Monday Memorial Day activities set by veterans

Memorial Day will start early for some of the veterans who will be helping out at all of the services at area cemeteries this coming Monday. They will be meeting at the Country Star Restaurant for a breakfast buffet that the American Legion and their Auxiliary will be holding prior to the cemetery services at 7:00 a.m..

After the breakfast, the members of the V.F.W. and the American Legion will be going out to Boyne Falls for the first of six memorial services at 8:00 a.m. in Memorial Park.

They will then go to Walloon Lake for services in their park, then to Evangeline Cemetery. They will go to Wilson Cemetery and finish the memorial services at Maple Lawn Cemetery in Boyne City.

At 10:00 a.m. the annual Memorial Day Parade will start from the American Legion Hall. The parade route will go north on Lake Street to Water Street, then East on Water to Park. The route will follow north on Park to State Street. The route will turn west on State to Veteran's Park and will gather around the memorial site.

Fred Gondzar will lead the observers of the Memorial Day observances in the National Anthem which will be played by the Boyne City High School Band and the Pledge of Allegiance.

Milton Walls from the Presbyterian Church will say the invocation.

After a selection played by the band, Gondzar will lead the group in prayer.

Rev. Micheal Conklin of the United Methodist Church will give the address.

The service will recognize members of Legion and the V.F.W. as well as veterans of World War One.

A wreath will then be placed at the memorial by Alma Boone and Marion Jones, Auxiliary members of the V.F.W. and the Legion.

The bugles will play a salute of Taps in remembrance of the fallen men who died for our country, after a gun salute and will end the services.

BC commissioners draw ire after PRD rezoning

When the Boyne City commissioners decided that amending the city's zoning ordinance may help continue the growth of the community last Tuesday at their monthly commission meeting, they caused a discussion of zoning along the waterfront that raised the ire of some city residents.

The zoning amendment was to allow parcels of land, smaller than five acres, to be considered for the Planned Residential District zoning that the city has for parcels like the Harborage Development.

The matter had first come to the attention of the planning commission earlier in the month when Ron Makino, a developer from Belleville had asked for rezoning on a site that he would like to develop into eight condominiums along Front Street.

The property is currently owned by Mary Anne Watkins and includes four houses that are in a state of disrepair. Makino had presented a site plan which showed what could be done with the property if the rezoning was granted.

The city commission, following the recommendation of the planners, presented a first reading of an amendment that would allow the rezoning request.

Several residents appeared before the commission to register their disapproval of the proposed project.

Chris Rounds, asked the commission "Where do you draw the line between residential and PRD?" He was told by commissioner Steve Moody and by City manager Randy Frykberg that the city will receive a lot of pressure on the first tier of property along the lake as to requests for development.

While Rounds told the board that the project would help clean up the area, he questions the worth of such projects on the aesthetic values of the city.

Real Estate salesperson, Arlene Kuhn also expressed disagreement with the proposed project, and told the board that she would like to see the land remain as single family residential. She told the commissioners that she had "about two buyers for each parcel" if the present owner wanted to sell them.

Judy Kostin, one of the neighbors along Front Street, and who has recently completed the renovation of her house, told the commissioners that she would like to see renovation as a major consideration as that is what the city is trying to do in the downtown area.

The center of the discussion was that the developer had proposed to construct eight units on the four lots owned by Watkins. Makino said that what he had proposed would fit in with the community, the neighborhood, and would help to eliminate the blight that is presently on the property. The project he is proposing would have the units overlook the lake, with the service entrances for cars and parking located on a back street.

The commissioners then completed the reading of the amendment and the rezoning.

They also approved the addition of Don Glowinski to the planning board, approved a lot split and heard a first reading on the raising of the cemetery fees and charges for opening graves in the city cemetery.

BC planners spend time reviewing requests

Reviews took all the action at the monthly Boyne City Planning Board meeting held Monday evening. Planners reviewed requests for a Commercial Facilities Exemption Certificate for Studio-One Hair Design, reviewed and heard an update on the Eagle's Hall site, reviewed and decided on amending the zoning ordinance to allow for home occupations, and reviewed a request from the city commissioners to rezone some property along Front Street.

