Boyne school board denies grievance of teacher

The Boyne City School board denied a grievance complaint by one of its teachers, Carol Linhard, after a closed session that completed their monthly board meeting Monday night.

Linhard's complaint concerned a letter that was put into her permanent file back in January, 1983 when she was working for the middle school as a substitute teacher. The letter, written by principal Jack Cyr, was an evaluation of her work after she had asked how she was doing.

According to superintendent Rich Kelly, it was unusual to write an evaluation of substitute teachers. Linhard asked that the letter be removed from her file and when that was turned down, she filed the grievance.

The grievance brought formal action by the union against the board and the steps that have to be taken according to the contract.

After the grievance was denied by the principal, the next step was to the next higher authority who was Kelly. He also turned the grievance down. As the union was following the grievance procedure, the third step was to appear in front of the school board. That was done Monday night.

The board agreed with the administrators and added their denial to the grievance procedure.

The next step would be to have the matter go to an arbitrator. It is not known at this time if the union will ask that the matter continue through the steps, or if they will drop the matter.

In other action, the board okayed the use of the school bus for the summer swim school program and the use of the portable classrooms for the next school year for the Boyne City Nursery School.

They also determined that the amount the townships could charge for those who want to collect summer taxes for the school system would be a maximum of $3.90 per parcel of land. The townships would have to document their actual cost and would be reimbursed for that cost.

Last year only Hayes and Warner townships collected the summer tax. Boyne City will also collect the tax as part of their summer tax collection for free for the school system. Some of the other townships estimated their charge as high as $7.50 per parcel.

After the determination by the board as to what they will be paying, those townships that had asked for the higher amount will not be collecting the summer tax as they have the option to collect or not.

The board also approved wage and salary adjustments for non-affiliated members of the staff of the schools giving them a three percent increase for 1984-85, another four percent increase for 1985-86 and a five percent increase for 1986-87. They also agreed to pick up medical insurance for those involved in 1986-87.

While giving out salary increases they also agreed to tell two administrators that they may not have a job next year and agreed to the non-renewal of their contracts. The administrators involved are Shelly

Martin, the community education administrator and Sherry Sheldon, the title one administrator. The non-renewal of the contracts seems to happen every year as the funds to participate in the programs come from outside sources that the school has no control over.

The board okayed the hiring of Bill Benser as the girls' junior varsity basketball coach for the next season. He was recommended by the administration for the position.

The only other action that was announced at the board meeting was that high school is now North Central accredited. The announcement was made by high school principal Rick Casper who told the board that the accreditation was received and is effective March 21, 1985.

While members of the cast of Camelot listen to some directions from Bob Wollenberg, other members of the cast were rehearsing their parts in the play the high school drama department is going to be presenting next week. All of the cast are working to make this play one of the best that the drama department has presented. Tickets for the play are still available from the Boyne City High School or from cast members. The play will have a three night run Thursday through Saturday.

Energy audit to start soon at Boyne City schools

Boyne City Schools will be studied to determine where and how energy can be saved after the action that was taken at last Monday night's school board meeting.

The audit will be made by the firm of Elzinga and Volkers, a Holland, Michigan company who was awarded the bid to do the work.

The bid was approved by the board after the building and grounds committee had interviewed four firms who also expressed interest in doing the audit for the school system. Elzinga and Volkers bid was the lowest of the four and was awarded for $5,829.00. Others bids went as high as $10,500 for doing the same work.

The audit will be started almost immediately, and will take about 70 days to complete.

The process of determining an audit started last fall when the board was told that they would have to consider repairing the roof at the high school. In board conversations, the idea was enlarged to do an audit of the entire school system.

After determining what the system wanted, the building and grounds committee interviewed each company utilizing the criteria of having the company provide the board with the proposed improvements, cost paybacks to the system, helping to determine the methods of financing, and lastly, the cost for the company's services.

In making the determination of what was needed, the board asked help from members of the school staff, mainly the maintenance engineer, John Looze and the custodial staff. The building committee thought that since they were the ones that would be involved with the program, that they should know what is being considered and how it would be completed.

