

Former resident king of islands

Andrew Kipapa, a former Boyne City resident familiar to many, has been named King of Hawaiian Islands and may be seen at the beginning of the Aloha Parade riding on a float that comes after the Pearl City Band. The parade will be shown on the CBS network Thanksgiving Day. Kipapa lived on Second Street in Boyne City for three years. He is the son-in-law of Jo Kelts' husband. The resident of Honolulu was chosen based on his heritage, history of the islands and appearance.

Thinking it's never too early to start thinking about the boating season, the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary will be offering two classes beginning Jan. 13, 1987. One class will cover Sailing and Seamanship while the other will be covering Boating Skills and Seamanship. You must be pre-registered for the classes and you can call Velda Richter at 347-4404 for more information.

The new innovative Michigan Mortgage is available in all 83 counties of the state for those seeking a federal income tax credit which will allow for the homeowner to have more income to make house payments. The credit reduces the interest paid and allows the buyer to pay less per month to qualify for a larger mortgage.

City applies for $250,000 park grant

Boyne City Commissioners had to make a decision at the Tuesday noon meeting that may cost the city as much as $35,000 from the general fund.

The city approved the submitting of a full grant application that, if approved, would tie all three downtown parks together under one umbrella and allow for needed improvements in all of the parks.

The plan being submitted would be for a Land and Soil Conservation Grant in the amount of $250,000. Half of the money would come from the fund while the rest of it would be paid for by in-kind work, donations, and the $35,000 from the general fund.

What the city would be getting with the grant would be a boardwalk along the river from the river mouth to Old City Park, a walkway along the waterfront in Sunset Park, as well as other minor improvements in Veterans Park which would tie the three parks together.

The grant application will be sent into the state government by the end of the month, according to Mike Davis who developed the plan for the city.

A pre-application request was made last February with approval for the pre-application coming late this summer. At that time the commissioners gave their approval to go for the whole grant.

Davis worked up the application which was submitted for approval to the city commission Tuesday.

The request would be in addition to the Soil Conservation Service and the Northwest Region Conservation and Development District project that will provide for erosion control in Old City Park.

The request made Tuesday also includes a 175 foot pier that would be used as a shopper's dock at the end of the seawall in Sunset Park.

The shopper's dock would be connected to the seawall and would be a floating pier that boats could tie up to when they come to the city. The dock would also be at the end of the boardwalk going up the river. Along the river, the city intends to install turn-of-the-century street lights and benches for those using the boardwalk.

The boardwalk will be set high enough so that it could be used during periods of high water, according to Randy Frykberg, City Manager.

The city is also investigating the possibility of building public restrooms in Sunset Park possibly attached to the present Chamber of Commerce Building.

Costs for the project will be split with the fund picking up 50

Lake planners reject boat stamps, make six recommendations

A controversial boat allocation plan based on a complicated stamp system to control the density of boats on Lake Charlevoix was not one of the six recommendations finally approved and expected to be passed on to the county planners.

