News Briefs

While officials are appreciative of people wanting to fill out applications for employment at the new LexaMar Corporation that is trying to build a plant in Boyne City, the company isn't ready yet. They told the Press that they expect to be able to take applications only after November 1st.

Boaters should be aware that the Annual Lake Charlevoix Swim will be held this Friday at 9 a.m. The swimmers, participants in the Boyne City Swim School, will be accompanied by a flotilla of boats as they make their way across the one and one-third miles from Young State Park and Whiting Park.

Boyne City Little League will be holding their annual picnic next Wednesday, Aug. 14 at the pavilion in Veterans Memorial Park in Boyne City. Parents are asked to bring a dish to pass and their own table service. Awards for fundraising and other prizes will be given out and uniforms can be turned in.

Another picnic will be held Aug. 17 at Whiting Park when Big Brothers and Big Sisters get together for food, fun, games, and prizes. The event begins at 1 p.m. and those wanting to participate are asked to bring someone along.

Ground is expected to be broken today, Wednesday, for the new public assisted apartment housing project on Division Street. The project, years in getting all the approvals, will add some much needed housing to the city. Completion is expected to be next year.

Bay Township officials are trying to expand the cemetery on Camp Dagget Road. They have sent letters out to the property owners surrounding the little cemetery and are asking if they would like to sell some of their land to the township.

Landfill problems aired at meeting

Last week's special meeting of the Evangeline Township board and city officials from Boyne City did not provide township residents with any solutions to the problems that they say exist at the Boyne City landfill, but it did open lines of communication, according to Township Supervisor Bessie Van Dorn.

"I am hoping it will start communications and get something done," she said.

Van Dorn added that until the township retained a lawyer in response to Evangeline township residents' petition requiring the city to honor its contract made with the township when the landfill was developed or close the landfill, the city made no serious effort to answer the complaints of the residents.

"I don't think anything would have been done if it hadn't been for the petitions," Van Dorn said.

Anne Thurston, Evangeline township clerk, agreed that lack of communications have been a problem. She added that she thought last week's meeting, which Van Dorn called to open the lines of communication, was very successful.

City Manager Randy Frykberg, Commissioners Cass Toton and Bill Grimm, and City Clerk Tom Garlock represented Boyne City at the meeting. Also attending the meeting was Health Department Sanitarian Larry Levensgood.

Residents of Evangeline Township who attended the meeting voiced anger over what they said were violations of the contract authorizing the utilization of their township for the landfill and fear of water contamination because of the unlicensed landfill.

"The number one concern is water pollution," Thurston said at the meeting. She later added that residents are frustrated by the lack of conclusive results from water testing.

A contractor put in four test wells at the landfill site last winter. The city received results, considered inconclusive by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources because a better representative sample was needed, but the township did not. Frykberg and the commissioners resolved to share any such information received.

New information should be received this week on subsequent testing done at the site. According to Larry Thornton, DNR District Groundwater Quality Supervisor, in a telephone interview, results were received last Friday and Monday with a report being forwarded to the city soon.

Additional samples will be taken by the DNR, and the wells will be continually monitored, Thornton said.

According to Larry Levensgood, County Health Department Sanitarian, the health department tested some of the resident's water samples in 1982 but did not attempt to draw conclusions at that time.

"We didn't detect any immediate problems," he said. He added that those 1982 samples will be used for comparisons with current sample data.

"We don't have anything yet that is conclusive, but the DNR says there are problems," Van Dorn said, summing up the township's view of the situation.

Frykberg, who stressed the city's willingness to cooperate with the DNR when water samples were requested, said they hope to have clear evidence as to whether there is water contamination within the two sets of tests.

"We don't want to hide something," he said.

But township officials and residents were not easily appeased. Although talk of closing the landfill quieted some of their concerns, the possibility of water pollution remained an issue.

"Will the water quality problem be resolved here?" asked Thurston after hearing Frykberg's plan to get the city out of the landfill business. "If the water is contaminated, what will be done," she asked Frykberg.

He said that DNR policy is to provide the residents with an alternate water source.

"It's very difficult, if not impossible to clean up a ground water aquifer," Frykberg said, adding that it is much easier to prevent contamination from occurring. "Our basic goal is to get out of the landfill business and out of the present site."

But for Eunice Genson, who with her husband Walter lives near the landfill, the city manager's words were of small comfort.

"Because of that landfill, our property is devaluated," she said. "If our water is gone, our land is worthless."

She added that if the water is contaminated, she intends to sue the city and the township. The city, she said, should keep its garbage in the city.

"They don't want it there and we don't want it either," Genson said.

But water pollution wasn't the only concern of the township residents. Complaints of blowing papers, litter along the roads and high rodent populations at the landfill were voiced.

Van Dorn questioned the legality of dumping the garbage on the ground and covering it with dirt dug from a pit, rather than placing the garbage in a trench. She indicated later that trenching is required under the local zoning ordinance.

City Manager Frykberg explained that the above ground dumping was a landscaping procedure used to level the site.

"It's all in the manner of trying to get better landscaping done," he said.

But this explanation did not appease Walter Genson. Genson, who formerly farmed the acreage now used as the landfill, insisted a pit be dug. He said he has seen debris blowing from the landfill from a pile as high as the large, old one-story townhall building where the meeting was being held. He scoffed at the notion that the above-ground dumping had anything to do with landscaping.

"Level of the land, hell," he said. "Let them dump it on the main street of town."

Levensgood said that a lack of an organizational plan for use of the landfill site has contributed to the problem. He added that such a plan was not required in 1966 when the landfill was developed.

According to Frykberg, recent efforts have been made to follow an organized layout.

Other residents complained about the amount of litter in the area, directly attributing it to the presence of the landfill.

According to Penny Belford, who has lived one mile from the landfill for 17 years, the city has cleaned up well by the road, but back in the weeds are papers and boards scattered by people hauling unsecured loads of garbage.

"Why don't they send back the uncovered loads that are dropping rubbish on their way?" she asked.

Township residents said that their efforts to have litterers ticketed have met with little action, making the $400 fine for littering a farce in their eyes.

Frykberg explained that city police can only handle violators

One of Boyne City's trucks dumps out a load at the Boyne City Landfill in Evangeline Township. The landfill has come under much attention this past week as the township and the city held a joint meeting to establish some lines of communication between the two parties. Township residents want the landfill closed because of possible contamination of ground water and because of littering problems. The city is going to make a decision soon, according to Boyne City's City Manager.

BC Schools borrow $348,070, almost buy energy system

Boyne City schools held their first long meeting of the year Monday as the first four items on the agenda took three hours to hear. The last 12 items only took an hour more.

Taking most of the time was a presentation on a computerized energy management system that is being considered for both the high school and the elementary school.

The system would cost the school system about $40,000 if cash were paid for it, or it could be leased from the company for three or five years. The company estimated that the system would pay for itself as the estimated savings would fall into the $6,000-$7,000 per year area. They are also figuring on a five year payback in the savings generated by the system.

Members of the board expressed concern that the cost of the system may require a bidding process which could delay the installation of the equipment. The company concurred saying that the way the sale of the equipment was figured, the bidding probably would not be necessary.

Bill Coberly, the man hired by the board to help figure out how the school can save energy money, told the board that in several other cases where the same sort of project required bidding, the firm making the presentation was the lowest bidder.

The board deferred making a decision until a special meeting which will be held next Tuesday evening when other bids may be let for other parts of the energy saving project.

The board also heard a review of the auditors who looked over the financial side of the school system. Bob Carpenter, of the firm Robertson and Carpenter told the board that this year things are in better shape than last year's budget showed.

As Carpenter went through the audit report, he pointed out areas that the 1984-85 budget covered page by page explaining the accounting procedures to the board and how the figures were arrived.

After a short recess, the board okayed the continuing of the ala carte portion of the hot lunch program. This portion allows the students to purchase up to two snack food items per day when they also purchase a hot lunch.

They also passed a resolution to approve the hot lunch policy for the 1985-86 school year and to participate in the national hot lunch program.

Prices for the lunches will be the same as they were last year.

In other action, the board approved the naming of Rick Fowler as the cross country coach, Russ Harvey as the golf coach, Sherry Gillett as the varsity cheerleading coach, Joan Zucchiatti as the junior varsity cheerleading coach, Dr. Richard Mansfield, Tom Dressell, John McGeorge and Dave Bricker as the junior varsity and freshman football coaches.

They also granted a maternity leave of absence to instructor, Mrs. Corine Babb. She will be leaving for the first semester and is to return for the second.