The audit would include the elementary, middle and high schools according to board member Larry Monshor, the head of the building committee.

"We really need this survey," he continued, "to help us determine what needs to be done and how to do it." Other members of the committee concurred.

When asked if the school system might be needing a millage increase to see the work to completion, other members of the committee said that they had not planned on one.

"We really need to see what the survey will determine before we can do anything," said Dick Wulff, another board member.

The cost of the survey is going to be less than one-tenth of one percent of the valuation of the schools within the system said Monshor. He added that he feels that the money to be spent will be worth it.

Landfill dispute settled out of court

"We were in the court room," said Dave Willson. It was at that point that the Department of Natural Resources, Charlevoix Garbage Service and Eveline Township representatives were able to forego confrontation in court of testing a restraining order, and settle the long dispute over the management of the CGS landfill.

Willson, who is supervisor of the township board, said settling was a "six-hour ordeal." He would not commit himself to any opinion about the agreement because it still had to go before the township board as this paper was going to press.

He said, however, he didn't "anticipate any technicalities to hold it up."

The first objection the township had was to what they identified as lack of cover on the collected garbage. A cover of soil prevents rain from going through the deposit and then washing dissolved contaminants into the surrounding area.

Landfill owner Dawson Way has argued that he uses sufficient cover. In the agreement he will use six inches of cover daily on whatever fill has been added.

Way will also be having additional dikes and retention ponds, already required by the DNR and designed by Gosling Czubak Associates of Traverse City. Construction will start by April 20, weather permitting.

In addition to tests Way already makes, conforming to DNR requirements, he must have samples of surface water tested four times a year. The tests will be for turbidity, fecal coliform bacteria, dissolved oxygen, organic pollution, total dissolved solids, phenols, pH, ammonia, and phosphates.

Sampling is Way's financial responsibility, and will be overseen by the DNR.

The township also, accompanied by Way, will have the right to take samples where surface water runs off the landfill. This may be done once a year. The township will pay the nearly $600 it costs to have the samples tested for the wide range of contaminants.

Water runoff and cover management were the two chief sticking points in the 16 year-dispute between the landfill and its neighbors in Ironton. The agreement stresses scrupulous supervision and adherence to ACT 641 by the DNR.

EJ board approves one year contract with teachers

A one year teachers' contract came up for vote on Tuesday night at East Jordan school board's regular meeting.

The chief item, already approved by the teachers, was a 3.9 percent increase in salary. The lowest salary now, that of the beginning level with a bachelor's degree, is set at $14,887. In 15 steps the top salary to be reached in bachelor category will be $26,350. In masters degree category, the 15 steps go from $16,376 to $27,839.

A masters with additional 15 can go from $17,120 to $28,583.

Average salary comes to $24,350.

The one-year contract, expiring on August 31, 1985, contains few other significant changes. The snow day question was settled on the basis of state requirements. If the district does have to make up snow days, teachers will not have additional salary. As it stands now, East Jordan will not be obliged to make up this year's snow days.

According to the new contract, teachers in grades one through five will get 40-minutes for lunch period instead of the previous 35. And the board will employ a half-time teacher, probably for art, but it could possibly be in music or physical education.

Beyond that changes are only in changes of language.

BC water mains in good shape

Basil Moore, water department chief, came into Boyne City commission noon meeting Tuesday with a circular slice of inch-thick metal pipe. It was taken from the 12-inch water main when the new well was tied in. The job was a "live tap" so that water supply to the city would not be cut off.

The job was a success, but what pleased Moore most was the condition of the pipe. "Look at that," he explained. "Seventy-two years old and still in fine condition...It will be good for years and years to come."

One of the commissioners spoke up. "If all our mains were in this shape, we could (afford to) build some roads."

Another sample lay on the board room table. It was a piece of heavy copper pipe. On one side was a large hole. The pipe section came from the line going to Jefferson Street.

"A stone gets next to the pipe," Moore explained. They say moisture causes an arc to form, causing electrolosis. It happens with bad copper, he said. The pipe was no more than two years old.

