BC to ask voters for half million issue

Boyne City School District voters will be asked to authorize the school board borrowing a half a million dollars of an estimated $610,000 cost to put a new roof on the high school at the June election after action taken by the board Monday night.

The project, according to the architectural firm and the architect for MJK Architects, Engineers, Planners, Inc., is needed as the roof is leaking in several areas around the school.

It was determined by the architectural firm that fixing the old roof would not be cost effective as the state now requires school roofs to carry a 40 pound rating as far as snowloads are concerned. The cost of repairing the roof to achieve those rates would be almost as much as building a whole new roof over the school.

This is what they recommended Monday night, citing that the repair and upgrade of the existing roof would cause the school to be disrupted in almost every classroom and hallway as the interior components would have to be dismantled, rebuilt and then reassembled.

The architect, Bob Smith, also cited the safety factors in trying to repair the roof the way it would have to be done.

He proposed instead, a new sloped metal roof on all four sides of the building, to be built over the existing roof. Insulation would be added to the new roof to help make the building more energy efficient.

He said his proposal would take the gravel off the roof of the gymnasium, add a four inch layer of styrofoam type insulation and a layer of a single ply membrane. His specifications called for a ten year guaranteed roof for both the metal and the membrane parts.

Smith estimated the cost of the new roof would be about $534,400 for the 73,500 square foot structure.

In the discussion by the board after the presentation, it was determined it would take about 60 to 90 days to do the construction. The architect said the construction could occur when the students are going to classes.

Boyne City hosts Class C talks

Boyne City School Board members heard a preliminary report concerning the possibility of starting a new league for Class C schools after John Hunt asked the board what had happened at an informational C League meeting that was held recently.

Superintendent Rich Kelly told the board and members of the audience that the school district had invited 11 schools to participate in a luncheon to discuss a possible league. Of the 11 asked, seven showed up for the meeting.

Those expressing any interest in a new league discussed and compared school size, transportation costs, and the Boyne City members listened to what the other schools were interested in saying about a new league system.

Upon hearing of the interest, Boyne City is preparing a plan that would include all of the northern Michigan high schools of the C size by competitiveness and within easy traveling distances.

Construction could possibly start by August if voters approve the bonding issue at the June election.

"No matter what else," Board member Thelma Behling said, "we need a new roof on the high school." She added that if the school doesn't get a new roof, there is a possibility the school would have to be closed.

She also said, "I feel the people of the district know we need this roof and I feel it would go (pass)."

The discussion of passage of a bonding issue and how it would be done took two informal polls by Board President Richard May before it came to a formal vote to approve putting the bonding proposal on the June ballot.

Also approved as part of the ballot question was the replacement of the bleachers in the high school gym. Those bleachers have been determined unsafe and have caused problems this past school year with the custodial staff who has to put them out and in.

Cost estimates on repairs for the present bleachers were in the range of $20,000 according to Superintendent Rich Kelly. Board members said that even if they repaired the bleachers, they would still have 20 year old bleachers that could break down the next day. They also wondered about parts availability on the old units.

Some other repairs and improvements are also included on the ballot that would pay for storage building addition to the bus garage and an addition to the building for a new freezer.

In other action the board learned the millage would be rolled back by a factor of .9854 mills. The rollback was caused by the Headlee Amendment which limits the amount of taxes caused by growth of an area. The almost one mill rollback figures out to $54,385.37 in lost taxes to the school system.

Kelly did say though, that the lost tax income caused by the rollback does not include the approximately $29,000 in new construction taxes the district is getting. In effect, it is a gain over the budget Kelly had prepared for the school year.

After learning about the rollback, the board then approved a resolution calling for a Truth In Taxation hearing to be held Tuesday, May 19 at 5:00 p.m.

The hearing is scheduled because the district needs to have the full amount of taxes authorized, gathered in order to make the budget work.

The hearing will allow the school to collect the full 29.9562 maximum millage without a vote of the people. The district is authorized even more millage, but will be collecting less because of the Headlee legislation.

Also approved were the new policies concerning the administration of drugs to students and communicable disease control within the schools.

The board also accepted a letter of retirement from Mrs. Phebe McCary. She is a cook at the high school and has served the board and the students for the last nine years.

Too dry, mushroomers find limited success at hunt

Boyne City's annual National Mushroom Hunt could be called a matter of luck. Lucky for the winners and the carnival folks, and unlucky for about 100 other mushroomers from across the nation that traveled to Boyne City and because of the weather, didn't find very many mushrooms.

But a total of 1,521 mushrooms did get found as the 115 contestants were taken out to a different part of the Chandler Hill forest area on Saturday and Sunday.

Bringing home the most was perennial champion Stan Boris of Charlevoix, who found 129 mushrooms for his total during the three hours of hunting time allowed. Boris had some luck Sunday when the officials stopped the caravan in his forty acre woodcutting area. He said he knew the area like the back of his hand since he has been cutting wood with a DNR permit for the last few months.

Taking second place in the Pro Division was Mark Hall, who had a count of only three mushrooms going into the Sunday final. He found 86 on Sunday.

