Windstorm sets emergency plan review

Boyer City found out a few things about their emergency procedures Monday night when a large tree blew down power lines leading to the Consumer substtion. The town was without power for about two hours.

But that was long enough to find out that when the power is off, some of the emergency equipment doesn't help out the way it should.

The generator, which is an old government surplus variety, kept kicking out as the relay system malfunctioned several times.

The generator was supposed to provide power to the police station for the communications systems.

City officials also found out that the new telephone system recently installed, also failed as it uses 110 volts to operate. With the power out, the phones went dead until a way was found to bypass the system.

One plan they did use was to send out firemen and police to drive around town to check on residences and businesses. That phase of the plan was working.

Actually the back-up systems of the police and fire departments have kept the control of the community in line, as the portable radio system was self contained.

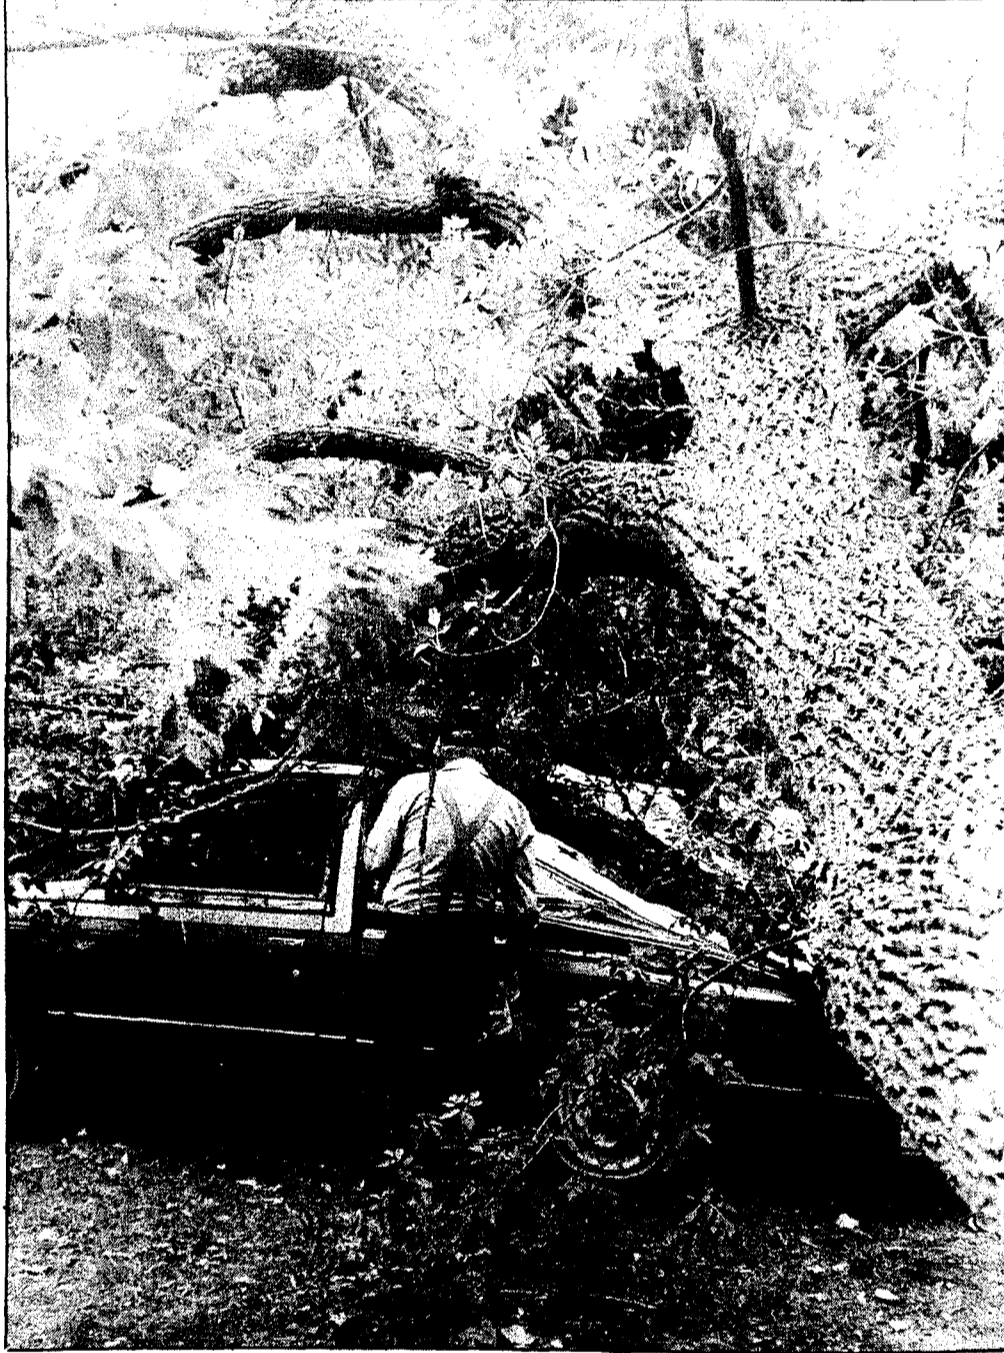

One of the concerns officials had was since the city water pumps were off, there was only a three hour supply of water in the reservoirs serving the city. Luckily the power was restarted to the town after a two hour delay to cut down the tree that had fallen on the lines.

