

Walleye planted

About 20,000 walleye were planted in Lake Charlevoix last Thursday by the efforts of the DNR and the Lake Charlevoix Walleye Association. The walleye came from a rearing pond near Atlanta after the DNR and the association had a problem with rearing 100,000 at their new pond between Boyne City and East Jordan. When it came time to transfer the fish being reared, they could not be found. After draining the pond down to a trickle, they only could find a couple of dozen. Interested spectators included Pat Mitchell, the head of the association; Steve Swan, the DNR fish biologist for the area and several other sportsmen interested in the planting project.

BC schools approve $4,446,100 budget

Boyer City Schools will be spending $246,740 more than they will be taking in in taxes after the school board approved setting the 1987-88 school year budget at $4,446,100 in a special meeting held Monday night.

The excess expenditures will be coming out of the present fund balance that was, at the end of the 1986-87 school year, $442,906.

According to Rich Kelly, the school superintendent, taking money from the fund equity that has been built up over many years is considered to be a bad practice, but he approved what the board did as he has been working with the budget for the past several months trying to make it work.

Kelly figured that the school district will be bringing in $4,199,360 in revenues from local, state and federal sources. The local revenues are figured to be $3,915,830 of the total income for the school district.

The budget figures do not include the recently passed and approved bond issue which will pay for a new roof for the high school and new bleachers for the gym. If that figure were added, the school would be adding and spending about one half of a million dollars more next year.

Taking almost half of the expenditures will be the teaching and instructional costs. The board anticipates spending $1,932,530 for the basic program and an additional $783,000 in instructional expenses. Support staff expenses are adding another $1.3 million.

Other areas of the budget include the spending of $289,288 for debt retirement, $161,090 for the school lunch program and $83,410 for the athletic program.

Before approving all of the proposed budgets, the board passed a resolution that allowed them to close out the 1986-87 school year and bring that budget into line with what has been spent.

In other action at Monday night's board meeting, the board accepted the resignation of Middle School Principal Jack Cyr. Cyr has spent 16 years with the school system, serving as both an assistant high school principal and as the middle school principal. His retirement request was accepted with deep regrets by the board and they will now start a search to replace him.

The board then approved the hiring of Boyne Falls' Principal Mike Wallace to head up the high school's basketball program. Wallace will be the boys' varsity basketball coach and he told the board when he accepted the position that he has a very ambitious program set for the up-

City starts refuse capping plan

"I can't see us spending one penny not directly related to capping the landfill," said Commissioner Steve Moody during a discussion concerning a request from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources at the noon city commission meeting in Boyne City.

Moody's remarks came because the DNR had requested the city provide additional answers to a proposed hydrological and geological survey that has been proposed to help with the evangeling of the former landfill in Evangeline Township.

High school to have metal/membrane roof

Metal or membrane...or a combination of both is what the Boyne City School Board decided Monday night as they tried to figure out what was best in replacing the high school roof.

They decided to go with the combination.

The new roof will be metal over the classroom areas and membrane over the gymnasium and the library. The architect working on the project told the board he was concerned the work that would be needed inside the building would not get done prior to the school start-up in September.

He then suggested the school board consider a combination of metal roofing over the classrooms with the membrane roofing over the gym and the media center.

The board accepted his recommendation after learning that the work necessary to the project could be completed prior to September as the modifications needed were considered to be minor compared to what the board had approved previously.

The board had approved a plan where the support columns were to be strengthened to hold the additional weight of the roof. All that work was going to be done inside of the building during the summer.

With the change, the interior work will still be done yet this summer, and the roofline will look similar to what was presented to the board in May.

Some changes made include the elimination of metal roofing over the media center, some of the shed roof styling, the addition of roof drains in the media center (to carry off rain water), and some other changes.

The Positive Side

"You can reach new heights, by exploring new possibilities."

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

I guess Art Linkletter was right...about kids saying some of the neatest things.

Last week I was privy to a conversation overheard by a couple of children playing in the yard next door. While I was working, mowing the lawn and doing all of the other things needed around the house, those two children decided they should play something.

Like school. I mean, school, real school has only been out for a week or so, but children are already starting to miss it by playing school?

Oh, well. The first thing they talked about was how old they should be and who was going to be the teacher and which the student. Not seeing the children, but only hearing them, made it so I could not determine who was who.

But, it was decided. Then they had to determine how old each would be. It is amazing that kindergartners and first graders do not yet grasp the idea of age. They came up with years about 13 and 14 and were going to play like they had just graduated and were now young adults.