Most of the discussions concerned the home occupation special uses that currently are not allowed, due to an oversight when the ordinance was drawn up in 1966, in residential areas.

Legally, a home owner cannot run a business out of his home unless he was in business prior to the passage of the 1966 zoning ordinance. But the planners took steps to insure that those requests for home occupations could be considered.

They passed a motion that initiates an amendment to the zoning ordinance. If passed and approved following the public hearings and the city commission, those home occupations like an accountant, a seamstress, an insurance salesperson could run the business from the house if they live in the R-1, R-2, and R-3 zoning areas.

The business has to run from the house and will not be allowed in a garage, accessory building or any other structure.

Then the board heard the request for a tax abatement that Studio-One Hair Design would like to have for their remodeling and addition they will be adding.

The commissioners, saying that they want the feeling of the turn-of-the-century look in the downtown area, asked John Hunt, one of the owners of the building, to change his plans to include the old look facade.

Hunt told the board that he had not considered the option when he drew up the plans for the building improvements. He said he expects to spend about $25,000 for the changes in the roofline and the additional five feet he will be adding to the shop. He also told the board that he intends on remodeling the interior of the shop to make it more workable for the business.

When he was told, as the board went through the criteria for abatements, that by making the changes suggested, he could improve the length of time his abatement would cover, he told them that he would have to consider any changes between himself and his wife.

As an incentive to make the changes, the board approved granting the company a six year abatement on the taxes of the improvement if he makes the changes, or will grant him only three years if he doesn't.

In making the approval, board chairman Dale Parsons told Hunt and the audience that "If we are trying to encourage the businesses to have the turn-of-the-century look, the board should try to have changes in the direction for those abatements."

In other action, the board heard about the reports that are used in other communities in the area, and started the process to rezone the Federal Oil Property along Front Street from public use to general commercial.

The land had been under that zoning prior to the new zoning map which was drawn up when the city was considering the parcel to become part of the new city beach project.

The board also tabled trying to fill the position on the planning board due to the resignation of Kate DeRossier. The board hopes to find a replacement from anyone who volunteered for a position on city boards.

The planners then heard from Judy Kostin who asked the board what would be the best procedure to argue against the proposed condominium project along Front Street near her home. She was told of several ways the project could be fought against.

Planner Marty Paul also told her that the rezoning request was just one step in the entire process and that she would be able to have input, as well as others, in any decision that the board would make as they review the site plan that has been proposed.

Members of the Boyne Valley Garden Club finished final preparations on the Veterans Memorial Park platform and sign in time for the ceremonies that will be held this coming Monday.

Home ec dropped by Boyne Falls board for next year

Learning to sew or cook is not part of the Boyne Falls curriculum anymore after the school board approved the dropping of the course. While the school will not be offering the course, students will still be able to get the class by attending the Petoskey school under the co-op program that Boyne Falls has with Petoskey.

The class was only offered every other year due to the declining enrollment of those wishing to take the class, said Superintendent Bob Redmond. "It was not a highly populated course," he added. Several weeks ago when the action was first proposed, Redmond said that students are more interested in the academics of high school and are learning the homemaking skills at home.

All of the equipment from the class, including the sewing machines and the refrigerator will be sold at the school auction which will be held June 8 at the school barn on Center Street in Boyne Falls. The auction will start at 11:00 a.m. and will include many other items considered to be surplus to the system. Proceeds from the auction will be earmarked for use by the curriculum committee to buy textbooks and other materials.

The purchase of textbooks was approved by the board, along with a few building improvements such as a hooded vent in the science room as part of the curriculum improvements the boards wanted to make.

In other action, the board heard that Foster Construction will be returning to the school to repair work that had developed cracks over the winter and will fix the stucco coloring to match the other panels.

The school will also complete over the summer a suspended ceiling in the art room and will be adding insulation in some of the ceilings.

Redmond estimated that the work on energy saving has so far saved the school system 20 to 30 percent on its energy bills.

