Because of the weather being so rotten, the city has delayed the city-wide leaf pick-up for two weeks. Those on the north side of the river will have their leaves picked up October 27-28 while those on the south side will get their pick-up on October 29-30.

Putting the period in the wrong place as we did last week in a story about Evangeline Township deciding their millage could have made the township the richest one in the county. The correct figure for the township millage is 1.3918 mills for the 1986 taxes, not the 13.918 as we indicated.

According to school officials, all of the available slots for booths at the annual Holiday Hobby Craft Show held at the high school are filled, making the show a success. The show features craft items from many local residents.

The weather continues to be wet and uninviting, but according to the Gaylord District office of the DNR, the bow hunting season is off to a good start. Squirrel hunters are also having good luck around Indian River. Fishing in this area has almost fallen off to nil because of the high and dark waters.

A petition drive was started this week to require the tolls from the Mackinac Bridge be used to promote jobs and better roads in Northern Michigan.

The drive, started by Senator Mitch Irwin, also proposes that local residents be allowed to purchase commuter passes at a reduced rate. The original bridge construction bonds were paid off July 1, and a task force was created to decide future uses of surplus bridge funds.

Boyne to explore sports league change

What to do when the Michigan-Huron Shores Athletic Conference splits up in 1988 took a half hour of discussion time at the Boyne City School Board meeting Monday night. The board discussed some of the options that they may be taking within the next year as athletic schedules are set almost two years in advance. The discussion came about because of a meeting held recently among the school superintendents within the class B and class C schools that make up the conference. With Gaylord and Cheboygan definitely dropping out of the league to form a new league, school administrators are trying to come up with an answer within the next couple of weeks. Besides those two schools dropping out of the league, it is expected that Charlevoix, Petoskey and Sault Ste. Marie would be joining up with the new league.

That would leave Boyne City without a full league to have interscholastic sports competition, according to some members of the athletic committee. Others think it may be the best thing to happen to Boyne City players.

The reason for the league breaking up can be blamed entirely on the State High School Athletic Commission back when they set up the rules for reaching the football playoffs in the state.

When larger schools play smaller schools, and they win, the school doesn't get as many points in the computer that determine who will go on to the state championships.

With Boyne City not having as good of teams in the past as some of the larger class B schools, the other teams thought they would form a new league to better their chances of making the state playoffs.

They have elected or asked not to play Boyne City because of the way the state figures out the points.

This was the case a few years ago, when Boyne City asked not to meet Cheboygan in football. The teams were mismatched and did neither of them any good in the points standings to go the state level. This year, Gaylord asked not to play Boyne City recently because of the same reasons.

With those two schools dropping out of the Michigan Huron Shores Conference, and the possibility of other schools in the league joining them, Boyne would be left with only a few alternatives. Superintendent Rich Kelly told the board.

One would be to ask to join up with the new league, if they would let Boyne City in to play with them.

Another would be to go independent and have to set up athletic schedules with schools that may be very far away.

A third option would be to ask to join another league like the Ski Valley Conference.

The board, not wanting to make any decision now, decided not to drop out of the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference at this time, and asked Kelly to informally find out if Boyne could or would be accepted in the Ski Valley Conference.

Rumors have been heard, according to some board members, that some of that league's schools may be dropping out for the same reasons. Board members looking to continued small enrollments in the next few years for Boyne City, have suggested Kelly informally ask superintendents of that league if they would consider expansion or be open to letting another school join.

There was some talk in the last few years about Boyne joining that league, but was never formally followed up as the school system thought they would be better off playing where they are.

With that action of the past, and the action taken Monday to let the new league become known to all, the board will stand off and apply a wait and see attitude.

In other business, the board agreed to deny a grievance filed by Gary Graye, a Middle School teacher, after he was refused a transfer from the middle school to the high school to fill, what he thought, was an opening for a science teacher.

Graye did not attend the grievance hearing last month when the school board heard all the information about the request. He was in attendance at Monday's meeting and told the board the reason he did not attend was that he was upset over the issue and did not want to say something that would offend.

He told the board, "I am almost at the point of being bitter, things like this put a damper to my putting forth any extra effort." Graye has been with the school system for the past 17 years and has filled many teaching slots, mostly in the middle school area. "I have taken care of every class Cyr (the middle school principal) has thrown at me," he replied, and proceeded to tell the board he thought he was not being considered at all for the teaching spot open at the high school.

When members of the board informed Graye the spot that was open called for a language background and a social studies-science credentials, Graye continued to express his opinion that he should have been considered.

Graye told the board that because several of his friends

EJ to seek grant to build building

The East Jordan City Council quickly dispensed with the first eleven items on the consent agenda of their regular meeting Tuesday, October 7, to hear testimony from a near overflow crowd at City Hall. The East Jordan community had come seeking the council's endorsement of a structure on Anishinabe lands to be used for housing artifacts, holding classes, meetings and special events.

Gigi Antoine, Director of the Anishinabe Inter tribal Council, explained to the city leaders the purpose of the building and noted that gambling and alcohol consumption could not take place on these lands. Mayor Sweet explained that the city council would be the fiscal agent through which a grant could be secured from various state organizations to construct this building, assuring the council that there would be no cost to the city. Various community leaders testified to the benefit of such a structure to East Jordan and of its significance to Anishinabe culture. The council then voted to endorse this project.

A public hearing was established for October 21, 1986, at 7:15 p.m., to hear comments relevant to a proposed budget amendment dealing with Cemetery and Parks and Equipment funds.

Vern Stark's request from the last meeting to put posts near the city launch site for the protection of disabled boats from rocks was set aside.

Public Works Supervisor, Mike Dionne, reported that the annual fall leaf and brush pick-up will be October 13 for Ward 1, October 14 for Ward 2, and October 15 for Ward 3. Bags are to be on the curb at 8 a.m. Free deposit of leaves and brush at

Boyne buys surplus $10,000 road grader

Boyne City will be buying something they have desired for many years after the commissioners approved the request for a new road grader for the community at Tuesday's noon meeting.

The road grader, a Catpillar model, will be coming from the Cadillac Government Surplus Center as soon as the city can figure out how to move it.

The cost to the city for the machine, which if it were new would be over $100,000 will only be $10,000. The grader has a rebuilt engine, only about 1,000 hours of total time, and was used infrequently on a army base in northern Germany, according to Randy Frykberg, City Manager.

He said that that model and another one located at a surplus center in Lansing were both checked out by the city mechanic. Both have parts availability as the current model is similar in construction to the 1972 model the city will be purchasing.

