City fathers castigate area daily newspaper

Boyer City Commissioners spent most of their Tuesday noon meeting castigating the Petoskey News-Review concerning what the commissioners called biased reporting about the former Boyne City Landfill.

Almost all of the commissioners took their turn telling about the incident where the News-Review had written a front page headline article making Boyne City out to be the "bad guys" because they have done very little to cap and finally close the landfill which the city operated for the area for many years.

The meeting was opened by Commissioner Steve Moody saying the article was "unkind" and should have stated all of the facts concerning the landfill. Moody told the audience and the other commissioners that the landfill, when it was opened, was on a site designated by the authority in charge at the time, the State Department of Health. It met all of the rules for landfills under those guidelines, Moody continued, and because the landfill operations moved to the Department of Natural Resources, and the rule changes that followed, the city should not be required to comply with the closing of the landfill. Commissioner Cass Toton jumped in saying, "we could have fought the DNR another five years and kept it open, but we complied with their request to close it. They have mandated the closing of landfills and they, under the terms of the Headlee Amendment, have to provide the funds to do the work. So far they haven't."

The Headlee Amendment requires the state to fund all costs if they change rules through a governing agency that would require compliance. The DNR or the state is supposed to fund the capping of the landfill, according to Toton.

The newspaper had printed a picture of work in progress, calling it uncapped and uncovered refuse. That picture brought in the former operator of the landfill Clarence Smith, who was contracted to do the work by the city, to say he would take full responsibility for the crushed white goods the picture shows. He has been working since early spring to crush, load and remove the refrigerators, and other large appliances. Smith said the picture is a "total misrepresentation of what the landfill is like."

He added that the "news media comes to their own conclusions. They never have asked me questions as to what we were doing."

City Attorney Bill McTaggart then said, "The city was and is, in my opinion, under no obligation to close the dump. When the city did, they did it by choice to help the environment."

"Now, the DNR wants the city to spend about one-half million dollars to cap it. When the state provides the money, then it will be capped."

As to money for capping the landfill, the city was one of the first to apply for grants under the new Clean Michigan Fund, Toton said. "But everyone around us got money for projects, but none came into Charlevoix County."

McTaggart said the city ought to be commended instead of criticized for closing the landfill.

Moody then told the commissioners that when the dump was opened, the health department had said, according to their scientists, the landfill base should be sandy. Then the DNR changed the rules and said the landfills should have a clay base. He asked which is the right way? He also implied the DNR doesn't know which is right either as they have not been able to answer questions themselves.

Moody then said the news article showed the city has been doing nothing and failed to respond to a letter sent out to the city and to Evangeline Township where the landfill is located. He said just the opposite is being done, the city has voluntarily closed the landfill and is waiting the funding from the state to see that it is properly capped.

He said "We can't ask just the taxpayers of the community to pay for the capping when every township around the landfill also used it, including the state."

City Manager Randy Frykberg told the commissioners he was working on a plan with the DNR, the Soil and Conservation crew and an engineer. He did not release any details to the plan as it is still in negotiations with all of the parties. "Until we work all the details, the only thing I can say is 'no comment,'" he added.

Frykberg also said the DNR can proceed with what they want. The city will continue to work on the plan and then follow it after it is presented and approved by the commissioners.

The letter from the DNR had suggested they would be looking into legal action, if a reply was sent to them within a time limit. The city did not respond within the limit.

The commissioners cited the case where the DNR has sued a landfill in the Upper Peninsula and had lost the case. The DNR had mandated that landfill to be closed and had not provided any money to cap it as they required.

Commissioners also brought up the many other landfills that are not in compliance and have not been under the DNR pressure to have them closed. Cited were the Petoskey landfill, the Indian River landfill, which is on state property and others.

This led to a discussion that the DNR only responds to complaints, and through the efforts of the Evangeline Township Board, they have been working on the Boyne City Landfill case instead of working on landfill problems where they have not had complaints.

One landfill in Petoskey was said to have leaked a blue leachate recently. Their landfill is in the area of the ice skating rinks. Other landfills cited have been closed for years but have not yet been capped as required.

One of the findings of the Boyne City research on the landfill is that the natural water flow is going to the center of the landfill and not traveling, according to Frykberg. That finding along with others are being considered in the plans being proposed for the final capping.

