Boyne resolving beach wetland problems

Boyne City's problem with the U.S. Army Corp of Engineers concerning some fill that was placed on city property by the developers of the Harborage when they built their marina back in 1981 will be resolved by this weekend, according to City Manager Randy Frykberg.

Frykberg made his comments at the Tuesday noon meeting of the City Commission as he explained what the letters from the Corps meant as to the possible denial of a permit that the city never applied for as they had no input into the spreading of the sands from the marina next door.

The corps, in reviewing the request, received two letters from interested parties on the project and have given the city 14 days to respond to the letters to resolve the issue.

The first letter was from Rudy Florenski, who wrote to the board and offered information that the sands used to fill the 75 feet of wetland behind the present sewage treatment plant came from where the run-off ditch of the Howe Brothers Tannery was located. Florenski contends that the sands may contain heavy metals that were used in the tanning process and has a coating of those chemical wastes.

According to Frykberg, the sands were tested for contaminants when they were spread and none was found.

He said that he would be sending a letter to Florenski and to the Corps expressing those facts.

The second letter came from the Department of the Interior who is saying that the land in question was a category two wetland, and is of high value and becoming scarce. They also said that the land was prime nesting ground for such wildlife as mallard ducks, song birds, wading birds, shorebirds and small upland species such as rabbits, field mice and turtles. They concluded that the damage caused by the fill was irreparable, causing the wetland to stop being a filtering agent and retention basin prior to allowing the run off into Lake Charlevoix.

They suggested that the city be allowed a permit providing the city compensate with another equivalent wetland area that is contiguous to an existing wetland. That would replace the wetland that was destroyed by the fill.

In another matter, Frykberg told the commissioners that the Corps and the DNR approvals for the new peninsula beach are in hand and that the city will be letting the bid process begin as soon as they prepare the paperwork.

Work on the new beach is supposed to start after Labor Day when the swimming pressures

News Briefs

The State of Michigan is going to be having an auction of state owned land located in Charlevoix County, Tuesday, Aug. 20, at the Otsego County Courthouse in Gaylord, Michigan. Nine parcels of land are being offered for sale in the county.

Among road projects that were announced by the Department of Transportation, one mile of grading and drainage structures will be constructed along with surfacing the road, on Huffman Lake Road from five miles east and two and a half miles south of Boyne Falls at Camp Ten Road. The project completion date is expected to be November of 1985. Hodgkiss and Douma will be doing the work at a cost to the state of $97,029.

The Charlevoix Hospice is offering a Ticket to Adventure contest with the winner receiving a grand prize of a weekend for two at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island. Seventeen other prizes will also be given away with the drawing to be held August 19. Tickets are available from area shops and members.

The Charlevoix County Democrats will offer a tasty broiled chicken dinner in the riverside pavilion at the Polish Festival Friday, Aug. 2 from 12 noon to 8 p.m.

At their July 9 meeting they heard about the Democratic State Central meeting being held at the Chalet Center in Gaylord on Aug. 3. It begins at 12:30 noon and all Democrats are welcome.

All-Sports Physicals for Boyne Falls High School and Middle School athletes will be held Thursday, Aug. 8 at 8 a.m. in the high school gymnasium. There will be no charge for this service.

BC names Wade new principal

Boyne City high school will have a new principal. Members of the school board agreed last Thursday to offer a two-year, $40,000 for the first year contract to Warren Wade of Bronson, Michigan.

Wade has a high school principal in Bronson for the last 14 years and also has been serving as the principal of the middle school for the last five.

Wade has a degree from Western Michigan University, a masters from Eastern Michigan University and an educational specialist degree from Ball State University.

He previously taught in the Romulus school system from 1960 to 1965. Wade then taught in the Holland school system for a year before moving to Gobles, Michigan to serve as the principal of the junior-senior high school until 1968. He then went to Pinckney as a high school principal before moving to Bronson in 1970.

Wade was offered the position after board members Phil Bowman, John Mathers, Jr. and Larry Monshor interviewed what they thought were the best five candidates out of the 60 applications received for the position.

WARREN WADE

This year, Wade would only be paid $35,230, because of the start of administrative salaries beginning on July 1. His pay was deducted by the amount of days missed from the start of the new school year. Next year, his contract salary is to be negotiated. He will also receive four weeks vacation, plus school vacations as well as the usual health and dental benefits.

Glowinski named to BC school board

Don Glowinski, a member of the Boyne City Planning Board, was named last Thursday at a special Boyne City School Board meeting to fill the seat on the Boyne City School Board after Dick Wulff resigned at the first meeting of the board earlier this month.

Glowinski was chosen from a list of four names that were submitted to the board. The others considered included Shirley Crozier, Judy Follette and Peter Vellenga.

Glowinski, who is on vacation, will take his seat at the next school board meeting, August 12.

After Glowinski was named, the board then passed out certificates of appreciation to Heidi Lillis, Eleanor West, George Shiotellis and Wulff for the work that they had done for the school system.

They also gave out retirement awards to Mrs. Evelyn Newville and Carl Skornia.

A unusual maternity leave was granted to Mrs. Peggy Suedhoff who will be allowed to teach until her expected due date. The request is unusual in that the teachers contract calls for the maternity leave to start at the beginning of the semester, but in this case, both the board and the teachers union agreed that since she was a special education instructor, it would be better to have the students know her at the beginning of the school year. She will come back to the school system at the beginning of the second semester to continue working with the special education students.

The board also heard an update from Bill Coberley, the energy advisor hired by the board earlier this year.

Coberley outlined many of the energy savings suggestions that the board should implement to save the system money in the operation of the schools.

Coberley, who works for Elzinga and Volkens, told the board that many of the expected changes will be ready to let out for bids within the next week.

Some of the changes include new handicap ramps for the middle school and high school, the building of a handicap bathroom at the high school, a facade change at the elementary school to try to eliminate snow and ice build-up problems at the entrance, and new doors and frames at the high school south and west entrances.

He is also suggesting that the school add a energy management system, a new boiler at the high school, heating modifications in some of the classrooms and the media center, as well as new lighting in the gyms at both the high school and the middle school.

Coberley told the board that quite a few of the changes could be made prior to the school starting in September. Other changes would be made before the heating season starts so the school system would be able to benefit from the reduced costs of energy yet this year.

Cost for the energy improvements will be approximately $590,000.

The board named coaches for the fall season with Bob McCullough being named as the head coach for football. Bob Wollenberg will assist, while Dave Bricker was named the J.V. football coach.

The board then approved the purchase of 110 new textbooks for the eighth grade social studies classes.

They also accepted a resignation from Mrs. Arlene Bullock who worked as a cook in the elementary school.

Soil district names Jones co-operator of year

The Charlevoix Soil and Water Conservation District named its Cooperator of the Year at its annual meeting last week. Neil Jones of Marion Township, who with his wife Joanne, farms 220 acres and has a herd of 55 dairy cows, received this year's award.

Among the conservation practices used by Jones are conservation crop rotation, crop residue management and an animal waste management system.