Third went to another past champion, Irene Mackie. She was competing in the Grand Champion Division for the first time as she had won the Ladies' Resident Division too many times to continue on in that class. Her total

City gathers Hull St. information

Boyne City Commissioners were expected to hear and discuss the extension of water and sewer services to an 180 unit building project that is proposed on Hull Street at the edge of town at their Tuesday night meeting.

The project, which would have the developer pay all costs concerned, would be the first time the city has considered going outside of the community to serve an area.

The water and sewer treatment plants were designed some years ago so that the city could service those areas, but no projects were ever approved.

The last project considered was to install sewer lines along Michigan Avenue and out into Evangeline Township but the residents of that area turned the project down because of the costs involved.

for the two days was 55. The small numbers of morels the "Pro" Division hunters found was an indication that the area

The Hull Street project has been considered for several weeks as the developers proposed to build the townhouse condominium units on the land in question.

In other action, the commissioners were expected to have a first reading of a rezoning request for the Brooks-Dietze Development called Parkview Apartments.

The rezoning will allow an additional 32 units to be constructed by the development firm on the land presently owned.

The request came to the planners because it was found the land would not meet the zoning rules under the present zoning.

At the noon meeting, the commissioners were introduced to Mike Maloney, the new city engineer and approved a request for a liquor license transfer at the Dilworth Hotel.

Colorado and Michigan.

While everyone else was out trying to find mushrooms for the contest, I went out into the woods to see if I could again get stumped. I did. Couldn't find a thing even though I looked at places where I had found mushrooms before and other places that others told me were "great".

It seems that all of those places needed rain to make the mushrooms pop. The "Mother Lode" was saved again as I did not see that either, even after hearing the story of all of the elves protecting it. They didn't even have to come out to protect the lode as I don't think anyone found it.

But I did run into a few interesting folks who attend the festival almost every year, and a few that came for only the first time.

Yes, they went home almost empty handed but at least they found a few during the morel mania.

I think one of the things that makes this particular festival more unique among festivals is that it is a wonderful time out in the woods...even if it rains.

All those who come to town form whoknowswhere, all seem to have a nice time, and are really friendly.

A group of us got together at Springbrook Hills where they had rented units for the weekend and had a great meal, complete with morels, thanks to the generosity of Joe Bridenstein, the developer of the conclave. He provided the room for a great get together for a few mushroom pickers from such diverse places as northern Georgia, Ohio,

Now, if Boyne City is looking to hold another festival, I would suggest maybe doing something like a festival held annually in Guerneville, California.

Seems they hold an annual spring festival they call a "Slugfest". No, not the kind where you try to hit someone, but this festival uses banana slugs, which grow in the area to about eight inches long. According to that town's editor of the newspaper, the slugs are totally and completely devoid of charm. They are mottled, olive drab things that are really hideous.

But, they do have one outstanding reason and that is to hold a festival.

They hold a cooking contest where the locals vie for prizes for the tastiest dishes made from the slugs.

Entries in the past have included such delicacies as the upside-down slime cake, slughetti and a local "unfavorite", slug tartare puree. This year's winners were a naughty nacho recipe and Szechuan slugs wrapped in lettuce. Dessert was, of course, strawberry-almond slug shortcake.

So you see, we aren't the only town with something unique to celebrate.

I personally think our contest is much better, morels make a tasty dish any way they are served. And, if they can be found in abundance, sold to the highest bidder across the states.

I'd like to see those Californians do the same with the fruits of their festivals.

ONE PROBLEM DOROTHY DIDN'T HAVE

As an infrequent flier who has viewed travel by airplane with the same wonder as Dorothy of "The Wizard of Oz" fame viewed travel by means of her ruby slippers, I hesitate to join the crowd of those criticizing the airlines. But I've just had a hard weekend aboard planes. And I still feel cranky due to a problem I encountered in the air that I'd not met nor heard about before. It has to do with Bathroom Ac-

First-class passengers with nice wide-aisled sections leading to their bathrooms don't have the problem. But for those of us who travel in the cheaper sections of planes, wide spaces for moving about in simply don't exist. This means, among other things, that while the squat food and drink carts are moving along the

Remembrances

Back about the turn of the century, this team of horses was the best looked after team in town as they were the horses that pulled one of the first fire fighting pumps Boyne City owned. The firehall was located across the street from the Depot Restaurant behind Mel's Gas Station. Both the horses and the pumper were housed in the building. A few years later, the fire department purchased its first motorized fire truck which ended an era.

He: You are the one who writes that stuff for the paper, aren't you?

Me: What stuff? What paper?

He: That nonsense in the local paper.

Me: If you are referring to the nimble genius that takes up space on page three, then you have hit the spike on the noggin.

He: Yes, I mean that shaggy-dog material that sounds as though the writer had been thrown out the window in the fourth grade.

Me: Lower your voice. It was the seventh grade.

He: Then you admit having a writing background with the ground going so far back all the good has been drained from your logic?

Me: Now look, just because I have some years on my back is no reason to throw my breath out of control.

He: I can tell you this. With all that stuff you have written over the years, you still have more silver in your hair than in your pocket.

Me: I would be rather tickled if you would make sense. Just what is it you are getting at? Or to, whichever the case may be?

He: Instead of being a bold face hack writer, why don't you whip up some hot information we can get our teeth into. Look how the big papers are digging up material about presidential candidates, TV ministers and retired military men who run the government when nobody is looking.