The board then approved the low bids for milk, Purchase Sales; bread, Schaffer Bakery; diesel fuel, Howard Oil Company; gas, Woodland Oil Company, and trash pick-up and removal to Boyne Land Refuse.

Also passed was a resolution allowing them to borrow $648,070 against anticipated tax funds. Superintendent Rich Kelly told the board members he expects also to see a low interest rate on the funds borrowed because of the lower prime rates in the nation. The amount of the money being borrowed is less than previously Kelly told the board, because of summer taxes being collected and a higher fund equity.

Tuition rates were also set by the board at Kindergarten, $1,687.69 per student per year; grade 1 - 6, $3375.38; 7 through 12, $3493.52.

East Jordan to have indoor pool?

East Jordan may have an indoor swimming pool soon, according to plans revealed by the Malpass Foundation.

The foundation is donating the pool as a gift to the school and community, according to foundation official Bill Malpass.

Although the location, size and other details of the facility have not been worked out, East Jordan Public Schools Superintendent Tom Rossler is enthusiastic about the prospect.

"It's a tremendous opportunity for our school and our community," he said.

According to Malpass, no government monies will be used to fund the facility. All funding will be provided by the Malpass Foundation.

Malpass said he hopes that having a local pool will encourage youths to become better swimmers, noting the number of drownings of youth in the area.

The East Jordan School Board was expected to address the proposal at last night's meeting.

Many aspects of the plan must be worked out and approval gained before construction can begin.

Malpass said he hopes the project can get underway next spring.

Neighbors

Mr. and Mrs. John Rae of Ludington were here over the weekend visiting the Bob and Shirley Mathers and to attend the antique auto show and flea market.

About 110 attended the first annual Springwater Beach picnic on Saturday held at the Doug Shields' home. The Shields' and the Buckholz' got the neighborly potluck picnic, water fun and good time to all come together, with Dr. Wm. Reilly furnishing the beef for the barbecue. The group had such a great time, they hope to make it an annual event and are already looking forward to the next one. Out of town guests included John and Rena Blakkan of Muncie, Ind., who recently retired and moved to Boyne City, and the Buiest family from Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bramley and son Ralph of Grand Rapids left on Monday after having spent the week here helping his brother, Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Bramley settle in at the Free Methodist parsonage.

Barry Lewis of Clarkston has been here for a week of visiting his grandmother, Ann Jenkins, and is spending this week at the Senior High Camp at the Park of the Pines.

There were four to five hundred in attendance on Sunday at the St. Matthews Church for the farewell to Father Dennis Stilwell. A finger food and sandwich buffet was served to the many people of the St. Matthews and St. Augustine Parishes and many other friends.

Father Denny received many cards and other expressions of farewell. Those of his family present were his mother, Marie Stilwell of Higgins Lake, his brother, Darryl and family of Prudenville, brother Phillip and family of Louisiana, and sister Diane Miligan and family of Prudenville.

Father Denny will be at home in Traverse City at the Immaculate Conception Parish.

Mr. and Mrs. Fay (Jean) Limron visited their daughter Mr. and Mrs. Richard (Betty Jean) and family in Durand this past week. They also attended the wedding of their nephew, Todd Morely, son of the Wm. Morleys in Clio.

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff (Mirilla) Litogot left on Monday to visit their daughter Patti in Allen Park.

This week's winners of the senior citizens' bingo games on Thursday were regulars, Barbara Ross, Alice Wilson, and Leona Griffen; specials went to Erma Norton, and Grace Maves; cover-all, Dane Earl. Again this week, the games were called by Lyle Ross.

Mrs. Robert (Beverly) Brewster of Fehachapsi, Calif., was here this past week visiting her mother, Nan Kritcher, her aunt and uncle Margerite and Everett Northrup, and other relatives in the area.

Over 100 attended the retirement potluck picnic on Monday night honoring Whiting park manager Philo Sumner. All enjoyed the get together of friends, neighbors, campers and past campers, due to the efforts of Sandy Sulak, Marilyn Oliver, and Gail Farley.

Philo was presented with a picture album of past campers as well as other tokens of farewell as he ends his years as park manager this fall.

Todd Newville and girlfriend Traci Thick of Rochester spent the weekend visiting his mother Sandra Newville and other relatives.

There was a good turnout of the Horizon Club members as they enjoyed the Vesper Cruise in Mackinaw on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Davis of Lincoln Park spent four days here at their cottage this past week and visited relatives.

Dr. and Mrs. Wayne (Janet) Milos and children of Orland Park, Ill. are here visiting her parents the Garth Bryans and family for two weeks.

Nancy Anthony and children of Rochester spent a few days here this past week visiting her parents the Bill and Jean Korthases and family.

Guests of Geraldine Thompson over the weekend were her daughter Kathy and husband Bob Lesoski and children of Bayport. Bob returned home on Sunday, leaving Kathy and children here for a couple weeks of visiting with the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott (Kelly) Kennedy and daughter Jessica of Battle Creek were here over the weekend visiting her parents Dick and Yvonne Hocquard and other relatives. On Sunday, they all went to Cheboygan to visit Kelly's nephew, Kasey Richard, and the Kim and Paula Hocquard family.

Jeff and Julie Bradford were among those from Boyne City who attended the wedding of Andy Schmittiel in Birmingham on Saturday.

Saturday night callers of the Lester Hardys were the John Hauslers and the Hilbert Hardys.

Dr. and Mrs. Glen (Vicki) Roberts and children of PawPaw and Merry Baxter and children of Ill. spent a week here visiting their parents, the Skip and Frank Cromps.

Mrs. Elsie Varnum of Highland Park accompanied her granddaughter Pam and Mike Smith of Southfield here for a weekend visit with her son Judge and Mrs. Harvey Varnum and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. George (Maureen) Heaton of Marquette were here for a week visiting his father Gerald Heaton and wife Emma.

On Saturday, the Free Methodist Church annual picnic held at Whiting Park was well attended, as all enjoyed an abundance of food, fellowship, and games. On Sunday evening, this year's Bible School director Greg McGeorge, assisted by his mother, Sally, wound up the previous five nights of nearly 100 in attendance of the children and adult Bible classes with a program of songs by the children and many thanks to the various teachers. The fruits of their labor showed in the enthusiasm of class members and their parents and the craft displays.

Carl and Eveline Buckholz of Springwater Beach entertained family and friends to celebrate the anniversary of their daughter and son-in-law, Fred and Paulette Lehto.

On Dean's List

Four area students ended. They must have been included on the Lake Superior State College dean's list for the term recently ended. They must have earned a 3.5 grade point average or better. An "A" is 4.00. Students from Boyne City are Mike Bieganski and Kerry Krugel; from Charlevoix Dennis Morgridge and Frank Rathjens.

Afternoon wedding unites Linda I. Clark and Duane E. Smith

In an afternoon ceremony on August 3rd, 1985, Linda I. Clark became the bride of Duane E. Smith, both of Boyne City, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Clark. The Rev. Michael Conklin performed the wedding ceremony.

Duane is the son of Mrs. Arlene Bauia of Burton, and Donald Smith of Flint.

Linda wore an ivory satin floor length gown with a fitted bodice and a neckline ruffle trimmed in antique lace.

The mother of the bride, Mrs. John Clark, chose a mint green linen dress with lace sleeves and wore a wrist corsage of pink roses and an orchid. Duane's mother, Mrs. Arlene Bauia, was in a turquoise sheath dress with lace jacket and a corsage of white carnations.

Collette Pushman, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor and Shannon Weeks, Stacie Weeks, and Shellie Weeks, nieces of the bride, Kathy Hall, Colleen Crozier and Jannifer Johnson were bridesmaids dressed in mauve tea length dresses of satiness and each carried two calla lilies with pink ribbon. Erin Pushman, niece of the bride, was flower girl in a pink taffeta dress with an eyelet lace pinafore and carried a basket of pink and white roses.

Karl Smith served his brother as best man and groomsmen were Neville Weeks, and Charles Weeks, brothers of the bride, Joseph Permoda, William Conklin, Keith Fitzpatrick Jr., Gerald Belford II* and Scott Moody. Ushers were Shawn Weeks, Patrick Weeks and Jon Salmon, nephews of the bride.

The couple are on a wedding trip to Toronto and will make their home in Boyne City upon their return.

Duane is employed at Carpentree Builders and Linda at Boyne Country Party Shop.

