Boyne City planners OK condo project

Boyne City planners approved the building of 12 condominium-townhouses units Monday to be located on the former Boyne Locker Plant property along North Lake Street.

Their approval, however, was with some reservations concerning the set back requirements for four of the connecting units which may have to get a variance from the Zoning Board of Appeals. The planners also required changes in the plans to allow for more visitor parking area, the location of the sign, the location for the dumpster, and the putting in of a sidewalk along the front of the property. The site, which is 1.28 acres, will have the 12 units in a staggered row. Each unit will be 1200 square feet and are expected to be in the $75,000 to $85,000 price range.

The two story units will be Victorian in style, according to the architect, Don Glowinski. A one car garage connected to the main body of the building plus one additional parking space is to be provided for each unit.

The project was given the name Fountain Square as the area in front of the building will have a pond with a fountain.

There is a flowing well on the property that will be used to provide the water for the pond. The water presently flows under the street and around the Landings Condominiums. A fountain is to be constructed in the large area of the pond to provide a visual highlight.

The building will be 27 feet 8 inches high, so those in the trailer park behind and around the property will still be able to look out over the site.

Building for the new project is expected to start immediately. The architect expects to have all 12 units completed within six to eight months.

The developer, Ingrid Connell of Bloomfield Hills, told the audience she would go along with the suggested changes like adding the sidewalk, but hopes the city could continue it further up and down the road.

When asked by Sandra Stanley as to why the planners recommended the change from commercial zoning to the proposed residential zoning when the planners are looking for additional commercially sited land, the planners told her they recommended the change as the property was zoned wrong. All of the land surrounding it is zoned R-3, which allows the building of the mobile home park and the Landings condos. The change makes the property in the area consistent.

Operators of the mobile home park and other adjacent property owners voiced no objections to the proposed plan as they all agreed anything was better than what was there after the fire.

The locker plant was destroyed by fire in the summer of 1984 and has been a known site for rats as the property owner never cleaned it up entirely as the city ordinance required.

Connell bought the property several months ago and has spent considerable money to remove the buildings in order to prepare the site for these condominiums.

Michigan's First Lady Paula Blanchard will certify and officially open the Boyne City Air Industrial Park on Monday, August 4. "The success of this park is a wonderful story," said Mrs. Blanchard. "It's a model for other northern Michigan communities which are trying to strike a balance between light industry and tourism." Beginning at 10 a.m., Mrs. Blanchard will cut a ribbon at the entrance to the industrial park to officially open it. She will be joined by Boyne City Mayor Keith Fitzpatrick, City Manager Randy Frykberg, Antrim-Charlevoix Growth Alliance Director Dick Beagle and other local officials. Mrs. Blanchard will present the Mayor with official state certification for the park. She also will tour the new 70,000 square-foot LexaMar Inc. plant which is expected to employ up to 150 persons. LexaMar is a modern injection-molded plastics operation that produces auto parts. The state provided funds for the industrial park feasibility study and a $300,000 Small Cities grant for public infrastructure improvements.

Audit shows Boyne books balance

"Boyne City did pretty much as planned" said Eric Peterson of the accounting firm of Hill Woodcock and Schroderus as he presented the results of the audit his firm did on the city's books for the fiscal year just ended.

He also said that the commissioners could not compare many parts of the audit with the one the firm did last year because the state has again made changes in the format the firm is required to use to meet the state guidelines.

While the audit showed the city took in more revenue than it shows it spent, Peterson said many transfers of funds make it look deceiving. Some funds were not counted on that part of the books but were in other areas.

He did say that the city seems to have stabilized the deficit spending in the water department and with the new rates and new services being added, the monies coming in will now start to help balance the fund.

He also suggested the city do some changes in their accounting methods to take care of areas which might not conform for this fiscal year. City Treasurer, Edith Beck, told the commissioners that was already being done on this year's budget.

Members of the city commission accepted the report and are taking it home for study.

In other action during the Tuesday noon meeting, the commissioners agreed to accept the low bid from Trumco Construction for the replacement of the well house on the city's well number one.

The city had shut down well number one after well number three came on line to do some maintenance and had to destroy the well house in order to pull the casing to clean the well point.

The new well house will actually be two rooms of a building, one to hold the chlorination equipment which is corroding well equipment.

The job will cost the city $15,487.36. The Trumco bid was the lowest of two bids received by the city.

Trumco will be given until November 1 to have the job completed.