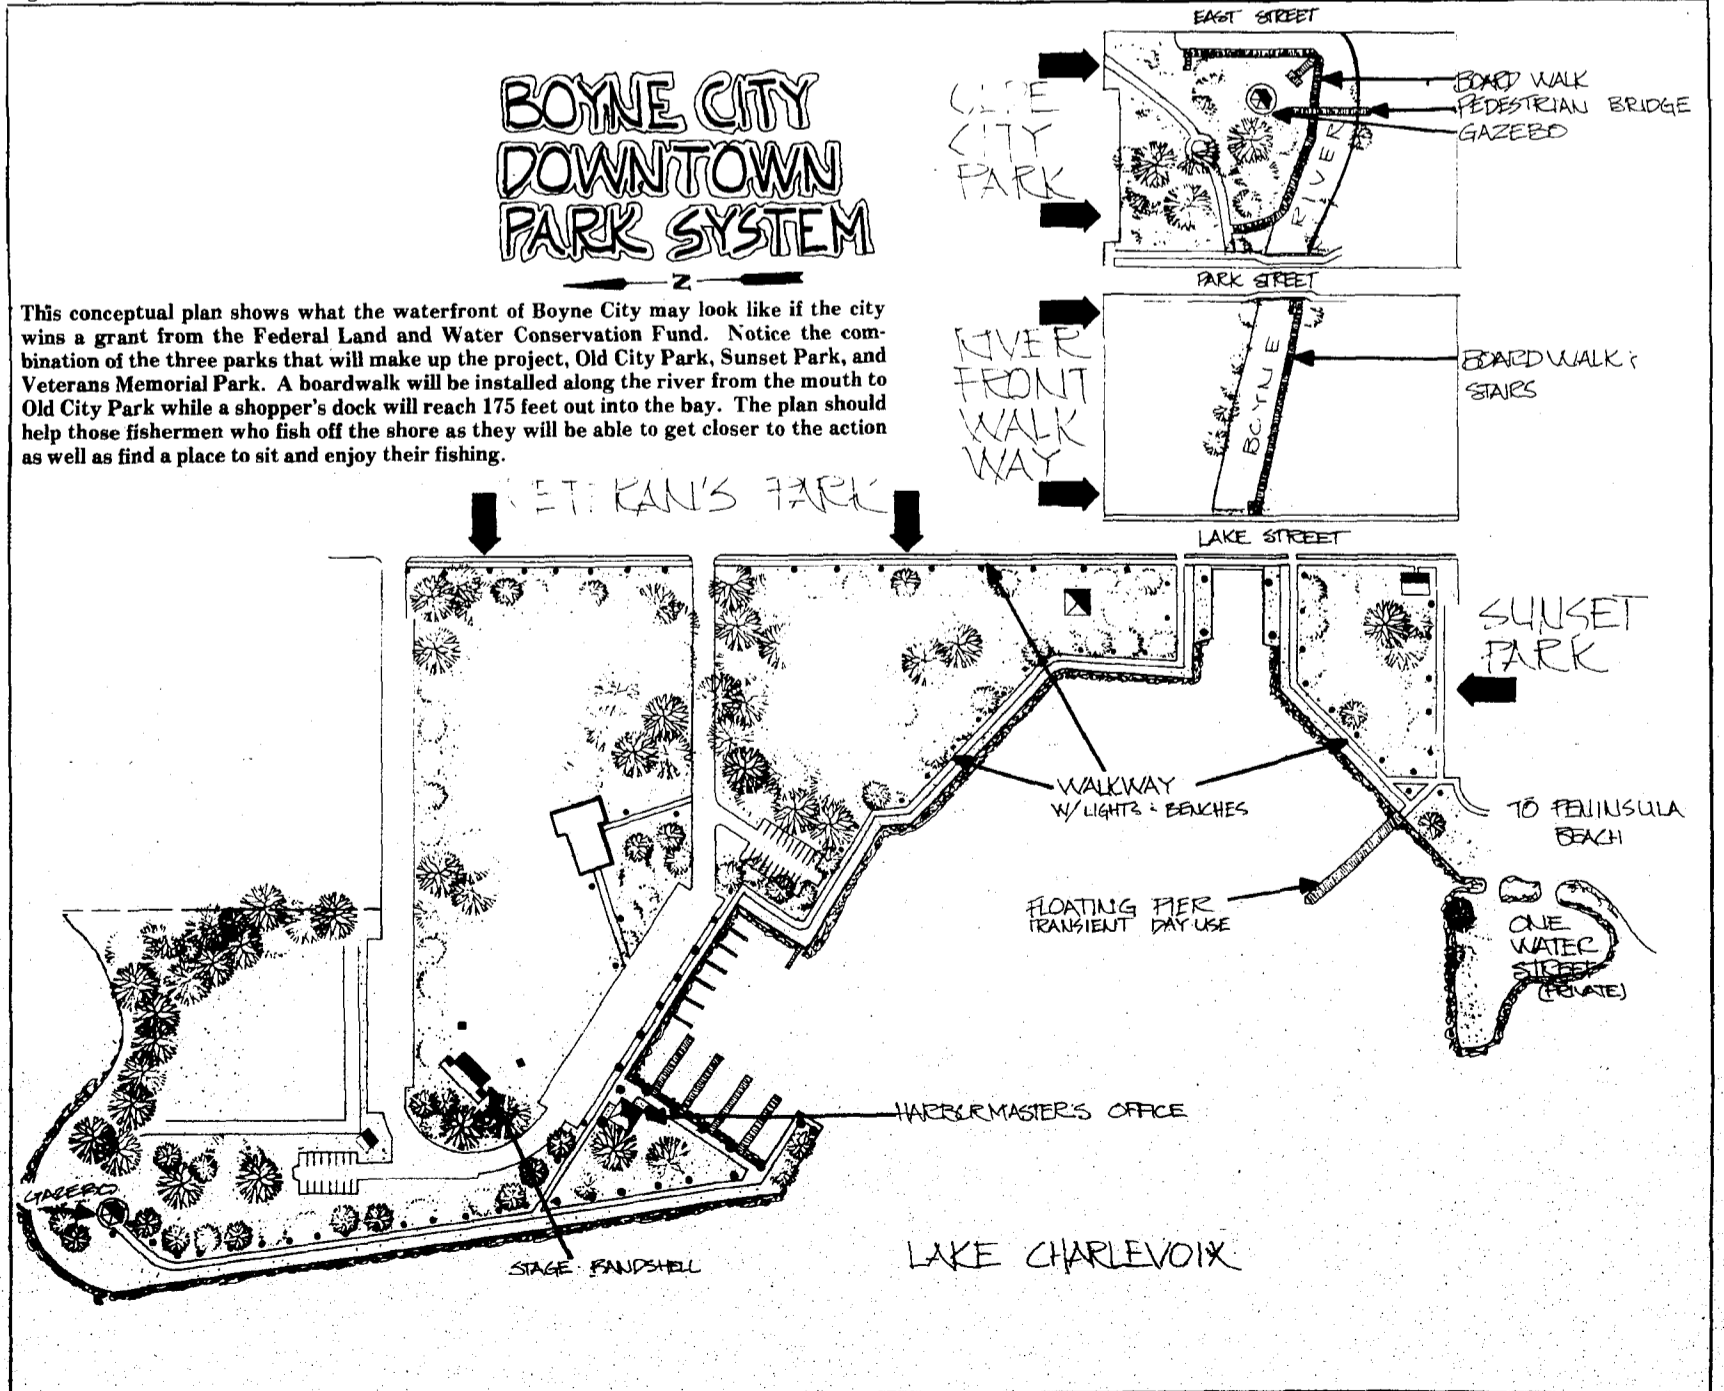

The six recommendations that the committee working on the lake management plan did approve include (1) one boat dock per lock for single family residences, (2) the number of boat slips, car/trailer parking spaces at each private, commercial, condominium and public marina will remain at the level they are presently or have approved by the time the rules are adopted by the local unit of government. (3) All future multi-family developments, new marinas, marina expansion and others can only have one boat slip or parking/trailer spaces per 100 feet or frontage, (4) the number of parking/trailer spaces at all public, private or commercial access site will remain at the present number which is permitted at the time of adoption of the plan, (5) projects that will exceed those recommendations will need the approval of the governing body as well as have a recommendation by the county planners, and (6) the county will be making an annual survey of the number of boats in use on the lake during a typical peak season day as a means of monitoring the boat density.

The recommendations were approved in one of the few role call votes the Lake Management Advisory Committee has made so far in trying to come up with a management plan for the lake

MR. AND MRS. TIMOTHY H. WILSON

Karen Stanek becomes bride of Timothy Wilson

Given in marriage by her father in a ceremony at the East Jordan Missionary Church before the Rev. James Duncan, Karen Louise Stanek became the bride of Timothy H. Wilson, both of East Jordan. Karen is the daughter of Robert W. Stanek of East Jordan and the late Patricia A. (Simmons) Stanek.

Timothy's parents are Mrs. Aubrey (Howard) Wilson of Boyne City and the late Lyle G. Wilson.

Karen's long white taffeta gown featured a jeweled silk Venise lace bodice with high neckline and renaissance sleeves. Her bouffant skirt adorned with lace was accented with taffeta ruffles extending from the back waist and encircling the hem. The attached cathedral train was trimmed with lace and bows. A jeweled crown held her lace edged veil.

The groom's mother chose a screen printed blue floral modified three tier gown, featuring an angular hem. The two-piece gown featured a dropped torso with two fluttering rows of ruffles.

Laurie Stanek, of East Jordan, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, and best man was Robert Wilson, brother of the groom, also of East Jordan.