E. J. Chatterings

Visiting the Charlevoix area on Aug. 6 and 7 were Mr. and Mrs. Michael Elzinga and children of Fairport, New York. Mr. Elzinga is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Elzinga of Charlevoix, and the brother of Mrs. Duwayne (Jean) Dougherty of East Jordan. He is a physicist with the Eastman Kodak Company of Rochester, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold (Vivian) Pitchford of Sunfield visited their daughter Dorothy Corner of Central Lake on Aug. 7. Dorothy's brother and sister-in-law Charles and Joyce Pitchford of Lansing arrived on Aug. 8 to visit her. They all came over to visit their friend Millie Dean. They left for home on Aug. 14.

On July 23, a dinner was held in Boyne City at the Country Star Restaurant. Some of those attending were Hazel Withey, Flora Price, Bill Mannor and Olive Hott.

A picnic was held at Grandvue on Thursday, Aug. 1. Some of those attending were Allis McClain, Beas Sumner, Nancy Shepherd, Laura Stone, Laura Brackett and Ruth Overmeyer.

Glendora Murphy becomes bride of Jeffery L. Gettle

Glendora Murphy of East Jordan became the bride of Jeffery L. Gettle, also of East Jordan, in an afternoon ceremony at the United Missionary Church of East Jordan on July 20, 1985. Pastor Jim Duncan performed the double ring ceremony before 270 guests.

Glendora's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Murphy of East Jordan, and Jeffrey's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gettel of Bay Port.

Glendora, given in marriage by her father, chose a long gown of traditional white matte silk with French Chantilly lace inserts. The fitted bodice with a vee-neckline and off the shoulder cap sleeves of lace, and a cathedral train. A fingertip length veil in delicate French net with bridal wreath head piece of roses and baby's breath. She carried a Victorian nosegay of daisies and pink roses.

Bonnie Grover, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Dolores Jackson, Carmen Murphy (both sisters of the bride), Margaret Garcia and Debbie Remsberg, friends of the bride. Bonnie and one of the bridesmaids wore burgundy taffeta long gowns with delicate neck ruffles off the shoulder. The other bridesmaids wore long satin off the shoulder gowns of suede rose satin with over skirt of sheer chiffon. They carried single white roses.

Heather Jackson, niece of the bride, was flower girl in a white dress with puffed sleeves and a pink satin bow. She carried a basket of spring flowers.

Matthew Jackson, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

Michael T. Pine served as best man for Jeffrey. Mark Gettel, Robert Lane, Mark Particka and James Hamm were groomsmen, and ushers were Lorne Hartwig and Jerry Urbanik.

Lynda Slate, organist, provided music for the wedding.

After a reception at the East Jordan Civic Center given by the bride and groom, the couple left on a wedding trip to Texas and will make their home in East Jordan upon return.

Jeffrey is a deputy with the Charlevoix County Sheriff Dept. and a graduate of Kirtland Community College. Glendora is City Treasurer for the City of East Jordan.

A rehearsal barbeque, hosted by the bride and groom, was held on Friday, July 19 at the East Jordan Tourist Park.

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

Ohmygod! Someone has invented something that could make me a great pool player.

That something is a pool cue that shoots by itself. All I would have to do is to make sure that it is lined up right so that the cue ball hits the other balls at the right angle in order to make them go into the hole.

Nine ball off the eight ball for a combination into the side pocket after banking twice, could be one of my calls after getting one of the new devices.

Of course, with as much knowledge about pool that I have gained from watching many different versions of "The Music Man", I would need all the help I can get when it comes to shooting pool.

That part of my childhood was never learned as I was always more interested in many other things. Sure, I watched a few other people play the game, but if someone asked me to participate today in a game of pool, I would have to tell them to find another sucker.

I can't figure out the angles that are necessary.

To me, you almost have to be an engineer to play the game. Vectors, I think, is what the game really is. You have to figure out what angle to hit the ball so that it will go off on an angle to hit the pocket.

And that is where I have the problem. I just didn't and don't play the game very well because of that missed childhood.

Maybe it was because I grew up in the suburbs instead of the city where much time could be spent in the places that allowed the game to be played.

I can't say that I missed out because of playing a trombone, like in the Music Man.

Heck, I couldn't even get involved with any kind of music lesson, although I was given plenty of opportunity. Piano, or any other kind of instrument.

When you are a kid, there are so many other things that are more important to life. Like playing football, baseball, tag, cowboys and Indians, combat, king-of-the-hill and kick-the-can.

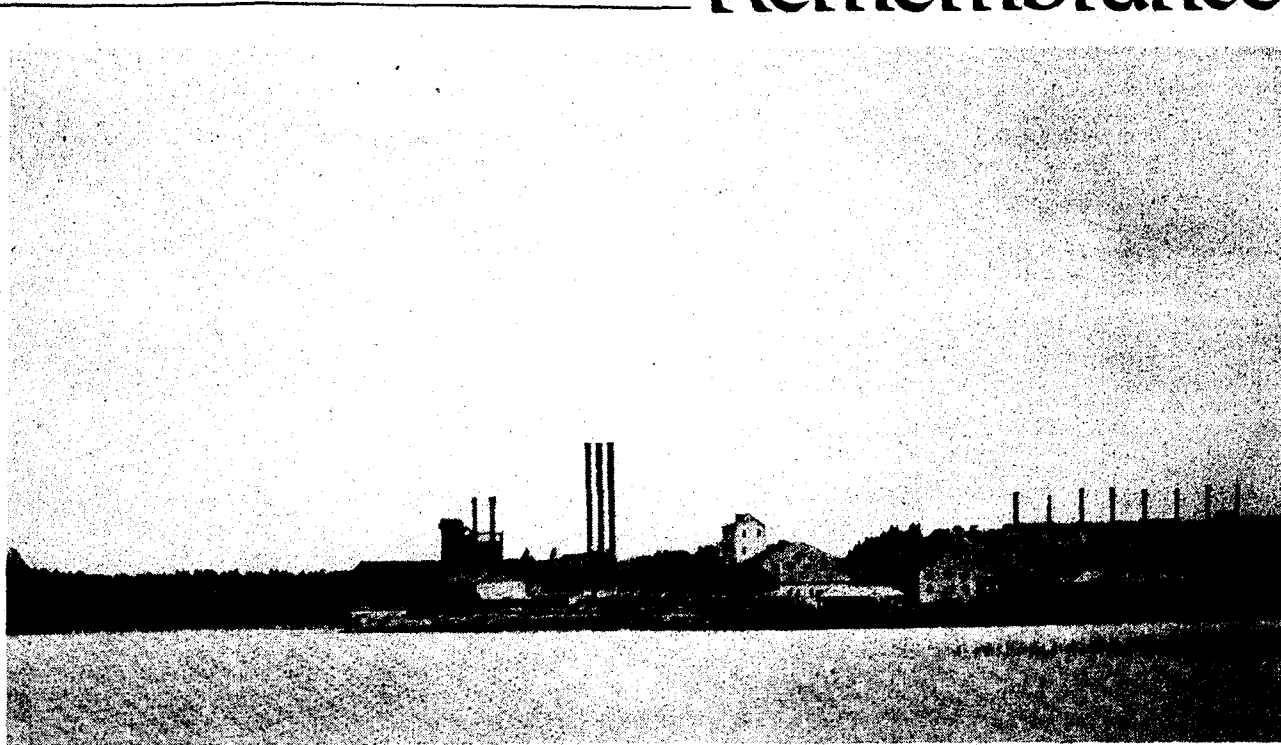

And that was only the summer time activities. Each season brought more and different things to do.

Anyway, I never learned to play pool or snooker or other games requiring skills like that.

But now, if I could get this new pool cue, I might have a chance to take on a couple of people who play the game all the time.

Maybe I won't lose as badly.

East Jordan used to have many other factories as this postcard picture from the early days shows the East Jordan Chemical Company from the other side of the lake. The firm made alcohol out of the wood that was brought in from the area around East Jordan.

BY GAIL WARE

It's always fun to find out that something we love doing is good for us. It's even better when doing it comes almost as naturally as breathing. And so it is with laughter.

We have Norman Cousins to thank for spreading the good news about the values of laughter. He wrote a best seller, "Anatomy of an Illness", in which he gives vitamin C and laughter full credit for helping his body to recover from a serious illness that doctors believed would cripple him for the rest of his life. Cousins further asserts that laughter not only heals but plays a big part in keeping us healthy. In the last ten years, a number of doctors have come out in support of this view. They are aware that certain biochemical changes occur in our bodies when we laugh, but they don't know much about them. Except that they're good for us.

