Boyne City's airport will be hosting their second annual Fly-In starting at 7:00 a. m. this Sunday, May 25th. Included during the day will be airplane rides, a chance to view the U. S. Coast Guard Helicopter, antique auto show, experimental aircraft, ultralight demonstrations and an aerobic demonstration put on by Chuck Shering of Charlevoix in his Pitts Special.

Next Wednesday, area residents will have a chance to see the Munson North Flight EMS Helicopter at the Charlevoix Area Hospital in Charlevoix. The helicopter is coming in to help train local fire and ambulance departments.

The crew of the aircraft will be acquainting those who will be most likely working with the craft on landing procedures, safety around the aircraft and other information. The public is invited to view the craft.

As a prelude to its Fourth of July activities, the Horton Bay parade committee is sponsoring an old-fashioned ice cream social at the Bay Township Hall, Saturday afternoon, May 24. Visitors to the area are welcome.

Also in preparation for the Fourth of July activities, East Jordan is really making plans for their affair. Members of the planning and fund raising committee will be going around this week to area businessmen asking for donations. The public is also encouraged to help with the costs for the celebration and can donate at the Chamber of Commerce in East Jordan.

The monthly food give-away program will be offering cheese, cornmeal, milk and rice next Wednesday in all the usual Charlevoix County locations, the Community Services Center in Boyne City, the Civic Center in East Jordan and the VFW Hall in Charlevoix. Food will be given away starting at 10 a. m. until 2:00 p. m. or until the food is given away.

BC fifth graders moved to mid school

Fifth graders in the Boyne City Elementary School will find themselves going to a new school this fall while the entire student body will be starting classes about 30 minutes earlier in the morning, after action taken by the Board of Education Monday night.

The move of the fifth graders came because of over-crowding at the elementary school, according to Rich Kelly, the superintendent of the system.

The school only has 24 classrooms and are presently being utilized, he told the board at a meeting held last week. He suggested the Long Range Planning Committee meet and decide a solution, which they did last week.

Their solution, if adopted, would have been to change the elementary school to a kindergarten through third grade school, make the middle school into an upper elementary school, fourth through sixth grade, and then make the high school for grades seven through 12.

According to Warren Wade, the high school principal, the change could be done from his school's standpoint, but the crowd attending the meeting told of crowds in the halls the last time it was tried many years ago.

In explaining his views, middle school principal, Jack Cyr told the audience the middle school was in kind of a predicament. It was a little too small for the grades now using the building. He said the proposed change would allow time to see where more room will be needed.

And Ed Snyder, the elementary school principal, said his school was using every corner. With the parents wanting smaller class sizes, he has had no room for the gifted and talented program and the computers the school uses are now in the hall.

While all of the principals were supportive of the planning committee recommendation, many teachers stood up against the proposed program. Many parents in attendance at the meeting were also against the major changes in the school system's building structure.

Many were against the moving of the seventh and eighth grade to the high school as they felt the children were not ready for the high school environment.

One parent suggested to the board that making a move such as this just moves the overcrowding problem from the elementary level to the high school level.

After many more parents gave their input to the board, board member Dr. Richard Fish told the rest of the board they had to resolve the problem in the short range, and go with larger classes in the elementary school.

That suggestion brought a suggestion from the teachers who asked the fifth grade be moved up to the middle school level and the school be staffed with additional teachers to provide the enrichment courses already available to the fifth graders in the elementary school.

That suggestion was made into a motion and passed 5 to 2.

Next on the agenda was the changing of the school starting time. An earlier starting time is needed in order to let some students go to Petoskey for classes through the vocational education departments of that system. They changed their school starting time and have asked Boyne City to go along with it.

Next year, the elementary school will start at 8:05 a. m. and finish at 2:40 p. m. The middle school will be starting at 8:00 a. m. and be

Marina expansion referred to ZBA

Boyne City--Planners were given a look at a proposed marina expansion project to be done at McIntyre Boatworks Monday evening, although the project was opposed by almost every resident along Michigan Avenue and Balsam Drive.

The residents could not find a reason for the expansion, were unable to visualize parking area and thought the project would interfere with their riparian rights to the water.

Jack McIntyre, the operator of the marina, explained what he was trying to do with the marina which would be to add an additional 60 to 70 boat slips in front of the present marina, and add a line of Shore Stations along the southerly reach of the property along the present dock.

The business presently has a pre-existing non-conforming use permit as it was started before the city developed the zoning laws on the books.

McIntyre was told he would be required to have the expansion okayed by the Zoning Board of Appeals as the issue was not the jurisdiction of the planning board.

With so many of the residents in opposition, McIntyre said he was willing to work with any of the neighbors to help keep friendly relations with them.

In other action, the board recommended to the city commission the Boyne Precision Dye and engineering, which is building a new building in the Air/Industrial Park, be given a six year tax abatement with the possibility of nine years if the company provides more landscaping and a few other minor improvements. The company was also asked to provide to the planners a list of all pollutants that may be used within the plant.

Planners then took a look at a proposed 14 unit condominium project slated to be built on the location of the former locker plant which burned two years ago.

The site along N. Lake Street across from the Landings Condominiums would hold 14 units. The land would have to be rezoned from general-commercial to R3 in order to allow the development.

The preliminary plans are to build each unit with about 1000 to 1200 sq. ft. A spring flows on the property and would be directed to go between the two main clusters of the buildings.

According to Don Glowinski, the architect for owner Ingrid Cornell, the architectural style for the project hasn't been decided.

The planners now have 30 days in which to decide whether or not to rezone the property and look at the final site plan. In the meantime, workmen are supposed to start the teardown of the old buildings this week.

The planners then agreed to an amendment to the Water Street Inn site plan which is presently under construction.

Because of the city wanting to make a swap of land along the Main Street right-of-way with the developers, they brought in a new plan which moves the site of one of the buildings so as to make better use of the property.

Previously the suites of the project were to have been built in a "U" shape, but with the approval of the planners one of the buildings will be along the waterfront instead of facing the road.