Frykberg said the city has considered buying a machine like this for many years, ever since they sold the last one, an old mechanical type, about 20 years ago. But other matters and the initial cost of a new one have kept the purchase out of the budget.

He said the federal government had a return military shipment of the graders from Europe and this was one of them. He figures the payback for this type of equipment will be very short as the machine is versatile enough to have many used within the city.

Frykberg said there are 42 dirt roads within the city limits that have to be graded frequently, snow banks can be pushed back and many other features of

Halloween - Early 1900's
As for Halloween, "Trick and Treat" didn't come into being until the late thirties or early forties. Therefore, our pranks weren't rewarded. Most of them were swapping windows or soaring people with our "tick tocks." These were large wooden spools with notched flangis around which was wound cord. A pencil or stick was inserted through the hole of the spool. By holding it against the window and pulling the cord quickly it made an unexpected sharp sound, that startled those inside.

Later in the night the older boys tipped over the out houses (privies). Put small vehicles and implements on top of our buildings.

The next morning the neighborhood fathers gathered and helped each other put their buildings back on their foundations.

The Positive Side

"If you don't think it can be done, it can't!"

Marshall Sayles

I went downtown Friday morning and saw frost upon several pumpkin heads. The next thing we know it will be winter, no matter if we care for that sort of thing or not. The worst thing about the entire year is that November follows October.

Mother Nature came along a while ago and turned me into a senior citizen. I didn't like it but you can't fight Mother Nature no more than you can City Hall.

Each month I receive a pitance from Uncle Sam—money I once paid the government with some added—is sent back to me. There are those in Washington who wish they didn't have to do that, but their hands are tied. Congress said years ago that he who worked his fingers to the bone is due some sort of compensation once he shall have reached the age where swinging a pick axe no longer tickles him. The idea is to socially secure to a person who is tired of making a living.

It came to me the other day that it would be nice if I were to receive the money due me in one large wad. I've always wanted a large wad and perhaps this would be the way to get it.

So I went up to the Social Security Office and demanded my money back. I asked a lady for all that water I had dumped into the government well since 1937.

She said the government had not made any provisions for handing out large wads. I would have to take it in dribs and drabs like everyone else.

What a deal! The dribs go for groceries and the drabs go for gasoline. Not a cent for beer or geritol.

I could work things out much better if I had a large wad.

Grandmothers and grandfathers would have never accepted much of today's TV, daily newspapers and magazine offerings. After looking at that stuff they would have hidden in the attic rather than been seen in the streets. To them the immodest were without any doubt walking down the primrose path.

When advertisers discovered that censorship does not sell, things once whispered when I was a child now are openly hyped. Television blacktopped that primrose path and opened the gates to let the good times roll.

One part of my mind says we are racing toward the everlasting bonfire; the other side says, "Let her rip."

This is a farce and it is giving me a sick headache and I don't know what to do about it. Those who do know what to do about it please come up and tell me. When you get here pound on the fence and I will call off the dogs.

When we look at our tax bills, our water bills, our electric bills, our gas bills, the price of day old bread and the skyrocketing cost of breathing one feels that those who died early weren't so dumb after all.

"Look, Bub," a man said to me the other day. "Every time I read your stuff, I get the feeling that you are going the wrong way on a one way street."

Ware-withal

BY GAIL WARE

Strange things go on by the banks of the Potomac. This past summer, a number of Congressmen put in long days arguing among themselves. Then, laying down their differences, they made noble compromises. And thus a tax reform bill was put together and then passed by both Houses. The legislatures proclaimed that the new bill will at long last allow the American people to keep more of their hard earned money.

According to tax expert's who have plowed through the several hundred pages of the bill, this is indeed the case. Since only a few copies were made available to the public and at a pricier price than most book buyers feel is reasonable for a book without notable color photographs, few taxpayers have read it. And they probably wouldn't understand it if they did what with tax language having left mainstream English quite some time ago.

But the daily bulletins issued from the Capitol by those involved in the debate made it clear that two things were uppermost in the minds of the Congressmen. They wanted fairness for middle class taxpayers. And they wanted the loopholes plugged and the tax shelters made unshelterly that

Remembrances

While quite a few can remember the big lumber mills in Boyne City, quite a few millions of board feet of fine lumber was cut at this mill in East Jordan. Most of the lumber went down the lake on Schooners to the big cities like Chicago and Milwaukee.

The best we can figure is that the mill was located on the waterfront near downtown East Jordan. If you have any old pictures of the area, bring them to our office so we can make a copy of it for this feature.

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

Scratch another thing off the list of things I have always wanted to do in my life. You know, the list that includes things like going through a hurricane, a ride in the Goodyear Blimp, running a real big steam, generating a plant and now, bowling a 300 game.

No, I didn't bowl a 300 game...my handicap is so bad I am lucky if I can break 150, and that is with the handicap.

What I am talking about, is getting a ride in, while it was working, an honest to gosh steam crane.

The kind with lots of steam engines to drive everything. Lots of gears that go grinding and grinding. Lots of rods and arms that go back and forth and make all the gears go grind. You know, the kind of machine that you read about in your youth, but were being phased out faster than you could get downtown to see them.

Anyway, last week I had a chance to go onto the barge helping to build the wave attenuator that is going around the new marina in East Jordan.

I finally got a chance to see a real steam crane in operation. I even got a chance to ride in the crane while it picked up another piling off the deck and then moved back to where it was being driven into the lake bottom.

Wow.

It wasn't "fun", but it sure was interesting watching the guy who runs the machine pull this cord, push that pedal, move that crank and all of the things that he has to do to move the machine around.

I got a chance to see all of the steam engines that drive the gears that pull the wire rope up and down, the steam engines that turned the machine around and everything.

Wow.

I makes you wonder how many of the great works that were built back about the turn of the century were really done. All the power equipment of the day possible is a good as those of today, but this was a real live steam driven machine.

What a thrill, and it's something else I will be able to cross off the list of things I want to do before I get too old to enjoy them.

Now if I could just find an old chain drive Mack Truck, I could write another thing off the list. Or I could try to talk the Grahams into letting me ride their steam powered tractor someday.

Or I could bowl that 300 game.

I read something the other day that intrigued me greatly.

Seems that everybody who wants to invent something is trying to invent a better mouse trap. You may have heard the old story about inventing a better mouse trap and the world will beat a path to your door?

Well, according to Insight a weekly news magazine, a guy by the name of Mel Melton has done just that. He invented, and got a patent for a mouse trap that operates on a fulcrum principle. Seems that when a mouse goes into the trap, as it starts going nearer to the bait, the trap tips and closes a door. That humamely traps the mouse until you can dispose of it somewhere else.