It doesn't matter to most of us what changes occur in our bodies when we laugh. We do care, though, that laughter does nice things for relationships. Smiles have always been considered the big good-will gestures. Smiles are ok, but they're namby-pamby. Laughter is vigorous. It reaches out and involves those around us.

There are periods in our lives when laughter is more than nice; it's essential. For instance, those years when our children are adolescents. That's a time when a sense of humor in good working order is all that keeps communication alive. (There are days, even weeks, when it's all that keeps parents alive too.) Any joke or offhand comment that evokes laughter brings warmth to a family where feet are planted firmly on either side of a chilly generation gap.

Perhaps laughter's biggest role is in keeping us from feeling victimized by life. On those days when we get stuck in our own driveway, drop a jar of pickles in the grocery check-out line or discover that the washing machine has vibrated several feet away from home base and is jostling the furnace, laughter is all that can defuse us. It puts a punctuation mark on miserable moments and frees us to move on.

And then there's remembered laughter. It's a keepsake for dark hours. It echoes down the hallways of our minds and reminds us that our hearts were merry once and will be again.

Norman Cousins has done a lot for all lovers of laughter by making us feel even better about doing what comes naturally. I hope he won't find it unseemly, however, to mention that poets before him have written more gracefully about the value of laughter. One of the loveliest verses was written by Hilaire Belloc:

"From quiet homes and first beginnings
Out to the undiscovered ends,
There's nothing worth the wear of winning
But laughter and the love of friends."

This is another He and Me column; He being the other guy and Me being me. During the conversation I discover a fact that bullyrags me. I hate bullyrag facts that let me down and keep me there.

* * *

He: How did you squander away your weekend?

Me: I slipped down to the park and took in the Antique Automobile Show. And it was not a waste of time.

He: I didn't know that you were a car nut.

Me: Oh, yes, from 1923 to the present Inst.

He: You lie through your false teeth. That was sixty-two years back; you weren't even around yet.

Me: Ha! I was up and at 'em, bouncing around in my father's Model T. I saw one just like it. The man wanted twenty-five hundred for it.

He: Twenty-five hundred for a pile of junk?

Me: You'd be surprised how a car's value can become enormously improved by age.

He: Hogwash! I'm driving a real, old clunker and it ain't worth five-hundred.

Me: Antique car folks don't deal in clunkers. They pick up a fine, old car and restore it to its fine, old carness.

He: "Careness?" If you were a used car dealer, I'd keep right on going.

Me: Those old Buicks, Packards, Chevys and Fords go me so excited I could hardly control my enthusiasm. I was forced to act natural, just as though it was a perfectly normal thing for me to do.

He: I don't believe you at all. I've seen too much of you.

Me: If you had gone down and saw those fine, old cars your snort would be replaced with a glad cry.

He: I pity, pity, pity those antique car people thirty years down the road.

Me: Three pities. Heavens, how come and why?

He: Foreign made cars, that's how come and why. Who is going to drool over a rebuilt Japanese plastic box?

Me: You struck a chord I did not wish to hear.

He: Ah, ha! Your enthusiasm for the old car business is suddenly drooping around the edges.

Me: You've shown me the future and I hate it.

* * *

I shall now leave off thinking about fine, old cars. I always leave off when I am introduced to a nasty fact.

COLUMN ENDER: I saw a bumper sticker that said: "Warning! I drive like you do."

I thought about that for a while and decided I did not like it.

East Jordan Budget, new ordinance and fire equipment spark meeting

A favorable report on the city's budget, a new garage sale ordinance, bids for municipal contracts, a farmers' market at Memorial Park and new fire equipment, were among the topics at last week's East Jordan city council meeting.

According to Dennis Holly, city auditor, everything is in order with the city's finances.

"The only area I'd really look at is the transfers out of the general fund," Holly told the council, who accepted his report. The auditor added that the city must keep its cash reserves up.

In other action, the council adopted a new garage sale ordinance that limits garage sales in the city to 10 days per year per location, with a maximum of two sales. The new ordinance, effective Aug. 26, requires a permit to be obtained to hold a garage sale. There is no fee for the permits.

Council also approved a recommendation by Public Works Superintendent Mike Dionne to advertise for bids for the repaving of Main street between Williams and Division streets, a skid pier at the Tourist Park and a well house for well number five and the installation of 3,900 feet of 10-inch water main running from the well to the corner of State and Griffin roads.

A suggestion was put forward by Dionne on behalf of the East Jordan Garden Club to hold a farmers' market in Memorial Park on Tuesdays and Fridays during the harvest months.

"I think it is a great idea. I would welcome it," said Mayor Pat Sweet of the proposal, which will provide the Garden Club with money to fund its beautification projects.

The council also took the next step toward purchase of a new, one-ton pick-up truck for the East Jordan fire department by setting public hearing dates to amend the fire department budget by $20,000 in order to purchase the vehicle and related equipment.

Eighteen pagers will also be obtained for fire department use, following action by the council.

Although $1,800 was already earmarked in the fire department budget for the pagers, which will allow quick summoning of the department's firemen, Fire Chief Dick Barnett needed council approval to "redirect funds" to obtain the additional $400 needed to cover the cost of a three-year lease-purchase plan.

Council also resolved and approved a lot split request made by Don E. Timmons and to amend the 1985/1986 budget to provide payment of the Harbor bill.

A proposal to hire a consultant to assess the city's computerization needs failed as council members said they wanted more information about a consultant's fees and services. Mayor Sweet asked city clerk Kathy O'Rear to provide council with the requested information so the proposal could be addressed again at the next meeting.

The next regularly scheduled council meeting is August 20. A special council session will be held Thursday, Aug. 15 at 7 p.m. to discuss East Jordan library's proposal to change its status from a public to a district library. A joint meeting with the library, Friends of the Library, and East Jordan Public Schools on the library budget issue will be held at 7 p.m. Aug. 21 at the library.

Landfill

within the city limits and the sheriff's department must be called if violations occur in the township. He added that although the city has an ordinance prohibiting the transport of unsecured garbage, the township has not.

City Clerk Tom Garlock suggested that some of the problem comes from unauthorized users of the landfill. He said that under the present system, there is no control over who dumps at the Evangeline township site.

The group discussed the possibility of issuing identification cards to taxpayers in the township and limiting landfill access to township and city residents by requiring the card for entry.

"It's something we should definitely bring up at the next board meeting and take action and hope the city does the same," Thurston said.

When she asked city officials if clamping down on unauthorized dumping would hurt landfill revenues, City Commissioner Cass Toton said that would not be a problem, but dumpers would unload their trash elsewhere.

"It will wind up on a two-track road or ditch or somebody's woods," he said.

Still another problem expressed by Thurston on behalf of the residents in the vicinity of the landfill was that of high rodent populations.

Frykberg denied any knowledge of any significant rodent population at the site, but residents insist it is a problem.

They questioned Dawson Way, owner of the Charlevoix Garbage Service landfill near Ironton, the only licensed landfill in the county, who attended the meeting as an interested party. Although Way declined to express an opinion on the Boyne City landfill, he stressed that rats are not a problem at this landfill.

"I'll give $100 if you can find a rodent anywhere on our landfill," he dared his questioners. Way explained that compaction and proper covering at his landfill removes places for rodents to hide.

But it was more than the individual problems of possible water contamination, litter and high rodent populations that enraged the residents. They said that the violation by the city of the contract with the township was the basic issue in the controversy.

"The main issue is the city is not doing what they have written down here," said the Gensons' daughter, Marsha Towne, holding a copy of the contract that initiated the landfill. "The issue is that it isn't a licensed landfill."

"I don't believe any of us want to close the dump and fill the woods," Walter Genson added. "We want the city to honor its contract."

According to the Dump Agreement contract signed in July 1966, the landfill was to "be operated and maintained in accordance with the requirements of any statutes of the State of Michigan which regulate Sanitary Landfill operation."

Health Department Sanitarian Levegood said that the Boyne City landfill's license expired in 1972.

Regulation of landfills was transferred from the Department of Public Health to the DNR in 1973. Although the DNR did not officially deny the landfill a license at that time, it did not send the city an application for renewal of the license.

Levegood added that since the possibility of being licensed became remote after stricter landfill standards were implemented with the adoption of Public Act 641 of 1978, the quality of landfill operations lowered.

"Frankly, it could have been operated better," Levegood said of the landfill. "There have been times when it was operated better than others."