Bridesmaids were Janice LaVanway, sister of the groom; Ruth Cosier, step-sister to the bride; and Susan Thorman, friend of the bride. Junior bridesmaid was Summer LaVanway, niece of the groom; and flower girl was Michelle Cosier, niece of the bride.

The bride's attendants wore royal blue jaquard patterned taffeta featuring sweetheart necklines and set with short puffed sleeves with ruffles at the shoulders. The close-fitting bodices dipped into flattering deep basque waists. The junior bridesmaid and flower girl wore light blue taffeta gowns with sweetheart necklines with short puffed sleeves and a royal blue sash. These dresses were made by Ruth Cosier and Esther Trojanek.

Groomsmen were Robert LaVanway, brother-in-law of the groom; his friends, Jerry Bingham, and Jon Bragenzer; junior groomsmen was John Wilson, nephew of the groom and ring bearer was Robby LaVanway, also the groom's nephew. Ushers were Brian Stanek and Mike Ciszewski, both of East Jordan and cousins of the bride.

Karen carried a bouquet of light blue, royal blue and whitesilk roses, accented with angel lace and ivy. Her maid of honor carried a long stem royal blue silk rose accented with light blue rosebuds, angel lace and fern. The bridesmaids and junior bridesmaid carried one royal blue rose, fern and light blue streamers. The flower girl carried a basket of light blue, royal blue and whitesilk roses, angel lace and streamers of light blue ribbon. The wedding flowers were made by Debbie Olson, friend of the bride.

Music was provided by organist Ginny Carey and soloist Ron Klooster who sang "The Wedding Song" (There Is Love), and "We've Only Just Begun."

The bride and groom, together with the father of the bride hosted a reception at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Boyne City, after which the couple left on a wedding trip to the Sarasota-Bradenton, Florida area and a trip to Disney World and Sea World. They will make their home at 730 Lincoln Street in East Jordan.

A rehearsal dinner was given for the couple by the mother of the groom at the Lamplight Inn in Central Lake on October 24th.

The wedding cake was made by Barb Burks. The wedding cake and punch was served by nieces of the groom which included; Sandy Bauman, Kelley Bauman, Cheryl Bauman, Marlena Wilson and Mary-Jo Wilson. These girls also attended the guest book.

Karen is a 1983 graduate of East Jordan High School and is employed at Northwestern State Bank in East Jordan. Timothy is a 1979 graduate of East Jordan High School and is employed at LaVanway Trucking in East Jordan.

