Boyne Board delays building decision

After more than an hour of discussion among parents, teachers and school board members, the Boyne City School Board failed to agree on the proper plan to build classrooms to eliminate the overcrowding situation the school system faces.

The plan presented to the board members was developed by a special facility committee after several weeks of work. The proposal was to move the seventh and eighth grades to the high school building, building about eight new classrooms at the high school to accommodate them.

By moving the students, the facility committee felt that would free up enough classrooms at both the elementary school and the middle school for many years.

The school board rejected the plan after many concerns were expressed by parents and teachers.

The board, led by the thinking of President Richard May, decided a better plan might be the building of five new classrooms at the elementary school and four new classrooms at the middle school.

May suggested that the cost of building at both sites would be about the same as building up to twelve additional classrooms at the elementary school.

The problem of school overcrowding has developed because of the growth of the community. For the past few years, incoming kindergarten classes have had over 100 students start the school year.

The school board, wishing to insure a quality education for the children, started a program of using smaller class sizes with the incoming class three years ago. They are now using five classrooms for each class up to the third grade.

If the school system elects to continue with the smaller class sizes, and the incoming kindergarten classes remain the same, the school will run out of classroom space as early as next year. Presently class size has about 20 to 25 students per teacher.

The smaller classroom size was started after parents asked the system to lower the class size and the board agreed. At the time, it was thought the smaller the class size, the better education the students would get.

That thinking is still a concern of the parents and the school system and has led to the current situation.

Members of the facility committee were asked to provide an answer to the growing pains of the system. A previous facility committee could not agree on a plan that would eliminate the projected overcrowding.

The plan was presented to the school board at their last regular meeting in February and the board members were supposed to decide if the plan was workable at Monday night's meeting.

Board members heard how a similar plan works in the Harbor Springs School system from Dave Guzniczak but many parents said that plan may not work here as we are not Harbor Springs.

Many other parents were against the move of the seventh and eighth graders to the high school.

With the introduction of building classrooms at two sites, some of the members of the audience thought the plan may be more sensible. A few of the other board members seemed to like the plan in comments they made.

Board member Bill Christensen told the other members of the board that they would not be able to make a decision that night, as he said no one had come up with an acceptable plan, either from the facility committee or the previous committee assigned to work out the problem.

With the failure of a motion to accept the findings of the facility committee, Superintendent Rich Kelly asked the board to let the administration consider new proposals of building at both sites.

The board then agreed to put the issue on the agenda of the next meeting, which will be held next Monday night.

Underlining the entire issue will be the asking of additional millage from the voters to pay for the construction costs.

Several board members expressed concern that the issue will not be looked at favorably by the voters within the school district.

Thelma Behling, a member of the board, said she has had many phone calls concerning the issue, most of them negative as to having a bond issue to pay for the solution.

The school system was planning on asking the voters at the annual June election to approve a $1.7 million dollar bond issue to pay for the construction of the new classrooms as well as repair the roof of the high school gym and buy new bleachers for the gym.

Several parents told the board the high school gym roof, bleachers, new books and equipment were not part of the problem and would have to be taken care of regardless of the outcome of building new classrooms to eliminate the overcrowding of the classes.

The cost of the construction to repair and build has been estimated at about $1.7 million which would be paid for by a one

Boyne City firemen were busy last Saturday when high winds caused two chimney fires. Firemen reacted to this one in Evangeline Township and had another call a few minutes later in Wilson Township. According to city officials, the firemen are answering more calls in the townships than they did in the city this past year.

BF schools settle contract with teachers

Boyne Falls Schools ended a six-month old stalemate when school officials and the faculty agreed and ratified a three year teachers' contract last week.

The pact calls for consecutive pay raises with no change in the insurance coverages, two of the main bargaining points which caused the stalemate.

Superintendent Robert Redmond said he was pleased to see the contract negotiations over. Redmond had hoped they would be completed before he left as superintendent in April.

The new contract is retroactive back to the beginning of the school year and includes a six percent increase for 1986-87, six percent in 87-88 and another six and a quarter percent increase in 1988-89. The amount of increase was a compromise to what the two sides had originally sought.

Both the school and the teachers' union said the increases are in line with those of other school districts of the same size in this area.

The amount of money will keep the school district "in the middle of the pack" as to pay scales of northern Michigan school districts.

Future salaries will also keep the school in the middle of the pay scale.

Originally, the school board has asked for a four percent increase for each year of a three year contract while the teachers wanted a 7.75 percent increase each year.

The teachers will remain with insurance coverage provided by Michigan Education Special Services Association (MESSA) regardless of premiums.

The contract stipulates the school, parents and teachers on the curriculum committee study a report the period class schedule and seven the findings to the school board.

Other portions of the contract deal with minor language changes.

The settlement was agreed upon by a special meeting of the Boyne Falls School Board February 21st. The teachers had agreed upon the contract February 19th.

The agreement canceled a fact-finding meeting which was to have been held yesterday, March 3.

Mushroom weekend to be expanded if grant approved

Boyne City's annual Lions and Chamber of Commerce sponsored National Mushroom Hunt Championships may be getting a shot in the arm, if the Michigan Sesquicentennial Commission and the Michigan Travel Commission give their approval to a grant application which went out to them last week.

The grant is asking for $15,000 which would be used to expand the annual mushroom weekend to a festival that would help the city and the area promote and hold a festival in honor of both the mushrooms and the sesquicentennial.

The program for the weekend would be expanded to include all of the usual mushroom hunting activities as well as the Mother's Day Weekend carnival. If approved by the state, the festival would add sessions covering many other activities for those not participating in the hunt that weekend.

Expected would be the addition of a lumberjack show on Saturday, which would include the demonstration of many of the activities done during the lumbering era.

Several demonstration booths are projected to be added to festival activities and include a petting zoo for children, a baking booth using recipes from 150 years ago, doily-making display, a Michigan maple syrup boil-down, Michigan cherry and apple butter tasting, wood carving, Michigan wine tasting, and an old fashioned ice cream churning with Michigan toppings.