The last 13,14-year-old I knew who had graduated went to Michigan State where he was a celebrity prodigy studying some engineering program.

But, I digress. The children then proceeded to play school for a couple of minutes and then one said, "Let's pretend it's summer."

I would like to think it was because the child was bored with being in school and didn't want to play anymore.

But the other child, must have been the teacher, said okay in the 90 degree temperature of the afternoon and the children then proceeded to play house.

All of this made me want to stop work myself.

I would love to spend some time with my imagination like those children.

But being an adult means not finding the time because of work to enjoy those rare moments of your youth.

Sure, you remember the times when you built forts, tree houses, and made homes out of sheets and blankets thrown over a clothesline. And if you were real lucky, you had a real tent that you could put up in the backyard.

And had all of the monsters you could dream up just so you could come inside after trying to spend a whole night camping in the backyard.

The best part, though, was that mommy was usually still awake and ready to feed you some cookies and milk.

Yeh, let me go back to those times of my life. I envy children who can still imagine.

On to other observations.

I guess living or playing up north means more than not wearing a tie when you go out, it also means not wearing socks. Socks with your boat shoes, of course.

Sometimes I wonder about all of these corporate executives who come up here for the weekend or for a couple of weeks who immediately take off their ties, take off their socks and put on the shorts.

If they like that lifestyle so much, why don't they do the same down in corporation city?

Does one have to wear a blue suit and really dress the part just so they won't be noticed? Do they do it because not being noticed means they will move up the corporate ladder quicker?

Back a few years ago, that was called being part of the Peter Principal, where a man rises to his level of incompetency.

Another week and I will not make any comments concerning the religious strife of certain churches, the love affairs of presidential aspirants, the secrets of Iranigate, or anything else supposedly earth-shattering by the national media. The only thing I will comment on is the proposed changes in the wetland law by Mr. Gagliardi.

Ralph, if you read this I would hope you would jump on the bandwagon, add an amendment to fund the changes so that the issue could get over and we can see some more development above townline whatever.

Gagliardi has proposed changes that would have the state purchase those wetlands, if they are so valuable that a permit to build can't be obtained.

Then the guys with the swamps will be able to have someone else pay taxes on the expensive ground. Oops, the state only pays a little bit to the townships for forested land, so don't expect too much township officials.

With Leroy Anstett driving, and almost all of the neighborhood kids riding, this early Ford was one of the highlights of Boyne City's Fourth of July Parade. Automobiles were a new idea back in the twenties when this picture was taken. The house in the background is 318 S. Lake Street, according to Mary Welbes, one of the passengers of yesteryear and who sent us this picture for this feature. If you have any old pictures of Boyne City or the East Jordan area, bring them to our office and we'll make a copy for others to enjoy.

I have two fans going and gasping for breath as I fiddle with this typewriter in ninety-eight degree heat.

What were you doing sixty-six years ago? Not much, if you were around then. Why? Because it was too hot.

If you were here during that historic summer you should remember the smell of the Model-T's horse hair filled cushions when it was over ninety outside.

I recall how my father's Model-T got so hot in the sun that it continued to run when he had turned the motor off. It was a good car. All it lacked was air conditioning.

Now for a news update.

Summer began Sunday and scientists tell us we have had the hottest spring and pre-summer heat since 1921. I have no idea what you are going to do with this information.

From the mouth of a child: Wandering around in a large Florida mall last winter, I stopped at an electronics store to check out those new gadgets on the market. They had set up a word processor for customers to use and perhaps buy.

The machine had a regular typewriter keyboard with a number of extras on the sides and top. I tried to type out a sentence but the machine didn't work. I fiddled with it for a while. No go.

"I've operated a typewriter all my life," I said to the kid watching me. "I have knocked out at least a million words, but I can't seem to make this thing work."

The boy was fourteen maybe fifteen years old. "Let me show you," he said. And he typed out a sentence so fast I couldn't believe it.

"Now, why can't I do that?" I asked.

"You are just like my dad," the boy said. "You are too old to be smart."

From the mouth of an old man: We went out to dinner on Father's Day, nothing fancy. Just a small lunch to celebrate.

On Mother's Day we ate up a storm at the end of Water Street, spending enough to have bought a pair of Florsheim shoes, the kind with leather soles. One has a vague feeling that mothers are more important than fathers and I kind of go along with that.