The idea may even work on larger animals like we get to see around here. Like racoons and skunks. They say they have a few problems to work out on the larger traps, but I don't see any reason why it wouldn't work.

With this being the season mice are trying to get into the house to try and get warm and food to get through the winter, the traps are being rushed into the marketplace. You will be able to find them soon in stores around town at prices around $3.98 for two.

The only problem I can see about the trap is what you going to do with the live mouse? Are you going to take it outside where it will just get back in the house? Or are you going to feed it to some hungry cat or bird?

Myself, I would just as soon have the mouse die or something so I could dispose of it in the garbage. With a dead mouse, you know it is not going to come back to eat through the walls to get that food you dropped behind the sofa.

Mark Penzein and RT Paullin show off the new sign they installed on East Jordan's funeral home after they had completed the purchase several months ago. Penzein was named as the manager of the business recently. Both are licensed morticians and will be working out of both the East Jordan and Mancelona funeral home.

Transition smooth for Paullin Funeral Home in East Jordan

"The transition has gone very well" RT Paullin, the new owner of the Paullin Funeral Home in East Jordan said last week. "Things are going as we have expected, and the acceptance in the community is better than we thought it would be so far," he added. Paullin and his wife purchased the former Vanderwall Funeral Home early this summer from Tom Vanderwall who went down south to run a funeral home. Paullin also owns a funeral home in Mancelona that he purchased 18 years ago. The reason behind the purchase to this area was the need to expand, he said, and East Jordan looked like a great place where he could get in on the future growth of the city. Paullin has been a licensed funeral director since 1957. He worked in Mt. Pleasant for eleven years before making the move to Mancelona in 1968. He is active in the Mancelona community, serving as a past president of the Mancelona School Board and the Mancelona-Bellaire Rotary Club. He and his wife, Patricia, have four grown children. Running the funeral home in East Jordan is Mark Penzein, a well known name in the Bay City area as his grandfather and relatives run the Penzien Funeral Home. Penzien served part of his internship at the family run businesses, but has gotten most of his experience at other funeral homes in the Detroit area while attending Wayne State University's mortuary science school. He worked at the Kaufman Funeral Home in Southfield and the Gorsline-Runciman Funeral Home in Lansing. Penzien has also worked in the Belair Bluffs area in Florida. He came back to Michigan to work at the Penzien Funeral Home for four years after receiving his morticians license in 1983. When he heard of the opening at Paullin's, he applied and was hired to manage the funeral home in East Jordan. Penzien looks forward to being in East Jordan and intends on becoming a member of the community through joining area service clubs and other activities. He is living next to the funeral home with his wife, Cynthia, and three children, Mark 6, Kevin 4, and Jeremy 3. Both Penzien and his wife enjoy bicycling and plan on making use of the many roads in the area as they sightsee on their tours.

the rich had been slipping money through or under in order to lower their tax bills. The issue of fairness for the middle class got the most attention both in the bill and in the news releases. The middle class was portrayed as working hard for its dollars and paying its tax bills honestly and faithfully with no hanky-panky. So it got a fine tax break. As for the rich, they got attention to but with mixed results. They did lose a lot of their loopholes and tax shelters. And it's better for them that they did because some of them were pretty unstable. Take for instance the tax shelter whereby the rich knowingly invest in losing propositions in order to use the losses to offset their high comes, thereby reducing their taxes. The rich can't get away with this nonsense anymore. The tax brackets for the rich are lowered. But a 5 percent surcharge is levied here and there on their incomes. Only tax accountants can figure out where or when though. This makes do-it-yourself tax preparation for the wealthy out of the question for the next few years. Due to the fact that the rich get to keep more of their money because of the lowered tax brackets and the fact that it won't do them any good to put their money on losers anymore, they'll have cash to spare. The lawmakers hope that they will invest their money in "going concern" kinds of businesses that can use the money to make them more going and thus help the economy move ahead. The new tax law sounds grand. But there's a good chance that taxpayers won't file returns according to its present provisions. Congressmen are already working on ways to get around it or alter it so as to raise money to reduce the Federal deficit. This after the long hours of work putting it together. Strange things go on by the banks of the Potomac. Maybe it's the traffic circles that set people to going round and round.

Hot Beverages
When one of my friends acquired a new micro-wave, she tried to use it for everything. When her husband asked for a glass of orange juice she asked "Hot or Cold?" Now, that was something that they could laugh about, however I recall that we used to drink hot lemon ade for a cold. We forget that very often beverages that are usually served ice cold are also very good piping hot. The shelves of our supermarkets are filled with ready mixes for hot and cold beverages of many different flavors of herb tea as well as many kinds of real tea, and hot chocolate mixes with or without sugar and low n calories if one wishes. I was amazed at the display and bought a package of instant spiced cider mix. For lunch I enjoyed an individual serving by dissolving one envelope in boiling water. It dissolved very quickly and was delicious. This mix can be added to regular or flavored tea and served hot in mugs for a "Tea Toddy." For "Hot Cider Toddy" use 3/4 cup cider with 1 1/2 oz. of your favorite party beverage. Serve these with a cinnamon stick for flavor and garnish. Or make this:
Cider Breakfast Drink
1 cup of the cider
2 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
1 tablespoon sugar
1 cup milk
1 egg
1/2 banana
3 or 4 ice cubes (cracked into pieces)
Place all in a blender and blend 8 to 10 second. Very nourishing and delicious. Serve this one cold!

These beverages are not new; the old cookbooks had recipes like the following. Doesn't this sound luscious? From Lowinery's Cookbook published in 1908.
French Chocolate
2 squares Lowinery's Premium Chocolate
1/2 cup boiling water
1/8 teaspoon salt
3 cups milk, scalded
1/4 cup ground coffee
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons brandy
melt two squares of chocolate, add sugar and boiling water, boil two minutes. Scald the milk with coffee; strain, and add to chocolate with salt and brandy. Beat with Dover egg beater and serve with whipped cream. This is their recipe for:
Plain Chocolate
2 squares chocolate
4 tablespoon sugar
3 cups scalded milk
1 cup boiling water
Salt
Melt the chocolate, add sugar, salt and boiling water; boil two minutes, add scalded milk and beat with Dover egg beater to prevent scum from forming. Serve very hot. Then there is the age old custom enjoyed by many. The afternoon tea. Even small children enjoy this quiet rejuvenating time usually after their afternoon naps, to get the "going" again. Our Gloria used this for an arguement about taking a nap. "I get all 'unlaxed' and can't get 'laxed up' again." So children need a time to slow down and build up again. My little Billy, when about 3 would wake up from his nap in a very unhappy mood some days. He loved his afternoon tea with me. One day I asked him what he wanted to do or which TV program he wanted. He said "Let's have our cup of tea and just talk." He loved his tomatoe or orange juice or milk which he drank in a tea cup, with a cookie of course. A few of my friends know that there is always a cup of tea when they stop by after work and I am sure that I enjoy it as much or more than they do. My friend, Anne, likes the fruit and herb flavored teas, though some want the regular kind. The main thing is to have it hot and plenty of it. If you are real ambitious and have time it is fun to make scones, shortbread or little fancy cakes like the British do. Though, I think that our style is cookies or just wafers. There are many crackers and wafers on the market. Some made the low calorie way so that even those of us who need to count our calories can have these goodies occasionally. So drink your tea, and enjoy.

