Parent-Teachers conferences will be held at Boyne City schools Monday, Nov. 18 from 5:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. Because the teachers say they need the time to prepare, students at the school will be dismissed at the end of the morning sessions.

Almost all electric utility companies are offering a $500 reward to those who provide information that leads to the arrest and conviction of persons who were shooting at insulators and other distribution equipment. Every deer hunting season it seems that someone, whether they are bored or something else, take target practice at powerline insulators. The outages that can occur at extra expense to energy bills as well as cause life threatening conditions for those who have to work to repair the insulators and those who have life-support equipment in their home.

The first reported and confirmed case of rabies was found in a skunk that, in turn, bit a dog in Boyne Valley Township since 1967, was reported by the District Health Department. The skunk was examined by state authorities. While this isolated incident is not an outbreak, citizens are being warned not to have contact with stray or wild animals and should have their pets vaccinated against the disease.

Those wanting information on how to help control against shoreline erosion because of the high water levels on the Great Lakes can receive a booklet from the Michigan Seas Grant officials called "Shoreline Erosion: Questions and Answers", to help them decide which methods may work to protect their shoreline. Call the Traverse City office at 1-941-2256 for more information.

Committee saved by community action

With one of the largest crowds ever to see and hear a Boyne City school board meeting, the differences between the board, the committee that oversees the Human Growth and Development Committee, and interested parents, may have been resolved with the passage of a resolution to have the committee come back to the school board next month with a new committee set-up featuring staggered terms and a few other details worked out.

The motion, recommended by Superintendent Rich Kelly, was heard by over 300 interested parents, teachers and students.

While not passed, the board acceded to the wishes of the crowd and by not passing a motion they had considered, allowed the committee to stand as they are presently.

Last month, the school board had asked the committee and the school administrators to have the Human Growth and Development Committee disbanded because the board felt they had lost control over a committee designed to serve the wishes of the school board.

The third item on a long agenda was started by board member Richard May stating a position of the board and trying to explain the issues that were concerned.

Among the points made by May were a request to have the school principals bring to the board a detailed outline of the sex ed program, a lack of communication between the board and the rumors as to what the issues were, and implementation of programs for the eighth grade students without proper notification to the parents, and developing for use a curriculum that was not brought in front of the school board for approval.

May stated that since the school board had the responsibility for the education of the students, a lot of questions were left, in the board's mind, unanswered.

Since the questions were unanswered, the board felt that the committee should have the answers to many of the questions of the school board.

Other important issues, according to May, included the time of the committee meetings, the guidelines for the committee structure, who appointed and what was the length of service.

According to the members of the public in the audience, while those were concerns, they were not necessarily the issues at all.

The public felt that the school board was trying to stop the program in its entirety and name members to the committee who may become yesmen to the board.

May cited a lack of communication between the parents and the school board as to what the board wanted to accomplish by their actions of a month ago. He also reminded the press coverage saying it was the cause of many rumors going on in the city.

With the closing remarks he turned the meeting floor to Thelma Behling, head of the Human Growth and Development committee.

Behling started off by saying she felt that this was a command performance and the board showed a lack of respect for the hard work the committee had put in over the years. "...I feel the school board should make an apology to the members of this committee. They don't need to spend the time if they get a slap in the face," she said to the board.

Then she started to answer some of the questions May had raised, point by point.

The reason for the meeting time, she said, was that many of the other members of the committee could not meet at any other time. They could not find a time when the doctor, the priest, the minister and others could meet other than the time voted upon by the committee.

"We have been meeting at the same time for the last three years," she told board members.

Behling then said that she would not join a club and then ask for the club of many members to change the time for club meetings just because they couldn't make them.

She continued telling the board that the committee was set up based on state guidelines, following the direction the school board had set for the committee to be an advisory group to the professional study committee. The school board had approved letting the professional study committee take the authority of determining the program and naming the members to the advisory committee.

When three board members were named to the group, and they did not like the program that was being developed, they axed the program. Behling felt that the entire committee should have been allowed to vote on it.

She then told the board that the curriculum for the grade school had not been worked on for the past two years, and the committee had no plans to work on the grade school curriculum this year. This was another concern of the school board and some of its members.

Then Behling digressed telling the audience as well as the board about the time she and her husband spent during the war years fighting Hitler and how she determined, after the war that she would never again let a fanatic scream and yell at her. She then proceeded to reprimand Board President Phil Bowman, saying that after 32 years of school service as a school nurse, Bowman had said at another meeting, he could trust me with $5 but not with kids.

She told the audience that she has seen too many teen-age pregnancies because of a lack of sex education. "I believe that there is not a lack of communication, but a lack of understanding," she continued, adding that a group of three is not a quorum. She also stated that Bowman said he would get off the school board when Behling gets off the committee.

Perhaps the largest crowd ever to attend a Boyne City School Board meeting took seats in the bleachers of the high school after it was determined that no more would be able to be seated in the school's media center. The estimates of the crowd ranged as high as 500. The large turnout was anticipated by school officials, but they expected somewhat less.

Coaching problems now under study

The other main event at Monday's Boyne City school board meeting saw the community of Boyne turned out en masse to voice their opinion on the present football program, pro and con.

