Planners busy with building season start-ups

Boyne City planners found themselves with a full schedule of site plan reviews as the building season gets underway around town.

Coming in for approvals

News Briefs

Cheese, butter, rice and flour are on the list for this month's commodity food distribution in Charlevoix County next Wednesday, April 29th. The food will be given out at the Community Service Center in Boyne City, the Civic Center in East Jordan, and the V.F.W. Hall in Charlevoix. The hours of the program show the start at 10 a.m. and will last until 2 p.m. or until the food is distributed. For further information, call 347-9080.

The first annual All Spring Fair will be held in the Boyne City High School gymnasium on Tuesday, April 28, from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. and on Wednesday from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. Student work from many classes will be on display and students will be performing in a variety of activities. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Senator Mitch Irwin made an announcement of a historical grove of trees being planted at the Mackinac Bridge. The trees, ranging from trees from George Washington to Jefferson, provided the seedlings for the park.

Mushrooms seem to be popping up all over the area as many people are making the trip out to the woods to look for them. Even the DNR says that if we get some rain in the next few days, the season will be upon us.

A recent meeting of the U.S. 131 lobbying group decided to try to concentrate on the completion of the expressway from Niles down to the state line before trying to influence the state highway folks into building the road further up north.

were Parkview Apartments, Lakeview Trailer Park, Burns Medical Clinic and Allied-Bendix Aerospace. Also on the list were the rezoning of land for Burns and Parkview.

The land to be rezoned for Burns Clinic is the parking lot that is owned by Northwestern

State Bank located at the corner of Park and State Streets. The bank is selling the land to Burns Clinic so they can build a new facility for the doctors working at the clinic serving Boyne City residents.

The land had been recommended for rezoning by the planners at their meeting last month, but was turned back to them by the City Commission after some new information was presented. The planners reviewed the new information and still recommended the change to the commissioners.

The rezoning for Parkview Apartments was caused when the apartment complex received permission to build another 32 units. The additional units desired for the project put the density factor of the land involved beyond the requirements for the present zoning of Planned Residential District. Scott Dietze, representing the firm that is the owner and developer of the project, asked to have the land rezoned from the PRD classification to R-3 which would allow more apartments to be built on the ten acre site.

The planners had a long discussion about the rezoning considering whether to rezone a portion of the parcel, the whole parcel, or changing the density factor of the PRD.

The issue was brought to the planners after Dietze had tried to get a variance from the Zoning Board of Appeals but was turned down because the ZBA did not have the authority to grant the change.

After much discussion, the planners agreed to rezone the entire ten acres to allow the developer to build additional units.

After clearing up the rezoning matters, the planners then tackled the site plan requests.

Starting with the Parkview complex, Dietze told the planners the 32 additional units would be built behind the present 32 units and would utilize the same type of building so the new additional would tie in with the present. The planners then gave their approval.

Lakeview Trailer Park brought in a site plan for the expansion of the park, wanting to add six more sites along the area of Park Street. The area is presently used as a storage area. Doug Altschwager, the owner of the park, appeared before the planners to explain what changes he was intending to make in order to expand the park by another six locations. After planners asked if the park would still be able to meet the zoning and state requirements, planners gave their approval.

Burns Medical Clinic showed the site plans and the renderings of what their building would look like if the site plan was approved by the planners.

The plan shown indicates a front door located on the back of the building that will be used as the main entrance. That door would be facing the alley between Park Street and Front Street.

The way the building was designed, according to Robert Crum, assistant administrator of the clinic, was for the ease of patients coming to the satellite to be dropped off by car and then able to come into the building away from traffic.

The site drawings drew some concern from Charles Kessler, a neighbor to the project. While he thought the plan was excellent, he wondered if the building could be sited differently so the front of the building would face the street.

He was told the reasons for the front door being off the road, but he still thought the building should be changed. The builders said a compromise could be worked out and the planners then gave their approval. The compromise, which was decided upon Tuesday, would be the addition of a doorway along Park Street that would give the building more of a home appearance. The building will also be moved back about 14 feet from the lot line to give more grass areas as the building is going to be a buffer between commercial and residential zoning.

The last matter to come in front of the planners was a request of Allied-Bendix Aerospace with an addendum to their original site plan. They wanted to get permission to install a CO-2 tank on the east side of their Reliability Test Building on the east side of North Lake Street. The building is located at the corner of Vogel and North Lake. That approval was readily given.