The board also is considering the addition of a student representative to the board. The non-voting member would attend board meetings and could provide student input into the systems' decisions.

Boyne Falls will borrow $363,000 this summer to help them start the 1985-86 school year, Redmond said.

The borrowing of funds was part of the first step that the board took when they looked at the proposed

Smoke may rise from sewers in BC

The Boyne City Department of Public Works will be conducting smoke testing on a portion of the city's sanitary sewer system starting on Thursday, May 23, 1985.

The smoke used for the sewer testing is a cool, white, odorless, non-toxic smoke. This smoke may enter your home through untrapped floor drains which are connected to the sanitary sewer. Residents may wish to fill dried traps with water or stuff a rag into untrapped drains to prevent smoke from entering your home.

If smoke does enter your home, please contact the Boyne City offices. Small children, pets, and people with respiratory problems should not remain in a smoke filled environment as some irritation may occur.

If smoke is detected in your home, please check the street for a smoke testing crew before telephoning the fire department.

A surprise picketing was done last Monday night when visitors to the Boyne City School Board meeting showed up. The members of MESPA, along with other union supporters, carried signs that said that they have worked long enough without a contract or a raise. The attempt was to try to get the school board to negotiate with them. Board members just walked on by, saying later that anytime they want to get together, the board is willing.

Boyne City looks at budget, lowers debt retirement millage

During a first viewing of the 1985-86 school budget, Superintendent Rich Kelly told board members that while many aspects of the budget are up, he believes "We can finish 85-86 better than you can see tonight as you look at the figures."

The budget shows that the schools will have another fund excess but that the amount of money will not be as great as the 1984-85 school year. The proposed budget was the first look that the board members have had and they will be fine tuning it to work out areas to reduce spending.

The board agreed on the operational millage that is to be set for the coming year at 30.4 mills. They also agreed to lower the millage required for debt retirement by one-tenth of a mill. That levy will be at 2.3 mills.

The reason the levy is less, according to Kelly, is that the school system is paying off on the bonds sold that allowed the school system to build the schools each year, and that it takes a little less each year to meet the requirement for paying on the bonds.

The board then approved Bud Beebe as the junior varsity boys' basketball coach for the 1985-86 school year. Ron Reinhardt was also appointed to become the boys' ninth grade basketball coach.

After another discussion about having the schools be able to sell candy, and the failure of a motion to eliminate the elementary and middle schools from selling anything that involves a product, the schools will again be able to continue their successful candy sales as they have in the past.

Future problems that the school may be facing, according to Kelly, and something that the board will be looking at quite closely, is the overcrowding in the elementary school.

Kelly told the board that the school is out of classrooms, and if they agree to add a gifted and talented program into the day, or if Char-Em continues with special ed programs at the Boyne City school, they may have to consider moving the fifth grade to the Middle School.

Other options being looked at include the possibility of having the gifted and talented program at the high school.

Notice: By federal law this column is an equal opportunity enjoyer. Men and women and those people who live in Boyne Falls have as much right to read it and giggle or throw up as anyone else. Fair is fair, I always say.

Vandals and thieves seem to crop up every winter taking stuff from closed cottages around the lake when no one is looking. It's called stealing, a word some people missed before they were kicked out of the fourth grade.

In fact, things were so bad in the boondocks last winter I heard about a man who made his wife stand on the front porch while he was in town so people would know there was someone at home.

Question: What happens to a person after he has spent a stint in the nurse-filled hospital recovery room? How are you supposed to conduct your life once you are again stitless and all wounds mended?

I was told that when I returned home I would have to take this, and take that, quit this and quit that.

Taking this and taking that doesn't bother me so much as quitting this and quitting that. The this and that I'm supposed to quit are my interesting intermissions from the hard work of getting through the day. I need them worse than a banker needs a vacation without his wife.

The people who curl my hair the most are those who insist that if I had shaped up and quit doing this and that years ago, I wouldn't have wound up in the recovery.

Nonsense. I've enjoyed this and that all my life and they had nothing to do with me flagging down the nearest ambulance on the way to the hospital.

Darn, how I wish I could do this and that again.