Demonstrations of musket shooting, a fishing contest, and horse and buggy rides are also being added to the proposed festival.

Sports minded people will be holding a co-ed softball tournament the same weekend which will be part of the activities.

Other booths from area service clubs are also expected to be part of the celebration.

The local Chamber and the Lions Club are expected to be providing about $10,000 as a local share to the festival which may make this year's mushroom weekend into a tourist draw from many parts of the nation besides the interest that the National Mushroom Hunt provides.

It is hoped by Chamber and city officials to be given the authorization from the state so that final plans can be made as the mushroom weekend is just a few short weeks away, Mother's Day weekend in May.

It is hoped by Chamber and city officials to be given the authorization from the state so that final plans can be made as the mushroom weekend is just a few short weeks away. Len Neeb, the general manager of the One Water Street Restaurant is heading up the group from the Chamber that is hoping to get the project funded.

He said, in a covering letter to the state, that the mushroom weekend will go on with or without the funding to expand the festival, but the group hopes to gather in more people to become aware of the state's 150th birthday as much of the displays would foster a better understanding of Michigan's history as a part of the state's Sesquicentennial Birthday Celebration.

Mother and Grandmother always depended on the Watkins or Raleigh man for most of their herbs and spices. These salesmen were always welcomed into farm homes with their suitcases filled with spices, soaps, medicines, salves and liniments for both beasts and men. Their companies gave out cook books or pamphlets (I've read a few) and their recipes are still very good.

However, before Grandma's time almost every good cook was quite familiar with the herbs growing in her garden and in the wild. She had to prepare and dry her own for medicines and flavor. We are now returning to that wonderful idea of growing our own or buying them from the people who do. They are fresh or dried and one can buy the plants and grow them in our gardens, flowerbeds or in a sunny window. We are again beginning to know rosemary, fennel, basil, chives as well as sage, dill, parsley and other plants that our forefathers knew so well. They enrich our lives with their fragrances as well as our taste buds. Many of us are making our own potpourris or buying them to hang in our kitchens and closets.

Dill is prevalent in most Scandinavian recipes. My friend, Anne Jenkins who has a Norwegian heritage prepared this next recipe. As one of her guests I enjoyed her fish dinner, and she gave me this recipe.

SCANDINAVIAN HERBED FISH STEAKS
3 tablespoons dill weed
1 tablespoon onion powder
2 teaspoons powdered mustard
1 1/2 teaspoons garlic powder
3/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
4 fish steaks 3/4 inches thick (she used fresh salmon)

In small bowl combine dill, onion powder, mustard, garlic, salt, pepper and lemon juice and oil. Place fish in a shallow pan. Pour marinade over fish. Turn fish to coat well. Cover and refrigerate 30 minutes. Remove from marinade.

Bake in a 400 degree oven brushing with marinade occasionally until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Check for doneness after about 15 minutes of baking.

What would Italian cooking be without their wonderful use of herbs? Try this:

ITALIAN HERB DRESSING
1 cup sour cream
1/2 teaspoon basil leaves
1/2 teaspoon oregano leaves
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper

In small bowl stir together all ingredients. Cover, refrigerate one to two hours.

Pour this dressing over a tossed salad of bib lettuce, mushrooms and tomato wedges.

The microwave makes beautiful scrambled eggs and these are delicious with chives, mushrooms and basil.

COUNTRY SCRAMBLED EGGS

1/4 lb. pork sausage, bulk
6 eggs
1/2 cup sour cream
1/2 teaspoon very finely chopped chives
1/4 cup chopped mushrooms (canned ones OK)

Dash of basil
1 - Put sausage in 1 1/2 qt. casserole. Microwave on high for 2 to 3 minutes until no longer pink. Drain off excess fat.
2 - Stir in eggs, sour cream, chives, mushrooms and basil.
3 - microwave 4 to 5 minutes until eggs are set but moist. Stir every minute.
Makes 4 servings.

Chives are so easy to grow, they come up every year in the flower border and a small plant will grow in the kitchen window. Basil is also good lightly sprinkled on cooked carrots, with a squeeze of lemon; and don't forget to make good use of that mint in boiled potatoes, your hot or cold tea or as a garnish. Mint is another herb that is so easy to grow; I have to keep pulling it up or it would spread into the lawn.

Here is a microwave recipe for one. It could be doubled.

CARROTS IN PARSLEY BUTTER
1 medium carrot, cut in julienne strips
1 tablespoon water
1 teaspoon butter or margarine
1 pinch sugar
1 pinch crushed dried parsley.

Place the carrot strips in a small microwave bowl. Sprinkle with water and cover with vented plastic wrap. Microwave on high 1 to 1 1/2 minutes until tender crisp. Let stand covered while preparing the butter mixture.

In a custard cup combine butter, sugar and parsley. Microwave on high 30 to 45 seconds or until melted.

Drain carrots and combine with butter mixture.

If doubling this recipe microwave 2 to 3 minutes. Butter will melt in 30 to 45 seconds.

Ware-withal

BY GAIL WARE

From time to time, especially in winter, and especially when I don't, and don't want to either, I get to wondering how all-fired important it is to "get things done" all the time anyway. Look at Mother Nature. Does she do her growing and blooming all year long? She does not. She slows down and then shuts down. Regularly. People aren't supposed to though, which does seem unfair. But that's the way it is.

Grudgingly acknowledging this fact, I decided recently to study those who "get things done" in jig time that is just in case sometime I should want to become one. Then I compared the study results with the slow-dance type, my group, to see what difference there was, besides the obvious difference in speed. I found that what it comes down to is a difference in point of view. The jiggers have a ruthless attitude toward tasks. My group takes the deliberate approach.

Take for example cleaning the refrigerator. The jig timers take out the containers of leftovers, open them, consider each for about 10 seconds, and then mostly pitch them out. When I questioned this practice, I was told that most have one criterion: They ask themselves if they'd be delighted to see the leftover on their dinner table that night. If not, they throw it out, with no regret. The refrigerator is tidied up, scrubbed down and practically empty in less than an hour.