The district also elected two new board members. Tim Matchett, a Marion Township sheep farmer and veal calf producer, was voted in to serve a three-year term. Matchett had been serving on the board since January as an appointee to fill a vacancy due to a resignation.

Elected to serve a two-year term was Wayne Saunders. Saunders lives in Eveline Township where he owns 200 acres and runs an egg and beef operation.

Survey questions set by lake advisory board

Members of the Lake Management Planning Advisory Committee picked over the questions that the group intends to ask about 2000 residents of the county at their meeting held last Monday night in the Evangeline Township Hall.

The questions are for a survey the planning group hopes will help them in making decisions about the Lake Charlevoix watershed as far as future development is concerned.

Some of the questions deal with water quality and how it is perceived by the residents as to being good, bad, or somewhere in-between. Water quality is one of the great concerns of the group that has all representative groups concerned with the lake wondering about.

The group feels that the opinions raised from the survey will help them decide what would be best for the lake area.

The questionnaire is expected to be sent out to residents within the next two weeks, according to Larry Sullivan, the county planner who is in charge of developing and tabulating the survey.

He expects to have back to his office about 1,000 of the 2,000 sent out. In order for the survey to have any weight, he said that they need a minimum of 700 returns.

Areas that the questionnaire covers include the present condition of the lake, land and water regulatory codes, ordinances and general information on the use of the land and water in Charlevoix County.

The planners also were told that the group had hired a new man for the part-time position of mapping, organizing, and helping tabulate to results of the survey.

Tony Perfect, who has in the past served as the Leelanau County Planner and has all the background necessary for the job, will be working immediately to help the planners with the job.

Sullivan introduced a group of college students who have been going through all of the zoning and land use ordinances of the county governing bodies to find similarities that the planners could recommend to other units.

The planning group also received an invitation from WATCH, an environmental action group, to pay for the transportation, lodging and board, to a seminar that will be held in Lansing on surface water quality and lake management.

Several members of the committee said that they would like to go to the seminar which will be offered in August or September.

Take a short break before they started modeling Harborside Sports, Kay Holby from Gochas, Teri Smith and Ann Thurston from Kaden's and Stacy Glasier from Lake Street Trading Company. The group were Judy Stowe and Irene Christianson from the White Rose, Chris Hendricks and Lynn DeCamp from will be modeling again next Wednesday.

Former resident wed in Arizona

Suzanne Smith and Ernest P. McReynolds Jr. were united in marriage on Saturday, June 15, 1985 in a late afternoon ceremony in the Coronado National Forest near Portal, Arizona. The double ring ceremony was witnessed by their families and close friends and was performed by the Rev. Roger Morris of Playas, New Mexico.

The bride, escorted by her father, was attired in a copy of a Victorian gown, fashioned in ivory bridal satin trimmed in silk Alencon lace on the leg-o-mutton sleeves and on the bodice, with seed pearls outlining the deep vee inset of lace on the bodice. Venetian point lace trimmed the hem of the full, trainless skirt. Her headpiece, also a Victorian copy, was an ivory derby with deeply tiered layers of ivory veil held in place with a satin band and accented with yellow and ivory silk roses. She wore her great grandmother's gold locket and carried a petite rose basket of long-stemmed yellow roses, baby's breath, and yellow lilies accented with ivory streamers. Her floral arrangement and those of her attendants were fashioned by her aunt, Garnette Knapp.

The bridesmaid, Jacque Salazar, and the maid of honor, Lynette Bizzell, wore yellow voile dresses overlaid with ivory flocked swiss fabric with loosely fitted bodices banded onto long sweeping skirts. The dresses had lacey ruffled flounces around the shoulders and around the hems. Jacque carried an ivory lace parasol trimmed with clusters of yellow roses and satin streamers and Lynette carried an ivory lace fan accented with yellow roses and streamers. Both girls wore roses in their hair.

The best man was Nick Salyers and groomsman was Steve McReynolds. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Animas Community Center in Animas, New Mexico given by the parents of the bride and groom. Hostess and guest registrar was Mrs. Patricia Upshaw. Attending punch bowls were Mrs. Anne Davis and Ms. Ellen Locatelli. Cutting and serving the wedding cake were aunts of the bride, Karen Williamson and Rosemary Smith. The dinner buffet was prepared and served by the bride's family. Helping were Miss Christa Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Smith, Mrs. Karen Williamson, Mrs. Clayton Smith. Floral arrangements were done by Mrs. Garnette Knapp. Helping with the beautiful decorations were Ed Williamson, Ms. Jill Fiel, and Pablo Salazar.

After dinner the wedding party released over 500 yellow and white balloons, much to the delight of the guests. The couple left amid a shower of white confetti and a dazzling display of fireworks in the evening sky—a gift of the groom's attendants. After a three week trip to St. Croix and St. Thomas, The Virgin Islands, the couple will make their home in Portal, Arizona.

The bride is the daughter of Stewart and Judith Smith, former Kalkaska residents. Her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Smith of Charlevoix. Her maternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Howard Sr. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. E.P. McReynolds Sr. of Portal and Scottsdale, Arizona.

Out of state guests attended from Arizona, Illinois, Michigan, and Texas.

I was born during the height of the stone age, but if I had to go through it all over again, oh heavens what fun!

Have you noticed how the Dilworth (nee Wolverine) hotel is being rejuvenated? At long last something is being done with what was at one time a wonderful northern Michigan stopping place. Let us hope that the rejuvenation will put the structure back to where it was at one time—the center of many of Boyne City's civic activities. It will, however, require a lot of rejuvenation to make it look like it did when it was first juvenated.

Straight out of the nineteen fifties. That's what someone said the other night when I was running off at the tongue.

I had heard the nineteen fifties laughed at before just as though the eighties are a happy whirligig devoutly to be wished. Anything before the eighties is dead, gone, out of style and rather tiresome to a lot of people.

Wrong, wrong, wrong. That's the only time three wrongs ever made a right.

I know all about the fifties because I had a close association with them. In fact, I spent ten exciting years joshing and arguing with the fifties and we got along just fine.

Today's clothing styles are not one whit more chic or more comfortable than those of the fifties. In fact, I think the whit of the fifties had the edge because our clothes were made in the good, old loveable U.S. and A., not way off some place by people whose eyes look south instead of straight ahead.

Shoes were made of leather, too. Can you believe that? Our cars were made with steel and most plastic things were ugly! Gasoline was around thirty-five cents per.

STATIC FROM THE SQUIRRELS

I used to think that telephones were noisy, rude intruders and I yelled at mine a lot. But I don't anymore. I've learned to appreciate my phone, and all because of the squirrels. They brought home to me the truth of an old axiom: absence makes the heart grow fonder.

The telephone service at our house has been spotty for almost a decade. We've had a problem with intermittent crackling noises on the line that made conversation a matter of shouting at the top of our lungs in an effort to be heard over the static. Each time the problem came up, we'd report it and be told that a repairman would visit us in a few days. Often, the problem would clear up before the repairman arrived.