Councilman Bill Grimm said that a joint city-township monitoring of the facility might have prevented some of the problems at the site.

"Why was no annual inspection by each party written into the contract?" he asked.

But Van Dorn said she was thrown off the site when she tried to inspect the landfill and said a DNR inspector was once locked inside the fenced area.

Van Dorn also said the city is violating the contract's article prohibiting the disposal of hazardous waste. She said that hazardous materials, including freon-11, have been dumped at the Evangeline site.

Although Frykberg did not deny the allegation, he said that hazardous wastes should not be in the landfill.

"It's not allowed by us, not allowed by the state, not allowed by the federal government and not allowed by our contract."

Some residents, including Eunice Genson, questioned the ethics of the landfill's contract itself. According to her, the Gensons were told about the landfill the night before it was put in.

"I am sure that a lot of people in Evangeline Township knew nothing about it," she said.

Another resident, Garth Hall, claimed that the land was bought under false pretenses and that township residents would not have approved the facility if they had known more about it. He demanded action to solve the problem.

"The city and township should get together before they start burying people out there," he said, his comments bringing applause from some of his neighbors.

Trying to stem the tide of negativism, Frykberg urged those present to consider the progress made to date.

"Let's talk about where we are now, rather than where we have been," he suggested.

Frykberg said that after numerous meetings with the DNR and area refuse haulers, he is ready to propose a solid waste management plan to the city council. He said he is considering a small transfer station as an alternative to using the Evangeline Township site.

"I believe I'll have a proposal to make to the city council within one month and I believe they will act on it very shortly," he said.

"We'll all be very thankful if the city can find another site," Van Dorn said.

Those taking trash out to the Boyne City Landfill are reminded to make sure the trash is in plastic bags, and also make sure that their load is covered so as not to drop any litter along the highway going out to the dump. Litter is one of the many concerns of the Evangeline Township residents who live on the road to or near the landfill. Most of the litter falls off of private loads going to the dump and is not being picked up by concerned citizens. The township intends to ask the county sheriff's department for more enforcement of the anti-littering laws along the road to the dump.

The public is cordially invited to attend the "Super Gang" musical which will be presented by the junior choir from Trinity Pentecostal, located at 401 State St. in Boyne City.

The performances will be held Aug. 16, 17, 18 at 7 p.m. There is no charge for admission, but a free will offering will be taken. Come and bring the entire family to meet Sonshine, Preacher-Pigeon, Pat the Postman, Og the frog and Mr. Grump. The 27 member choir is joined by Dawn Stackus who is Sonshine, and Henry Wittenmyer playing Mr. Grump. The choir is directed by Rachelle Wittenmyer. For further information contact the choir director at 582-2554 or the church, 582-2551.

4-Hers to exhibit livestock next week at Emmet County Fair

Fifty-eight 4-H members from Charlevoix County will exhibit and sell their Market Livestock at the Emmet County Fair, August 19-24, 1985.

These members purchase feeder livestock in the fall, for beef, and in the spring for sheep, swine, and veal; and have been raising them in preparation for the fair. Members gain a wide variety of skills in the 4-H livestock project, such as breeding, maintenance, and management of their animals. Members also learn responsibility and good work habits through this project.

The 4-H members will bring their animals to Peltsey on Monday, August 19, to have them weighed. Judging will take place on Tuesday, August 20 at 8:00 a.m. The livestock will be sold at Public Auction on Thursday, August 22, at 1:00 p.m. at the steel barn. All are invited to attend any, or all of the livestock activities.

Members from East Jordan include: Pat Russell, Cliff Russell, Cheryl Boyer, Dawn Brock, Michael Boyer, Aaron Brock, Rick

Brooks, Guy Thayer, Tom Reid, Jr., and Alicia DeCeuster.

Members from the Charlevoix/Petoskey area include: Teri Finley, Kasey Finley, Mike Finley, Brandon Jess, Bob Jess, Dan Chase, John Boris,

Dems hear state speakers

Charlevoix County Democrats met Aug. 6 and discussed the successful barbecued chicken dinner held at the Polish Festival. The tickets drawn in the fundraising raffle gave Amy Glaser, Petoskey, the portable TV; Robert Hubick of Elmira the $50 and Darryl Tennis of Lansing the $25 prizes.

Nearly every county in the 11th CD was represented at a dinner and Round Table held in the Gaylord Fire Hall on Aug. 2. Rick Aaron Boris, Kim Hand, Tina Kraft, Becky Kuebler, Tim Wieland, Barb Stowe, Tim Plagge, Dan Kiteley, Dan Kelley, Michael Himebauch, Shawn DeYoung, Jeremy Simonsen, Dan Stolt, Eric Erchwiller, and Jeremy Eggers.

Wiener, Michigan Democratic Party Chair was the featured speaker and opportunity was provided for informal discussions.