You might want to prepare this old fashioned mulled wine to serve with your next Mexican meal or pizza.
Mulled Wine
2 cups water
16 whole cloves
3 eggs
2 tablespoons sugar
2 cups wine
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Boile cloves and water ten minutes. Beat yolks and sugar together; add water, wine, lemon juice, and stiffly beaten egg whites. Serve Hot.

Ramblers end drought, celebrate Onaway win

Late Friday night...the Boyne City Rambler varsity football platoon was welcomed to town by siren blasts, flashing lights, and horn honking that blasted the city from its slumber.

Such shenanigans are usually reserved for occasions when a team wins a District Title or the band wins all ones at a competition, but Boyne was celebrating the end of a drought.

A drought that had lasted for eighteen varsity football games. The Ramblers had defeated the Onaway Cardinals 14-6 on the Cardinals home turf.

When time expired after the game in Onaway, Rambler fans who witnessed the win, poured onto the field offering congratulations to the players, and patting them on the back.

Early in the game, in fact from the opening kick-off, Boyne realized that time had come to clip the wings of the Onaway birdies. Boyne successfully recovered an on-sides kick and began to roll up the field. Rambler quarterback Pat Weeks rolled out to the left behind a wall of blockers and carried the ball from midfield to the Onaway 13. Two plays later, a Weeks roll out to the right went to the birdies' 4 for a first and goal to go. Two plays later, Weeks was into the scoring column on a plunge through the middle and Boyne led 6-0. Brandon Billings capped the touchdown by splitting the uprights for an extra point that was to be the first quarters scoring margin.

Onaway's first and second possessions of the ball were held entirely fruitless, as the Rambler interior refused to yield and the birds were not allowed even a first down. The Rambler defense gave up just 12 yards in ten minutes of action.

The first Rambler mistake set up Onaway only T.D. when the Cardinals recovered an errant fumble to take over the ball at the Boyne City 42. Onaway immediately went to the air for a paydirt pass with 2:02 left in the quarter.

The Rambler offensive ate up the remainder of the period, with Weeks hitting Troy Heiermann for an 11 yard pass that netted Boyne a first down. After the second period change of goals, Boyne continued to wind down the clock with a long drive. A six yard gain on an option pitch to Keoki Kuheana, and a screen pass to Kuheana for six more yards found the Ramblers threatening again, this time from the Onaway 28, but a rash of penalties against the Ramblers ended the drive. Boyne nearly lost possession of the long drive late in the first period, but an alert George Lasater pounced on an Onaway fumble when Boyne punted down the field.

The Rambler defense came in to play again, this time to pin the birds at the midfield line. The stunting defense saw Jeff Fineout sack the Onaway QB for an eight yard loss that set up a punting situation for the Cardinals. Tim Hennessy blocked the ensuing punt attempt and the Ramblers found themselves with another opportunity to score with a first and ten at the birds' 26.

But it was not to be so, as the Ramblers were intercepted on third and six to go, and the Rambler defense was called into action once again.

Onaway was contained around the ends and found little encouragement in attempting to penetrate the Rambler interior. On third and long the birdies served up a short dump pass that was picked off by Bill Wicker at the line of scrimmage and the Ramblers took over at the Cardinals' 26.

Boyne was not to be denied this time as Weeks found plenty of room around the end behind a big wall of sweeping blockers and carried to the Onaway 10. From there Weeks ground out four yards, but was stopped short of a first down. With less than a minute to go in the half, Kuheana made a bid at the goal, but was downed short of the line. He did get the first down however, in doing so, bought the Ramblers a second chance. After a futile Weeks attempt at the goal, Kuheana was over the line with :22 left in the half. Billings again capped the T.D. splitting the uprights.

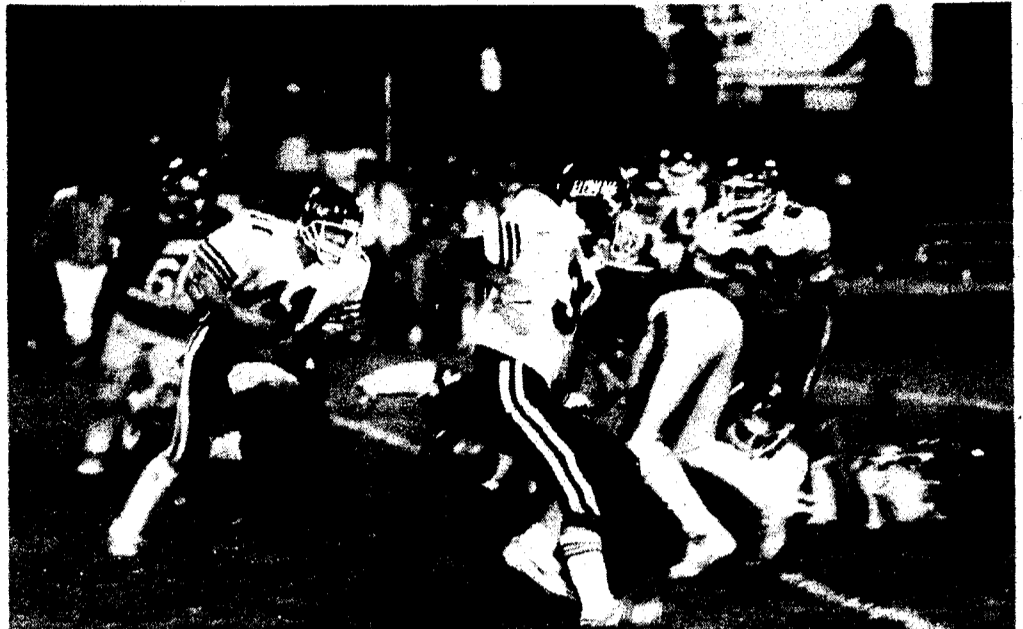

Through the entire second half, Boyne never got rolling on their offensive team, but the defensive squad highlighted the game for the Ramblers. With the offensive efforts hampered by penalties and a Stiff Onaway line, the Ramblers failed to cross over the Cardinals 39.

