

The morels are out...THE MORELS ARE OUT! With the earliest finding of morels in recent history, two Boyne City residents brought in the first finds of the season to show us. Mauricio Bacciochi found this small batch of morels when he went out Tuesday, but his find wasn't the first. That honor goes to Eleanor Sutliff who found a similar batch Saturday morning when she went out in the woods. Neither will say where they found them, but plenty of hunters will be going out this weekend if the rain soaks the ground.

News Briefs

While East Jordan and Boyne Falls students will enjoy a full day off on Good Friday, Boyne City students will be dismissed starting with the high school at 11:30 a.m., elementary students at 11:35 a.m. and the middle school students at 11:45 a.m.

At the same time, Boyne City students will be getting a full day off next Wednesday, April 29, while the teachers will be attending an in-service training day learning about computer education and holding some stress related workshops.

A caravan was sent out from Petoskey, Tuesday, in support of the US-131 Area Development Association. The caravan will have five representatives from this area and will join with others on the way south. The purpose of the trip is to encourage faster action with the development of the US-131 expressway.

Glen's Market in Boyne City was honored with a third place award for a special display they set up recently for the Proctor and Gamble products which were supporting the Special Olympics program within the state. The firm was given $500 which they then donated to the district program. Other winners from the area included Oleson's in Petoskey.

If you are looking for a dentist drill or maybe a band uniform, Boyne City High School will be holding an auction of those and many more items next Thursday. All of the items are surplus to the needs of the school and will be auctioned starting at 7 p.m.

East Jordan trying to fix third city park

East Jordan officials will be developing their third park within the city, if a grant application is approved.

Previously, the city added improvements to the Tourist Park, then received a grant and passed a bond issue to develop a marina along Memorial Park, and with action taken at last Tuesday's City Council meeting, have submitted a grant application for the Sportsman's Park area.

If approved by the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund, the $195,000 proposed project will see the renovation of the park to include a floating walkway, arched bridge to an observation platform, gazebo, restrooms, landscaping and parking area.

The grant would pay for 75 percent of the project cost, with the rest of the money coming from "inkind services" or cash, according to Mike Dionne, the City Superintendent.

The plan would make the park area usable to city residents as a place where they could observe wildlife, fish, or just relax, according to city officials.

The park used to be a place for those activities and more, back in the early 70s, but the rising waters of Lake Charlevoix turned the trails of the park into a quagmire.

The city used fill from the dredging of the marina area last year to build up a base for the park to give it some solid ground. That filled area would be the location for the gazebo, restrooms and parking areas.

The remainder of the park would be set aside for the wildlife viewing areas as well as the walkway to the observation platform.

The site plan for the park was developed by Mike Davis, the Charlevoix County recreation director, who worked with Dionne in making up the grant application.

The application calls for the park to be developed at one time, which Dionne says is more in line with what the Trust Fund wants. The city had made two previous grant applications but both were turned down. Those proposals asked to have the park developed in stages. With the grant asking the park be developed at one time, Dionne thinks the grant will be funded.

While discussing the grant application, some city council members questioned what would happen if the city did not come up with the matching grant. Mayor Pat Sweet asked if the grant request would lock the city into spending funds.

While no answers were directly given to the questions, the city council was told that nobody was forced into doing something they did not have the money to do. A DNR administrator said the city could always give the money back.

The city would have to come up with $48,900 to meet the match although Dionne said that money doesn't necessarily have to be in cash, as it could be "inkind services". Some cash would have to be paid out since all of the match cannot be paid for by services.

If plans get approved for funding, the Sportman's Park in East Jordan could see a total renovation. Plans include a floating boardwalk, arched bridge, observation platform, walkway, gazebo and restrooms as well as additional parking. The grant application was made last week to the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund. If granted, the funds will pay for 75 percent of the project.

No Ski Valley affiliation for Boyne City High School

Boyne City High School will not be joining the Ski Valley Conference after school officials were told that a meeting of the conference superintendents, principals and athletic directors voted not to expand their league so they could accept new schools.

While learning that information, school officials stated they would now send out invitations to northern Michigan Class C schools to a meeting where the possibility of forming a new league would be discussed. The school hopes to have that meeting soon as they would like to resolve the dilemma caused by other schools currently in the Michigan-Huron Shores League leaving to form a new league themselves without Boyne City or Onaway.

The problems of the athletics department of the school was caused by the computer rankings being made in the football program of the state. Those schools which were bigger within the current league would not get any bonus points if they played Boyne City and won.

