Even though it was Everett Kircher's 71st birthday, a large group gathered to play a little golf and find out what hole was named by one of the states' best amateur golfers of all time Chuck Kocsis. Kocsis was asked to name a favorite hole after he played the new Monument Course at the Mountain and he said he chose the 234 yard 17th hole. His favorite will be cast in bronze to join those of Sam Snead and Kathy Whitworth who were asked to name holes last year at the opening of the course.

BC planners start rezoning process

Boyne City planners started the process to rezone two parcels of land along Division Street from the R-1 (residential) classification to the Gc-I (General commercial/Industrial) class at their meeting held Monday evening.

The action came from a request by Mike Gabos, who owns a 14 acre parcel along Division. Gabos asked the land be rezoned so that he may sell the land to the owners of the Harborage Marina, who suggested they wanted to build a boat storage building and possibly have a retail operation on the site.

Along with Gabos request, planners also wanted to include some land that is between Gabos and REH Acres currently owned by the Presbyterian Church. That is another four acre parcel.

The planners, noting that the city has been looking at adding some additional general commercial land to the zoning map, agreed to start the process and will call for a public hearing on the matter. The planners had not recommended any change in zoning to the new classification prior to this action, preferring that the requests come from property owners rather than from the city.

Gabos had sent a letter to the city asking the property be changed. Originally he had asked it be designated just general commercial, but a review of the zoning ordinance does not allow a marina within that area.

After it was determined that the use was not a marina, the planners changed the request to the Gc/I zoning which would allow a marina type of operation.

Planner Mark Kowalske then asked an additional change as an amendment to the zoning ordinance which would allow churches to be in any zoning district as an acceptable conditional use.

Planners also approved a site plan from Mel Howard which would allow Mel's Service to become a gas station with a convenience store operation.

The site plan was brought in front of the planners as the use of the property is being changed. Howard will be eliminating the repair services he has offered in the past and will utilize the present service area by making a convenience store in its place.

Howard is also adding a canopy over the gas pumps which will have two gas islands. He is planning to remove the present front of the building, adding a mansard roof along with a new brick and vinyl facing to dress the building up.

His site plan went through the planners without any changes being made as he has worked with city for many months determining what the city requires. Planners could find no fault with the proposed work on the site.

As a member of the audience, developer Rick Smith told the planning board "I think this is a good change or land use." Others on the board concurred and approved the site plan.

In other action, the planners approved the requests for home occupation permits to Martin Paul, to allow him to sell campfirewood from his garage, and Steve Miller to allow him to utilize his garage for his archery business. Miller's request asked that he install a connecting structure from his house to the garage in order to comply with the ordinance.

A third request, from Calvin Deming was tabled until he could come to the planning meeting to express his views. Deming wanted to use his garage and front porch to conduct a fishing lure manufacturing business.

The planning board then approved sending on to the City Commission the recommendations for the new Marvin Loding Awards that the city has authorized to give out to honor those who have added to the beauty of the community. The awards will be announced at the August 14 meeting of the city commission.

In old business, the planners heard that the Harborage was intending to stop using a single family residence as their marina office at the end of the present boating season. They anticipate moving into their new marina office at that time.

If you can imagine a canopy out in front of this picture, you will see what Mel Howard has planned for the renovation of his service station into a convenience plaza. The building will be totally renovated and will have four gas pumps in front under a canopy to protect those filling their cars from the elements.

Hull St. project gets Wilson OK

With a standing room only crowd packing the small Wilson-Township Hall, trustees voted to approve by a narrow 3-2 vote the rezoning of a 40 acre parcel near Hull Street.

Petitioner Gil Redmer had asked for the zoning change so he could build 180 condominium units on the land that oversees Boyne City. He requested the change from R-1 to the R-4 zoning last January and because of delays caused by the township planners and others, the public hearing was just held last Tuesday.

Immediately after the vote was approved, a group of residents opposed to the rezoning, started talking about the trustees not following the wishes of the people. They are considering either recalling those who voted for the project or a referendum on the vote.

At the public hearing prior to the vote, Steve Dubois, an attorney from Gaylor hired by those that were opposed to the change, tried some legal maneuvers, hoping to have the rezoning request thrown out because of a technicality concerning ownership at the time of request.