The telephone company always took the credit, however, claiming that the problem was "in the cable" and that they'd taken care of it. We'd accept this and relax until the next time we picked up the phone and heard firecrackers instead of a dial tone.

About a year ago, my husband, Bob, noticed that the crackling on our line was not only getting to be more than a "sometimes" thing, but also that it always came after a heavy rain or snow. We considered this a depressing finding in light of the fact that, living in Michigan, we are subject to that sort of thing more often than it seems wise to dwell on. Bob reported his observation to the telephone company, but the service representative didn't seem much impressed.

We drifted on into the spring of this year, anxious about wet weather and shaking our fists at clouds. By then, all our friends and relatives knew that calling us was a Thirty-five cents American, mind you. Those who had ten thousand or so bought a house, not a car. And a cigar was a good smoke.

School students did not have computers, they had to make things balance in their heads and on their fingers. What a pity! What a wonderful pity.

Of course there was a seventy mile per hour speed limit on our highways and no seat belt law. People could get killed any old time they wanted to without the state legislature horning in on their rights.

Television was in its infancy and, as I look at some of the stuff broadcast today, I sometimes think it should have remained there.

It isn't that I am against the many wonderful changes brought on during the eighties. It's just that I would like to have the good, old fifties and the many accomplishments of the eighties mixed in together.

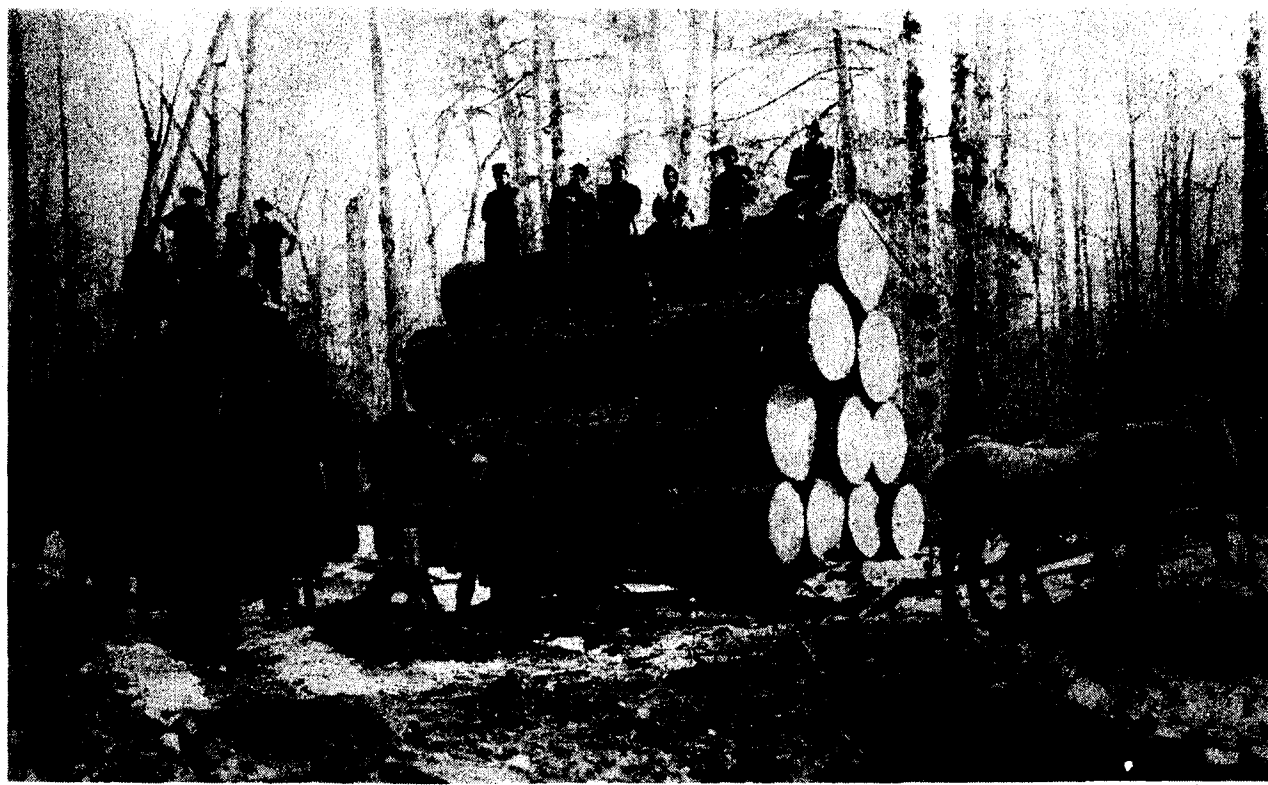

I want a heaven on earth. That's what I want. But various people have told me that I'm not going to get it. Imagine that?

Gad, how I hate various people.

I may be poor now, but I wasn't until the day my creditors held a mass meeting and decided that my time had come. I know how it feels to have the wind leave your bag when your time has come. Has your time come? Has the wind left your bag? Do you think I am nuts?

It is not often that I end a column with a question that I do not want answered.

Remembrances

Perhaps one of the reasons the Steinway Piano Company made their name was the great amount of straight, large maple that was cut out of the woods in the area back about the turn of the century. These logs, according to the caption that came with the picture, were slated for the Steinway plant after they moved through the mills in East Jordan.

Barbara Cruden

The world is a mysterious realm of connections and separations.

Looking for an analogy, I checked Webster's definition of the quantum theory of energy which says energy flows discontinuously.

There's the flow, and there's the dis-connection.

Part of the mysterious realm concerns beauty. I was thinking how some reach a realization of beauty in connected fashion through rational pursuits like science, and others through o'er-leaping rationality, as artists traditionally do. But in both cases the flow toward beauty is there.

Beauty is only one value. There are others to plod or leap toward. The plodding does make connections, and plodders know some good vistas (in time). It is well to remember the "continuous" in the "discontinuous."

It is also well to be aware of that other mystery—that there is an all which is real and justifies the effort toward connection.

For example, there is perfect love. Not usually discovered without continuous purposefulness.

And there's honorableness, not realized as we keep ourselves small with "that much doesn't hurt anything."

Perhaps we become convinced of complete discontinuity and just quit somewhere along the line.

Or we lack the self-scrutiny that shows up how unfair we are, taking ours, while others don't get theirs, for example.

These bring the flow to a halt. On the other hand, it has been pointed out to me that I can get rather obsessed about certain value trips. Then I have to realize the many factors to be considered. (And sometimes I do!)

As Ecclesiastes says, "To everything there is a season...a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted...a time to keep silence, and a time to speak..."

But complexities do shrivel as we pursue our goal, because value is transcendent. A value like equal rights must carry us above politics and power-seeking. Values like service or achievement must carry us above egotism.

Separations can also take various beneficial forms; separations from that which distracts or adulterates; separations from self-importance; as well as those separations from our own sense of effort that allow the vistas to emerge.