Athletic Director John McGeorge and Principal Warren Wade of the Boyne City High School have lined up four teams for Boyne City to play in the fall of 1988 after the current league members leave. Wade said several other schools are considering playing Boyne but haven't signed contracts. Boyne will be competing in sports as an independent team starting in the fall of 1988.

John Hunt, the leader of a group that is trying to start a boosters' organization within the school, asked if the league could remain named as the Michigan-Huron Shores League if it is accepted by the other schools. He was told that would have to be decided by the schools involved.

Hunt also asked if the donations being made to the school for athletic equipment would go to the sport the equipment was purchased for. He was told that the athletic department would honor those commitments provided the boosters worked with the school to determine what equipment was needed.

In other action at the Monday night school board meeting, the school system is considering adding two policies that would cover the administration of medications within the school and setting up a program in the event the school system has a case of AIDS or some other communicable disease. Both policies were given to the board members to study during the month. The board is expected to take action on the policies at the next meeting in May.

The AIDS policy is similar to a policy that was used in the St. John's School District after an AIDS case was discovered within their system.

The Boyne policy would set up a Communicable Disease Review Panel that would make recommendations covering the disease and decide controls used to cover any occurrence of a communicable disease.

The way the policy would work is that when the school nurse becomes aware of a possible problem, she would call a meeting of the CDRP which would then decide the matter. Members of the panel would include the doctor treating the case, a doctor with expertise in the disease area, the parents of the student involved, the school superintendent, a physician from the District Health Department or his designee and the school nurse.

Other parts of the policy would deal with the way the case is handled, what steps should be taken if the ill person has an accident and other matters concerning the case, including the privacy factors.

The other policy being considered deals with the giving of medication by the school nurse to students. If adopted, the policy would require the student to have written instructions signed by a parent or guardian and in compliance with the instructions of the physician.

Medications must be in a separate container and no medications would be given to students by school personnel without complying with the conditions of knowing the student's name, the name of the medication, the purpose of the medication, time to be administered, dosage, possible side effects and the termination date for administering the medication.

After reviewing the two policies, the board also approved the request of the Boyne City Swim School to allow them to use a school bus this summer, gave their approval for the use of the schools' softball and hardball diamond by the Boyne City Recreation Department, and gave approval for the Boyne City Nursery School to use the portable classroom next to the middle school for another year.

The nursery school is trying to set up the three portable classrooms given them by Allied Bendix-Courter, but wanted the approval in case they did not meet their goal of getting the classrooms to the site and properly set up by the time school starts next fall.

The board then hired another teacher's aide in the elementary school to work with an educatable mentally impaired student. The position would be funded 90 percent by the Intermediate School District and would cover the remainder of the school year. The position would involve the aide to work four hours a day.

The board then agreed to consider the non-renewal of two administration positions because of the uncertainty of federal and community education consortium funds. The agreement to not offer the contracts to the two administrators seems to be made every year as the school system usually hires the two back by the end of June after funds are assured.

The board then granted tenure to Christy Dunne, Diane Kelly and Carol Pumarejo, all teachers in the elementary school. They also granted tenure to Susan Vondran in the middle school and Christi Brillinski in the high school.

They also accepted the retirement letters of two teachers, Charles Britton, who has been with the school system for 18 years, and Harold Hamlin, who has been teaching at Boyne City for the last 23 years. Britton has been the art teacher in the high school while Hamlin has been teaching the Building Trades Program.

The board finished up the meeting by going into a closed session to work out more details concerning the negotiation strategy they will use for the upcoming teacher contract bargaining sessions.

APPELIZERS
While growing up on a Michigan farm during the late twenties; it never occurred to us that there could be a need to tease our appetites. Especially in the winter-time after walking home from school and helping with the farm chores, we were ready to eat anything that was set before us. Appetizers were unheard of.

Our Mother always had different kinds of pickles or relishes on the table and a jar of French's mustard, also a cruet of vinegar was the standard fare. But who ever thought of eating anything before we sat down at the table?

During those prohibition years the average family did not serve alcoholic drinks at the table. The men might have had a drink of hard cider from the barrel out in the granary, however.

Now, I have been pondering about just when we started serving those special tidbits. They really came along when prohibition was repealed in the early thirties, when the cocktail hour became popular. However, it was not until after World War II before the makings for hors d'oeuvres became available and frozen foods encouraged the opening of some party stores. At that time some restaurants began serving Scandinavian smorgasbord meals and they were very popular. What a change in our food took place during those years! The war really changed many eating habits. French, Scandinavian, Italian and Chinese food became very common.