Another bid was awarded to the C.H. Smith Company for the replacement of 650 feet of six inch sewer pipe along Front Street between Second and Pleasant Avenue. That project calls for the dewatering of the area so the contractor can get the sewer main in deep enough to clear the frost line, due to the high water table of Lake Charlevoix. The bid came in at $11,939.

Money to pay for the project will come from the water and sewer department reserve fund. Smith will have 60 days in which to complete the project, according to

Approved at Monday night's planning board meeting was this 12 unit victorian styled condominium-townhouse project to be built on property that formerly was the Boyne City Locker Plant. The project is to start immediately after the site has been prepared. Completion is expected in about eight months.

McCune hosts limited show for two artists

Harbor Springs potter Suzanne Hoppe and Grand Rapids watercolorist Margaret Vega will be featured in Limited Engagement Exhibitions to be held at the McCune Arts Center in Petoskey July 27 through August 1.

Hoppe, a long-time exhibitor in the Art Tree Sales Gallery and first prize winner in the 1984 Crooked Tree Arts Council juried crafts show, will be showing and selling work recently on exhibit in Kalamazoo, where she was part of a three-man show entitled "Dicta Gaia," Latin for "statement from the earth."

"Hoppe's ceramic work has an aura all its own," wrote Graig Hendrix, art critic for the Kalamazoo Gazette. "One particularly notices the subtle colors of smoky blue and burnt orange, combined with an overall fire-blackened appearance. One wonders how Hoppe is able to achieve the balance of color that is found in these strangely intriguing ceramic works. One has only one complaint about her work...there isn't enough of it."

Hoppe, a Muskegon native, earned her BA in anthropology and art from Western Michigan University, and pursued art by taking classes and workshops at the Kalamazoo Art Center and Community College. She attended the Supermud Conference in Pennsylvania in 1976, and apprenticed with Richard Sutton in Kalamazoo for a year.

Her work exhibits a fascination with the fluid, magnetic quality of clay and the unexpected, experimental results from glazes. She says she is drawn to the traditional, ageless qualities of clay as form and function, and enjoys the pleasing sense of harmony she feels when working with clay.

Margaret Vega will be exhibiting for the first time in the Northern Michigan area when she brings her collection to the Art Tree. She has become well-known for her watercolors of figures in motion, and has a string of one-man shows, awards, and corporate purchases to her credit.

She was the only Michigan artist chosen to exhibit in the 1983 Watercolor U.S.A. show at Springfield, Missouri in 1983, and most recently was featured in a solo show entitled "Spain: Transitional Windows" at the City Art Gallery in Grand Rapids.

Both Vega and Hoppe will be present to meet the public at a reception from noon to 2:30 p.m. Sunday, July 27.

FAMILY REUNIONS

It is almost time for our family reunion and I am delighted that this traditional institution is still in full swing. This is the season to meet at someone's home or a favorite park to eat, play games, re-hash old times or to celebrate just being together. What a wonderful way to appreciate where we have been and to help us discover where we are going.

Then there is:

TEXAS RANGER SHEET CAKE
George and Mary Lou Boney

The perfect dessert for a hungry crowd.
2 cups flour
2 cups sugar
2 eggs 1 (8 oz.) sour cream
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
Mix and save bowl for frosting.

The food at these reunions is sensational. Everyone takes his or her favorite dishes and recipes are exchanged. Some families go as far as to make up a cookbook composed of recipes from great-grandmother's molasses cake to junior's tacos.

"Mabel's Kitchen" by Edna Boney Brown of Aiden and owner of World Handicrafts at Clam River is just such a book. She says, "At 92 years of age, Mabel is well and still maintains her own home. She eats a well-balanced diet, exercises, and walks every day. She makes her own bread, does laundry and cleaning and keeps an active mind. Mabel's Kitchen still feeds family and friends often. Nov. 1984." What a beautiful tribute to her mother!

This book has recipes made through 5 generations. Reading about Mabel and her family was like a happy journey for me as their background was like mind; even took place during the same generations in the same thumb area of Michigan. I told Edna that reading it was almost like "going home."

Here are a few recipes from "Mabel's Kitchen."

What's a family reunion without beans?

Boil and add to the above:
2 sticks margarine
4 tablespoons cocoa
1 cup water
Mix and bake in jelly roll pan or cookie sheet with sides. Bake at 350 degrees, 20 minutes.

