

Area couple wins new van

Austin and Helen Sevens are driving around in a new $20,000 customized van, thanks to a moment of time they took to fill out an entry at Bob Mather's Ford when they went in to pay a bill for some car repairs. Their entry was a winner as their name was drawn to win a Hudson's Boundary Waters Edition Conversion Van by Waldock Crafts. They also won a weekend vacation for four at the Homestead Lodge near Glen Arbor. The Sevens were sent plane tickets to Detroit and then driven out to Dearborn where they were given the keys. They then drove the van home and are enjoying it by driving around the area.

BC Planners miffed by Courters-Bendix plan

Boyne City planners seemed to gang-tackle Allied/Bendix Courter Monday evening after the firm had presented what they thought the planners wanted in a site plan that covers all of the property they own along Lake Street.

The plan showed where plantings would be made to hide and landscape the grounds around the group of buildings the firm has purchased over the past few years and consolidated into their business.

But the planners seemed to want more. They suggested the international firm show them a conceptual plan of what the completed project might look like five to ten years from now.

The planners seemed to be concerned with the three buildings the firm has taken over along Lake Street saying they do not look like they are part of the firm. They also think the former A & W building is too close to the road.

The planners suggested the conceptual plan show what the property could look like if the three buildings were taken down and replaced with something else that would conform with the look of the other buildings on the property.

Plant Manager Douglas Gabrielsen seemed to be confused as to what the planners wanted, suggesting his firm has taken steps to improve the sites they have taken over the growth of the company. He said that if the firm were starting from the beginning, the buildings would not look the way they are today, but the firm has utilized the buildings they purchased through the years as best as they could.

He said he would be willing to work with the planners to try to come up with what they want in the plan for the property the firm had asked be designated Planned Industrial Development zoning back in 1981.

The problem with the planning board seems to stem from a conceptual plan shown to them back at that time, and the planners want to see something similar that would tie all of the grounds and buildings together.

The matter was brought before the planners as they were asked by the firm to have the zoning for the A & W property changed from General Commercial to the PID the firm is utilizing as a zoning designation.

The firm purchased the former A & W and has converted it into a building that would be used for product evaluation and testing.

The planning board noted the additional work being done to the structure and had asked the firm to have the zoning for the building be changed to conform with the rest of the property.

Gabrielsen told the planners he would be willing to work with them to come up with the plans they wanted to see, only if the firm would not be locked into making a commitment to build according to the conceptual plan.

He was assured that wasn't the case, that the planners only wanted to help the firm work out some kind of plan that could be used in the future as the firm continues to grow within the community.

Gabrielsen told the planners the firm has no intention of tearing down buildings at this time, and has tried to make all of the buildings in the firm look similar with the same type of siding and landscaping.

He thought the site plan presented last night showed some of the plans of the firm and the improvements they have made to the properties so far.

Planning Board Chairman Dale Parsons told Gabrielsen the planning board had seen a conceptual plan back in 1981 when they were working on a new zoning map. That zoning map became effective in 1982 and had the plant fall into the Planned Industrial Development designation.

Parsons told the plant manager that Courters had made a commitment at that time to make the plant look attractive, but said he was disappointed in the plan that was presented Monday night.

The zoning change was tabled until the firm presents a better site plan after working with the city and the planning board.

In other action, the planners were about to turn down two requests for duplex construction in residential areas when both requests were withdrawn.

The planners had a request for a conditional use permit to allow for the construction of a duplex from Harold and Marcelyn Hamlin on a piece of property they own located at 134 West Lincoln. They wanted to convert a house into a two family dwelling for rental purposes.

In the public hearing process, the planners were informed that eight residents in the neighborhood had submitted letters against the conditional use permit, asking the neighborhood

Charlevoix County Hospice will be holding its third anniversary memorial service honoring all past patients Sunday, November 23 at 4 p.m. at the United Methodist Church here in Boyne City. The public is invited to share some of the memories with members of the hospice and the families involved.

Donations are being accepted and organized for the annual Boyne City Food Basket program. Canned goods, toys and other items are being asked for by members of the committee who will be holding their organizational meeting this week at Thelma Behling's house. The food basket program is one of the neat things the community has done in the past for those less fortunate. Members of the committee hope to see many donations coming in for redistribution. Call Thelma Behling for more information.

Also on the list of those asking for toys is the Salvation Army. It is holding a collection to get toys for needy children this Christmas time. For Charlevoix County, the drop off point for toy collection will be at 801 Water Street in East Jordan between the hours of 8 and 5, Monday through Friday. Toy donations will be accepted until December 14th.

State Senator Mitch Irwin has been named the Democratic Floor Leader when the state senate convenes in January. Irwin, recently elected for his third term, says the post will help boost northern Michigan as his voice will be listened to more, and he will have greater influence. Maybe he will be able to work with the other half, the Republicans, on bringing the future together and lower our taxes.

The November Food distribution will be held November 26 between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. with butter, cheese, rice, and honey scheduled to be given away. Re-certification of income will still be used as the criteria for the program and those wishing to get the free food must show proof of their income to those giving the food away. The food will be distributed from the Boyne City Community Services Building, the East Jordan Civic Center, and the V.F.W. Hall in Charlevoix. Those qualifying for the program should have an income under $11,400 for a family of three. Each additional member raises income levels by $2,350. For more information, call Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency at 347-9080.

Crisp fall mornings can produce real hazards for drivers as a sheeting of ice on bridges and roadways can form from the humidity. Most accidents caused from slippery roads happen before the road commission can get out with the sand to cure the problem.