That was eventually resolved as the ownership of the property was in the requesters name although the application was in the name of the development group he represented.

Each side had an opportunity to explain what was involved with the project and why it was needed or why it should have been refused.

When the vote was taken after the public hearing, each trustee explained his vote and why he or she voted the way they did.

Trustee Lester Fall, saying that the arguments he heard that night were reason enough, voted no, while Trustee Joe Donnellan voted in favor because he wouldn't like someone telling him what he could do with his property if he were in that situation. Also voting yes to the change was suspected.

Since the property is near the City limits of Boyne City, and because the land would have to be served by city water and sewer for the amount of homes

Clerk Wendy Bruneel and Treasurer JoAnn Baker. Both cited legal reasons as why they voted in favor of the project. The other no vote came from Bob Hermann, Supervisor, who thought the project would have far greater impact on the township and the area than anyone has being placed on the land, many Boyne City residents were at the meeting to express their concerns.

Redmer told the crowd that the developer would have to pay for the new sewer and water lines, as well as any road work that was needed to develop the project. Redmer had presented the tentative site plan to the city and had asked if the city would be willing to provide water and sewer to the land.

The city tabled the request until Redmer had received approval from the township first. The city would consider the action at some time in the future.

Dubois said that he was asked to prepare petitions which will be circulating throughout the township asking the referendum on the question. About 25 signatures are required to call a vote. When the petitions are certified the township will set an election date and the issue will be decided by a simple majority vote.

Boyne bargain hunters busted out for the annual by the merchants looking for the best deals in town. Many merchants said they had a good sale as the crowds of hunters went through the wares presented crowds were in town looking to buy.

Gilmore to head Bike-a-thon

The Central Regional Office of St. Jude Children's Research Hospital announced recently that Ms. Kathy Gilmore has agreed to be the coordinator of the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-a-Thon in Boyne City.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases which afflict our children. St. Jude Hospital is non-sectarian, non-discriminatory, and provides total medical care to over 4,200 patients.

At St. Jude, scientists and physicians are working side by side seeking not only a better means of treatment, but also the causes, cures and prevention of these terrible killers.

All findings and information gained at the hospital are shared freely with doctors and hospitals all over the world. Thanks to St. Jude Hospital, children who have leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, sickle-cell anemia, and other child-killing diseases now have a better chance to live.

The Bike-a-Thon program this year is dedicated to Brian McCollister. Brian, a native of Louisiana, was diagnosed with leukemia in October, 1984. Since that time, Brian has come to St. Jude every six weeks for treatment, and every 12 weeks for a bone marrow test and spinal tap to make sure his cancer stays in remission. While at home, Brian receives oral medication daily. Brian is a living example.

We sincerely appreciate the concern that Ms. Kathy Gilmore has for our work, and we hope the citizens of Boyne City will support the Bike-a-Thon this fall to help provide the funds that are needed to preserve the world's greatest asset... "Our Children."

The Positive Side

"Accept praise - you earned it."

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

How many times have you watched an airplane fly overhead and wished that you could fly a plane? Never? Ever?

Well, I have always wanted to learn how, although at my ripening age I am sure I could find something a little saner to do, like skydiving or something else.

Anyway, I watched the plane I want to learn to fly in. It looks like it would be easy to fly since it is loaded with lots of computers to tell you what is happening, what is right and what is wrong.

I would not even need an airport to use the plane, since it takes up very little space, has a very, according to one of the pilots, stable engine, and it can go like skunk, to Chicago in a matter of minutes.

This plane is tried and true, has lots of airtime to have proven it's worth in wars and peace, and it can go like skunk from here to there.

There are a few problems with the plane, though, the biggest one is that it is owned by the federal government and I don't think they are selling any. At least not to civilians like you and me. If you were Iranian, you may have a better chance to purchase this plane than if you were a very, very rich American.

This plane can go about 450 knots fast all day long. It is capable of higher speeds but I did not see that as I stood last Saturday watching it.

I also watched it stop in mid-air, turn around, bow to the crowd I was standing in, and then go off in another direction very quickly.

The plane was one of the new, to me, Harrier aircraft the Marines are starting to use, and the place where I saw all this action was at the first Gaylord Airshow.