City manager Randy Frykberg said that during the rain storm Friday city water flow tripled. "We registered 3.7 million gallons in one day," he said seriously. "It's extremely inefficient to treat that much water."

The inefficiency lies in the fact that much of the water leaks out through breaks in very old or faulty pipes.

Moore said the city is replacing the defective copper piping with galvanized, whenever jobs come up.

In other business the commissioners approved appointment of an assistant city attorney to be on call when the city's consultant is away and not available. No additional funding would be necessary.

Replacement for the broken front window will cost $1,664 with the lower of two bids approved by the city. Seals and Roberts' bid was actually $2,164 but the city's $600 insurance reduces the cost of replacing the broken plate glass with insulating glass and an additional post to make smaller panels of glass.

Valedictorian, Salutatorian named at Boyne Falls High

WILLIAM STANLEY SPARKS

MONIQUE RENEE CHURCHILL

William Stanley Sparks, son of William and Bonnie Sparks, was named the valedictorian of the Boyne Falls High School for the 1985 school year.

He graduated with a 3.87 grade point average and is planning to attend Northern Michigan University at Marquette this coming fall. He participated on the varsity basketball squad and was president of the student council as well as being the treasurer of the National Honor Society.

Salutatorian for the year is Monique Renee Churchill, the daughter of James and Penny Churchill. She plans to attend Aquinas College this coming fall in Grand Rapids.

Churchill, who had a grade point average of 3.72, was a participant in girls varsity basketball, president of the National Honor Society, and treasurer of the senior class.

A late winter storm caught most residents by surprise last Saturday, as many had cleaning up the yard planned. The storm, which dropped several inches of wet, drifting and blowing snow, made for some pretty pictures though, as this scene taken from the bridge looking up the Boyne River shows.

ONIONS

The onion is probably one of the oldest known vegetables, and was very early carried from country to country extensively. It was considered symbolic (believed to mean eternal life), and for good reason. Now we know it as containing many of our essential vitamins and minerals, such as Vitamins A, B1, C, Calcium and Iron; and one medium onion contains only about 35 calories.

I recall that the very old cookbooks of the colonial period have many onion recipes as they were abundant and could be kept the year around. For an early Thanksgiving menu they prepared onions this way. "Boil them in milk and water. Season them with salt, pepper and butter." The oldtimers made an onion pie similar to our modern day quiches using two crusts. They even made onion shortcake. Here is a recipe for onion soup modernized a little by me. I made it this way and was delighted with its flavor.

ONION SOUP

1/2 lb. butter—I used a non-cholesterol margarine
About 12 medium sized onions, peeled and cut small 1 1/2 tablespoons flour
3 1/2 cups boiling water
A slice of stale bread—I used 4 whole wheat crackers
2 egg yolks
2 teaspoons vinegar
Salt to taste.

Put the butter in a stew pan and melt. When it stops sizzling add the onions and cook 15 minutes, stirring often. Then sprinkle the flour over the onions and stir and cook a few minutes longer. Then pour in the boiling water and the bread or crackers and let it simmer gently for 10 more minutes, stir occasionally. After removing from the fire add the 2 egg yolks mixed with 2 teaspoons vinegar. Mix in good. This is a real yummy soup!

If you wish, add a bouillon cube to this soup for a more modern taste. In that case you might want to use less salt.

Later in history, about 100 years ago the cook books practically ignored the onion. There was a change in books and cooks seemed too stylish to print an onion recipe. This is what the 1926 White House cookbook said about them. "A little onion is not an injurious article of food as many believe. A judicious use of plants of the onion family is quite as important a factor in successful cookery as salt and pepper. When carefully concealed by manipulation of food, it affords zest and enjoyment to many who could not otherwise taste of it were its presence known. A great many compounds derive, which imparts a delicate appetizing aroma highly prized by epicures."