Me: I can't do that. This is a small town. It is filled to the brim with poor but honest people. No one hardly ever goes to jail unless they get their foot stuck on the accelerator. Besides, this is a nice, clean town. If I were to dig up dirt there would be no place to put it.

He: You could attack the city commission. People like to read stuff like that. It sells papers and provides us with gossip. People would write letters to the editor and the town would come alive. Family would stop speaking to family and we would have a high old time.

Me: Well, I did say something about the soft bloom on the nose of the Mayor right after voters approved a couple million for sewer and water improvement. My phone hasn't stopped ringing since.

He: Then you are scared. Is that why you stick to the whimsical safe stuff?

Me: Well, I do kind of like to hear people laugh over my attempt to say wise things. Just the other day I heard a man making some statements about me that sounded nice and truthful, like you hear in an obituary.

He: There's no hope for you at all.

Me: I've worried about that for years.

You know there are many mortgage options out there. But they're all basically the same. You make monthly payments for 30 years, and then finally, you own your home.

Now you have a choice. Charlevoix County State Bank's new LIFT Mortgage.

A Charlevoix County State Bank LIFT Mortgage allows you to own your home in approximately 21 years, not 30 like conventional mortgages. At the same time, you pay substantially less interest.

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS:

Instead of paying monthly, you pay one-half your regular mortgage payment every 14 days. By reducing the principal more frequently, the total amount of interest will be dramatically reduced.

*For example, if your mortgage is $50,000 at 10% Annual Percentage Rate, you could save $38,396.59 in interest! That's money you can use to finance the kids' college tuition, invest in a second home or even to buy a new boat.

narrow center aisle—and they do that for most of the duration of mealtime flights—all other traffic is totally blocked, including, of course, traffic to the bathrooms.

Obviously under these circumstances, a visit to the rest rooms in the terminal before boarding the plane is in order. And I did. But for people like me, especially when drinks are served during the trip, this doesn't take care of the matter for the entire length of the flight. At least one visit, while aloft, is called for or fervently desired anyway.

Having studied the situation for three legs of the trip, on the fourth leg I thought I had an in-flight bathroom visit all worked out. There's a little pause in the cart activity in the aisle between the second round of drinks and final pickup of cups and glasses when one can make one's way to the bathroom and back without obstruction. And so I went for it. That's when I ran into a second problem involved in less than first-class accommodations. My seatmates, sound asleep, not only had to be awakened but also had to be convinced that my need was worth their standing up and assuming the stooped position necessary for getting themselves into the aisle to make way for me. They were less than delighted with my request, but they moved. There are several solutions to the Bathroom Accessibility problem, the first being to travel first-class. It does seem like a steep price to pay for potty privileges. But I understand wholeheartedly why people willingly pay it.

The second is to abstain from liquids while in flight. I did that on one leg of the trip when ham and cheese on a crumbly croissant was served. All I'll say about it is that it wasn't an experience that bears repeating.

The third, and far and away the decenter one of the three, would be to have the carts attached to an overhead pulley so they could be raised, allowing people to pass underneath. Because the plane's ceiling is not high, the carts couldn't be raised up a lot. So passengers would have to stoop under the carts, but they're used to that.

Even though I'm somewhat disenchanted by my recent trip, I still look on air travel as a time-saving miracle. I did think of Dorothy with envy, though, on our trip home. I'm sure her ruby slippers didn't provide food and drink service on her journey back to Kansas, so she didn't have to be at all concerned about Bathroom Accessibility.

DIET AND NUTRITION

In the history of foods it has seemed that man has always made good use of what has been provided him for his time and place. When studying history I am curious about what the people ate and how they cooked it. They somehow managed to survive through "thick and thin" and we can take some valuable lessons from those people of bygone times. Their foods were natural, their meats roasted, and no doubt they worked off excess fat.

We have never been more aware of what is good for us than at this time. The food experts tell us that salt and fats are our worst enemies; and the least we can do is to cut down on the use of them in our cooking and at the table. They tell us that the average American consumes six times more salt per year than our bodies can handle.

Let's take the salt shaker off the table and season foods with flavorings of herbs like dill, spices, lemon juice and wine. I experimented with some foods recently. When something on my plate needed a little more salt, I added a few drops of lemon juice—it worked!

We can trim the fat from pork and beef and remove some of the skin of poultry before cooking. Let's not eliminate the use of pork in our diet. It is easier to trim the fat from pork than beef that is marbled.

The meat industries are working on producing less fat in their meat. The pork industry has been very successful in the production of leaner hogs, and our pork has improved. There is the trend towards leaner beef with plans for the come-back of the Texas longhorns, which will be a slow process since the pure bred of longhorns is almost extinct. The lean natural meat of the longhorn offers more nutrition per calorie and will be in popular demand in the future.

We Americans are at two extremes when it comes to our diet and health. We study about cholesterol, fats and salt and spend millions of dollars a year at our fast food places. The most popular American lunch of hamburgers, french fries and milk shakes is overloaded with salt and fats.