The final comment is an old, old analogy. It is the big beech tree outside the window of the house where I used to live. Winter discontinuities have been part of its growth. It's shining green crown now touches the sky.

Commends city for parking

Editor,

The city of Boyne City must be commended on a very positive note for their position of eliminating parking meters within the downtown area and in fact the whole city. Parking meters are nothing but a hassle for shoppers and in general people visiting the city.

Petoskey and Charlevoix both have parking meters, and to be honest, are nothing but a hassle. Is it really worth it (income from the meters)? I personally prefer to shop in Boyne City because of the meter free parking and may I add plenty of close-in parking. It (the lack of meters) is only a minor thing, but I'll bet there are a number of people who feel as I do. As a man whom I talked to in Boyne City said so perfectly "its refreshing" to go to town and not have the hassle.

Keep up the good work Boyne City. You are on the road to becoming a clean, progressive and interesting city.

Historical Society seeks home

Dear Editor,

Petoskey has one. Charlevoix has one. East Jordan is starting one. One what? An historical museum to house the area's artifacts.

The Boyne City Historical Society is looking for a few civic-minded individuals who are interested in donating a structurally sound residence or building with charm and character to house many of the treasures from the past. The Society is willing to provide person power to refurbish a sound and stately building.

Ideally, the future museum would be located in or near Boyne City and have a parking area.

Professional consultants advise that it is an ideal tax write-off for the right party, and it would be an opportunity to make history as well as preserve it.

Persons interested in discussing the possibility of making a contribution may contact Trudy Clark at 582-6895.

Wants smoke laws enforced

Editor,

Michigan has anti-smoking-in-public laws. Food stores must have signs posted that smoking is not allowed. Few do. Enforcement is charged to the state department of agriculture and its regional units.

Few, if any do. Michigan has anti-smoking legislation against smoking in restaurants (segregated smoking areas for establishments seating 50 or more) and enforcement is delegated to the state department of health and its district units.

Few, if any do. Michigan prides itself on its tourist industry, yet it's our maturing populace that is dropping the smoking habit (through bitter experience) in ever increasing numbers. And it's our maturing populace that makes up the greatest percentage of retirees and tourists.

Why can't state senator, Mitch Irwin, and state representative Ralph Ostling, at taxpayers' expense, contact the Florida state legislative information bureau, and get the particulars of the bill that

Presby women ready for Bazaar

Blood donors urgently needed

BY JIM SILBAR

Where has the summer gone? I mean like here it is almost half over and it is August already. Heck, I haven't even had the time for laying in sun, picking raspberries, or watching the waves on the lake. Sometimes I think I am in the wrong business. Like when I look at all those people out there enjoying the summer that I have to work my way through.

But, I am not alone. Real estate sales people have the same time problems, and so do those who cook or wait on tables. And carpenters also have to work when the sun shines.

As my children say when they are walking out the door to go to the swim classes, Oh well...

It just shows that you make your own life. If you can control it, then you are one of the "organized" people of this world that many of us regular folk learn to be jealous of.

At least my life is controled to the point where I know I have to get up in the morning to go to work. And when the work is done, then I go home and go to bed.

To say that this has been a busy summer for some of us, is an understatement.

Some are so busy, they haven't the time to do all of the things that they moved up here for in the first place.

Which leads to another discussion.

What was the real reason you moved to the north, or what brought your family up years ago? Was it the "quality of life" that the governmental agencies are talking about, or was it the job possibilities of the logging industry or the iron industry, or something else.

Or did you move up north to get away from all the problems of the congested areas, only to find them up here, but on a smaller scale?

Whatever the reasons for you coming to the area, I am sure that a northern Michigan summer must have figured into it somewhere.

If you did not already know what is being planned for Boyne City, or if you do know, then let me add another thing to the list of upcoming events. Even if this event is still a couple of years away.

Last week, the State of Michigan kicked off the celebration for it's 150th birthday.

A new flag was made for the event and was flown for the first time down in Lansing with all of the dignitaries present.

Seems that all of the past governors who are still alive after their stint with the state have joined in to help make this event, the sesquicentennial, a big occasion.

The bigwigs had a meal of Michigan products, and then went back home to think about some of the things that should be part of the event.

Myself, who lived through the 200th anniversary of the nation, the landing of man of the moon, and a few other worldly events, am planning on just taking it easy for this one. I will let all the other folks set off the fireworks.

Members of the Women's Society of the Presbyterian Church are busy preparing for their annual Bazaar and Luncheon, to be held Friday, Aug. 9.

The luncheon, an international salad fare, will be served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tickets are available from Women's Society members, or may be purchased at the door.

Bazaar departments will include the Country Kitchen, which will feature homebaked goods and kitchen accessories; the Greenhouse, which will be full of live and dried flowers, live plants, ceramic pots and vases, and macrame holders; the Kid's Korner, with toys and wearing apparel; and the Christmas Corner, specializing in decorations, wreaths, and candles for the holiday season.

Members of the Presbyterian Women's Society show off some of the items that they will be selling at their bazaar and luncheon. Those pictured include JoAnne Britton, Jessie Willson, Paygi Wilson, Wini Fairchild, Thelma Williams and Marcia Perkins.

There will also be all kinds of "general" items such as pillows, placemats, bridge talley, jewelry, and tote bags.

Society members request that bazaar items be taken to the church by Sunday, Aug. 4, so booths and displays can be set up. Those needing delivery service to the church should contact the chairman of the department for which the items are intended. They are: Country Kitchen, Paygi Willson, 582-9428; Greenhouse, Vi Manglos, 582-7216, or Thornita Rowe, 582-2723; Kid's Korner, Joanne Britton, 582-9476; Christmas Corner, Jessie Willson, 582-7172; general items, Anne Thurston, 582-2619.

If you've never given blood before, the Red Cross is looking for the healthy III test for the AIDS associated antibody, and more precise hemoglobin testing procedures recently instituted by the region.

"We're asking too much of our front line troops, and now it's time to call in some reserves," said Dr. Willys Mueller, Director of the Wolverine Blood Services. Mueller was referring to the many regional residents who are regular blood donors, and who are called upon by the Red Cross to give blood each time they are eligible. This means donating every eight weeks or so, and can lead to a depletion in one's iron levels.

That is why, explained Mueller, it is necessary to recruit an entirely new group of blood donors to join those already in the regional donor pool.

The need for new donors has never been greater in the 17 year history of the Wolverine Region. The traditional summer slump in blood donations has been compounded this year by increased hospital usage, concerns about AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome) and the highly III test for the AIDS associated antibody, and more precise hemoglobin testing procedures recently instituted by the region.

Donating blood is a quick procedure, which takes less than an hour from registration to walking out the door. It is only relatively painless for the donor, but can mean life or death for a patient in a local hospital, in need of blood.

If you are already a blood donor, the Red Cross salutes you. Like a seasoned veteran, you have earned your honors, and we encourage you to keep up the good work.

If you are among those who have tried or who are unable to donate, we thank you for your efforts.