So now the onion has traveled it's full circle and is back where it belongs at the top of our lists in meal preparation. And now is a good season for fresh onion that will soon be on our markets. They are planted in Oct. and Nov. in the south. In preparing these onion dishes you might find that you are crying silent tears even though you are in a very happy mood. To prevent this is to take a pan full of water and hold and peel them under the water. No tears!

Here is a recipe for old time SCALLOPED ONIONS

Take eight or ten onions of good size, slice them and boil until tender. Lay some of them in a baking dish, put in a layer of bread crumbs, butter in small bits, pepper and salt, then another layer of onions and continue until the dish is full, putting bread crumbs last. Add milk or cream until full.
Bake 20 minutes or half an hour until bubbly.

This next recipe puts the lowly hamburger pattie into a gourmet class.

ONION SAUCE

1/4 cup butter or margarine
4 medium-size onions, sliced (about 4 cups)
2 cloves of garlic, minced
1 can (13 1/2 oz.) beef broth, divided
1/4 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
2 teaspoons cornstarch

In skillet melt butter; saute onion and garlic until golden. Stir in 1 1/2 cups beef broth and hot pepper sauce; bring to a boil. Reduce heat. Simmer, uncovered, five minutes. Combine cornstarch and the remaining broth; add to onion mixture, stirring constantly, until mixture boils and thickens.

Spoon this sauce over your favorite hamburger patties. Serve with potatoes and rolls.

Opinions

Yes, we should support our businesses as they support us

Come on Boyne City, East Jordan, Boyne Falls, and Walloon. What is going on with all the people who live around those towns?

Within the last few weeks, several businesses have folded, and the threat of other fold downs is imminent.

The big question is why those businesses have failed to keep their doors open. After all, isn't Boyne City supposed to be the wonder child of the county as far as development of those towns around us is going? And isn't East Jordan just a few days or years away from the same thing happening to it?

If you believe those in city offices, it would seem like it, but when you really look around, you can see many of the businesses are just holding on with their bare teeth.

Perhaps one of the biggest reasons is that those businesses rely on the local traffic to keep going. And, in the winter time, it seems that some of that local traffic is going to larger towns to shop. At least that is what we are told by some of the merchants themselves.

And in quite a few cases, they provide more than just jobs, tax base, and storefronts.

Almost every merchant gets asked every week to support this or that project from the many service, school, and church clubs around the town, and most are willing to join in with their share.

In some cases they have done more than their share, like hundreds of cases of canned goods, fresh poultry, and candies donated by one of the local grocery stores for the Christmas basket program. Or the golf tournament they sponsor in the summer and let the Lions Club have the proceeds from a couple of closest to the hole contests they have on the golf course. And the food they have given in the past to the schools, the firemen, and to churches for their dinners.

And hardly anyone knows what they do. And that could be just one example of one store. Others do much the same thing when asked.

Sure, they are not asking for a thank you for everything they do, but they would like to have those who have shared with them in those programs to at least come into their stores around the towns to look at the new merchandise, to buy something, and to tell them once in a while that they desire a pat on the back for just being in business and able to provide a choice of merchandise for the many different parts of the community.

And they are not asking that you buy any or all of the items they have, they just want you to know they are as competitive product for product as the next guy in the other towns, and that you don't have to spend the gas money to get to them.

If our towns are to grow into anything other than ghost towns with a few tourist traps, they have to be able to succeed. Or else we will all suffer from their loss by the added expenses of traveling to different communities to shop for our groceries, our clothing, and our pharmaceuticals.

We would like to see all stores in the communities survive, grow, and prosper. But they can't do it without the support of the communities they serve.

Let's make a point the next time we go into a local business to browse, shop, or buy, to tell the person standing by the register that we enjoy having them here in town.

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

I have always said that those people who have horses are slightly crazy. But after reading about a recently completed equine survey that was done by the Department of Agriculture, I find that there must be a lot of them crazies.

Like 160,000 of them. Horses that is, and other variants of the equine family.

Not that I have anything against horses, I just find it difficult to justify them with my budget. And I don't need them to travel from here to you, I'm not into racing and betting, or have any of the other uses that people put horses to work.