Water levels in Lake Charlevoix have gone down about a foot in the last couple of weeks exposing some of the breakwall and stone rip-rap along the shoreline. The lake level, until recently, was lapping along the top of the steel sheeting put in along the Boyne River, and when the wind blew out of the west, would cause the water to flow over the wall and into the parks along the waterfront.

BC to make WWTP high water plan

Boyne City Commissioners were given an overview of what the County Health Department can do for the city when they are considering development projects that might have some bearing on ground water contamination, at their noon meeting held Tuesday.

Larry Levengood, sanitarian for the county, gave the presentation to the city fathers saying that the health department has been given the responsibility by the state under the Governor Blanchard groundwater protection plan.

Levengood told the city his department has been funded to help the city consider groundwater contamination and the protection ground water needs when projects are considered within the community.

He told the commissioners part of the funding from the state provides for the Health Department to go out and inform the governmental bodies they can use the department as a resource when projects are being considered.

He said the goals of the department, as groundwater protection is concerned, include the protecting of the public from possible contamination, to act as a liaison between the city and state, and be able to use the health department as a source for data, and to help develop guidelines for zoning, development and other considerations.

The commissioners then decided to work on another water problem concerning the wastewater treatment plant.

With the high water and the continued expectation of high water next year, the city authorized the spending of $2,200 with Granger Engineering to help work out what would be needed if the lake water rises to the point where the wastewater treatment plant outflow would not be able to go into the lake.

Presently the city's water

Loding community awards approved

Boyne City's proposed Community Pride Award is moving ahead as planned under the new name of the Marvin Loding Community Pride Awards designation.

The name change was approved by the planning board Monday and is named after a former mayor and councilman who served the city for many years until his death in December of 1984.

The award will honor three divisions; business, industrial and residential, with a plaque to the owner of the property.

The awards will be decided upon using a five-point criteria that was established by the Planning Board and approved Tuesday by the City Commission. The criteria include the landscaping, structural design, appearance, maintenance and being harmonious with the neighborhood.

The first step in the selection process allows for a home to be considered and nominated to the planning board by any citizen of the city. Nomination forms will be available from the city offices shortly, according to Randy Frykberg, City Manager. They will also be available at other locations within the city, for example, the Chamber of Commerce office.

Nominations have to be received by the planners by June 1. At the July meeting of the planning board the best will be selected and the names will be passed to the City Commission as recommendations.

The city will approve the selections by the first week in August and the mayor and Mrs. Loding will announce the winners and present the awards by the middle of August.

THANKSGIVING
Thanksgiving is a time for family togetherness especially needed in these changing times. I have never been more aware of the perpetual changes in the ways of our lives than at the present time. Of course, as one grows older things do seem to happen faster than usual. At least, they certainly did for me this past month.

Kelley's little five pound Nichole is bravely facing a new world at the same time that my dear friend, Nellie, who inspired me with her gifts of love and humor as well as recipes, left this world. We celebrated great-grandson Bobbie's first birthday and Kim and Greg's wedding all within one month. Then to top it off I attended our 55th high school reunion. We recalled past friends and good times with nostalgia, and we decided that we are survivors who are confident of the future and danced to the music of the "Thirties".

Around the dinner table is the best place for that family togetherness and I am already planning our Thanksgiving dinner. This is about the only time of the year that the family "lets Grandma do it", and I am delighted. This is a time when you can serve recipes from the past without apologies. Save the new exotic foods for another time. I am sure that every family has its favorites. My menu will be something like this.

Thanksgiving Menu

- Roast Turkey
- Dressing and gravy
- Mashed potatoes
- Broccoli with cheese sauce
- Cranberry Cherry Salad
- Relish Tray
- Rolls, Strawberry jam
- Old time yam pudding
- Apple Pie

The new breeds of turkey are so easy to roast. Just follow the directions on the package: I have fond that those little buttons that rise when the turkey is done are fool-proof.

Broccoli is my family's favorite vegetable, they especially like it with this creamy cheese sauce and I will add pimentos or stuffed olives for color.

Cheese sauce for broccoli

- 2 t. butter
 - 2 T. flour
 - 2 cups milk
 - 1/2 tsp. salt
 - dash of red pepper
 - 1 cup shredded cheese
 - 1/4 cup pimento cut up or sliced stuffed olives
- Melt the butter, add the flour and blend well, then gradually add the milk stirring constantly until thick. Add seasonings and cheese. Pour over the broccoli in a pretty serving dish. This is a time when we use our best dishes.

I like to make old time goodies using modern methods and of course we must have cranberries. Cranberries are traditional for Thanksgiving.

They might have been eaten on that first Thanksgiving day. The Indians, no doubt, introduced them to the Pilgrims. They gathered them wild where they grew abundantly in bogs along the rivers in New England and Canada. In the 1800s sailors were eating them at sea to prevent scurvy; they are rich in vitamin C. Our cranberries are now grown commercially in northern U.S. and Canada where the water levels are scientifically controlled.

Cranberry Cherry Salad

From "Mabel's Kitchen"

- Cindy Newell Perry
- 2 cups fresh cranberries and 1 1/2 cups water. Cook to "pop". Stir in one small box cherry jello. Refrigerate until partially set. Then add 3/4 cup chopped celery, 1/2 cup nutmeats, and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Pour into mold and refrigerate overnight.

Cindy says, "You can only find cranberries at Thanksgiving time, so stock up and freeze bags for the year's use."