For us slow-dancers, refrigerator cleaning takes on the character of a mission. In the first place, we are usually driven to doing it by something in there that smells funny and needs to be rooted out. But also, we sincerely want to use those leftovers. We were brought up on stories of starving children in China as a See Ware-withal/Page 4

The Positive Side

"Winning begins, with deciding to start."

BY JIMSILBAR

Wowee, another government job situation is opening up so I can send a letter to President Reagan asking to be considered to help fill the position.

With the changing of the guard, and perhaps asking the man I thought would be running for the presidency in 1988 filling the position of Chief-of-Staff, I would like to volunteer my services, for a large sum of course, to help guide the state of affairs.

I have always wanted to be the man in power in Washington, and if my credentials are like the others I have seen fill government positions, then I feel I am as qualified as they are.

I would like to head up the CIA. I think it would be neat to be a spy...or at least head up the spies of the free world.

I can see lots of areas where the feared enemy is taking away the best things this country has to offer, like computer technology to drive missile systems. Those leaks have to be taken care of by using the spy system.

First, to find out what government official is allowing those leaks to happen. Second to put the blame on the other guy, just like they seem to do all the time.

After finding and filling the leaks, then I could use my crews of spies to do the real dirty work.

Like trying to find out how the military and the rest of the government can waste so much money each year.

And taking those who allow that to happen to make the payments back to the government without allowing them to go bankrupt.

Such a thing the spy system could do, if only it was headed in the right direction.

Sure, the CIA is more of an intelligence gathering group, but they seem to fail at that when the newspapers and the television stations of the world know about events long before they do, and TV seems to tell the world.

Perhaps we need a "media" person in the position of leadership of the spies.

I might be able to qualify for that if only...

One of the interesting things about this position of being editor-in-chief, are the discussions that happen at the local coffee places around town.

I mean, I go in for a cup of java, and someone either asks an opinion, or continues the spread of a rumor, or I just can't keep from getting involved in the conversation.

I often wonder if I should try to still the rumor, or keep it going. Some of them are better listening to as they get embellished from coffee shop to coffee shop.

If you listen, you will find: a) teachers don't know how to teach, b) the city doesn't know how to run itself, c) the cost of government is out of hand, d) the streets of the community are either bad, worse, torn-up, just finished or won't work.

I have been hearing those types of stories for many years. It doesn't matter that I hear it in East Jordan, Petoskey, Boyne City or Boyne Falls, the feeling is the same.

I can only ask why these fine citizens of the city don't want, can't, or just ignore getting involved with the solutions.

If the teachers "can't teach", then run for the school board. If you think the roads are terrible, run for a city office. If you don't think a governing body is doing the kind of job you wish to see, then get involved instead of sandbagging and second guessing.

Those who are running the community are doing as good of a

Boyne needs "YES" votes

These are the times in Boyne City that are trying men's minds as city officials are trying to cope with a continuing outburst of water and sewer main breaks. The city has faced 79 water main breaks in the 62 days so far this year. They have also had a few sewer breaks thrown in for good measure.

Those water main breaks, which last year cost the city about $80,000, point to just one of the many reasons voters should support the repairs to the sewers, mains and streets.

City officials are worried that if the issue fails, they will have to continue to spend money needlessly putting on patches, be forced into declaring a building moratorium because the sewer treatment plant is over capacity because of the inflow of ground water in the sewer mains and the treatment of storm sewer waters.

All this adds up to money. $2.8 million.

To most of us, that is a lot of money. But when it comes to working rebuilding the infrastructure of the city, all that money will not do the entire job.

It will take care of roughly 75 percent of the problems in 25 percent of the city according to those who have worked with the problem.

And the cost to us will be in the range of one to three mills as a tax increase to what we now pay.

But the feeling we have heard within the city is that the work needs to be done, and we concur completely. We don't like our taxes increased just like everybody else hates to see an increase.

But if we don't get it fixed now, then we may have to close down the city, leave it just as it is, and watch it flounder and finally fail.

The problems of putting off and putting off for so many years has caught up with us. As costly as the fix-up may be, we are going to have to pay for it.

We happen to think we can't put it off any longer and are in support of the issue. We can see lots of good things coming from the project. Like seeing the day the water department works off the debt it has incurred through the years. Like seeing the expansion of waterline and sewer lines after that happens and more houses are tied into the system to help make even more money to carry the load.

Most folks know the waste water treatment plant was designed and built for a city three times the size of Boyne. With the passage of the bond issues, we may see that day.

But without, we will see the day we will be asked to approve another millage request to get the city out of the red the water and sewer departments are causing.

Be sure to vote next March 17. Make the day a start of something good for the community.

job as they can. Those heading up the schools are trying to provide the best education they can to the students of the system. Those who want to see changes are working to get them, even if they have to crawl at a snail's pace to see them.

At least they are all involved with trying to make the community a better place.

This next week is the annual Board of Review. This is the only time you get to complain about your taxes and have someone at least listen.

If you have a complaint about how high your assessment is, or what the value the county equalization department has placed on your property, then you should go and voice your opinion.

Myself, I would like to have a reason explained as to why the valuation of the area keeps going up. I can't believe it is just because of the growth of residential construction within the city.

But I will find out the answers. All you have to do is appear and wait.

Marshall Sayles

The government has not gone wild over the small but striking part I played during the razzle-dazzle progress of our beloved land of the red, white and blue. This is shown by the way the banks, the post office and municipal buildings remain open on my birthday.

A letter from Washington says that my heroic act of heaving a Susan B. Anthony dollar across the Boyne River will get me nowhere. History books, it was said, will not give me a rare bird status for such an obvious attempt to sneak into national renown.

National renown ain't easy to come by even though you may have had a life long hankering for that sort of thing.