Cindy Johncheck, a concerned Rambler fan presented a history of Rambler football season records from the years 1974 to 1985, the years that McCullough has held a coaching position in Boyne. The accumulation of wins and losses totaled out to a 21 win-71 loss record. Five of those seasons were winless years with 1975 and 1980 being the best seasons with 4-3 and 5-2 records respectively. Johncheck also commented that Boyne has become one of the smallest schools in the conference and opened the floor for comments.

More than one issue was commented on that included questions of fault, the first dealing with the coaching problem. The second question raised was a thought that Boyne should join another league. The third statement entailed the community's attitude about the football program and became one of the hottest issues on the football program.

In answer to the coaching question, Dale Reinhardt spoke from the audience saying that he thought coach McCullough was a fine football coach and person and backed McCullough as the coach. Reinhardt was immediately rebutted by Dave Williamson who stated that the Rambler football curriculum does not have a designated play book and lacks for organization entirely. Williamson thought that McCullough was a fine individual personally, but concluded that perhaps McCullough was over-qualified for high school coaching and perhaps would be a better college coach.

A past football player for the Ramblers stood up and voiced his opinion that when he played the team could have finished the season with a better record had they been coached by someone else. The 300-plus member audience applauded the alumni member's statements.

As for the second question raised to the board about joining another league, Rick Casper informed the audience that Boyne athletic director John McGeorge and himself had approached the Ski Valley Conference last year asking for admittance to their league and were refused entry on the grounds that the smaller schools in Ski Valley were opposed to the idea on the grounds that if Boyne were admitted, Ski Valley schools would put themselves in Boyne's present position, and that idea was unacceptable. Casper offered one more alternative that Boyne go independent, but no support for the suggestion was voiced. Audience members stated that joining another league was a cop-out, and added that competition against smaller schools would not qualify a winning Rambler team for state play-off berths.

Community attitude was

Have you seen a nervous Episcopalian in your Boyne City Neighborhood

That may sound like a silly question, but come Saturday, November 16th, you will probably see one.

We your brothers and sisters in Emmanuel Episcopal Church of Petoskey send you greetings in Jesus' name. We certainly do not wish to intrude on you, your family, or your beliefs; but this message is to let you know that a group of nervous Episcopalsians from our parish will be conducting a door-to-door religious census in Boyne City on Saturday, November 16th.

One question will be asked of each household: "Are there any baptized Episcopalsians or anyone interested in the Episcopal Church living here?"

We are doing this as a first step to providing Episcopal services in Boyne City. We most certainly do not wish to be "sheep stealers" or even appear to be that kind. We are simply looking for Episcopalsians and any unchurched folks who might be interested in our denomination.

Please pray for us as we make our calls and as we seek to follow God's will in our lives. If you have any questions or comments, please feel free to call. Our church number in Petoskey is 347-2350.

Behling told the audience there was no way she would get off the committee after so many years of service to the community.

Behling then told the school board that the goal of the Human Growth and Development Committee this year is to develop a curriculum for the ninth grade.

She also said that the committee and the parents in the audience wanted the continuation of the "Say No" program that was started in the seventh grade last year.

She told the board that the committee had voted nine yes, one abstention and one no, to continue the program.

The program was stopped in the school by members of the board last week.

Behling read to the board the 10 concepts the committee had worked up in the teaching of the program, reviewing each one for the board.

Behling was interrupted several times by applause and cheers from the audience as she answered the board's questions one by one.

At that point, Superintendent Kelly offered a resolution to the board asking them to pass a resolution on the "Say No" program as the previous board had not done so.

After seven or eight petitions were presented to the board each with 30 to 100 signatures, board Secretary Bea Reinhart made a motion to keep the "Say No" program as it was last year.

In the discussion of the motion, May asked where it should be taught, in the seventh grade or the eighth. The seventh heard the program the previous year.

Jack Cyr, the middle school principal, said that the program was wanted for the eighth grade again as well as the seventh grade.

The motion passed unanimously. Kelly then asked for another resolution concerning the eighth grade having the curriculum developed by the Human Growth and Development Committee then turned over to the Professional Studies Committee for review and input, and finally to the school board for approval. None of the board members responded to that resolution.

When asked by former school board member Ricky Pethers if the present members of the committee can stay the same, May pointed out that the school board had the authority to appoint committee members. Behling said that the original committee was appointed by the professional study group after getting the authority from the school board.

Kelly told the audience the school board had the authority, according to the board's attorneys in Lansing.

Also from the audience, Jim Everest asked if the committee is dissolved, the state law that sets up programs like this also says that all human development programs would have to cease until the new committee establishes new guidelines and criteria.

At this point, May said that all the board wanted to know from the beginning was what was happening within the program.

A person from the audience then asked if the question was really about the program as it presently is covered or was it a vendetta between the school board president and a respected lady of the community?

May then proceeded to make a motion trying to establish the criteria for a new committee. He suggested that it have a maximum of 16 members with a supervisor and no more than two from different parts of the community.

Fred Rice, the head of the professional studies committee told May the guidelines were established in 1980 and he was trying to make up a committee that the school board could railroad onto it anyone who may agree with their values.

Kelly, trying to maintain control of the meeting, then suggested that the best interests of the board and the committee would be not to change the makeup of the committee and to approve the same committee to work until the end of the school year.

After some more discussion and an amendment or two to the original motion, Gen Varnum told the board that they should put the motion into effect in the 1986-87 school year. She told the board that the parents want the same committee as it is now.