MEAT

Americans have always been a meat-eating people. I suppose it goes back to the cave man roasting his game over the campfire. Here is a quote from an old cook book. Our food vocabulary has always inspired our authors. "In his own grease, I made him fry." Chaucer.

Never before in time have we had so many choices in good cuts of meat. I have visited our local supermarkets recently looking for lamb and veal because a number of people have asked me about where to get these meats. All of the markets in our area do have both lamb and veal; they order them regularly. However, you usually need to ask for them as they are not displayed all of the time.

The price puts them into a luxury class though lamb especially is in demand for people who need to cut down on fat and cholesterol.

Lamb chops are the favorite cut and a leg of lamb is available at most markets. At the time of the Civil War there were more sheep than people in the U.S. They have declined in number greatly since and good mutton chops are a rarity today.

Here is a delicious recipe for lamb lovers. Mint is always a compliment to lamb.

Minted Lamb Chops

1/2 cup dry white wine
1/4 cup water
2 tablespoons veg. oil
1 small onion, finely chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 tablespoon chopped fresh mint leaves or 1 tsp. dried mint leaves
1 teaspoon dried rosemary, crumbled
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
8 shoulder lamb chops

In small bowl combine wine, water, oil, onion, garlic, mint, rosemary, salt and pepper; mix well. Place chops in plastic bag or shallow dish; pour in marinade. Cover. Refrigerate overnight, turning as often as possible. Drain; reserve marinade. Grill chops four to six inches over medium-high heat 20 to 25 minutes; turn and brush off with reserved marinade.

Yield four servings.
You might need to ask the butcher for cuts of veal also. Veal is more tender than beef, though Americans seem to prefer the beef flavor. Veal has more water and less fat and is good for those who are cutting down on fat. My family always liked this

Breaded Veal Steak or Chops

In one bowl crush some crackers and in another beat an egg or two according to the amount of meat you are preparing. Heat some oil in frying pan; then dip your serving-size steaks or chops in the crumbs, then the eggs, then back into the crumbs and fry in the hot oil until golden brown, they will be tender and crisp.

Beef is America's favorite meat; the average person eats about 95 lbs. per year. These figures are old, so it is possible that we even eat more now through our fast food places. Beef provides a rich source of protein, essential vitamins; niacin, riboflavin and thiamine, important minerals, iron and phosphates and is of high energy value - 1/4 lb. equals 265 calories. So let's not eliminate beef from our meals unless one is on a very low cholesterol diet. These crisp fall days whets our appetite for

Yankee Pot Roast
2 tablespoons corn oil
1 (4 lb.) bottom round roast
8 small white onions, peeled
1 1/2 cups beef bouillon or broth
1 can (8 oz.) tomatoes, undrained
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 bay leaf
8 small potatoes, peeled
4 carrots, peeled, cut in 2-inch pieces
2 medium white turnips, peeled, cut in 1" cubes
3 tablespoons corn starch
1/2 cup water

In Dutch oven, heat corn oil over medium heat. Add roast; brown on all sides, remove. Add onions; cook until lightly browned. Remove. Pour off excess fat. Add bouillon or broth, tomatoes, salt, pepper and bay leaf. Return roast to Dutch oven. Bring to boil over high heat. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 1 1/2 hours or until roast is almost tender. Add potatoes, carrots, turnips and browned onions.

Cover; cook 20 to 30 minutes or until roast is tender and vegetables are cooked as desired. Remove roast and vegetables to serving platter; keep warm. In small bowl stir together corn starch and water until smooth. Stir into liquid in Dutch oven. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil 1 minute. Serve with roast and vegetables.

8 to 10 servings.
Just as good or better the second day!

At one time in our history, pork was number one though now it is in second place to beef. Pork is better quality now than in yester years as the hogs are bred for more lean meat, where previously they wanted lots of fat for lard. The meat men now cater to the American cooks who set the livestock fashions. They breed animals to yield cuts that appeal to the modern day cook.

At a microwave demonstration in our town I was delighted to meet Janet Rathke; she mentioned in her talk that apples have a tendency to counteract the cholesterol in pork. So be sure to serve applesauce with your next pork roast. Grandmother knew what was good for us, did she not?

The Positive Side

"Start each day with a smile - you will notice the difference."

Marshall Sayles

Because our horse is just getting settled into the right stable down here in the hot part of Florida, this week's column is short with a promise that next week's will be long and have more white meat.

I went out for coffee the other morning and the sign over the merchant's coffee table said: Cows come and cows go, but there's plenty of bull around here all the time.

At the market we found that a gallon of milk costs more than a gallon of gasoline. My car gets around twenty miles per gallon. So I tried walking more than twenty miles after drinking a gallon of milk. I couldn't make it. My advice? Cut out the milk, gas is a better deal.

Where has the Susan B. Anthony silver dollar gone? It has gone the same way as all the rest of your money.

I was down in the mouth and up in the air when so many Democrats swept the November balloting. I felt so bad I went to the doctor. He said I needed cheering up and advised me to read that humor column in the Charlevoix County Press.

"Look, Doc," I said. "I'm the guy who writes that stuff."