If you want to give this salad something extra pour into a square or oblong pan and frost with this:

Cream Cheese Frosting

- 1 8 oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened
 - 1 cup powdered sugar
 - 1 small container whipped topping
- Mix the softened cream cheese with the powdered sugar and fold in the thawed whipped topping. Put this on the salad after it is set, then refrigerate before serving.

The relish tray will combine pickles, olives, our own special chili sauce, dilly beans and fresh vegetable sticks.

In past years I always made clover leaf rolls, however the bakery ones are so good that I do not make them anymore. I must serve strawberry jam with these rolls or my grand daughter, Betty, would not think that it was Thanksgiving.

We will have this pudding for dessert because my family loves and expects sweet potatoes.

Old Time Yam Pudding

- 5 medium sweet potatoes, boiled, peeled and mashed
 - 1/3 cup butter
 - 1 1/4 cups brown sugar
 - 4 egg yolks, well beaten
 - 1/2 cup sherry
 - salt to taste
 - 1 teaspoon nutmeg
 - 1/4 teaspoon mace
 - 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
- Cream together the butter and sugar and mix in the beaten egg yolks, the mashed sweet potatoes, sherry and seasoning. Fold in the egg white and pour the mixture into a buttered casserole and bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. Serves 8.

This yam pudding is so much like pumpkin pie that we will break tradition and not make the pie, though we must have some kind of pie. "Apple Pie", which will be the all time favorite.

Changes are being made in the way long distance users in your area place some operator-handled calls.

These changes affect Michigan Bell customers having phone numbers beginning with 582.

This is an informational message about your phone service from Mike Reid, your Michigan Bell Corporate Affairs Manager.

"These telephone service changes concern only operator-handled long distance calls outside your Michigan Bell long distance calling area. They apply to collect, credit card, person-to-person calls, calls billed to a third number, and requests for assistance. Some customers will need to contact their long distance companies for new instructions on how to place such calls. To find out if and how the service changes may affect your service, we ask you to read the following explanation."

An explanation of the changes in your operator-assistance service for calls outside your Michigan Bell long distance calling area (interLATA calls).

How operator-assisted calls were placed before. If you wanted operator assistance to place a long distance call, you dialed "O," or "O" plus the area code (if required), and the phone number you wanted and an operator put the call through for you.

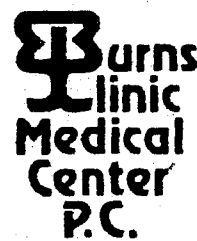

How these calls are placed now. If the long distance service on the phone you are using is provided by a company that offers operator services and you want operator assistance to place a call, you dial "O," plus the area code (if required), and the phone number and an operator will assist you. To reach the long distance operator for additional assistance, you must dial "OO." (Important: If you dial "O" without the phone number, you will get a Michigan Bell operator who can place calls within your Michigan Bell area only.)

If the long distance service on the phone you're using is provided by a long distance company that does not offer operator services, you must contact that long distance company to get instructions on how to place operator-assisted long distance calls.

Please note: If you dial "O," plus the area code, and the number, you may get a recording or no response. Further, if you dial "O" without the number, you will get a Michigan Bell operator who will refer you to your long distance company for further instructions.

If you are calling from a pay phone, continue to use the instructions posted on the phone. Again, you should contact your long distance company for new instructions on how to place operator-handled long distance calls outside your Michigan Bell calling area. If you have any other questions about the changes, please call Michigan Bell's Let's Talk Center. The toll-free number is 1 800 555-5000.

Please watch your Michigan Bell bill inserts for further information.

The Positive Side

"A true friend steps in when the whole world steps out."

Marshall Sayles

Please pay particular attention to this first paragraph so I won't have to repeat it.

This offering is being thought up in front of a live audience in Mount Dora, Florida. It's a community with the same size and sizzle of Boyne City, surrounded with orange groves, palm trees and fake grass.

Here we shall wait out the storms of snow and ice common to the Charlevoix County Road Commission.

Many people who stay home often wonder why other people spend the shiver months away from the exciting life of Boyne City. That's not really unusual. People wonder about a lot of different things. For instance, why did you marry instead of leaving town in the middle of the night? Look in the mirror and try to give yourself an honest answer. Work at it.

My reason for our trek south is this: The heat, the sand burrs, and the little creepy crawlies beat the keen-edge of a snowstorm whenever I stop to think about it. (When I was on the genius side of twenty, I couldn't get enough of Boyne City in winter, even though the town had had enough of me.)

You don't realize how much of a Michigan person you really are until you begin to mingle and mix in another state.

Everything is strange. The first week or so you go around feeling like a head with the chicken part cut off. Then when you've spent too much money and have to go hat in hand to the bank for relief, you feel as though you were back in Michigan.