This was supported by Behling telling the board that the citizens and parents wanted the status quo as they are satisfied with the way the committee is functioning.

After Glowinski rescinded his second, May withdrew the motion.

Kelly then asked the committee to come back to the board at the next meeting with a new committee set-up with staggered terms as suggested by May's motion. This was then made into a motion and passed.

Micki Bennett, a student at the high school and a teacher of the "Say No" program then asked the board to make an apology to Behling, but Behling cut her off saying that the apology from the board go to the committee as a whole and not to just her as she is a member of the school system and is paid for the work she does.

No apology was offered by the board.

At the end of the board meeting, a letter was read by Gary Graye asking for board president Bowman to resign. Graye cited several statements made by Bowman at an afternoon meeting in the middle school on Oct. 18. He said Bowman's statements reek of censorship and correspond with several other incidents in history.

Graye also told the board since Bowman and his wife teach their children at home, he obviously does not feel that the community school reflects Bowman's values and beliefs and does not suit his needs.

Graye went on to say that he feels Bowman is on the board to see that the school changes to reflect Bowman's beliefs by the imposition of his standards.

In other action, the board took under advisement the replacing of the high school football coach. The matter was turned over to the athletic committee. See related story elsewhere in the paper.

They approved the spending of $45,288 for an energy management system for the high school accepting the low bid from Johnson Controls. According to Bill Coberly, from the engineering consulting firm, he expected the bids to be higher.

Coberly also updated the board on the construction projects within the schools to make them more energy efficient. He also told the board of the building improvements scheduled to be done during the holiday periods.

Boyer City Manager Randy Frykberg explained the new Tax Increment Financing plan to the board as the school system will not be receiving any tax monies from the new businesses coming into town until the costs of utilities to provide service to the new industries are paid for.

The board also approved coaches for the varsity baseball teams. Bob Wollenberg was named the boys' baseball coach, while Shelly Martin was named the girls' softball coach. Other coaching assignments were given to Kerry Kruzel as the seventh grade basketball coach, Dorine Britton as the girls' sixth grade basketball coach and Darla Evans as the middle school cheerleading coach.

The board also approved a motion saying the board intends to collect summer taxes again, appointing Kelly to negotiate with the cities and townships for reasonable collection fees.

They also set the price of the recently completed Building Trades house on Alice Street at $54,000 based on the two appraisals the board wanted.

The board then approved pay raises for the administrators. Principals Jay Cyr, Ed Snyder, Sherry Sheldon, along with Superintendent Kelly, received a four percent raise in base pay. Shelly Martin was given a 15.3 percent pay raise as she was given more responsibilities. All have two year contracts starting with the 1985-86 school year.

BC women attend health coverage follow-up in TC

Medicare counselors and senior center directors met Oct. 24 at the Park Place in Traverse City for a follow-up session on counseling seniors regarding their health coverage.

Rosella Neumann spoke to the group on Peer Review Organization (PRO) and Diagnostic Related Groups (DRG). I.D.'s, toll free telephone numbers, appeal forms, education of clients and publicity are areas that need further attention and action.

Jackie VanAllsburg, service representative, and Celeste Chimner, field representative, social security office were present at the meeting. They were surprised to learn of the involvement of the counselors—not just knowing the basics but aware of the changes and informing clients of them.

AAA director, Ron Crummel gave an overview of the Medicare Counseling Program. He expects to recruit more counselors in the 10 county region to be active in the counties not presently covered. Another training program will be planned toward that end.

Charlevoix County counselors attending the meeting were Camille Green of Charlevoix, Marion Jones, Leone Richardson and Marie Zoberski, all of Boyne City.

CHOCOLATE

Give Me Today's meat Yesterday's bread Last Year's cider.

The above plaque was the first thing I noted when I entered Betty Schlink's beautiful kitchen. Betty had just moved into a lovely apartment in Fresno, California when her sister-in-law Maxine and I visited her. Betty served us this chocolate dish which she made in the microwave. It had the same light and moist texture that is found in the old familiar lemon pudding-cake.

CHOCOLATE PUDDING-CAKE (Microwave)

- 2 cups water
- 1 cup unsifted flour
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup nuts, chopped (can do without)
- 2 tablespoons cocoa
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 tablespoons oil
- 1/2 cup milk
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup cocoa

Measure the 2 cups of water in a 4 cup measure and place in microwave to boil. (about 4 minutes)

In a 2 1/2 qt. casserole combine flour, sugar, nuts, cocoa, baking powder and salt. Add vanilla, oil and milk and mix well. Spread evenly in dish. Combine sugar and cocoa. Sprinkle over top of cake batter.

Pour boiling water over all.

Cook uncovered 9 minutes or until cake is no longer doughy. Serve with ice cream or whipped cream.

How Americans love these chocolate desserts. My library research into chocolate gave me this information. The cacao is an evergreen tree which grows to about 25 feet high. The seeds or beans come from large 8" melon-like pods. The seeds or beans are the size of a lima bean. The people of Central America and Mexico in old times used these beans as money. Historians do not know how long the Maya Indians of Central America and the Aztecs of Mexico cultivated the cacao bean; definitely before Columbus. Then in 1528 Cortes, the conquerer of Mexico took cacao beans to Spain. By 1606 they were introduced to Italy then spread to other countries of Europe and England where by 1700 was most likely the most popular beverage in London.