Our north country appetites hardly need much encouragement and some real solid food such as he-man sandwiches or a hot casserole is called for. Everyone is hungry after a day on the ski slopes or ice fishing, and ready for a party. A bowl of home made bean soup and cornbread would be welcome. We enjoy our winter wonderland though our warm firesides beckon us in out of the cold and we do not mind spending more time in the kitchen. What a time to help our guests relax with a tray of goodies to nibble on around the punch bowl while dinner is cooking.

I like to do things the easy way and here are a few ideas for that tray.

KABOBS
Make them by threading 3 different cubes of goodies on colorful tooth picks, such as:

- 1-Cubes of cheese, ham and pickles, or

- 2-Cubes of cheese, ham and olives (either stuffed or ripe)
- 3-Cubes of ham, cheese and pineapple chunks, all in small pieces, of course.

CHEESE BALLS
Made by rolling tiny balls of cream cheese in finely chopped parsley.

We all love our favorite vegetables to dip into our store-bought dips. (The easy way) For something hot on your appetizer tray you could make Wealtha Hedgecock's

- MUSHROOM APPETIZERS
- 1-8 oz. pkg. cream cheese
- 1 lb. Jimmy Dean sausage
- 1 lb. fresh mushrooms

Completely cook the sausage and mix as much of it as you like with the cream cheese. You will want to taste at this point.

Spread on mushroom tops, put under the broiler for just a few seconds before serving as an appetizer.

The cream cheese and sausage mixture can also be used as a spread for your favorite crackers.

I am always grateful for the recipes that Wealtha sends me. I received the following just before Christmas and made them for our family Christmas eve party. They were a real success and everyone wanted this easy, time-saving recipe for

CAKE MIX COOKIES

- 1 box 2-layer cake mix
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup salad oil
- 1/4 cup flour
- 1/4 cup water

Mix well and add anything that sounds good - nuts, coconut, chocolate chips, etc.

Drop by spoonful on greased cookie sheet or roll out if you wish. Wealtha says that she used lemon cake mix, devils food mix or white cake mix and even mixed chocolate and white cakes to make a marble cookie.

So I made mine from a marble cake mix, making some all white, some all chocolate and some made into balls of part chocolate and white to marble cookies.

Sprinkle powdered sugar on some; I put red sugar on the white cookies. Just have fun decorating them, though they are good without the decorations.

Consumers Power urges caution around power lines

Now that spring is officially here, many homeowners have already begun trimming excess tree limbs and cutting down dead or unneeded trees.

Consumers Power Company urges people to use caution and plan their work before proceeding. Already this spring, several incidents have occurred in which people have cut down trees, only to have the tree fall in to a power line and cause a temporary power outage for surrounding homes.

The utility reports that approximately 300 similar incidents happen each year, with most in April and September. The resulting outages shut off power to surrounding homes an average of two hours.

Besides inconveniencing neighbors, safety is of extreme importance, say Consumers Power officials.

"Before trimming or removing a tree, you should carefully check to make sure that no power lines run near, or through the tree," said Christopher C Bandy, Community Services Director for Consumers Power's Boyne City-Cheboygan Area. "If a power line does go through the tree, call us before you proceed and we will come out, look the situation over and either provide direct assistance or advise you on other options," said Bandy.

"It's particularly important not to try to untangle a limb that touches a power line. Limbs, particularly if they're wet, can conduct electricity and you could receive a shock while trying to untangle it," said Bandy.

Consumers Power Company is Michigan's largest utility serving almost six million of the state's nine million residents in 67 of the 68 Lower Peninsula counties.

The Positive Side

"The fear of failure, can push us beyond our perceived limits and become a positive force."

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

"Lordy, Lordy, do we need some rain," the man from the DNR was saying to a group gathered around the coffee table.

But the reason he was saying we needed the rain was because the forests in the area were getting pretty high up on the possible forest fire list.

They were all ready to go out mushroom hunting and they knew some rain would make those mushrooms pop up big and tall so they could be easily seen.

Then someone suggested another mushroom theory that might make sense if you could take the time to determine if it were a factor in mushrooms.

"With all of the dry weather we have had," he said, "and the fact that last year was a poor year for morels because of the lack of rain, I predict this year we'll see them by the tons if we get a nice steady rain for about four days."