But if you are among those who have never donated blood, the Red Cross desperately needs you NOW! Won't you take one hour of your time to save someone's life? Call the Red Cross for more information at 232-1176.

chancy thing. If they happened to reach us when the line was clear, we all felt compelled to hold lengthy conversations in order to take advantage of our good fortune.

One day in April, when our line was in its noisy mode, a new repairman appeared at our door and asked to try our phone. He put the receiver to his ear and then stared at me with a look of utter disbelief. He announced that we had terrible static on our line. I agreed that this, indeed, did seem to be the case.

After checking the instrument and the wiring inside the house and finding nothing amiss, he went outside to investigate. More than an hour later, he reported that he'd replaced the line from the telephone pole to the house. He'd discovered that squirrels had chewed holes in the insulation on the old line that allowed water to leak in and bathe the wires. When the wires were set, we had static; when they dried out, we didn't. I didn't tell him that Bob had figured that out already.

So now we have a clear line, rain or shine, and I bask in the certainty of it. I've learned to view the telephone's intrusive ring with quiet tolerance.

Should anyone ask about my change of heart, I'd tell them that I owe it all to the squirrels.

Agan attends seminar in Dallas

Pat Agan of Boyne City, an independent beauty consultant for Mary Kay Cosmetics, has just returned home from three days of intensive sales and product training in Dallas as a participant in Mary Kay's 1985 national seminar.

Besides intensive training, company funder and Chairman of the Board Mary Kay Ash also uses the annual meeting to personally reward and recognize the outstanding achievers of the past year.

BC photo contest winners named

Winners were named in the Boyne City's second annual photo contest that was held recently. Taking the best of show award was Paul Barden.

In the People category, Marlys Jacobi took the first place, followed by Barden, while Freda Kunert took the third place award.

Carol Willis took the first place in the Open class with second going to Bob Breidenstein and third to Julie Kennedy.

Dan Moore won the first place award for the Scenery division, followed by Marianne Behling, second, Diane Maule, 3rd.

In the Candid classification, Lyle Fall took the first place award. Wanda Burrows, the second place and third went to Rosalia Schwem.

Judges for the contest included Carol Hague, Vic Ruggles and Peter Vellenga.

Contest officials are already making plans to make next year's contest bigger and better.

Garden Club meets at Litzengurger Place

The July meeting of the Boyne Valley Garden Club was held on Thursday, July 25th at Litzengurger Place with 33 members and guests in attendance.

Following the Garden Club Collect, members introduced their guests.

President Shields asked the standing committees to update their activities.

The Horticulture report was given by Joanne Britton on plant mildew and what we can do about it.

Garden Club members Billie Beckenhauer, Mary Whiteford and Lois Pollock gave a program on flower arranging. They displayed a variety of table settings featuring appropriate arrangements for a patio breakfast, a luncheon, and a formal anniversary dinner. Others shown had an Oriental theme contrasted by a modern table for an evening of wine tasting.

The finale was an abstract arrangement using a dried, twisted branch to show off blossoms of Queen Anne's Lace.

The hostesses were Pauline Teerlinck, Decie Phillips, and Dorothy Marriage.

Our August meeting will be on the 22nd at 10:00. This will be a follow-up on the July meeting. Members should bring a sack lunch, flowers, and a container for making individual arrangements.

Obituaries

HOWARD BRAY
Theron Howard Bray, 76, of Boyne City, died July 28, 1985 at Little Traverse Division, Northern Michigan Hospitals.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. Wednesday, July 31 at the First Presbyterian Church in Boyne City. The Rev. Milton Walls Jr. will officiate and burial will be in Maple Lawn Cemetery.

Mr. Bray was born Nov. 24, 1908 in Laingsburg, the son of Charles and Pearl Bray. He attended elementary school at Laingsburg and at the age of 12 moved to Perry, Mich., where he graduated from high school in 1924. He then attended Michigan State University and Michigan State Normal College, graduating with a bachelor of science degree in mathematics. He also attended the University of Michigan where he received a master's degree in mathematics and school administration.

During his teaching career, Mr. Bray taught in Blanchard where he was principal, math teacher and coach. He then taught math at Castle Heights Military Academy in Lebanon, Tenn., and later taught math at Davis Technical Institute, now a junior college in Grand Rapids. He also taught at the Sault Ste. Marie High School.

During World War II, Mr. Bray served in the U.S. Army from February 1942 to October 1945.

On July 11, 1942, he married Frances Alexander in Oakland, Calif.

Following his discharge from the military, he taught engineering math at Lawrence Institute of Technology in Detroit.

In 1952, he moved to Boyne City as principal of Boyne City High School. From 1954-74 he was superintendent of the Boyne City schools.

Mr. Bray was active in civic affairs in Boyne City. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church, where he served as a deacon and treasurer.

He was a former member of Boyne City Rotary Club; a member of the National Education Association and the Michigan Education Association.

He also had served as secretary of Michigan Association of School Administrators. From 1976-80, Mr. Bray was a member of the Boyne City Board of Education.

He is survived by his wife; one son, Paul Bray of Alpena; one daughter, Mrs. Regis (Patricia) McCord of Elk Rapids; four grandchildren; one brother, Arthur L. Bray of Bossier, La.

The family suggests memorials to the Michigan Heart Association. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Stackus Funeral Home.

Graceland College honors lists

Michael David Morgan, son of David and Marlene Morgan of Boyne City, has been named to the Dean's List for the Spring '85 semester at Graceland College, Lamoni, Iowa. Students who are eligible for the Dean's List have a grade point average between 3.25 and 3.64.

Morgan is a sophomore.

Terri Louise Landon, daughter of Thomas and Lenore Landon of Boyne City, has been named to the President's List for the Spring '85 semester at Graceland College, Lamoni, Iowa. Students who are eligible for the President's List have a 4.0 grade point average.

Landon is a Senior majoring in Elementary Education and Music Education.

"I'm sure we are going to have a soil and water conservation program of some kind," Hilner told his audience, but he later added that "federal government agencies are not going to grow. Local and state government must put more into the effort."

Hilner challenged the members of the Soil and Water Conservation District to be involved with the efforts of sympathetic allies, such as horticultural groups, women's organizations and conservation clubs.

the new Magna development in the city's Air-Industrial Park, the state is moving with great haste in working through the paperwork that will be necessary for the grants that the city needs to provide the utilities and roads for the development.

He said state officials have gone to the home base of Magna for meetings with them to determine what that need and how the state would help as they bring their plant to Boyne City. According to city officials, the corporation is also looking at other sites to build plants in Michigan.

The tentative entrance to the new industrial park will be between the Top-Of-Michigan complex and the First National Bank facility off M-75 where the present old hanger building is located.

Soil

Hilner stressed the importance of agriculture in Michigan, noting that the state's processed farm products are worth $14-15 billion annually. Adding that to the some $18 billion in revenue derived from processed forest products and tourism, which are also linked to soil and water conservation, emphasizes the need for cooperative efforts, he said.

The state conservationist said that if adequate progress is not made by the agencies, organizations and individuals involved, mandatory programs could be initiated to control soil erosion and maintain water quality.