Smith also said one of the phases of the project, the new retail stores, will not be constructed as the shops will be put into the inn getting out at 2:50 p. m. The high school students will have classes starting at 8:05 a. m. and will be letting out at 2:35 p. m.

The board then took a look at formulating a policy for homework within the school system. The idea was transferred over to the Professional Studies Committee to start working on the idea.

The board then increased the operation millage to the full allowable level of 30.4 mills. The change represents a .78 mill increase in the amount of millage and brings the millage up to the same level as it was last year.

They then reduced the debt retirement millage to 2.2 mills. The debt retirement millage is paying off the buildings and grounds of the school system.

The board received letters of resignation from both Bob and Marty McCullough as they asked not to be considered as track coaches next season.

EJ Garden Club hears talk on "Flowers and Antiques"

Virginia Bouska, owner of Bouska Antiques, opened her antique-filled home to the East Jordan Garden Club when they met Monday, May 19 at 1:30 p.m. Thirty-five members and guests attended.

Mrs. Bouska, avid collector, artist, teacher and traveler, spoke on "Flowers and Antiques." She noted that originally flowers grew only in the wild and women used them as patterns for furnishings in their homes. Flower prints were first used on Wall-paper, carpets, draperies and tiles that were placed around stoves and fireplaces. They were later found in embroidery, dress material, lace, tatting, shoes, jewelry and batik. The flower theme was also carried out in buttermolds and tile painting. Mrs. Bouska drew on her extensive antique collection to pass around examples of all.

He talk was followed by a business meeting, conducted by president, Martha Annear. City beautification and plantings were discussed and finalized, as well as the annual Flower Show, Farmer's Market and the Junior Garden Club. The latter, under the capable direction of Peggy Midener, will plant berry bushes in the Brown's Creek area, a nature preserve under the aegis of the school district, which is situated between the high school and middle school complex.

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

One of the privileges of being an editor is that you get to go through a lot of mail. One news release from the National Wildlife Federation caught my eye, and wasn't put into the round file next to the desk.

This release was written about the fact conservationists expect thousands of species to die and go out of existence. From endangered to gone, according to this release.

But it got my mind to working about what animals or creatures were going out of existence. No mention was made of any particular species so I worked up a list that I would like to see gone. It contains plants, insects and maybe a few animals.

First on the list is a very small, in relation to humans, insect, the mosquito. I for one would like to see that insect gone. I think the main reason is because I seem to attract them whenever I am out in the woods or around places where they live.

Sure, I have heard Purple Martins eat a ton of them every day, and I would be sorry to see a food source for the bird go away, but I figure there are many other insects the bird could catch on the fly to eat.

I happen to think I could get along quite well without the mosquito. Not just one variety, but the whole bunch, including the one that got me the other day while I was out mushrooming. Especially the one that carries the malaria disease.

The next thing on the list I would like gone might be poison ivy. I can find no use for a plant with leaves of three that causes itching due to its oils on every part of the plant.

For years, I have been trying to find a chemist who would like a job of trying to find something that would cause a reaction within the oils on the plant and turn it to mush.

You can assume I am wise enough now to not get hit with the itching and rashes it can cause, but when I was a kid it was a different matter.

I can remember many a time when I was coated in Caladryl, or Ivy Dry.

I can remember getting that itch so many times I thought I would grow immune. But no, I just got the itch worse.

The next on the list is the lamprey eel. Another creature I can find no use for. Maybe the thing is good to eat but I don't want to try it. Possibly it is considered a delicacy in some far-off land I will never get to see. I would bet they don't have a lamprey problem there, though.

Along the same lines, I would like to add the bloodsucker. I have always wondered what they eat when they can't eat blood. They do make good bait for fishing though, at least Pat Mitchell told me that. I don't think I would have enough guts to figure out how to pick one up to put it on a hook. I'd be afraid it would latch onto me and never let go.

Come to think of it, I know a couple of bill collectors who are just like that. Maybe I could use the creature as a bill collector. Just send the darned things out in the mail to those who refuse to make payments on their accounts.

I also wonder if it would do any good. Some of the places that owe money are also the eighteenth wonder of the world in that they can take trips to Florida, buy new cars every year, and live high on the hog without ever having to make payments on their bills. I think those creatures are also guiltless, but that's another story.

I can't think of a single animal, though, at least at this writing, I would like to see go off in environmental heaven. Most of the little animals are great food sources for the bigger animals. Those in turn are food sources for still other animals, and they all end up being destroyed by man.

I guess that was the reason for the news release in the first place. After all, critters and creatures can't read. Only humans have devised a way to communicate by printing words. We should all watch out for some of the animals that I am sure are on some list somewhere.

Even snaildarters must have some place on the food chain and in nature.

Recycling usually doesn't make you think about sculpture nor do dinosaurs normally call to mind cats. But these things do hang together if you know about a sculptor in Red Bank, New Jersey, and about our mouse problem here in Michigan.

The sculptor, Jim Gary, welds together pieces of junked cars to create dinosaurs. And then he sells them to museums and science center for up to $25,000 apiece. He also does junked car sculptures of other animals, like turtles. But his heart is in the dinosaur creations. They present a bigger challenge. The pay is bigger too.

Scarcely an hour after reading about Mr. Gary's accomplishments last Sunday, my husband and I went through the nightly ritual of setting out the mousetraps. And I knew that most likely in the morning at least one of them would hold a small dead body to be emptied out, which is a rotten way to start a day.

I thought for the umpteenth time that what we needed was a special cat, one who'd spare the little fellows' lives but frighten them away from the house. Suddenly, with the inspiration of Jim Gary lighting the way, the idea of creating a mouse-scaring cat out of our very own junk came to me.

I haven't collected all the stuff I need to make it yet, but this is how it will be. For the container for the cat form, I'll use a three-pound onion bag. It will be stiffened in the center with a paper towel core and stuffed all around with clothes dryer lint. I'll borrow part of the lint from a neighbor who has cats - animal hair always lands in the lint catcher - and mix her lint with ours to give the sculpture authenticity.