Early in the fourth period, the birds were repelled from the Rambler goal after Boyne held off a first and goal to go with Jim Feagan and Hennessy teaming up to stop a three yard scoring attempt. Weeks put an end to the threat, stopping a fourth down play at the Rambler five.

The Cardinals were pinned deep in their own territory twice after the Ramblers punted and Gregg Webb nailed the punt receiver in his tracks upon fielding the ball. Other big defensive plays for Boyne came when Tom Lasater and Hennessy stopped a sweep early in the third period. Wicker was seen on several occasions, rushing towards the birds Q.B. on passing downs, but was unable to collect the elusive sack. He did put enough pressure on the Q.B. though to hurry the pass attempts, causing them to miss the mark. Late in the fourth quarter, Rambler Kevin Hunt did find the Cardinal QB in the backfield for a 14 yard sack, and Steve Sutton and Hunt teamed up later for an eight yard sack to kill the birds attempt at a first down.

This Friday, the Ramblers will take on the Grayling Vikings in Grayling. The Vikings are looking for their second win of the season, as are the Ramblers.

Boyne City Rambler Don Karlskin (11) cuts to an opening in the Cardinals line after the Rambler offensive put the defenders on the ground. Brandon Billings (31) is on the scene to prevent the Onaway linebackers from filling the hole.

Rambler golfers earn chance at state bid

In class C golf competition, the Boyne City Rambler golf team has stroked their way into a trip to the state finals after placing third out of ten teams in the regional competition hosted by Houghton Lake. This marks the second time in as many seasons that Boyne City has qualified for a bid at second. Placing first was the hosting team, Houghton Lake with an overall score of 346, while Elk Rapids finished second with a 351. Boyne City regional competition was ten strokes behind with a 361. If things had gone the way coach George Britton wanted, (all 80's), Boyne would have at least tied for

This play gave the Ramblers some extra yardage as Troy Heiermann (20) takes the hand-off from Pat Weeks (12) while Keoki Kuheana (23) and George Lasater (72), lead the way for a sweep.

BOYNE CITY LANES PRESENTS ITS BOWLERS OF THE WEEK

BOB COURTRIGHT

Excitement was the word for Bob's performance as he threw the first nine in a row in his third game. But he came up a little short, leaving the 4-5-7 to end up with only a 263 game. On his way to a very nice 671 series. Bob, bowling on the Grinding Products team in the Wednesday night merchants league ended up 160 pins over his average. "All I did was slow my ball speed and approach and watched," Bob tells us. We were all pullin' for ya, Bobbie! But it was exciting to watch! Nice job!

"I can't believe it." That's about all Chris could tell us after shooting the lights out last Tuesday night. Bowling for Lakestreet Trading Post team, Chris bowled 221 pins over her 98 average by rolling a fantastic 515 series featuring a 221 game! After Chris came back to the planet earth, she went on to tell us that "I normally have a little higher average. It's just that I've gotten off to a terrible start!" Well, terrible start or not, one super night of bowling Chris!

CONGRATULATIONS.

Red Devils down Pellston 14-8

By Dennis Skrocki
The East Jordan varsity football team traveled to Pellston last Friday putting their 5-0 record on the line against a tough Hornet squad. The game was a tough one but when it ended the Devils clung to a 14-8 edge.
The teams played to a scoreless first quarter in which the only scoring threat came midway through as Quarterback Dennis Skrocki engineered a 91 yard drive before the ball was fumbled away at the Pellston 5 yard line.
The Red Devils drew first blood late in the second quarter when Ted Snowden connected with Don Reich on a 44 yard pass completion to set up the touchdown which saw Darren Graham go in from 5 yards out. The extra point pass attempt from Snowden to Reich fell incomplete and the Devil lead remained 6-0. A lead in which E.J. held at the halftime.
The Devils posted their final score in the third quarter on a 1 yard plunge into the end zone. Graham also scored the two point conversion increasing the Devils led to 14-0.
Pellston put their only points on the board late in the fourth quarter on a 4th and goal situation from the 1 yard line. The Hornets also threw for the extra points.
With nearly two minutes left on the clock the Devils covered the Pellston on side kick attempt but, on the second play from scrimmage fumbled the ball away to Pellston giving them good field position near the 50 yard line. The Red Devil defense rose to the occasion and stopped Pellston as Snowden intercepted a pass with time running out and gave the Devils control of the game.

Graham led the Devils ground attack with 109 yards on twelve carries while Don Reich picked up 53 yards on six carries and Steve Dionne gained 42 yards on seven carries. Snowden was 3 of 5 for 59 yards in the passing department completing two to Reich for 53 yards and one to Jim Raymond for six yards.
Defensively Darrin Bishop led the way with 13 tackles as Terry Burt and Steve Dionne added 12 each and Shannon Olstrom collected 11. Dionne and Snowden had interceptions as Burt had a fumble recovery.
Head Coach Ted Jeffery gave his comment on the game. "This was a hard fought ballgame, as we expected. Pellston had us outsized and they are always tough at home. We made a few more mistakes than usual and our offense tended to a little more erratic, due partially to the fact that Kitson (regular starting quarterback) was not allowed to play. Defensively we did a pretty good job against Pellstons Power Plays."
The Red Devils will travel to Harbor Springs on Friday, October 17, to clash with the tough Ram Team.

East Jordan jayvees remain perfect

By Dennis Skrocki
The East Jordan junior varsity football team kept its perfect season intact downing Pellston 25-0 while upping its record to 6-0.
The tough Red Devil defense forced Pellston to punt on their first offensive possession giving the offense starting field position in Pellston territory at the 42 yard line.
The Devils wasted no time getting points on the board as a combination of three running plays, a pass and a Pellston penalty set up the touchdown which saw Matt Mishop go in from 3 yards out. The extra point kick attempt by Mark Moore was good and the Red Devils were out to an early 7-0 lead.
The defense once again shut down Pellston's offense forcing them to turn the ball over on downs and set up the offense in good position near midfield. From there, backs Matt Bishop, Ted Sherman and Brian Matheny combined for 35 yards as Dan Pepin hit Bishop with a 33 yard pass completion before connecting with East Jordan 9 yard line. With an offense consisting mainly of non-starters the Devils had problems with the snap and turned the ball over on a fumble. The defense rose to the occasion and recovered a fumble 1:06 remaining in the game at this time. The offense put points on the board with Pat Russell scoring from 9 yards out giving the Devils a 25-0 lead which turned out to be the final score as the extra point attempt failed.