It seems that the food industry will help us a great deal in the future. However, in the meantime, we can make the best use of what we have. We have been told that olive oil is good for the heart, so mix it with lemon juice and spices or herbs to flavor this baked chicken—you'll be surprised.

BAKED CHICKEN

1 chicken, cut up
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 teaspoons thyme
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Dash of pepper
Lime wedges

Remove the skin from chicken pieces if you are cutting down on fat. Put the pieces of chicken in an oiled baking dish and mix with the olive oil, thyme, lemon juice and pepper.

Bake at 375° for 45 minutes to 1 hour, or until tender. It will be golden brown. Garnish with the lime wedges. You will not miss the salt if you squeeze the lime wedges over the chicken.

These delicious carrots can steam while you're baking the chicken. This was the recipe of the month from our Lakeview Village Newsletter.

BAKED STEAMED CARROTS

6 carrots
2 tablespoons margarine
salt to taste
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger

Scrape carrots; slice or cut lengthwise. Place in a large square of heavy duty foil. Dot with 2 tablespoons margarine, salt to taste and 1/2 teaspoon ginger. Fold foil, enclosing the carrots. Bake in 350° oven for one hour.

BAKED FISH

I have given you this recipe before, though now I use the lite mayonnaise.

On a foil covered cookie sheet put thawed frozen cod fillets. Salt lightly and spread with lite mayonnaise and bake until it flakes easily, about 20 minutes in a 400° oven. There is some salt in the mayonnaise, so go easy with it.

BAC PAC urges "dry" parties

Dear Parents:

It is said that if you love your children, you will give them roots that they may always come home, and wings that they may experience the wonders of the world. It should be added that if you truly love your children, you will teach them that liquor and drug abuse are for losers, not the winners you know them to be!

Even if it weren't against the law to serve liquor or drugs in your home to a minor, don't take a chance of losing your young adults and their friends. It takes so little to make a car into a deadly weapon.

If you're hosting an open house or graduation party, please serve the real thing...soft drinks! Forget the liquor; kids don't need junk to have fun.

Please join Boyne Area Communities - Parents for Alternative Choices in hosting a time of joy, not sorrow.

Thank you!

Scenes from the mushroom contest

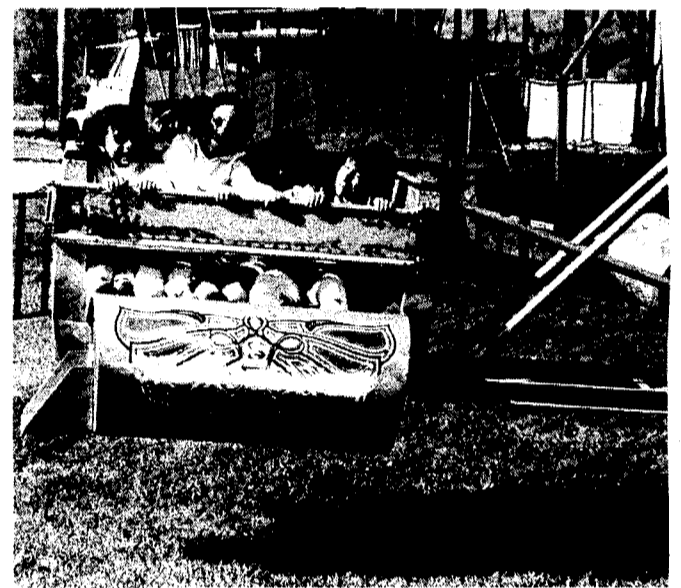

Some walk, some run, but they all go out into the woods when the siren sounds to start the annual hunt.

Every mushroom brought in is counted by a special Lions Club counting crew. This year the job was easier than most years because of the slim pickin's.

Mushrooms seem to grow anywhere, except in the woods where the hunters wanted them. These were growing on top of a car owned by Roger Thurow who makes and sells this type of mushrooms.

These kids really enjoyed the ride at the carnival.

wasn't as productive as in the past. Blame was put on the amount of dryness the weather has brought this spring to the overpicking of the Chandler Hill area by other mushroom hunters not involved in the contest.

Taking the Resident Ladies' Division this year was Susan Matison of Boyne City with a total of 20 morels found Sunday. She was followed by Diane Peterson with 11 and Charla Homes with 9.

Keeping it in the family must be a tradition starting with the Boris family as Aaron Boris, in his first year of competition, took the Resident Men's Division gathering up 33 morels on Sunday. He had only 15 going into the finals for his "take" on Saturday.

Marshall Holmes took the second place award with 19, while Antonio Romers and Robert Mackie shared the third place prize.

In the Non-Resident Division, Joyce Nicolia of Lancaster, Ohio, found 40 morels while her closest competition, Margaret Davis, only had 17. She was followed by Jodi Kost with 6.

In the largest division, the Non-Resident Men's, Darrin Huntoon of Elsie, Michigan, took the prize with a count of two morels. He found 52 in the qualifying round on Saturday. Second place went to Skip Coryell who only found one during the hour-and-a-half final session. Third place was a tie between Bud Hildebrandt, Dan Kratzer and John Strawbridge.