"I figure that mushroom roots have been growing for two years. Those roots ought to be criss-crossing themselves all over the place and someone once said that where the two roots cross, a mushroom will grow."

If that is the case, then all of the preparations the Lions Club is doing to make this festival and national championship hunt a success may make this a great year for the hunters. Maybe someone will break the record for the one-and-a-half hour of picking.

Reports are starting to come into the office about people finding morels already, but they say the mushrooms are slim and far between.

Myself, I can't get out of the front yard yet to be able to spend the time to go looking.

And this year I have a couple of places I want to search out. Places where people never seem to go to hunt that elusive morsel. Maybe than I will find a couple or even enough to make a meal.

But, realistically, I will probably have to end up buying some like I do every year, as I can't seem to see them unless I get to go out with Tony Williams.

He can see them out the side of his eye, I think. The last time I went with him he spied one about 100 feet away and told me where it was. It still took me about three minutes to see what he was yelling at me for from a hill across the valley.

Maybe you have to born a mushroom hunter to be one. I don't know. I just get myself confused and somewhat lost when I get in the woods and start looking for mushrooms instead of looking at the trees and knowing which direction I'm going.

All I can say is, see you in the woods over Mother's Day weekend.

The Dubious, Dome Solution I realize that crime's a serious problem and I do want to do my part in helping curb it. But my cooperative spirit would plummet if a plan proposed by criminologists Steven P. Lab and J. David Hershel were ever put into effect.

Their theory is that people would be less violent if they lived in a nicer climate. They get this idea from research reports in a field of science called biometeorology: the study of weather's effects on physical and psychological health. The physical effects of weather have been known for years. But researchers keep piling up more evidence that proves that rotten weather, especially cold rotten weather, like the February kind, makes people sick. And warm pleasant weather, like in June, makes people feel terrific.

But the psychological effects of weather have not been studied much until recently when researchers started looking into crime and the weather. They discovered that the reason people get out of sorts before storms, both the pre-storm hot and muggy and the cold, grey

Marshall Sayles

There are those among us who say, "Let the show go on." I say, "Let's close the house and tear up the tickets."

We are speaking here about the rumor and gossip surrounding TV ministers who are, after all, leading their flocks to the same pasture. One writer has likened it to dying: No matter the road you take in life, we shall all wind up at the funeral home.

The on-going scandal seems to have spawned jig dancing with every new joke that hits the local coffee tables.

Some have been laughing, some have been clucking their tongues, while a large number of others are wringing their hands fearing religious television has been chased down the back alley, never to return.

Newsletters have turned into a "one night out" bit of news into a national organ grinder opera for their front pages and for the six o'clock workings of those living room juke boxes. They have fired volleys of tish-tish into the air, reaching the highest note possible, tearing at the subject like a dog chewing on an old bedroom slipper.

One man slipped a cog and was caught up in a blaze with newspapers fanning the flames, causing a greater conflagration than the incident merited. Yes, there was a news story, but there is some doubt about the necessity for the editorial belching that followed. As the saying goes, let those writers without sin cast the first typewriter.

As I said, I think we should close the doors on this over-worked side show and tear up the tickets. Throw a pail of water on the bonfire, pick up the remains in a dust pan and heave it out the back door. Then the newspapers can get back to telling us what's going on in Washington. Like, for instance, how Nancy is really the brains behind the administration. Important stuff like that.

We just finished pushing and cranking our car 1400 miles through massive traffic that led to Boyne City. Every driver seemed to think that the speed limit had been raised to seventy miles per hour. That old fifty-five mile limit is being ignored. If you obey the posted speed limit the guy behind you blows his horn for you to get out of the way. I can't count the times I had to speed up to satisfy the fool behind me. (I'll eggs for sale at the grocery.

When one drives as far as I did this past week one gets to thinking, or whistling, or drumming on the wheel. I thought that when I got home I would write a little something about why I have quit tapping our maples to make syrup in the spring.

The last time I tapped some maples the sap flowed so freely the trees began to shrink. Four trees shrank about twenty feet in size. They didn't quit shrinking until I turned the tree faucet down so the sap just kind of dripped out. (I'm going to quit right here. I wrote a little something about my cucumber trees and looked what happened to me!)

I shall now leave my den and stop this roaring.