In other action, the planning board tabled several actions they had intended to start work upon, including the final wording for a new Bed and Breakfast Ordinance, a discussion of a noise ordinance the city commission had asked the planners to provide some input on, and a discussion of an Industrial Facilities Exem-

Hunting for Easter eggs were about 100 children of Boyne City at the annual Lions Club Easter Egg Hunt. These preschoolers quickly learned the value of an egg as they searched the Veterans Memorial Park last Sunday. Winners included Melissa Hubble for the 11-12 year olds, Grant Weber for the 9-10 year olds, Lorie Gabel for the 7-8 year olds, Sarah Vargas for the 5-6 year olds and Lora Granger for the preschoolers. The most eggs picked up were 101 by Hubble.

BF looks at more candidates

Boyne Falls School Board decided to look at additional candidates for the schools' superintendent's position after a short executive session Monday night during the monthly school board meeting.

The session was called because some of the applicants they had interviewed declined the position due to other offers. The school board will continue the interview process next week after they arrange times to interview two additional candidates from the three that were interviewed last week.

According to board president Jim Churchill, the board still hopes to be able to make a decision on a new superintendent by the second week of May.

The board is looking for a new superintendent because of the resignation of Bob Redmond, who had served the board for almost three years. Redmond took a position as a superintendent at a larger school system downstate.

While deciding to look at other candidates, the board quickly worked their way through a light agenda covering the usual monthly reports.

In quick order they heard the

BC again tables rezoning

Boyne City Commissioners again had to table the rezoning request recommended by the planning board after finding out they did not have a quorum to make the change after Commissioner Bill Grimm filed an abstention to the vote as he is a stockholder of Northwestern

State Bank which is trying to sell the property.

The rezoning would have allowed the Burns Clinic to begin building a new facility on property at the corner of Park and State Streets. Currently, the lots involved hold a parking lot for the bank.

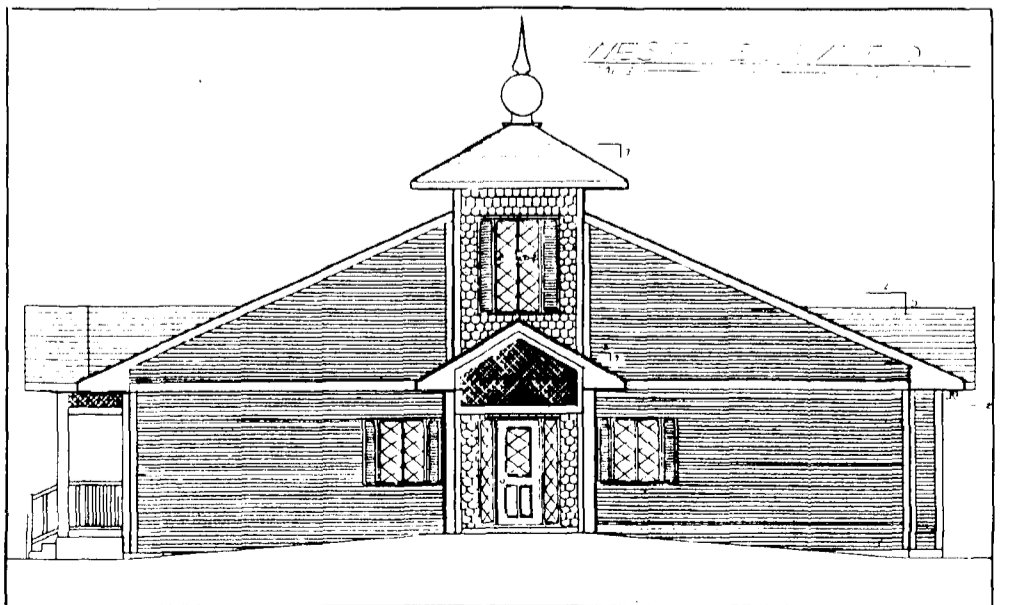

With two commissioners absent, the vote would not count, according to City Manager Randy Frykberg. The matter was delayed until next week when more commissioners would be present at the noon meeting.

In other action, the city approved the transferring of $99,250 from this year's budget into next year's budget. The money came from additional tax money the city did not anticipate and by law, they had to transfer the money into next year's budget.