I think the flight of the Harrier made for a better show than the Navy's Blue Angels or the Airforce's Thunderbirds.

In fact I wanted to suggest to somebody that the Marines get about six or seven of the aircraft and put on a real show for the spectators showing what the plane can do.

Imagine seven aircraft stopped in mid-air, all in formation, and then turning around to face you for a couple of seconds before starting off again for some high speed passes.

It could make for some great publicity for the Marines, who have taken it on the chin lately in the national press.

All I know is that I would love to fly one of the planes I saw, I just need to join up, pass all the physicals and the flying exams for the chance.

But the best part of flying one of those planes, is that the government pays for all the fuel used to make it go forward and such, the many gallons of distilled water that allow the plane to stop and land or take off vertically, and also pays for the crews to keep it flying.

It is rather interesting to note that the 1980's are the times many of our young folks will one day refer to as the "good old days."

That's true. Forty or fifty years from now millions will look back upon today with reverence and quiet joy.

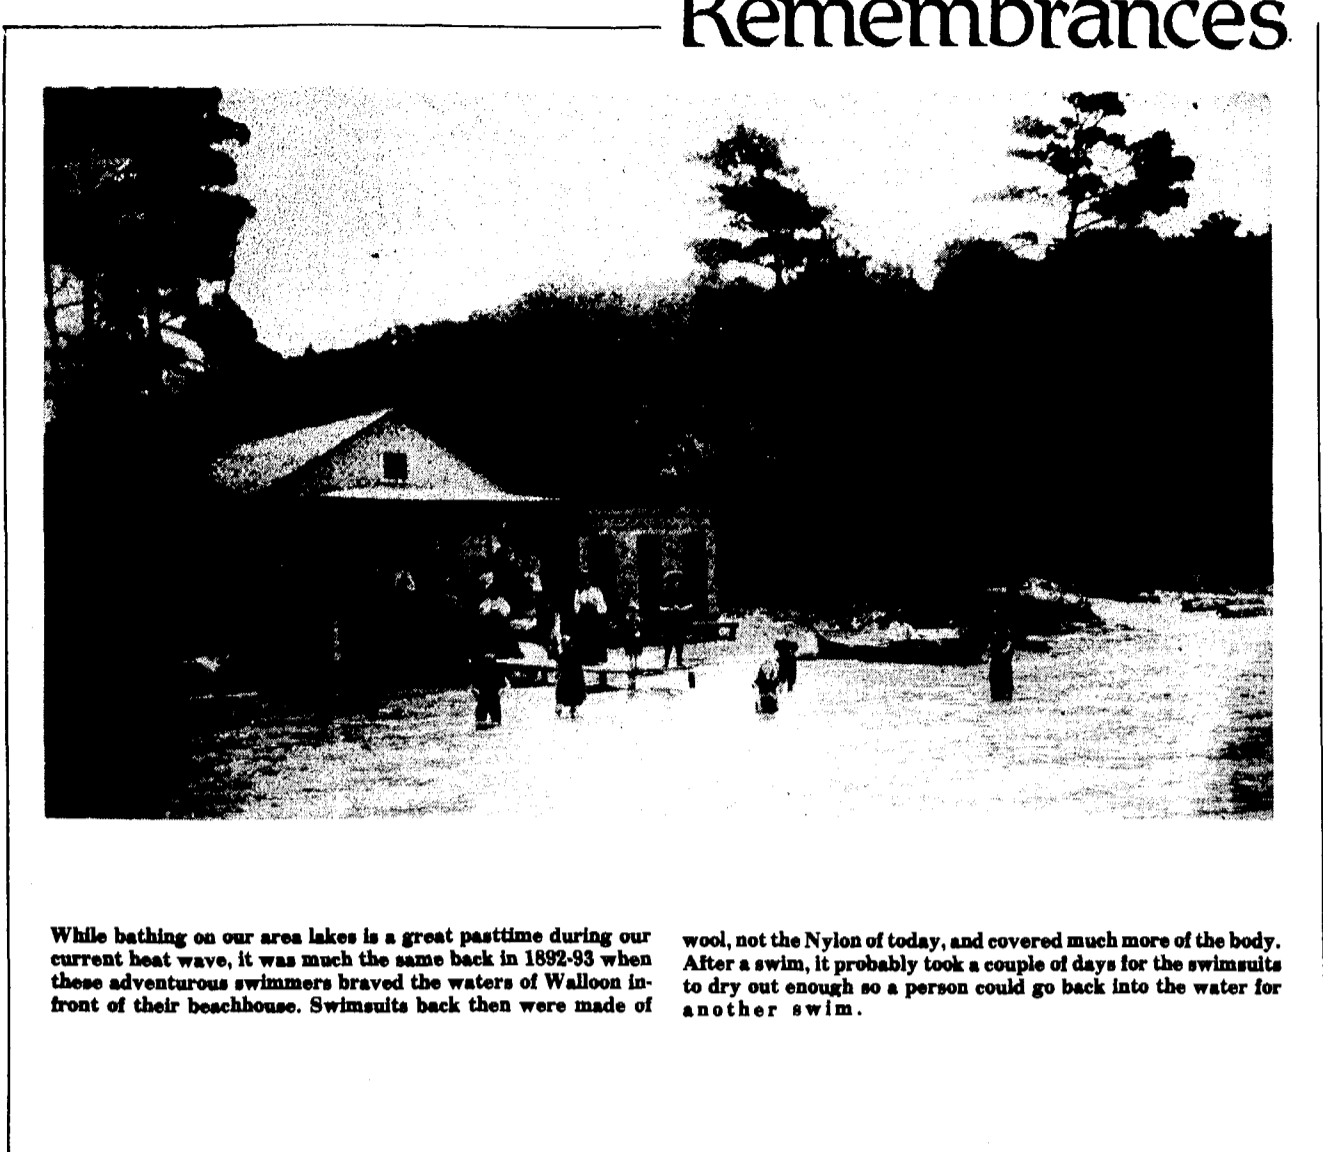

Ah! Life was so simple back in the 80's.

The older a person gets the backer he looks, and our youth should be told that now is the time to make looking back a thing of pure delight.

And they must also understand that they will look back whether they want to or not. I know this to be true because many of our older folks look back at the things we did and feel ashamed even though we enjoyed doing those things when we did them.

It's human nature that makes us look back. When age sets in human nature takes over and has its way with us. That's when we discover that it is easier to fight city hall than human nature, although the results are highly comparable.

Now those young folks who would just as leave that we didn't

While bathing on our area lakes is a great pasttime during our current heat wave, it was much the same back in 1892-93 when these adventurous swimmers braved the waters of Walloon in front of their beachhouse. Swimsuits back then were made of wool, not the Nylon of today, and covered much more of the body. After a swim, it probably took a couple of days for the swimsuits to dry out enough so a person could go back into the water for another swim.