According to Hilner, of the nine million acres of cropland in Michigan, 1.1 million acres are protected through conservation tillage.

"We have a way to go yet," he said. "Conservation programs will only be successful if you folks support the effort."

Budgeting can be key to success

(Prepared by the Michigan Ass'n. of Certified Public Accountants.)

Do you know what happens to the rest of your money, once you've paid the rent and covered other essentials? Are you aware of the most economical way for you to pay bills? Have you calculated how much money ought to be set aside so you could begin serious investing?

These are questions which can best be answered with information developed by simple recordkeeping that takes only a few minutes to carry out. In fact, less time is involved than might be spent fretting anxiously over your finances.

Here are some practical suggestions from the Michigan Association of CPAs on forecasting your expenses and budgeting your income. They can help you regain control over your financial life, stretch your dollars and probably even improve your lifestyle.

The first step is attitudinal: Think positively. Learn to regard your personal (and family) finances as a small business. Your personal finances mirror a business, though on a smaller scale. Like a business, you have costs, and accounting procedures to deal with, then: plant, payroll, credit and financing and long-range plans. You control expenses, decide on investments, allocate capital, pick vacations and make important decisions affecting your income and expenditures. Overlooking for the moment the more specific business practices, you should concentrate on ways to keep more dollars in your pocket.

To take hold of your financial future, you have to be able to forecast cash flow—a basic essential for financial planning. Cash flow shows how much money you will have left after the bills are paid. It's a way of demonstrating how much money comes in and where your money goes; it leads to an evaluation of spending practices.

For sustained record keeping, strong motivation is sometimes needed. It helps to have a detailed mental image before you of what rewards financial planning can yield. So, before sitting down at the kitchen table with your receipts and stubs, test drive the sports car you've been eyeing; walk through the condo your friend is trying to sell, or pore over travel brochures.

For recordkeeping, you'll need only a pad and pencil, plus a little patience. First, set up your financial records along these lines: Across the top, in bold letters write: CASH FORECASTS. Down the left margin, list these headings: Cash on Hand, Receipts (schedule all income), Total Cash Available. Leave some space, then go on with these headings: Fixed payments (mortgages, insurance, taxes, alimony), variable payments (utilities, medical, auto, food, savings). Follow that with a line for Total Payments, then to summarize—list Total Cash Available, Total Payments and Cash Balance At End of Month—the commanding figure that reflects on your day-to-day spending practices and helps you decide if you should go out Saturday night.

One more step: Across the top of the page, set up three columns, designated Last Year's Revenues and Expenses, Monthly Estimate for this Year, Actual TOTAL. Duplicate the basic form for other months covering the year.

Now for some observations: Last year's expenses—compiled from check stubs and other payment receipts—are likely to reveal vital financial data. In most households, movies, dinner out, parties, cable-TV, vacations, hobbies or sports consume a sizeable percentage of income.

Once you know where money goes, you can predict your expenses month-by-month for the year ahead. Wasteful expenditures are easy to spot and remedial steps bolstering your financial condition are obvious.

Here are general rules of thumb recommended by CPAs:

* Limit short-term credit to about 20 percent of your take-home pay.

* Set up an interest-bearing checking account.

* Take advantage of the "float": Don't be in a rush to pay bills.

* Use your checking account; it's not a "warehouse" for savings.

* Gain control of your finances by planning, and you're on the way up the economic ladder.

Charlevoix County Commission Minutes

SYNOPSIS
CHARLEVOIX COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
JULY 24, 1985

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners met in regular session with all members in attendance.

The board heard reports from Jim Moran, representing Senator Carl Levin, and Reino Nelson, field representative for the Michigan Association of Counties.

Resolutions authorizing fund transfers for the treasurer and Grandvue were adopted as were resolutions supporting part time probate judges, accepting the contract of Healthshare Services for a wage and salary study, and approving a new hire for the Equalization Department.

In other action, the board appointed Laurie Howell, District Court probation officer, and W. D. Schneider, deputy sheriff, to the Advisory Council of the Northern Michigan Substance Abuse Services.

Complete minutes of the proceedings of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners are on file in the county clerk's office and are available for public inspection during regular business hours.

An Andrew Sister in concert at Cheboygan Opera House August 2, 3

The very mention of "The Andrews Sisters" name is enough to conjure up visions of Mom and apple pie for most Americans. Since their first hit recording of "Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen" in the late 1930's their voices have been a symbol of happiness and of hope. This was especially true during World War II for the girls entertained our service men both in person mere miles from the battle front and on stage in theatres across America. The lovely lady who sang the middle harmony part was not content to sit at home when the trio broke up following the death of her sister LaVerne. Says Maxene, "I decided I had lived in show business and I might as well die in show business." She had basically lived on the road since she was 13 and saw no reason to stop now. The road is bringing her to The Opera House in Cheboygan for two performances on Friday and Saturday, August 2-3. The show begins at 8:00 p.m. and what a show it will be.

With pianist Phil Campanella on the Steinway, Maxene takes her audience on a joyous, magical retrospective. She sings the favorite standards: "Chattanooga Choo-Choo", "Drinking Rum and Coca-Cola", "I'll be with you in Apple Blossom Time" and "Pistol Packin' Mama." Along the way she matches her songs with memories of the Hollywood years and some of the Andrews Sisters career. She has taken her show-stopping act to New York, Chicago, San Francisco and met with standing ovations from the critics and audiences alike. Her artistry, her warmth, her glamour and her sense of humor make her performance shine.

As one of the Andrews Sisters, Maxene has a record to rival that of any of the pop/rock singers today.

During the swing era of the '40's, the Andrews Sisters had a parade of hits each topping the million sale mark. They recorded 1800 songs, sold over 75-million records and have 19 gold records. The Andrews Sisters starred in 21 movies and appeared on all major TV and radio networks.

Maxene, however, is not reliving the past. She takes the songs of yesterday and infuses them with a beauty and meaning that makes them new today. She is currently recording a solo album and her autobiography is due to be released within the year.

Maxene Andrews' appearance at The Opera House is being sponsored with the generous contributions of Todd Christian and Patrick Maurice of Cheboygan. Tickets for Maxene Andrews: An Andrews Sister in Concert are $10 and $12. The concert is reserved seating. Persons who would like more information may call or wrote The Opera House Box Office at 616-627-5841 or write P.O. Box 95, Cheboygan, MI 49721.

Did you know that forest fires in Michigan have been the cause of a number of shipwrecks or that the "sawtooth" reef near Eagle River in Michigan's western Upper Peninsula contains the greatest concentration of shipwrecks in the Great Lakes?

Polish Festival is traditional fun

Traditions. Some started many years ago when grandmother and grandfather started coming up north for the summer and that has followed down through the years.

Others, like the Boyne Falls Polish Festival, are a relatively new tradition, but still a tradition of what to do and where to go on the first weekend of August.

This year, the festival will be held August 2, 3, and 4, in the small town that is known more for the skiing hills than the ethnic families that have located in the community since the logging days.