City commissioners also approved the millage rate for the city of 19.25 mills. That is broken down into 15.75 mills for operating funds, 3 mills voted for infrastructure improvements and .5 mills for debt service.

BACPAC to hear local speaker

The Boyne Area Community's Parents for Alternative Choices (BACPAC) for Drug Free Youth, invite all persons concerned about the increasing use of drugs among our young people to attend an informative meeting Thursday, April 23, 1987, from 7:00 to 8:00 p.m. in the Boyne City Hall Community room. Your participation and membership in this group can and is helping to provide a safer environment for our children. Tim Arner, Attorney, will be the program's guest speaker.

This view of the back entrance, which is the front of the proposed Burns Clinic, shows what the building will look like after it is constructed at the corner of Park and State Streets. The building will start after the city approves the rezoning of the land.

Cooking

SALADS

Our modern American cuisine consists of all the different ethnic foods and where is it better expressed than in our variety of salads? We mix all of those wonderful foods together to make beautiful and delicious salads that Grandmother would never have dreamed of.

There is no end to the ideas using our fresh, frozen, canned vegetables and fruit. I believe that one reason for this is the availability of those tasty and tantalizing salad dressings on our market shelves.

Grandma made apple salad and coleslaw. She served her garden fresh vegetables though she did not mix them together as we do. She had her sliced tomatoes on the table while they were in season, then leaf lettuce served with a dressing or vinegar, a little sugar, salt and pepper. There was always a cruet of vinegar on the table. I hunger now for that old time flavor of fresh cucumbers the way Mother prepared them. She peeled and sliced them with about an equal amount of onions, soaked them a few hours in salt water, then she drained them and added vinegar salt and pepper.

Vegetables were cooked separately (always cooked—never raw) and served in sauce dishes with a little cream or milk and butter. Sometimes Grandmother made a white sauce for the vegetables. In the winter she had to depend on chili sauce, chow chow, corn-relish, pickles and canned fruits to add that something extra to the meal.

Many salads are made now as the entree for delicious meals. How about those delicious taco and pasta salads: a real potpourri of vegetables, sea food, rice, all types of pasta, olives and dressings. I find that our younger generation loves our new salad mixtures. Here is a nourishing salad with a taste of Spring.

SUNFLOWER AND PASTA SALAD

4 oz. bow tie or shell pasta, cooked and drained
1 cup cherry tomatoes, halved (about 8)
1/4 cup black olives
1/2 medium cucumber, halved, thinly sliced
4 radishes, thinly sliced
1/4 cup roasted sunflower seeds
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons sunflower oil
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
Dash of pepper
Sunflower seeds

In a bowl combine the cooked and drained pasta, cherry tomatoes, black olives, cucumbers, radishes and sunflower seeds.

For the dressing: In a screw-top jar, combine the lemon juice, sunflower oil, garlic salt and pepper. Cover and shake well. Pour over the pasta mixture; toss lightly to coat all the ingredients. Chill for several hours or overnight, stirring occasionally. If desired serve in a lettuce lined bowl, and sprinkle with additional sunflower seeds.

Makes 6 side-dish servings.

This next one is really a salad sandwich: a cheesy hearty lunch or supper sandwich.

CALIFORNIA SALAD SANDWICH

6 whole wheat bread slices
1 1/2 cups alfalfa sprouts
6 turkey slices
6 boiled ham slices
Peeled avocado slices
1-8 oz. jar Cheez Whiz

For each sandwich, top one bread slice with sprouts, turkey, ham and avocado. Microwave process cheese spread according to label directions. Pour over sandwiches.

BROCCOLI SALAD

1 large bunch broccoli flowerettes (separate into small pieces, wash and drain well but do not cook.)

1 cup raisins
1/2 cup sunflower seeds
1/2 lb. bacon cooked and chopped
1 small onion, diced fine

Place the above in layers in salad bowl with broccoli the top layer.

Dressing:
1 cup real mayonnaise
1/3 cup sugar
2 tablespoons vinegar
Beat well and pour over salad. Chill and serve.

A finger salad is something you can quickly prepare for one or more, or you could have fun with them at your next bridge luncheon.

FINGER SALADS

You must use a rigid leaf as the base.

Chinese cabbage is nice since it is long and canoe shaped. So are the colorful leaves of red cabbage.