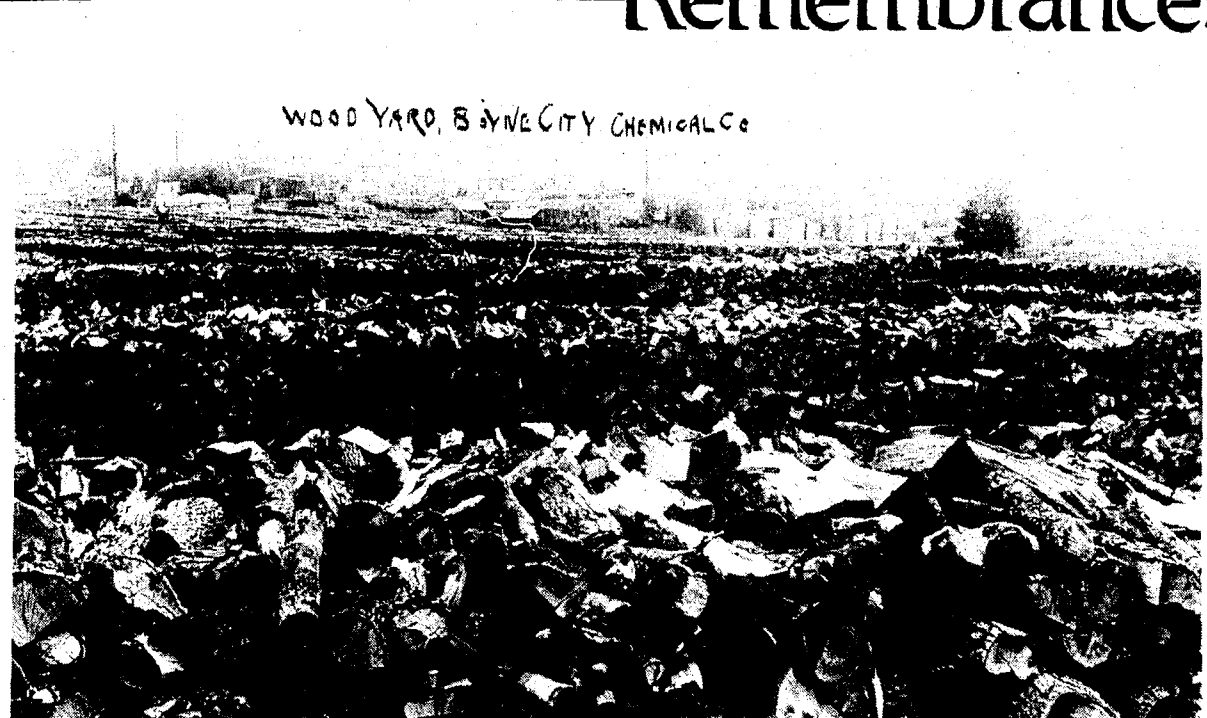

The reason you spend more in Florida is because things are cheaper here. The cheaper things are, the more stuff you buy; and you wind up spending more than it your had hung around, paying top dollar.

Cheap isn't cheap at all. It just seems like it. Pass it on.

Now, there's something else about hiding out in Florida: You've got to get there before you can be there; and you have two choices. You may drive, or take a plane. Not having a plane handy, we chose to drive.

There have been times when I thought the heavy traffic from Boyne City to Petoskey would out-wit my ability to manipulate an automobile. Well, let me tell you something. Drive through Nashville, Tenn., in a dense fog during early morning rush hour. That Boyne to Petoskey run is boondock country stuff in comparison.

In fact, after we hit the expressway at Gaylord the traffic was so heavy I drove 1400 miles following the car behind me.

If you think your woodpile is big enough to last the winter, you should have lived in Boyne City when the chemical plant was cooking wood to make alcohol and coke for the pig iron plant that was located across the street. The chemical plant was located across from the Landings Condominiums while the woodpile, which covered several acres, was located where the mobile home park sits today. This woodpile would last the plant several days while they cooked it down to make the chemicals. Many men were hired to split the wood and keep the woodpile filled back in those days. If you have any pictures of the old days around town, bring them to the office so we can make a copy and share your picture with our readers.

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

It must have been a great deer season, according to all of the cars I saw loaded with deer heading south while I was heading north last Sunday. It seemed like every fifth or sixth car, truck, motorhome, or what have you was carrying a carcass out in the open.

Every 23rd car, but don't hold me to the actual number as when I get over three I can't count with a calculator, was carrying a Christmas tree.

It made me wonder if they cut them off of private land or just cut them down in the state lands most of the hunters overload.

But it doesn't seem like Boyne City gets that much hunting pressure. A quick survey of the bars and restaurants that I did Monday showed they weren't as busy as they thought.

I think if Boyne City wants to attract the hunting crowds, then they had better plan on figuring out some way to move Chandler township and slip it in between Evangeline and Wilson. That way, those hunters that the businesses want will not have to travel as far to get the entertainment and the food they want.

Others I have talked with, don't want to see that much hunting pressure so close to town though, I kinda have to go along with them as I don't want to see an errant shot come through my windows or walls.

I always said that I ever went hunting, the first thing I would probably do is dig a foxhole. In the bottom of the hole, I would have a stove, refrigerator, television with HBO, toilet and bed.

The only way I would get a deer would be if the animal slipped and fell into the foxhole and broke it's neck when it hit the bottom.

Of course I would have to have a maid to clean up the mess after I got done "hunting" but living in the north woods can be fun, according to some of those who do much as I would have to do.

I wonder where the real hunters have gone, those who had to hunt to eat as in this area around the 1850's. Those must have been a lot different than the hunting days of today.

There were less deer as the trees had gotten their full growth, the animals were smaller, were more wary of humans and were just harder to find. The season was a lot longer though, you could hunt deer every day of the year. You could also hunt everything else everyday too.

I know I wouldn't want to live back in those days, life was definitely a lot tougher than yesterday.

I had another one of those rude awakenings when I opened the mail the other day. There was an invitation for me to come skiing at Nubs Nob. The rude part of the deal is that I am not ready for ski season. I still have a list about two miles long of things to do that aren't getting done. Snow falls are just another one of the things I don't need at this time of the year. But since you can't work against the weather, I will have to learn to start working on all the "get-Articles that encourage me to make the most of myself always get my attention. But in autumn, I really study them because that's the time when I feel low and inadequate. Not only does fall have dreary skies and spitting rains that I can't do anything about, but there are all those instructions for Christmas gifts you can make that will be cherished by friends and loved ones forever. And I can't do anything about them either. I'm zilch when it comes to making things with needles. So I was cheered recently to find an article entitled "8 Ways to Boost

Your Self-esteem" in Woman's Day magazine. It seemed like just the thing to help me get a grip on myself.