The festival starts out Friday with the Youth Day activities. And there are many for the youngsters visiting or living in the area.

A petting zoo will be set up starting at 9 a.m., along with a face painting booth where children can get clown makeup applied.

Also at 9 a.m. is the first of many contests for the day. For pre-schoolers and those up through the second grade, the annual Big Toe contest will start off, followed by the watermelon eating contest at 10 a.m., a bubble gum blowing contest at 11 a.m., a candy scramble at 12 noon and bicycle decorating at 3 p.m.

A teen dance will be held at 8 p.m. until midnight in the Boyne Falls High School gym. It is open to those in the seventh grade and up.

While all of activities are started for the children, the booths, games and concessions open up at 11 a.m.

The Democratic Party will be starting their chicken bar-b-que at the pavilion across the street from the main activities at noon and will be serving until 8 p.m.

Hudson Township is moving their bingo party to the spot next to the fire hall and will be calling out numbers from 2 p.m. until 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and Sunday.

McPartland to appear Aug. 3rd

Marian McPartland, jazz pianist supreme, will return to Petoskey and appear in concert Saturday evening, August 3, 1985 at 8:00 p.m. at the McCune Arts Center. The date marks Marian's second appearance in this area. Jazz officinas will eagerly welcome back multi-talented Miss McPartland. Her projects number many. Aside from her piano keyboard mastery she is a successful composer, her music having been recorded by Peggy Lee, Tony Bennett, Ray Anthony and Sarah Vaughan. She also composed the score for a prize-winning documentary film titled "The Light Fantastic Picture Show" which won an award at the Chicago Film Festival. She started her own record company, Halcyon, issuing a steady stream of records on her label as well as others. She has written feature articles and reviews, hosted radio and television series and recently opened a fifth season of her Piano

Jazz Programs as the recipient of the prestigious George Foster Peabody Award. The popular 13-week series is a production of the South Carolina Educational Radio Network and is made possible by a grant from Exxon. Since coming here from England in the late 1940's Marian McPartland has become a legend in jazz. She has appeared at clubs, and concerts throughout the United States, and made regular appearances at famous jazz festivals around the world including the exciting Montreaux-Detroit Kool Jazz Festival held in Detroit's downtown Hart Plaza in the Renaissance Center. McPartland has also performed with major symphony orchestras playing classical repertoire.

Sponsored by Crooked Tree Arts Council.

Area couple enjoying play

"Theatre is serious fun," say Bev and Mel Holden, 20 year residents of Walloon Lake. Both husband and wife are busily rehearsing for Petoskey Summer Theatre's "Deathtrap," an intriguing thriller by Ira Levin, author of "Rosemary's Baby." "Deathtrap" opened July 30.

Bev is appearing as the nose psychic, Helga Tendorf, a phenomenal character from Holland able to sniff out trouble, and perhaps even create a little of her own. Mel portrays Porter Milgrim, an attorney and personal friend of Sidney Bruhl, the major character played by David Karsten of Kalamazoo who will be remembered in Petoskey for his fine portrayal of Norman Thayer in last season's "On Golden Pond."

The Holdens have both had a long fascination for the theatre. Bev "grew up in a trunk in Chicago," as she puts it. "My mother was a pianist and a singer so I was surrounded by music and the arts." Mel "was hooked" in high school when he played Mark Antony in "Julius Caesar." Now both Bev and Mel are quite active with the Little Traverse Civic Theatre. For this fine community theatre, Bev has held down a number of jobs including performing and directing.

Of Petoskey Summer Theatre the Holdens say, they are impressed with the quality of work done at Petoskey Summer Theatre and are happy to have the opportunity to work with the company. They particularly enjoy working with director Roger Ellis of Grand Rapids. His organization and artistic input is wonderful, according to the Holdens.

Producer David Pritchard expressed the view that both Bev and Mel promise to turn in delightful performances. He is extremely pleased to welcome them to the company.

BY LESLIE DAILEY

As you drive through Boyne Falls, that pair of old logging wheels now standing by the Boyne Falls railroad tracks represents an era when northern Michigan was just beginning to attract settlers and loggers.

The settlers came into the area after the loggers had cleared the trees from the land and the wheels were used by the logging companies to help bring the big timber out of the woods to the areas where they were stored for shipping to the mills.

Some of the logs were piled along river banks, but most of the logs timbered in this area were brought to rail heads where they were lifted onto railroad flat cars for the trip to the mill.

The wheels were used by the loggers to help slide the logs. The logs would be lifted up and tied to the wheels on one end, and then skidded along a trail to the stock pile.

The set of wheels you see today at Boyne Falls originally did not come from this area.

Longtime collector Bernard Kondrat was lucky enough to spot this set in the woods around the Newberry, Michigan area when he was making trips to the Upper Peninsula looking for cedar for his growing company, Boyne Falls Log Homes.

The abandoned set of wheels were then disassembled by Kondrat and brought back to Boyne Falls where he set out to restore them.

The process involved many steps and was completed with the help of several local craftsmen.

Charlie Skop, another Boyne Falls resident, took one of the spokes and using it as a guide, turned on his lathe, a complete set out of white cedar. The five foot spokes were then painted and finished.

The hubs were restored by an Amish carriage company in Indiana and the spokes were added along with the rims of the wheels.

Then the steel that wraps around the rims was refurbished by another Boyne Falls pioneer, Stanley Jarema.

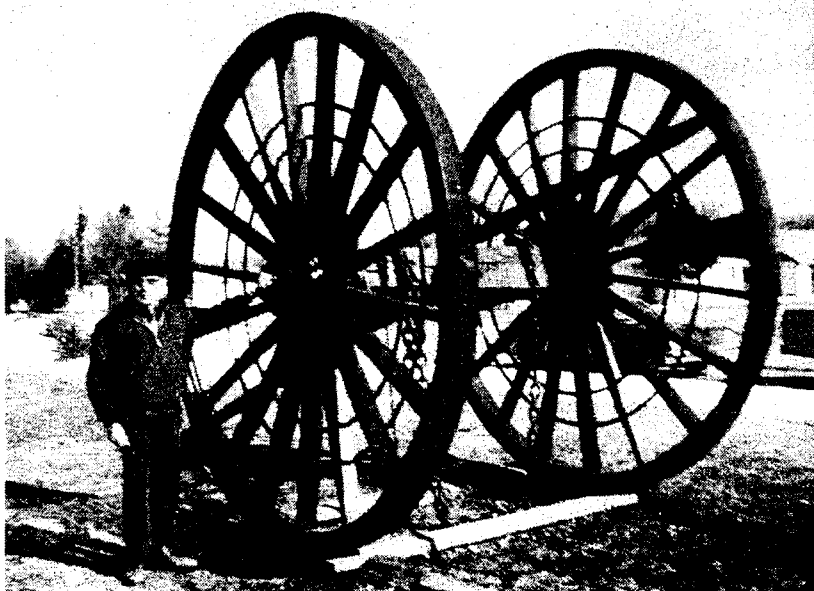

Finally the whole set was put together and was put on display alongside of the former Boyne Falls Log Homes company along with a few other artifacts of the logging era.