The monthly food distribution will be held Wednesday, July 30, from 10 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. or until the food is gone. Sites for the food giveaway are at the Community Services Building in Boyne City, VFW Hall in Charlevoix, and the Civic Center in East Jordan. The items for this month include cheese, flour and rice.

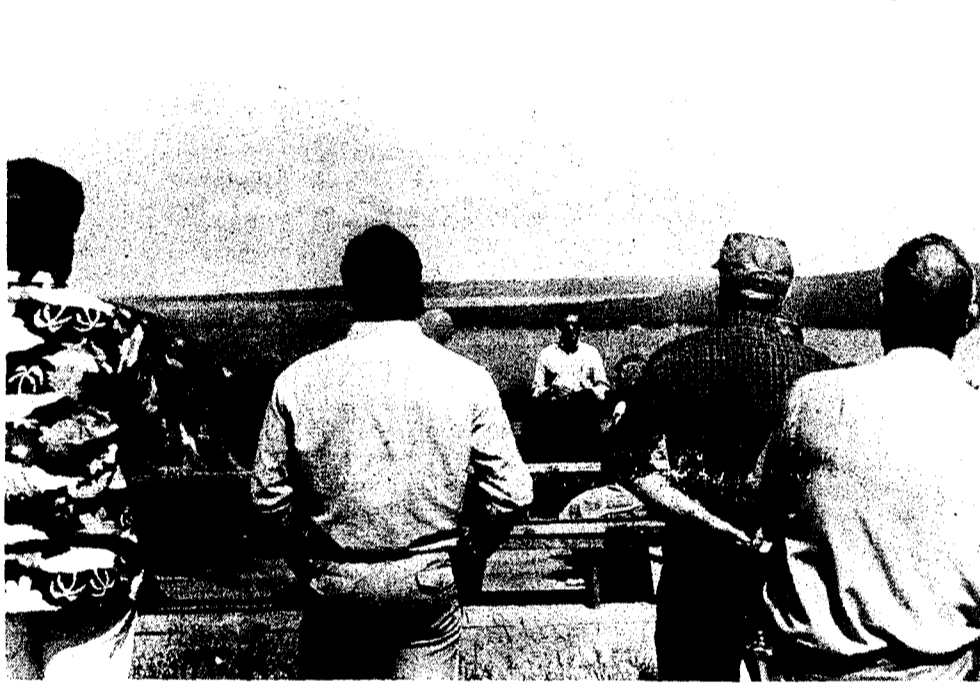

The annual meeting of the Lake Charlevoix Association will be held August 5th at community building of the Whiting County Park beginning at 7:30 p.m. The organization will be looking at many amendments to the articles in incorporation, including a name change from the Lake Charlevoix Property Owners' Association.

The District Health Department No. 3 immunization clinic will have new hours for August only. Shots will be given on the first Thursday from 9:30 to 11:00 a.m. and from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m.

East Jordan High School will be holding the 55th class reunion, for those who graduated in 1931, Saturday July 26th at 6:00 p.m. in the St. Joseph Parish Hall in East Jordan.

Boyer dedicates Avalanche steps

Members of the City Commission, visitors and workers dedicated the top of stairway to the stars at Avalanche Preserve Monday. The building of the stairs to the top of the hill took over three years using the workers from the Youth Employment Corps. The steps, all 488 of them, lead up the side of the hill and end at a platform where the view of Lake Charlevoix is tremendous. Monday, the tower of the Medusa Cement Plant in Charlevoix could be seen. The ceremony included the cutting of the balloons to mark the completion of the steps. Mayor Pro Tem Thelma Behling cut the ribbons holding the balloons. In the top photo, City Manager Randy Frykberg explained the building process to those who ventured to the top for the ceremony.

High water causing sewer problems

High groundwater levels are causing a problem for campers wishing to camp in the East Jordan Tourist Park. They are finding they can't use the individual sewer hook-ups at the park because the groundwater is seeping into them and causing the city's sewer treatment plant to run beyond its treatment capacity.

The finding and the closure of the hook-ups was the result of a preliminary evaluation by the Public Works Superintendent, "Mike" Dionne. He said the area of the Tourist Park has the greatest infiltration. Campers using the park will have to use the common pump-out station while the city is seeking bids to replace the sewer line to the bath houses and the hook-ups.