You have a thirty-nine day leeway before you are arrested for not wearing a seat belt.

Sometimes we find ourselves talking to visitors who say they would give almost anything to chuck it all and move north, away from the city and its bigness. Most are caught in an economic pinch and can't afford to join our paradise.

Now, let me say this about that: When we are running barefoot and swimming naked at "half-moon" up the Boyne River, our city cousins were referring to us as northern Michigan hillbillies. Rubes, if you like.

When I finally grew up and went to work in Detroit I was amazed to find there were more hillbillies per square hill in Detroit than anywhere in northern Michigan.

The wheel has finally turned around. The same people who laughed at our rural ways are now clawing their way through life in hopes of someday enjoying the same wonderful northland that was here forty years ago.

These people had a problem. It was ignorance. They weren't intelligent enough to have been born here like we smart fellers.

I shall now use my wild, unfettered freedom to do as I wish. Like folding up my fingers and having done with this week's offering.

The view of the waterfront back in the 1910-20 era was great, if you could see past the piles of wood waiting shipment to the big cities that went out by boat. These stacks of wood were air dried as they awaited shipment. Much of the entire waterfront of the community was filled with lumber piles and with the death of the lumbering industry around town, opened up the waterfront for what it is used for now. Those who wish to have a piece of it and those who enjoy the views across the water. This picture, taken from a slide of the era is just one of the collection that was given to us to reproduce. If you have any old pictures of the community, bring them in and we'll make a copy for this feature.

Barbara Cruden

From the smart world of tax know-how and the juggling of investments and debts, it's nice to drive out to see the cherry trees in bloom.

The trouble is, I get to wondering if cherry farmers receive any tax relief, because they do provide a pretty sight for free to all those tourists so cherished by the state of Michigan.

Ah well, drive on. The little trees care not about money or tourists. In their white tutus like ballet dancers, poised on one foot, they look as though they are waiting for the next bar of music.

Other times they delight me by resembling a grand parade, disappearing over a hill, 15 or 20 abreast.

Spring is so eventful. Every day brings something new to celebrate. "The yellow forsythia bushes are in bloom," we announce to each other. "The violets are out!" we exclaim.

Then there's the day the oriole comes back to the little grove of maples.

It always seems as though it must be the same oriole, but ornithologists tell us the long migrations are full of danger to the birds. They do not survive many of these journeys.

But the oriole is ever the oriole, swooping like a golden arrow and singing, singing those golden songs. And the robin is ever the robin, the dove ever the dove.

We don't see the struggles that go on behind the bright tift of their presence. We know only the calling, the flying, the beautiful feathers.

All this welling up of spring is a favorite theme for thought. We can't help noticing again how we feel reborn, although strangely, the older folks seem to notice it more than the young ones do. The more years we know orioles and cherry blossoms, the better spring seems.

And the springtime smiles after winter-time struggles—are they new, but the same as in other years? Are they the same but different, and better too?

Something irrepressible is going on, something so big, taxes are trivialities by comparison.

How can people live where there's no spring!

Concern growing over morel future

Editor, There is a great growing concern about one of our great natural resources, the wild morel mushroom.

All one has to do now is drive the back and side roads to see all of the Ohio and Indiana license plates that are so plentiful at this time of the year.

Our state is so eager to jump on new sources of revenue, why don't they propose a mushroom hunting license. I would suggest $1 for residents and $25 for non-residents.

And propose legislation making it illegal to sell these tasty morsels. When one shoots deer, pheasant, partridge, or catches a fish, it is illegal to sell that particular trophy.

I encountered some out of staters by Boyne Falls late Sunday afternoon by the side of the road with a "mushrooms for sale" sign by their vehicles. Out of curiosity I stopped to see "how much." They had four quart plastic pails about three quarters filled and were asking $20 each and said they only had two left to sell. They also stated that they "sold out" on Saturday.

I don't feel that this sort of thing should be allowed.

Harold W. Cowles
East Jordan, Mich.