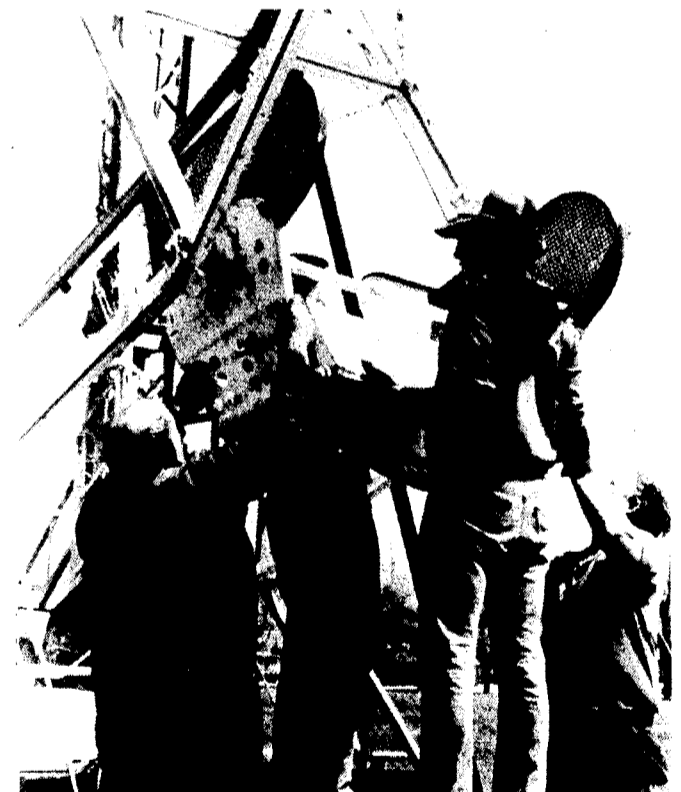

Perhaps the biggest winners of the weekend were those visiting the carnival as they had three days of sunshine to ride the rides and play the games. This was the second year for the Schmidt Amusement Company and they said they had a good stop here in Boyne as compared to last year.

Merchants also said they had a pretty good weekend, according to a small poll of some of the downtown merchants. Bars and restaurants reported a fair weekend, while those outside of town reported good crowds.

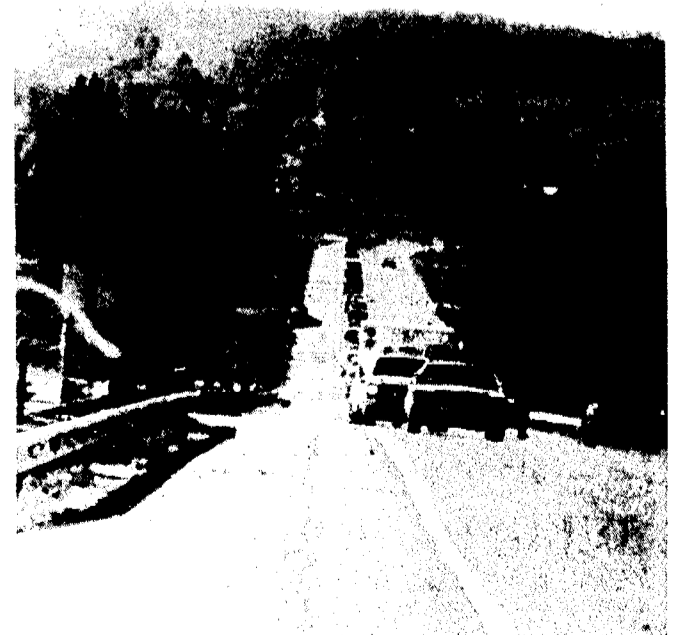

About 70 people attended the Charlevoix County Press-Depot Restaurant sponsored mushroom seminar. Visiting author Larry Lonik showed slides of morels and told people where and how to find them.

All in all, said one official who was glad the weekend was over, it was a good weekend. He added that the only "bad" thing was there were too many winners at the Lions Vegas Night.

It must have been the luck of the weekend.

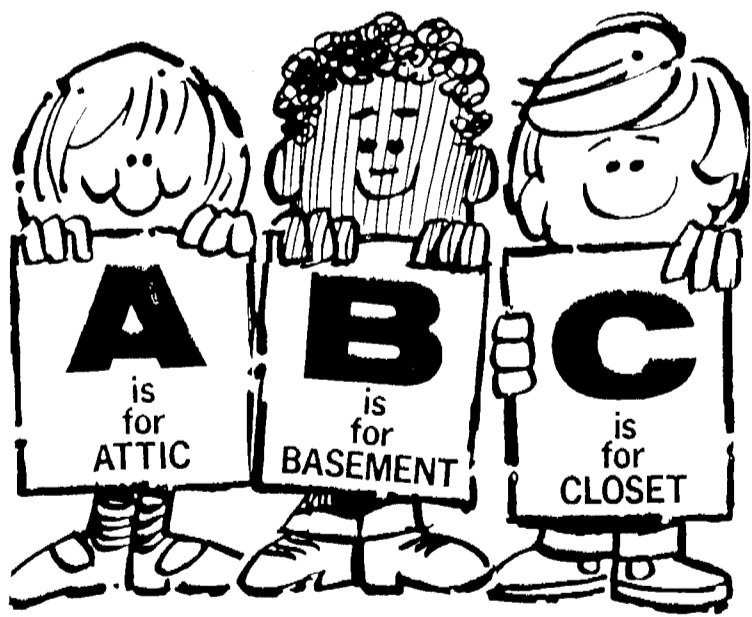

Putting together a Ferris wheel takes muscles, according to the men on the Ferris wheel crew.