The shutoff of the sewer lines in the park will be affecting 64 campsites.

The city has hired an engineering firm from Grand Rapids to study the system and make recommendations. The study is to identify the sources of the infiltration, decide alternatives and then prepare plans for increasing the capacity of the sewer treatment plant.

One of the ideas being presented would have the city build another lagoon near the airport, the site of two existing lagoons. The cost for the lagoon would be less and take fewer hours to maintain, according to Mike Chew, the head of the sewer plant. It would also allow the city to eliminate a digester and sludge drying beds near the Sportsmen's Park. The beds have caused an odor problem in the area, residents have said.

The council then took steps to clarify the billing procedure for property owners affected by the

Boyer planners okay industrial site plans

Boyer City planners, Monday night, approved two site plans for work that has already started on plants in the new Air-Industrial Park.

The two plants include Prestige Press and Temprel Products Company who were given the approval after a review of each site plan. Both were approved with little changes.

In making the request for Temprel, Bob Cousineau showed the planners a 4,000 square foot building. The planners asked only he provide an area outside of the building for refuse and he show a designated truck loading area on the plan. Cousineau said he expected to have the building completed by October 15.

The plans call for a building to be constructed on concrete, steel, brick and wood.

While the Prestige Press held their groundbreaking last Wednesday, actual construction was waiting the approval of their new building. President of the firm Doug Shields told the planning board he was going to raise the entire building about three feet so he would have natural

BY JIM SILBAR

When the area goes through a hot spell like last week, it seems that everything slows down as the workers of the world just don't care to work, and even the vacationers don't want to do the normal things like lay on the beach.

They are smart. They all want to live in the lake, even if it is colder than most would like in their bath.

How hot was it? Well, I saw a thermometer at Carter's last week Thursday that was part of their sidewalk sale display. It was registering about 120 degrees. It was also on the top of a pile of guages, so I wondered if it was broken or something. After all, 120 degrees is a bit much, even for a guy who loves to go to Florida in the summertime.

So I went on down through the pile. The one under the top was registering 115 degrees, and the next 112, then 103, and finally, on the bottom, the thermometer was reading 98.

Climbing back into my air-conditioned car, I drove over to Charlevoix.

Being curious as to how many people were on the beach, I stopped to take a look. Some little kid ran by me as I walked to the beach...looking like a prune.

He had stayed in the water so long his skin was wrinkled. I chalked up another smart kid.

I wished I could have spent the day in the water, too.

Then I drove to Petoskey. The town surprised me. Here it was, the top of the tourist season, the time when you would think all the shops in the Gaslight would be bustling with people. A time when, due to the heat, it took an hour for the fudge to cool down enough for the fudgemakers to work it, and what did I see?

A parking space. Right in front of the store where I wanted to go.

It amazed me. In fact, it was the first time since last winter when I could find a parking space in that town without having to drive around the block a couple of times.

I think everybody who was anybody made their way to the beach.

This country is crazy like that. When the weather is hot, the stores don't do well.

It was almost the same in Boyne that day. During the sidewalk sale, one merchant told me it was slow in comparison to previous years. But, he added, it was steady and that helped make the day enjoyable.

That is one of the nice things about living up here. The enjoyment that hot weather can create.

To some, the hot weather was miserable. Someone said the older you get, the less you can tolerate the hot weather. I agree. I would also agree the older you get, the harder it is to tolerate cold weather.

What we need around here is some weather that is just right for all.