On the leaf, put a thin slice of Swiss or Provolone cheese, a few slices zucchini or pieces of carrots cooked crisp tender.

Add a sprinkle of sieved hard-boiled eggs and a spoonful of thick bottled dressing.

Fold leaf over contents, secure with a tooth pick and top with a slice of tomato, an olive or cherry tomato. A fun recipe.

Jottings

BY JIMSILBAR

"It was a hard trip," this little snowbird told me. "We had bad weather all the way here until we hit the Michigan border and then we found some of the best weather we have seen since leaving the south."

I asked where in the south he had come from as I always thought the weather down there was great. Why else would so many of our locals leave this snow country every fall and return only for the great summers we can get.

"Well," he said, "every year we fly down to where the sun is supposed to shine all the time, where the balmy breezes caress your feathers gently, and where they speak a foreign language."

Again I asked where that was. He said it was south of Cuba. "How far?" I asked, thinking about my vacation trip.

He said it was about eight to ten hours as the crow flies, but he also added that not many crows from up here make the trip. "We see crows, but mostly we see another bird that is part of the vulture family," he added.

It was funny, I thought. One snowbird was talking about another breed as if he were the wrong religion or something. I wondered if he was talking about the way the locals try to initiate the tourists as they arrive for the winter.

I could imagine... "What's the matter, the snow get so deep you had to come down earlier than last year? Why we can't even drive anymore because of so many of you guys flying in from up north," someone might say.

Sounds a little like our locals around here in the summer. "We can't drive up here because so many fudgies are taking up the roads and the parkin' spaces."

But as I reflected on all of that, the old bird said he was tired from having to beat his wings all over town looking for all the changes that had been made through the winter and early spring.

"I have to make the trip around town just to catch up with the news," he said, "and I just got back from a long flight to get up here."

Then he proceeded to tell me about his flight. "We left when it started to get cold. It took a long time just to get up to Cuba. Didn't need any flight clearance to get over it, though, we just flew real high. When you looked down, you could just make out the farmlands and the jungles."

"Lordy," he continued, "I should say I don't like flying over all that water. Seemed to take a long time just to reach the Keys."

"Then we really started to hit cold weather. I thought we had made a mistake and left the country too soon."

"It seemed to be snowing where normally, at this time of the year, you might have hit a little rain if your luck was bad. Evidently ours was."

"Yep, we didn't find any good weather until we hit Michigan just north of Toledo."

After he told me all of this, I wondered where he was going to live this year as his condo was cleaned out by the new owners.

He didn't seem too worried, though, as he picked up a piece of string I had cut off the bundle of string I was wrapping and tying up for the brush and leaf pick-up day. He just grabbed the small piece of string, spread his wings and headed for the trees so he could build another home.

The purpose of this is to say, welcome back, all of you southern folks who live and vote in this area.

BY GAIL WARE

Aside from its other drawbacks, which are numerous enough heaven knows, an awful lot of housekeeping is a crashing bore. And when you think about it, about all the hours spent in doing it, you figure that they probably add up to years of tedium. So for mental health's sake, it makes good sense not to think about it at all.

Instead, while the hands and assorted other body parts are involved in monotonous routine, the mind should go elsewhere, not to wander aimlessly, but to follow selected, thought-provoking paths.

Newspapers and TV newscasts provide plenty of worthwhile material to think about while folding underwear or taking out the trash or whatever.

Best not pick headline news stories, though, because their stuff is mostly bad news and adds a layer of depression on top of the tedium. Housework calls for cheerful or at least neutral food for thought.

Pick something like the news that 'home' work is popular these days. More and more Americans are setting up offices in their houses. Assuming that you can find some excuse to have a home office, the idea leads you to thinking about how to tastefully decorate it.

This connects your thoughts to another bit of news. Light green is the preferred color this year for home decorating. A Chicago designer explains that the reason for its popularity stems from the fact that many people are stressed out these days. And they find the light green calming and refreshing.

This leads to the recollection that 40 years ago, right after World War II, pale green also surged in popularity. All across the land, living rooms turned green almost overnight—probably for the same reason. But people then didn't analyze the why of it. Introspection and analysis weren't big in those days except in Hollywood. Movie stars indulged in a lot of expensive stuff like getting analyzed and buying mink or sable coats to wear at barbecue parties. Some still buy them but not so many as in the good old days.