Almost as far as you could see were cars in the caravan taking mushroomers out to the undesignated picking place.

EJ girls' softball team splits double-header with Pellston

BY DENNIS SKROCKI
 Last week in Ski-Valley Conference action the East Jordan girls' softball team split a double-header with Pellston on Monday, before dropping a pair to Bellaire on Thursday.
 In the first game against Pellston the Devils mounted an offensive attack consisting of 12 hits, Billie Jo Crawford led the way with four hits as Kris Burt collected three, Brenda Drenth had two as Shelly Malpass, Jill Burt, and Jari Chanda added one each. Despite the good hitting, the ladies were downed by the final score of 19-15.
 Jeanne Healey suffered the loss for EJ giving up ten hits and walking four while striking out three.
 The ladies bounced right back in game two and captured a 24-15 victory behind three-hit pitching from Healey, who was credited with the win.
 Leading the seventh-inning Devil offense was Kris Burt with three, as Healey added two, and Sara Chase and Jill Burt contributed one each.
 Tough luck was run upon at Bellaire as EJ was defeated by respective scores of 23-11 and 32-22. Healey suffered both pitching losses.
 In the first game Brenda Drenth led the way with three hits. Also collecting hits were Healey, Chanda, Jill Burt, and Malpass.
 In the nightcap Nikki Burr, Jill Burt, Crawford, Kris Burt, Chris Galmore, and Julie Brunett all collected singles.
 This week the ladies will host Inland Lakes on Monday before traveling to Harbor Springs on Thursday.

EJ girls' track victors over Bellaire, Central Lake

BY DENNIS SKROCKI
 The East Jordan ladies' track team claimed an easy victory in Ski-Valley action last week in a meet with Bellaire and Central Lake.
 The lady Devils took top honors with a total of 82 points as Bellaire captured the second place spot with 45 and Central Lake had 33.
 The girls took individual first place honors in six events. Cathy Carson, shot put; Theresa Brennan, discus; Erin Snyder, long and high jumps; Kristy Miller, 880 run; and Jody Cordova, two mile run.
 Strong individual performances were also turned in by Michelle Gibbard, (3rd) shot put; Patti Schmitt, (2nd) discus; Chris Jankowski, (2nd) long jump and (3rd) 440 yard run; and Jamie Dunson, (3rd) long jump. Snyder also finished 2nd in the low hurdles and 4th in the highs.
 The relay team of Carson, Brennan, Cordova, and Miller took first in the two mile event as Dia Jones, Jennifer Moreau, Dunson, and Miller captured the 880.
 This week the ladies will compete at away meets on Monday and Wednesday before attending regionals on Saturday.

East Jordan baseballers split double-headers with Pellston, Bellaire

BY DENNIS SKROCKI
 Last week in Ski-Valley Conference action, the East Jordan Red Devil baseball squad split double-header games with Pellston and Bellaire.
 On Monday at Pellston, the Devils jumped out to an early 2-0 lead in the first game as John Hribljan led things off with a single which was followed two batters later by a Jamie Bartlett home run. The Hornets added a run of their own in the bottom of the first on a home run by Mike Howard but were able to collect only two more hits off Devil hurler Matt Bishop.
 Bishop was credited with the 11-2 victory as he tossed a three-hitter, striking out 17 and walking only one of the 25 Pellston batters he faced. Bill Brilley took the Hornet loss.
 Bishop turned in an outstanding offensive performance with three hits, including a home run and two singles. Bartlett also had a single to go along with his homer as Hribljan and Greg Kitson also had two hits as Steve Dionne and Scott Bartig added one each.
 The Devils got off to a good start in the nightcap by scoring four runs in the second inning. But the Hornets chipped away scoring a run in each of the first four innings to tie the score at 4-4 heading into the fifth. Both teams put two runs across the plate in the fifth inning and were unable to score in the sixth. The Hornets captured the 7-6 victory in the bottom of the seventh as a walk and a passed ball allowed Robert Reese to cross on a Mike Maurer single.
 Bartig took the loss for the Devils as Brilley was the winning pitcher.
 Throughout the contest, Bartig gave up 11 hits while striking out 10 and walking seven.
 Bishop was the leader of the Devils' seven hit attack with a double and a single as Bartlett, Kitson, Glen Stevens, Bartig, Mark Moore, and Steve Shepard added one hit each.
 At Bellaire on Thursday the Devils once again got off to a strong start by collecting three runs in the opening inning. The rest of their scoring came in the fourth inning as four runs were scored on two hits and a walk.
 The Devils seemed to be in control as Bishop allowed only three runs through six innings. The final inning saw the Eagles collect three more runs, making the score a slim 7-6 EJ edge, before a double play got the Devils out of the inning and gave them the victory.
 Bishop went the distance giving up nine hits and two walks while striking out nine.
 The Devils' offense produced nine hits. Three from the bat of Jamie Bartlett, that included a third inning home run and two singles. Dan Pepin added two hits as Hribljan, Bishop, Dennis Skrocki, and Kitson contributed one each.
 In the nightcap the Devils scored the first run in the third inning but fell behind soon after as the Eagles scored three and five runs in the fourth and fifth innings respectively. The Devils added three more in the seventh but it wasn't enough as they were defeated by the final score of 8-4.
 Kitson suffered the loss for EJ going five and two-thirds innings before being relieved by Bartig.
 The Red Devils managed seven hits off Eagle hurler Jeff Smith as Dionne collected two singles and Hribljan, Kitson, Pepin, Bartlett, and Bartig added one apiece.
 This week the Devils, 7-7 overall and 5-6 in the SVC, will host Inland Lakes on Monday before traveling to Harbor Springs on Thursday.