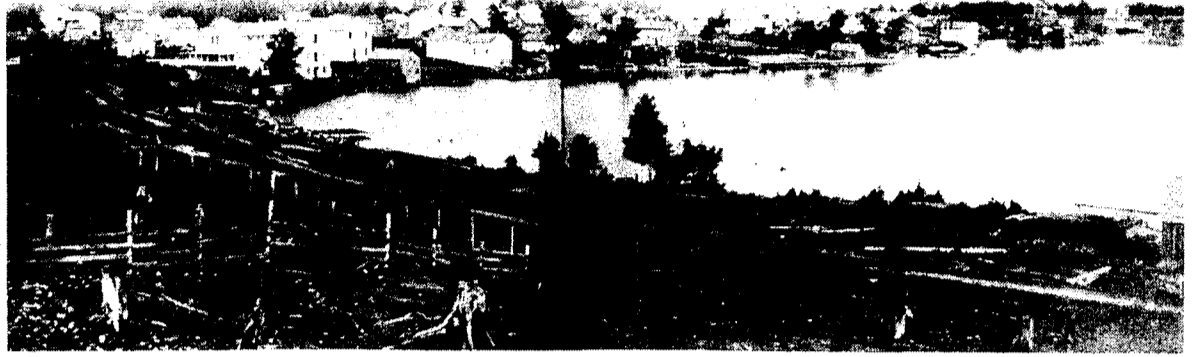

Snow on the hill at Boyne Mountain, swimming weather on the beach in Boyne City.

Speaking of beaches, with the construction all but closing down the beach a lot of folks used last year, many have found the beach at North Boyne, just behind the office.

Last week I sure got envious of all those using it. I would like to have been able to just jump in myself.

The next time we have one of those infrequent hot spells, I think I will.

BY GAIL WARE

The first-born child has a tough way to go. What with starting life with inexperienced parents and trying to live up to their bewildering array of expectations, as well as interpreting their moods and tastes to the children that come after him, he's heir to a host of responsibilities. But there's a bright side to his lot, a gift amid the grubbiness. As first in the birth order, he's most likely to be the brightest of the bunch.

At least U. of M. psychologist, Robert B. Zajonc, figures it that way. It's part of his "confluence theory", a theory that was laid out in a recent issue of Northwest Michigan Vacationer.

Zajonc came up with his theory while researching the reason for the drop in SAT scores from the '60s to the '80s. SATs are those white-knuckle tests many college-bound students take that are supposed to predict their success in college, and occasionally do.

Other researchers figured that the dirty air or newfangled food was at the root of the problem. But Zajonc is convinced that it was bigger families reducing the level of the intellectual climate of the household that did it.

Intellectual climate, in his view, is the key to verbal ability on which academic tests are based. The best climate exists in households where the ratio of adults to children favors adults. Once the children outnumber the adults, the climate gets diluted.

The psychologist further believes that birth order affects children's intelligence. The first-born has the richest intellectual environment, thus the best mind. The more older brother and sisters a child has, the poorer his intellectual environment. And the birth of children after him, thins the air even more.

Students taking the SATs from '63 through '80 averaged third-born. Those who took the test in the '80s, when the test scores began rising again, averaged second-born. They also came from smaller families.

As further proof of Zajonc's theory, students from all grade levels taking the Iowa Basic Skills tests did less well during the era of big families and better thereafter.

Zajonc's "confluence theory" clearly points to the first-born as the most favored one in the brain power category. But while brightest, he's not likely to be lightest. He carries the load of his parent's child-rearing notions.

First-time parents come to their roles armed with absolutes like "always" and "never". They also carry bits of information gleaned from child-raising books which they have pieced together as they've seen fit. The child's self-interest meets the zeal of the parents in a struggle of wills. In time, the encounters bend the parents a little, make the child resilient and simplify life considerably for subsequent children.

The first-born is given his position at birth. Then he spends the next eighteen years or so paying for it. Enriched, enlightened climate and all, being number one child is a tough way to go. But Zajonc's "confluence theory" does offer some compensation.

I see by the papers that the question of having a death penalty in Michigan may not go on the state election ballot after all. Of course not. It would be silly for Michigan to hang people who have been born to be taxed to death.

Up here on Mount Rush More it was eighty degrees above zero at one o'clock in the morning. That was the temperature in our bedroom where all the steam from the Fourth of July seemed to have settled. Ninety-five in the afternoon and drooling hot at night. The humidity was so high I would have welcomed a good dose of artificial respiration. Sure our windows were open, but nothing was stirring not even a mouse. It was so hot I couldn't think; that made it worse because most of my thinking is done in the bedroom when all is quiet in ragweed heaven. At long last I threw myself on the bed and slept with nothing on. What a no, no, that turned out to be. At eight o'clock in the morning a woman rapped on the door. I was barely out of bed.