EJ senior citizens among those enjoying new swimming pool

BY ELOUISE ROSSLER
Who are all those happy people in East Jordan's swimming pool every Tuesday and Thursday morning? They are a group of senior citizens who are happy to be there, swimming, "watching the mermaids" and having fun. About 20 people swim on a regular basis, which means they are waiting at the door when it is opened and they stay until "they kick us out!" These "young-at-heart" swimmers range in ages from the fifties through the seventies. Their activities range from just moving in the water to swimming laps.

Milt Veverka, retired utility company employee, calls himself the unofficial P.R. man for the pool. His mile-wide grin is infectious when he talks about watching the mermaids and his enthusiasm for the opportunity the pool gives to be active, exercise and stay in shape, is very contagious. He regularly asks the pool personnel for copies of the pool schedule so he can drop them off at places he is going to be and to give them to individuals to encourage them to use the pool.

Chiming in with additional praise are Ted and Jane Mockerman who also swim regularly. Their easy manner and ready smiles make them great salespeople for the benefits the pool has for people their age. In fact, Mrs. Mockerman kept swimming and swimming and it was evident she would rather swim than do anything else!

"I learned to swim in 1917 by Army personnel," says Walter Midener, who had just completed 16 laps. When asked the most he has swum in the pool, he replied, "Eighteen." That just happens to be a quarter mile!

Another regular couple are the Bret Rileys. Both are avid swimmers in the summer at their lakeside home, but they are delighted to be able to swim year round. "It's a tremendous asset to the community," Cyg Riley comments.

Ruth MacDonald comments, "I think it is wonderful to have the pool. It is helping my arthritis."

"Let me tell you my story," chimes in Alice Walker. Confined in 1969 completely to a wheelchair because of arthritis,

Mrs. Walker is now able to walk much of the time using a cane. To what does she attribute this fantastic change? Swimming! Five years ago she lost the feeling in her legs and was first thought to have multiple sclerosis, however, this was not true. A downstate doctor put her on a swimming regimen. In three years she went from not being able to move enough to swim to swimming 15 laps at a time. She also lost 55 pounds and regained her ability to walk. "It is a God send!" she says as she tells about her daughter crying after not seeing her mother for three years and realizing she really was walking.

Alice's mother and husband also swim with her. Her husband had a massive heart attack in March, 1987, and his doctor has already allowed him to resume swimming.

"I want to encourage others to say, 'I can, instead of I can't,' and come to use the pool," says Mrs. Walker.

John Hodge, Fran Lillie, Louise Hart, William Lynch, Florence Stucker, Pauline Arnot, and the Rev. Arthur Mulka are more who add their voice of praise for the many benefits of swimming for those in the more mature years. Certainly if smiles and happy chatter indicate its value, this group is getting the most for their money.

Many of the senior citizens expressed their profound thanks to the Malpass Foundation for donating the pool to the school and community. They are pleased to have a pool available in East Jordan, as many of them had driven two or three times a week to Petoskey to swim for fun and for therapeutic reasons.

A Limited Movement class has been organized to aid arthritis sufferers and others with physical handicaps with learning in the water and utilizing its benefits.

If you feel down in the dumps about 10:00 on a Tuesday or Thursday, just stop by the pool in East Jordan. The cheerfulness and optimism emanating from the people who swim there are bound to change your day...or even your life!

kind, is because of barometric pressure. The low pressure causes body changes that make brain tissue get squeezed. This makes the criminally inclined, especially those who have physical problems that make them sensitive to weather changes, do anti-social things like bash and shoot people and take things that don't belong to them and riot in the streets.

Out of these findings, came Lab and Hershel's plan for domed, climate-controlled cities. They feel that lovely weather will make more loving criminals even if they do have physical problems and a mean streak to boot.

The domes might make criminals less nasty, although I doubt it. But for sure, one over my head would make me miserable. I'd resent having my world tidied up for me. I'm used to bad weather and I've learned to live with it.

Besides, having continuously nice weather would be hard to live up to. Good weather makes me feel like I should do big things, which makes me tired just thinking about.

And the sameness of good weather for people who are used to constantly changing weather, like Michiganians, would be hard to get used to. In fact, I'll bet it would be a serious threat to our mental health.

And then there's the question of what we'd talk about while standing in line at the store or bank. Nice weather's not nearly as good a topic as the lousy stuff for standing-in-line conversations.

Granted, controlled weather would get rid of a lot of sickness.

Ware-withal

So maybe little sections of cities could be domed with empty furnished houses stocked with food inside them so carefully screened people-no criminals-who are feeling low or on the verge of it could go and stay until they feel better.