Boil in previously used pan
Frosting:
1 stick margarine
6 tablespoons milk
4 tablespoons cocoa

Add to 1 package confectioners sugar in large mixing bowl:
1 teaspoon vanilla and 1 cup chopped nuts.
Spread over warm cake.
Easy, moist and yummy!

One more recipe from Mabel's kitchen.

RHUBARB JAM
5 cups diced rhubarb
3 cups sugar
Mix and let set for 1 1/2 hours
Simmer 10 minutes and add 1 small package strawberry jello. Put in jars and refrigerate or freeze.

THREE BEAN BAKE
From Carol Brown, Edna's daughter.
1/2 lb. ground beef
1/2 cup chopped onions
1/2 lb. bacon
Cut bacon in small pieces, fry till crisp and drain. Brown onions and beef in a little of the bacon fat. Drain. Mix with bacon and set aside.

Then combine in a large casserole or Dutch oven.
1 small (8 oz.) can lima beans, drained
1 (28 oz.) can pork and beans, undrained
1/2 cup white sugar
2 tablespoons mustard (prepared kind)
1/2 cup bar-be-cue sauce
1 (16 oz.) can kidney beans, drained
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 cup catsup
Add the meat mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for at least one hour, uncovered.

The commissioners then replaced Sandra Stanley on the Historical Board. Last week, her name was proposed to be named to the board, but the board changed the time of their meeting and Stanley had to decline. The commissioners appointed Nancy Gowell in her place.

Solutions, not suits are answer to landfill money problems

Boyer City, according to one of the local newspapers in the area, is faced with a landfill problem that they say, should be capped with about three to five feet of clay and another two feet of topsoil. What they don't say, in their story with the blaring headline, is who is going to pay for it.

The Department of Natural Resources says they're not, they only mandate the closing. The city says it doesn't have the money, the state says the landfill is not a problem so they gave the money to other counties and turned down the city request for funds from the Clean Michigan Fund which was supposed to help pay for the closure and cleanup of dumps throughout the state.

Which leaves us back at square one.

Who is going to pay.

We are getting a little miffed at those who say it's a city problem.

Possibly because the city owns the property.

But the property was purchased under the direction of the state health department which had jurisdiction over the landfills at the time it was open.

Boyer City, at the time, had the foresight to know that dumping along the riverbank was not a good idea for the environment back when that was a word only used in college classrooms.

They initiated a search for a new place to dispose of the trash of the city and had the Health Department check out places to have a dump.

The city found two sites. One was on Clute Road, while the other was on Old Horton Bay Road.

Both were checked out by the department in charge at the time. Soil borings were made to determine the proper soil, water runoff was checked, and many other things were checked out.

When the scientists from the health department looked at all of the test results, they recommended the city purchase the site on the Old Horton Bay Road. At the time, the department thought it would meet all of the regulations known about seepage, leaching, and being able to contain the wastes.

Boyer City, trying to be a nice neighbor, let the surrounding townships dump their refuse in it. They also let the DNR dump its refuse. All because it met the regulations as a good landfill.

For many years it did. And it still does meet those regulations.

But, in a bureaucratic mess, the control of landfills was taken away from the State Health Department (evidently, someone high up thought they had too much to do just to check out all the circuses and carnivals food establishments to make sure they met all of the regulations), and the DNR took over.

After many years of study by DNR scientists, a new set of rules was formulated and approved by an environmentally vote concious legislature.

The result was that over 60 percent of the landfills then in operation had to be closed as they did not meet the new regulations.

The DNR has forced the state into a real mess because of those new regulations but that story will come in a few years when the state runs out of places to put its trash.

Boyer City's landfill was one that did not meet the new rules. The DNR asked Boyer City to close down the dump.

After a few years of trying to figure out a way to get rid of the garbage, seeing a state approved landfill in Kalkaska become contaminated and get closed down by the same agency which told the landfill how it should be built, the city finally stopped accepting refuse at the landfill.

Pressure to close the landfill from the township where it is located also had a lot to do with the closing.

The continuing pressure to have the landfill capped by the same township has brought the matter to where it is today.

The city was supposed to have signed a document saying it would do all of the things required to complete the closing of the landfill without regard to cost.

Not knowing where it was going to get the money, and not wanting to obligate the taxpayers for about a half million dollars, the city did not respond within the time limits the DNR had asked.

Now the DNR is thinking about suing the city. We think they should.

We also think the money to bring the case into court should come from the same pockets as those who want the final closure and are demanding it. If the township wants it closed, they should participate. If the DNR officialdom wants it closed, then they should dig into their own pockets to do it. Not the state taxpayers money, their own personal money.