Remembrances

Marshall Sayles

My dad did that and my dad's dad did it and his dad did it. It's the most confounded dad did thing nature ever created to plague the human race.

I think most older folks know what I'm talking about. I also think that most young readers threw the paper aside half way through this column.

Today's youngsters who fuss around with trick and mischief will one day have to fight off a clear memory as age takes over. In fact, they will be forced to hang a halo around their youthful days and display the bunk to their kids as a fine example.

Those days that sizzled amiss will be watered down in their minds and rinsed out considerably before an account is passed on to their children.

Ware-withal

by Gail Ware

On Saturday, The Detroit News reported that in the United States, cats outnumber dogs as household pets 56 million to 52 million but that there are still more households with dogs than with cats. In a statement following these facts and figures, The News indicated that this undoubtedly said something about America although it wasn't sure what. The next day, the newspaper again printed information on the subject. "Cats are America's No. 1 pet, outnumbering dogs 53 million to 47 million nationwide. Their numbers are growing eight times as fast as dogs."

Certainly news about the household pet situation in the country doesn't qualify as vital information for most Americans. But since the newspaper felt that it was important enough to print findings about it two days in a row, the least a person can do is give some thought to the subject, maybe even what it means.

First off, to try to clear up why the difference in the figures, probably two different surveys were done on the matter lest one wonder at such foolish wastes of time, sillier wastes of time have been undertaken, like the survey dealing with women's reaction to dead rats, the results of which also appeared in The Detroit News. They showed that "four out of five American women have an 'unreasonable reluctance' to pick up a dead rat." Indeed.