Many other trees were blown down as a cold front passed through the area Monday. Consumers' officials said that power was out in many areas around the state during the blow.

The winds causing the outage were a sustained 30 mile-an-hour blow with gusts up to 50 on occasion.

After the outage was repaired, city officials started making plans to correct some of the problems so that the next time an emergency happens, the city will be prepared better than Monday night.

Chuck Kessler, 200 N. Park in Boyne City looks over what is left of his Datsun pick-up after a tree limb fell on it during Monday's windstorm. The storm also blew out the lights in the city for just over two hours Monday night. Kessler also lost the power to his house when the tree fell on the truck.

Boyer OKs insurance packages, and Top O' Michigan

Boyer City commissioners accepted the lowest rates for insurances Tuesday at their noon meeting and will now have to adjust the city budget to reflect the increased charges that the general liability program will cost the city.

The Michigan Municipal League Insurance Pool with the Meadowbrook Insurance Group was the low bidder for the city's package which includes the general liability coverages along with the errors and omissions, auto and fleet insurances for a cost of $82,373.

The amount of general insurance coverage was more than the city had originally budgeted for all of the city insurances.

The Workman's Compensation package was given to the R.A. Campbell Agency at a cost of $20,026.28. This figure reflects a lesser cost than last year's Workman's comp insurance due to the fine record that the city has earned over the years, according to Randy Frykberg, the city manager.

Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Company will be allowed to serve industrial facilities in the new air-industrial park within a few weeks, after the commissioners accepted the first reading of an ordinance that will allow the company to serve customers in the park.

The company requested that they be given a chance along with Consumers Power Company to make bids to the prospective companies coming into the park for their electrical use.

If the new ordinance is adopted, the final reading will be in about four weeks, then the companies will be able to decide which they want to serve them.

The ordinance will grant to the electric firm a revocable nonexclusive public utility franchise for the area of the park.

In other action at the Tuesday noon meeting, commissioner Bill Grimm asked to have the city officials look at a spring that is coming out on the road on Hull Street. He asked that the city try to do something with it prior to winter.

Commissioners also discussed the wind storm that knocked out power to the community for two hours and one minute. They said that it was the longest outage they could remember.

Closed session in EJ held concerning suit

A closed council session on pending litigation was the only major business at the East Jordan City Council meeting last week.

In other action, Councilman Al Joseph questioned a decision by the Planning and Zoning Commission that was to allow a new parking lot for the Presbyterian Church.

The question concerned a city ordinance that requires a 50 feet setback for new construction and whether this should apply to the parking lot being constructed in a residential district.

"It is kind of a gray area because it is in a residential area," Mayor Pat Sweet said.

The work was referred back to the building and ordinance commission to clarify and reconsider.

Council once again side-stepped the resort liquor license issue by tabling indefinitely an opportunity to respond to a letter from the Michigan Department of Commerce asking for comments on a request by the Trading Post Party Store for a take-out liquor license.

"We have to do the same thing we did with the other request," said Councilman Jim Black. "We have no choice now."

Although, at an earlier meeting, some of the councilmembers expressed a desire to ask the Department of Commerce to deny requests for additional liquor licenses to city establishments, the council has no authority to do so.

"We have no authority to reject this unless they are in violation," Sweet reminded the council.

Council was also informed that the state has requested an audit of the HUD-Rehab fund. This fund, which was established in 1978, has never been audited. The audit will be performed by Flory, Holly & Company. Council accepted a bid of $12,500 from Wilson-Mayhew for the installation of 3,800 feet of 10 inch water main transmitting from well number five running east to north along Griffin Road.

The work will be done this October, despite the fact that funds for the project have yet to arrive from the state. Public Works Superintendent Mike Dionne said the delay was caused by new forms.

Dionne also told council that the recent Supreme Court ruling on Garcia versus the City of San Antonio Mass Transit dealing with the federal wage fair standard should not affect East Jordan employees.

"All the information I've received indicates it shouldn't have any impact on the city," he said.

Council also heard a citizen's request to extend the hours of operation at the landfill site for one hour on a week day.

Although there was some disagreement as to whether the change should be made on the basis of one request, council agreed to ask the landfill operator to consider such an extension.