Remembrances

The crew from the Shingle Factory, a division of the White Lumber Company, took time out to pose for this picture back about 1900. Shingles were split from cedar and were stacked to dry according to a master plan as they were varying widths. The shingles can be seen behind the crew.

Marshall Sayles

Everyone talks about the weather but no one does anything about it. I've heard that all my life and I'm about to prove the old wives' tale to be wrong. Wrong, I say.

So drop your knife and fork and listen. You could be tickled pink. In fact, it may be your only opportunity to be pink tickled for the balance of the week.

No place compares with spring in northern Michigan. It doesn't require a head full of wisdom to know this. The truth appears the moment you step outside and mingle with the flush and bloom of our glorious sun and scented breeze.

The weather in our country during the prime of the year is enough to make you sick. The illness is called "spring fever". It plays hob with your desire to take a hoe and rake into the yard to eliminate the scars of winter.

You want to be active, but the on-rush of spring air filters through your lungs urging you to take it easy and enjoy this childhood feeling. It doesn't last long, so why not let the spurt of fresh ozone have its way with you?

Fall idle, fall lazy, fall listless until the fever is driven off to the dark caverns of Chandler Hill with the first hint of summer's heat.

But hold everything. There's something amiss. Gah, how I hate something amiss.

After I had written the above the weatherman stuck his head on the screen to warn us of the possibility of rain and snow in the offing. I was greatly startled to learn this; and it is my hope that in the future someone will climb over the fence and inform me when I am liable to be greatly startled. The bad news came when I was experiencing fewer goose pimples and with much less despondency in my system.

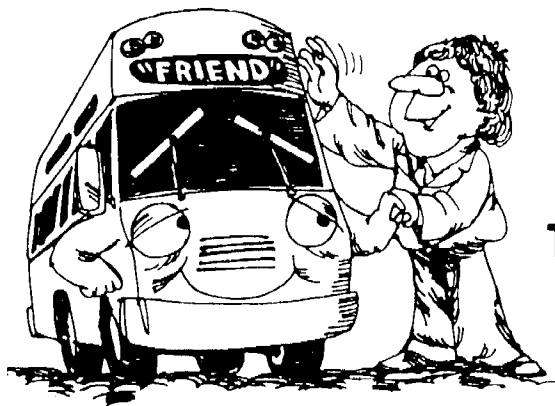

I said that no place compares with spring in northern Michigan. I said it when I meant it. But when you get right down to the gut part of our weather, you can't bet your bottom dollar on its behavior. Nor your top dollar if you happen to have one.

To tell the truth, when our spring weather is good, it is very, very good; but when it's bad, it's ugly. It is not necessary to let this information go any further.

Heavens, how it upsets me when I realize that I am living in an area where the only thing I can really depend upon is my good looks.

EJ Banquet honors Bill Malpass as Father of the Year

BY ELOUISE ROSSLER
The annual Father-Son Banquet sponsored by the East Jordan Rotary Club was held for an overflowing crowd April 11 in the East Jordan High School cafeteria. After a meal fit for the kings and princes in attendance, President Jack Vincent asked Jim Lereel and his son to give the annual toast to all fathers and sons present.

was the presentation of the Father of the Year Award to William E. Malpass of East Jordan. Mr. Malpass has lived his life in East Jordan, raised his family here and still works daily at the East Jordan Iron Works. His two sons and their families and one of his daughters and her family were in attendance (with his wife, daughter, and daughters-in-law helping serve the meal). Norm Bartlett received congratulations on being the oldest father present and he tied with Cal Diller for having the most sons present (four each). The grandfather with the most grandsons present was Frank Steinhoff. The evening's entertainment was provided by Bob Bloenk, a one man show of comedy and music with audience participation. His program was designed to please all ages. Mr.

Bloenk of Bay City does about fifty shows of this type per year, varying his program to fit the group. Having been in the entertainment business all his life as a hobby, he is an educator. Running through his program of songs from each decade was a comic message regarding the mood of the decade and the impact of its music on our culture. The "youngsters" of all ages got a chance to show their horsemanship in the annual Kentucky Derby Race. The race was run by Tad Malpass, who is the third generation of his family to do this. His grandfather built the small, wooden wheeled horses and started the races. After his death, Bruce Malpass took over the job of running the races. With the death of his father Bruce last fall, Tad was tapped to do the races this year. Harry Watson assisted by announcing the events.