BC girls lose double-header to Cheboygan

BY SCOTT KNIPE
 Boyne City girls traveled to Cheboygan on April 28 where they dropped a double-header by scores of 6-5 and 11-1. Amy Weeks gave up four hits in game 1, but was the losing pitcher. In game 2, Patty Schmoldt had a double, Lisa Caverly and Stacy McGeorge hit singles.
 Boyne Falls posted two victories over Boyne City on April 29. Amy Weeks had two hits, Lisa Caverly was walked 5 times, Patty Schmoldt had four hits.
 Then Gaylord took a double-header from the Rambler girls on May 2. Amy Weeks took the loss in game 1 and Lynn DesCamp the loss in game 2. Dorinda Karlskin had two hits.

Ramblers drop two

BY SCOTT KNIPE
 During the first week of May, the Boyne City baseball team experienced a streak of bad luck, ending by them splitting to Gaylord in a double-header, and then dropping two to Grayling.
 Boyne lost their first game of the double-header with pitcher Shane Baxter giving up 10 runs, while the Ramblers batting ran cold, allowing only 3 runs to score.
 The second game was more to Boyne's liking, as Pat Weeks pitched a fine game, hitting picked up. The score was 7-6. Greg Webb drove in a much needed home run in the fifth inning.
 Then Boyne went into a slump again, losing both games of their double-header to Grayling. During the first game, Baxter allowed 16 runs to score for Grayling, which was too much even with the tremendous batting the team was doing. Home runs from Greg Webb, Keoki Kuheana, Scott Beebe and Pat Weeks, all contributed to the Ramblers' ten runs in the game.
 The second game showed little improvement, with Pat Weeks giving up 8 runs while the batting fell short again, giving Grayling the 6-8 victory.

East Jordan boys' track victory

BY DENNIS SKROCKI
 The East Jordan boys' track team walked away with an easy victory last Wednesday over Ski-Valley Conference foes Bellaire and Central Lake.
 The Red Devils' score of 99 points gave them the undisputed victory as Bellaire totaled 52 and Central Lake came up with 15.
 Dave Freel led the way individually by taking top honors in the 100, 200, and 440 yard dashes. Also placing first individually were Shannon Ostrom, pole vault; Kevin Molby, discus; Jim Raymond, high and low hurdles; and Keith Harchis, mile and two mile runs.
 Also turning in strong performances were Scott Nachazel, (2nd) pole vault; Don Reich, (3rd) high jump; Tim Brennan, (2nd) mile run; Rick Clark, (3rd) 440 yard run; and Pat Russell, (2nd) two mile run.
 Graham also placed second in the discus as Molby took second in the high jump and Nachazel placed third in the high hurdles.
 Relay teams came away with two first place finishes as the team of Clark, Brennan, Russell, and Kelly Harchis took the two mile event and Freel, Raymond, Reich, and Dave Galmore took the 880.
 This week the squad will participate in two away meets before attending the regional competition on Saturday.

Fifth graders visit the Reinhardt farm

Members of the fifth grade classes of Boyne City and Boyne Falls visited the Reinhardt farm on Deer Lake Road last Friday as guests of the Soil Conservation Section. This group learned about making soil samples, testing for acidity using some equipment provided by Phil Naegele.

Dale Reinhardt showed students from Boyne Falls what is fed to the growing animals on the farm. The bucket was filled with oat seeds. The farm mixes just the right amount of food for the growing calves each day as they watch how the animals fill out.

While others were learning about wetlands and had a chance to pet a one year old bull under the watchful eye of Dale Reinhardt.

OES hears Mother's Day message

Evangeline Chapter O.E.S.'s May 6 meeting was held with Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron, Bea and Allie Chipman presiding. Secretary Juanita Erber read a Mother's Day message from the Worthy Grand Matron and Worthy Grand Patron of Michigan's Grand Chapter.

Petoskey's Beulah Chapter extended an invitation to those going from Boyne City to the Meguzee District Association meeting, to assist with the Memorial Service.

The rummage sale was pronounced successful, including a fun fashion show.

W.M. Bea brought the afghan she made and has donated to the chapter for a money making project. Whoever is lucky will receive a very beautiful gift.

A Mother's Day Program for the Good of the Order was arranged by Inga Casper and Merla Vought. Appropriate verses were read by Chaplain Nan Howard, Warden Sandra Stanley and W.M. Bea. A carnation was presented to each mother.