But after reading the article, I felt less encouraged. Some of the suggestions didn't seem too workable, at least for me.

Cultivating people whose accomplishments you admire is one such suggestion. I admire a number of writers. But none of them live close enough to cultivate. There's Russell Baker, who lives somewhere in the New York area. And Peg Bracken, who lives on one of the Hawaiian Islands, which makes her even less cultivatable. Besides, they've already made me feel good by what they've written. Cultivating them would be asking that they do more than their fair share toward boosting my self-esteem.

Another suggestion is that you put out of your life anyone who puts you down. That idea sounds a bit rash. On a bad day, I feel like everyone is doing just that. A few bad days with a clean sweep of everyone who seems to be putting me down and I could end up quite alone. My self-esteem doesn't boost at all at that possibility.

But the idea of learning something new every day, like a new word or place, does make sense for me. I love to look up words in the dictionary. I'd have to pay better attention than I have been though to really learn their meanings. The way it is now, some words walk into my mind and then walk right out again without even sitting down. Words like George F. Will's favorite, feckless, I just can't hang onto the meaning of. But I will try harder now that I know my self-esteem is at stake.

The suggestion that you do something every day that you do extraordinarily well, even if it's just a small thing, stopped me cold at first. I couldn't think of a single extraordinary thing that I did. Then I remembered the noodles. Day before yesterday, I figured out that the perfect implement for serving noodles at the table is wide tongs, not the serving spoon we've always used before. And it worked great. We finally had control of the wayward pasta.

My idea was extraordinary. Everybody said so.

East Jordan students organize Students Against Drunk Driving chapter

By Dennis Skrocki
The next topic of discussion was that of fund raising ideas. Many ideas were suggested with an upside down prom, a car smash and winter car wash getting the most attention. Plans for a SADD awareness week were brought up but vaguely touched upon.

The next topic of importance was that of helping Michigan in its sesquicentennial celebration by placing a float in the fourth of July Parade.

The concept of a SADD chapter in East Jordan schools was presented by Karki nearly two years ago but was not enacted until recently. In the SADD program, four main purposes are stressed. They are: Eliminate drunk driving, not to condone drinking; Alert high school students of the dangers; organize a peer counseling program and alert the public.

The group held its first meeting on October 29. Twenty eight students attended this meeting along with advisors Sheridan and Rosensteel and other EJ faculty members. Here the students viewed a movie dealing with confidence and a good self-image.

The policy of "contract for life" was presented by Karki. This is a document in which students and their parents discuss and sign. It states that the teenager, if impaired, will call their parent who will pick them up and not ask questions until sobering occurs.

At the end of the meeting students organized groups of awareness, education and fundraising.

Earlier in the year Karki, Mead and Poole attended a SADD meeting at Boyne Mountain in which all Michigan chapters were invited. Here they formed discussion groups and exchanged ideas with other chapters obtaining information to improve their own.

The next meeting has been scheduled for November 26, at 3:00 in the high school media center.

Kindergarten Screening Clinic scheduled for three dates

There will be a Developmental Screening Clinic for all children who will be entering kindergarten in the fall of 1988. This clinic is sponsored by the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District. The purpose of this clinic is to provide information regarding normal child development, an opportunity to interact with parents of other three year old children, and to have your child informally screened in order to identify any potential learning difficulties which may arise during the school years. This is a free service with appointments made on a first come, first served basis.

The clinics are scheduled as follows: Charlevoix, Dec. 10 1986 and Jan. 14, 1987 at Charlevoix-Emmet I.S.D., Mercer Blvd., Charlevoix. Pellston/Littlefield, Feb. 11, 1987 at Church of the Nazarene, Corner M-68 and Mission Rd., Alanson.

If you are interested in attending the above clinic, or reside in a district other than the ones listed above, please contact Pat Gauthier, 547-9947, at the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District for an appointment or for further information.

So from now on, every time we have noodles, I'll be aware of how well the serving of them goes because of me. I don't know what I'll do in the way of extraordinary on the days we don't have noodles. Maybe just thinking about the noodle thing will buoy my self-esteem on those days. It's worth a try. Certainly it's way ahead of brooding about the rotten autumn weather and hand-made Christmas presents.

A lot of guys do that. I see and hear of them cutting wood in the springtime. And then stacking it in June. Just to use it, all dried out by now in November, December, January and February. They, like most of us probably run out in March and April and have to rely on the gas company.

Northern Michigan Hospitals to open on-site day care center for employees

Northern Michigan Hospitals in Petoskey will soon open the first on-site day care center in northern Michigan.

Starting in January, Northern Michigan Hospital's Child Development Center will open for NMH employees. The center will be located within the hospital in the old North Wing area of the Little Traverse Division.

"We are proud of the fact that we are the first employer in northern Michigan to offer an on-site service to employees," said Mike Speer, NMH Vice President for Human Resources.

"Nationwide, on-site day care centers have become prevalent as employers see the value of employees having their children nearby and knowing they have quality care."

Director of the center Debbie Rohe, who also is the teacher/director of NMH's Incredible Amazing Me (I AM!) preschool health education program has a master's degree in child development and a wide range of experience in preschool settings.