With the truth on one side of me and the Lord on the other, I don't feel that I lost any bacon by releasing the above adventure.

We need the help of all who enjoy and care for this beautiful city. Recently someone has vandalized the flowers that the Garden Club has planted. The flowers on Lake Street Bridge have been destroyed on two separate occasions, and the trees planted in the new Mall downtown, were pulled from the ground at night.

We who plant, water, and care, need your help to watch and inform the police if you see anyone destroying property. Those who find joy in destruction will stop when they are caught and punished.

We have an unique, beautiful city, help us keep it that way, do not ignore those who want to take it away, piece by piece.

When you go to Petoskey you see everyone in the world going there and then you see everyone in the world coming back.

Blame the automobile. When it came to the fore, people got to not liking where they were; and then radio and television opened the world to us, prompting people to look at their own surroundings and saying, "Ugh!" They didn't even want to read about things as they were.

Thus it came to pass that people dislike many things as they are and also do not want to be where they are. Take the auto and TV away and Boyne City would retreat to the dead calm days of my youth, when coming to pass had no meaning in our town.

I may not have explained this too clearly so I would recommend a second reading and perhaps a public hearing before taking a vote on it.

Daily newspaper columnists who tell things as they are bore me. Like ex-presidents, they should find some place to hide their heads.

In other action, the commissioners approved the second reading of a change in the zoning ordinance concerning the former Boyne City Locker Plant. The new owners had requested the land be rezoned from general commercial to R-3 multiple family residential.

Nellie Flodquist asked the commissioners to not approve the rezoning as it would cause her to lose her view of the lake if the developers built what has been proposed. She was told that the place to express her concerns would be at the site plan review meeting when the developer will be proposing what they intend to do with the property. That meeting will be held next Monday evening.

The commissioners also approved Sandy Stanley to become a member of the Historical Advisory Board. She will be replacing the seat formerly held by Vera Tokoly.

The commissioners then agreed to let Frykberg and McTaggart work out the details concerning a contract between the city and Northern Associates, the contractor of the new Peninsula Beach. One of the details included a one year bond guarantee by the contractor and a four year corporation and personal guarantee by the Smith brothers.

Also brought up was the continuing problem of vandalism throughout the city.

The flower boxes along the Park Street Bridge and the doors to the Municipal Boat Launch restrooms have been destroyed recently by vandalism.

The city is offering a reward of $500 leading to the arrest and conviction of those who did the vandalism.

Rural geriatric training set for Grayling

A four week clinical elective in Rural Geriatrics, will be held during August, 1986 in Grayling. The Northern Michigan Area Health Education Center, in conjunction with Central Michigan University, Ferris State College, Michigan State University, Saginaw Valley State College, Madonna College, and Western Michigan University, are all contributing to, and supporting, this educational experience. This elective is designed to offer an interdisciplinary experience in a rural community to third-year medical students, undergraduate and graduate nursing students, health education students, pharmacy students, nutrition and dietetics students, physician assistant's students and gerontology students. The Rural Geriatrics Clerkship, which is being supported by the Region IX Area Agency on Aging, will channel students through the many phases of care available to healthy elderly as well as those who need to enter and move through the health care system.

The site selected for this experience is the community of Grayling in Crawford county. Using the Senior Center as the core of operations, students will be exposed to the elderly on a social basis, as well as follow the cycle of care through Mercy Hospital in Grayling, Timberview, the Region IX, local physician's office, Mac's Drugs, Roscommon Clinic, and the Region IX Area Agency on Aging's Case Management Program. The students will work with both community-based clinical teachers and campus-based clinical teachers and campus-based clinical faculty.

Students will live with members of the community for the four weeks and will be able to experience total involvement in the community activities and life-styles of the elderly in a rural area.

Barthelemy completes ships schooling

Navy Seaman Apprentice Kevin L. Barthelemy, whose wife, Ruth, is the daughter of Elsie Abbott of Boyerne City, MI, recently completed the Precommissioning Unit of the Theodore Roosevelt "School of the Ship" course. The two-week course on board the aircraft carrier Theodore Roosevelt, based at Newport News, VA, deals with daily shipboard life, the ship's role in national defense, as well as its design and operating procedures, which will be applicable when the ship is commissioned in 1987. A 1978 graduate of Champaign Central High School, Champaign, IL, he joined the Navy in May 1985.

