Sunday blizzard without leaving the house?

I have this quirk in my character that makes me think people enjoy hearing how that great bully, the world, is forever thrusting and jabbing at such a decent grouch.

Letters

On U.S. Mail

Editor,

Because it now takes 10 days for a copy of the Charlevoix County Press to go from your presses to Leesville, Louisiana; five days for a first class letter to go from any place in Michigan to Louisiana, and last spring it took one week for first class mail to go from Boyne Falls to Marquette, MI, it must take an astounding amount of gall to ask for a raise in postage. When the mails went by train they went much faster than they do today and the service was better. The more automated they become, the slower they become. Even the bills are late. Unforgivable!

They have slowed up in the past year because early last year, the Charlevoix County Press sent out on Wednesday reached me occasionally on Saturday, and always by Monday. Now it is history by the time it gets here.

I have been told that the sorting stations are the fouling up point. Aren't they ever investigated for efficiency? In answer we would get three closely typed pages of excuses that translates, "The US Mail—plural, are leaning on their shovels." The instances that I have mentioned of slow delivery are only a few. Ask anyone.

Constance Fraley

First National Bank & Trust is making attractive changes to its Insured Money Market Account (IMMA) and Super NOW checking account.

Previously, a balance of $2,500 or more was required to earn high, floating money market interest rates on these accounts.

With our new changes, account balances from $1,000 to $2,500 will earn higher, floating interest rates, too! This floating interest rate will be midway between 5.25% and the full, stated account rate (which is paid when the account balance is $2,500 or more).

For example, if the stated IMMA rate is 8.25% and your account balance is in the $1,000 to $2,500 range—you will earn an attractive 6.75%—instead of 5.25%, as with the old system. When your account balance returns to $2,500 or greater, you earn the full stated rate, just as before.

This same "tiered rate" system applies to the Super NOW checking account as well. Also, with personal Super NOW accounts, the minimum balance to avoid service charges is being reduced to $1,000.

We hope you'll consider what these important account changes can mean to you. Let's talk about them soon!

Really rural, the Heartwood people have entered the mail order business with their catalog, Heartwood Harvest. It advertises all manner of attractive craft items, which have sprung right out of Heartwood lives.

Heartwood adds mail order catalog to answer

Heartwood? Where's Heartwood? The question comes up now and again. This time it comes up because Heartwood artisans have begun a mail order business. Their catalog, "Heartwood Harvest," may be picked up at places like Huckle's in East Jordan or Tim's Natural Foods in Charlevoix, or mailed by request from Box 253, East Jordan. The address is the first clue to answering the question, "Where's Heart-wood?" But Heartwood is partly not a place at all. Mainly it is a close-knit group of families, living sometimes as much as a dozen miles from each other.

It began when Joe and Carol Spaulding found a spring and a bright little creek in the woods in 1975.

By 1976 they had bought it and built themselves a small cabin—a cabin with a tower, no less.

Little by little they prevailed upon their friends to buy land and build. Some had never constructed a home before, but they helped each other. Now, about 35 people including the children born there, make up the community.

All of this is background to the catalog, because, of course, once they moved in, they had to make a living. They talked about what to do at potlucks and house-building bees.

Meantime they became self-employed in various ways, discovering, perfecting, producing for individual or commercial orders and selling their handiwork at art fairs and at festivals.

The present catalog is the "harvest" of their efforts.

So that's Heartwood. Joe Spaulding calls it "an intentional community," durable lifestyle.

It might also be called interdependent independence. Heartwood people are intriguingly different, probably because they have been searching out answers for themselves, whether in diet, in living ecologically, or in nearly anything in life.

Carol Spaulding, who is Harvest director, said they are all into crafts, but not everyone was to the point of making items commercially. Those that were, sought a grant from the state Arts Council to finance their first catalog. In providing the grant money, the council required that any publication should contain the following statement: "Heartwood Harvest is a cooperative effort of the Heartwood Community Center, Inc. This project was made possible with the support of the state of Michigan through funds from the Michigan Council of Arts."