"This center will be a positive benefit for employees because their children will be close at hand and the parents can visit them during the day," said Speer. "It will be easy for parents to drop their children off within the hospital every day instead of having to go to another day care setting and then on breaks or at lunch time, the employees can stop in to see the children and actually have some time with them during the day."

"Particularly in a hospital setting, we have the need to call employees to work on short notice and so often day care is a problem for the parents. Hopefully, that problem will be eliminated with this center," said Speer.

Currently the center plans on operating from 6:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. If the need exists for a full afternoon shift (3 p.m. - 11 p.m.) or weekend accommodations, the center may expand their hours. The staff will be able to care for infants, preschoolers and school age children. The center will be licensed for 50 children, and registration, which will take place at NMH on November 25, will be on a first-come, first serve basis.

"Although this center is a positive benefit to our employees, we are emphasizing that it is one that will be self-supporting," said Speer.

"We realize that not all employees will use the center so we have set tuition and wages to cover our expenses. This is a benefit designed specifically for our employees but we have structured the fees and wages of the staff so that the center can support itself."

A parent's advisory committee has been meeting to help with policies and activities of the center and NMH employees have been encouraged to donate furniture and toys for the children.

Great-grandma Grace Pratt sent word that David and Brenda (Oakes) Ward of Phoenix, Ariz. became the parents of Kayleen Leann, their first child, on October 19, 1986. The baby girl weighed 7 1/2 pounds and was 20 1/4 inches in length at birth.

Grandparents are Ken and Nancy Oakes (formerly of Boyne City), and Deloris Ward of Phoenix, Ariz.

New doctor joins staff

Dr. Ann Kuenker

Boyer City has a new doctor, Doctor Ann Kuenker, coming to join the staff of the Boyne Valley Medical Clinic.

Dr. Kuenker is a Doctor of Osteopathy, having learned her skills at Michigan State University.

She graduated in 1981 and has served her internship and residency in Grand Rapids. Her second year as a resident was in the area of internal medicine.

She then spent three years as a resident in Detroit learning the speciality of Family Practice. After serving that residency, she opened an office in Eastport this past summer.

She will continue her office at Eastport, but will be coming to Boyne to work with patients every Friday. She said that the schedule may be expanded as she grows with the practice.

She is affiliated with the Traverse City Osteopathic Hospital and is applying to Charlevoix Area Hospital as the hospitals she will be working with as part of serving the patient.

Kuenker is married to Jim McDonnell, a doctor serving a surgical residency in Flint.

remain as a single family area.

The letters complained of additional noise, lack of parking, additional traffic, and use of an alley. They also suggested the change would lower their property values if allowed.

There was only one letter for the switch, but the planners heard other verbal arguments against the change and were about to deny the request when Hamlin withdrew it saying he would be back after talking with the residents of the neighborhood and submitting a site plan that would cover all of the questions that were brought up.

The planners also were asked to consider a similar request for a piece of property located on 419 North Park Street. Neighbors in that neighborhood also submitted letters asking the area to stay a single family residential. Valerie Cotanche is in the process of converting a house she owns to a two family dwelling but withdrew the request after the planners had suggested they would be having additional requests for conditional use permits in some of the older neighborhoods.

They wanted to set up a list of criteria that could be used before making any of the requests in the future as the zoning rules are too broad and cover many things not used in residential areas.

Members of the planning board then approved the criteria for the proposed Marvin Loding Community Pride Awards and passed them on the city commission for approval.

They also heard a review of the procedure being used to close West Main Street. The city is closing the street as part of a land swap with the developers of the One Water Street Inn and the city for a larger amount of land to add to the Peninsula Beach Park the city is building.

The planners also approved the sending of the proposed ordinance amendment to the City Commission covering the changes in the Home Occupations part of the zoning ordinance. There were no objections to the hearing so the planners moved to approval to the commission.

DNR set for another moose move to UP

There will be a sequel to the historic moose life of 1985 this winter, when another 30 bulls and cows from Ontario's Algonquin Park arrive in the Upper Peninsula.

"MOOSE LIFT II" will occur in late January or early February as the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources has agreed to provide the moose in an effort to assist the Department of Natural Resources in its program of restoring a moose population to Michigan.

Tidbits

How much are a city's trees worth? In Salt Lake City, Utah, the estimated 100,000 trees on public property alone are worth more than $105 million reports National Wildlife magazine. An urban forester made the calculations in an effort to support the city's tree care improvement plans.

"This isn't just helping out a neighbor, it's a contribution from all Ontarians to a good cause—restoring a species to part of its former range in North America," explained Vincent Kerrio, Ontario Natural Resources Minister.

Director Gordon E. Guyer of the DNR, said, "The people of Michigan would like to express their gratitude to the people of Ontario for their generosity in sharing their exceptional wildlife resources with an international neighbor."

"The moose transplant has inspired all of our citizens," Guyer added, "and focused on the importance of fostering not only national, but international conservation efforts."

Guyer said the 15 bulls and 15 cows will join the 48 other moose in Marquette County, north of Lake Michigan, in the Upper Peninsula.

"MOOSE LIFT II" will involve the transfer of the moose by helicopter, non-stop truck relays, and participation by skilled teams of Provincial and DNR wildlife staff.

The wildlife experts in helicopters will immobilize moose with tranquilizer darts and airlift them to a staging area.

The animals will be tested for overall health and pregnancy and then shipped non-stop to Marquette.

Guyer said he is delighted with the second transplant and explained that having additional bull moose will assist in the herd's reproduction.

There are seven surviving bulls and 15 surviving cows from the 1985 transplant along with 26 calves and yearlings, born since then.