At our Father's Day eating session an older couple sat in the next booth. I believe they were born when Teddy Roosevelt was carrying that big stick. Somehow we got to talking.

"We are celebrating sixty years of marriage," the lady smiled.

The old man spoke up, "Yup, we are, and the past was more thrilling than the future."

She swatted him aside the head with her napkin, bringing the conversation to an abrupt halt.

I'm quitting. The heat and all that, you know.

in New Orleans February 3-11, 1988.

"I'm real excited by this opportunity," Weidler said. "It will be a great experience to meet influential people and visit New Orleans."

Weidler is the son of John and Jeanne MacFarland of Route 2, East Jordan. Currently, he is participating in Boys State, the American Legion-sponsored leadership camp at Michigan State University. Weidler served as junior class president at East Jordan High, and will be a student council member his senior year. He is an honors student and has plans to attend college following graduation.

BY GAIL WARE

A couple of thousand years ago, a fellow named Hesiod observed that "right timing in all things is the most important factor." That still holds true, a fact which largely accounts for mothers doing better in the great gifts and hoopla department on Mother's Day than fathers do on their Day.

The second Sunday in May comes along before the rush of the graduation-spring wedding season. So people have both the time and the money to shop for thoughtful, even extravagant things for moms—things like lambswool or cashmere sweaters or good watches. This makes their Day exciting and special, and filled with "you shouldn't have's."

But come the third Sunday in June, after many of the young have celebrated and been celebrated, the season's quota of high spirits as well as money has pretty much been used up. And so dads get cheaper, more practical gifts like ties and trousers on their Day, which can hardly arouse big excitement in anyone.

This does seem unfair. Dads deserve special gifts too, especially since they've not had an easy time of it over the last decade or so.

Women, in the process of redesigning their roles in life, have been redesigning the role of the men in them too. They've had to in order to make their own changes work. And the parts that have come in for the biggest changes have been the changes in the fathers' roles.

Before hearth and home began shifting, fathers had tough but clearly defined roles in family life. They provided the total financial support for their families. And when they weren't working, they provided guidance for the children and took out the garbage. The women did the rest—the warm, fuzzy stuff, the arbitration and the upkeep of the children plus the cleaning, the laundry, the cooking and the dishes.

Then women went to work outside the home—sometimes because they wanted to. But more often they went because inflation made dads' big paychecks look little.

At first, women carried on the home and child-nurturing duties along with their paying jobs. But after a while, they figured out that they couldn't, didn't want to and were tired of trying to live that way. They declared that it was high time that dads got more involved with both the children and the housework.

Fathers haven't come forth with great enthusiasm for this new order of things. The rules aren't all that clear, at least to them. But they are giving it a whirl, as they see it, more or less.

According to women's responses to polls taken on the subject, many men tend more toward the "less" than the "more." But considering that most men don't have the background for the changes on the homefront, they deserve credit for trying to adjust anyway. And Father's Day seems like as good a time as any to let them know that.

So even though the timing's bad for splendid gifts, showing dads they're appreciated by making them crowns can go a long way toward making them feel special, and making them laugh, on Father's Day.

listen," he continued. "We don't have money for capping, let alone doing this additional work that is not directly related to putting a cap on the dump."

His comments were seconded by Commissioner Austin Sevener who suggested that the DNR and the city should let the courts decide who and what is going to be done concerning the closure plan for the former landfill.

The hydro-geo plan, which would cost the city an additional $7,000 on top of a $13,000 capping plan, would have consolidated much of the information already determined into a single plan. The DNR asked for additional material to be included, saying that they have spent about $100,000 drilling wells to monitor the landfill and seem to be expecting the city to spend an equal amount on surveys and other matters.

Commissioner Bill Grimm, saying that no matter what the DNR does, the city will have to have a plan before they can even apply for grants from the Clean Michigan Fund which would help pay for the capping of the landfill.

He acknowledged later, after the meeting, that the city does have the responsibility to close and cap the landfill, along with several other agencies and townships who used it when it was open.

"We know it will have to be capped," he said.

During the meeting he suggested the capping be separate from the hydro-geo work that needs to be done.

Mayor Keith Fitzgerald ended the discussion by suggesting the city pay for a capping plan from Granger Engineering at a cost not to exceed $13,000. He said the hydro-geo plan could come later if it was deemed necessary to getting a grant to cap the landfill.

Grimm said that even if they did both, and capped the landfill, there was no guarantee that the rules might not change in the future as the technology of landfills is changing as the experts learn more about them.