He began scribbling and I asked him what it was.

"It's a prescription we doctors give for hopeless causes," he said.

When I was 24 I was very handsome; when I was 30 I was very strong, and when I was 40 I thought myself quite rich. When I was 50 I walked down the street dripping with wit and wisdom. But now that I am stumbling around on the other side of the mountain, I can't see where any of that stuff has done me one darn bit of good.

When I started in the newspaper business back in ought something, I used to dream about making the kind of money I can't live on today.

There are two kinds of "Golden Rule". One says: He who has the gold rules.

Like I said: Next week's column will be worth reading.

BY GAIL WARE

The woman stood in the aisle glaring at Orville Redenbacher. In fact, she made a point of glaring at each and every one of him. She never had liked that man. But glaring at his pictures on cardboard boxes wasn't what she came for. She was there to buy a popcorn popper.

When she decided to get a popper for a friend as a housewarming present, it seemed like a simple enough thing to do. Find a store in the neighborhood that sold poppers and buy one. So far, she'd found the store and the poppers in the store, and Orville, of course.

The woman noticed as she looked over the popper display that all but one used hot air and no oil in cooking. She wondered how much Orville and his gourmet kernels had to do with this. But she had heard that hot air was the preferred method of cooking popcorn these days. It saved on calories. But it not doubt sold Orville's popcorn too.

She also noticed that there were a lot more poppers to choose from than she's planned on. For some reason she couldn't explain, her thinking had been along the lines of one popper in each of the Good, Better, Best categories, like she remembered from Ward's catalogs.

But this wasn't Ward's and she was faced with a long shelf full of poppers, each made by a different manufacturer. It didn't seem to her that the world needed that many companies in the popcorn business, especially since most of the poppers worked the same way and were priced about the same.

She soon gave up trying to choose one out of the crowd and turned to a couple of poppers that had distinctly higher prices

Remembrances

We don't know if you can find any relatives, but here is a picture of the many workers who helped build Boyne City's name as a place for fine leather. These members of the Howe Tanning Company crew took time out of work to pose for a company picture back in 1907. The work force got larger as the plant increased sales but slowly employment went down as leather soles were replaced by other materials. The plant closed in the early sixties.

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

"My life has been nothing but broken dreams and promises," the young man stated to me a season or so ago as he closed the door to his business.

"I couldn't get the community to come into my store to see what I was carrying and offering for sale, no matter what I advertised, where I advertised or when," he continued.

Now this conversation took place in a different city, but much of the same thing can and does happen here in northern Michigan.

Many people come into the area to start, to buy an existing, or to try to resurrect some other person's mistakes.

I always try to remember the "Three and out" plan when I run into symptoms like that. And I try to have the same sort of sympathy I would for anyone who wants to get into a business here in the northland, especially if they are from southern Michigan and used to having a job that makes them a lot richer than most of us here in the north.

It ain't easy. But then, no one said it would be.

To those wanting to start a business around here, we wish them all the luck, and good intentions, but caution them that unlike starting a business where millions of people live, it's a lot different around here.

First, we don't have all the people that will come only once to a store.

If someone does come into a business, that business should treat the customer as if he or she were a member of the royalty. Service is what we are talking about, interested in what they want to purchase.

I have always said that a business should cater to the customer. Find out what they want, and what price they will be willing to pay.

Many of the complaints I hear about businesses is that they charge too much for the same item a buyer can get cheaper in another city. It may be true in some cases, but most businessmen set a sales price which allows them to remain in business, whether the store is downstate or even further up north.

A small town newspaper is much the same. Sure we're small, but when you look at the communities around this area, they're all small. Even Petoskey. Even Traverse City.

All of these comments are being made at the beginning of the Christmas selling season, the time of the year that can make or break the profit side for almost every retail business in the nation.

This is also the time that many will make an exodus to a larger city to do some shopping, thinking they will be doing better.

But it is a strange thing, people do in their quest to save a buck or two to get the latest style.

Those in Boyne City may go to Petoskey. Those in Petoskey may go to Traverse City. Those in Traverse may go to Grand Rapids. Those in Grand Rapids may go to Detroit or Chicago.

Those folks may go to New York City, while those in New York may go to London or Paris.

You see, the grass, in the minds of those looking for bargains, is always greener in the bigger, more cosmopolitan cities.

So the argument of shopping close to home seems to be a moot point for the person who wants to see the world and all the sales being held in it at this time of the year.

Sometimes I think it would be better for the area merchants to hold an annual Christmas sale about the middle of September, when the weather and the people willing to spend their money are still around.

I guess I'm glad I am not a merchant. Trying to sell things to the average person would drive me batty.

And the business I am in is doing a great job of that already.

Toy collection started for flood victims

Charlevoix County Farm Bureau is joining forces with other county Farm Bureaus to collect new toys for farm children in southern Michigan, whose families were affected by fall floods. will distribute them to those families most in need.

Anyone willing to donate is asked to drop off their donation at the following places: Charles Elzinga Insurance Agency in Charlevoix, Mike Hausler Insurance Agency in Boyne City, or the County Farm Bureau office in Ellsworth.