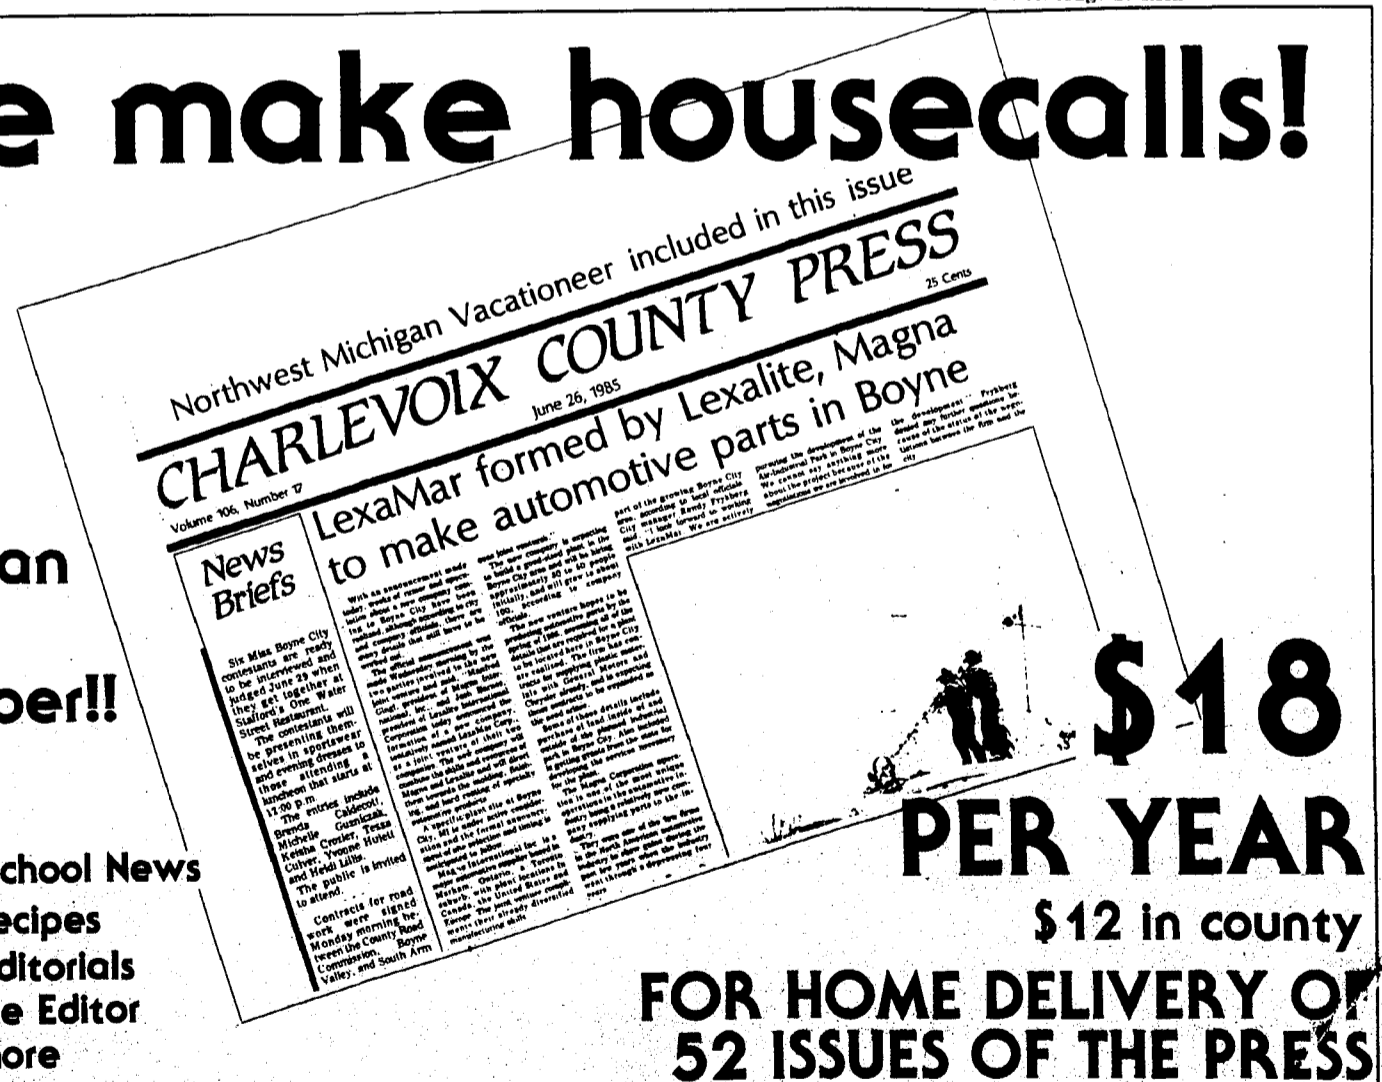

An exceedingly useful and fast-paced training session was held in the Holiday Inn on Aug. 3. Helen Root, Michigan Vice Chair, guided a roster of speakers through three hours of subjects from fundraising to delegate recruitment. These cases were extremely helpful.

Airman Christopher R. Putman, son of Richard J. and Linda P. Putman of Charlevoix, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force fuels specialist course at Chanute Air Force Base, Ill.

During the course, students were taught procedures for receiving, storing and issuing petroleum products.

County older youths and adults who want to learn more about wilderness survival should take advantage of the opportunity to participate in the 4-H Challenge wilderness adventure training program, says Shirley Thoms County 4-H Youth Agent.

Through the 4-H Challenge program, participants learn a variety of skills, including hiking and backpacking, canoeing, cross-country skiing, orienteering, and wilderness cooking and survival.

According to Thoms, county residents interested in becoming part of the Challenge program, and after training, serving as group leaders for young people, should sign up now.

Thoms says that anyone interested in becoming a Challenge leader must attend four weekend intensive training sessions this fall and winter, pass a comprehensive written test and take a Multi Media Standard First Aid and CPR course. Additional training in areas such as climbing and rappelling, caving, survival, canoeing, kayaking, sailing, bike touring, winter survival (including skiing and snowshoeing) and wilderness backpacking is available. The workshops will be held in the Upper Peninsula.

"Because Challenge

leaders will be involved in high adventure situations and be responsible for youngsters participating in wilderness outings, they must be prepared. Thomas points out. After completing all the training, Challenge leaders become certified and are qualified to take youths on wilderness adventures.

"It's worth all the hard work and studying if you like the challenge of the outdoors," Thoms adds. To be eligible for the 4-H Challenge certification program, applicants must be at least 21 years old. Young people aged 16-20 years may become associate leaders, who must be accompanied by a certified adult leader when taking a group of youngsters on a Challenge outing.

Boyne sets policy for boat ramp parking

Boyne City Commissioners jumped into the quagmire surrounding the Boyne City Landfill when, during the public comment part of the meeting, Marsha Towne asked the commissioners what they were proposing to do after the meeting held last Wednesday. The commissioners were told by City Manager Randy Frykberg that a proposal would be coming within 30 days, the same as he told the township at their meeting. Commissioner Steve Moody told Towne that the landfill would be closed today, or last week, if the DNR had wanted it closed, and the city also wants to get out of the landfill business but doesn't have the money to comply with all the regulations that would be needed. "We just don't have the money," Moody said. Commissioner Thelma Behling suggested that the city look into a plan where the entire city is forced to pay one company to handle the refuse. That plan is in effect in Durand, Mi., where she has spent some time recently. Other commissioners told Towne that they are working on the problem, but will not be making any decisions until after the money is found. Other alternatives are being looked at which could help get the city out of the landfill business. All of the action occurred at the Tuesday noon meeting of the city commission. In other action, the city agreed to set up a new policy covering the use of the city owned boat launch parking lot. In the new policy, any vehicle, trailer or boat left overnight must be registered with the police department. While the first two days of parking will be free, any additional days of parking will cost the user $1.00 per day. The city also rents out the dryland slips on a per week or per season basis. Last year, many of the slips in the parking lot were taken but this year, the people are just parking their boats without regard in the designated area of the parking lot. The reason for the policy was brought up by resident John Howard, who noticed that many of the boats and trailers were in the lot day after day. He said that the passage of the new policy was a "Good idea and should help pay for the manpower it will take to enforce it," he added. Signage will be made to reflect the new policy. The City also made a recommendation to the State Liquor Control Commission that there is no more need for any additional licenses to sell liquor. That came up as the LCC sent a notice to the city to consider a request for a liquor license from Glen's Market. The license would be a new classification of licenses coming under the old "resort" class and is being considered throughout the northern part of the state. According to John Talboys, the police chief, the state is looking at the possibility of issuing 25 such licenses and Boyne City is being considered for one at Glen's. Glen Catt Jr. was at the meeting and told the commissioners that as a standard policy, the store automatically fills out the paperwork for a liquor over-the-counter sales license when they open up a new store and that the firm did so when they came to Boyne City last year. Most of the commissioners agreed that the issuance of a new license within the community could cause more hardship than it would help and could cause problems with other dealers in the area.

GARAGE SALES

THE CITY OF EAST JORDAN ORDAINS:
An Ordinance to provide for the regulation and conducting of all garage sales within the City of East Jordan.

Definitions.

a) Garage sales shall mean and include all sales entitled "garage sale," "lawn sale," "attic sale," "rummage sale," "flea market sale," or any similar casual sale of tangible personal property which is advertised by any means whereby the public at large is or can be made aware of said sale.

b) Goods are meant to include any goods, warehouse merchandise or other property capable of being the object of a sale regulated hereunder.

c) Person shall mean and include individuals, partnerships, voluntary associations and corporations.

Sec. 1 Permit required
All persons holding garage sales will be required to obtain a permit in compliance with the provisions set forth in this ordinance.

Sec. 2 Application for permit
Persons shall obtain a permit by applying at the City Clerk's office.

Sec. 3 Fees required
A permit fee, set by resolution of the City Council, shall be paid in full prior to issuance of the permit.

Sec. 4 Exemptions
The following persons and/or organizations shall not be required to obtain a permit as specified herein and shall not be required to pay the fees prescribed herein; any religious organizations; any locally recognized or affiliated non-profit educational, charitable or civic organizations; any other persons otherwise exempted by law. The City Clerk shall make the final determination regarding exemptions. Exempt persons or organizations shall be required to register their sale with the City Clerk for identification purposes.

Consumers asks respect for nature and property

Consumers Power Company shares thousands of acres of forest and river lands with the public and asks for only one thing in return — respect for nature and property.

"Consumers Power for years has allowed the public to use much of its river lands for hunting and fishing," said Vern Hatch, manager of Consumers Power's Northwest district. "All we ask is that people who use our river lands respect the property and stay out of areas that are marked 'no camping or trespassing.'"

The Jackson-based utility acquired some 100,000 acres early in this century along some of the most beautiful rivers on Michigan's lower peninsula, including the AuSable, Manistee and Muskegon rivers.

The land was purchased by Consumers Power for hydroelectric development. Over the years the company has planted more than 25 million trees to help protect the watersheds and has taken steps to encourage regrowth of the forests. The native white pines and hardwoods that had prevented erosion were harvested early in this century by timber companies before the company bought the land.

"Thanks to the company's reforestation efforts, these properties have become some of Michigan's prime wilderness and outdoor recreation areas," Hatch said. "Recently, thousands of acres have been sold to public agencies to develop camping sites and other recreation facilities. And the utility retains title to other acreage that has public parks and campsites on sites that are leased from Consumers Power Company."

More than 25,000 acres along the AuSable and Manistee rivers have been sold to the U.S. Forest Service since 1980. In addition, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources has leased and purchased thousands of additional acres.

Hatch says the company prohibits unauthorized camping on Consumers Power property. The major problems are the trash and unattended fires that campers sometimes leave behind.

"The trash is scattered by animals and the winds, and this tends to cause more dumping by other people. The fires produce obvious hazards to the forest."

Indiscriminate operation of four-wheel-drive vehicles, dune buggies, dirt bikes and motorcycles can cause serious soil erosion. Erosion can lead to siltation and degradation of the waterways; it can even threaten the stability of electric transmission towers and poles.