Attitude survey may mean changes in lake use

Replies to the Lake Charlevoix Attitude Survey are arriving daily at the Charlevoix County Planning department that may mean changes in lake uses.

The survey, conducted by the Planning Commission's Lake Charlevoix Advisory Committee is designed to measure property owners' feelings about water quality, uses and other aspects of Lake Charlevoix.

Nearly 3,000 survey forms were sent to land owners in communities that border on Lake Charlevoix. Over 1,000 completed surveys have been returned, according to Larry Thornton of the Planning Department. More surveys must be returned for the results to be statistically accurate.

Once the surveys are collected, the Northwest Michigan Council of Governments will compile and tabulate the statistics and make comparative statements.

Thornton said he hopes to have an initial report by October 10, with another one to two months needed for cross-analysis of the information.

A Lake Charlevoix management plan based on survey results and other information will be drafted early next year. Following public hearings on the draft plan, a final plan will be compiled.

Thornton said the Lake Charlevoix management plan will be an aid to local units of governments in making decisions on changes in their ordinances dealing with uses of the lake.

"It will give us some good directions in terms of policy for all units of government," he said.

The survey asked land owners their uses of Lake Charlevoix, their length of residency, what types of uses they would like and would not like to see on various areas of the lake, their opinion of the water quality and the facilities on Lake Charlevoix, and questions their opinion of local ordinances dealing with the lake.

Thornton added that the new lake management plan will help steer developers in suitable directions—both environmentally and according to the preferred land uses of land owners.

He also said the plan could mean better uniformity in regulations dealing with the lake among the local governments.

"A lot of people have been concerned about it," Thornton said. "Unless there is more uniformity, what one community does may be under-cut by what another community is doing."

Another aspect of the project, which will cost some $30,000, (including the salaries of existing county employees involved in the project) is the compiling of existing information on maps of the Lake Charlevoix watershed in two scales. A two inches to a mile map will be primarily for display purposes, while the one inch equals 1,000 feet scale will be a working size.

Both maps will include land use and cover soils, topography, fish habitat areas (especially spawning grounds) and other upland and water data.

The survey was mailed to property owners randomly selected using property tax rolls. The number of surveys sent to land owners in each municipality was based on the number of property owners in that community.

Follow up letter will be sent this week to those who have not replied to the survey. Thornton urged those who have been given the opportunity to respond to the questionnaire to please return it as soon as possible.

CARROTS

I have a compelling desire to know all about the history of our foods and my old National Geographics have given me this history of carrots. They have been grown in the Near East since time immemorial, and the ancient Greeks thought that they were beneficial to their health, though they might not have known the reason why. Greek physicians around the first century wrote of carrots as a stomach tonic. Now we know that the carrot is rich in carotene which produces vitamin A. "So eat your carrots, Jr. they are good for you and might even make your hair curl." We were told this as children.

Carrots are believed to have originated in Afghanistan or Asia Minor. Many distinct kinds have been developed. Ours is known as the Mediterranean type. European voyagers soon brought them to the new world as early as 1565 in the West Indies.

The following is a little history of my first experience in preparing something to eat. It goes way back almost as far as I can remember. We always played house in the empty corn crib every summer. It was an ideal place to play. It was empty of corn which was all used up during the winter months. Mother could keep an eye on the young children to see if everything was OK. We invented our own furniture and equipment. A bushel potato crate made a good chair, and a good sized board wedged between the outer boards at just the right height made an excellent table. A shingle or other small board made a shelf. There were always pieces of broken china around for our dishes. No plastic dishes then.

Of course we had to find food for our dinners. We could always depend on mulberries, a tree was next to the corn crib. They were bland in taste but we pretended to relish them. We could have apples (sometimes a little green) and I first learned to eat raw carrots in our playhouse. I believe that the following was my first attempt at creative cooking.

We were playing in a neighbors corn crib and trying to think of something to eat. A boy brought in an egg. Now, I knew that we were not allowed to take eggs, they were any mother's pin money and I had even heard of people shooting a dog when they discovered that it was eating neighbors' eggs. But our friend assured me that it was OK. So I beat up the egg in an old cracked bowl and mixed it with raspberries taken from their garden.

Please do not ever try to eat raw eggs and raspberries, the results will be disastrous; you might have a guilt feeling for the rest of your life. This has never been told before. It is best to stick to raw carrots! Of all of the various raw vegetables now served with dips, I like the carrots best.

One way to fix carrots raw is an old-time favorite with my family. Sometimes I think that we forget about those delicious oldies that are so simple and yet so good.

ORANGE AND CARROT SALAD
1 regular size pkg. orange gelatin
1 med. can crushed pineapple
1 1/2 to 2 cups shredded carrots

Dissolve gelatin in 1 cup hot water.

Drain pineapple, saving the juice into a 1 cup measure, fill cup with water and add to gelatin mixture, stirring well.