Out of the 160,000 horses the survey found that there were 131,000 light horses, 6,000 draft animals, and another 21,000 head of ponies. The smallest group of animals came from those who own or use donkeys and mules. The state found out that there were only 2,000 of them.

Now if they would open that classification up to breeds of humans, I am sure that they would be able to find millions, but that is another story.

There were 39,000 places within the state that equine, according to the survey that was done in 1984, are living and utilizing one-half million acres of land for the raising of the animals.

Horse farms, boarding, training, and riding stables were the home of 58,000. Another 60,000 reside on general type farms. And the remaining 42,000 were being kept in non-farm residences.

While pleasure and trail riding were the primary uses for the animals, other uses such as show and 4-H, breeding and racing were evident.

The four most common breeds of the light horses were the American Quarter horse, Standardbreds, Arabians, and Appaloosas.

And we are not just talking about those who raise horses for the glue and dog food business, as the survey said that the average value of the state's registered breeds was $4,000 per animal. With 95,000 of them being registered.

The other 65,000 unregistered animals was worth an average of $460 per head.

No matter which way you look at it, it looks like those folks who grow grain and hay have a ready market for their products.

Around here, you could find a good amount of horses as it seems that almost everybody with a little acreage has a horse or two.

And like a lot of others, I enjoy going to the horse pull and watching the animals pull that sled at the Polish Festival every summer.

Funny things are happening to me. Last week I went into the Bread Box Bakery for a cup of coffee and when I went to pay for it, they said that it was all taken care of by someone who stopped in and bought me a couple of days worth of coffee.

For the last several days, I have been searching around trying to find out who was the person so generous. I would also like to know if it was something that I wrote about and she liked it, or if it was just someone trying to become friendly.

The girls behind the counter said that it was someone who owned a condo at Boyne Mountain, but my search out there proved fruitless.

So, whoever it was, a great big thank-you goes out to you.

Of course I don't expect to have others buy my coffee, but if they want, I know a couple of nice restaurants around the town where I would be pleased to have them join me.

Then came April winter. One long-timer said it comes like this every hundred years. The snow falls in moody intervals. The flakes are wide-spaced so that it takes a long time for a cherry twig to catch one.

Still, slowly twigs and branches do turn white.

To watch falling snow may not be a worthy occupation. One enters a dream world of gentle descents.

On and on comes the snow...

What a wealth there must be in the heavens.

True, April winter is not our heart's desire, but one must accept beauty when it comes. Acceptance purifies perception. We are here to see this thing.

An apple tree spreads her design of branches on the air. The eye goes from branch to space among branches to all around apple-branched complexity—a complexity ordered by sun and the pull of earth.

Is it art? They call art that which results from feeling and intention. Does nature feel and intend?

Regarded squarely, nature's intention is impersonal reasonableness for survival, interdependence, reproduction. Any aimlessness in nature soon is rooted out.

And feeling? We know the panther loves, fears, and sometimes leaps for joy. Someday we even may be able to define the joy in apple trees.

So, I am sure snow on the branches and falling in between is art. And that there is intended composition in the display of stars.

Also in each six-pointed crystal that falls and whitens April earth this day—two days—three—then gone. And even in April winter I feel the twinge for art soon gone, never possessed.

Sheriff videotaping children for identification aid

Videotaping is a new protective measure for children in an era when kidnapping by divorced parents and other causes of missing children have hit new highs.

Charlevoix County sheriff George Lasater began taking video pictures of children this year as a supplement to voluntary fingerprinting. Parents desiring the record buy the blank tapes and the sheriff's department takes the pictures.

Lasater says the videotapes are much more useful than snapshots, as the child may be seen from various angles, and mannerisms of behavior may be made identifiable.

According to a March 2 New York Times story, Jay Howell, executive director of the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children in Washington, the videotape record is a worthwhile effort.

Videotapes, of course, must be updated as the child grows up. Officials also point out that fingerprinting and dental records are still the means of certifying identity. But in the search for a child, videotaping is the obvious facilitator.

Home. No more white, sterile sheets, tightly banded on a bed that moves up and down.