Planners

They also agreed to ask for help from the professional planners Johnson, Johnson and Roy to have them find space within the city for professional offices and for general commercial zoning. The planners have been looking at three different areas for that type of growth and are hoping the professional planning firm will agree with them on the locations. They also are planning to address the building of middle income housing. One of the members of the planning board said the city doesn't have an area designated for middle income housing and if the city doesn't provide it, the people will go somewhere else, possibly outside of the community.

drainage for his truck well as well as the rest of the site. Shields plans on building a 4,800 square foot building on lot number one in the park. The building will feature a stucco siding with brown and white trim, Shields told the board. The firm is moving from Shields present location on Springwater Beach as his business has outgrown the basement facility. He was told to screen the dumpster area while another suggestion, to have a lighted parking lot, went unheeded as the firm is planning on lighting coming off the building to be adequate for the parking area. In other action, the planners okayed for the next meeting a discussion concerning home businesses.

Ironworks take Carey's

By Dennis Skrocki with Dick Quilar coming on in relief. Taking the loss for Carey's Corner Jordan Carpet was Dale Upper who went the distance. Leading the 10 hit score of 10-0 on attack for Tom's Diesel was Darren Graham with three; Mike Graham with two (one being a grand slam in the first inning); and Tracy Donaldson, Tom Birgy, Tom Reid, Jim Petrie, and Bill Reid with one hit each. Collecting hits for Jordan Carpet were Mark Detlaff and John Sleeper with two; and Dale Bayster and Dana Waati with one each. Friday night action saw East Jordan Iron Works beat Yesterday's Treasures 12-8 in the first game. The winning pitcher for Iron Works was Dave Skrocki with Steve Goebel making a relief appearance in the fifth. Taking the loss for Yesterday's Treasures was Ray Argetsinger. Strong hitting appeared to be a factor for both teams throughout the game. Getting hits for Iron Works were Scott Meade and Steve Goebel with three (two of Goebel's were home runs); Bill Crick with two; and Mike Skop and Steve Leaman with one each. For Yesterday's Treasures Pat Piechocki had three hits including a home run; Larry Huckle collected two; and Steve Renaud, Chip Brown, Ray Argetsinger, and Jeff Piechocki obtained one each. In the second game Black's Upholstery edged Jordan Carpet with a score of 7-5. Black's broke a 4-4 deadlock in the top of the seventh and final inning and held on defensively in the bottom for the victory. The winning pitcher for Black's was John Skop while Jordan Carpet pitcher Dale Upper took the loss despite tossing a two hitter in which errors seemed to be the downfall. Black's two hits came from the bats of John Skop and Greg Kitson. For Jordan Carpet Doug Stark collected three hits; Mark Detlaff two; and Dale Bayster, Paul Walden and Bill Knop one each.

The game was called after five innings due to the mercy rule which states that if a team leads by 10 or more runs anytime after the fifth inning, the team in the lead gets the win after the inning is completed. Dennis LaPeer accounted for three of the ten Iron Works hits with a double and two singles. Also collecting hits were Mitch Bittenbender and Steve Leaman with two; and Tom Peters, Ernie Devroo and Doug Peck with one each. Two of the three Carey's hits came from bat of Randy Morris with the other coming from Rich Clark. In the second game, Tom's Diesel took Jordan Carpet 14-9. The win was sparked by an eight run first inning in which all but one of the Tom's Diesel players scored. Getting the pitching win for Tom's was Ralph Knapp

Walkoon's West Arm Sailing Club news

It has been some time since the Sailing Club had to shorten the course in the middle of the race. Saturday, July 19, 1986, was one of those times. At 1:45 p.m., there was no wind at all; at 2:00 p.m., the start of the race, the wind had picked up and it looked promising. Thirteen sailboats started out with a fresh breeze and high hopes toward the first mark. As it got better, the wind died, and Rear Commodore, George Hartman, suggested to the race committee that the course be shortened. The hot and thirsty sailors agreed wholeheartedly.