Now it is cultivated in Central and South America, East and West Indies and West Africa. Chocolate manufacturers blend the beans for size and color desired, and process them by cleaning, roasting, hulling, blending and grinding to make chocolate liqueur from which all chocolate products are made. Chocolate has a high concentration of energy producing compounds and is used for quick energy for soldiers, athletes, and explorers. So give the kids their favorite chocolate pudding; it's just what they need!

Now, if you want something really elegant, you can make chocolate truffles. This candy-like dessert is served in some of our "posh" restaurants on a lace doily with that after dinner cup of coffee. They are so easy to make; no cooking or baking and your family and guests will feel really pampered.

Do not confuse them with the real truffles in old time recipes which are fleshy underground fungi, regarded as a choice table delicacy sometimes called the "earthnut". Truffle is a French word for tuber.

CHOCOLATE TRUFFLES

- 1 - 12 oz. package semisweet chocolate chips
- 3/4 cup or one can sweetened condensed milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup cocoa
- 1-Melt chocolate chips in double boiler. Stir in milk, vanilla and salt.
- 2-Refrigerate mixture about 45 minutes or until easy to shape.
- 3-With buttered hands, shape into 1-inch balls. Roll in cocoa. Refrigerate.

From "Cooking by Touch" P.S. Instead of using the double boiler, I melted the chips in a 2 qt. casserole in the microwave on high for about 4 minutes, stirring twice.

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

She was only a little girl. A little girl who kept saying "I don't know." Not that she didn't know, but it seemed that whenever someone asked her something, that is what she replied.

"I don't know."

She was growing up in the area, going to school every day and helping, at least a little, her mother and father on the weekends. But when you asked her what she was doing in school and what she learned last week...

"I don't know."

The vocabulary of the common man is increasing every day. Especially with politicians who are using the word "basically" far too much.

One of these days I am going to join a club especially for misused and overused words that is based at Lake Superior State and headed by Bill Rabe.

I could add a few to their list of words banned from the English language. "I don't know" would be one I could sent up to them.

"Basically" would be another.

Anyhow, the little girl finally grew up to adulthood, still saying those now infamous words, "I don't know."

When she went to find a job, the person interviewing her always would get the "I don't know" for answers to the questions.

Needless to say, the little-girl-who-grew-up did not get the jobs.

When she was asked why, as she had all the right credentials, she answered, "I don't know."

Perhaps the moral of the story is that at some point in one's life, the person had better know something or at least be able to know when to keep the mouth closed and look for the answer.

For those who have already gone to Florida and other parts south, the local weather up here last weekend was a snowy one. We received about 4 to 6 inches of snow. Just after you left for the trip down.

The snow will be making the deer hunters happy if it stays around, or some more fresh stuff falls, but can be making things difficult for those in the snow plowing business.

They don't know if they should plow, or wait for the stuff to melt. If they plow, and it melts away within a half day, then the person paying for the plowing will be upset, and if it stays then the place where it was put won't be back far enough for when the real snows come.

Such a predicament. And a hard decision.

Heck, I haven't even got the leaves raked up yet and some folks are hoping for more snow to fall just so they can start the ski season.

You can never make 'em happy.

It's odd that Mother Nature hasn't caught on that most dogs and cats are indoor animals and don't need the complete coat changes that outdoor animals do. Maybe she's been too busy supervising dramatic outdoor scenes to notice that the shedding she's decreed leaves hairy webs in many indoor scenes. But animal owners notice the hair. They notice not only when they're at home but when they're far away from home and find they're wearing it.

At times, when owners feel their animals are overdoing shedding, they call their veterinarians for suggestions on hair control. Vets can always come up with good ideas, but they're only workable with cooperation from the animals.

One suggestion is that dogs and cats be kept away from the sources of heat, like radiators and fires in fireplaces. The heat makes their skin dry which causes excess shedding, according to the vets. So owners plead and shout and the animals move away from the heat and then, they move right back.

Vets further suggest that another way of keeping shedding down is to bathe the animals frequently and follow baths with liberal applications of lotion. Rumor has it that there are some animals that do enjoy a bath although the evidence on this is sketchy. None of these happy bathers are cats, however. As for the dogs, most prefer outdoor bathing in stagnant ditches and puddles of their choice to indoor bathing in a tub.

Desperate owners have been toying with some ideas of their own for solving the shedding problem that are worth considering, if only briefly. The most practical idea is a big hairnet that would cover the trunk of the animal's body with holes cut out in appropriate places in the rear. This would keep the falling hair close to the animal's body instead of in its usual free-flying state. The net could be removed outdoors from time to time and the contents shaken out. Then the animal could be brushed while he or she is undressed, so to speak. The only problem with this plan is that animals scratch themselves a lot so the net would have to be of a material that would resist shredding. Chicken wire has the most widespread support.

Then there's the suggestion that animals be painted with epoxy glue. This would create a hard coating that would certainly contain the hair indefinitely. Of course, it would have to be cracked off at the end of shedding season, but then all the loose hair would come off with the glue in solid pieces. Partial or total baldness is a distinct possibility with this plan, however.

But the best solution to the problem is to wait until the shedding animal departs this life, at which time he or she can be replaced with an animal that doesn't shed, or not as much. That is, unless the owner was very fond of the one that died, in which case he'll want to replace it with an animal of the same variety, which is what usually happens.