Now, if you are a woman, you might guarantee yourself a high spot in the here and the hereafter by running for vice-president. History books like women who run for vice-president. They also perk up their ears when a sitting president stands up and says he is not a crook.

Like our daily newspapers, modern history books latch on to people who create a national scandal and wind up with a pocket full of hundreds, or do some fool thing that has never been done before.

Minding your own business, paying your bills on time and speaking well of your neighbors will get you a pat on the back and a two inch obit in the locals. But neither the government nor our history books will ring any bells.

Not everyone wants to go down in history with the world looking at them. But I've often thought it would be kind of fun to be there along with George and Abe and that guy who was so honest we've forgotten his name.

That's why I threw that Susan B. across the Boyne River. No one had done it before. Fourth grade teachers would include it in their discussion of presidents and other high type Americans.

But what did I get for my effort? Nothing with a capital noth. No closing of the post office on my birthday, no red letter day on the calendar, no history book editors frantic on the telephone.

All I got was a "Thanks, mister" from a high school kid on the other side of the river.

F.O.E. celebrating 80th birthday Saturday

Eighty years old and still growing within the community isn't a pledge of the Boyne City Fraternal Order of Eagles Aerie 1583, but it is perhaps the oldest fraternal club in the city and could be one of the mottos they may use. They will be celebrating their 80th this Saturday with a prime rib dinner, speakers from the club and from afar as commemorate the organization's birthday.

way of shaming us into cleaning our plates. So we feel an obligation to use those leftovers, because of those starving children. So when we uncover things like squash or cauliflower in cheese sauce, we look for recipes to use these things.

Chances are we don't find any. But we do find intriguing recipes cut from long ago newspapers, like for curried almost everything. So we count our time well spent, at three times longer than our jiggling counterparts.

The same kind of thing happens with both groups when it comes to closet cleaning. The "get-things doners" go through the closet rapidly discarding clothes into separate bags bound for either a charitable organization, friends and relatives or the trash. They neither hesitate nor reconsider. And they're done in no time at all.

We slow-dancers try everything on, reminisce with each garment about the places we've been together and end up hanging onto almost everything for old time's sake.

I'm beginning to think that people are born to be one way or the other, in which case I couldn't switch even if I wanted to. Anyway, I've decided that "getting things done" isn't that all-fired important to me. And I'm not hard-driving enough for it besides. As for those who are, let them throw good food away. Someday they'll find those starving children in China on their consciences.

But I won't.

mill increase in school taxes. With the debt retirement payments on the high school running out this next year, the overall effect of the increase would be about a .5 mill increase in property owners' tax bills.

Leading the speakers will be Marv Dyer, from the Grand Aerie which is the governing body for the Eagles in the mid-west. Dyer who is coming to the city from Seymour, Indiana, is a past local, state and regional president of the fraternal organization. He has also served as the Central Regional Director of the Jimmie Durante Children's Fund.

Other speakers include Richard Stubbs, the state Eagles' president, along with other state officials of the organization.

Starting in Boyne City on March 6, 1907, the Boyne City group was part of the phenomenal growth the Eagles' organization had after they were first started in Seattle, Washington nine years before.

H. Everett Pitkin, representing the Grand Worthy President of the Order, gave the oath to 65 men of the city to start the local club. C. W. Fry was elected the first Past President; G.W. Baxter was named the Worthy President; R. E. Watson was the Worthy Vice President; W. W. Hall, Worthy Chaplain; J. F. Fairchild was Secretary; C.E. Chase, Treasurer; H.I. Hulbert, Worthy Conductor; E. E. Irish, Inner Guard; C. J. Oscar Jr., Outer Guard; and G. F. Moore and C.J. Herron were Trustees.

Past Worthy President McCarty of Petoskey did the actual work of instituting the new Aerie back then, administering the oath in a very able manner, according to the Boyne Citizen, the local newspaper of the community.

The oath was given and immediately the newly elected officers relinquished their seats to members of the Petoskey Aerie so they could learn the rituals.

The first meeting of the group was in the old Maize Hall. Later the group met in the Odd Fellows Hall until they purchased their own building located on River Street.

That building housed the group until they finished their present building several years ago, located on the corner of River and Lake. The old building was torn down three years ago.

From the original 65 members, the "working man's fraternal group" grew through the years until they had over 800 members during World War II. They currently have 290 members, all active in the organization.

The club also has an auxiliary group for the women, starting that in 1941.

Besides the club activities, the Eagles usually have a card game going on in the club room most of the time and has been a bingo location for many years. The new Aerie is also available for parties, wedding receptions, and other meetings.

Money the organization makes is used to help the Jimmie Durante Crippled Children's Fund, heart fund, kidney fund, and Golden Age for Senior Citizens.

Other funds are donated where the group deems it is needed.

The Eagles have held their place within the community for many years. It is expected to last many more.

EJ 7th graders learn about themselves

BY ELOUISE ROSSLER

Have you been SNIOPing lately? Maybe your PMA needs refueling. Do these terms sound strange? Ask any East Jordan Middle School seventh grader and they will tell you what they mean.

Mary Biagini, Alternative Program teacher for Char-Em Intermediate School District, introduced the seventh graders to these terms when she spoke to them about positive attitudes and how you develop them. Giving them a list of things such as positive feedback, smile, say something positive to yourself, set goals, express your feelings, accept and respect yourself and others, she explained to them about PMA (Positive Mental Attitude).

With examples and theatrics she helped the seventh graders see that they often choose to SNIOP (become Susceptible to Negative Influence of Others) by allowing the negative to overwhelm the positive and not combating it with something positive. Students volunteered examples of peer group pressure, kidding, gossiping, ignoring as ways frequently used to SNIOP.

Mrs. Biagini asked the students to begin each day with the saying "I am lovable and capable" as they look at themselves in the mirror. She was wearing a large button with the saying. She also gave them a new cheer to say everyday for themselves individually and as a group, "I'm super good—but I'll get better!"