At the head end, there'll be a small tin can, like mushrooms come in, over the end of the paper towel core. That's a little bit small for a cat's head. But with a lot of lint around it, it'll do. Orphan buttons from the sewing box will be sewed on the onion bag for eyes and nose. The ears, triangles cut from a toilet paper roll core, will be scotch taped on the bag.

A piece of leftover Christmas ribbon tied behind the can will give the cat a neck. And the legs and tail will be pieces of curly wire from a spiral notebook. We have a lot of spiral notebooks hanging around, only a page or two of notes in each, that will appreciate a meaningful assignment.

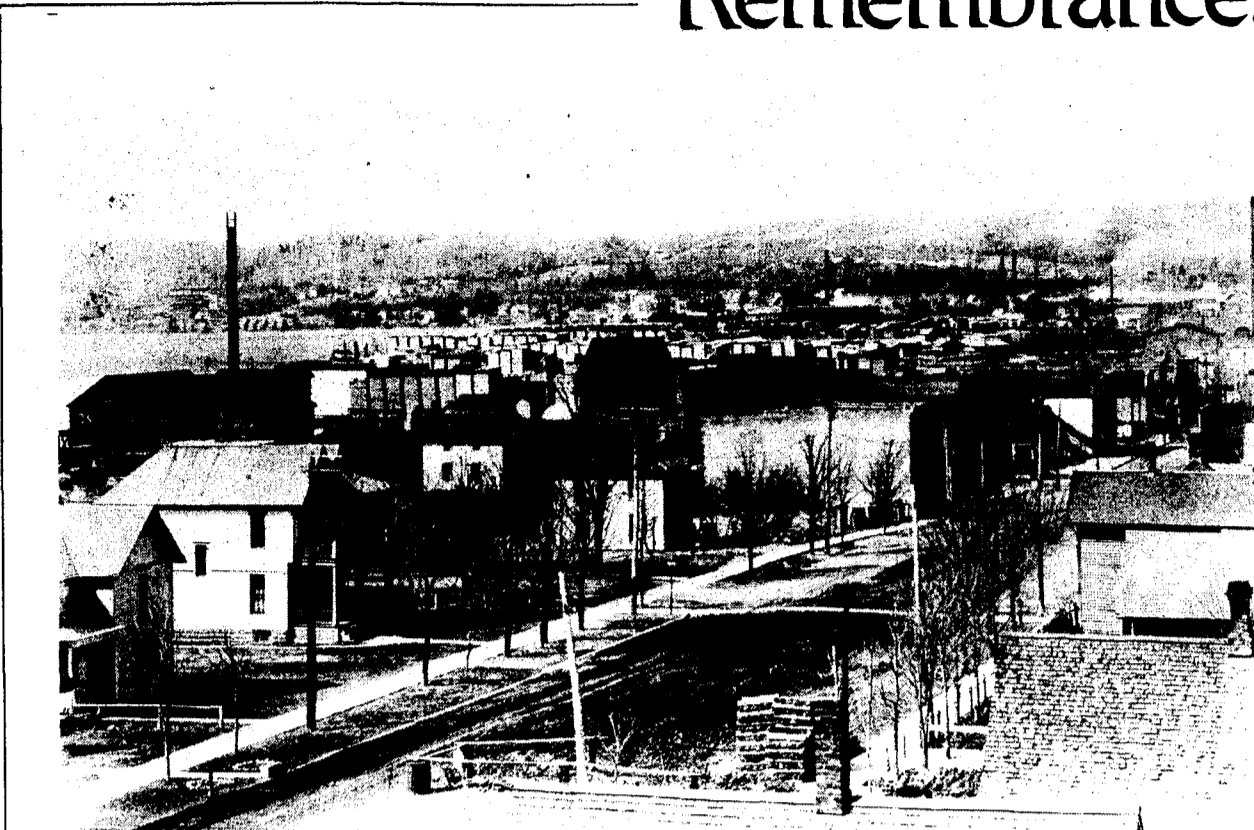

The cat sculpture will be positioned on the floor of the utility room next to the dog food bag. Mice have a yen for dog food as witnessed by the fact that the trap next to the bag catches the most mice.

If the mice aren't intimidated by the fake cat, I figure that it will be because they don't recognize it. In that case, I'll paste a picture of a cat's head cut from one of my neighbor's empty cat food bags on the head of my creation.

There are still a few rough spots

Remembrances

"This shows Boyne city industry with its 4 mills operating in about 1900." So reads the only information we have with this picture. This seems to be Lake Street, north of Main Street, in the foreground. The older homes are gone, but you can recognize the larger buildings on down Lake Street. The hills guarding Boyne City remain the same, but now the trees have grown back. If you have an old picture you would like to see in Remembrances please bring it in so we can make a copy.

As I look out the window I see that summer is still in the offing and I'll tell you why.

The weather was so angry it put the weather out of commission and thus summer is still down the road doing its best to spring upon us in a wonderful fit of seventy-five degrees above zero sunshine.

When summer does catch up with us I shall gurgle a low musical laugh that will well up from the merry depths of my joyous nature. (I have a merry depths, no matter what the guy whispers to you.)

season this season.

Five deer romped at play in the field next to our house the other day. We watched in awe as they acted like kids out of school. We weren't really in awe, we were standing in the kitchen looking out the window.

We thought that was a happy sight until we looked out the window Sunday morning and saw two large, wild turkeys pecking at the ground like a couple of chickens.

They were the only wild turkeys we'd seen out here---except that time a couple of them came out from Boyne City to tell us that we should get religion so we would be prepared when the nuclear power plant blew up at Charlevoix.

Talk about being mad! We got religion and that darn plant hasn't blown up yet.

MR. & MRS. FRANK BREWSTER

Brewsters celebrate 60th wedding anniversary

Frank and Opal Brewster of Boyne City will celebrate their 60 year wedding anniversary on Wednesday, May 21, 1986.