Getting back to the growing popularity of cats over dogs and what it means, those who have owned, or been owned, by both kinds of animals can figure out the why of it. It lies in the nature of dogs, cats and households of the '80's.

In the majority of households today, both parents, or the single parent, are employed outside the home. And the percentage of households living under these conditions is steadily rising. This means that a pet adopted by the average family must be willing and able to stay home alone for hours at a stretch without getting all neurotic about it and making a mess.

Cats require little beyond a warm, dry surface to sleep on, a little water and dry cat food for snacking and a relatively clean litter box. As for human attention, a little of that lasts a long time. They would prefer to go in and out at will, but they can handle waiting. They simply fill in the waiting time with another nap.

Dogs require people at frequent intervals, the younger the dog the more frequent the information for most Americans. But since the newspaper felt that it was important enough to print findings about it two days in a row, the least a person can do is give some thought to the subject, maybe even what it means.

First off, to try to clear up why the difference in the figures, probably two different surveys were done on the matter lest one wonder at such foolish wastes of time, sillier wastes of time have been undertaken, like the survey dealing with women's reaction to dead rats, the results of which also appeared in The Detroit News. They showed that "four out of five American women have an 'unreasonable reluctance' to pick up a dead rat." Indeed.

Getting back to the growing popularity of cats over dogs and what it means, those who have owned, or been owned, by both kinds of animals can figure out the why of it. It lies in the nature of dogs, cats and households of the '80's.

In the majority of households today, both parents, or the single parent, are employed outside the home. And the percentage of households living under these conditions is steadily rising. This means that a pet adopted by the average family must be willing and able to stay home alone for hours at a stretch without getting all neurotic about it and making a mess.

Cats require little beyond a warm, dry surface to sleep on, a little water and dry cat food for snacking and a relatively clean litter box. As for human attention, a little of that lasts a long time. They would prefer to go in and out at will, but they can handle waiting. They simply fill in the waiting time with another nap.

Dogs require people at frequent intervals, the younger the dog the more frequent the in-

Twelve $500 scholarships are given each year to eligible area students enrolled in accredited health career studies in a variety of colleges and universities. Five men and seven women from various area home towns will be benefitting from this year's NMHA scholarship selections.

Boyne families bid goodbye to German

For Ralph-Marcus Fischer, going home is a long trip. Ralph spent the school year as an exchange student from West Germany as guests of two Boyne City families: William and Jacqueline Battiste and Doug and Norma Shields.

Boyne City resident, Jacques Battiste, spent his junior year studying at a gymnasium in

Big Rock to hold 25th party

Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant observes its 25th anniversary this summer and the public is invited to attend the celebration.

The celebration will take the form of a two-week public tour program at the plant August 10-21. The event will provide the public with a rare opportunity to go inside a working commercial nuclear plant and learn, firsthand, about its operation.

Visitors will see many areas of the plant including the control room, the turbine generator, and the distinctive green containment sphere which has been a Charlevoix area landmark since 1962. Guides for the program will be knowledgeable Consumers Power Employees actively involved in operating and maintaining the plant or in providing support services from the utility's corporate headquarters in Jackson, Michigan.

Tickets for the tours are available, free of charge, from the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce and the Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce. Visitors taking the tour must be at least 10 years of age and have some form of identification with them.

Completed in 1962 at a cost of $27 million, Big Rock Point was the first commercial nuclear plant built in Michigan. It is capable of generating 69 megawatts of electricity, an amount sufficient to serve a community of 50,000 people. The plant is located four miles north of Charlevoix on US-31.

Consumers Power Company, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy Corp, is Michigan's largest utility serving almost six million of the state's nine million residents in 67 of the 68 Lower Peninsula counties.

Cuxhaven, West Germany which is located on the North Sea near Denmark. Just before Jacques returned to America, he called his parents and asked if he could bring home a souvenir from Germany. When he received an affirmative reply he said, "Great! His name is Ralph and he is seventeen."

Jacques returned in June to resume his job at One Water Street restaurant and Ralph-Marcus Fischer joined the Battiste family in Boyne City in August 1986.

There were some immediate adjustments. In Germany, Ralph is the oldest child and the only male in a family of two sisters: Angela, 17 and Christine, 10. In Boyne City, he was welcomed as the next-to-youngest fifth son in an all-boy family.