Bishop was the Devils' leading ground gainer picking up 112 yards on 13 carries for an average of 8.6 a carry. Pepin was 6 of 6 in the passing department for a total of 95 yards and two touchdowns.
Pepin, Sherman, and Jeff Burks were the defensive leaders with 7 tackles each. Jeff Olstrom added 6 and Carl Argetsinger collected three.
The Red Devils will host Harbor Springs Wednesday, October 15. Kickoff is at 7:00.

line, Pepin connected the first third down situation on a 20 yard pass to Moore but couldn't repeat on the next as the pass fell incomplete and the Devils were forced to punt. The offense returned to the field in a matter of minutes as Bishop intercepted a Pellston pass and brought it out to the field.
The Boyme City and East Jordan Middle Schools faced off last week in seventh and eighth grade girls basketball, with East Jordan girls taking the seventh grade game 30-26, while the eighth grade game was won by Boyme City 34-14.
In seventh grade action, Boyme City took the first period 4-3, but were outscored by East Jordan 9-6 for a 12-10 East Jordan lead at the half.

points while Carry Gee had 7 points. Angie Chase scored 5 points, Dwanya White had 4 points, while Kristine Olstrom and Shannon Burnett had 2 points each.
For Boyme City, Kris Crozier was the game high scorer with 12 points, while Aulani Kuheana had 8 points. Melissa Anderson had 4 points and Kris Christensen contributed 2 points.

She Devils edge Pellston

By Dennis Skrocki
The East Jordan Red Devil girls varsity basketball team split games last week with Pellston and Gaylord St. Mary's bringing their conference record to 3-5.
Against Pellston, the lady Devils led by 8 points at halftime but a scoreless third quarter allowed Pellston to take the lead. The Devils kept their composure and came back in the fourth quarter with under a minute left to play and won the game 41-40 with the help of a 3 point play by Brenda Drenth.

EJ fall and winter activities underway

Over 22 airplanes made Boyne City a stop on the annual 1986 Michigan Air Tour. The planes and pilots, passengers arrived early Saturday morning and were transported to One Water Street for breakfast. They presented a plaque to the city and left for the next stop in the three day, eight airport around the state tour. The planes lined up on the taxiway just prior to leaving after the breakfast.

East Jordan's fall and winter recreational activities are well underway according to Michael Bos, the city's recreational director. Classes are set for many activities for the youth of the community as well as those interested in just getting out and participating.

Aerobics classes begin with instructor JoAnne Rebec leading the routines that are featuring toning types of exercise. Classes are held on Tuesday and Thursday from 5:30 to 6:30. The program will last for four more weeks.

Ballet classes are still being offered at the Civic Center on Mondays from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. Diana Weltich-Heinzelmann is running the classes in dance and movement for preschooler to first grade students, and ballet for those in grades two through sixth. These classes will continue to be renewed throughout the fall and winter. The fee will be prorated on remaining classes, so those wishing to sign up can at any time by contacting the instructor just before the class.

East Jordan, Boyne City, Ellsworth, Central Lake and other area residents are forming a recreational volleyball league. Total information on the co-ed league is available from Bos.

Recreational Basketball leagues are forming with games to be played at the East Jordan Middle School gym. Information on that league can also be obtained from Bos.

A table tennis club is being formed. The club will be meeting in the Civic Center on Thursdays from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Initially, the play will be informal though if enough interest is shown, handicaps will be established and tournaments and other games will be arranged. Additional playing time will be provided if needed.

For those wishing to polka or square dance, the recreational department will be holding a dance workshop this Friday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The workshop will provide an opportunity to learn how to polka and square dance. It will also be a good time to brush up on dancing skills. Live music is planned to make this learning experience even more enjoyable. Cam Graham will be instructing the old time square dancing. All ages are invited.

Those attending the workshop and all other area residents are invited to attend the regular third Saturday dance October 18th. The dance begins at 7:30 p.m. in the Civic Center and is open to anyone with an interest in listening or dancing. Local musicians will be providing the music. The dances will be held every third Saturday of the month.

'Most feared mammal on continent' now preparing for winter

There's an animal that's common in most neighborhoods throughout Michigan that is at the same time so unobtrusive—usually—that it can live undetected literally under a homeowner's nose. It's nocturnal, so we normally don't see it. It makes its presence known only when it is disturbed by another animal or human or when its feeding in the lawn or garden creates a problem.

It's been dubbed "the most feared mammal on the North American continent," not because of its ferocity or size or strength, but because of what it carries under its tail. You guessed it: it's the skunk.

In Michigan, it's the striped skunk, though that name can be misleading. Striped skunks may have no white on them at all, the classic white cap and one or two full-length or partial white stripes, or some other variation on the black and white theme. One thing is certain: when they let loose their olfactory calling card, they can't be mistaken for anything else.

Skunks often come into conflict with humans when they choose to make their den under a house with a crawl space, a porch or deck, a mobile home or a portable classroom. The occupants of these structures may live on top of a skunk for some time without knowing it's there because the skunk itself doesn't stink—it has an animal odor just as a horse or dog does, but it doesn't smell like what it sprays. When people find out that the animal is there is when something else gets under the structure or alarms the skunk out in the open and it defends itself.

On many occasions, I have been called into situations involving a skunk denning under a structure and with a box trap caught raccoons, possums, cats and rats but no skunks.

Tracks and the distinctive signs of skunks' digging show that the skunk is still present, but the skunk problem—the odor—disappears because I removed the animals that provoked the skunk to spray.

Another problem with skunks is damage to the lawn as they dig for grubs and damage to the garden as they forage in the sweet corn, tomatoes and cantaloupe.

Skunks have mitt-like front paws with big claws for digging. With one or two swipes, they can open and push aside the sod and dig down 2 to 3 inches where the grubs are. A busy skunk can make a lawn look as if a mad golfer has been ram-paging around the lawn making divots.

Damage in the garden is less distinctive. Woodchucks, raccoons, deer and, in urban areas, rats will also feed in the garden at night. Tracks in garden soil or sightings of the intruders at work may be necessary to determine what animal is involved.

People who keep chickens or ducks may find out that skunks are fairly effective predators when their prey can not get away from them. A big skunk can handle an adult chicken or duck, though a goose is too much for it. Chicks and ducklings, of course, are easy prey.