Ms. Wendy Timmer, a former school social worker, now a psychiatric social worker at Lockwood-MacDonald Hospital in Petoskey, worked with the seventh graders on values and making value judgments.

She gave the seventh graders a list of values such as honesty, friends, prestige, recognition, helping others, power, and asked them to rank them from their own personal perspective. Then the class divided into small groups and they explained to each other why they did the ranking in the order they did. Some loud discussion came out of the groups as each person attempted to validate his own ranking. The highest ranking values overall in one class were honesty and friends.

Ms. Timmer then gave the small groups some situations in which they had to come to agreement on a decision. Students found this more difficult, as sometimes their highest ranking values were in conflict with another group member's values.

The students were then given a hypothetical situation in which they had to rank the persons involved from "rotten" to "Wonderful" and come to a conclusion about what the main character should do. The various groups have various solutions, based on the group process of coming to one decision with five sets of values being used.

The workshop was originated by Ms. Mary Sivula, seventh grade health teacher, after some discussions which came up in health class. Ms. Sivula enlisted Mrs. Kay Holley's and Miss Sharon MacJannett's help to arrange the schedule. Mrs. Holley and Miss MacJannett are the Quest teachers and found the workshop to be a great follow-up for those seventh graders who have been through Quest. For those students just now involved in Quest, the workshop gave additional impetus to the program by reinforcing the same ideas of looking at values from practical and workable perspectives.

Burns Clinic holding asthma classes at PHS

A free Family Asthma Class will begin March 9 at Petoskey High School. The program, called Air Power, is designed for asthmatic children, ages 8-14, and their parents. It will help them learn about the disease and how to manage it.

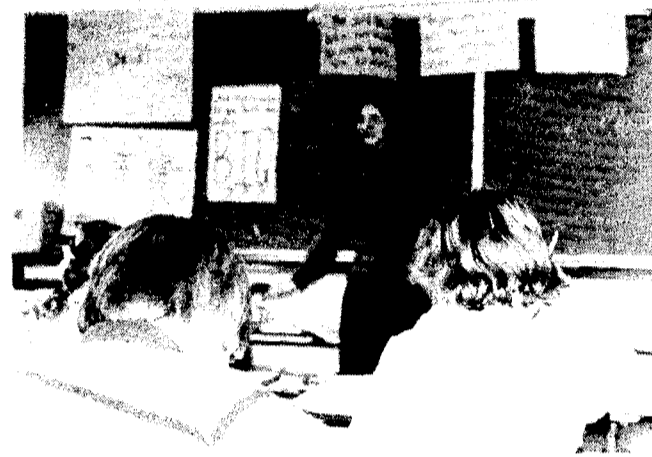

Air Power is sponsored by the Burns Clinic Foundation with funding from the American Lung Association.

Since most victims of asthma are children, an important aspect of treating asthma is education. It is important for the patient and family to know as much as possible about the disease, medications, exercise, irritants, and how to live with the disease.

Air Power consists of four, 1 hour sessions which cover asthma physiology, symptoms and medications, relaxation, asthma precipitants and environmental control, and emergency planning. Air Power is scheduled for March 9, 11, 16, and 18 at 7 p.m. at Petoskey High School. There is no charge for the program. Preregistration is required. Call the Burns Clinic Department of Health Education at 616-348-2134.

Wendy Timmer discusses situations that requires decisions and will help East Jordan seventh graders increase their level of values, during a session last week.

Reconstruction started after fire closes Nordic

It will be about three months before the Nordic Bar will reopen, according to Dick and Norcen Selissen, the owners of the bar which caught on fire last Wednesday morning.

Selissen has already started the clean-up work and is preparing plans for a remodeling of the bar area.

The fire apparently started in the bar area, causing damage to the bar, the walls and ceiling of the popular location. The upstairs living area received smoke damage.

Selissen and his daughter, Sharon, were sleeping when they were awaked and called the Boyne City Fire Department. The fire department responded to the call about 6:30 a.m. Boyne City called East Jordan and Charlevoix Departments for assistance in fighting the blaze. About 600 gallons of water were used to knock down and put out the fire.

Firefighters were on the scene until about 11 a.m.

Selissen said he hopes to be open sooner, but that would depend on how soon the contractors can do the work. He said he had just finished remodeling the bar area last year, adding cedar to make the bar more attractive. He said the remodeling due to the fire would be more extensive than his previous remodeling as he plans on making some major changes to the location of the bar and the seating area.

"I had planned on doing some remodeling in a year or so, but this is not the way I wanted to see it being done," Selissen said as he looked around the fire damaged area.

Selissen said he was thankful for the amount of fire insurance he carried on the structure as he figures it will cover most of the costs of rebuilding.

Wolverine Power to remain in Boyne for some time

BOYNE CITY - Wolverine Power Supply Cooperative, Inc. has reached an agreement with RAMP Associates of Boyne City to remain in its present headquarters facility for the foreseeable future. Wolverine had sold the office facility in 1985 when the cooperative anticipated moving its administrative offices to Cadillac. Wolverine still has plans to relocate its offices but not until a transaction calling for the cooperative to sell its ownership in the Fermi II nuclear power plant is completed.

This decision by Wolverine's board of directors to remain in Boyne City was prompted by understandings reached this past year between Wolverine and the Detroit Edison Company allowing the cooperative to sell its entire remaining ownership in the Fermi II nuclear plant back to Detroit Edison. This transaction is scheduled on January 1, 1990 at a cost of approximately $550 million.

"Wolverine's board of directors has decided that it would be in the best interest of Wolverine's seven member-systems to remain in Boyne City for the foreseeable future," said Raymond R. Cristell, Wolverine's executive vice president and general manager. "Even though we desire to relocate our headquarters facility in order to have our total operation in one central location, we currently plan to remain in Boyne City for an indefinite period."

Wolverine had originally planned to begin operations this past year in a new 10,000 square foot headquarters facility in Cadillac, adjacent to the cooperative's energy control center. A new facility was necessary to house the cooperative's entire administrative and operations staff.