Four cows were lost to brainworm in the winter of 1985-86, and three bulls died from unknown causes.

The cost of "MOOSE LIFT II" is pegged at $80,000 and will be paid for with money from the Game and Fish fund and contributions from the Michigan Involvement Committee of Safari Club International; the Upper Peninsula Sportsmen's Alliance; the Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation and Michigan United Conservation Club.

What to look for when buying a snowblower for this climate

If you're in the market for a snowthrower, there's a wide variety of models available. These models range in size from small units weighing under 15 pounds for light snow to large commercial units weighing more than 300 pounds. In between is a new generation of mid-size models that can perform as well as large models.

What's available? Small and mid-size snowthrowers are called "single stage" machines. They gather the snow with a high-speed rotor and throw it out of the machine in a single action. Large models are called

"two stage." A two stage model breaks up the snow with a slow-turning auger, then passes the snow to a high-speed system which blows it out through a chute.

Single stage units cost about $230 to $500 and weigh 17 to 75 pounds. Two stage machines weigh 140 to 300 pounds and usually sell for about $650 to $1,500.

How far and high can it throw snow? These are the critical factors in measuring the performance of a snowthrower. You'll want a model that will throw snow clear of wide driveways, not part of the way across where it will need throwing again. Almost as important is how many inches of snow can the machine handle in a single pass? According to Bert Thompson, Toro marketing manager for snow products, a snowthrower should be able to handle the deepest single snowfalls you receive in one pass while throwing snow over any drifts that tend to build up around your house.

Smaller snowthrowers can throw snow five to 15 feet and are suitable for clearing sidewalks or narrow driveways. Until this season, most mid-size units could throw snow 15 to 20 feet, while large two-stage models were needed to throw snow up to 30 feet. But these limits have changed.

This season a new generation of mid-size, single-stage snowthrowers is beginning to appear on the market that can throw snow 30 feet in distance and 15 feet high, while still offering the handling and starting ease of smaller units and costing hundreds of dollars less than larger models.

Is safety a factor? With care, operating a snowthrower isn't dangerous. But you should always stop the engine before reaching into the throwing area for any reason. Also, when shopping for a snowthrower, look for a model with all moving parts (except the blades) enclosed to keep hands and clothing away from hot or moving parts.

Snow control. Another factor in choosing a snowthrower is control of the snow stream. You may need to direct snow right beside the machine - if there's a nearby wall, for instance. Look for a model with an easily controlled directional chute or vanes.

Starting and maintenance. Easy starting and maintenance are important. Can you start the engine with a standard recoil pull start? Some of the new generation mid-size models employ powerful two cycle engines instead of the common four cycle engines. These new engines start easier, last longer, deliver more power and use less fuel than conventional four cycle engines. They also are easier to maintain, as long as you remember the single most important task at the end of each season, removing any remaining fuel in the tank.

Storage space. How much storage space do you have? Most single stage machines can be hung on the garage wall. Larger two stage units may require up to 16 square feet of storage space.

With the new styled snowthrowers coming into the marketplace, snows like we get in Boyne country won't be a problem. The new snowblowers are designed to blow the snow up and over the piles we accumulate.

Students attend government day at NCMC

Congressman Bob Davis recently sponsored two High School Government Days for high school students in his 11th Congressional District. Over 375 students attended these seminars.

North Central Michigan College in Petoskey was the site of the second seminar on October 31. Students who attended from this area are as follows: Boyne City High School - Chaperone, Mr. Bob Morgridge, Paula Harris, George Lasater, Lynn DesCamp, Colleen Toton, Ralph Fisher and MaryBeth Archambault. From Chaperone, Ms. Marilyn Bradford, Debbi Gillespie, Joe Kondrat, Elleazar Comez, Jeff Bragg, Christine Jarema and Anjanette Massey.

Motorists, you can make your own 12-point car check

A do-it-yourself 12-point vehicle maintenance program performed monthly can help prevent expensive repairs during the upcoming winter driving season, reports AAA Michigan.

"Motorists can perform our 12-point check themselves in just 30 minutes, but those who do not may be plagued by starting problems or a trip to the repair garage," stated Robert Tellier, AAA Michigan Emergency Road Service Manager.

"Deficiencies in these areas checked could eventually cause a car to break down or not start or result in an accident," Tellier said. "Having a car at its peak operating efficiency is always important, but especially in winter when the engine's capabilities can be stretched to the limit."

At 0 degrees, for example, a battery's starting power is reduced by 60 percent, but the engine needs twice as much power to turn over. The bad parts cause additional strain.

"If an engine part is worn or deficient, it can significantly affect the operation of the whole engine," Tellier pointed out.

Between December and March, AAA Michigan receives about half of its 750,000 annual service calls from stranded motorists. Eighty percent of those calls are due to vehicle neglect, not vehicle failure.

A screwdriver, tire pressure gauge, antifreeze hydrometer, and owner's manual are all a motorist needs to perform AAA Michigan's 12-point program. The following steps can be performed anywhere and require minimal automotive knowledge.

Motor oil - The level should be checked with each gasoline fill-up. The owner's manual specifies exact intervals between oil changes.

Brake fluid - Fluid level should be within a quarter-inch of the top of the master cylinder. On some vehicles, it may be necessary to use a screwdriver to pry off the clip holding the brake fluid chamber cover.

Antifreeze - Check the level and strength in the radiator. An antifreeze hydrometer is used to check solution strength. In some cars, coolant can be checked in overflow tanks. Never open or check a hot radiator.