While in Germany, Ralph was a classical dancer and a photographer's model as well as a student at the gymnasium for the university bound. During his senior year at Boyne City High School, he participated in cross-country track and downhill skiing.

Fischer's hometown, Cuxhaven, is a harbor city with a population of approximately 60,000. Boyne city is considerably smaller and news travels fast in a small town. He was surprised to realize that many townspeople recognized him as the German exchange student. Many already knew his name and he finds this familiarity to his liking. Americans, he believes, are warm, hospitable, open and relaxed.

Although Ralph claims that he has never been homesick, he was delighted when his family made arrangements for a visit in March. His father, Jochen, who is in the veterinary pharmaceutical business; his mother, Baerbel; and grandmother, Irmgard arrived in northern Michigan prepared to experience all they could in three weeks and Ralph was anxious to share his new culture with his family. Herr Fischer and oldest daughter, Angela, recently took a motor tour from New York to Florida with a stop at the nation's capitol along the way.

Jacques Battiste and German exchange student Ralph-Marcus Fischer posed for this picture prior to Fischer heading back to Germany.

In June, Ralph participated in graduation ceremonies at Boyne City High School but he still has two more years of high school when he returns to Germany as students attend school longer there. During his senior year he was enrolled in the honors science, math and English curriculum.

Ralph returned to his parents and family this week and while it was hard to say good-bye, plans are being made for a Fischer-Battiste-Shields reunion in Germany next year. There is also a chance that Ralph will return on a second student visa someday.

Until then ..... Auf Wiedersehen!

tervals. Litter boxes don't work out for them. So dog signals man of his need, man responds and out they go. Dog also signals man when the urge to go out and just sniff around hits him. And man, not knowing which signal means what, hurries to respond. It doesn't do to ignore any signals because dogs, deprived of satisfying their urges, tend to be untidy.

things. And that is why families are making the sensible choice of a cat over a dog in households where the family is away most of the day.

Equally sensible, it must be added, is the so-called "unreasonable reluctance" on the part of women to pick up a revolting, doubtless disease-ridden animal. Any other response would show serious mental instability.

MBA offering sesqui commemorative coins

Coin collectors, history buffs and others who treasure fine craftsmanship can now own a golden memento of this Sesquicentennial summer.

Sponsored by the Michigan Sesquicentennial Commission and the Michigan Bankers Association, (MBA) a five gram, 14kt. yellow Michigan gold coin crafted from ore mined at the Ropes Gold Mine in Ishpeming, Michigan is now available through participating banks.

Designed and manufactured by Wattsson and Wattsson Jewelers of Marquette, the coin features the "150" Sesquicentennial logo on the front and the "Michigan Bear" logo on the reverse.

Each coin, costing $175, is encased in a specially-designed collector's box, and includes a certificate of authenticity.

"We are pleased to demonstrate our support for the Sesquicentennial and our pride in Michigan by making this commemorative coin available through participating Michigan banks," MBA President George H. Cress said.

"We are particularly pleased that Wattsson and Wattsson Jewelers, a Michigan firm, has joined with us in this venture," Cress is the President of Citizens Trust in Ann Arbor.

Wattsson and Wattsson will craft coins as orders are received. Coins may be picked up at the bank about 10 days after the coin is ordered. This special coin program runs through December 31, 1987--the end of the Sesquicentennial celebration.

"The Sesquicentennial of Michigan statehood has a special meaning for all of us," Director of the Michigan Sesquicentennial Merri Jo Bales said. "This Sesquicentennial gold coin is a piece of Michigan history and will become a family heirloom."

Wattsson and Wattsson, known for their custom jewelry, has exclusive rights to produce coins from gold mined at the Ishpeming site. The Ropes Gold Mine is the largest producing gold mine east of the Mississippi River. Inactive since 1897, the mine was purchased in 1975 and the underground pit--more than 1,000 feet below the surface--was reactivated. Ron and Darlene Wattsson opened their firm in 1985 and have created a full line of Sesquicentennial pieces in addition to the coin.

"We are committed to quality and we believe that commitment is reflected in the craftsmanship we put into every coin," Ron Wattsson said. "That's just one reason every coin has a certificate of authenticity."