Chill until it starts to thicken. Add the drained pineapple and carrots. Pour into a mold and chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with lettuce or parsley.

Or pour mixture into a square pan to chill and serve in squares.

This is the way Barbara Bates, owner of "The Pippins" restaurant makes "Copper Pennies," a delicious relish to add to any meal.

Cooking

This is a large recipe and one could make just half of it, however it will keep in the refrigerator about one month. Give it at least 24 hours to blend.

4 quarts carrots, scraped and sliced

Cook 10 minutes.

4 green peppers, chopped

4 onions, chopped

Pour hot, drained carrots over peppers and onions.

Combine the following:

1 qt. of undiluted tomato soup

4 cups sugar

2 cups oil

2 cups vinegar

1 tab. salt

1 heaping tsp. pepper

1 tab. dry mustard

2 tabs. Worcestershire sauce

Boil together and pour over carrots. Keep in refrigerator.

This is the way we ate our carrots on the farm.

Cook carrots until tender. Mash with a potato masher. (They will be in little chunks.)

Pour rich milk or half and half over them. Season with butter, salt and pepper. Serve in sauce dishes.

I still relish them made this old-fashioned way.

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

Boy, does it get eerie around this town when the lights go off. I mean it gets dark. It sure brings out the fact that you take a certain amount of light for granted every day.

And the things that can happen during a power outage are also weird.

Like where do the words go when they go into alphabet heaven because the computer you are working with at the time of the power going off dies a slow death as you watch the screen fade into never-never land.

All I can say about it is that I will have to do all the work again. And, I was not alone. Henry Erber said he was working on his when the power did its thing. Makes you wonder, how many people in this area have their own computer at home?

But a power outage like the one Monday night can bring out some of the best of the community also.

Like almost all of the firemen came down to the fire station, just in case. Likewise the ambulance crews. And many of the city workers.

All expecting to have an emergency but hoping that there would be none.

Of course, having the only lights in the city, probably also gave them a reason to come downtown. They wanted to get out of the house to see for themselves what was going on.

Surprisingly, there is quite a bit of wanting to know what is going on in this town.

You would be surprised at the number of folks who volunteer for jobs just so they could be part of what is going on. By being part, they also are informed.

That may be one of the reasons for the volunteer fire departments being as good if not better than most full-time big city departments.

While the power was off for a couple of hours, you could see a certain amount of people rallying to the cause. Just in case they would be needed.

I'm glad I live in a community like that.

This, even with the wind storms, is one of my favorite seasons. You can see the vivid reds of the sumac, the just-starting-to-turn crimsons of the maples and the yellows of the aspen and poplar. What a time.

It's also the time for apples.

And this year, according to "an informed source," up to a billion pounds of apples will be plucked off the trees this year. Not counting the ones that the winds caused to fall to the ground. The crop is up 30 percent over last year, and when you combine the surplus with the winds, what you will get will be a lot of cider.

You see, quite a bit of cider seems to be made of windfallen apples. Not that there is anything bad about the apples, but with the bruises they get from falling out of the trees, the farmers can't sell them to the stores because the consumer wants to have a perfect apple.

So it's cider time for a lot of those that hit the dirt.

Cider is a unique stuff. One variety of apple doesn't make for a good cider, you have to mix several to get a distinct flavor.

I remember making many trips out to the apple farms during different stages of the season. The cider changed in flavor from the first of the season to the last as the cider developed more of a sweet taste because of the different varieties.

Which for us kids trying to make hard cider, also made for a hard time.

I think we tried a couple of hundred different ways to make hard cider over the years. We tried raisins, we tried extra sugar, we tried yeast, we tried everything we could think of to make our cider have some kick.

About the best we could do was to make a real tart taste as the cider was turning to apple cider because of our experiments.

Sometimes I can't believe that we drank the stuff. But we did, because "we were cool."

We were also crazy. Sometimes you wonder how you happened to live through your youth.

In the early 1880s the place to stay in East Jordan was the "Commercial House." It used to be located where the current Hite Drug store was back in the early sixties. Hotels were common back in those days as the salesmen of the era would set up shops to display their wares for the merchants of the community.

Marshall Sayles

Swearing never to tell a soul is the best way to get a secret all over town before lunch.

Some people in Lansing want to recognize the honey bee as our official state insect.

There were four billion bees in Michigan at last count, and for the good they do we should pat them on the back with official recognition.

That what they are saying in Lansing.

The robin is our state bird; the apple blossom is our state flower; the trout is our state fish; the white pine is our state tree and the Petoskey stone is our state stone.

But with all of our millions of flies, gnats, June bugs, wasps, hornets, bees and night moths, we have shamefully neglected naming any one of them as our very own insect. Hill ants have also been disgustingly ignored in the hallowed halls of the state legislature.