The wheels have been used in many of the Polish Festival parades, and are one of the hits of the parade as the over 10 foot set of wheels come lumbering down the road.

The wheels are not the only thing that Kondrat collects and has restored. His collection includes steam engines, hit and miss gasoline engines, threshing machines and many other items, like a 1924 John Deere spoked flywheel tractor. He also has a few others and will have them on display during the Polish Festival along with several other collectors' machines.

Kondrat's collections have won him many awards over the years although in the case of the set of wheels, Kondrat hopes to find a new home for them. After the parade he is planning on selling them for the $8,500 they are valued at.

According to Kondrat, that one piece of early northern Michigan was used frequently as the loggers moved the logs through the woods. A set of draft horses pulled them and the wheels were guided by a wheelmaster who walked alongside geeing and hawing the animals as they worked their way down hills.

In the wintertime, the wheels were used to pack the snow along the trails so that sleds could do the work of the wheels.

So if you want to help find a place for this set of restored logging wheels, stop by the antique engine display and talk to Kondrat during the festival. He'll be happy to talk with you about them or any of the other machines he has restored.

Tidbits

In 1965 it was discovered that without international scientific cooperation, the world's largest land-dwelling carnivore—the polar bear—would become extinct in less than 10 years, reports International Wildlife magazine. Thanks to a kind of detente between the United States, the Soviet Union, Greenland, Norway and Canada, today the polar bear is alive and well, with a growing population of around 25,000 bears.

Visit EJ's Portside Arts Fair this weekend Aug. 3, 4

This coming weekend will mark the 23rd annual East Jordan Portside Arts Fair held at the Elm Pointe Park just outside of East Jordan on highway M-66.

The fair, which this year started drawing entries as early as last January, is limited to only 100 artists. The entry roster for the show was filled well before the deadline for consideration.

Each artist is juried by the selection committee and they try to have as varied an art fair as possible. Many homes in the area have pieces from previous exhibitors who showed their work at the Portside Art Fair.

This year's committee of Ted Jeffrey, the chairman of the day, Betty Boswell, treasurer, Joanne Schenck, awards, Deanna Hurwitz, hostesses, Esther Porter and Phyllis Malpass, guest registration, Doris Huckle, photography, George Secord, parking, and Cygred

Riley, director, are all working hard to make this fair successful.

Kim Prebble will have charge of the children's program and is featuring face painting. Cut outs and creative books for children will be assembled.

One feature of the show is that each year, the historical museum has a collection of purchase prizes. This year, another will be chosen by Carol Wald, who recently held a exhibition of her work at the new Harborside Inn in Harbor Springs.

Mrs. Wald is an internationally known artist with a background in many different categories. She was formerly an artist-in-residence at Elm Pointe, sponsored by the Portside Arts and the Michigan Council for the Arts. The show starts early Saturday morning, August 3rd, and continues through Sunday, August 4th.

Rogers City Nautical City Festival this weekend

Festival activities include a flea market, Elliott Amusements, dances, dinners, parades, arts and crafts show, contests, a softball tournament, and fireworks.

The festival officially opened on July 31 with a Las Vegas Nite on Thursday, Aug. 1. There will be a Kiddie Parade and Teen Dance highlighting the day's activities along with a flea market and band concert.

Friday, Aug. 2, a Polish dinner starting at 5 p.m., a concert by the Jill Pine Chapter of Sweet Adelines and also the Alpena Barbershoppers starting at 7:30 p.m., and dancing featuring the "Brass Express" from Frankemuth at 9:30 p.m.

A busy day is scheduled on Saturday, Aug. 3, starting with an arts and crafts show at 9 a.m., Spitzer Tournament, arm wrestling, kiddie games at 2:30 p.m., softball tournament, Harmeling Brothers, bar-b-que dinner starting at 4 p.m., and dancing featuring "Harold Mitas," from Frankemuth beginning at 9:30 p.m.

Sunday's highlight will be the Grand Parade starting at 12:30 p.m. It will be followed by dancing and a chicken bar-b-que at the tent. Dancing starting at 4 p.m. with the "Versatones" and from 8:30-12:30 p.m., the "Jack Daniels" Band, fireworks at 10 p.m.

Many other events are listed on the official program. For further information, contact Nautical City Festival, Inc., P.O. Box 55, Rogers City, MI 49779, phone (517) 734-2535.

Look for Michigan's ghost towns

When was the last time you were in Barnard, Bay Springs, Burgess, or Dwight, Michigan? Or Talcott, Embo, or Inwood?

You mean you have never heard of them? They were all names of towns, here in Charlevoix County back about the turn of the century and were communities that had post offices. Having a post office was the basis of a town back then, and in many cases the post office had a great bearing on the continuance of the community.

Emmet County also has a few names of towns that are not with us today.

How about going to Ayr, or Cecil, Ely, and Littlefield. You may want to visit Lakewood or even Epsilon.

Other towns listed back in the early days included Mossville, Readmond, Wa-Wat-Am Beach and Larks.

All of those towns are not with us today, but chances are you have passed through them on your way to and from.

In Charlevoix County, towns like Barnard, which was located six miles south of Charlevoix, or Burgess, which in 1910 had a population of 40 and was located in Hayes Township, were absorbed into larger post offices and were part of the development of the R.F.D. mailing that started shortly afterward in the late teens.

All those towns are now listed as ghost towns, and all have a history that adds to the life of those living in the north.

Almost all were based on lumbering. As the lumber camps looked around for more timber to cut, towns were building along the trails. Some were named after the camps, such as Camp Ten which was in Chandler Township of Charlevoix county, or after the man who decided to settle in that location.

In 1906, there were at least 29 post offices listed for Charlevoix County, and about 30 for Emmet County.

Today, you can count the post offices almost on your hands as the post office department has evolved through the years and consolidated most of the communities.

Some of the names were unique, like Hammers, which was a flag stop on the G. R. & I Railway, about 12 miles south of Petoskey.

That "wide spot" on the rail line was named for a place where hammers were stored when the line was built, according to one old timer's letter.

As the years progressed, a town like Dwight saw its post office moved to a larger community, like Advance. That in turn was absorbed by Boyne City where the mail for Dwight and Advance is posted almost daily.

Some of the towns had many industries and stores. It is always a wonder why they did not succeed into today's world because of the size they held back then.

But time was not nice to many of the towns after the lumber ran out, and many of the men who made up the community left for better timber and jobs elsewhere. With no one to utilize the services, the businesses closed down, the post office was moved to somewhere else, and the community became nothing more than a wide spot on the road to somewhere.

More information on some of the ghost towns of the area can be found in a publication called Michigan Ghost Towns, which is available at many of the area libraries.

There are now 270 species officially listed as "endangered" in the United States, reports National Wildlife magazine. Among these endangered species are 38 mammals, 72 birds and 71 plants.