Of course, there's always a chance than in an idle moment, between landscape changes perhaps, Mother Nature may notice the situation with the shedding pets and decide it's time to make some program changes.

Write a letter to the editor today!

Back a few years ago, about 70 or so, riders of wagons and coaches could travel this scenic route along the lakefront by Boyne City. Actually, you can still travel this road today as this view of the lakeside road is along Lake Shore Drive about where the city limits is today. In the background, the Tannery buildings are visible. Although the trees along the water have been trimmed down, the ride is still pleasant for an afternoon.

I saw a bumper sticker that said: For the woman who has everything, here I am!

I stopped into Butler Drugs to buy a birthday candle. "Only one candle?" the lady asked, looking at me as though I might be some nut who writes a column for the paper.

"Yes," I said, "it's for my daughter. I need only one candle."

"I'm sorry, sir," she said, "all our birthday candles come in boxes. We don't sell just one little birthday candle."

That's the trouble with people these days. Too many of them do not realize that middle age begins with a one candle birthday cake.

How many times have you seen the TV ad about oleo of olay? When it is splashed or rubbed on a woman's face her wrinkles seem to fade away and she once again feels and looks twenty, even though she may be old enough to have a child who is a brain surgeon and another who is in jail.

After watching that ad for a while I got the idea that if it worked for women, it should work for men, too. So I bought some. Paid the high dollar, using it exactly as directed.

Letters

Against Water's Edge

Editor,

For several months, Charlevoix Township residents have been embroiled in a conflict concerning the development of the Water's Edge property on Lake Charlevoix. The focus of the controversy has been on the density of the proposed condominium development and the increase in boat traffic the project will bring to an already congested area.

The Lake Charlevoix Association is concerned about another aspect of this project which has been virtually ignored. The Water's Edge property is a classic cedar swamp wetland. The Michigan Department of Natural Resources recently evaluated the property and determined that with few exceptions, the entire parcel is subject to regulation under the Goemaere-Anderson Wetland Protection Act (1979, P.A. 203). This means that before any filling or other construction can take place, the developer must obtain a permit from the DNR.

The Lake Charlevoix Association opposes the destruction of wetlands that are important to the water quality of our lake. The Association plans to review this proposal as it relates to wetland protection and will comment to the DNR. We would urge anyone else who has these same concerns to follow our lead.

Hospice to benefit by clothing, sale dolls

Every little girl's dream Christmas gift—dolls dressed in handmade exquisite costumes—will be displayed and for sale in a silent auction to benefit Charlevoix County Hospice for the third year in a row, thanks to the branches of Northwestern State Bank of East Jordan and Boyne City and many enthusiastic customers.

To raise money for Charlevoix County Hospice, the bank annually purchases some 80 dolls, gives customers an opportunity to "dress" the dolls in a contest with prizes, and then offers the dolls for sale in a silent auction, with all proceeds plus matching funds to benefit Charlevoix County Hospital. Last year the bank gave over $1,000 to Charlevoix County Hospice.

Charles McDowell, Northwestern State Bank's Chief Executive Officer and Ellen Anderson, Personnel Officer, explained how their scheme has benefited Hospice for the past three years.

"Our customers volunteer to dress the dolls," Ms. Anderson explained, holding a doll dressed in an elaborate three-piece, hand-crocheted outfit. "They dress these dolls in the most beautiful and interesting costumes," she continued.

"Area merchants and the bank are offering bonds, gift certificates and merchandise as prizes for the best dressed dolls," McDowell pointed out. "First prize is a $50 savings bond. Other prizes include clothing, toys and gift certificates."

By Nov. 29, all dolls will be returned to the bank branches in Boyne City and East Jordan to be judged. McDowell admitted there is a growing competition between the customers of the two branches over dressing the dolls.

The costumed dolls will be displayed, from Nov. 29 through the 13th of December, in the two banks' lobbies. The public is inited to view and bid on the dolls with bidding closing Dec. 13.

Not only will all funds raised by the sale of the dolls go to Charlevoix County Hospice, but the bank has pledged to donate an equal amount to Hospice. The purchase price of the dolls is tax deductible.

Charlevoix County Hospice is a non-profit organization serving the needs of the terminally ill and their families, at no charge. The Charlevoix County Hospice employs one part-time director and one patient-care coordinator. Hospice depends on volunteers and donations.

Ellen Anderson and Charles McDowell of the Northwestern State Bank look over one of the dolls Margaret Lasater is holding. The dolls are part of a silent auction with the proceeds going to the Charlevoix County Hospice.

Greg's Auto Body new in BC

Taking over a business location that had closed down can be a problem, but not for Greg Dollar and Tom Pace.

They are opening up the former Boyne Country Body Shop and have renamed it Greg's Auto Body.

With the location at 305 E. Main Street, the firm has been busy cleaning up and fixing up in preparation for the repairing of cars.

The firm will be doing all collision work as well as restoration work and fiberglass boat repair. "We will be able to handle almost everything from bumping to final show-quality painting," Dollar said.

Dollar has worked in the business for the last 13 years, mostly in the metropolitan Detroit area. He was working as a bodyman at Sherwood's Body Shop prior to deciding to open his own business here in Boyne City.