Everyone who participated received a "prize" and the first three of each "heat" got an additional prize. The small horses seemed to have their own way of making riders spill, much to the amusement of the audience. The meal was prepared by school kitchen staff Arlene Hammond and Eleanor Chanda and served by Rotary Anns, daughters and friends of Rotary Anns.

EVA KOTESKEY

Eva Kotesky, 91, Horton Bay native, died April 13, 1987, at Petoskey Geriatric Village. Funeral was Thursday, April 16, at the Horton Bay United Methodist Church. The Rev. Craig Adams and the Rev. Harold Kotesky officiated. Burial was in Maple Lawn Cemetery, Boyne City. Mrs. Kotesky was born July 14, 1895, at Horton Bay, the daughter of Hartley and Ida (Gaumer) White. She attended school at Horton Bay and for a short time was employed as a cook at Petoskey High School. She married Edward Kotesky on Nov. 28, 1919, at Horton Bay. The couple always resided in the area. Mrs. Kotesky was a member of the Horton Bay United Methodist Church. She is survived by her husband; one son, Gordon Kotesky of Horton Bay; five grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; two great-great-grandchildren; one sister, Flossie Dyer of Petoskey; several nieces and nephews. The family suggests memorials to the Horton Bay United Methodist Church. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Stone Funeral Home, Petoskey.

Another news item that might hook up to these thoughts deals with the current toll for entertaining. A recent survey revealed that the average cost of entertaining guests at home came to $75 per party. The figure included the price of food, drink and flowers. No figures were given as to the average number of guests nor the kind of food, drinks or flowers. But no matter what the breakdown, $75 seems frightfully high for one shot of hospitality. More frightening than the expense involved, though, was the average preparation time for the event: 8 1/2 hours. Such enthusiasm for hostessing is impressive, or excessive, depending on your point of view. In any case, this news does give you pause, make you look before you leap into inviting a few friends over for the evening. These few examples illustrate how the mind can improve the hours while the body tends to housekeeping. It can't change the tasks but it can tune out the tedium, some of it anyway. And it's cheaper than hiring a maid.

preliminary budget figures of $991,955 for the 1987-88 school year. The amount is slightly higher than the 1986-87 budgeted figure of $931,425.

Board member Bill Cousineau told the members the amount being budgeted would still leave the system with a $14,000 deficit. Original projections had the deficit considerably higher but the school system learned this past week the district would be getting a 4.23 percent increase in state equalized value.

The SEV is based upon the amount of worth of homes, lands and businesses within the school district.

The deficit would be covered by taking some of the fund equity the system has built up over the years.

Board members also agreed on the resolution for the annual election which would cover the election of new board members as well as the renewal of 21.3 mills per year for three years to pay for the schools' operation.

Board members then okayed the second reading of five policy changes. Those changes cover items such as what the school would do about a communicable disease to what it will do when confronted with a child abuse and neglect case. All of the new policies are available for review at the school office.

Postponed was the policy the school is trying to revise that would concern corporal punishment. That was tabled until the next meeting.

The board then heard an ap-date from principal Mike Wallace covering the graduation, upcoming events, senior trip and the prom date.

Wallace told board members he was a little worried about the upcoming kindergarten class. He told the board 32 students were interviewed at the annual kindergarten round-up and he said the school has traditionally had more students show up on the first day of classes. He intends to work with the curriculum committee to decide what they will do if more students, Wallace projected Wallace also told the board the school system has been given two donations. One from the Charlevoix based W.A.T.C.H. environmental group for an essay written by a Boyne Falls student. The second gift, from the Hudson Township Auxiliary, was in the amount of $600 and was earmarked by them to be spent on playground equipment. This was the second year the group has given money to the school system.

PRESENTING OUR BOWLERS OF THE WEEK FROM BOYNE CITY LANES

MICKEY PUROLL

RAY STOLT

It's never too late in the season to shoot the lights and that's exactly what Mickey Puroll did in the Thursday Night Women's League. Bowling for Puroll Logging, Mickey (The Rocket) started out with a 237 first game, on her way to a fine 537 series. Sporting a 130 average, Mickey ended up 147 pins over for the night. Her 237 game was 107 pins over her per game average, which will entitle her to receive the Century award from the Woman's International Bowling Congress. Way to go, Rocket Arm!!