Frank Brewster of Saginaw met Opal Cook of Lansing while he was studying for his degree as a metallurgical chemist at Michigan State University. They married in 1926, making their home in Lansing. Later the couple moved to Bay City and Saginaw, followed by a thirty year residency in Montclair, California. Over the years Opal Brewster raised a family and worked as a bank secretary.

The Brewsters moved to Boyne City two years ago to be near their children: daughter and son-in-law Ellen and Glen Anderson of Boyne City; son and daughter-in-law Don and Fran Brewster of Bay City. Opal Brewster has one sister, Theo Trescott of Lansing. The Brewsters have six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

The Boyne City Senior Center has planned a reception in honor of the Brewsters' sixty year union on Wednesday, May 21, 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Ellen and Glen Anderson will host another gathering of family and friends at the Country Star Restaurant on Saturday, May 24, at 1 p.m.

EJ eighth graders become newshounds

Lights! Camera! Action! With cameraman Jeff Gee signaling when to start the eighth graders in Mrs. Mary Irwin's first hour class learned that it takes work and calm nerves to look like Jane Pauley or David Hartman when delivering a news story. With giggles, "I know I'll look awful," and fingertapping, each student in the class came to the "news desk" in front of the camera and gave his or her own version of a news story. The students had been given copies of two issues of the Charlevoix County Press and had to choose an article or a series of articles to summarize and prepare to present as a part of a newscast.

The assignment arose out of Mrs. Irwin's concern about students learning to summarize materials they read. This is an ability often neglected in classrooms and shows up in "declining college board scores" which have "prompted educators across the U.S.A. to gear up to teach a fourth R - the ability to reason," according to a Family Concern Bulletin published in Wheaton, Illinois. Mrs. Irwin made the assignment primarily to teach summarization; but also to extend some ideas gained during Career Day regarding writing and related occupations. To develop self-control, composure and poise in front of a group and a camera was also a secondary goal. The students were also exposed to some interpretative reading techniques, such as projecting voice, tone of voice, looking up from materials. The students were encouraged to use cue cards and pictures or illustrations to give the camera other focus points. The material used by the students had already been narrowed by the newspaper writer and the job of the student was to summarize for the spoken reporting, but still maintaining the major thrust of the article and keeping the interest level of the listener.

The students picked various topics and styles of reporting. Dawn Brock interviewed Linda Pinney, an eighth grader who has won several levels of spelling competition and is going to the state competition. Darcy Arget-singer reported on the winning of awards by a local photographer. Steve Vrondran explored American Home Week as a news feature. Tracy Sherman, Leslie Mathews, and Tresa Hoffman became sports commentators covering the local teams most recent victories and losses. Tracy Jackman presented a feature story by reviewing the book "Room," a morel mushroom cookbook. Mike Hausler gave an informative news report about motorcycle rider training classes to be offered in the coming weeks. Dia Jones reported on a topic of local and national concern - high school proms and teen drinking and driving. Pat Muma presented an overall picture of the city council and sportsman park contro-

Jeff Gee, an East Jordan senior, operated the V.C.R. equipment which filmed and recorded the sight and sound of each presentation. He instructed the students about where to focus their eyes, how to project voice and when to actually begin to "Broad-Cast."

The students parents, friends and relatives are invited to view the videotape of all the presentations on May 29, at 7:00 p.m. in Room 11. For parents who cannot come in the evening it will be presented at 8:30 a.m., May 29, in Room 11. Coffee and donuts will highlight this festive day as the student celebraties, view themselves and each other and share this project with others.

Mrs. Irwin and the class expressed appreciation for the provision of materials and the local coverage of this event as it heightened the level of anxiety to just the right point of giving a good presentation in each student.

BRIDAL SHOWERS AND GRADUATION PARTIES

Showers to honor our beautiful brides (all brides are beautiful) are expected and proper occasions to make use of our very best china and table linen and to display the food in a gracious and lovely setting. Now is the time to use pretty doilies, your crystal and those silver teapots.

Have punch, dainty sandwiches, fresh vegetables with a tasty dip and finish off with a beautiful cake or this luscious

1 pkg plain ladyfingers or pound cake, cut into fingers
1 large pkg. vanilla instant pudding mix
1 cup raspberry, blackberry, or strawberry jam
¼ cup dark rum
¼ cup sherry
½ pt. whipping cream (the real kind)

Note: Ladyfingers are double in package. Separate, spread on jam, then put together again. Arrange in pan so the individual servings are made.

Lay these out separately in a square or oblong pan so that each serving will be separate.

Sprinkle liquors by spoonfuls on each ladyfinger. Let stand for an hour or overnight.

Make pudding according to directions on the package and pour over lady fingers.

Cover with whipped cream and garnish with a cherry.

Here is a tasty low calorie dip for fresh vegetables.

GARDEN DIP

½ cup cottage cheese
½ tablespoon finely grated onion
2 tablespoons carrot, finely grated
1 tablespoon finely chopped green pepper
½ tsp. salt

Dash of garlic powder
1 cup plain yogurt

Mash the cottage cheese with a fork. Add onion, carrot, green pepper, salt and garlic powder. Beat until fairly smooth. Stir in yogurt and chill several hours. The day before is fine. Serve with cauliflower and broccoli flowerlets, radishes, squashes cut in strips, cucumbers cut in strips and sliced green peppers. I like to cook the broccoli and cauliflower just a couple of minutes then rinse with cold water for this.

Just a few suggestions for dainty sandwiches. You could make pinwheel or ribbon sandwiches though I think that just regular ones with the crust trimmed off and cut into strips or quarters look and taste very good. Use different kinds of bread. This next goodie is always a popular filling.

DEVILED-HAM CHEESE FILLING

Mix a 2½ oz. can deviled ham with a 3 oz. package cream cheese, softened, ½ teaspoon lemon juice and a little horseradish to taste. That's all and very good.

The old cookbooks mention grinding raisins with nut meats, mixed with a little mayonnaise for sandwiches. These are very tasty served on whole wheat or raisin bread.