And since they are so willing to put time limits on everything they ask, from wetland permits they don't follow to toxic waste regulations, we will give them 30 days to come up with the money.

If, at the end of 30 days, they don't perform, those in-charge should be asked to resign as they can't do the job.

Of course we already know they can't do the job as they can't see any of the other landfills throughout the north that also need capping and final closing, including a landfill on their own ground.

In fact, the more we think about the resignation because they can't perform their own jobs on their own lands, let alone Petoskey's, Emmet County's, East Jordan's, Kalkaska's, and so many others that have shown greater leaching and toxicity into the groundwater, resignations should be asked immediately.

We had the opportunity to follow another landfill problem. Possibly the most dangerous and most serious health problem the DNR has faced. The state and federal agencies are still trying to figure out what to do with Berlin and Farro, a toxic dump site near Swartz Creek.

And they have spent millions on it. But if Boyer City's landfill can take up all the time of the DNR bureaucrats in Roscommon, without the DNR forcing all the other communities to do the same as Boyer City, then something is wrong.

Sure, the landfill needs a cap. And Boyer City is working to provide an answer to the problem. But not at the cost of just Boyer City alone. The townships, the state and federal agencies should kick in their share if they want to see it finally finished.

We don't see the DNR offering any solutions at all, just adding to the problems to waste. With time. With paperwork. And with "little Gods."

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

With this issue of the newspaper, we are concluding our fifth year here in Boyer City, trying to cover the major and minor events of the city, East Jordan, Boyer Falles, and quite a few of the townships. In doing so, we have quietly, patiently waited for the fifth year to be up so we could start speaking out.

By that, I should tell you readers that when a new owner of a newspaper comes into town, he literally doesn't know a thing about the town and, being a good newspaper man, starts writing editorials about things he doesn't know and hasn't had time to learn.

We have done the same thing in other publications we purchased throughout my career as a newspaper owner. In fact, we have written editorials before for this publication, but not on a regular basis.

One editorial was written by a staff member who is no longer with us and is at another publication writing editorials and headlines.

We took some grief over that editorial, maybe because people read something into it that wasn't intended. Some took it the wrong way and we have suffered for it. Some people probably still dislike our publication because of it.

But, for the most part, we have been very quiet editorially.

The reason for being so quiet, is that it takes time to learn about a community. To learn what was going on that was good and should be supported, and what was bad so it could be corrected.

It also takes time to learn who are the "good" guys and who are the "bad" guys. Every community has them whether they are as large as a Detroit, or as small as a Bliss.

So, we have for the past few years, been studying the community to learn as much as we can about it and who or what needs to be done to try to move it in the direction we would like to see it go.

And in a small town, it takes time to learn about those things. In a large town, like Grand Rapids, or Flint, or even Detroit, the editorial writers don't have to know all of the ramifications that an editorial may cause. If they offend someone, or some group, that's tough. Large communities hardly get to know their own neighbors, let alone something that may affect an entire community.

After five years, we are breaking out of our self-imposed silence and will now start speaking out.

We will be starting to make our voice known as to our feelings on many subjects that can, or will, affect the community that we all live in and want to make the best community we can find in America.

Some editorials may offend, some may provoke, others may cause people to think.

After all, an editorial is not gospel, it is just a thought or two on a subject. Something to cause the brain to begin to function, whether you agree or not.

And when we present an editorial, we are intending to display it where the reader will find it, not tucked away in the corner of the page.

Thanks to our readers, we have been able to present fair coverage to both sides of a story.

With editorials, we can explain our side, or the things we would like to present for thought.

At the top of the page, is one of the first, and hopefully the readers will find the thoughts presented to be a least interesting.

A friend asked me the other day how I could dodge the fools of the world and keep a mirror in the bathroom at the same time.

Downtown the other day I found myself hardly able to walk straight. I felt funny and worried that I might be coming down with something. I had come down with something before, but I never felt funny about it. As I walked I tried to put my best foot forward. It didn't work. I am right footed and here I was walking left footed.

If I had been dead drunk, I wouldn't have worried about it. But see sawing around on your feet even though your brain is functioning on all four cylinders, well that's kind of scary. Especially when you boiler isn't leaking and your combustion is in top shape.

When I reached the newstand to buy the morning paper, all was made clear to me. A story from London carried a large headline: World dizzy over royal wedding. No wonder I was slithering in half circles.