Working with Dollar will be Tom Pace, the former owner of Tom Pace Enterprises in Walloon Lake. Pace's brother is running that operation currently. Pace is well known in the area for the quality of his work, Dollar said. "He will be helping out with the business nights and weekends," he added. While Dollar is cleaning up the shop, he hopes in the future to add additional equipment. "I would like to have a Frame machine so we can do that kind of work, but for now, we will just build the business and plan for the future."

The shop will be open six days a week and evenings until 9 p.m., Dollar said. He wants to be open in order to let customers come when they have the time to come in. They will be giving free estimates for work that has to be done for insurance companies as well as those who want their car in top condition.

Dollar said the firm will be guaranteeing their bodywork for one full year and their paint work for two years. Dollar said that he paints the inside of panels to help control rusting as part of his services.

Other services the shop is doing is clean-up of cars for customers as well as car dealers in the area. "We also have contracts with some of the firms in the area to do their work," Dollar added. Another service the firm will be doing is undercoating cars. The firm hopes to see the growth of Boyne City help them so they can expand with the growth to offer more or better services in the future.

Robins?

Roy Huston of N. Maple in East Jordan called the Charlevoix County Press office yesterday to report three robins in his front yard. Hope they didn't miss their flight to the south.

Loton Willson, a member of the Boyne City Historical Advisory Commission, accepts a $2,000 check from his daughter, Carol McGeorge on behalf of the Boyne City Historical Society. Both father and daughter have been long-time advocates for a museum to house the area's artifacts. The Historical Society has sponsored dinners and teas as well as the first Boyne area home tour to raise money for the future museum.

Surprise! Bids less than expected

Boyer City officials had a surprise when they opened the bids for the water, sewer, roadway and other projects that will be used within the TIFA zone for the new Air-Industrial Park.

The bids came in about one-quarter of a million dollars less than anticipated, according to Randy Frykberg, city manager.

Frykberg told the commissioners at the Tuesday noon meeting the low bidder for all of the proposed work was the C.H. Smith Company of Charlevoix and Boyne City.

The company bid the work at $556,340.65, which was $38,000 less than the next lowest bidder.

The work that is to be done includes the installation of 12,610 lineal feet of 12 inch, 8 inch, 6 inch and 4 inch diameter water mains, 3,450 feet of sanitary sewer, 2,265 lineal feet of force main, 950 feet of curb and gutter, 5,330 feet of drainage ditch with culverts and storm sewer, 5,750 square yards of roadway grading, base preparation and paving with asphalt.

The highest bid for the work was $973,950.

With the announcement of the low bids, Frykberg told the commissioners the pay-off period for the TIFA area would be almost cut in half. It was supposed to take five years for the pay-off of the project with the new taxes the air-industrial park will be bringing to the city.

Work on the new projects will be started today, Frykberg told the commissioners.

In another announcement, Frykberg told the commissioners the capping of M-75, which was supposed to have been done this fall, will be delayed until next spring. Frykberg told the commissioners the contractor fell behind and could not get to the job before the November construction shutdown.

Frykberg then awarded Thelma Behling the shovel that was used to break ground at the Air-Industrial park last week.

Coach dispute

repeatedly spoken on by the audience, and rightly so, as many of the Rambler spectators this year were heard at the games calling the players whimps and women from the sidelines.

Attendance was also an attitude issue as few spectators showed up this year to support the team and those that did came to ridicule the team. Audience members also voiced the fact that at jayvee level of competition there is a large turnout of youngsters for football, but when they become seniors have had enough and refuse to participate any longer.

In an effort to solve the dilemma, the board instructed the athletic committee to look into the situation. The committee will interview past and present football players to gather information and will accept opinions and suggestions from the community. When all of the information has been gathered the board will make a decision by January to solve the controversy.

With some foresight about the issue, another audience member stated that Boyne should solve the question soon as the Ramblers have some pretty sizeable youngsters coming up from the middle school to play on future Rambler teams.

It was also voiced that if Boyne is to get the chance to utilize these young athletes some changes have to be made or the future players will also become disgruntled with the situation and probably not participate either.

One of the benefits of being the head snowmaker at Boyne Mountain is that when it snows, and you are ready to make snow, you get to try out your ability to make a turn in the fresh stuff. Alex Campbell, the area manager in charge of the snowmaking along with chef Steve Pellegrom made the first runs of the season last Saturday. Pellegrom also made the first fall of the year.

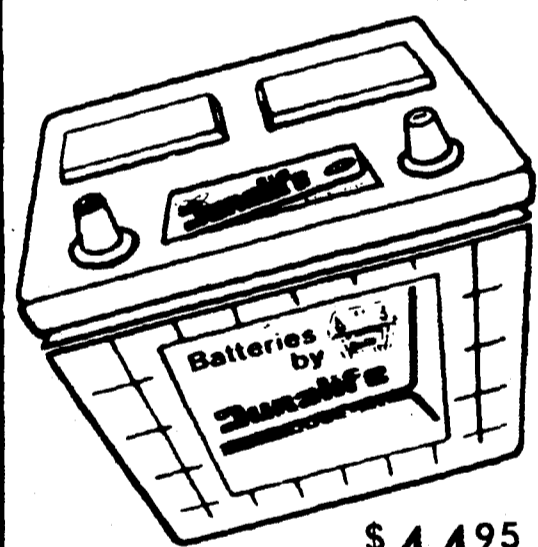

Pilings were driven last week for the first part of the expected completion of the first 15 units of the second phase of the One Water Street project. The Peninsula Beach Suites will be next summer.