It's not too hard to imagine the council's interest reaching into the Heartwood workrooms as children help parents polish wood or sort wild flowers, as the artisans turn out jewelry, woven scarves, pottery, wood toys, recorded lullabies, landscape photographs, and flowers pressed in glass for hangings.

Harvest items will be on display at the Tannahill Weavers concert at Petoskey High School on February 1st.

First Baptist film

'God's Prison Gang' a newly released film featuring Al Capone's getaway driver, the last member of Bonnie and Clyde's gang and two other notorious criminals who have become Christians will be shown at the First Baptist Church on M66 at the edge of town, on Sunday, February 3. The showing is scheduled to begin at 7:00 p.m.

The film, shot behind the walls of New York's Attica prison, is hosted by Art Linkletter. It tells the story of how the work of International Prison Ministry is accomplishing what more guards, higher prison walls and greater financial expenditures have failed to do—keep released inmates from returning to lives of crime.

Telling their stories in the 44-minute film are George Meyer, Al Capone's favorite driver.

Chx Area Hospital wins coveted accreditation

Charlevoix Area Hospital has been awarded a full Three Year Accreditation from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH), Administrator Richard Krueger announced this week.

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals is a voluntary organization which assigns a survey team—usually a physician, a hospital administrator, a nurse JCAH accreditation is vital to hospitals which wish to be a part of Medicare and Medicaid reimbursement programs.

Club planning luminaria workshop

Twenty-five members of the Boyne Valley Garden Club met at Litzenger place on Thursday, Jan. 24th. After a short business meeting which included plans for February luminaria workshop conducted by program chairman Lois Pollack.

The meeting begins at 11 a.m. and everyone is to bring a sack lunch. Water colors by Allis McClain were on display showing the artist's conception of areas to be beautified by the Garden Club.

Most of her ideas have been realized as well as additional changes. Speaker City Manager Randolph Frykberg reported on recent improvements in our city. At this time the emphasis is on the lake frontage.

Members spoke freely of our need for city cooperation to carry out our beautification program. Our City Manager was helpful in suggesting future possibilities for us to consider. The goal of the garden club is to beautify our town, which is also the aim of the city. Through our combined efforts, this can be achieved.

Violet Paquette, Winifred Fairchild, and Evelyn Grice served as hostesses for the meeting.

Forum on peacemaking planned

January 24 marked the beginning of the East Jordan Ecumenical Forum on Peacemaking. Planned and led by members of the East Jordan Ministerial Association, the Forum will involve a discussion of the Roman Catholic Bishops' "The Challenge of Peace: God's Promise and Our Response."

The Forum will be held on four consecutive Thursday nights at 7:30 p.m. at the Evangelical Lutheran Church, located at the corner of 3rd and Nichols in East Jordan. The dates for the four sessions are Jan. 24 and 31, Feb. 7 and 14.

According to Rev. Brian W. Secor, one of the members of the Ministerial Association, "The Bishops' letter on war and peace is one attempt to assist all people of faith in wrestling with the implications of the Gospel of Jesus Christ for our day. Having participated in a discussion of this document about a year ago, I found it to be very helpful in clarifying my own understanding of how my faith interacts with one of the crucial issues of today—how we people can live in our local, state and national communities in peace and respect life."

The document, first released in 1983, has provided opportunities for numerous persons of all denominations to discuss peace and related issues. Persons from the community and those of surrounding communities who would be interested in participating are requested to contact one of the following ministers in East Jordan for a copy of the book that will be discussed: Rev. Robert Herbon (536-7566); Rev. James Duncan (536-7824); Dr. Donald Ferguson (536-2941); Rev. Secor (536-2161).

Smeltania- A dozen ways to celebrate snow

Sleigh rides were provided to the public during the Smeltania Frostival and you could take a ride for the price of a small donation.