My mind went back to my own wedding at a time when the city council was wrangling over the possible extension of sewer and water to North Boyne.

Newspapers took no note of the heavenly match. The world was not dizzy. I cannot recall anyone blowing hot or cold. Everyone in Boyne City who could walk straight seemed to be doing so, unaffected by my vow to hold on until death or taxes brought the life-long affair to a screeching halt.

So why should I let a royal wedding affect me? No, sir. The next time someone in England gets married I'm going to stay home until the spell wears off.

Speaking of weddings: Too many young people are refusing to let marriage interfere with their private lives.

How are you doing since you got laid off?

I'm doing everything I can to change my luck.

What have you done? I sent out letters and sent out letters. I even went out and planted some chicken heads by the light of the moon.

Has that changed your luck? It sure has. When I went up for my unemployment, they told me that it had run out.

Back when the world was fresh and I was seriously engaged in the fine-art of wild oat sowing, I used to think that older men were kind of stuffy and not with it. Now that I'm on the withering end of the calendar, I often get upset whenever I see young folks fussing with wild oats like I used to. I'm not disgusted with the kids. I'm mad at Father Time for saddling me with all these wrinkles—character lines, if you will. Like television, my prime time begins to buzz off about ten o'clock. (To the reader: Just you wait, your buzz time will come, too.)

I saw a bumper sticker that said: My son and my money go to U of M.

Michigan offers its residents an assortment of cold weather happenings like blizzards and ice storms. Michiees brace, bear up and come through it all with flying colors. But when the state puts on an occasional heat wave for a change of pace, Michiees dither. Then they either fold or fume, which is really quite unnecessary.

The folders lose motor control, even of their mouths. In response to the inevitable, "Hot enough for you?" they mumble. What can be heard sounds like,

"tbb dmm hot." Slight shoulder and arm movements, a half flap sort of thing, go with the sounds. Pathetic, but at least they don't make trouble.

The fumers grow indignant in the heat. Every degree over 80 presents a personal affront. And they say so. They live in a state of outrage, which of course heats them up even more. And in no time at all, their testiness spreads to those near and dear and even farther.

Newspapers publish tips on how to keep oneself, one's pets and one's environment cool—water being recommended for everything except the house. But that's not enough. The crisis calls for tips on keeping a cool head. Wet banana leaves tied to one's head are highly touted. Unfortunately, banana trees are scarce on the North American continent.

Palm leaves, though, which are considered adequate substitutes, do grow in The States. Not close by like in Ohio or Indiana, but in the same country anyway. Retired friends in Florida or California can mail some palm leaves if they feel kindly. Or one can go after them oneself.

But time and costs mount high for this sort of venture. And the heat wave could be over before the mission is completed.

A more practical approach is hats. Keep several of them in the freezer. This does crowd the food a bit and makes for poor relations with those who hold narrow views of what properly belongs in a freezer. But no plan meets with everyone's approval.

The hats should be water-logged so they freeze solid before being worn for maximum cooling. And once in place on the head, they should be monitored for signs of wilting. Drips into one's beverage or trickling down the back of one's neck mean it's time for hurrying the hat back to the freezer and exchanging it for a stiff one.

Purists might also have problems with refreezing hats with food for sanitary reasons. They might push for washing the hats between freezings. But on a scorching day, washing takes time crucial to the rotation.

A once-over-lightly spritz with Lysol before popping the used hats in the freezer might calm objectors. Or it might not.

One final suggestion for dispelling hot weather blahs or boos involves a sport: hang gliding. Sailing through the air is bound to cool the head. The mere thought of it chills the brain, the part of it with its feet on the ground anyway.

The aforementioned represent some of the best thinking on cool-headed ideas. With these suggestions firmly in mind, the next time Michigan puts on a heat wave, Michiees should be all set to breeze right through it.

This interesting old photo shows Boyne City's Lake Street 100 years ago. It makes us realize how much has transpired in a short century. We wish we could show you a sketch of the same location about 1786, but that's asking too much. The horses, in front of the present Haborside Sports, and the cyclist, have to travel some rough looking streets.

How can you insure replacement of your mobile home without depreciation?

No problem.

Auto-Owners Mobile Home Policy offers replacement cost coverage without depreciation to qualified mobile homes. And discounts are available for new mobile homes...and to retirees.

Just ask your "no problem" Auto-Owners agent how the Mobile Home Policy can be no problem for your home.