Egg salad sandwiches are always welcome.

EGG SALAD SANDWICH FILLING

To make 2 cups of filling mix 6 chopped, hard-cooked eggs with ¼ cup minced onion, ½ cup mayonnaise, prepared mustard and salt to taste.

Parties for the graduate is another story!

The family, friends and relatives from out of town will be ready for food after the graduation services. For these occasions we need lasagne, chili or sloppy joes ready to heat up and serve, with rolls, tossed salad or potato salad from the deli for the hungry crowd. My friend Lillian Biggs has a suggestion for a terrific casserole to be made before hand and heated later.

LILLIAN'S HOT CHICKEN CASSEROLE

4-5 chicken breasts
1 box long grain and wild rice
1 medium onion, chopped
1 (8 oz.) can water chestnuts, sliced
1 (4 oz.) can sliced mushrooms, drained
1 small jar pimientos, chopped

On the other hand, Jim Gary is impressing people with his dinosaurs made out of old car parts. And people are a lot more discriminating than mice. So it very well may be that sculptures from recycled junk don't have to look a whole lot like real to be effective.

Charlevoix hospital starts after hours night clinic

The family's at the supper table but supper's still in the oven. In your hurry to feed the masses, you grab the hot dish without a pot-holder and sustain a nice little burn which starts changing colors and stings like the devil.

It needs attention but your doctor's office is closed and you don't think it's worth an expensive visit to the emergency room. What to do?

Charlevoix Area Hospital now has the answer. The hospital recently opened an After Hours Clinic in its Emergency Room. Clinic hours are 6 p.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Friday and 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

"Many people need physician care for minor illnesses and injuries at times when the doctors' offices are closed," said hospital administrator Richard Krueger. "We feel the After Hours Clinic provides a worthwhile community service for these situations. Also, people who work during the day sometimes find it difficult to get to a doctor's office during regular business hours. The Clinic will make good health care more conveniently available for them, too."

A visit to the After Hours Clinic costs $25 with a $5 charge if it is billed. This includes seeing the physician, medical advice, treatment and instructions. Additional services ordered by the physician such as laboratory tests and x-rays will be charged at the regular hospital rates.

"In the past, when someone came to the Emergency Room with a problem that turned out not to be an emergency, their insurance would not cover the more expensive ER bill," said Krueger. "Now someone with a non-emergency problem can obtain help during clinic hours at about the cost of a doctor's office visit."

Physician staffing of the clinic is by 12 members of the hospital's medical staff who have contracted with the hospital to provide the service. In addition to the After Hours Clinic, staff physicians are also providing 24-hour coverage of the Emergency Room. Previously, the ER physician coverage was on an on-call basis. Now there will be a doctor on duty in the ER 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

Merle Plagge, M.D., director of Emergency Medical Services, explained how the Clinic and Emergency Room will operate:

"When a patient thinks he has a problem that can be handled by the Clinic, all he has to do is report to the hospital's Admitting Desk to register. No appointment is necessary. In most cases, it will be clear that the problem is not an emergency but if there is some question, the determination will be made by the attending physician. If the physician decides that the patient does have an emergency, it will be handled and billed as such."

Some of the minor medical problems the After Hours Clinic is equipped to handle include scratches, bruises, sprains, headaches, allergies, rashes, sinus trouble, fever, abdominal pain, nosebleed, sports injuries, foreign objects in eyes, nose or ears, coughs and colds, flu, sore throat bronchitis, upset stomach and urinary tract infections.

Clinic patients will be referred to their personal physician for follow-up care if necessary. If they do not have a personal physician, arrangements will be made by the attending physician to provide the appropriate follow-up care.

Payment for clinic visits can be made by cash, check, MasterCard or Visa.

"We feel this service will not only benefit the year 'round residents of the area, but also the seasonal visitors who won't want to let a minor illness or accident spoil their vacation," said Krueger. "In that respect, we look at the service as an important complement to the growing hospitality and tourism industry of this region."

More information on the After Hours Clinic can be obtained by calling 547-4024.

Education Day is Friday, May 23, with an East Jordan Elementary Open House during the school day. Fifth, sixth and seventh graders will conduct tours to visitors. The tours will begin at the front entrance of the old Middle School on Fourth Street. The East Jordan High School Student Council is making plans for the day to involve the students in a cleanup operation of the school area, hoping to create a greater appreciation of the beautiful surroundings of the high school.

Open Houses will be held Saturday at the East Jordan Public Library and the East Jordan Fire Department from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. This day is named Travel/Tourism Day which is an open invitation to canoe down the Jordan River, hike along the Jordan River pathway, camp in the Tourist Park or browse in the antique shops.

Pride in home and community is the basis for the strength of our nation; residents of East Jordan have the opportunity to show their pride and are inviting our neighbors to come and take a look at us!

Freedom Festival plans proceeding despite problems

East Jordan--As has been the trend in recent years, the problem of dealing with possible liability suits has befallen the East Jordan Freedom Festival. Unless some feasible and affordable liability insurance can be purchased to cover the city, some of the events may be eliminated this year.

One of the major concerns at this time is what to do about covering the city's liability for shooting off fireworks. The present insurance package that the city has will not include accidents that may happen when the city fires off the display for public enjoyment. The problem does not include the city's fire department as they are already covered under the city's employee policy. The city has run amuck with public liability. Fire Chief Dick Barnett has informed city council that the possibility of structure fires occurring is real, and that with the many boats that view the spectacle from the harbor, falling residue from fireworks could damage the vessels. In the past, two buildings have caught fire from the display and minor personal injuries were sustained by fire department personnel.

As of this printing, it seems that Superintendent of Public Works, Mike Dionne, has solved the problem by locating a firm from Florida that is willing to cover the city for liability at a reasonable cost. After shopping around Dionne had cost figures ranging from $660 to $6,000. Offering the best coverage for the least amount of expenditure was Allied of Florida and they will most likely be the firm the city will purchase insurance from.