Refutes E. Sayles logic

Editor, My father used to remind me that logic can't win an argument with emotion. And it is obvious that Everett K. Sayles has an emotional problem wherever our President is concerned. It would seem that there isn't anything Mr. Reagan could do, short of resigning, that would meet with Mr. Sayles' approval.

Never the less, I feel compelled to answer the public letter written by Mr. Sayles and published in your May 15 edition.

Mr. Sayles asks us to take a quick look at some facts—probably the quicker the better. For instance he says that after World War I we opened our hearts and our pocket-books to help rebuild Germany. That's simply not so. Then we are treated with his version of the President being "forced" to visit the Viet Nam Memorial and how "He fought every inch of the way." Ah, come on now, Everett.

And since quotations seem to be in order, how about a very old one: "Don't take the wrong side of an argument just because your opponent has taken the right side."

Appreciates concert

Editor, For those who missed the May Festival of Song—Benefit Concert for Charlevoix Hospice on Sunday, May 12th at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix, you missed choirs of angels. The absolute awe inspiring story of the creation in Roy Ringwald's musical setting of James Weldon Johnson's poem of God's Trombones, Dan Staublen's marimba solo (the best I have ever heard) fine orchestra music both classical jazz, the Pine River Four quartet and that is just a few.

Let us hope they repeat this concert in the area and soon. We can all use it.

Remembrances

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

In the last few days, I have been hearing about how the city is trying to make this town a well-kept, but older looking town. Some of the city fathers are saying "turn of the century" feeling as the look they want to see around the town.

But I wonder how many of them really want that "old" look. And I wonder if they are ready to defend to their death to have all of the town looking the same way as they conceive of it in their minds.

In my mind, as I look through lots of the old pictures on a weekly basis to try to find something to run in our Remembrances feature, I don't think I would want us to look the way we were.

I have plenty of pictures of tar paper shacks that used to be called homes by the residents. And other pictures of slabwood sided things that passed for a house back then.

I am sure I wouldn't want to go back to those days just so we could say that Boyne City is a town that still looks the same as it did 60 years ago.

I am hoping that with the modern days of today, we could do a lot better than what our forefathers had to live in. Or in the case of most homes, live in and half to go out.

You see, beauty is always in the eyes of the beholder. In the case of this town, some planners have this idea in the back of their heads that says we should look like some community that was never Donna Drenth, the secretary of the East Jordan Cooperative Nursery presented gifts to former teachers of the school, Barb Wolf and daughter Sarah, Donna Tison, and Cheri Leach, in ceremonies held at the school.

Founders honored at EJ nursery school

BY ELOUISE ROSSLER

Seventeen years ago when Mrs. Shirley Bowers and Mrs. June Zoerhof opened the doors of the first nursery school in the education building of the Presbyterian Church, they had no idea what they were starting!

Today the nursery school still meets in the church education building, as it has done annually since its inception. A few things have changed—the nursery is now incorporated; it now serves at least 30 children; it is fully licensed; has adopted its own logo; and is already beginning work on next year's plans.

On April 30, the present nursery school parents honored Mrs. Bowers and Mrs. Zoerhof for starting such a good thing. Corsages and gifts were given the ladies, as well as a program by the present nursery children. Among those performing was Mrs. Bowers' granddaughter, Cheltzi Thorman, who is the beginning of the second generation.

Cheltzi's mother Sue was in the first class. Cheltzi's cousin Sara Malpass was in the nursery school before going to kindergarten this year, and Sara's mother Brenda was president of the nursery school for one year.

Past presidents and former teachers were also honored and were given a small gift made by the children in the nursery school.

For many of those attending it was a chance to see old friends and renew memories of "when our kids were that age." Other children in the audience who had attended the school were honored as "alumni."

Kelly Peterson, a mother of a present nursery schooler and an artist, presented the new logo which will be used for publicity and to identify the nursery school in the future.

The evening was rounded out by a book fair put on by Volume 1 Bookstore of Petoskey, giving the public as well as nursery school parents the chance to buy books.

anywhere but in a recent movie set. Of course all the streets back then are just like quite a few of the streets of today, except we have put a few more layers of gravel on them so we don't have the mud that they had back then.