Boyne City Commission Minutes

WEEKLY MEETING, JULY 1, 1986, 11:30 a.m.: All Commissioners were present. There were 17 people in attendance at the meeting.

Discussion was held on where to fire the fireworks this year. It had been previously established they would be fired from the Marina Dock, with all the boats being moved out of range. Some opposition was given by the boaters. In order to avoid any liability responsible or misunderstandings, it was decided to shoot the fireworks from Peninsula Beach this year.

It was decided to pass on the fireworks problem to the City Attorney, so that he may review the matter and pursue a legal means, so that the Marina can be vacated for next year. It was also recommended that a study be made before next year to establish the exact location of where the fireworks should be shot from and establish this firing area far in advance of the actual date for 1987.

The meeting adjourned at 12:05 p.m.

WEEKLY MEETING, JULY 8, 1986, 11:30 a.m.: All Commissioners were present. There were 12 people in attendance at the meeting. The success of the 4th of July celebration in Boyne City was discussed. Everyone felt there were more people in town than in previous years, even though rain threatened most of the morning.

It was decided that the City Manager and Chief of Police still have authority to set limited parking times in certain areas of the Central Business District.

The meeting adjourned at 11:47 a.m.

MONTHLY MEETING, JULY 8, 1986, 7:00 p.m.: Commissioners were present. Meeting was held in the basement of the Boyne City Library. There were 19 people in attendance at the meeting.

The First Reading of Amendment 1-86 to Ordinance A-62 to increase the Boyne City Historical Board from 5 members to 7 members was approved.

Lindsay Adams was appointed to the Boyne City Parks and Recreation Board. Thelma Behling was re-appointed to the Historical Board. John Streu, Sr. was appointed to the Airport Board. Bruce Hubble, Richard May, Andrew Place and Judy Stowe were re-appointed to the Economic Development Corporation.

Brief plans were discussed for the designs of the Historical Museum and the possible location of it in Old City Park. The Parks and Recreation will review the plans at their July 10, 1986 meeting. A Public Hearing will be held on this matter in a few weeks. Meeting adjourned at 7:35 p.m.

WEEKLY MEETING, JULY 15, 1986, 11:30 a.m.: All Commissioners were present. There were 14 people who attended the meeting.

Commissioner Moody talked on the Historical Museum and stated that arrangements should be made previous to its construction to guarantee proper incomes for its continued maintenance and care.

A Paving Contract was awarded to H & D, Inc., to do street paving in the fall on the following streets: Pleasant Avenue, Trent Street, North Street, State Street and Roosevelt Street, in the total amount of $49,636.10.

An ambulance loan from the Northwestern State Bank was accepted in the amount of $41,200.00 at 7% interest for five years. The meeting adjourned at 11:55 a.m.

WEEKLY MEETING, JULY 22, 1986, 11:30 a.m.: All Commissioners were present. There were 17 people present at the meeting.

Commissioner Moody questioned the integrity of publishing an article about the old City Landfill that was published in a newspaper printed in Petoskey. Others at the meeting also participated in discussing this article and they determined all the facts were not equally given in the article.

The Second Reading of Amendment 14-86 of Ordinance A-28 was introduced and adopted which would re-zone the old Locker Plant property from General Commercial to Residential 3. This Amendment will take effect on August 6, 1986.

Sandra Stanley was appointed to the Boyne City Historical Board to fill a vacancy with her term to expire 6-1-88. The City Commission gave approval to extend a contract four additional years for work being done on Peninsula Beach by Northern Associates. Rather than use Northern Associates as the guarantors, it was decided to use the personal guarantees of Rick and Dave Smith on the laying of the outfall pipe as discussed.

An ad was ordered to be placed in the newspaper offering a reward for the conviction of those who have been vandalizing flowers in the City Parks. Meeting adjourned at 12:18 p.m.

Emergency books being sent out to homeowners by Consumers

Charlevoix, MI--July 24, 1986--Emergency preparedness booklets are being mailed this week to all residents living within five miles of the Big Rock Point nuclear plant. The booklets, which are mailed out once a year, provide important information on emergency plans which could be used in the unlikely event of an accident at Big Rock Point.

The booklets explain the public warning sirens, protective action procedures, and other elements of the program in place to protect the public. The booklets are distributed annually to provide maximum awareness and understanding on the part of residents living within the five-mile emergency planning zone surrounding the nuclear plant. Distribution is made in the summer to reach part-time residents as well as year-round residents. Copies are also placed in hotels and other public places for the benefit of tourists in the area.