Ambulance service for the assorted events was another topic of discussion, but was short-lived after ambulance director Bernie Hammond informed the council that is an accident occurs at one of the events, the general public should refrain from attempting to assist the injured party. It seems if unqualified people offer assistance and should unknowingly inflict more damage to the person, and then call for the ambulance, problems arise. Hammond suggests that the injured person should only be treated by qualified members of his staff in order to insure proper procedures.

One item eliminated from the Freedom Festival is the polka tent. In past years the drinking and dancing attraction has lost the ability to cover its own costs. Last year the insurance for the attraction cost more than the event brought in, causing the festival committee to drop it from the schedule of events.

The festival committee also requested permission to utilize a section of city owned property for the purpose of providing helicopter rides. Although the owner of the helicopter carries his own insurance, the city must stipulate that the event take place at the city's airport, where the proper insurance applies.

One by one these difficulties in organizing such an event are being whittled and the city looks forward to a successful Freedom Festival again.

Red Devils close conference play on sour note

BY STEVE GEE

The East Jordan Red Devils finished up their conference play last week by losing a pair to Inland Lakes and splitting a twin bill with Harbor Springs. The Red Devils finished with an 8-6 Ski Valley record.

The Devils traveled to Inland Lakes on Monday to take on the Bulldogs. In the first game, eight East Jordan errors helped Inland Lakes 13-2 victory. Scott Bartig was credited with the loss by going three and two-thirds innings while allowing seven hits, seven walks, and 13 runs (five of which were earned) while striking out one. Bill Kramer came in during the fourth and walked one and struck out one.

The Devils managed only one hit, a single in the second inning off the bat of Scott Bartig.

East Jordan lost the second game by a score of 9-4. The Devils scored three of their runs in the fourth when Matt Bishop walked, stole second and third, and scored after the center fielder dropped Carl Knop's fly ball. Dan Pepin (who walked after Bishop) scored on a sacrifice fly by Mark Moore, and Knop scored on an RBI single by Steve Gee. Their final run came in the fifth, when with two outs Bill Kraemer singled, stole second and third and scored on a single off the bat of Dan Pepin.

Steve Dionne went the distance for the Devils giving up three hits, 12 walks, and nine runs (seven earned) while striking out 10. Collecting hits were Bill Kraemer with a pair and Steve Dionne, Dan Pepin, and Steve Gee with one each.

On Thursday, the Devils played Harbor Springs on their home court. The Rams handed them an 11-2 defeat in the first game, thanks to the two-hitter thrown by the Ram pitcher. East Jordan scored in the fifth inning without the aid of a hit. With two outs, Greg Kitson reached base on an error. The next two batters received walks, and Kitson then scored on a wild pitch. Their final run came in the sixth inning when John Hribljan led off with a walk. A double by Steve Dionne moved him to third, and he then scored on a sacrifice bunt by Bill Kraemer. Inland Lakes scored nine times in the fifth after Matt Bishop shut them out on no hits through the first four. Errors and walks hurt the Devils, as Bishop allowed only two hits. But the two hits were big ones—a grand slam and a two run shot.

Matt Bishop started for the Devils and took the loss by going four and a third innings while giving up two hits, six walks, and eight runs (six earned) while striking out two and hitting one. Greg Kitson came on in the fifth and pitched one and two-thirds innings while giving up four hits, three walks, and three runs while fanning three. Steve Dionne pitched the final inning allowing one hit and one walk. Collecting the hits were John Hribljan and Steve Dionne with one double each.

Scott Bartig pitched an excellent game in the nightcap as the Devils won by a score of 4-0. East Jordan collected only four hits, but took advantage of them. In the fourth inning John Richards drove in two with a double. In the sixth, Steve Gee led off with a single, went to third after John Hribljan's base hit, and scored after the left fielder missed the cut off man. They scored once more in the sixth after a walk and a couple of passed balls.

Bartig went seven innings while giving up four hits and eight walks while striking out six. He was constantly pitching out of trouble, but proved himself under the tough conditions. He twice pitched out of bases loaded situations, and at one time had runners on second and third with no outs, but managed to escape without any harm done. Collecting hits for the Devils were John Richards with two and John Hribljan and Steve with one each.

Boyer Falls Loggers and Orioles tie for first in BC Little League

After one week of Little League action in the Majors division two teams, the Loggers from Boyne Falls and the Boyne City Orioles have emerged as the two contenders for first place. The two teams have posted a pair of wins each while the Yankees split two games to grab second place and the Tigers chalked up one win with two losses. The Dodgers have just one game in the record books, a loss to the Orioles. The Dodgers were rained out of their second game on Saturday.

The season opener was played last Monday with the Tigers and the Loggers taking the field. The Logger win was an 8-1 affair with Steve Reynolds getting the win. Boyne Falls scored one run in each of the first three innings while holding the Tigers to one run in the third. The Loggers then scored two in the fourth and three in the fifth to put the game on ice.

Boyer Falls proved to be heavily armored at the plate, slugging out a homer from Kurt Wilson and two singles contributed by Ron Grubbaugh and Dubry.

Logger pitcher, Reynolds, fanned eight batters and walked seven, allowing just one hit, a single to Peck of the Tigers.

Tiger pitcher, John Bush demonstrated good throwing in recording 11 strike-outs while walking seven. Bush gave up three hits.

On Tuesday, May 13, the Orioles and the Dodgers squared off for the second game of the season with the Orioles coming out on top in a 12-7 battle. The Dodgers held a 3-1 advantage after one inning, but a five run streak by the Orioles in the top of the second put a damper on the Dodger batting efforts. The Orioles went on to score in each consecutive inning, getting five more runs in the fifth, while the Dodgers crossed the plate twice in the third and one in the sixth.

Brian Sobleski recorded the win for the Orioles, striking out 9 batters while walking 6 and allowing 9 hits. Sobleski also led the offensive, hitting a double and a single while Matt Cornell and Jeff Hellybuyck added two singles each. Luke Hausler and Bruce Evans also had a single a piece.