Nancy Shepard in the Highlander crossed the line first. The corrected finishers were as follows: Arnie Morawa (Innerlake) first; Nancy Shepard (Highlander) second; Bob Schoenfeld (Rhodes 19) third; Bill Fairhurst (Ensign) fourth; Carol Crowe (Sunfish) fifth; Dave Crothers (Laser 1) sixth; Paul Schroeder (Laser 2) seventh;

Don Owen (Bucaneer) eighth; Ray Johnson (Mutineer) ninth; Brad Owen (Hobie Cat 16) tenth; George Hartman (Scow) eleventh; Matt Cavell (Laser 2) twelfth; and Steve Johnson (Sailfish) did not finish due to equipment malfunction.

Saturday, July 26, 1986, will be the second Sunfish race. On Sunday, July 27, will be the junior's race. Starting times are 2:00 p.m. All sailors are welcome. For further information call Commodore Don Anderson, 347-8049.

Superior is featured in an exhibit that will visit three Upper Peninsula communities' this summer.

The exhibit, sponsored by the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service, features 21 photographs of the research craft Star Link II and its work in the Great Lakes. A life-size mural is also part of the display, which was prepared by the MSU Museum. University faculty members led the first expedition to the bottom of the largest of the Great lakes, using the vessel for the first time in fresh water.

The Great Lakes

Shipwreck Historical Society will host the exhibit in its museum at Whitefish Point from mid-July through Aug. 8.

Its next stop will be Aug. 12-17 at the MSU Cooperative Extension Service area at the U.P. State Fair in Escanaba.

The Marquette Maritime Museum will co-sponsor the display in its facilities at Marquette from Aug. 19 through mid-September.

Anyone interested in reserving the display for future use in the Upper Peninsula should contact

Castle Farms

Tella-Charge for the show at 616-963-8080.

For more information call Charlevoix Productions at 517-323-2345.

Castle Farms Music Theatre is located two miles south of Charlevoix, Michigan on Highway M-66. The Castle was built in 1918 by Albert and Anna Loeb with money acquired through their prosperous mail order house, Sears and Roebuck. It is modeled after the castles along the Rhine in Germany and was originally a dairy farm.

The Regional round of the American Cancer Society Golf Tournament will be played at 1:15 p.m. August 3 at Boyne Mountain's Alpine course.

According to Irene Christenson, spokesperson for the event, men and women's 4-person teams will compete in handicap and scratch scramble play, with winning teams from each division to compete in the ACS State Finals September 6 and 7 at Boyne Highlands. Winners there will compete in the National Tournament at a site to be determined. In 1985 the finals were held in Florida.

"It's a worthy cause," said Christenson, "and a great deal of fun. But we'd really like a few more teams, both men's and women's. The cost is only $50, and it's deductible. We'll award trophies to division winners and snacks and refreshments will be served." Four teams in all will qualify for the State Finals. A women's scratch and a women's handicap team, and a men's scratch and men's handicap team.

Making up one team in the women's handicap division are [L to R] Lois Kircher, Irene Christenson, Mary Jane Zinn and Donna Moll.

The Castle is ideally situated in the heart of Michigan's flourishing tourist industry. A year around population of just over 200,000 grows to just under one million at any given time between the Fourth of July and Labor Day. The local population has virtually no year-round concert venues, thus increasing their hunger for this summer series. The bulk of the summer population is vacation oriented and has increased spendable income and leisure time. This unmatched combination of factors is serving to make this facility one of increasing demand. The concert series is limited to 8-15 acts each summer. The aesthetics of The Castle is an attraction in itself. Performers and concert goers alike are overwhelmed by the beauty and versatility of this facility.

The seating capacity for The Castle is 5,328 reserved theatre seats and 9,672 general admission lawn for a total capacity of 15,000. The main parking area for patrons is located just off M-66 on the south side of the road. A second lot is adjacent to the left side of the facility. These two lots combined provide parking for up to 4,000 cars.

There are several hotels and airport facilities in the Charlevoix area for the concert convenience. Some of the outstanding groups that entertained at The Castle in the past include The Doobie Brothers, Chicago, Bob Segar, REO Speedwagon, and Huey Lewis & the News.

Unless pollution is curbed, 25 percent of the world's usable water will be unsafe by the year 2000, says International Wildlife magazine.