"Although we mail booklets to every address within the five-mile zone, there is always a chance we could miss someone," said Charles E. MacInnis, plant public affairs director. "Anyone who didn't get a copy can contact me at the plant." Copies are also available from the Charlevoix and Emmet County emergency preparedness coordinators.

The five-mile zone surrounding the plant extends into the City of Charlevoix as far as the airport, as far south as the intersection of Burgess and Boyne City Roads and east past Townline Road at Bayshore, a short distance into Emmet County.

A map of the emergency planning zone and a brief synopsis of the emergency plan are contained in a full-page display advertisement on the inside back cover of the Charlevoix and Emmet County telephone book.

Emergency plans are required for the areas surrounding all commercial nuclear plants in the United States. They were greatly upgraded as a result of lessons learned from the 1979 accident at Three Mile Island. Big Rock Point's expanded plan was the first in the nation to receive full approval from the Federal Emergency Management Agency. In its most recent assessment, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission gave its highest grade to Big Rock Point's emergency preparedness activities. The plant's emergency preparedness program represents the combined efforts of Consumers Power Company, the State of Michigan and Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

Although none of the new emergency plans in place nationwide has been used to protect the public from a nuclear-related emergency, there have been at least a dozen non-nuclear applications. Here are three examples:

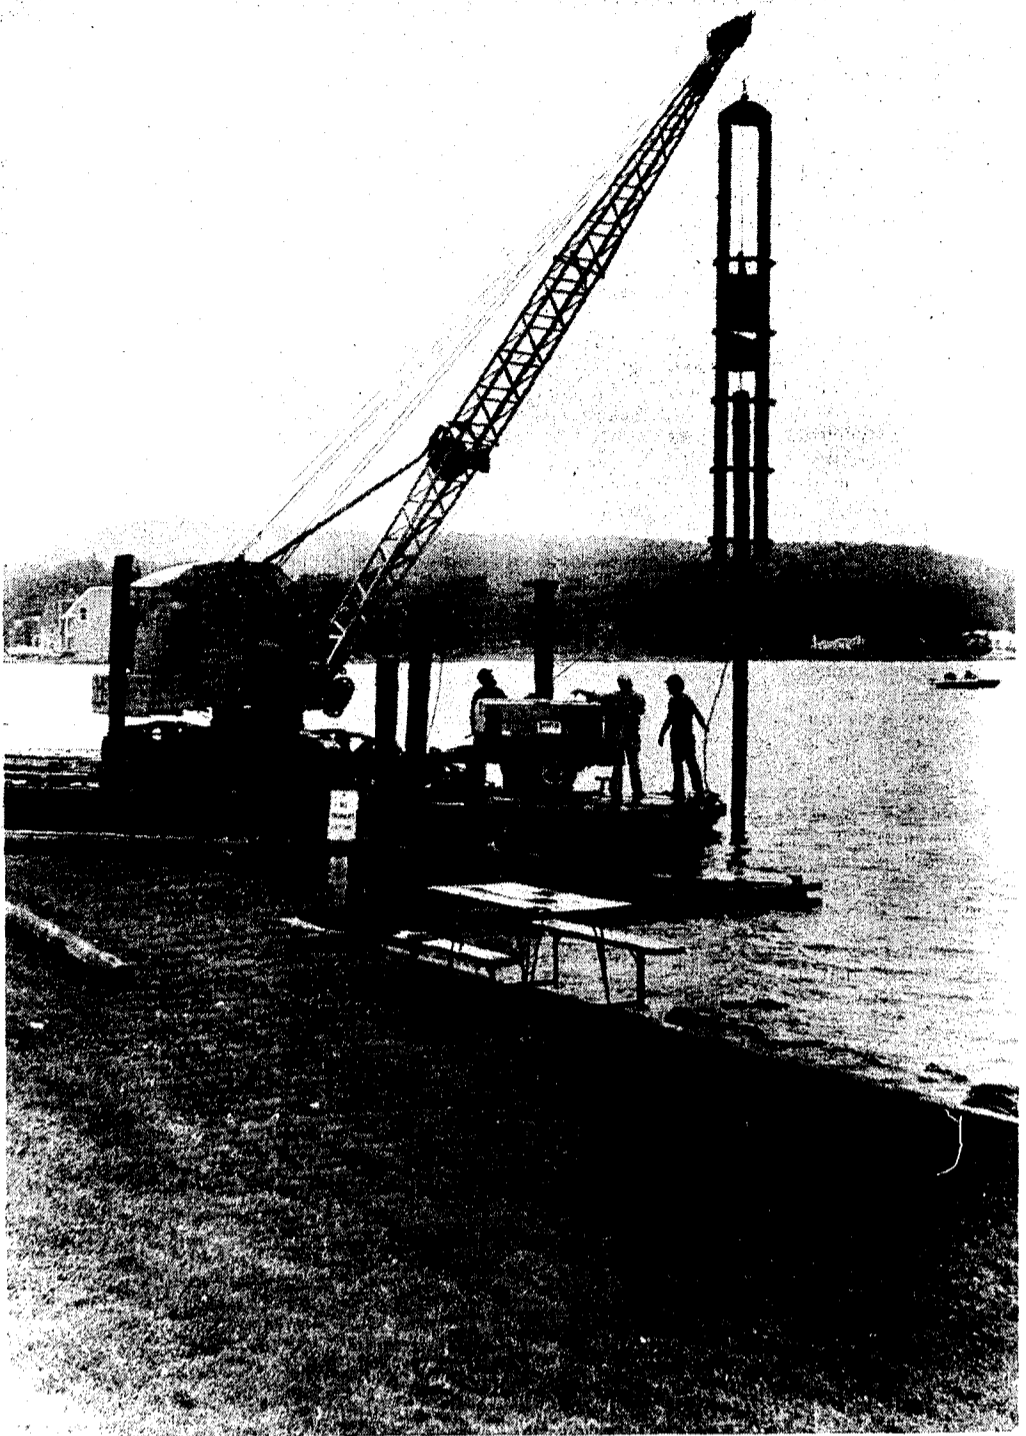

* In December 1982, a draft emergency plan for the Waterford 3 nuclear plant in Louisiana was used to evacuate 17,000 people in St. Charles Parish following a leak at a nearby chemical plant.

* In July 1985, the emergency plan in place for the Duane Arnold nuclear plant was used to evacuate 10,000 residents of nearby Cedar Rapids, Iowa, after a sewage plant fire sent a cloud of poisonous fumes over the city.

* Big Rock Point's siren system was used on September 24, 1985, by Charlevoix County in response to an apparent tornado threat.

Marine fired from city internship

After making public comments about the way the city maintains and operates its parks and recreation department, Ferris college intern Brad Marine was fired by Boyne City Manager Randy Frykberg Monday morning from his summer job helping the city with the Parks and Recreation Department.