For more information on the MBA Sesquicentennial Coin Program, contact Donnelly K. Eurich, Michigan Bankers Association, at (517) 321-1600 or Ron or Darlene Wattsson at (906) 228-5775.

Sheriff issues warning concerning Jetskis

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department Marine Division has received numerous complaints from citizens regarding the use and "operation" of Jetskis, Wet Jets, Wet Bikes, etc. The public should be advised that these vessels are motor-boats and therefore must comply with all Marine Laws. They must:

1. Be properly registered by the Secretary of State's Office.
2. Operator must have/wear a personal flotation device.
3. Must have registration aboard.
4. Operator, between the age of 12-16 years old, must have in their possession a valid Boating Safety Certificate.

5. Must observe Slow, No Wake regulations.
6. Must not enter buoyed swim areas.
7. Must not operate within 100 feet of swim areas, docks, rafts, moored/drifted vessels, launch ramps, etc. unless at a Slow-No Wake speed.
8. Vessel must be equipped with a fire extinguisher in good serviceable condition.

These vessels are fun but they are not toys and must not be operated recklessly.

New master angler category

A new category of "Hybrid Sunfish," with a minimum entry weight of 12 ounces, has been established with Michigan's Master Angler Award Program, administered by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR). The hybrid sunfish is described as any fish of the sunfish family (genus Lepomis or Am-niplites) that has hybridized (crossed) with another sunfish. Michigan sunfishes that will hybridize include the bluegill, pumpkinseed, rock bass and warmouth bass and the longear, orange spotted, green and redear sunfishes. Entries for the 1987 award year may be submitted up to January 10, 1988. A new state record hybrid sunfish will be announced at that time. The Master Angler Award Program, created in 1973, recognizes anglers catching large species of Michigan fish that meet minimum entry weight requirements. A master angler patch is awarded to all qualifying entrants. To date, nearly 5,000 anglers have participated in the program.

radios in co-op vehicles, our employees in the field can report suspicious actions, accidents, fires and other unusual events to police very quickly." The calls will be relayed to the sheriff department or other appropriate agency by the cooperative dispatcher. Tom Hanna pointed out that radio-equipped co-op vehicles logged over 780,000 miles last year, mostly along back roads in rural areas that the co-ops serve. "This program has as one objective the ability to increase the law enforcement presence in the field," said Dale Davis, Deputy Director of the Michigan Sheriffs' Association. "With well trained, caring utility crews, lives can be saved and crime reduced." Trucks participating in the program will display blue and white "Good Neighbor Watch" decals. Anyone needing emergency assistance may go to any one of these designated vehicles and ask the co-op employee to summon police, fire, or an ambulance, Tom Hanna explained. Before kicking-off the crime fighting program, co-op employees will be briefed by the sheriff on what to look for and how to make accurate reports to the dispatcher. The Good Neighbor Watch program is coordinated by the Michigan Sheriffs' Association, and the Michigan Electric Cooperative Association, both based in Lansing. Ten rural electric cooperatives, serving over a third of Michigan's land area are participating. Top O' Michigan serves 32,000 members and maintains 5,000 miles of line in twelve counties of Northwest lower Michigan.

awarded the bid because the firm was local, in comparison to others, and because the firms low bid was more than 20 percent lower than other bidders on a previous bid, the bonding firm would not authorize the bond. When the city put the two bids together, the percentage dropped enough to allow the bonding firm to offer bonds for the project. City Manager Randy Frykberg told the commissioners the total savings for the two bids by the firm still will save the city $198,190 that could be used in other places. Hodgekiss and Douma received the other bid for paving on Maple, "R," Stewart, Call streets and patching on Pearl, Douglas, Adams, Terrace, and State streets. H&D's bid was for $21,003 or $29.05 per ton for asphalt. The city also announced the interest prices on the bonds that will pay for the costs of doing all of the infrastructure work. The bonds for the water and sewer work will be for $1.1 million and will carry a maximum interest of 7.26 percent. The other bond, which covers the roadwork, was for $640,000 and will carry an interest of 7.29 percent. Both bonds will be sold August 6 at 10 a.m. at the Michigan Bond Market. Frykberg expressed satisfaction at the low interest saying that the city had considered selling the bonds privately, but the interest factors were much higher.