The snow sculpture division draws participants of all ages for the Frostival. Here a local youngster applies the finishing touches to his blue vehicle.

Bowling on the ice was what the Frostival agenda called for, but too much slush on the ice forced the bowlers to clear alleys on the park lawn. Youngsters were allowed to get closer to the pins as it was very difficult to roll the ball on frozen turf.

BF loses close one to 2nd place Lancers

BY JERRY FROATS

The Loggers of Boyne Falls lost another close one Friday night in the Northern Lakes Conference to the Ellsworth Lancers 68-60. The Lancers are currently in second place in the conference and the Loggers gave it everything they had in their effort to pull out an upset and it almost worked.

Boyne Falls opened the game playing a very controlled offense and mixed it up with an occasional fast break to keep the Lancers honest. The Loggers utilized a low post zone that earned them some good close-in shots and closed the first period of play trailing by one point 9-8.

The Lancers opened the second quarter with a free throw and Steve Jarema tied the score on a nice drive to the bucket but Ellsworth scored 8 unanswered points after that and the Loggers were forced to play catch-up ball for the remainder of the game. The Lancers led 32-22 at halftime.

After intermission it seemed as if the Loggers had come up with a formidable defense as they played man-to-man and fell back into a 2-3 zone that kept Ellsworth away from the key. Not being able to penetrate well, the Lancers began to bomb the hoop from outside and Boyne Falls watched the Lancers widen their lead. Ellsworth began the final period leading 39-47.

In the fourth quarter the Loggers scored rampantly for 19 points, but the Lancers were able to match points as they ran screens on the Logger man-to-man.

Ross Payton led the Loggers in scoring with 19 points, Brian Bennett hit double figures with 16 points, Jarema was good for 10, Norman Hausler put 8 through, Bill Sparks hit for 3, while Scott Winhusen, and David Gillespie had 2 points each.

Charlevoix takes Boyne

BY JERRY FROATS

The Boyne City varsity basketball team's record has gone to 3-8 with their loss to Michigan Huron Shores Conference leader Charlevoix. The Red Raiders hosted their cross county opponents Friday night and took another impressive win 84-65 over the Ramblers.

Charlevoix averaged 21 points per quarter and got an extra kicker as Brent Cole' canned 37 points against Boyne City. The Ramblers made a good attempt at staying in the game by closing in on the second period score, but the Raiders put it to Boyne and stretched out a wide lead and the Ramblers did not get close again.

Charlevoix took a 20-12 first quarter lead and worked it up to 41-33 at halftime. Merle Carson had a 10 point third quarter, but the Raiders led 62-49 going into the final period.

The Ramblers did come up with a positive note in the game as three of the starters hit every one of their free throws. Carson went 2 of 2, Jeff Johnson went 8 for 8, and Mike Gabos was 4 of 4.

Carson led the Ramblers in scoring with 26 points. He was followed by Johnson, who totaled 18 points. Gabos scored 8 points in all, Scott Penny was good for 4, Steve Rickard had 3, Paul Zinck and Tony Napont had 2 points each, while Todd Fall and Nick Redman added 1 point each. Redman is not yet at full playing capacity and did not play a complete game.

Scoring for the Raiders were Cole with 37 points, Putman with 11, Syvertson and Ferguson with 10 each, Sloan and Pearl with 5 apiece, Plagge, Hayes, and Lablance added 2 points each.

JV Loggers recover

BY JERRY FROATS

After falling behind in the first half, the Boyne Falls Loggers JV basketball squad came back to win 65-62 in the second half. The Loggers got some key assists in the second half that put Boyne Falls in the lead, and made it look like a real team effort.

In the first period, Ellsworth applied full court pressure on the Loggers and led 13-8 midway through the quarter. The Loggers found themselves late in the opening action and their man-to-man defense shut the Lancers down for awhile as the Boyne Falls youngsters began to catch up. Matt Crego hit a pair of tosses at the charity stripe to pull Boyne Falls within 2 points at 13-15, but the Ellsworth defense got a couple of steals and led 21-15 at period's end.