The deadline is December 1. We encourage the gifts to be wrapped, please indicate to a boy or girl, and the age bracket of the child to receive the toy. Toys for ages infant - teen are being sought.

BC students get educational education

Dear Editor:

During the week of November 17 through November 21, Boyne City Schools celebrated American Education Week. Each day consisted of a different activity that dealt with American Education.

Monday a student was selected to teach one hour of class, envisioning things from the teachers side of the desk. During this hour the students were asked to write an essay on how they could make a difference in education. These essays were to be discussed and evaluated during the week.

Tuesday, students were asked to take home essays and/or questionnaires and to evaluate these with their parents. The students then returned the results.

Wednesday, the first ten to fifteen minutes were spent reflecting on the student's experiences as a teacher, the teacher's personal experience, and select essays written by students.

Thursdays' career day began with kick off speaker, Duane Taylor. From 1:40 through 2:45 students listened to two of the twenty-eight offered career opportunity speakers.

Friday, third hour classes reviewed the roles of administrators. Mr. Wade was available to talk to classes, and students were able to discuss any problems or ideas they had.

The week turned out to be a great success. The participation and support was greatly appreciated. Congratulations to all who promoted The American Education Week.

than the others. One made a batch of popcorn in thirty seconds instead of the usual three minutes. The woman figured that a machine that pushed so hard to get the job done would probably burn out early.

The other one buttered the corn evenly as it popped. That machine struck her as overdoing it. Besides, she liked to do her own buttering, uneven and all.

Having dismissed the expensive poppers, she picked up a box containing one of those priced in the middle teens, as most of them were. She made sure that Orville's face was not on the side of the box. Then she bought it.

Back home with her feet up, the woman considered the shopping trip for what it might have taught her. She had learned that if you don't like Orville Redenbacher, stay away from the popcorn popper department. But she was looking for a more general lesson, a lesson for the years ahead.

Then she tried: If you want the Ward's catalog experience, order from the Ward's catalog. That was fine except that it called for deciding on the item well enough in advance to allow time for delivery. She seldom managed that, which was why she'd stopped using catalogs.

Then she remembered her own old rule that had once worked just fine: If you need a housewarming gift that's appropriate for anyone, shop for a fancy set of coasters, or a set of glasses if you're feeling expansive. That was it. And she knew that Orville, being a food not a drink man, would not have his face pasted on any of those boxes.

How do you find flood insurance that protects your home and business?

No problem.

Because regular homeowners and business insurance policies do not protect you from flood loss, you might be all wet if you wait until the water rises to apply for flood insurance.

You can now purchase flood protection from Auto-Owners Insurance, the "No Problem" people.

So ask your local Auto-Owners agent just how his flood insurance can be "no problem" keeping you afloat if your home or business is flooded.

MDOT sets winter budget for maintenance

With a cold, wet winter on the way, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) has budgeted $39 million to keep the highways free of ice and snow.

That figure is the same as the amount budgeted last year for the 9,500 mile state highway system when approximately 27 percent of the department's maintenance budget was spent for winter activities. The winter budget allocation is based on an average expenditure for the past three winters, plus inflation.

Snow and ice removal cost nearly $2,500 per mile of two-lane highway in an average season. Cleaning up after a major winter storm costs MDOT about $830,000 a day if it occurs on a weekday and as much as $1 million a day on weekends and holidays.

The department has an additional $7 million contingency budget for the 62 counties and 154 cities which maintain state highways in their respective areas under contract with MDOT if the winter of 1986-87 proves harsher than usual.

"We are attempting to minimize the use of salt as much as possible without affecting safety," said Maurice E. Witteveen, MDOT's Chief of maintenance.

"Employees from contract counties and MDOT maintenance garages underwent extensive training this year to learn how to reduce salt usage and eliminate unnecessary distribution," he said.

Efforts will be aided by speed-controlled computerized salt spreaders on many of MDOT's snow trucks. With a fleet valued at $55 million, the department spends $5 million a year to update and replace its equipment inventory, which includes a range of motorized vehicles.

A new snow plow, including front plow, underbody plow and hydraulic system, may cost $48,000.

Motorists should be aware of the difference in plowing operations as they travel Michigan's highways this winter. The department will continue to maintain its "bare pavement" policy on heavily-traveled highways that average at least 3,200 vehicles a day. They will be plowed until the pavement surface is generally bare of ice and snow.

Lesser-traveled highways will be plowed until the center portion of the road is clear of ice and snow until the pavement is passable.

ways that average at least 3,200 vehicles a day. They will be plowed until the pavement surface is generally bare of ice and snow.

Deer season ups damage to power insulators

Gunshot damage to insulators caused more than 14,400 Consumers Power Company customers throughout the state to be without electricity sometime during the last 12 months.

"This meant lost production, interrupted recreation, and inconveniences because someone took their frustration out on an insulator," according to Christopher C. Bandy, community service director of the Boyne City area.

Electric customers of Consumers Powers Company paid some $70,000 during this same period because of gunshot damage to electric lines.