Marine had submitted his resignation last week as he was completing his ten week intern program for college credit, and had made the remarks in an interview with another newspaper which appeared Friday.

Marine had cited a lack of commitment to the parks and recreation department by the city and has been having problems with other members of the city staff.

Marine was brought to the city for an internship as part of his college learning experience about ten weeks ago. Some members of the Parks and Recreation Board had hoped he would be hired as a full time person for the department, but, according to City Manager Randy Frykberg, that was not the intent of his working with the city this summer.

"We are going in the direction of having a fulltime person, but we are not ready for one yet," he said.

Marine was outspoken according to Frykberg, and had tried to use pressure to accomplish his goals. "That doesn't work in a small community where there are many other priorities," another commissioner said.

Frykberg said the firing was the result of weeks of difficulties with Marine more than the just the news article. Frykberg cited difficulties with working with other employees as well.

Canning tips makes it easier to can

Vegetable gardening is a popular American pastime. But all too often, gardens can mean too much of a good thing all at once. Perhaps it's time to consider preserving the food you grow. After all, how many zucchinis can your family eat each week?

If you are saying, "I don't have time to can and freeze," you may want to reconsider. Think about the high cost and often inferior quality of produce during the winter months! It is also fast and easy and requires little equipment other than a freezer.

Frozen foods seldom spoil, though they are subject to loss from mechanical breakdown, power failure or improper preparation, such as poor wrapping or freezing without blanching. Some vegetables, such as green onions, hot peppers, beets, sweet peppers, cooked tomatoes, green tomatoes and vinegar style cole slaw, can be frozen without blanching. This cuts the preparation time. Venetian Festival highlights Charlevoix's summertime

As the time for the fireworks display wound down, more people crowded into the park for a good seat.

An early Venetian night entertainment group provided music for Venetian Festival fans.

Young and old alike can always find some enjoyment on a carousel.

These two thrill seekers were having a good ride as they swung up over the crowd.

Adorned in native American attire, these two young men were stopped at the waterside for a chat.