Of all the insects, the honey bee probably does the most good, pollinating our fruit and flowers and humming around the garden because it cannot sing. Occasionally a bee will sting you, merely to show who is boss around here. (There is another insect called the bumble bee that flies when science says he isn't supposed to. I'm glad the state has closed its eyes to this upstart.)

As a rule I detest most insects, but I do favor the honey bee—even though they sometimes forget what they are doing and pollinate the weeds in our field.

Therefore I shall place my seal of approval upon legislation naming the honey bee as Michigan's official insect. Only, however, if we can keep those other insects from knowing about it.

Now, this insect business put a bee in my bonnet. And as the result of a thorough search of all official documents back to the year two, I have discovered that Wilson Township (where I eat, sleep and repeat) does not boast an official anything. Not a bird, flower, fish, tree or stone.

And it is about time we did.

So I have taken leave to make the following suggestions for things the township should officially recognize, or legally call its own.

- Let me list them in the order of their importance:
- Township bird: Cow bird.
- Township flower: Canadian thistle.
- Township fish: an uneducated man—sometimes called a poor fish.
- Township tree: Sumac.

Township stone: Gravel.

Township insect: Wood tick.

Notice: Those who disagree with these official recognitions please be advised that I am not at home during the hours from Monday through Saturday.

Those living in Boyne City proper can stop snickering at what the township calls its very own. Next week I shall list those things Boyne City should call its own.

Not, however, before I have my telephone disconnected.

BY GAIL WARE

The fact that everyone likes to receive letters but few like to write them has created a correspondence imbalance that's been hanging around in society for a long time. It's a bad situation and it's getting worse. Among the few letter-writers that we have left, many are feeling over-worked and under-appreciated. Some are even abandoning the field to take up things like yoga or writing steamy romance novels. To help prevent letter-writing from becoming a lost art, I have a few ideas that could attract a whole new crowd to this activity.

We all know that the popularity of writing letters began to fall off with the coming of the telephone—although I must say I have trouble buying that it was quite as big in the olden days as we've been led to believe. In any case, the phone is an easier way to communicate. So we use it instead of the postal service. But this could change if we followed my suggestions for putting more ease and more oomph into writing letters.

One of the most often heard complaints about letter-writing is that it's hard to think of anything to say when faced with a blank sheet of paper. So let's not have the paper blank. Let's have stationery with shadowy pictures all over it. Puppies or dancing bears or earthworms would be good for children. For adults, pictures of politicians would be interesting. We could draw mustaches on those we don't approve of. This art work would stimulate us and get our writing juices flowin'.

Or, instead of shadowy pictures all over the paper, there could be a wide band of a favorite cartoon bordering the paper on all four sides. It could be wide enough to leave only a three inch square in the center of the paper. If we wrote big, there would be room for only one sentence on a page. An impressive ten-page letter would be a snap.

For those who can't think of what to say no matter what kind of jazzy stationery we give them, there could be a number of form letters available to fit a variety of lifestyles and circumstances. A "Fill in the blanks in the following sentences" kind of thing that would take little time or thought to complete. It's tacky, but it's better than nothing.

Then there could be a different kind of letter for those whose handwriting leaves readers whimpering and who can't type. Such a writer can correspond in pictures. Simple stick figures drawn with a pen will do, but pictures drawn with several different colored magic markers make a more exciting letter. If this idea caught on, it might set our culture back a bit, but nothing's perfect.

It's worthwhile to try to get letter-writing moving again not only for the value of the custom itself but because it would have healthy side effects. The stationery business and the postal service would boom creating an upsurge in the economy nationwide. When we look at it this way, writing letters seems almost like a patriotic duty.

Against smoking

Editor, According to the National Cancer Institute, 112,000 U.S. citizens will die of lung cancer this year as the direct result of smoking cigarettes.

And God only knows how much we'll have to shell out to make our garbage dumps acceptable as cigarette puffing bureaucrats test soils and ground water pollutants to tell us "we ain't safe."

The U.S. collects $4.7 billion in tobacco taxes.

But the medical quacks, undertakers, taxpayers, welfare workers, fire departments, convalescent homes, painters, dry cleaners, ash tray manufacturers, will churn up about $67 billion in debt, profit, and loss all because of smoking and chewing tobacco.

And ho-ho, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has budgeted $7.5 million to develop a "safe cigarette."

We're a bunch of funny people. We even provide smoking lounges in our schools at taxpayers' expense so our youngsters can grow up with a better image...and become part of the populace of more than 800,000 per year who join the ranks of cardiac cripples, victims of asthma, emphysema and various allergies.

Gruesomely funny, ain't it?

Boyer Superintendent Richard Kelly comments:

What is a Teacher Aide and what do they do?

How many teacher aides work for the school district? Are there teacher aides in each classroom in the elementary school? What does a teacher aide do?