I think the planners and the experts who have come up with the idea about us being a turn-of-the-century town, don't know what a turn of the century town was like.

Especially here in the north country where they were trying to cut down all the wood they could find to feed the sawmills.

I think they are thinking about a town and the sidestreets that were in the fashionable places of Detroit or Chicago.

Today we call those places ghettos, but back then, they had the look that our community seems to be striving towards.

Back then, according to many of the pictures that I have seen, those streets were the upper class home sections of the community. They were the Birminghams, the Bloomfields, the Evanstons, and the upper level suburbs that surround the major cities today.

Jottings

Bankers and businessmen lived on those streets. That is where the Fords, the Durants, and the other developers of today's big business lived.

I don't know of many who live here in Boyne to be of that class, and most of us still don't think we can afford to live in the high class sections of this or any other town.

Believe it or not, someone once said, most of us who live here in Boyne, or in East Jordan, really have to work for a living just to be able to stay here where we want to live.

Boyne to apply for grant to build docks in Sunset Park

Boyne City fathers authorized County Recreation Director, Mike Davis, to start working up some plans and a DNR Land Trust Fund Grant proposal for the possible construction of 20 transient slip boat docks that would be constructed by the seawall in Sunset Park.

The park runs east and west along Water Street and is next to the One Water Street project.

The grant would be based on the new rules that the DNR is proposing that would allow the funds to be used for more than just land acquisition. The city wants to have the grant application in order so that it would be considered as soon as the new rules are ready.

The action came during the noon meeting of the city commission who also heard that the city housing commission has started construction on an extension of their emergency alarm system. The system is currently being used in the new section of the Litzenburger apartments and is going to be extended into the older section. The alarm system is connected with the city police department.

They also approved a request from the parks and recreation board to allow the Michigan Heart Association, Charlevoix County Unit to construct a health path at Rotary Park.

In granting the request, commissioner Thelma Behling said the project would involve more people of the community the use of the park, not just ball players. The plans for the exercise path include six stations where specific exercises can be done.

The reason for installing the health path at Rotary Park is that the path is all complete around the park. All that would have to be finished would be the exercise stations and some wood chips along the path.

If this exercise path is completed, the parks and recreation board has plans for an additional one in the Avalanche Preserve that would utilize more of that park.

Letters of thanks were sent out to the Boyne Valley Garden Club for the work they have done around the library and other parts of the city.

Frykberg also told the commission that the city will be doing smoke testing of some of the sewer system this week.

The test will help determine some of the water inflow problems that have plagued the system for some time.

1985-86 school year budget that Redmond had worked up.

The budget showed a proposed expenditure of $40,000 over the revenues which would cut the present fund equity that the school system has in half. Redmond called the budget a "status quo" budget with the only improvements that would be made would be in the textbooks and teacher inservice areas.

The board will hold a truth in taxation hearing Monday, June 24 at 7:00 p.m., and then approve the budget at 7:30 p.m.

Other announcements Redmond made to the board included the fact that Tony Barnadyn will be receiving his diploma from the Boyne Falls School system on June 5 at the Resort School.

And, if Boyne Falls wins in the pre-district baseball tourney this Friday, the graduation ceremony would be changed from 2:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. on June 1. The change would allow the baseball team to play in the district tournament which starts that day.

The East Jordan Senior Center held a Gong Show Thursday, May 16. Performing in the show was Debbie Peck doing a ballet number in a clown costume, Helen Klooster reading a poem, "How you Know When You are Growing Older," Florence Stucker pantomimed "Lucille," by Kenny Rogers. Inez Parker and Cheri Black sang "Down by the Ole Mill Stream." Martha Garlock read a poem about Ducks and Chickens and Phoebe Watson read the story of Petey the Snake.

Joe Nemeck played some fiddle selections and was "gonged" twice, but kept right on playing. Also singing was Milt Veverka. Gongers were Charles Mason and Vi Hover.

BC sends Parsons to state meet

It's a base hit. Just one of many that the Boyne Falls Lady Loggers piled up on visiting Vanderbilt last week. The Boyne Falls softballers tallied 19 total hits and won the game 13-5.