Often we learn that a skunk is nearby in most traumatic fashion. The script goes something like this: the family is ready for bed and somebody lets the dog out one last time before everybody settles down for the night. After a few moments of furious barking, the dog scratches on the door to come in. Realization dawns when somebody opens the door and smells skunk, but the hysterical dog is faster than the door opener's reflexes and he's inside and bolting to his favorite safe retreat—under the bed, behind the sofa, wherever—before anyone can stop him. His coat is saturated with the smelly oil from the skunk, and he leaves liberal doses of it on rugs, upholstery, bedclothes, the clothing family members trying to head him off and get him outside, and everything else he touches. The pungent stuff is very irritating to the eyes and nasal passages, and if the dog received the spray directly in the face at short range, he may have suffered permanent eye damage.

An encounter I had with a skunk trapped in an elevator shaft taught me that getting the skunk odor out of clothing and other portable fabrics—that is, things you can take outside to air—isn't that big a deal. After airing and perhaps being rained on or rinsed once or twice, clothes can be washed in a strong detergent without stinking up the whole house.

For upholstery and rugs that have to stay in place, at least two skunk-neutralizing products are available commercially. You'll usually find them among the grooming aids in horse and dog supply catalogs. Your local veterinarian or pet store operator may also have them or know where you can get them. In the meantime, acetic acid—in the form of vinegar or tomato juice—followed by a good scrubbing with a shampoo for oily hair should make your dog fit to live with again, though he still may smell a little skunky, especially when he gets wet.

After an encounter with a skunk, people often want to know how they can get rid of it, meaning exterminate it. Because skunks feed on nests of baby mice and rabbits, ground-nesting wasps and bees, and moles, getting rid of the skunks just because they're in the neighborhood might simply be trading one problem for another one.

Don't assume you have a skunk problem just because you get a whiff of skunk odor in the yard. If it's gone the next morning, you may have smelled a great horned owl reeking of skunk. These large owls prey on skunks and don't seem to mind the odor.

When a skunk is under the house or somewhere else where it's likely to be provoked frequently, however, you do have to do something about it.

One thing that won't work is sealing up the entry to the den it has dug. Skunks are very powerful diggers. If you fill the entrance with dirt and cement blocks, the skunk will simply move over a couple of feet and dig a new entrance. The only solution is to catch the skunk in either a trap that kills instantly or in a live trap, and then kill it or release it some distance away. Then you need to install some L-shaped skirting to prevent some other skunk from moving in.

Where do backyard skunks come from? They're around all along. The amazing thing is not that they make their presence known in such a dramatic and unmistakable manner, but that they go undetected for so long. Knowing that the skunk has probably been around for some time and that there are doubtless others in the vicinity can make you aware of the potential problems so you can prevent them, avoid an odoriferous conflict and continue to enjoy observing nature from your backdoor.

due to an ankle injury Keith has not run since September 18, a strong performance for such a long layoff.

The women's team had no competition as Alba and Leelanau have no women's teams. The team ran just the same and finished in the order of: Chris Jankowski 1st, Theresa Brennan, 2nd, Laura Nemecek, 3rd, and Amy Jason 4th. Chris Jankowski was selected as the women's outstanding runner for knocking 54 seconds off her previous best time.

Every one is invited to come to the Boyne City Public Library to see the beautiful picture book made by the children who were in the Summer Story-Time Program. The Summer Story-Time Program was very successful again for a second year. Twenty to thirty, three to six year olds came every Friday morning for six weeks. Renee Golovich-Keie, who is Boyne City's Nursery School teacher, took the children through storytelling adventures with Cinderella, Dr. Seuss and Wanda Gag. The children visualized the images and colors of the stories and then made illustrations. These illustrations have made a large book of the most detailed and individual drawings that one could imagine. Stacy Bryan and Michelle Hubble were this summer's student helpers.

Letters

Concerned about EJ school district

Dear Editor:

This letter is respectfully addressed to all concerned folks of the East Jordan school district with hope for a response in a positive and constructive manner.

In the light of knowing that our precious children are the next generation in our "messed up" culture, which we, as parents, must assume responsibility for, and with the knowledge that their current schooling is preparing them for this incredible challenge called daily living, we as loving parents must work with all involved to create a fertile, rich soil for our children to grow in. This soil must be fed and nurtured with love, understanding, open minds and above all a system of communication between all, including the people directly involved, the children.

It has become apparent to me, as an individual, that communication will be the harbinger of the best school system in the country. As parents, we have much to offer and to learn in the realm of educating our youngsters. First, we have already had the experience of school ourselves, either good or bad, we can reflect on those experiences and offer solutions or new ideas. Second, we have all developed skills in myriad realms of hands on experience. We can each tap this as an aid to the education system. Third, we each need to become more informed to how our education system functions, from the Board of Education to the state prescribed methods and requirements to the techniques that each individual instructor utilizes to reach the goals set by these requirements. Fourth, this knowledge will heighten our respect for the Board of Education, who must, by law function within very specific guide lines, and aid us, as parents, to intelligently help with the decision making process. Parental awareness, input and cooperation on this level will lessen the burden on those already involved by communicating to them what we want and expect from our school system.

As parents it doesn't matter where we find ourselves in our individual lives, in respect to lifestyle and work loads that command our precious time. As people who made the choice to have a family we created the responsibility to nurture our young to be the best they can be. With the priority set we now have our work cut out for us. This task is going to be a labor of love and enjoyment and self fulfillment as we watch our children blossom.

As we gather to set up this direly needed communication network we will be creating not only a fertile soil for our vibrant young citizens, we will also grow ourselves. We will gain new friendships, we will learn from each other, and thus become better people ourselves. We will create a community that truly functions from the grass roots level and bring it closer together, responding to the needs and desires of its residents. We will also eliminate the need to grumble and complain about the way things are being done. We will eliminate the "US and THEM" syndrome that only creates bad feelings and hopelessness and create the "WE" approach. We are all in this together so lets function that way and create the best school system in the nation.

Please don't be lazy, shy or uncaring about this need for communication, your input, your dedication, your expertise, your children will be the ingredients for reaching this realistic and achievable goal. I urge you to respond by writing me at this address.

Last spring Boyne Falls school held a contest to make up a design for a new school sign and Joslyn Cleary, a third grade student won, along with a $50 savings bond. Tuesday, she was able to see her idea put into reality as the school completed the installation of the new hand carved sign. After the PTO members paid for the supplies, John Burkhard carved out the letters and the pine trees. Looking on at the sign is Toni Feil a PTO supporter, Debbie and Jennie Kuhn, the president of the PTO and her daughter, Joslyn and school principal Mike Wallace.