In other action, members of the Boyne Valley Noon Lions Club gave the city a check for $1,000 to help pay for the lights that were installed this spring at Rotary Park.

They also approved two liquor license requests from the state concerning changes in classifications for the Wolverine Dilworth Hotel and the Granary. Both were changed by the state from hotel type licenses to resort type, since there are no hotel rooms under the control of the license holders.

Tigers lead 9-2 in Boyne Little League Bears lead in girls' division 8-2

BY JERRY FROATS

The Tigers stepped out in front for the lead in the Boyne City Little League Majors division with a 7-4 win over the Red Sox. In the girls' division the Bears held off the Angels 14-13 to hold their lead with an 8-2 record. Monday night's win for the Tigers gave them a 9-2 record, staying in front of the Giants (8-2), who are scheduled for games shortly after press time.

The Tigers took their first step towards the leaders bracket with a win over the Yankees last Tuesday, June 16th. The Yankees put up a good fight, allowing just one run in the third inning, but the game progressed as a pitchers' battle with the two opposing hurlers marking 26 strike-outs in the game.

Andrew McCready started for the Tigers, with John Bush relieving in the third inning. They fanned 15 Yankees while walking four. Throwing for the Yanks was Jason Brooks who retired 11 batters and allowed just one walk.

Hitting for the Tigers were Steve May, with a double and two singles, and Travis Peck and McCready with a one-bagger each.

For the Yankees, Steve Seelye tripled and singled while Brooks added another triple.

On Wednesday, June 17th, the Red Sox chalked up their first win with a 24-7 win over the Dodgers and the Bears defeated the Twins 18-9 in the late game.

The Red Sox tied the score after one inning was complete with four runs and added six more in the bottom of the second for a 10-4 lead. The Dodgers held the Sox to three runs through the last of the fifth, but an 11-run-surge used the regulation time allowed. Throwing for the Sox was Nathan Matelski, fanning eight batters while walking 11. Micky Christenson and Ben Monshore pitched for the Dodgers, retiring 8 batters and walking 13.

The Red Sox had field day at the plate, smashing ten hits. Jeff Denise led the attack with three singles while Matelski doubled and Alan Massey singled twice. Other Sox hitters included Mike VanHoosier, Eric Frankowiak, and Bob Wozniak.

For the Dodgers, Jim Gramms and Monshore doubled once each.

In the late game the Bears scored ten runs in two innings, holding the Twins to 2 runs scored, never trailing afterwards. The Bears had no hits, while Jamie Mathews got the game's sole hit.

Thursday night the Giants moved into second place with a 17-5 victory over the Orioles. The Giants jumped out in front 7-2 after two complete innings, adding four runs in both the fourth and fifth innings.

Troy Peck went the distance for the Giants, rejecting 13 batters while walking four. Luke Hausler and Mike Pittiglio retired 8 batters and walked 14 against the Giants.

Jim MacNaughton led the Giant hitting attack with three singles, while Tony Ferris added a double and a single. Peck hit two singles, Jake Bernthal doubled, Willy Sharp singled, Kyle Lockman singled, and Andy Vondra singled.

For the Orioles Chad Ernst doubled while Brain Sobleski doubled and singled. Derek Turnbull and Bob Bryan both singled.

In Saturday's boys' double-header, the Yankees hauled the Orioles down to tie for third with identical 6-4 records, and the Tigers shut out the Dodgers 8-0.

The Yankees went up by three runs in the first inning, holding the Orioles scoreless till the bottom of the fourth. The Yanks allowed three runs through the last two innings, but held on for the 6-3 win.

Dennis Moore and Paul Mikula threw for the Yankees, fanning 9 batters while walking 8. Brian Sobleski went the distance for the Birds, retiring 8 batters while walking 7.

Moore collected two singles to lead the Yankee attack, while Mikula and Gerry Schovey added singles.

For the Birds, Robert Koeman and Sobleski each singled once.

The Tigers had no trouble putting the Dodgers away as they scored four of their runs in the fourth inning, allowing just two hits.

Andrew McCready and John Bush pitched for the Tigers, striking out 12 batters and walking three. Ben Monshore went the distance for the Dodgers, retiring 4 batters while walking three.

McCready doubled and singled for the winners, while Bush added a double. Skyler Stackus and Andrew Alger had singles for the Tigers.

For the Dodgers, Terry McBee and Travis Johncheck each singled once.

Saturday's girls' softball saw the Bears edge the Angels 14-13, while the Twins squeaked by the Koalas 11-10.