In some cases, particularly near the Great Lakes shorelines, careless use of off-road vehicles may threaten unique plant species, including some that are endangered.

Other people have illegally cut and removed trees and firewood on Consumers Power property.

"When we put restrictions on use of our land, we do it for good reason," Hatch said. "The problems we see on our river lands are the exception, not the rule," Hatch said. "Most people truly respect nature and wildlife. Consumers Power only is asking for that type of cooperation."

The company suggests that persons interested in finding recreation facilities along its AuSable, Manistee and Muskegon river lands contact the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) or the U.S. Forest Service for information and maps.

Areas near Consumers Power's hydroelectric generating plants as well as other selected areas are marked "no trespassing" so the public can avoid possible injury. In addition, the company does not permit the public to use its electric transmission rights-of-way for camping or off-road recreation vehicle use, except on designated trails that have been developed in cooperation with the DNR.

There are two reasons for this. One is the danger of erosion and the other, more significantly, is that the company often doesn't own the property but merely has an easement to use it for power lines.

Hatch adds: "We hope that people who use our property enjoy it. It's beautiful. We simply ask that people respect the property and camp only in areas provided for this purpose."

Hunter's choice and landowner limited deer applications available now

Application forms for Hunter's Choice (either sex deer) and Landowner Limited Hunter's Choice deer licenses for designated areas in Michigan are available now, report Michigan's Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Wildlife Division personnel.

DNR studies show Michigan's deer herd has increased, setting the stage for an outstanding hunt this fall. Over-winter deer losses were minimal and fawn recruitment excellent.

The number of Hunter's Choice licenses issued this fall will be determined by the Natural Resources Commission at their August 8, 9, meeting in Escanaba. Hunter's Choice applications and a guide diagramming available deer management areas may be obtained at any DNR District and Regional Office; DNR's Information Services Center, Box 30028, 7th floor Mason Building, Lansing; 48909 and through licensed dealers. Deadline for application is September 24.

Hunter's Choice licenses will be valid for use during the regular firearm season from November 15-30, and during the muzzle-loader firearm season, December 6-15.

A Hunter's Choice license and a valid firearm deer license allows a hunter to take a deer of either sex within the area/season specified on the license.

The Landowner Limited Hunter's Choice license and a valid firearm deer license authorizes the hunter to take a deer of either sex on their own lands, on adjoining private lands (with owner's permission), or on lands leased by the permit holder, lying within the area/season specified on the license.

Celebrity Charity Golf Classic on newly opened course at Shanty Creek

The WPBN-WTOM (TV 7&4)/Hilton Shanty Creek Celebrity Charity Golf Classic is just days away. This yearly event, to benefit Special Olympics, is slated for Monday, August 19. This will be the first year the event will be played on the newly opened course at Hilton Shanty Creek, designed by Arnold Palmer, known as The Legend.

At this date several commitments have been made by various golfing celebrities.

Among the list of confirmations are Fred McLeod, the sports director at WJBK-TV in Detroit; Ben Poquette, of the Cleveland Cavaliers; George Puscas, the sports editor of the Detroit Free Press; Bob Griffin, a former Michigan senator; former Detroit Tiger star Earl Wilson and Mickey Stanley; Detroit radio personality J.P. McCarthy; and Ron Streck, a PGA tour pro whose earnings have topped $100,000 already this year.

All golfers are welcome to participate in the Celebrity Charity Golf Classic. The registration date for entering has been extended to August 15. A $100 donation to Special Olympics is the required entry fee, which includes 18 holes of golf on The Legend with a golf cart, free refreshments and lunch during the day, a dinner banquet with entertainment, souvenirs, a golf clinic, and an embroidered golf shirt. Prizes will be awarded for a hole-in-one or closest to the pin, and the lowest score for playing all 18 holes of The Legend.

Registration forms may be obtained at any McDonald's restaurant in northwestern Michigan, the Hilton Shanty Creek Golf Pro Shop, or the WPBN-WTOM general offices located in Traverse City.

All golf enthusiasts are welcome to be a part of the gallery. The day begins at 11 a.m. with a golf clinic given by Ron Streck, followed with a shot-gun start at noon. This is an all-day event.

upcoming archery season. Many movies are scheduled including (Moose Lift '85) and a chronograph will be set up so bows can be tested for speed.

Refreshments will be provided by the Wolverine Conservation Club and the Wolverine Fire Department will sponsor a pig roast on Aug. 24, starting at 12 p.m.

Everyone is urged to attend to help the fire fighters.

Ron LaClair and Norm Blaker from Pottersville, Mich. will be back with their long-bows amazing everyone. Last year they shot an aspirin out of the air, truly an unbelievable feat. Norm will be also making some Indian arrow heads, an art that has long been forgotten.

Floyd Eccleston will have his broadhead collection on display. This display is one of the world's largest and contains over 1700 pieces dating back to the 1920s.

Take exit 301 to Wolverine and follow the signs. For more information contact Lee Dale, 616-525-8370. Come rain or shine.

Charlevoix's famous cookie baker a winner

Failed expectations sometimes result in great discoveries. For example, Ruth Wakefield once tried to make a chocolate-flavored cookie by dropping fragments of chocolate into her usual Butterdrop Dew batter. But, to her surprise, the Dew drops didn't melt, and the chocolate chip cookie was born.

Mrs. Wakefield's discovery in the kitchen of the Toll House Inn, in Whitman, Massachusetts, proved to be no small thing. Now, 55 years later, chocolate chippers are America's favorite cookie—enough are made and consumed each year (about a half-billion pounds) to lay a chip-studded bridge to the moon.

All of that is by way of introduction to 35 year old Tom Kneeland, a mild-mannered restaurateur, cook/baker and epicurean entrepreneur who has put Charlevoix, Michigan, on the cookie map with a bulging, oversized, sinfully-sweet concoction called Tom's Mom's Chocolate Chunk Cookie.

Tom's Mom's (named for a lady who, her son says, is a "good cook," but never made cookies) is no pedestrian pastry. For one thing, it is thicker (nearly two inches) and wider (about four inches in diameter) than your average cookie. What is more, it is loaded with chunks—not just itty-bitty chips—of Van Leer chocolate which is chunked by hand from 10-pound blocks.

On a good day—usually one on which the tourist traffic is heaviest in Charlevoix—Tom and his crew turn out as many as 10,000 cookies for the multitudes who stop by Tom's Cafe on Bridge Street. He used to bake them in the kitchen there, but the growing market demand—mostly from mail orders—necessitated a move to a new, larger bakery down the block and around the corner.

Sales-wise, Tom's Mom's rank somewhere between Famous Amos and Unknown Jerome, to name just two of the leading brands of gourmet chocolate chippers.

Taste-wise, however Tom's Mom's has few peers. People magazine recently conducted a taste-off to determine the best-of-the-best of the nation's chocolate chip cookies. Among the seven finalists were Mrs. Wakefield's Toll House brand, which, as we know, started the whole industry. Tom's Mom's came in third, behind Famous You-Know-Who and Mrs. Field's, a brand turned out by a 29-year-old homemaker in Park City, Utah, who bakes in a convection oven.

But the judges (who included Willard Scott, the television weatherman) were completely taken by Tom's Mom's

Pistachio-nut Chocolate Chunk and gave it first prize in the "fancy" division.

Chicago Jazz concert this Friday at Hidden Valley Resort, Gaylord

The outdoor jazz concert we've been trumpeting about will be performed at Hidden Valley Resort on the lawn at 7:30 p.m., this Friday evening. The pre-ticket sales indicate a very good turnout. James Dapogny's Chicago Jazz Band will have a repertoire that will really be a short course in jazz history spanning from 1900 to 1945. Traditional jazz includes ragtime to New Orleans jazz to robust Chicago jazz and swing. All members of the eight-piece group are professional musicians. James Dapogny, arranger and pianist, has a Doctor of Musical Arts degree and is a professor of music at the University of Michigan School of Music. He is also featured on the Smithsonian collection playing the works of Jelly Roll Morton. The manager of the group is Donna Zajonc from Ann Arbor.

John W. Churchill is chairman of this event, which is sponsored by the Gaylord Area Council for the Arts with support from the Michigan Council of the Arts.

The concert will be held Friday, August 16, 7:30 p.m. at Hidden Valley Resort, one-half mile from Gaylord on M-32 East.

Tickets are $5 general admission; children 12 years and under will be admitted free. Tickets may be purchased the evening of the concert at the outdoor theater. For more ticket information, call 517-732-5181.