BC Ramblers squeak by Red Devils, Boyne jayvees run away with it

On Thursday night, the Devils hosted the Boyne City Ramblers. The Ramblers used a strong second half to overcome a halftime deficit in nipping the Devils, 42-40.

The Devils could have walked away with the game had they been able to convert from the free throw line. Forty team fouls from Boyne City sent the Devils to the free throw line 51 times, which EJ coach Steve Hines said was, "unheardable in girls' basketball." However, the Devils managed to miss more than they made (29 missed and 22 made).

The Devils led most of the first quarter, but Boyne City sank a shot with little time on the clock to take a 10-9 lead at its end. The Devils took a 10-7 advantage in the second period, with Jody McDermott scoring six, to take the lead at the half, 19-17. Rambler's Jill Harris had a strong third period scoring eight of BC 12 points to give BC a 29-25 third period lead.

The fourth period was nip-and-tuck all the way. McDermott had tied the game at 40 with a pair of free throws, but with a few seconds left on the clock, Julie Montgomery stole the ball at mid-court and drove in for an easy lay-up to put BC up 42-40. The Devils had a chance to tie the game up, but were unable to hit from the free throw line.

For the victors, Montgomery led the way with 14 points, 12 of which came in the second half. Jill Harris totaled eight; Kerry Harvey, Linda Bieganowski, Sue Bieganowski, and Karen DeSchryver each scored eight; and Lisa Caverly and Kelly Smith each added two. Boyne was six for 19 from the free throw line and committed 33 turnovers.

The Ramblers outscored the Devils all night. Harvey and Harris each pulled down 11 while Montgomery grabbed eight, Sue Bieganowski totaled six, and DeSchryver added five.

For East Jordan, McDermott was the only person in double figures with 20. Brenda Drenth totaled five, Shelly Malpass and Cyndy Merrill each scored four, Billi Jo Crawford managed three, and Jari Chanda and Chris Nietupski each added two.

In the rebound department for the Devils, McDermott came down with 14 and Crawford grabbed seven.

Boyne City's j.v. ran away with a 57-27 victory over the Devils. The Ramblers led 14-8, 29-17, and 37-24 at the end of the first three periods.

For Boyne, Mindy Stadt had an excellent game scoring 22 points. Also scoring for the Ramblers were Marci Center with 12, Amy Weeks with eight, Colleen Williams with five, Lori Knight and Lacinda Tompkins with four, and Tysh Crozier added two. They were nine for 14 from the free throw line, committed 28 personal fouls, and turned the ball over 26 times.

Stadt and Tompkins led the team with nine rebounds each, Knight totaled eight and Mary Beth Archambault, Williams, and Center each added six.

For East Jordan, Erin Snyder led the scoring with 12 points. Also scoring for the Devils were Jill Burt with five, Lisa Patton with three, Monica Olstrom and Jennifer Moreau with two, and Kris Burt, Amanda Clark, and Michelle Beauvais with one each. They were 15 for 35 from the bonus strip, totaled 14 personal fouls, and had 39 turnovers.

Snyder also led the team with 14 rebounds while Olstrom grabbed 10 and the Burt sisters each had eight.

Boyne City and East Jordan will face each other again this Thursday at Boyne City, game time 6:15.

East Jordan girls defeated by Ellsworth 41-23

BY STEVE GEE

The East Jordan Red Devils dropped again last week at the hands of the Ellsworth Lancers

The Devils' season record dropped to a dismal 1-16. Meanwhile, the junior varsity Devils split with a win over the Lancers.

On Tuesday night, the Devils played host to the Ellsworth Lancers. Ellsworth took advantage of a strong first period and won 41-23.

Eleven East Jordan turnovers helped the Lancers take a 15-8 first quarter lead. Ellsworth added five more to the margin with a 24-12 halftime lead. Ten Devil turnovers and many missed shots led to Ellsworth's 7-0 scoring advantage in the third stanza. The Devils did outscore the Lancers 11-8 in the final period, but by then it was too late.

Chris Nietupski and Jody McDermott were the only Devils with over two point (eight and seven respectively). Brenda Drenth, Shelly Malpass, Cyndy Merrill, and Billi Jo Crawford each added a pair. The Devils were five for 11 from the free throw line and committed a total of 33 turnovers.

East Jordan pulled down 29 rebounds with McDermott grabbing 13. Drenth and Nietupski each had four while Jari Chanda totaled three; Malpass and Crawford, two; and Merrill, one.

The jayvee Red Devils used their height advantage in beating Ellsworth, 37-25. The Devils led 7-2 at the end of the first period, upped the lead to 16-11 at the half, and widened the gap to 20, by taking a third quarter lead.

For the Devils, Erin Snyder totaled 13 points while Jill Burt scored nine and Jennifer Moreau totaled eight. Monica Olstrom, Jill Peters, and Tricia Armstrong combined for the other six points. The girls were three for eight from the bonus strip and committed 28 turnovers.

Harborside Sports expands to Charlevoix

Harborside Sports of Boyne City has expanded with a new store in Charlevoix that formerly was the Sports World outlet in the Market Mall.