Top O'Michigan marathon Aug. 9-10

In the heart of northern Michigan's popular resort country, just 35 miles south of the "Big Mac" bridge, begins 40 miles of lake-river waterway that is considered to be one of the most beautiful small boat trips in the country.

New prizes added to golf challenge

The jackpot for the 1986 Michigan Golf Challenge open tournament has been sweetened with 15 new prizes. Entrants in the statewide contest will compete for weekend or five-day visits to each of the 18 public courses represented in the 7,146 yard, par 72 "course."

Sponsored by the Michigan Travel Bureau, the Challenge is open to all golfers, who may enter by playing nine or 18 holes. Two 18-hole winners and one nine-hole winner will receive an engraved trophy and a five-day midweek golf package for two at their choice of Crystal Mountain Resort in Thompsonville, Grand Traverse Resort in Traverse City, or Shanty Creek/Schuss Mountain Resort in Thompsonville, Grand Traverse Resort in Traverse City, or Shanty Creek/Schuss Mountain Resort in Bellaire. All winners will be chosen by drawing.

Fifteen first prizes will provide a weekend of golf at the following courses: A-Ga-Ming (Elk Rapids)/Antrim Dells (Ellsworth), Bay Valley Hotel and Resort (Bay City), Boyne USA Resorts (Boyne Falls), Candlestone Inn (Belding), Cascades Golf Course (Jackson), Forest Akers Golf Course (East Lansing), Grand Haven Golf Club (Grand Haven), Indian Lake Hills Golf Course (Eau Claire), Keweenaw Mountain Lodge (Copper Harbor), Old Channel Trail (Montague), Pine Knob Golf Course (Clarkston), River Woods Golf Course (Lake Isabella), Saskatoon (Grand Rapids), Shanty Creek/Schuss Mountain Resort (Bellaire), and Valley View Inn Golf Course (Shepard).

All first prize packages include complimentary greens fees, accommodations and meals, which may be arranged by each sponsor with local hospitality businesses as part of the package. All 18-hole entrants will receive a personal certificate signed by Governor James J. Blanchard, and all nine-hole entrants will be awarded a certificate of achievement.

To enter the contest, which runs June 1 to October 15, golfers can use the entry form that will be available at participating Michigan golf courses, or a facsimile, sending it with their scorecards and dates of play to the 1986 Michigan Gold Challenge, 1600 Penobscot Building, Detroit, 48226. For more information, call 1-800-5432-YES.

Cheboygan and the Straits of Mackinac. It will accommodate boats up to 30' in length.

The water route goes back over 100 years when it was first used by Indians in canoes as a method of travel from Lake Huron across the northern tip of Michigan's lower peninsula and later for transporting forest products during Michigan's lumbering era, according to West Michigan Tourist Association.

On August 9-10 the inland waterway will be the scene for the Top O' Michigan Marathon Association's 35th running of the Stock Outboard National Championship Race sponsored by Between Friends Restaurant on Crooked Lake and Pepsi Cola Company.

This year's event will have more than 100 racers and 25,000 spectators. Special events will be staged in nearby towns in conjunction with race activities.

Race events will start at 12 noon both days (Saturday and Sunday) at Between Friends Restaurant on Crooked Lake (just north of Petoskey along US-31), go through Crooked River to Burt Lake, through Indian River to Mullet Lake and return to Crooked Lake. Boats will reach speeds of up to 70 miles per hour.

The seven national champions crowned will qualify for points sanctioned by the American Boat Association for accumulation for 1986 national titles.

The Top O' Michigan Marathon was conceived in the summer of 1949. At that time it was an 87-mile race course, which included Burt, Crooked and Mullet Lakes and Crooked, Indian and Cheboygan Rivers and that race remained virtually unchanged from 1949 to 1968. During that period the race enjoyed the distinction of being the oldest and largest Stock Outboard Marathon. In 1957, Eddie Tom of Ft. Wayne, Indiana, miraculously conquered the 87-mile course in 87 minutes. That mile-a-minute pace still stands because in 1968 the course was altered and shortened to today's 40-mile length.

The race is one of the most challenging to Stock Outboard racers because of the inland water-way's unique and winding course.

Additional information on the event may be obtained from the Top O' Michigan Marathon Association, 379 Cedar Point Drive, Indian River,