These questions have been asked many times. We haven't answered them very well because they are still being asked. We have 21 teacher aides. Seventeen work at the elementary school, three work at the middle school and one works in the high school. Two work eight hours per day, nine work five hours per day, four work two hours per day and six work hours someplace in between.

Not all of the aides tutor students. For example four two hour aides actually work in the elementary cafeteria and on the playground.

The five aides who work in our special education classrooms work with students on an individual basis or in small groups. Each student in our special education classes in on an individualized program and the assistance of the aides under the direction of the teacher is invaluable.

We have nine aides involved in our Chapter I remedial language arts and mathematics program in the elementary school. Of these nine, one works part of the day in the kindergarten rooms. There is a separate room for the other Chapter I aides. Students who receive tutoring from these aides attend one-half hour per day. Under the direction of Mrs. Sherry Sheldon, the Chapter I Director, these people work with our students on an individual basis or in small groups.

This brief explanation doesn't answer all questions about teacher aides but you know how many teacher aides we have. You know teacher aides aren't in every room in the elementary school and you know a little about what a teacher aide does.

Most teacher aides spend all of their day in a direct educational relationship with the student. You are welcome to visit our schools and see how our teacher aides assist our children.

Alliance

Governor Blanchard proposed establishment of the Community Growth Alliance (CGA) program as a means of coordinating the efforts of local economic development agencies with the Michigan Department of Commerce. Lack of such coordination in the past has impeded local development efforts, the Governor noted at the time.

"The CGA's are playing an important role in our campaign to stimulate economic development by helping avoid unnecessary duplication of effort," Governor Blanchard said.

The Antrim-Charlevoix CGA is the 23rd to be established since the program got underway last year.

The designation makes the Antrim-Charlevoix CGA eligible for up to $125,000 in state funds. In addition, $5,000 in computer equipment for the CGA will be donated by the Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

Dick Beagle, coordinator for the Antrim-Charlevoix Business and Industry Taskforce, will serve as coordinator for the new CGA. The CGA will be headquartered in offices in the Boyne City City Hall.

Beagle said the new CGA will have three major components: a small business assistance center which will aid companies and entrepreneurs with technical advice and loan applications; an area development office which will list on computers all available commercial property in the area; and a local procurement service to help area firms obtain federal government contracts.

Annual battle of Boynes puts City on top in 53-45 grudge match

It always seems to happen, whenever Boyne City plays Boyne Falls in girls' basketball, you can look for one whale of a game. In last Tuesday's grudge game the Ramblers came up with a win over the Loggers 53-45 after leading 20-7 going into the second period.

The game opened with both teams showing press, the Ramblers all over the court, and the Loggers with point pressure on the ball. Thirty seconds had ticked off the clock when Collette Sparks hit the games first bucket for the Loggers. Colleen Toton broke the ice for the Ramblers on a fast break for a 2-2 tie.

With the action getting faster and faster, Boyne Falls took a 4-2 lead, but Lisa Caverly put up a nice shot off the glass to re-tie the score at 4-4 with 5:30 left in the period.

From that point on, the Rambler defense took control of the game, while rattling off a 16-2 scoring stretch on offense. Kelly Smith, Sue Bieganowski, Julie Montgomery, and Kerry Harvey piled up the points for the Ramblers in the scoring, with Harvey converting offensive rebounds to points twice.

In the second quarter the Loggers got more aggressive and began to close the margin with hoops from Dianne Massey and Sandy Towne. Sparks scored on an assist from Pam Grubaugh to give the Loggers 12 points, and Towne hit again to bring Boyne Falls closer.

With the Ramblers getting just 7 points in the period, Grubaugh closed the half's scoring with a bucket that came from a break to pull the Ramblers within two points.

After halftime, the Ramblers got their fast break going, this time from Caverly to Montgomery, but a Logger press got quick scores from the hands of Renee Reynolds on four steals that she turned into Logger points. This set up a close game that included some brief ties, but near the end of the period the Ramblers went cold and the Loggers took a 35-37 lead into the final quarter.

Towne opened the period's action with a pair of buckets from way outside and the Loggers led 41-35, but Harvey got rolling with a defensive steal and offensive rebound to pull the Ramblers within two points.

With 6:50 left to play Linda Bieganowski sank a pair of charity tosses that brought a 41-41 score and stole the ball on the Rambler press for a lay-up and Rambler lead.

After that, it was all Boyne City as the Loggers experienced a rash of missed free throws and the Ramblers went ahead 49-43.

In the two minute stretch the Ramblers stalled some, holding a five point lead and the Loggers were forced to commit fouls in an attempt to get the ball, but only fell further behind as the Ramblers sank their free throws one at a time to win.

High scorer in the game was Montgomery with 19 points. Other Ramblers in the scoring included Linda Bieganowski with 9, Harvey with 8, Sue Bieganowski with 6, Caverly had 4, while Jill Harris, Toton, and Kelly Smith had 2 points each, and Karen DeSchryver added a free throw.