The Bears came back late in the top of the last inning with nine runs for a 14-12 lead, and held the Angels to one run in the bottom half for the win.

Jessica Johncheck pitched for the Bears while Rebecca Bragg and Sara Coveyou pitched for the Angels.

Chris Blackburn led the Bears' hitting with two singles while Jennifer Kuzmik, Anisa Clark, Kacey Stafford, and Amy Webb all singled once.

Coveyou singled twice for the Angels, while Kelly Bauman added another single.

The Twins too were forced into a defensive last inning, holding off a four-run inning by the Koalas for the win.

Daphne Crozier was the winning pitcher while Megan Rader pitched for the Koalas.

Kenda Schroder and Crozier hit singles for the Twins, while Nikki Hammontree got the only Koala hit.

The Tigers had to stop a three-run rally by the Red Sox on Monday night, retiring the Sox with men on bases.

Andrew McCready and John Bush were the Tiger pitchers, striking out 11 batters and walking 7. Nathan Matelski went the distance for the Sox, fanning and walking seven batters.

Collin Stackus, Aaron Fisher, and McCready all singled once for the Tigers. Jeff Denise doubled for the Red Sox while Matelski singled twice. Eric Frankowiak and Alan Massey both singled once for the Sox.

The Twins coasted over the Angels Monday night 15-5, collecting 12 of the runs in the first three innings.

Vicki Kroush was the winning pitcher, while Rebecca Bragg and Sara Coveyou pitched for the Angels.

The Twin hitting effort consisted of Erica Kroush, Daphne Crozier, Heather Robinson, Hiedi Johnson, and Vicki Kroush all with singles.

Coveyou singled twice for the Angels while Amy Seelye and Bragg added hits.

And he was safe. After sliding into second base, this Little League player got up and dusted himself off like the "real" pros. He ran to third a while later and finally scored a run for his team. Even with all this effort, the Orioles lost to the Giants who moved into second place in the standings.

EJ Iron Works girls win over BC Reds 19-6

East Jordan Iron Works blasted the Boyne City Reds Thursday night, piling up 14 runs in the first two innings, enroute to a 19-6 win. The Reds started slow, scoring just one run through six innings, but got better hitting in the last two innings for five runs.

Julie Healey was the winning pitcher, while Kristy Talberg pitched for the Reds.

Leading the winning hitting attack was Jeannie Healey with two triples, while Dawn Stone added three singles. Julie Burnett doubled while Julie Healey and Buffy Koyer contributed a single each.

For the Reds, Sara Cair had two singles, Talberg doubled, Kristie Christensen and Dorinda Karlskin singled once each.

BC driver ed students to receive AAA truck program

Driver education students at Boyne City High School, 1025 Boyne Ave., will learn the best ways to safely share the road with heavy trucks in a AAA Michigan-sponsored program at 10 a.m., Thursday, June 25.

AAA Michigan has prepared the hour-long program—"Sharing the Road With Big Trucks"—"Sharing the Road With Big Trucks"—to help young drivers understand the capabilities of their vehicle and the limitations of heavy trucks. This is the first year the program is being offered to driver education classes.

"Understanding the braking, acceleration and maneuverability limitations of heavy trucks is especially important to new drivers," stated AAA Michigan Safety and Traffic Manager Robert V. Cullen.

"Students will learn the proper way to pass a truck, how to avoid a truck's blind spot and the added dangers caused by in-lement weather," he pointed out.

Cullen said that students will view a video, "Cars and Trucks: Sharing the Road Safely," as well as a slide presentation that was prepared as part of a year-long study by AAA Michigan's Safety and Traffic Department of accidents involving trucks and cars.

More than 100 programs will be presented to 10,000 students in Michigan this year.

Roof

The new roof will have a ridge over the hallway areas of the school instead of the shed idea. Overall, the roof will visually look like the plan originally presented with some minor changes.

Work is expected to start this summer as soon as the bids are set, according to Superintendent Rich Kelly.

Mike Wallace, BF principal, named BC basketball coach

"Boyne City intends to win as many games as possible," said new Boyne Basketball Coach Mike Wallace, "but it took me three years to develop teams that were district championship contenders during my term at AuGres. I hope to speed that process up here at Boyne City."

Wallace was named head basketball coach at last Monday night's school board meeting and he has already put the first phase of his winning plan into action.