No more listening to the pains of the guy next to you when your own wounds are demanding relief.

No more waking up in the middle of the night and taking pills because that's what the doctor ordered.

Home. Your own bed, your own house. Tasty food made for one, not two hundred.

Home. A painful groan can now be followed by a swear word, or what sounds like swearing.

No pretty young nurse standing bedside saying, "We are going to sit in a chair when we eat this morning." Nurses use the editorial "we" when they mean "you."

We are going to do this. We are going to do that. Everyone in the hospital knows what she means. She means: "Look, bud, you are going to do this or that and I don't want any guff out of you."

Here at home where the entire house is one big recovery room, my wife-nurse never says "we." She bawls me out, points a finger at me and says, "You've got to do what I tell you."

Sometimes I cuss at her. Say nasty things. I'm sick. I hurt and I must express my feelings. Then I kiss her.

This can not be done in a hospital. I have no intentions of telling you how I found this out.

From the above, one would gather that I went to the hospital, had a couple bouts of surgery, suffered 14 days and then was sent home to recover or lie down and die a decent and honest death.

There is one other thing I would like to mention about this donnybrook I got myself into. Three doctors worked over me during my stay. When they could no longer stand my wailing and flailing, it was decided that I should be released. Sent home.

The men put their heads together and discharged me on April 1st. Why they waited until April Fool's Day to send me home, I do not know. I'm not only sick, but I also have that to worry about.

The nurses were wonderful. The doctors were excellent and knew what they were doing. Only the patient failed, according to street talk that says he's as grouchy and crotchety as ever.

Make yourself some money.

Clean out your attic and sell your no-longer-needs with a classified in the Charlevoix County Press.

THINK ABOUT IT.

WHAT WOULD YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD LOOK LIKE WITHOUT US?

Your home. It's probably your most prized possession. You worked hard to get it. You work hard keeping it beautiful.

And so do we. Every year, residential collection crews haul away 120 million tons of trash from American homes. We are at your doorstep every week, providing reliable service, at a reasonable cost.

How reasonable? Most households are served for less than $15 a month. That's a real bargain when compared to other direct-to-home services, such as telephone, heat, electricity or water.

You can help us keep your cost low by disposing of your trash carefully. Worker injuries are a serious and costly problem. So please, wrap sharp objects in newspaper before disposing. Use lids to keep out rain. If there's something a little unusual in your trash—heavy magazines, a dozen jars of granny's tomatoes gone bad, cans of something you can't identify—write us a short note. Just so we will be prepared.

All this helps us. So we can continue to help you keep your neighborhood beautiful.

We help keep America beautiful. With your help.

Special meetings for Avalanche

Those wanting to help decide what the Avalanche Preserve will have for summer or winter recreation are invited to two special meetings that the Boyne City Parks and Recreation Commission will be holding this month. They will be hearing about applications that concern summer uses on April 18th while the winter applications will be heard April 25.

All meetings will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Boyne City city hall. The commission will be looking for uses that would be in addition to the present uses that the park now has. All of the information gathered will help determine park usage in the coming years after they complete a survey of the property lines to see what could fit into the plans.

I.R.A. or the I.R.S.? Straight Talk About Individual Retirement Accounts.

With April 15th fast approaching, the appeal of Individual Retirement Accounts is growing ... as it should!

Because the amount of your contribution is fully deductible whether you itemize on your tax return or not, if you have earned income and pay taxes, you should consider an IRA.

The deposits you make to an IRA and the interest they earn grow quickly, giving you the security of a personal retirement plan, while substantially reducing your taxes all along the way — the immediate benefit of an IRA.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK and TRUST offers a variety of IRA plans with both fixed and variable interest rates available to you. Large annual contributions are not the only way to add to your IRA. At FIRST NATIONAL BANK and TRUST you can open your IRA for as little as $100 and add to it anytime.

Any of our New Accounts Representatives or Branch Managers would be pleased to discuss IRA's with you and to review your needs — let's talk!

Those considering a new IRA and those already having one are reminded that contributions for the 1984 tax year may be made only until April 15th.

Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal from an IRA prior to age 59½, except in the event of disability or loss of life.

MSHDA bond issue to provide lower cost mortgage loans

The sale by the Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA) of its largest bond issue ever—$150 million—will provide lower-cost home mortgage loans for 4,000 families and create more than 1,800 jobs, Governor James J. Blanchard said.

The bond sale will enable MSHDA to offer 20-year home mortgages at an interest rate of 9¾ percent (9.75%) to low and moderate income families, the Governor said. The interest rate is the Authority's lowest since 1980.

"This new financing, at such a favorable rate, is good news for Michigan as the spring building season gets underway," Governor Blanchard said. "It means the dream of home ownership can be realized by thousands more of our citizens, and it means jobs for hundreds of our workers in construction and housing-related trades."

The Governor signed legislation (Public Act 2) earlier this year making the bond sale possible. The legislation raised the Authority's bonding limit by $300 million. In his State of the State message, the Governor gave the home mortgage program high priority and asked the legislature to "act quickly to allow developers and homebuyers to take full advantage of the spring and summer building season." No state tax dollars are used for MSHDA loans or its operating expenses. Applications for the new mortgages will be accepted by 125 participating banks, savings and loan associations and mortgage companies throughout Michigan, according to the Authority. The lending institutions can reserve funds at MSHDA starting April 8, 1985.

For the first time, the loans will be written for a 20-year term instead of 30 years. The shorter term, plus approximately $3 million deposited by the Authority from its reserves, resulted in an interest rate about one percentage point below the rate on a longer mortgage, the Authority said.

The shorter, lower-rate loans will enable home purchasers to save thousands of dollars in interest costs while making only slightly higher monthly payments. For example, on a typical MSHDA mortgage of $35,000, total interest costs at 9¾ percent over 20 years would be approximately $44,600. That compares to more than $82,000 on a 30-year loan at 10¾ percent. The monthly payment on the shorter loan would be about $332, or $5 more than for principal and interest on a 30-year loan.

The income and purchase price limits for the new mortgages are as follows: For new homes statewide, maximum household income of $28,000 and house purchase price of $70,000. For existing homes, maximum income of $23,000 and purchase price of $36,000. For existing homes in 34 localities designated as distressed areas, maximum income of $25,000 and purchase price of $50,000.

K2 skis to hold racing clinic this weekend at Boyne

K2 skis will be hosting a racing ski test session and a ski performance discussion this weekend at Boyne Mountain that will be open to all ski racers and other interested skiers.

They will have over 40 pairs of skis available for testing ranging in sizes from the 170 cm junior racing ski to the 220 sized downhill skis. They will be setting courses on Aurora so that ski racers can check out the different models that they may want to use next season. Scott Schimelfenig, the director of skiing for K2 will be at the site helping skiers to determine the proper skis for the best performance for the racer. The lifts will open at 8:00 a.m. for the special program. There will also be a discussion of racing skis in the Alpine room at the main lodge at 4:00 p.m. for those interested.

EJ bowler money winner at Manistee

Pat Weisler, of East Jordan, was the only money winner in last weekend's Miller High Life Northern Michigan Classic event that was held at Manistee. Other area bowlers did not fare so well in the tourney, which was delayed by the snowstorm and a power outage. Weisler finished in 14th place at the tourney.

The last tournament of the season will be held at Boyne City Lanes May 5-6.

On deans' list

Karen Houser, whose parents are Betty and Dan Houser of Boyne City, made the dean's list with a 3.5 average for the winter quarter.

Dog and deer controversy concern for hunters

In recent weeks much attention has been given by various individuals to the subject of dogs running deer. This is a major concern for all local hunters and sportsmen as the spring brings excellent running conditions for dogs, while for the deer, conditions are poor at best.

With freezing nights and warmer days, snow forms a tough overcoat of ice that enables dogs to run on top and overtake deer who break through the crust and mobility is cut to practically nil.

The common attitude of most sportsmen who favor the deer say that it is OK to shoot a dog sighted running deer. This is a misconception and should not be done as there are official officers who have this duty and responsibility.