Wolverine supplies wholesale power to seven rural electric cooperatives which, in turn, sell electricity to approximately 400,000 persons in mostly rural portions of northern and western Michigan. Wolverine's seven members are Cherryland Rural Electric Cooperative Association (Grawn), O & A Electric Cooperative (Newaygo), Oceana Electric Cooperative (Hart), Presque Isle Electric Cooperative (Onaway), Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Company (Boyne City), Tri-County Electric Cooperative (Portland), and Western Michigan Electric Cooperative (Scottville).

Early registration suggested for Camp Daggett

Early registration is encouraged for this year's summer camp program at Camp Daggett on beautiful Walloon Lake. Last year, for the first time in sixty-two years, all the summer sessions at Camp Daggett filled early and over one hundred requests were reluctantly denied. Applications for summer camp are now available at local schools and chambers of commerce.

Established in 1925, Camp Daggett is a non-profit camp, owned and operated by a board of trustees made up of representatives from service clubs in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

A traditional program is offered at the camp with traditional activities including swimming, sailing, rowing, canoeing, fishing, arts & crafts, field sports, archery, nature study, camp songs, campfires, skits, overnight campouts, and exciting evening activities.

One week of each summer program is set aside for a special session, held in conjunction with the Charlevoix - Emmet Intermediate School District, for children from the school district's Special Education Program.

Camp Daggett receives support from many local individuals, service clubs, United Way funds of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties, the Youth Foundation of America, and other charitable organizations. Donations of money, labor and equipment help to maintain the buildings and grounds at Camp Daggett and support a quality summer program.

This year's summer staff has already been hired, with most of last year's staff returning to Camp Daggett. Jerry Donnelly will also be returning for his sixth year as the summer camp director.

You may receive more information about Camp Daggett by writing to P.O. Box 120, Petoskey, MI 49770, or by calling 347-9742.

Summer resident, Allen, retires

State Court of Appeals Judge Glenn S. Allen Jr., longtime Charlevoix area summer resident, will retire from the state's second highest court March 1 after serving on it for 13 years and winding up a lifetime of public service.

Allen, who owns a former schoolhouse on Boyne City Road, and has been coming to Charlevoix since 1916, will leave his post as one of six judges representing the Appeals District III, which stretches from Benton Harbor to Copper Harbor.

Allen was appointed to the court by Gov. William Milliken in 1974, and won two successive terms in 1974 and 1980.

Allen has devoted more than 46 years to public service, winning his first public election as a Kalamazoo city commissioner in 1941. He has run in 15 municipal and state elections, winning all but two.

Prior to joining the court, he served as chief legal and legislative advisor to Governor Milliken, following an eight-year stint as state budget director and state controller under Governor George Romney.

In the early '60s, Allen was chairman of the Citizens for Michigan (CFM) Committee for constitutional revision to rewrite the state's archaic and complex constitution through a constitutional convention ("Con Con").

In 1961 Allen was elected a delegate to "Con Con." Allen served four consecutive terms as mayor of Kalamazoo from 1951-59, and while mayor, Kalamazoo won national honors as the first city in the nation to build a permanent downtown mall.

A Kalamazoo native, he was first admitted to the state bar in 1939. His first job was as a law clerk for the Michigan Supreme Court.

He was drafted in 1942, and as a graduate of the Judge Advocate General's School, he served as assistant Judge Advocate in the 94th Infantry Division and as one of General George Patton's legal advisors during World War II.

While still serving in the European Theatre in Czechoslovakia, he won a post as vice-mayor of Kalamazoo losing the mayorship by only six votes.

Allen earned his law degree from Columbia University Law School in New York. He also attended Kalamazoo College and Amherst College in Amherst, Mass.

Allen has received numerous awards during his long career, including the Distinguished Alumni Award from Kalamazoo College in 1986, and the Harlan Fisk Stone Prize for outstanding trial procedure from Columbia University.

Allen looks forward to an active retirement. He will open a private office March 2 in the Michigan National Tower in Lansing where he plans to practice law on a limited basis, and actively engage in community activities. He also plans to teach at one or more local colleges, and from time to time, be called back to the Court of Appeals for other judicial assignments.

Allen and his wife, Marjorie, also look forward to spending time at their home in DeWitt and property in Charlevoix and Mackinac Island.

BC hires auditor, Talks more on water breaks

Boyne City commissioners approved the hiring of Hill, Woodcock and Schroderus, a Petoskey CPA firm, to audit the city books for another year with a cost not to exceed $9,950.

The commissioners also hired the firm to audit the books covering many of the federal and state grants the city has gotten for an additional $2,400.

City commissioners also heard their weekly report on the number of watermain breaks city crews have had to repair. The city has had 79 breaks so far this year.

"This is just one of the reasons," City Manager Randy Frykberg said, "that we need to have the bond issues passed so we can eliminate these problem areas."

The city is asking voters, March 17, to approve a $2.8 million package that would allow the city to replace watermain as well as fix sanitary and storm sewers and some of the roads throughout the city.

Frykberg told the commissioners that 75 percent of the problems are coming from 25 percent of the city.

Basil Moore, head of the city crews, said the city has gone through what would normally be a year's supply of gravel filling the holes after the crews have put a patch on the broken line.

Frykberg also told the commissioners he called other cities in the area to see how many watermain breaks they repaired last year. He told the commissioners those cities had about one third of the number yearly we have had in the first two months of this year.

In other comments, Evangeline Township Supervisor Bessie Van Dorn asked the city what they were planning as far as increasing the cost of fire protection to the township. She was told that the city was holding the line for this year, but she could plan on an increase of about 1/10 of a mill for next year. Van Dorn will present the updated figure in the township budget she is working on to the annual meeting of the township at the end of the month.