And if many experts agree that domes would cut down on crime, then build them for criminals affected by bad weather and all the others too for that matter. But for those of us who wear bad weather like a badge of courage, let us stay undomed so we can feel the snow and rain and follow the rainbows that come along after.

recently at Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant. The day of activities, sponsored by the Mid-State and Northern Michigan Project Graduation Task Force, provided activities to help student groups share information and plan alcohol and drug prevention activities for the Spring Prom and Graduation Season. Participants from East Jordan High School were Jill Burt, Sara Chase, Julie Clausen, Lori Healey, Dia Jones, Adrian Maule, Christine Umlor, and Advisor Mr. Sheridan.

Spring, with its prom and graduation activities, has become a predictable time for efforts to prevent drinking and driving and other drug problems by young people. Schools, students' organizations, community groups, law enforcement, and substance abuse agencies work actively to reduce teen drinking and driving problems. Many of these groups join forces under the Project Graduation banner to help high school students in all grades to graduate free from problems associated with drinking or other drug use. The Project Graduation movement has been growing rapidly in central and northern Michigan since workshops in spring of 1986.

Students attending the conference participated in workshop sessions on topics such as: Caring Confrontations, Starting and Maintaining Student Groups, The Impact of Advertising on Attitudes, Assertiveness Skills, and Positive Life Styles.

S.A.D.D. workshop

A primary goal of Project Graduation workshops is to encourage student-to-student support for those who are taking positive action to avoid problems with alcohol and other drugs. A particular emphasis of the spring workshop is to help prevent alcohol and other drug problems during the prom and graduation season.

"We find that information about alcohol and other drug problems is not enough to bring about change in behavior," stated Sam Cornelius, Task Force member. "Many people are well informed, but still fail to act appropriately. Project Graduation and related activities help students go beyond talk to take action to protect themselves and their friends."

The Task Force Steering Committee is made up of representatives of student organizations, WCMU Public Television, Northern Michigan Substance Abuse Services, and the Mid-State Substance Abuse Coordinating Agency. Anyone interested in more information on Project Graduation may contact the Task Force Steering Committee through Sam Cornelius, Northern Michigan Substance Abuse Services, Gaylord, Michigan, (517)732-1791.

Head Start recruitment set for April 27 Apr. 27

The Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency, Inc., is announcing the recruitment activities for the Boyne City Head Start Program.

Head Start is a comprehensive, interdisciplinary preschool program primarily for children three to five years of age whose families are economically disadvantaged.

The basic goal of the program is to foster development, remedy problems and improve the social competence of young children. Social competence is the child's effectiveness in dealing with both the present environment and later responsibilities in school and life. It takes into account the inter-relatedness of cognitive and intellectual development, physical and emotional health and well-being, nutritional needs and other necessary factors. Teachers, community professionals, support staff and parents (whose participation is extremely important) work together to accomplish this goal. Through the involvement of parents, the program aims at enhancing the parent(s) role as the prime educator of their children. The program is carried out through center based activities.

To qualify for Head Start, gross annual household income must be within the Federal Income Poverty Guidelines listed below:

Household Size	Gross Income
1	$5,500
2	$7,400
3	$9,300
4	$11,200
5	$13,100
6	$15,000
7	$16,900
8	$18,800

For each additional family member add $1,900.

While this is an income-eligible program, families whose income exceeds these guidelines may still qualify if their child has a special need documented by a professional (doctor, psychologist, social worker) who makes a referral to the program. Ten percent of the enrolled families are over the income guidelines.

Boyne City enrollment date for Head Start is Monday, April 27, 1987 from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, Park Street, Boyne City, Mich.

Mrs. Brad Jones to chair EJ bike-a-thon

The Central Regional Office of St. Jude Children's Hospital announced today that Mrs. Brad Jones has agreed to chair the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-a-Thon in East Jordan.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases which afflict our children. St. Jude Hospital is non-sectarian, non-discriminatory, and provides total medical care to over 4,200 patients.

At St. Jude, scientists and physicians are working side by side seeking not only a better means of treatment, but also the causes, cures and prevention of these terrible killers.

We sincerely appreciate the concern that Mrs. Brad Jones has for our work and we hope the citizens of East Jordan will support the Bike-a-Thon this spring to help provide the funds that are needed to preserve the world's greatest asset... "Our Children."

Elmer Crain explains something new in the well drilling business to Dick and Noreen Selissen while they attended the annual Home Show in Petoskey. Many of the contractors work out of Boyne City and were showing their wares at the show. Over 3,000 people attended the affair.