Crego began the second quarter with a bucket from under the boards and the Loggers converted to points breaking the press twice in a row to make the score 21-26, but it was all the Loggers could do to contain the Lancers enough to stay in the game. Ellsworth led 33-31 at intermission.

In the early stages of period three, the Loggers began to hit the open man well as they played excellent team ball and took a 43-40 lead on an assist from Joe Kondradt to Chad Robinson. Kyle Carson came back with a nice baseline move to up the lead to 45-40, and the Loggers were off and running with a 51-48 lead going into the last period.

The Loggers played a stiff man-to-man defense all over the court in the fourth quarter and played it safe on offense, waiting for the open shot and taking advantage of it as they retained their small lead throughout the period. After Robinson sank one from the right side, the Loggers came down with a missed Lancer shot to put the win on ice.

Joe Matelski led the Loggers in scoring with 14 points and Crego totaled 13. Kondradt, Robinson, and Chuck Skop had 10 points each for Boyne Falls as Carson and Pat Topolinski added 4 points each. Skop and Matelski led the Loggers in rebounding with 16 and 10 rebounds each.

EJ in 4th straight win

BY STEVE GEE

East Jordan won their fourth straight game Friday night, as they defeated the Harbor Springs Rams, for the second time this season, 59-49. The Red Devils received some excellent play by their two big men, Gary Coolman and Mike Goebel.

The Devils trailed 8-4 early in the first period, but 8 unanswered points put them up 12-10 at the period's end. The lead traded hands three times in the second period. The Rams outscored the Red Devils 14-11 to take a one point lead, 24-23, at the intermission.

East Jordan put it together in the third period and led by 7, 39-32, at its end. They added three more points to their lead in the fourth period as they outscored their opponents 20-17 to finish the game at 59-49.

The Red Devils sank 25 field goals, were 9-13 on the free throw line, pulled down 36 rebounds, and blocked three Harbor Springs shots. Todd Nachazel and Tom Galmore had nice offensive games, each making quite a few assists.

Gary Coolman led the Red Devils with 22 points. Mike Goebel finished right behind him with 21 and Scott Hart added 8 points. Goebel pulled down 12 rebounds while Coolman and Hart each grabbed 8. Goebel had two of the team's three blocked shots.

East Jordan, now 6 and 1 in conference, will travel to Central Lake to take on the Trojans Friday night.

The Loggers of Boyne Falls put up a good fight against the second place Ellsworth Lancers Friday night. Here Ross Payton looks for a rebound to come his way as Steve Jarema fights for better position under the boards. Boyne Falls lost the game, but it was by a slight margin and the Loggers came close to pulling out an upset.

Matt Crego (40) played a whale of a game for the Boyne Falls Loggers Friday night as he scored 13 points.

Devil JV's keep winning

BY STEVE GEE

After losing their first three games, the East Jordan Red Devils' junior varsity team have rolled off 7 straight wins. East Jordan knocked off Harbor Springs Friday night, but it wasn't easy. The game went down to the wire as the Red Devils won 52-51 over the host Rams. Harbor Springs handed East Jordan their only conference loss earlier this season.

The Red Devils dominated the first half, leading 13-10 at the first period's end and 27-16 at halftime. The Rams came out ready to play in the third period, as they cut the deficit to four, 42-37, as they outscored the Red Devils 21-15 during the period. The lead changed hands four times in the final period, but the Devils hung on to a 52-51 victory.

Greg Kitson supplied the punch again, leading the team with 25 points. Kevin Molby and Shannon Olstrom each added 9 points. Kitson led the team with 15 rebounds. Ted Snowden pulled down 9 caroms and Molby added eight.

East Jordan (6-1) will travel to Central Lake Friday night.