The local officer for Charlevoix County, who commented on the issue, is Tom Sweet, and he says that it is unlawful for a private citizen to pull the trigger on a dog even though he may be running a deer. Sweet said that there are certain circumstances where it would be legal to shoot a dog. Farmers have the right to protect livestock from dog molestation.

Another exception would be if dogs had a deer down and were killing it. Those conditions seem to be acceptable by most dog owners but their main concern is the fact that people who think dogs are running deer are shooting the dogs without checking into the situation thoroughly.

There are legitimate reasons for dog hunting sportsmen to have their hounds loose in the woods. Coyote season remains open all year around and naturally when they turn the hounds loose on a track that carries through the woods any deer who are close by will mass exodus that area.

People who may see this flight may eventually sight dogs running and baying, giving the illusion that the hounds are chasing deer. Coyote hunting has rapidly become a serious weekend outing for many local sportsmen and popularity of "the chase" is drawing increasing numbers of hound runners. Most of these dog men will agree, dogs should not run deer and many of these same sportsmen will get rid of a deer runner on their own as they tend to be very responsible persons.

If you see someone shoot your dog for unjust reasons you do have the right to attempt to recover money lost on the dog. The proper court procedure is to take it to Civil Court for recovery of losses. A word of warning is issued as most of these hounds are registered animals and very expensive.

Some popular breeds of hounds run into the hundreds and some are valued up to a thousand dollars or more.

A conviction of unlawful shooting of a dog could hurt the pocketbook extremely hard.

Trout Unlimited to hear former DNR director at Apr. 17 banquet

Doctor Howard Tanner is the featured speaker at the Hazen Miller Chapter of Trout Unlimited Annual Banquet on April 17. Dr. Tanner was the former Director of Michigan Department of Natural Resources from 1975 until 1983. He is currently Professor of Fisheries at Michigan State University. He has served with many groups and committees involved with environmental and biological affairs.

The Banquet will be at the Inland House, beginning at 6:30 p.m. on April 17. A raffle will be held featuring a Sawyer Canoe. A short program describing the Chapter's sedimentation trap on the Maple River will be presented.

Cost of the Banquet is $15 with all proceeds to be used for Maple River projects. The public is invited and reservations can be made at the Inland House, 616-347-8127 or tickets can be obtained from Chapter members.

It may be more economical than your current policy that doesn't include guaranteed home replacement. Just ask your "no problem!" Auto-Owners agent to tell you how Homeowners protection can be no problem for you and your home.

Straight Talk About Individual Retirement Accounts.

With April 15th fast approaching, the appeal of Individual Retirement Accounts is growing ... as it should!

Because the amount of your contribution is fully deductible whether you itemize on your tax return or not, if you have earned income and pay taxes, you should consider an IRA.

The deposits you make to an IRA and the interest they earn grow quickly, giving you the security of a personal retirement plan, while substantially reducing your taxes all along the way — the immediate benefit of an IRA.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK and TRUST offers a variety of IRA plans with both fixed and variable interest rates available to you. Large annual contributions are not the only way to add to your IRA. At FIRST NATIONAL BANK and TRUST you can open your IRA for as little as $100 and add to it anytime.

Any of our New Accounts Representatives or Branch Managers would be pleased to discuss IRA's with you and to review your needs — let's talk!

Those considering a new IRA and those already having one are reminded that contributions for the 1984 tax year may be made only until April 15th.

Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal from an IRA prior to age 59 1/2, except in the event of disability or loss of life.

Glen's Save-Share

"Helping to Build a Better Community Together"

This is one example of a non-profit group making use of the Save-Share Program to help raise funds. There are many more groups using it, too. Glen's wants everyone in Boyne City to know about Save-Share and hopes more groups will use it to raise funds. All a group has to do is register with the store manager and begin saving the green cash register tapes. Glen's will pay 1 percent of the total qualified amount of all tapes brought in by any registered group; and not just once, but each time a group brings in $25.00 worth of slips or more.