For the Loggers Reynolds scored 15 points, Sparks totaled 10, Towne sank 9, Grubaugh had 6, Lisa Topolinski was good for 4, and Massey had a free throw.

In the early game the Ramblers won 27-14 with their press being the major factor of the game. Boyne Falls put a press on also, but the Ramblers continuously dumped passes over the Logger pressure to get downcourt.

Boyne City took a 10-2 margin in period one and led 17-4 at the half. The Ramblers led 27-8 going into the final period.

Amy Weeks and Maybeth Archembardt led all scorers with 6

Logger Dianne Massey [21] got a fast break against the Ramblers, but speedster Julie Montgomery gets the cut-off before Massey can score. The Loggers made a good come-back run at the Ramblers, but fell short in the final stages of the game with foul trouble.

points each, while Marci Center scored five points for the Ramblers. Peggy Johncheck and Lacinda Tompkins had 4 points each, and Tysh Crozier added 2 points.

For the Loggers Claudine Crego came on strong in the later stages of the game to score 5 points, Kelly Payton had 4, Nikki Kerridge and Linda Koeman had 2 points each, and Linda Dawson added a free throw.

Boyerne drawn and quartered by Saints 88-0

BY JERRY FROATS

In their first home game of the season, on a new field, with new lights, the Boyne City Ramblers were nearly run off their own field by the number one state ranked Class C team, the St. Ignace Saints 88-0.

The Saints were relentless in their attack of the Rambler goal all night as they scored each time they had possession of the ball, never punting once. St. Ignace scored 12 times down the field, four times from inside the Rambler 10, five times passing, and once on the second half kick-off for an 80 yard run.

The Rambler offense came up with two first down conversions all night, one of which was made up on a Saints' penalty. Loss of yardage on penalties was one of the Ramblers' biggest set backs as they came up with third and short yardage to go, but always seemed to be going backwards after the yellow flags flew.

The Ramblers received kick-offs 13 times and began each series around their own 35 yard line consistently. Boyne City did advance the ball towards the Saints goal line late in the first quarter to the 24, but were intercepted and the Saints chalked up a 76 yard runback for paydirt.

The Ramblers had two punts blocked by the Saints who took advantage of the good field position and quickly put the ball into the endzone each time. By the end of the first quarter the Saints had scored 30 points.

In the second quarter the Saints only scored two touchdowns, once running it in from the Rambler eight, and once passing from the 35 into the endzone.

The Rambler second period included a punt from their own 27, an interception, and relinquished possession after coming up one foot short of a first down at the St. Ignace 45.

After halftime the Saints promptly took the kick-off for their 80 yard TD run, and followed up with TD passes from the Boyne City 5 and 16 yard lines. The Saints final TD of the quarter came after Boyne fumbled the ball away on a kick-off return.

Boyerne's offense fumbled once more in the quarter, on their first possession on their own 43. A quick kick in the period went from deep in Rambler territory to the Saints 32, but it too turned into a Saints' TD.

In the fourth period Boyne had the ball three times. They turned it over on downs at their own 41, punted from the 34, and had time expire at the end of the game. The Saints scored twice in the quarter, once from the 4 and again from the 5.

Next week the Ramblers play in Charlevoix against the Rayders who lost Friday night 26-27 against the Rogers City Hurons. The Rayders have quite a passing attack with the hand of quarterback Marc Himebauch.

The Rayders talented running back Matt Lignell was injured in the game and will be out of action against the Ramblers. Lignell had run for 235 yards in two games this year. Charlevoix's record now stands at 1-2.

With the Saints' defense in hot pursuit, Rambler quarterback Dan McGeorge and Brandon Billings break to the left and look upfield for possible running room.

East Jordan Red Devil Ted Snowden was nailed on this play and brought to the ground by the Bulldogs. Snowden rushed for 70 yards in the first half, scoring the Devils' first TD on a 28 yard gallop to the goal.

Red Devils lose squeaker in final seconds

BY STEVE GEE

The East Jordan Red Devils (1-2) lost a heartbreaker, 22-21, in their first conference game of the season last Friday. The Inland Lakes Bulldogs scored the winning touchdown when an East Jordan penalty with no time left gave the Bulldogs one more opportunity.

As in the previous two games, the Devils have been hurt by costly penalties. They racked up 68 yards on eight penalties. However, the Devils did manage to hang onto the ball a little better. The Devils fumbled the ball a total of 12 times in the first two games, but only fumbled twice (losing one) on Friday.

The Bulldogs picked apart East Jordan's defense by rushing and passing for big gains all night. Inland Lakes got on the scoreboard first on a four yard run which was set up by a 46 yard pass completion. The Devils were held scoreless in the first quarter and trailed 8-0 at its end.