NOTICE

OF PUBLIC HEARING

ZONING BD. OF APPEALS

CITY OF BOYNE CITY

Pursuant to Rules and Regulations as outlined in the Boyne City Zoning Ordinance A-28, please take notice that a Public Hearing will be held by the Boyne City Zoning Board of Appeals on Thursday, March 12, 1987 at 7:00 p.m. in the Commission Chambers, 319 North Lake Street, to consider the following request for an interpretation of the zoning code relating to the former "Cedar Street Grocery".

The parcel of property and the building is located at 233 W Cedar Street, Property Tax No. 051-000-437-082-00. The property is a pre-existing, non-conforming use and is zoned Residential 2(R-2).

The potential buyers of the property wish to remodel the building and open up a delicatessen shop in the lower level, specializing in gourmet foods. The two existing upstairs apartments would remain as they are now.

The Zoning Board of Appeals will review the request and determine whether or not the re-opening of the store is allowed under the terms of the Zoning Ordinance as a pre-existing, non-conforming use, since the lower portion of the building has not been used as a grocery store for several years. Is the store still grandfathered in as a non-conforming business and may it be opened as a grocery store again? This will be the topic of interpretation to be undertaken by the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Any in put for or against this public hearing on this matter will be received by the City Clerk's Office, 319 N. Lake Street, through 5:00 p.m. of the Public Hearing Day, either via public appearance or mail.

Any and all objections for or against this request will be heard at the Public Hearing.

BOYNE CITY LANES PRESENTS ITS BOWLERS OF THE WEEK

KIM HARVEY

It was quite a performance put on by Kim last Tuesday in the Mixed Three-some League. Sporting a slim 109 average, Kim bowled a 474 actual series with a game high of 177. She also won all four jackpots, plus the free bowling ball given away every last Tuesday of the month by Boyne City Lanes. For the night, Kim ended up 147 pins over average. Job well done, Kim. We hope that Ray might bowl that good someday, too!

BILL LINDSAY

Bill was unavailable to have his picture taken, so his twin brother Ralph stepped in for him. Bill himself bowled fantastic Wednesday night in the Fraternal League for the Lindsay-Campbell Insurance team. Bill shot the highest handicap series by a male bowler so far this season, a superb 804 set. Bill's actual series were pretty impressive, too. 667 was his actual series with a game high of 247. Excellent bowling, Billy! Tell your brother thanks for filling in!

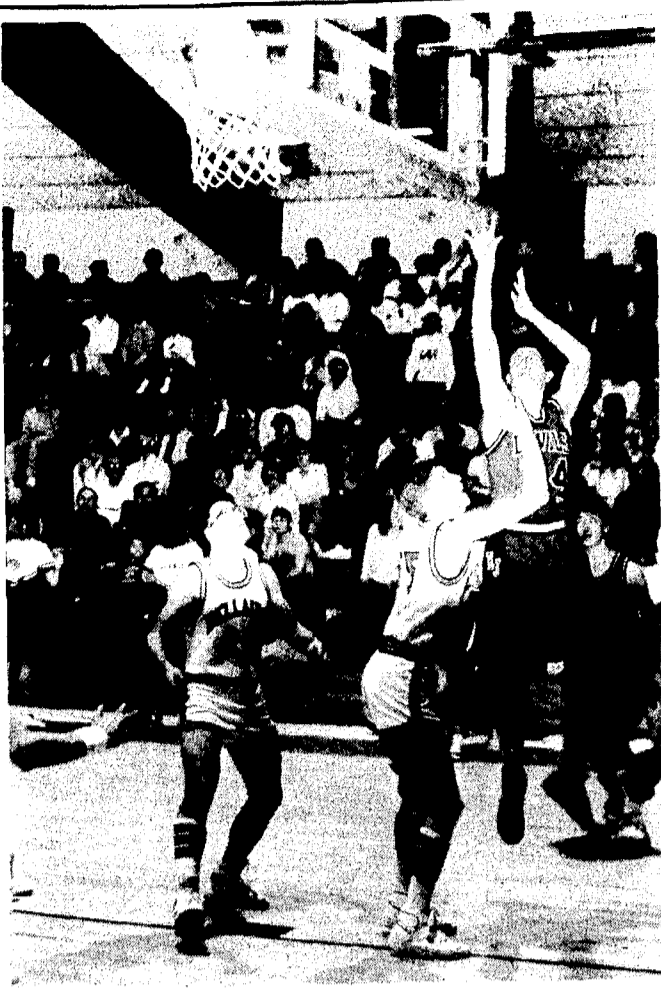

CONGRATULATIONS.

Kitson seals EJ win over Bellaire

BY DENNIS SKROCKI
After possessing a 15 point lead throughout most of the third quarter, the East Jordan varsity basketball team fought off a fourth period Bellaire comeback attempt to claim a 78-77 victory.
The Devils took command in the first stanza hitting 9 of 16 shots from the field and 3 of 6 at the foul line as compared to Bellaire's 5 of 12 and 3 of 7. This allowed EJ to take a 23-13 lead into the second period.
The second quarter was played in much the same fashion as the Devils maintained their dominance from both offensive and defensive standpoints. At the halftime intermission the Devils were up by a nine point margin, 42-33.
The Red Devils exploded in the third period as they went 8 of 17 from the field and 4 of 5 at the line as the Eagles hit 8 of 21 field goals and 6 of 10 free throws. Despite facing a 15 point deficit throughout most of the quarter, Bellaire fought back to within seven, 62-55, at the sound of the buzzer ending the period. This set the stage for an exciting final stanza.