KENNY LOGGINS

Castle Farms Music Hall will host Kenny Loggins Aug. 17

Kenny Loggins, the singer/songwriter whose music The New York Times has called "ecstatic...powerful...and...significant," will make a rare concert appearance at Castle Farms Music Hall on August 17th at Charlevoix. Loggins is one of the few artists who can mix steaming rock and roll, emotional ballads, and a warm stage presence that seems to draw him close to each member of his audience.

Kenny Loggins new album, Vox Humana, which features guest appearances by The Pointer Sisters, DeBarge, Philip Bailey and Shalamar's Howard Hewitt, is currently climbing the charts. But Vox Humana is by no means Loggins' first hit record. By now, the singer's career total number of hit singles is over 20 (22, to be precise). Kenny's "Footloose" single went number one and became one of the four biggest-selling songs of 1984.

As a result, Billboard named Loggins one of the top ten Male Pop Singles Artists of 1984. Loggins is a two-time Grammy winner, and was recently nominated for an Academy Award. His recognition spreads as far as Japan where he won the 1984 International Artists Award.

Kenny Loggins is as good in concert as he is on record. The Hollywood Reporter caught the spirit of a Loggins performance when it described a date on Kenny Loggins' last tour over two years ago: "he established an intimacy with concertgoers...(and his) energy built up to a steaming crescendo...causing the...onlookers to go wild."

Cherry County Playhouse Apprentice Showcase August 19

The Cherry County Playhouse is pleased to present the 1985 Apprentice Showcase on Monday, August 19, at 8:30 p.m.

The Playhouse began its Apprentice Program in 1955 when Ruth Bailey first opened the theatre in Traverse City, Michigan. The apprentices are chosen from numerous applications from across the country on the basis of education experience and initiative. Throughout the summer the apprentices learn from professional technicians and performers gaining practical knowledge in all areas of theatre. In addition they produce and perform the Cherry County Playhouse Children's Theatre Productions that play every Friday morning.

The Apprentice Showcase the first in the 30 year history of the Cherry County Playhouse will display the fine and varied talents of these young adults in stand-up comedy routines, original comedic sketches written by the apprentices, and in scenes from Beyond the Fringe and Good Morning. All of the performances will be mounted by the Apprentice Company including the technical aspects.

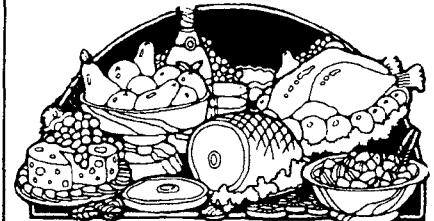

The Showcase will surely provide an exciting and entertaining evening for all in attendance and will be an excellent opportunity for the public to see fresh new talent on the stage at the Cherry County Playhouse.

There will be no admission charge for this presentation.

LesStrang named Great Lakes Man of Year

Author and Publisher Jacques LesStrang has been named Great Lakes Man of the Year by the eight Great Lakes states and the Canadian Provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

Functioning through the Great Lakes/St. Lawrence Maritime Forum, those governments recognized LesStrang's editorial and personal contributions to the region's maritime industry by identifying him as the first American to receive this bi-national honor. LesStrang, publisher of Seaway Review, the transportation business magazine of the Great Lakes/St. Lawrence region and the author of several books on the Great Lakes maritime industry, was also named "Maritime Writer of the Year" for 1985 by the American merchant marine industry at Portland, Oregon. That award was presented by the Propeller Club of the United States at its annual conference late last year.

The citation to LesStrang, which was presented in Toledo, Ohio, called him "a driving force in creating the awareness, both in North America and abroad, of the Great Lakes/St. Lawrence Seaway System, influencing decision makers and the public on matters relating to Great Lakes shipping while at the same time being one of the most widely quoted authors on maritime matters in North America."

The citation indicated that in 1980 he was chosen by the Ontario government "as the only American citizen to sit on Ontario's Great Lakes/Seaway Task Force chaired by Ralph Misener."

In Great Lakes maritime affairs, the citation stated, "where most are government officials or association executives, we sometimes forget that Jacques LesStrang is a private businessman, an independent entrepreneur who must make ends meet each month and each issue of his magazine. (Nonetheless) he freely shares his ideas, his information, and most important, his time to the benefit of the System."

"As the water of the Seaway flows steadily to the sea, the written words of Jacques LesStrang flow far past the borders of our two great countries and have been a marvelous modifier of opinion and outlook toward our mutual waterway."

"When Seaway folk heroes are created and ballads are written, if they are not from the hand of Jacques LesStrang, I am sure they will be from the thoughts and the words of this man who deserves to be known as 'the conscience of the Great Lakes'."

LesStrang is the author of Seaway,

Book-of-the-Month Club non-fiction selection, 1978, originally published by Superior Publishing Company, Seattle, as a Salisbury Press book. Seaway was subsequently re-leased in full-size soft-cover by Harbor House Publishers and is being reissued later this year.

He is also the author of Lake Carriers which was published as a slip-cased companion to Seaway also by Superior Publishing.

Lake Carriers was re-printed under the title Cargo Carriers by Crown Publishers and has since been reissued as a full-size soft-cover by Harbor House Publishers.

LesStrang has also authored many Congressional reports on Great Lakes matters and is frequently read into the Congressional Record. LesStrang has been published in sixteen languages on subjects of international marketing, government and transportation economics.

Seaway Review maintains offices in its own building at 221 Water Street, Boyne City, Michigan. LesStrang, a 1949 graduate of George Washington University and a 1951 University of Michigan graduate, maintains a residence on Harbor Island, Glen Arbor, Michigan.

"Mass Appeal" at Cherry Co. Playhouse Aug. 15-25

The Cherry County Playhouse continues its 'Star Season' when producers Neil Rosen and Pat Paulsen present Martin Milner in Mass Appeal, from August 15 through August 25, 1985.

Set in the ritual of the Catholic Church,

Mass Appeal, written by Bill C. Davis, deals not only with religious ideals and dogma, but also with the fresh approaches toward life that come from youth.

Father Tim Farley, played by Martin Milner, is portrayed as a priest from the 'old school' tormented by growing feelings of discontent which are enhanced by the radical views of the novice Mark Dolson, played by Scott Williamson. The elder priest tries to remain in line with his own teachings as he mediates between the Church and the novice, but finds himself torn between the two.

Written in dramatic style, Mass Appeal is at once a witty, often funny, a poignant discussion of humanity.

Surveys show duck numbers lowest in 30 years

The total breeding number of ducks this year is the lowest recorded during 31 years of surveys, and includes declines in all but one of the 10 duck species most important to waterfowl hunters, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service reports.

Mallard breeding populations reached an all-time low of 5.5 million in 1985, while the continental northern pintail population fell below 3 million for the first time in 31 years. Populations of other important species such as shoveler, gadwall, scaup, canvas back, redhead and wigeon also showed marked declines from last year. Only green-winged teal increased slightly over last year. Reports from key breeding areas in the U.S. and Canada indicate that the overall duck breeding population totalled just under 31 million this year, compared with 38 million last year.

The low duck nesting populations come at a time when many wetland basins, previously dry or at reduced levels as a result of several years of drought in the prairie pothole region of southern Canada, have benefited by spring run-off. Overall pond numbers during May in the southern parts of the prairie provinces of Canada increased significantly from last year, but extremely dry conditions still persist in some areas. In the U.S. prairie breeding areas, wetland numbers declined in the Dakotas over last year's improved conditions, while habitat in much of Montana remains poor. Breeding areas in northern Canada are generally good, with some exceptions in northwestern Alberta and northeastern British Columbia. Spring arrived very late in Alaska, where persistent snow and ice may significantly impact nesting waterfowl.

The information on duck numbers and habitat conditions comes from surveys conducted by teams of U.S. and Canadian biologists. The North American waterfowl survey is the most extensive wildlife census in the world. Each May, the biologists fly 38,000 miles of transects at low levels in small aircraft over major portions of the breeding grounds. In addition, other crews on the ground provide survey information to correct for the birds not seen from the air. The May surveys provide data on both the general conditions of nesting areas and the number of ducks and geese in these areas. In July, additional flights are made over some of the same areas to determine the number of duck broods produced. This information is used to forecast the anticipated fall population of ducks. The "fall flight forecast' is used by U.S. and Canadian federal, state, and provincial wildlife agencies in establishing annual hunting regulations.