That is the cost of replacing insulators and other equipment damaged or destroyed by gunfire, according to Bandy. These expenses are shared among all the company's electric customers.

Gunshot damage to insulators is a year-round problem for Consumers Power and its customers, but deer hunting season seems to make the situation even worse, Bandy said. "True sportsmen don't shoot at electric insulators; legitimate hunters use common sense," he stated.

Bandy asks sportsmen's clubs, conservation organizations and responsible private citizens to help prevent damage to power line insulators. "We need to stop the uncaring and careless people who disregard the safety and welfare of others," he said.

Consumers Power offers cash rewards for information leading to the arrest and arraignment of those who cause power outages. Information can be given to local Consumers Power offices or to local police.

The company's power lines are located in 61 counties in the Lower Peninsula, serving nearly 1.4 million electric customers.

Consumers Power is Michigan's largest utility, providing either electric or natural gas service, or both, to nearly six million of the state's nine million residents in 67 of the 83 counties in the Lower Peninsula.

percent or $125,000. The rest of the money would come from the general fund and donations.

The city has a donation of $40,000 from area businessmen to build the shopper's dock. The city proposes to spend about $50,000 in in-kind labor and materials and equipment usage leaving the actual cost to the city of about $35,000.

Of the total cost, about $90,000 is estimated for the boardwalk to connect the three parks. Lighting and benches is figured at $24,000 while $80,000 is planned for the floating pier. The concrete walkway and engineering will cost another $36,000.

The city is also planning on installing a gazebo and a pedestrian bridge that would go from the Old City Park across the river to the downtown business district. They will be making a choice to one or all if they can find additional donations.

The grants are expected to be announced next February, Frykberg said.

Commissioner Steve Moody told the commissioners the city seems to be forever spending money on the parks and not on the streets.

He was told that is because the grants are being given for recreations developments and not for street and sewers.

The city is still planning on spending additional monies for those changes to the infrastructure as well as the $35,000 if the grant is approved.

Davis said the project combining the three parks would not be possible if the city did not have the water-front and beach.

The city did file an application for part of this project last year but was turned down by the grantor. That was why the three parks were put together to make the application more appealing.

Moody was also told that the park improvements were all part of the progress the city is making and they helped in determining other grants for things like sewers and street.

Only one member of the audience objected to the plan or at least part of it. John Howard told the commissioners the pier would hinder those trolling for fish in front of the mouth of the river.

BOYNE CITY LANES PRESENTS ITS BOWLERS OF THE WEEK

All 48 bowling ball, paying attention to what you're doing, and a couple of more beverages (it probably was not pop) was Scott's reasons for his big night of bowling. A personal best of 521 with a game high of 207. Scott bowls for the Hair Shoppe team in the Monday Night Businessmen's league. For his evening night of work, Scott ended up with 107 pins over his 138 average. Good bowling Scott.

SCOTT NIEDLING

DOREEN BAYSTER

It looks like some of the women bowlers are starting to come out of the "mini" slumps, as we had quite a few girls shoot some nice numbers last week, and one of them was Doreen Bayster. Competing in the Thursday night women's league on the Bartlett's Excavating team, Doreen rolled one of her better series in quite some time. A nice 535 set, featured by a high game of 197. With her 147 average, she was 94 pins over for her effort. Doreen's reason for her big night? "Eating carrots. It was the Great American Smoke Out and my teammates had me eating carrots." Hmmm! We'll have to open up a produce stand. Nice bowling, Doreen.

CONGRATULATIONS.

Rayders down BC in District opener...

Favored for the eventual championship of girls' basketball District 92 action; the Charlevoix Rayders began the tournament trail with a resounding win over the Boyne City Ramblers 57-34.

The league's leading scorer, Rayder Amy Pichner, became the highlight of the action Thursday night, winding up the game with a game high 26 points. Pichner had been sold to just five points in a previous match-up of the two teams back in October, but was hit with an abundance of inside feeds on this occasion to outscore all players on the court.

The entire first period saw a closely contested game as the Rayders held a slight edge through the first five minutes against a stingy Boyne City man-to-man defense. With the Ramblers clinging to their respective opponents, Boyne City committed an unusual amount of penalties that eventually changed the defensive efforts to a zone. Offensively the Ramblers trailed on a continual basis, but were able to penetrate into the key often enough to lead on the scoreboard. But the opportunities to score faded on most occasions as the ball carromed away from the hoop and few points were scored. Dominating the defensive boards failed to give the Ramblers an edge also, as many fast breaks were killed with miscued passing, or violations that turned the ball over to Charlevoix.

After the first period's time expired, the Ramblers were well within reach of the Rayders after trimming a six point deficit to four, 8-12, near the end of the quarter.

Charlevoix opened the second period with a bang, taking a ten point lead after three minutes of play, 18-8. High feeds inside the key to Pichner set up good percentage opportunities for Charlevoix through the remainder of the half as the Rayders closed the period with a commanding 27-14 lead.

Shortly after the second half opened, it became evident that the Rayders were on top of their game, and the route began. After three periods of action Charlevoix had taken a 45-26 lead and never let up through the remainder of the game.