East Jordan scored early in the second stanza when Ted Snowden ran 28 yards for paydirt. The Devils set up to kick the extra point, but caught the Bulldogs napping when holder Greg Kitson pulled away and fired a bullet to Aaron Spence for the two point conversion.

Inland Lakes moved the ball down inside the East Jordan 20 on their next possession. But when the Bulldogs tried to pitch the ball, it ended up in the hands of Devil Mike Goebel who ran it 86 yards for East Jordan's second score of the quarter. Dave Russell kicked the extra point and put the Devils up 15-8.

The Devils almost broke it wide open when Jim Raymond caught a deflected pass for an apparent 35 yard touchdown reception. The play was nullified by a penalty and the Devils had to settle for a 15-8 halftime lead.

East Jordan fumbled the ball at their own 30 yard line on the second play of the half, but Inland Lakes were unable to take advantage of it. But on their next possession, they traveled 90 yards and scored on a 43 yard touchdown run. At the end of the third quarter, Inland Lakes held a 16-15 lead.

East Jordan took the lead again on a four yard run by Russell. They again attempted the fake extra point kick, but Kitson's pass to Spence was incomplete. The Devils held a 21-16 lead with less than five minutes to play.

It looked as though the Devils would seal the victory when Goebel recovered a fumble on the Inland Lakes 28 yard line. The Devils were not able to convert on third down, but Snowden booted an excellent punt to the Bulldog four yard line. The Bulldogs had 2:14 to travel 96 yards.

The Devils had them fourth down and ten, but were unable to hold them. Inland Lakes passed their way inside the EJ ten. In what appeared to be the last play of the game, and Inland Lakes pass fell incomplete in the endzone. But East Jordan had a pass interference penalty called against them and a game cannot end on a defensive penalty. So with no time left, the Bulldogs ran three yards for the winning touchdown. The final score found the Bulldogs on top 22-21.

Snowden led the rushing for East Jordan with 71 yards (70 of which came in the first half). Quarterback Bill Lytle carried the ball for 34 yards, Russell totaled 18, Steve Dionne managed only six, and Darren Graham added three yards.

Lytle completed five of 14 passes for 58 yards with his main target being Goebel who caught three passes for 46 yards. Kitson completed one of two passes and Snowden was unsuccessful in his only pass attempt. Raymond, Spence, and Snowden each had one pass reception.

Defensively for the Devils, Jeff Gee led the team with 11 tackles. Other leading tacklers were Russell with 10, Dale Schroeder with nine, Dionne and Graham with eight, Spence with six, and Bill Kraemer and Shannon Olstrom each had four.

East Jordan's junior varsity team was defeated by Inland Lakes 24-0.

The Red Devils will try to get back on the winning track next Friday when they travel to Bellaire to take on the Eagles.

Ej gardeners learn about herbs

Members of the East Jordan Garden Club received instructions on the use of flowers, herbs and spices in making potpourri. Mary Lee Huber, owner of Wintergreen Herb Gardens of Charlevoix, arrived at the meeting carrying jars of dried petals and flowers used to make sachets. Mrs. Huber, who has degrees in Anthropology and Dancing became interested in gardening and what was a hobby developed into a fascinating business. She told the members how she dried and mixed petals, herbs and spices using oils, fragrances and fixatives. There are mixtures which will repel moths and freshen a vacuum cleaner. Mrs. Bret Riley hosted a small luncheon in her home. Refreshments were served by Alice Nesman and Jane Bowen. Pearl Sinclair and Emily Coward poured for the hostesses. Members are reminded to sign up for the Michigan Federation of Garden Clubs Dist. V meeting on Oct. 7th.

Health Center announces pediatrician addition to staff

An open house was held on Tuesday, Sept. 24 at the East Jordan Family Health Center to show the public the newly expanded building. The expansion project includes a more spacious waiting room, a reception and cashier area, a business office, physician offices, and renovated exam rooms on the upper floor.

Additional renovation to existing areas will be carried out throughout the next few months.

In the lower level the new area includes storage space, an enlarged community room, and a room which houses the district office of Michigan Academy of Dentistry for the Handicapped.

The open house was followed by the annual meeting. Elections for new officers were held, Sara Banks, co-director of Michigan Primary Care Association, addresssed the public on the future of community health centers in Michigan.

An announcement was made by President Walter Goebel, Sr. that the health center has hired a pediatrician, Roderic Tinney, M.D. Doctor Tinney is completing his term as chief resident in pediatrics at University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor. He will be joining the East Jordan Family Health Center staff in July of 1986.

Before becoming chief resident, Dr. Tinney completed a three year pediatric residency. Prior to that he received his medical doctorate degree from University of Vermont. Dr. Tinney, his wife Patricia, and their two children plan to reside in the East Jordan area.