Power steering fluid - The level is checked with a dipstick, similar to an oil dipstick. Add fluid gradually and test the level several times to avoid overfilling.

Automatic transmission fluid - A dipstick which is located behind the engine on the passenger side on most vehicles, is used to check the level. The car should be parked on a level surface with the engine running.

Air filter - Remove from the air filter housing (usually located on top of the engine) carburetor and hold it up to the sun or next to a light. If light cannot be seen through the filter, replace it.

Battery - Clean terminals and dirty cables with a baking soda and water solution, but do not splash any on the car's painted surfaces. If the battery is not a maintenance-free type, check to make sure water is up to the proper level.

Belts, hoses - Inspect fan belts for tension and look for fraying or cracking. To test, press your thumb on the middle of each drive belt. If it gives more than one half inch, tighten or replace it. Inspect hoses and connections for leaks. Make sure the engine is off.

Lights, signals - Activate to make sure they work.

Tires - Check pressure with a gauge and inspect tread wear on all four tires and the spare.

Windshield wipers

- Check and replace worn blades.

Windshield solvent - Be sure windshield washer reservoir is filled. To prevent freezing, use a good commercial solvent.

BOYNE CITY LANES PRESENTS ITS BOWLERS OF THE WEEK

CHRIS REICH

One of the most improved bowlers of this season so far has been Chris Reich. In his first year in league bowling, Chris has raised his average up to a respectable 178. He battered that last Tuesday night in the Sears mixed three-some league by a whopping 134 pins, on his way to a nice 668 series, featuring a 246 game, both personal high's so far in Chris' young career. Chris quipped that "It just left natural". The black angle was working well tonight. Nice job Chris.

A mini slump seems to have come to an end as Karen Winters rolled her highest series so far this season. Bowling for the Boyne Valley Medical Center team in the women's Thursday night league, Karen rolled a very nice 596 set with a high game of 234. It put Karen 80 pins over her 172 average for the evening. "I changed my hand position a little, plus I'm using the cobra wrist guard, and I'm getting a little more turn on the ball". That's a lot of work Karen, but it seems to be paying off. Nice rollin' Karen.

KAREN WINTERS

CONGRATULATIONS.

Rambler girls take non-league game over East Jordan Red Devilettes

BY DENNIS SKROCKI
The East Jordan girls' varsity basketball team traveled to Boyne City on Tuesday, November 11 to take on the Ramblers in a non-conference contest.

Although the outcome was the same the course of the game went quite different from the two teams' previous meeting a week prior.

EJ girls wind up regular season with loss

BY DENNIS SKROCKI
The East Jordan girls' varsity basketball team wound up their regular season on Tuesday, November 15, at Ellsworth.

The Devils fell behind early and were unable to catch up as cold shooting and Ellsworth dominance in rebounding seemed to be the Devils' downfall. Ellsworth jumped out to a 12-9 first period lead and in-created it to 19-9 midway through the second stanza. EJ decreased the Lancer margin to 27-21 at the half. But the Devils in the second half, were unable to mount an offensive attack overcoming the tough Ellsworth defense. The Lancers outscored the Devils 11-7 and 12-7 in the second and third periods enroute to a 50-36 victory.

The Ramblers were the first to break the tie as they took a two point lead 28-26 as time expired in the third period. These points came on baskets from Kerry Harvey, Lori Knight and Coleen Williams.

The final quarter gave as much excitement as the first three with the lead see-sawing back and forth between the teams until time expired with the Ramblers clinging to a 34-32 edge.

For Boyne Harvey and Knight led the way with nine points each as Coleen Williams added six and Mary Beth Archambault four.

Brenda Drenth was the top Devil scorer with nine points as Erin Snyder collected eight. Monica Olstrom and Kristy Miller added four each.

Over the top of everyone in the play is Kristy Miller (20), of East Jordan. Miller is contested for the rebound by Devil Erin Snyder and Kelly Montgomery (20) of Boyne City.

EJ JV girls end season losing

By Dennis Skrocki
The East Jordan girls' junior varsity basketball team ended its season on a bad note last week dropping games to Boyne City and Ellsworth.

On Tuesday, November 11 against Boyne City the junior Devils started out strong as they outscored the Ramblers 8-6 in the opening period. This lead however did not last long as the Devils offense was held to just two second quarter points as the Ramblers accumulated six to take a 12-10 edge at halftime on scored by Tysl Crozier, Toni Toton, and Marty Bragg. The second half turned out to be all Boyne City as the Ramblers outscored the Devils 12-9 in the third period and 14-8 in the fourth enroute to a 38-27 victory.

Crozier led the Rambler offense with 12 points, hitting five field goals, and shooting a perfect two for two at the free throw line. Marci Center also turned in a strong performance collecting four field goals and two free throws for a ten point total. For the Devils, Christi Barber led the way offensively with 15 points as Dia Jones added 8 and Jeanne Healey chipped in four.

Barber was also the dominant Devil defensively bringing down 11 rebounds. Healey hauled in six as Dawn Leech collected five.

On Thursday, the Devils traveled to Ellsworth for their final game of the season.

It was a hard fought battle which saw the Devils come out on the losing end by one point, 33-32.

The third period saw the Lancers take the lead for the first time in the game. Ruis hit ten points as Drenth and Carrie Kaley chipped in two a piece once again outdoing the Devils who scored seven.

Ruis led the Lancers offense with 21 points as Drenth collected 6 and Kaley four.

Dia Jones led all Devil scorers with a 12 point effort as Christie Barber added seven and Jeanne Healey five.