In one of the largest over average series of the season, Ray Stolt fired his first 600 ever, a super 625 set. What's so super about it is that Ray's average is 149, which adds up to 178 pins over for his effort. Ray's games were 223-166-236. Ray was a little disappointed in his middle game of 166, saying that his series would have been more had it been higher. But the fact is, no matter how you got it, it still is a great night of bowling!

Devils split with Jo-burg in opener

BY DENNIS SKROCKI

With new skipper Bob Panoff at the helm for the 1987 season, the East Jordan varsity baseball team is expected to be a top contender in the Ski Valley Conference despite rough performances in their first two outings.

countered with an offensive attack that produced three runs on three hits.

After holding the Devils scoreless in the top of the fourth, JoBurg put the game out of reach by scoring five runs to take a commanding 11-4 lead which also turned out to be the final score.

Greg Kitson took the pitching loss for E.J. as Tim Moll collected the victory for the Cardinals.

behind two hit pitching of southpaw Scott Bartig, capture a 7-2 victory.

Bartig struck out a total of 10 batters in the contest but allowed runs to cross the plate on first and fourth inning solo home runs.

The Devils scored two runs in the second and fourth innings and three in the fifth enroute to the victory.

Junior outfielder Glen Stevens stole the show offensively by connecting on two and three run homers in the third and fifth innings respectively.

Collecting hits over the course of the doubleheader were Stevens with two home runs and Weidler, Bartlett, Skrocki, and Hribljan with a single each.

On the base paths Bartlett obtained three stolen bases with Weidler and Skrocki getting two apiece and Ted Sherman and Bartig each adding one.

The smelt dippers were busy on Porter Creek last week as the smelt marked the beginning of spring, and is still continuing, possibly through this weekend.

On Wednesday at JoBurg the Devils wasted no time putting runs in the book. Dennis Skrocki led off the game with a single and was followed by John Hribljan who reached first base on a walk.

Although no other Devil reached base during the inning, a combination of stolen bases and errant pitching allowed both to score before the side was retired.

Taking the field for the first time, the Red Devils showed signs of first game jitters as they committed five errors allowing the Cardinals three runs on no hits.

After both sides went down in order in the second inning, Curtis "The Wild Man" Weidler got things rolling for the Devils in the third as he took a fastball to centerfield for a base hit. He was moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Skrocki. Moments later Hribljan collected another walk, setting the stage for Jamie Bartlett who promptly doubled off the right field fence knocking both runners home and giving E.J. a one run edge.

Late in the track meet, Boyne City experienced a real morale booster in the form of Pat Balgenorth, who while running the 330 yard hurdles, tripped twice over the hurdles, the second time grazing his arms and legs and in spite of the pain he got up and in the last hundred yards he passed several opponents, unfortunately he was not within placing range.

Boyne defeated by Petoskey and Cheboygan

BY SCOTT KNIPE

Last Wednesday, Boyne City was soundly defeated by hosts Petoskey and Cheboygan. For the boys, Petoskey took top honors while Cheboygan placed second and Boyne finished last. For the girls, Cheboygan narrowly beat out Petoskey while Boyne trailed behind.

Despite an overall poor showing, members of Boyne City's track team went away with a feeling of triumph after personally placing themselves in their events.

East Jordan baseballers lose to Charlevoix 4-3

After splitting games with Johannesburg-Lewiston on the previous day, the East Jordan baseball squad couldn't muster up the needed offense to produce a win against a tough Charlevoix club.

The Red Devils drew first blood in the top of the second inning when Steve Dionne led things off with a blast that easily cleared the centerfield fence.

The score remained 1-0 until the fourth inning when three Devil errors allowed two unearned runs to cross the plate. The Rayders also collected two runs in the fifth to take a 4-1 lead into the final two innings.

E.J. got two back in the top part of the sixth as Jamie Bartlett led off with a single that was immediately followed by a Dionne walk. Both received a stolen base before being knocked home on a Scott Bartig single.

The Devils were unable to put the tying run across the plate in the seventh and thus bowed by the final score of 4-3.

Red Devil hurler Matt Bishop held the Rayders to only one hit while striking out six but seven fielding errors seemed to be the downfall.