For the Dodgers, the biggest efforts were at the plate. The Dodgers were led offensively by Tim Fall and Bill Brown. Fall hit one triple and a single, while Brown doubled twice. Other hitters included Joe Hamilton with a double, Monshore with a single, Shane May with two singles, and Fleming with a double. May took the loss for the Dodgers striking out 7 and walking 5.

In game three the Tigers took on the Orioles and played out a one run difference after six innings. The Orioles took the early lead with five runs in the bottom of the first after blanking the Tigers on defense. The tigers scored once in the second and twice in the third while the Orioles scored twice in the second inning. The Tigers eventually tied the score in the top of the sixth after crossing the plate three times in the fifth, but a lone run in the bottom of the sixth gave the Orioles the win.

The Tigers collected the largest share of the recordable hits with Roy Angel and Kerridge getting two singles each. Other singles were recorded by Bush, Aaron Fisher, Jason Joles, Petrie and

May. Angel and Andrew McCready worked the pitchers mound for the Tigers, giving up 5 hits, walking 10 and fanning 7 batters.

For the victorious Orioles Matt Cornell hammered out a triple and a double while Jeff Hellybuyck hit two singles and Luke Hausler added one. Cornell threw the entire game for the Orioles, retiring 11 batters while walking 6.

Friday evening the Yankees put their first game into the win column, posting a 17-15 victory over the Giants. After two innings were complete the Yankees led 9-8 and went up 15-8 in the top of the fourth. The Giants held the Yankees scoreless for the remainder of the game and made up some ground scoring three runs in the fifth and four more in the sixth, but were held short by games end.

The Yankees winning pitcher was Dennis Moore who struck out 10 batters while walking 18.

Moore allowed five hits. Offensively the Yankees were led by Ken Ordiway and Paul Mikula. Mikula hit three singles while Ordiway hit one double and a single. Other Yankee hitters, included Kurt Harvey with a double and a single, Jason Brooks hit a two bagger, Moore singled, Seeley

East Jordan beats Boyne in districts 13-0

BY STEVE GEE

The East Jordan Red Devils won their pre-district meeting with the Boyne City Ramblers last Friday by a score of 13-0. East Jordan received an excellent pitching performance from Greg Kitson who threw a no-hitter in the five-inning game.

The Red Devils scored their first run in the first inning when Bill Lytle singled home Steve Dionne. They then went to town in the second inning by scoring eight times on only four hits. Three Rambler errors accounted for eight unearned runs. The Devils added four more in the third, two on a base hit by Bill Kraemer and two on a home run off the bat of John Richards.

Boyer City's only real threat came in the second inning when Ketchman and Weeks each reached base on errors. They moved up a base on a passed ball, but were left there as the next three batters were retired.

Steve Stutzman took the loss for the Ramblers with Brandon Billing coming on in relief.

Greg Kitson earned the victory for the Devils, which upped his personal win/loss record to 5-0 on the season. He went five innings while allowing no hits and no runs while walking three and fanning five.

Collecting hits for the Devils were John Richards and Bill Lytle with two each and Steve Dionne, Bill Kraemer, Dennis Skrocki, and Dan Pepin each collecting one. Driving in the runs for the Devils were Richards with four, Lytle and Kraemer with two, and Pepin with one.

East Jordan will now play Elk Rapids in their District game.

Ramblers get third win over Rogers City

The Boyne City Rambler baseball team recorded what could probably be termed as their most impressive win of the season this week by defeating the Rogers City Hurons in the first of two games 5-2. The win was the third one the Ramblers have taken in their debut season while they have come up on the short end of the score 11 times this year. Rogers City regrouped in game two to defeat the Ramblers 13-4.

The offensive effort of game one was led by Rambler slugger Keoki Kuheana who homered twice in the game, once in the first inning and once in the fifth. Other Ramblers to get hits included Pat Weeks, Greg Webb, and Steve Stutzman. The winning pitcher was Shane Baxter.

Game two was pitched by Darren Everest while Stutzman, Webb, Kevin Zimmerman, Weeks, and Mark Harris contributed hits in the game.

On Monday, the girls traveled to Inland Lakes and lost a double header by scores of 12-7 and 12-0. Shandra Sweet took the loss in the first game while Kris Burt collected East Jordan's lone hit, a triple. Jill Burt was credited with the loss in the second game. Receiving hits were Jill Burt with a double and Kris Burt and Shelly Malpass with one single each.

On Thursday, the Devils played host to the Harbor Springs Rams. After losing the first game by a score of 6-3, the Devils came back and won the second by a score of 14-5.

The losing pitcher in the first game was Shandra Sweet. She allowed 10 hits and six walks while striking out one. The Devils managed only three hits. Brenda Drenth collected a double, while Shelly Malpass and Tina Reid each added singles.

In the second game, Jill Burt earned the victory by giving up 12 hits and three walks while fanning a pair. Collecting hits were Brenda Drenth with four singles, Angie Zoulek and Shandra Sweet with two singles, and Billi Jo Crawford, Doris Spence, Jill Burt, and Karne Straw each with one single.

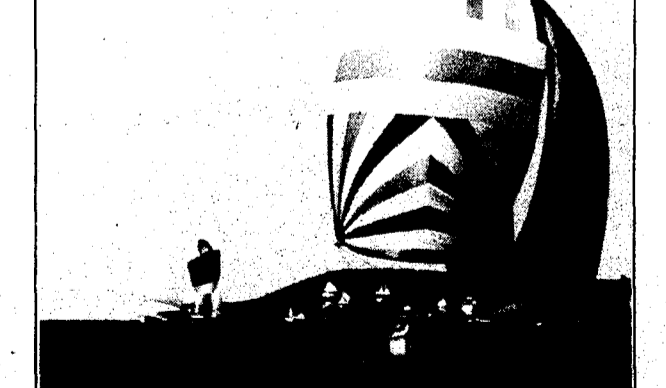

Angels defeat Bears in BC Little League 21-11

The Little League Softball season got underway Monday night with the season opener being won by the Angels 21-11. With the insertion of a five run per inning rule the game moved along nicely until the fifth inning when unlimited runs are allowed for the final inning.