BF takes two

The Boyne Falls Logger baseball and softball teams took a game each over Vanderbilt last week. Both games were called short of the normal number of innings because of rain. The Lady Loggers won their game 13-5 while the boys' baseball team was victorious 4-2.

Pam Grubaugh pitched the win for Boyne Falls as her teammates combined for 19 hits. Kim McNew, Linda Koeman, and Grubaugh hit three singles each, while Lisa Winhusen doubled and singled. Dianne Massey, Lisa Topolinski, and Cheryl Sparks added two more hits each while Kelly Payton and Renee Reynolds recorded a hit apiece.

In the hardball game James Crego got the win as pitcher. Crego tallied five strikeouts, two walks, and two hits allowed.

On offense Neil Wasylewski went two of three, getting two doubles with two R.B.I.s Norm Hausler, Scott Winhusen, Kelly Harmon, and Crego all singled.

Boyne City's high school track team attended the Elk Rapids Invitational on Wednesday and placed second in both boys' and girls' competition, and went to the class C regional on Saturday where one trackster qualified for state competition and Boyne got some solid results from two freshmen.

At the regionals Steve Parsons ran the 3200 meter run in 10:05 for a third place finish. The top three contenders in each regional event qualified for the state meet.

Parsons finished in sixth place in the 1600 meter race with a time of 4:42.2, while high jumper Nick Redman tied for fifth place at the six foot mark.

Freshmen Mike DeSchryver and Angela Reich did well in their first regional competition with DeSchryver taking a fifth in the long jump at 19' 5", and sixth in the 200 meter spring 24.2 sec.

Reich placed fifth in the shot put with a toss of 33'5". The boys' 880 relay team took sixth position running DeSchryver, Redman, Mike Gabos, and Glen LaCroix.

Other places taken by the girls' team were Julie Montgomery fifth in the 200 meter sprint, and the girls' 1600 meter relay team took fifth place. The team members were Kelly Montgomery, Julie Montgomery, Katie Vickers, and Karen DeSchryver.

Monday the girls' team attended the Petoskey Relays and placed in three events. The girls took second place in the three quarter mile medley. J. Montgomery, K. Montgomery, Susan West, and DeSchryver had a time of 3:20.4. The mile relay team of the Montgomery girls, DeSchryver, and Vickers took fourth place, and the sprint medley team of K. Montgomery, J. Montgomery, Reich, and West took fifth place with a time of 1:38.5.

At the Elk Rapids Invitational the boys' team collected 87 points taking first place in six events. DeSchryver won two events, the long jump, 18'8 1/4", and the pole vault, 10'6". Parsons won the 880 yard run in 2:12, Hal Leach won the two mile run in 10:57, and Redman won the high jump at six foot even.

The Rambler mile relay team took first place in 3:59 with Parsons, Leach, Redman, and Todd Fanning running a leg each.

Second place finishers for Boyne were Tony Napont, shot put, Pat Weeks, pole vault, Leach, mile run, and Dino Franchino, high jump.

The 880 relay team placed second also running Weeks, LaCroix, Fanning, and Redman.

Third place finishers for Boyne were Keoki Kuheana, shot put, LaCroix, 100 yard dash, Leach, 880 yard run, and Steve Ketchman, high jump. The 440 relay team of La-Croix, Fanning, Redman, and Weeks took third place also.

Fourth place finishes went to Steve Sutton, shot put, and discus, Ketchman, 110 yard high hurdles, Fanning, 100 yard dash, and Scott Beebe tied for fourth in the high jump.

Another thing pointed out by boys' coach Bob McCullough was the fact that he is awarding his first "hard worker award."

McCullough says for the first time in 26 years of coaching he has found a candidate for such an award in the likes of Terry Dell. McCullough said that if "everyone worked as hard as Terry, they would all be Olympians." It seems that Dell never misses a day of practice and always works as hard as he can at what he is doing.

The girls' team took one winning event at Elk Rapids by way of the mile relay team. The relayers were K. Montgomery, J. Montgomery, Smith and Vickers.