Shiitake mushroom seminar

Growing mushrooms to improve forest management and productivity is not a normal practice recommended by foresters. In addition, we seldom think of growing mushroom in Northern Michigan for fun and profit. This may change with the increased recognition and cultivation of the Shiitake (She-ta-key) forest mushroom.

Shiitake has long been a favorite in Asia. The mushrooms are grown on small diameter low-grade hardwood logs, and show high potential as a new cash crop for the area. Japan's major agriculture export, the industry there employed 188,000 people and generated $1.1 billion in retail sales in 1978. Markets exist within the U.S. for sale of Shiitake. The mushroom has the potential to become an important U.S. forest product.

To better inform the residents of Northern Michigan, on the growing and marketing of Shiitake mushroom, the Northwest Michigan Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) Council and the Huron Pines (RC&D) Council Area are co-sponsoring two public workshops on Shiitake Mushroom. The first workshop will be held on Friday, October 31, 1986 at the Chalet Restaurant in Gaylord, Michigan at the I-75 and M-32 intersection. On November 1, 1986 a similar workshop will be held in the Ludington area at the West Shore Community College, which is on Stiles Road north of US-10 between Ludington and Scottville.

The workshops promise to be very interesting with a wide variety of topics and speakers on the agenda. The workshops will demonstrate how Shiitake's are grown and will cover items like tree selection, extending the growing season, marketing and economics. The November 1 workshop will have the same agenda as the October 31 workshop, along with an extra session for people currently growing Shiitake. The meetings will also include an exciting section on cooking with Shiitake which will include tasting the final product!

Two key resource people will handle major parts of the workshop. They are Joe Krawczyk and Mary Ellen Kozak, owners of the "Field and Forest Products, Inc." in Peshtigo, Wisconsin. "Field and Forest Products" was established to cultivate Shiitake mushroom spawn for growers. Joe and Mary Ellen have considerable experience in all aspects of Shiitake's and have been active in promoting this new product in the Midwest.

Shiitake can be grown on a variety of tree types using two and six inch diameter logs. They will produce a crop in the spring and fall and will produce 50 lbs. of mushrooms per year per cord of wood. Retail prices vary from $6 to $20 per pound of fresh Shiitake, with wholesale prices ranging from $4 to $12 per pound.

The workshops will start at 9:00 a.m. with coffee and sign-up and will end at 3:30 p.m. A registration fee of $15 will cover a complete luncheon; coffee, instructors' travel; Shiitake samples and an information packet of material.

ADVANCE REGISTRATION IS REQUIRED BY OCTOBER 23, 1986.

To receive a registration form and workshop agenda, please call: Kelly Looze, District Coordinator, Charlevoix Soil & Water Conservation District at 582-7341.

had retired, burned out from teaching, he felt the change would keep him from burning out. He figured the break from the middle school would do that.

Graye has taught split sessions in both the middle and the high school up until this year. Graye insinuated, according to board member Judy Follette, that the matter was a personal vendetta against him by the high school principal, Warren Wade. She told him the school board had to follow the contract.

Board member Gary Winters

told Graye "Our input from the previous hearing was from the administration trying to figure out how to fill a position that was needed for the curriculum. It's unfortunate you are the one this is happening to, but..."

Follette reaffirmed that the position was not posted as a math-history position, and recommended the denial of the grievance. The grievance was denied by a 5-1 vote with only Thelma Behling agreeing with Graye.

The board also approved the setting of the price for the new building trades home the high school students have nearly completed on Alice Street. The tentative price was set at $56,000. The home, built on the last lot on Alice street is 110 feet wide by 126 feet deep. The home is a three bedroom structure. According to Kelly, the home was priced under the cost approach but above the market approach to allow from some negotiations.

Also approved was the new elementary faculty handbook for the school year, passed a resolution making sure that the tax anticipation notes would be tax deductible and hired a teacher aide for 1 1/4 hours a day to help at the Elementary School playground.

The board will be meeting again Wednesday night to cover the opening of bids for the tax anticipation notes, and have a hearing on two more grievance requests from the Michigan Educational Support Personnel Association dealing with salaries for bus drivers and maintenance of membership in the union.

They are also expected to have a work session on goals of the board for the school year.

Dionne reported that the harbor dredging has been completed and that Roen Salvage will drive posts as long as weather permits. Approval was given to include utility centers providing cable TV and electricity to individual mooring sites on the dock. These costs were included in the harbor's state matching fund grant. Elevating part of the existing dock due to the rising lake level was also approved by council.

Boyerne City jayvees defeated by Onaway

The Boyne City JV football squad were defeated 28-6 Thursday night on their hometown field. Onaway was the first to score, as they picked off an errant Boyne City pass and carried the interception into the endzone for a 6-0 lead. The Ramblers engineered a fifty yard drive following the Cardinal touchdown, but the drive went fruitless as two fumbles and a sack forced a turnover of the ball on downs. Late in the first period, Scott Crain recovered an Onaway fumble at the Cardinal's 45 to set up Boyne City's TD. A scored from the 26 yard pass from Rambler 5 for a 22-6 lead. Late in the period the Ramblers lost their center and kick-off return man, Nick Evans, and later in the fourth period, lost Polleys, both with injuries. Fourth quarter action saw the Ramblers hold off a first and goal to go attempt by the Cardinals, pushing Onaway back 28 yards. Late in the game, after Onaway had taken a 28-6 lead, replacement QB, Holley ran the ball for two first downs, making it to the Cardinals 15, but from there the Ramblers were denied entry into the endzone.

BC Jr. High loses to Gaylord

The Boyne City Middle School girls basketball team dropped two games to their arch rivals the Gaylord Blue Devils Monday night. The seventh grade went down 54-18, and the eighth graders lost 35-16.

In seventh grade action, Gaylord led 20-2 after one period, and 34-6 at the half. Boyne City trailed 48-12 going into the final quarter. Kris Crozier scored the majority of the Ramblers points with 14, while Mellissa Anderson and H. Robinson had 2 points each. The eighth graders were tied with Gaylord 4-4 after one period after Brooke Coveyou sank one of two free throws with 20 left. Coveyou gave Boyne their final lead of the game shortly after the second period began, but from there on Gaylord took control as the Ramblers experienced a poor defensive quarter and never got back on track. Dawn Archambault and Tara Belford were the leading Rambler scorers with 4 points each, while Coveyou and Crissy Gervassi had 3 points each. Tina Brown and Sharon Ordiway added one point each.