W.M. Bea welcomed the sideliners, including Mrs. Fritz and Mrs. Beagle from Horton Bay, and invited all to the dining room where delicious refreshments were served by O.E.S. husband members. They did the dishes too! Thanks guys.

Members of the Dolly Buckingham Past Matrons Club met at Merla Vought's home May 8.

Bea Chipman opened Devotions with a beautiful prayer and asked each member to tell of some of the little things for which we should give our thanks to God. Merla told of an afternoon of visits to shut-in members.

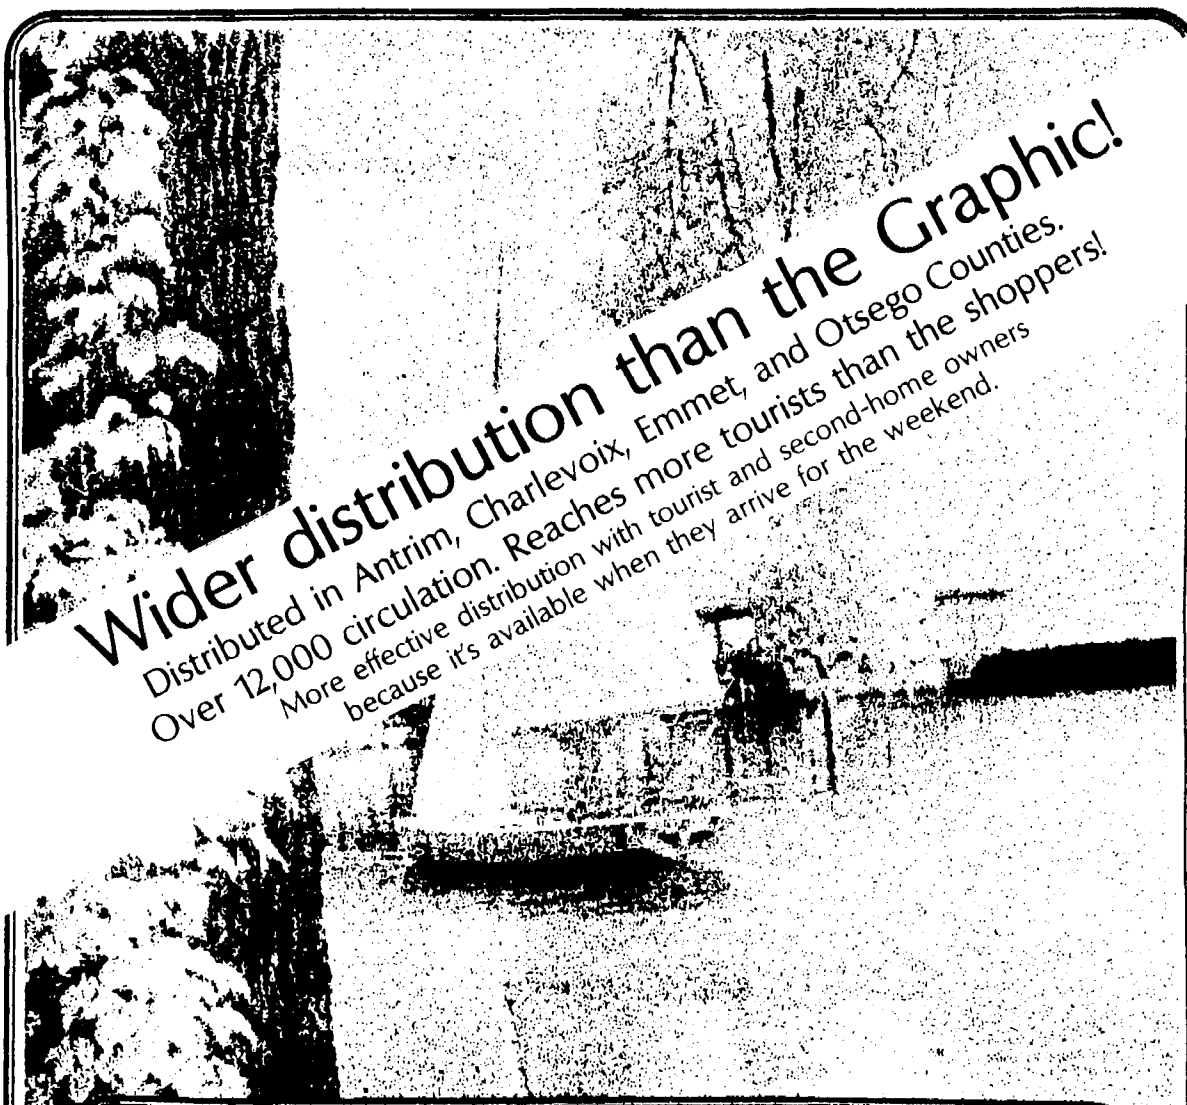

The June meeting will be our annual dinner to be held at the Depot, husbands included.

Following the sixth annual Charlevoix Special Field Day Events held this year at Charlevoix High School last Friday, the band "Peril" entertained the participants during the afternoon. This was the third year "Peril" donated the entertainment. They were presented an engraved award in appreciation for their help with the event. The members of the group include Jeff Hudson, Chris Groves, Mark Pulley and Rick Hudson. The group has entertained other functions in the Charlevoix area.