Other than Pichner's 26 points, no other Rayder hit double figures, but Ann Kroll finished up with 9 points while Barb Boss had 8 points.

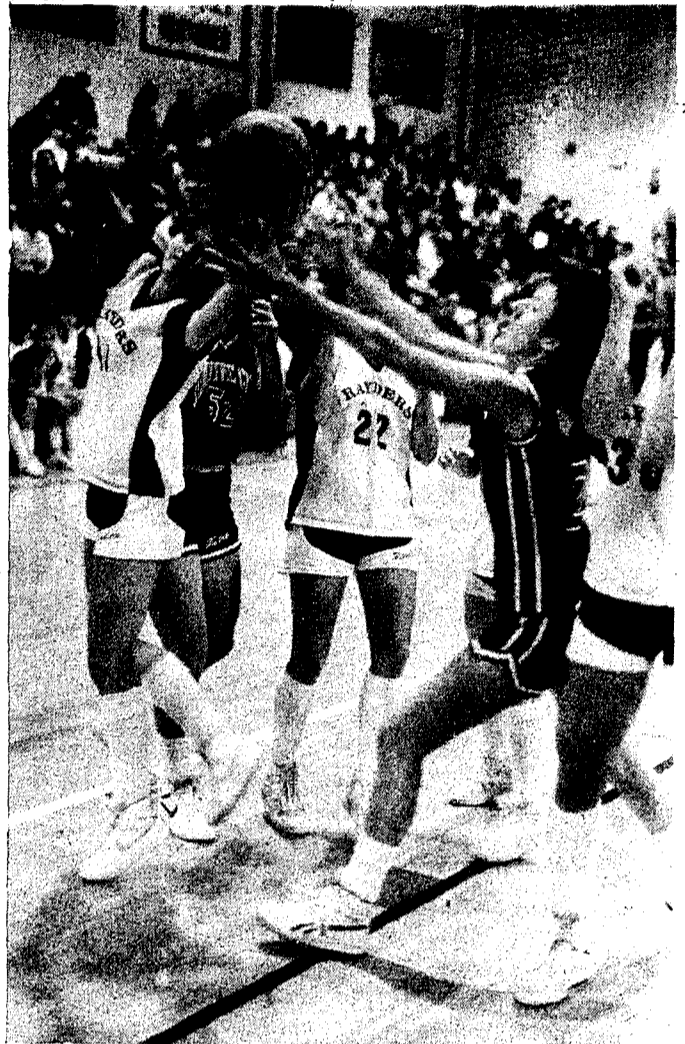

Scoring for the Ramblers were Kerry Harvey with 12 points, Mary Beth Archambault had 9 points, while Colleen Toton, Kelly Smith scored 4 points each. Kelly Montgomery and Patty Schmoldt had 2 points each, and Heather Thayer contributed a charity toss.

...defeat East Jordan to advance to finals

By Dennis Skrocki The East Jordan defense came to life November 22, in the final period holding Charlevoix to twelve points. This, however was not good enough as the Charlevoix Red EJ offense scored Rayders in a class C district tournament 31 final score. This win advances the Red Rayders to the second round by defeating Boyne City on Thursday, November 20, as East Jordan drew a 25.

For the Devils Kristy Miller was the offensive leader with a 14 point effort as Sara Chase hit eight and Shelly Malpass four.

Defensively for EJ Erin Snyder led the way with nine rebounds, Miller

The Charlevoix Red Rayders came away with this rebound despite the efforts of Kelly Smith who reaches out in an attempt to snare the ball.

East Jordan varsity basketball outlook up in air

BY DENNIS SKROCKI The East Jordan Red Devil boys' varsity basketball team began practice last Monday, November 11 in preparation for their season opener on Friday, December 5, at Charlevoix.

The Devils have captured the Ski Valley Conference championship for the past two seasons. When asked about capturing a third consecutive crown, coach Steve Hines said, "This season will be the most difficult of the three."

The biggest weakness of this year's team seem to be its depth coming in off the bench. Since last year's JV team struggled throughout the season, Hine is concerned with the performance of this year's juniors playing at the varsity level.

Another difficulty facing this years team, is the loss of Mike Goebel, who as a senior last year received all-state recognition. Hines describes this as "a loss of talent that will be difficult to fill."

Hines described this years Ski-Valley Conference as "being much more balanced than in past years" and predicts a tight championship race naming Pellston as the team to beat. He also chose Mancelona, Gaylord St. Mary's and Inland Lakes to be top contenders and said, "I wouldn't be surprised to see a three or four game loser still win the title."

This year's squad seems to be full of talent and desire. The Devil's main strength will be in the area of rebounding as two players, Greg Kitson and Jim Raymond, received all-conference recognition last season. (Kitson being named to all-conference first team and Raymond receiving honorable mention recognition.)

The first part of the season will be critical for the Devils as they play their first three games on the road. After Charlevoix they travel to Boyne City and then to Pellston before playing their first home game against Harbor Springs on December 16.

According to Hines, "it is important to get a good start and a good jump will do wonders for our confidence."