The Devil offensive attack consisted of singles by Bartig,

Lady Devils softballers sweep Charlevoix 13-12

BY DENNIS SKROCKI

After dropping both ends of a doubleheader to JoBurg on Wednesday, the East Jordan girls' softball team succeeded in raising their record to 2-2 with a doubleheader sweep of Charlevoix on Thursday.

After trailing by as many as seven runs at one point in the first game, the Devilettes cut it to five, 12-7, at the end of the sixth inning.

A seventh inning rally capped by a Jill Burt grand slam home run gave E.J. the victory, 13-12.

Jeanne Healey took the victory for the Devils tossing an eight-hitter while giving up only four walks.

Leading the 16 hit East Jordan offensive attack was Burt with three, Healey (2), Kris Burt (2), Brenda Drenth (2), Jari Chanda (2), Billie Jo Crawford (2), Nikki Burr (1) and Shelly Malpass (1).

Game two was played in much the same fashion. After once again trailing by seven runs, the lady Devils came back to capture a 13-11 victory.

Healey also received the pitching win in the second game as she came on in relief of Burt, who started the contest, in the second inning. Burt got into trouble early walking eleven Rayder batters as Healey came in and gave up one the rest of the way.

Collecting hits in the nightcap were Drenth, Burr, and Angie Zoulek with singles and Kris Burt with two doubles.

This week the Devils will travel to Elk Rapids on Wednesday before hosting Mancelona on Thursday.

But what about the prices of the items chosen for the bridal registry? How much should they play into the decision of what to choose for the registry?

Price is a factor but they should choose something they really like and keep their choice in the moderate price range.

One of the things brides-to-be should keep in mind when choosing where to register is service. Some stores offer free gift wrapping and free gift delivery to the bride's home.

Do it yourself or have help?

Wedding receptions can be memorable and unique. The first thing to do is sit down and decide what you want, according to professional planners.

An important decision is whether to do-it-yourself, or enlist help.

If you decide to do it yourself you could visit a retail store which has a wedding department, and look for table skirting which is already gathered.

If you can't spend a lot of money, try to concentrate your decorations in one area for impact. For example, you could decorate the bride and groom's table so that it catches the eye immediately.

Because the reception is actually the bride's and groom's first party, they should make it as warm and welcome as they would if the guests were walking into the couple's home.

Note the color of the main hall and capitalize on it. If it's ivory, use an ivory color theme and find out which caterers will supply matching accessories.

Gazebos and arches can be used for unique outdoor weddings and receptions. A gazebo was used by a bride who wanted a wedding on a hill, under her favorite tree. Large tents and chairs are also available for the increasingly popular outdoor receptions.

In another wedding along the lakeshore, the bride arrived in a horse-drawn carriage.

In planning the reception, the couple should determine how many guests are likely to attend. They should also decide whether to use plain or printed napkins according to their budget.

A good idea is using a dinner table with a circular front for the bride and groom, which emphasizes the importance of the newlyweds. Use new and creative ideas in planning your wedding reception.

Of course we want your picture— and your wedding news, too

Want to tell your home town the good news about your wedding? We have wedding forms available for brides which make getting your wedding article into the paper easy!

The wedding forms provide a guide for information needed for placement of wedding articles in the newspaper. Additional information which brides and grooms may want included in the article can be placed on the back of the form provided. It is preferable for the form and picture to be turned in at the newspaper office the Monday prior to the publication, in order for it to appear in the paper that week.

A black and white glossy picture is preferred for they reproduce the best in the newspaper.

There is no charge to have the wedding article and picture placed in the Charlevoix County Press.

Select your flowers for meaning

How can a bride select flowers that will give the perfect look for her wedding?

-What is your budget? The florist can tell you which flowers will be in-season and therefore less expensive at the time of your wedding.

Besides the bride's bouquet, you'll need bouquets for your honor attendant and bridesmaids, boutonnieres for all the men, corsages for both mothers, and flowers to decorate the ceremony and reception sites.

-What flowers have special meaning for you? Does your fiance always bring you daisies? Is the softness of rose petals your idea of the height of romance? You can work these flowers in to your plan.

Since every flower expresses a sentiment, what do you want your wedding blooms to say? Yellow lilies, for example symbolize gaiety; carnations, pure, deep love. The buttercup signifies riches, the hyacinth promises constancy and the arbutus says, "Thee only do I love."