The Angels took a 12-6 lead into the final inning by scoring five times in each of the first and second innings and two in the third. A total of 9 runs were scored by the Angels in the fifth. The Bears scored their allotted five runs in the bottom of the first, but were held to one run in the second inning and blanked through the fourth.

Dave Matthews, Lakeshore Drive, Boyne City, proved the experts wrong over the weekend by picking nine bushels of white morels. He said he found them all in two days of picking when many experts are saying the season is over. Matthews found them all in the Chandler Hill, Jordan Valley area. "It was the best I ever did," he told the Press. "But they were far apart and hard to find." The mushrooms left Monday afternoon for the Golden Mushroom, a restaurant in Southfield that specializes in mushroom cooking.

Commissioners decide name change

Boyer City--With both the city manager and the city clerk off the meetings, the weekly Tuesday noon meeting of the Boyne City Commissioners took care of a few questions covering the annual mayors' exchange next Thursday and Friday, and agreed not to change the name of Lakeshore Drive within the city limits. The name change was requested by the county who wants to rename the road between the city limits and Advance, Ferry Road. The road changes to Ferry Road at Advance. Commissioners, after hearing comments from some of the pro-party owners within the city as being opposed to the change of the name, agreed to let it stand. Plans for the mayors' exchange dinner were discussed as the mayor of Bridgeman and his staff will be coming north for the activities that are part of Michigan Week. In another matter, Commissioner Bill Grimm wanted to have the next commission meeting be a work session to review what went on at the last monthly evening meeting when over 100 residents appeared to oppose the assessment idea to help pay for needed repairs to the city water, sewer lines and streets. Grimm said he hopes to have some good come out of the work session to help the city find a way to finance the work that needs to be done. A report was heard on the success of the clean-up campaign the city was involved with over the weekend. Four large dumpsters, two small ones, a couple of pickups, and a flatbed truck were filled to capacity with the refuse brought in and collected by the volunteers.

Sisters design Boyne tee-shirts

Boyer City finally has an exclusively designed tee-shirt, thanks to two sisters, Chris Knight and Julie Kenny. The two combined their talents and created the shirts just for the Boyne City area, they said recently. Both wanted a "pure" design for the women's shirt that would combine many of the elements that make Boyne City the beautiful and unique city it is, according to one of the designers. The women's shirt features maple and birch trees, mushrooms, butterflies and, of course, the lake with the sunset. The men's shirt features a comical picture of a fisherman in a boat with a large fish in the water looking at the hook the fisherman is trying to catch fish with. Chris had the idea to create the designer shirts after getting tired of always buying tee-shirts with just the name of the town imprinted on them. "Boyer City means so much to me, I wanted to do something special for it," she said. She lives in Illinois and was buying tee shirts from many of the places the family would visit while on vacations. She is originally from Boyne City.

She spent weeks drawing up sketches and the resketching. Then she sent some of the designs to her sister, Julie, who lives here in Boyne City who in turn got some opinions from other Boyne City residents. Julie sent back the results of her questions along with some suggestions to make changes in the designs. After a couple of the suggestions were incorporated into the designs the artwork was sent to a printer to make the shirts. Although Chris lives in Illinois, the former resident plans on moving back to the area in the near future and opening a business here in the community. Until then, she has to be content living in Illinois with her husband and two children. The family comes back to Boyne to visit a couple of times a year. The other half of the design team, Julie, lives in Boyne City with her husband Tim. He works in East Jordan for Altair/Augat. The shirts are available only from Huff Pharmacy and will only be sold in Boyne City, the sisters say.

Julie Kenny models one of the tee shirts while holding the men's version. The shirts were designed with Boyne City in mind and are available only in Boyne.

First business opens in BC mall

If you were to ask Glenn Gillie or his wife Pam whether their new business is going to balloon, both would probably answer yes as the heart of the business, call Hearts Content, is the selling of balloons and baskets for almost any occasion. The two have started their new business as one of the first occupants of the recently completed mall in the former Schafer building in Downtown Boyne City. The two have balloons and baskets for parties, anniversaries, weddings or just any other reason you could think of when you want to find something different for a gift.

They will make up baskets for all those times when you need something to give, also.

One basket they have is called "party in a basket" and features party hats, party poppers, noisemakers, confetti and balloons. That is just one of the many different baskets they will make up for those wanting to buy.

They also make up special baskets for someone in the hospital, someone staying at home, or any reason.

The firm, which opened the doors in time for Mother's Day, also has a party decorating service, plants, and other gifts including stained glass pieces.

The Gillies moved into the East Jordan area about six months ago after working as an electrician in the Detroit area. She was a hair stylist although she is now working for LexaMar in Boyne City.

"We know this is still a new thing to the area," Gillie said, "And it will take a little while to get it going."

Glenn Gillie adjusts one of the displays in his new store that features balloons and party baskets. The store is the first to open in the new mall that was formerly the Schafer Building.

They were the first to get a location open in the new mall and are located on the second floor in one of the small shop spaces. Eight businesses are planned for the mall with the others starting to move in shortly.

Gillie thinks Boyne City will be a good place for his type of business as he thinks it is a better area for business. He figures the newly restored building will help him as it is a draw unto itself.

He did add that he will be taking orders by phone or you could come to the store. Their phone service is open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Gillie said they will be delivering most of the baskets and balloons he makes up for the occasions. He has a clown outfit he can wear to deliver the birthday presents, for example to kids celebrating at a party. The firm is also specializing in plant baskets that will keep around the house as a lasting reminder of the good time the basket brought.

The store is unique for Boyne City as it is one of the first really specialty stores starting to come into town.

In another action, the planners agreed to let the builders of 117 Water Street, the former Li'l Pub have a second story office. The 12 foot by 9 foot building was a point of contention to the planners as it was started before getting a change approval from the planners.