According to Andy Place, the manager of the Harborside Sports operation, the firm took over the inventory of the former sports store in the Market Mall and will be bringing some of it to Boyne City, while at the same time will be taking some of the lines that are popular here to the new location.

Place figures the move to another location will help even out some of the sales sways of the operation as the Charlevoix location has differing peak sales periods than the local outlet. "It will help both locations," he said. "For instance, Boyne holds their sidewalk sale in July, while Charlevoix holds theirs in August."

Both stores will be open year around and with the additional lines being added to the Charlevoix store, like cross country rental skis, will help increase sales.

"Also because of the two locations, we will be able to keep sizing inventories better. If we do not have the right size in Boyne, Charlevoix will have it and we can bring it over here quickly," he added.

Some of the lines featured in the former store will be brought over to Boyne City, too, he added.

The Charlevoix store is expected to be open starting today.

BC football looks to future

BY JERRY FROATS

After finishing the 1985 football season, the Boyne City Ramblers are faced with a monumental task of regrouping their efforts and looking to the future.

The Ramblers will lose their two seniors to graduation, but on the other hand will return virtually all of this year's team to the gridiron next year. As a team, the young Ramblers should be commended for sticking the season out and not quitting. The big question is, will the youngsters return to the field next year or choose to watch from the sidelines, as has been the case with eligible seniors in the past.

Leaving the team will be seniors Dan McGeorge and Darren Everest who were the only seniors to show up for football this year. Everest saw plenty of defensive action this year and was commended by coach Bob McCullough in newspaper and radio interviews frequently through the season.

Not enough can be said for McGeorge who took over the quarterback position when the regular Q.B. was injured before the season even started. McGeorge was probably the hardest working member of the team this year, giving it everything he had all season long despite the team's inability to compete with the other schools in the conference on an equal basis.

When Boyne's starting quarterback returned to action, McGeorge became the Ramblers' workhorse ball carrier and spectators from other schools commented on his hard work and gutsy play at each outing.

If the returners for next year can follow McGeorge's example of hanging tough, they will definitely be a hard team to beat.

As for the remainder of this year's football roster, the young Ramblers proved to be a scrappy bunch as they strove to perform well all season long despite being outmaned and overmatched by the other schools in the league. Even with their 0-9 record against them, it wasn't as if the team went out and played dead, rather they demonstrated to opposing teams, you may beat Boyne, but you're going to take some hard knocks in your effort to do so.

After the Ramblers' backers settle their coaching dilemma, which is up in the air at present time, whoever leads the team in mentorship next year will have a team with plenty of action under their belts, and the desire to seek revenge for this year's losses.

BF girls play at Alba

BY JERRY FROATS

The Boyne Falls Loggers girls' basketball team was hosted by the Alba Wildcats Thursday night and the Loggers took the jayvee match-up 33-22, while Alba won the varsity game 62-39.

In the preliminary game the Loggers held the Wildcats to four first half points and took a 10-4 lead at the half. Nikki Kerridge had six of the Loggers points in the half.

In the third period both teams scored more points with the Loggers taking a 24-14 lead into the fourth quarter.

Kerridge was the game's high scorer with eight points while for the remainder of the team included Linda Koeman with six points, Kelly Payton had five, Kelly McNew, Patty Bearss, and Claudine Crego had four points each, and Cheryl Sparks contributed two points.

In the varsity game Boyne Falls trailed 10-4 after one period of action, but got good free throw shooting from Pam Grubaugh who went five of seven in the second quarter combined with one field goal for seven points before the half. Also scoring in the quarter were Dianne Massey, Sandy Towne, Renee Reynolds, and Lisa Topolinski as the Loggers pulled within two points at the half 21-23.

Boyne Falls was outscored 19-11 in the third period to trail by ten, 42-32, and could only come up with seven fourth quarter points, while Alba scored 20.

EJ eighth graders defeat Ramblers

On Monday, East Jordan's eighth grade girls basketball team defeated the Boyne City Ramblers by a score of 36-28. East Jordan upped their season record to 6-3.

Debbie Skop provided the punch for the Red Devils, scoring a season high 21 points. Dia Jones totaled four for EJ while Sara Chase, Dawn Noirot, Christy Barber, Teresa Nachazel, and Christa Sumner each scored two and Chris Galmore sank a free throw for one point.

Loggers top scorer in the game with 20 points, while Topolinski totaled seven, Massey and Towne had four points each, Sue Leazier and Reynolds added two points each.

snowmobile trail available in upper peninsula

Nine of the nation's most prominent snowmobiling vacation spots, located in Michigan, now give snowmobilers access to a 300-mile trail that covers the full length of the Upper Peninsula (U.P.).

Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Management personnel recently expanded the trails to stretch from the northern tip of the Keweenaw Peninsula to the southern edge of the Wisconsin boundary.

The trails will also run east to west from Ironwood to Sault St. Marie.

"Because vacationing snowmobilers are a vital part of the UP's economy, it is always the goal of our Department to provide easements for guests of our State to use the trails," said Forest Management Division Chief Henry Webster.

The DNR and private contractors will maintain and groom the trails for public use through March.

In Thursday's jayvee game at East Jordan, Rambler Lacinda Tompkins struggles for a rebound with Kris Burt, while Mary Beth Archembault [54] and Erin Snyder look for the ball to come their way.