"We are going to have a meeting for all those ninth to twelfth graders Wednesday night, June 24, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school gym to let the kids know what is going to happen. I hope many parents will come also to learn about the program I want to start in the school."

The program Wallace is looking at involves having an open gym two nights a week during the summer, setting up games and scrimmages with other schools and even hosting a weekend summer basketball tournament.

Wallace knows about basketball, having been a coach at the AuGres system where he led that team to several district and regional playoffs.

Wallace, who is currently the school principal at Boyne Falls Schools, was pleased to have been named coach here in Boyne

City. "I realize the potential problems of being a principal at one school," Wallace continued, "and a coach at another, but I think all of those problems will be considered and overcome."

Wallace has already enrolled the team at two basketball camps if he can find enough students that want to go, and has lined up some schools for scrimmages. He mentioned several teams that have held high ranking within the state that want scrimmages.

Wallace is no stranger to basketball, having played at Ainsworth High School in the Flint area, and having learned a lot about the game through recreational play with Flint athletes. Flint is one of the hotbeds for basketball within the state. "You might say, I grew up on the playgrounds of Flint," he added, "playing basketball." As part of his high school team he went to the state semi-finals one year, and lost several other close matches in other years.

Wallace went to Western Michigan University to play baseball and took classes in basketball coaching while there earning his degree.

"I have had the luck of being with successful programs wherever I went, and I expect to continue with those types of programs here in Boyne City," he concluded.

Boyne City Wildcats undefeated at 8-0

BY SCOTT KNIPE

The Boyne City Wildcats have been proving themselves to be the best in the league, so far their record being 8 wins and 0 losses.

Thursday, June 11, showed the Wildcats in action at home against the East Jordan Plastics for a 15-7 win over EJ. Christopher Downing was the victorious pitcher, while behind the plate he had a triple. Other base hits for BC came from Rob Towne with two singles and a triple, Scott Hammontree with a triple, and Bo Williamson with a single.

Monday the Plastics hosted Boyne in East Jordan, but failed to employ any homefield advantage as the Wildcats defeated them 13-1. Eric Richards was winning pitcher, going the distance of the game and giving up only one run while striking out six and walking five. Batting from Boyne showed Jim Bush, Scott Hammontree, Bo Williamson, and Christopher Downing all with two singles; while Kenny Theaker added a single to this list.

Two days later, the Wildcats added another victory to their record as they showed up the East Jordan Pharmacy in East Jordan with a win of 6-2.

Christopher Downing racked up another win as pitcher giving up just one hit, four walks, and nineteen strike outs. Rob Towne and Scott Hammontree each had a single, while Bo Williamson had a single and a double.

According to Coach Robert Towne, this week of play will prove whether or not the Wildcats will finish first in the league, or if it will be their close rivals the Astros, also competing for Boyne. Wednesday, the Wildcats go up against the East Jordan Galmores and Friday the Wildcats and Astros meet in what will surely be a hard fought contest.

Astros win over EJ Pharmacy, Galmores, lose to Loggers

BY SCOTT KNIPE

The Boyne City Astros have been fighting all season to keep up with the BC Wildcats, who commandingly defeated the Astros twice by margins of 22-2 and 34-5, and now the Astros are preparing themselves for the showdown that is sure to exist come Friday evening at 6:30 when the Astros and the Wildcats will confront each other again.

But the Astros, through the past week, seemed to have been letting their games come a bit close for their own good, and even now to tie the Wildcats the Astros must win both of this week's games while their rivals must lose all three of theirs.

Monday the Astros took the East Jordan Pharmacy for a 15-11 win in Boyne. Chris Johnson was the victorious pitcher, and although the first part of the game looked shaky, they pulled themselves together with fine pitching and good batting from Dean Alger with three singles and a triple and Jim Abney with two singles and a triple.

Tuesday though, the Astros fell to the Loggers, 17-13. Scott May was the losing pitcher and Jim Abney came in as relief in the fifth inning. It was in the last two innings that Boyne looked as though they might have been able to come back, but they fell short when it was over by four. Base hits for Boyne came from Alger and Abney, each with three singles, and Joe Jankowski had two singles and a triple.

Again things looked doubtful for the Astros as they battled against the Galmores, extending the game into two extra innings. Jim Abney was starting pitcher, was relieved by Dean Alger, who was also relieved by Scott May who won the game for the Astros doing a very fine job when he pitched.

Dean Alger had a single, double, and triple; Jim Abney had three singles; and Wayne Avery had two singles.

Look for a rousing game Friday night.