The Eagles worked to within three points during the first two minutes but were unable to gain more ground until senior Tony Martinek tied things up at 69 with 3:39 remaining. Bellaire captured their first lead of the game, 71-69, with 3:24 remaining as Martinek dribbled the distance of the court for an easy lay-up. Shannon Olstrom countered quickly for the Devils to tie things at 71.
After consecutive baskets by Martinek and Steve Holton, Bellaire jumped out to a 75-71 lead, forcing Red Devil coach Steve Hines to call a timeout at the 7:34 mark.
An Olstrom free throw cut the deficit to three points, 75-72, and soon after, Greg Kitson hit a field goal to make the score 75-74. The Eagles then attempted to stall but were unsuccessful as Kitson came up with a steal and went coast to coast for an easy two points giving the Devils a 76-75 lead with :25 remaining to be played.
The Eagles then used the remaining time to work for the last shot but a Kevin Molby steal at :07 gave the Devils possession. Molby was fouled but failed to convert the free throw. After obtaining the rebound from the missed foul shot, Kitson was fouled on his way to the hoop. He converted both shots from the line thus sealing the EJ victory.
A shot at the buzzer by Bellaire's Scott Boni was good but to no avail as the Devils captured a 78-77 victory.
The contest was the Devil's final Ski-Valley Conference match of the year and the win ups their record to 11-8 overall, 9-6 in the SVC.

Boyne skiers at state

After placing third in regional slalom ski competition, Todd Fanning of Boyne City High School was not able to compete for state honors due to an injury suffered prior to the event. But Colleen Toton, who qualified for the state ski meet by placing eighth in giant slalom, came away with the 20th place in state competition. Toton was in an 80 girl field of skiers, all racing for top honors.

EJ girls wrap season up

These members of the East Jordan community helped to make the East Jordan blood drive a success. Forty-nine people successfully donated blood in East Jordan although 60 volunteered.

EJ blood drive meets goal

BY DENNIS SKROCKI
The annual East Jordan Student Council blood drive, held last Tuesday in the school's bandroom, fared successfully as 49 pints were collected. This amount was four over the set goal of 45 but is slightly under last year's collection of 51 pints.

Some 60 people attempted to give blood with only 49 succeeding. Of these donors, 28 were first time students from East Jordan with the rest being community members and students with past experience. "I was pleased with the student paricipation in this year's drive," said Student Council President Jim Raymond.

Before giving blood, donors filled out a questionnaire sheet and were checked for age and weight requirements. The maximum donation was one pint per person.

When the day was over, the collected blood was transported to a Red Cross laboratory in Petoskey where it underwent safety testing before distribution to area hospitals.

EJ frosh bow to Eagles

BY DENNIS SKROCKI
The East Jordan freshman basketball squad finished out their season last Monday coming out on the losing end against a tough Bellaire Eagle squad. The Devils trailed from the opening minutes and could not get back on track as they were down by respective quarter scores of 17-12, 37-24, 48-39, and 64-55, which was the final score.

On the night the Devils hit 24 of 67 (36%) shots from the field and a mere 7 of 30 (23%) at the foul line. The Eagles hit on 21 of 60 (35%) from the field and 22 of 34 (65%) at the line.

Don Cutler and Pat Muma shared top scoring honors for the Devils with 15 points each.

BY DENNIS SKROCKI

The East Jordan varsity and jayvee volleyball teams finished out their 1986-87 campaigns last week against tough squads from Charlevoix and Mancelona.

Against Charlevoix, the varsity squad was defeated in all three matches by respective scores of 15-11, 15-2, and 15-7.

Patti Schmitt was the lady Devil's leading scorer as she served for nine points, seven of which came in the first match. Also scoring were: Kathy Knop (3), Monica Olstrom (2), Shandra Sweet (1), Michelle Gibbard (1), and Kris Burt (1).

Things went much the same as the Devils took on a strong group from Mancelona.

The Devils once again dropped all three matches, this time by scores of 15-4, 15-8, and 15-12.

Top scoring honors were shared by Burt, Olstrom, and Missy Gee who served for five points each. Schmitt, Knop, Gibbard and Teresa Poole each had two.

The jayvees, for the second time this season, won their match against Charlevoix.

After taking the first game 15-10, the junior Devils dropped the second by a score of 15-13 but came back in the final match with a 15-4 win to capture the meet. Tammy Gee took top scoring honors with nine points, as Tammy Poole added eight and Theresa Brennan and Sara Chase added six each. The Devilettes had no trouble with Mancelona as they took both matches by respective scores of 15-8 and 15-7.

Krista Sumner led the way with ten points as Tammy Gee added nine and Dia

Jones, five. The varsity squad finished the season with only one victory, that coming on February 2 against Gaylord St. Mary's. With all but four members returning next year, the girls should be a dominant force in the Ski Valley Conference.

The junior varsity team finished with a respectable 10-5 record.

East Jordan jv's close season with loss to Bellaire

BY DENNIS SKROCKI

The East Jordan jayvee basketball squad ended its 1986-87 season on a bad note losing to Bellaire by the final score of 89-63. The loss leaves the Devil's final season record at 12-7.

Things looked bleak from the start as the Devils hit only 8 of 27 shots from the field in the first quarter. The Eagles connected on 11 of 26 field goals and 2 of 4 free throws to jump out to a 24-14 lead at the quarter's end.

The Red Devils were also unable to mount a successful offensive attack in the second period and at halftime trailed by 18 points, 42-24.

The third period saw the Devils keep pace with the Bellaire offense but they could not gain any ground as their 9 of 17 performance from the field was matched as the Eagles hit on 9 of 19. Bellaire also went 7 of 9 at the foul line to take a commanding 67-47 lead into the final stanza.

The Devils trailed by as many as 32 points during the final quarter but outscored the Eagles 13-7 in the last three minutes but that wasn't enough as they were defeated by the final score of 89-63.

All members of the junior Devil squad put points on the board as Dan Pepin led the way with 27 points. Also adding points were: Gerry Ciszewski (10), Jeff Burks (6), Tim Brennan (5), Dave Freel (4), Aaron Brock (3), Tracy Reich (2), Jeff Olstrom (2), Scott Nachazel (2), and Mark Lercel (2).

Defensively the Devils were out-rebounded 54-47.

Pepin also led the way with 11 rebounds as Burks added eight. Freel contributed six as Olstrom crashed the boards for five.

Pepin, Burks, Ciszewski, and Brennan will see more action this season as they have been moved up to the varsity squad for tournaments.