Taking second place honors for Boyne were Tammy Winters, high jump, Shelly Vroman, 440 yard dash, and J. Montgomery, 220 yard dash. One third place finish came from Reich in the shot put, 33'1 1/2".

Placing fourth for Boyne were Winters, discus, West, 110 high hurdles, Force, mile run, K. Montgomery, 330 low hurdles, and Smith, 220 yard dash.

Fifth place positions went to Vickers, mile run, Tammy McPherson, 220 yard dash, Reich, discus, and Winters, shot put.

EJ bumps off top contender

BY STEVE GEE
Add three more wins to East Jordan's baseball record. The boys won three of four meetings last week and advanced further into the district tournament.

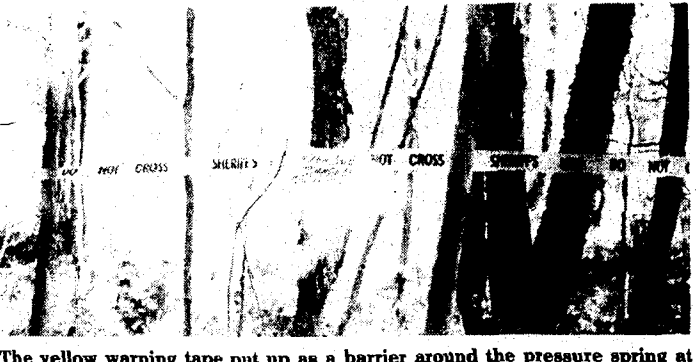

by scores of 12-2 and 11-5. The first game of the twinbill was counted as a pre-district tournament game which enabled East Jordan to move on to a May 24 confrontation with Benzie Central. Pete Zoulek earned the first win for the Devils, giving up five hits and four walks, while striking out 11 Ironmen. Greg Kitson and Thom Ashton each socked their first homers of the year for the Devils. East Jordan won the second game by a score of 11-5 with fine pitching from Scott Bartig and getting clutch hitting off the bats of Greg Kitson and John Richards. Bartig went seven innings giving up eight hits while striking out eight. Darren Bishop hit his first homerun of the year to drive in two East Jordan runs.

Collecting hits for the Red Devils were Greg Kitson with three, John Richards with two, and Steve Dionne, Pete Zoulek, Bill Lytle, Bill Kraemer, Dennis Skrocki, Thom Ashton, Scott Bartig, James Price, Darren Bishop, and Steve Gee with one each. The Red Devils took on number one Inland Lakes on Thursday and almost walked away with a pair of wins, but had to settle with a split. The Devils won the first game 5-1 behind a not-hit performance from Pete Zoulek. The no-hitter was Zoulek's second of the year. East Jordan scored all five of their runs in the fourth inning.

The yellow warning tape put up as a barrier around the pressure spring at Landslide Creek is fairly easy to spot. A few feet beyond the barrier is a pit of quicksand covered with a skim of water.

Pressure spring empties clay into Jordan River

At the end of the regular season the Red Devils had a 12-5-1 record with an 8-5-1 Ski Valley conference record.

A large underground spring has broken through the ground near Cascade Creek and is dumping white particles of clay into Landslide Creek, which in turn merges with the Jordan River. Observers of the river say that visibility through the water is poor at best and some wonder what the outcome of fish in the river will be.

When the washout first occurred, it was rumored that explosives were being used in the area, causing the outburst of water. This belief is soundly put down by various authorities including DNR district fisheries biologist Steve Swan. Swan contends that nature has provoked the occurrence.

Other environmental personnel looking into the scene are Larry Levensgood, chairman of the environmental quality committee of the Northwest Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission and environmental sanitation for District Health Department No. 3, and Jim Bricker, science advisor for the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council. Levensgood noted that any attempts to clean up the problem could become hazardous as the ground surrounding the area is quaking earth, meaning that soft ground could collapse under any given amount of weight. There is also quicksand in the immediate area and officials have put up a yellow sheriff's barrier and posted signs warning of quicksand.

People who are in the area are urged to remain outside of the barrier as a breakthrough into the undermined earth could prove to be fatal.
