Consumers Power will be giving back about $18.25 per residential customer due to a rate increase being reduced. The money will appear as a credit on electric bills. The utility has also set records for electrical usage this past summer. May, June, July, and August beat previous electric use records according to the company. The utility serves about six million residents in 67 of the 68 counties in the L. P.

Beaver Islanders took the first and hopefully annual inter-island fudge/fish match-up when they donated more blood to the Red Cross than those on Mackinac Island last week. The two island rivalry may be the first ever in the nation and Red Cross officials are looking forward to a repeat as the fudge producers are looking forward to some whitefish next time.

A joint proposal was announced to see if it would be feasible for Seafoods from Alaska, a fish processing company, to build centers where salmon sportfishing parties could exchange their catches for canned or other processed fish. Michigan State University submitted the proposal to the U.S. Marine Fisheries Service along with the Lansing Seafoods and Health division of Seafoods from Alaska. Salmon fishing is a $2 billion dollar recreational sport fishery.

The American Red Cross bloodmobile will be in Boyne City on Monday, Sept. 14, 1987 from 2 p.m. until 8 p.m. at Christ Lutheran Church on M-75 South. All persons, between 17-65, in good health are urged to give, or others may live. For more information, call Shirley Bauer at 582-6029.

Gazebo planned for old city park

Boyne City may be getting a new gazebo in the Old City Park, according to Sandra Stanley, a member of the Parks and Recreation Department and the Boyne Valley Garden Club.

The gazebo would be partially or fully paid for by a local citizen who wishes a memorial to his wife, Stanley told members of the Boyne City Commission at their Tuesday noon meeting.

The gazebo, a long held dream of the garden club members, would also have new sidewalks and plantings by the club to complete the project.

Stanley said she has sent a letter out to various civic groups and clubs requesting donations for that project as well as for tree and shrub plantings at the new Peninsula Beach.

Individuals may also contribute to the projects by sending donations to the city in care of the garden club.

One other project the club is working on, is the planting of 500 daffodil bulbs this fall through the city.

The commissioners then approved paying a bill from their bond counsel, Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone for $12,070. This was less than one percent of the proceeds of the sale, according to Carl Dubin, City Treasurer.

The bonds sold reflect $1.7 million or the first stage of the total infrastructure repair that the city residents had approved last spring.

City Manager Randy Fryberg told the commissioners and the audience that petitions for seats on the city commission will be available from the city hall on September 15. Those wishing to become candidates for a seat on the commission will have until October 8 to file. They will need more than 20 signatures on the petition and not over 40. Two seats are available in the November election.

Named to the State Register of Historical Buildings recently was the United Methodist Church in Boyne City. Church, city and historical groups were notified last Friday the church had been given the honor. The other buildings in Boyne City also in the registry list include the former railroad office on Park Street and the Wolverine-Dilworth Hotel.

United Methodist Church named to state historical registry

Boyne City now has three buildings listed in the State Register of Historic Places with the addition of the Boyne City United Methodist Church. The others are the Wolverine-Dilworth and the former BCG&A Railroad building on Park Street.

The Michigan Historical Commission approved listing the church two weeks ago.

The Methodist Church Building is a two-story, cross-gable, clapboard building (now sheathed in siding), which flanks a corner pyramidal roofed, open belfry. It is fronted by a pyramidal-roofed entrance narthex and rests on a concrete foundation. Large round-arched stained glass windows punctuate three sides of the exterior facade.

The church also has a Akron plan interior and features pews finished of mahogany, sanctuary walls of painted plaster and high domed ceilings with carved beams holding original chandeliers.

The Michigan State Historical Commission decided the building has architectural significance as the work of the Grand Rapids architectural firm of Osgood and Osgood.

It also has significance as the oldest Methodist congregation in Boyne City and for its early association with an early pioneer black family who helped establish the church.

The first Methodist Episcopal class in Boyne City was organized on May 3, 1874 near Deer Lake with 12 members by Reverend Andrew G. Wiggins.

Services were first held in a small frame schoolhouse which in April, 1884 the congregation purchased for $175 and converted into a house of worship.

Zachariah and Mary Morgan, charter members of the church, donated two lots of land on October 1, 1883 for a future church building. Morgan owned a brickyard in Boyne City located on Call Street and was also a justice of the peace for several terms.

On June 30, 1892, members of the congregation began a subscription drive to pledge money and materials to erect a new church building on the land

Morgan donated. Reverend Levi Aler arrived just in time to preach the first sermon in the new church which was dedicated on November 25, 1894.

The original cost of the church was about $2,000.

With the designation, the church may be installing a sign outside the building indicating its historical significance.

Char-Em vote Thursday

Char-Em ISD hoping for 1.16 mill issue passage

Voters in the Char-Em School District, which in this area includes Boyne City, Boyne Falls, and East Jordan, as well as those Wallooners in the Petoskey School District, will be going to the polls Thursday to decide whether or not the Char-Em will approve a 1.16 mill issue for three years for special education funding.

This will be the second time voters were asked to approve millage for special education. The issue failed in a special election last spring.

This time, the millage issue has been reduced because of increased assessments.

Of the 1.16 mills, .8 mill is a renewal of the current tax, .1 mill is to fund increases in educational programs mandated by state and federal laws, and .26 mill would be used to maintain present programs at the same level to prevent billing back to local school districts for part of the costs of the special education programs.

Proponents to approving the millage request say that if the issue fails to be approved, the ISD will be billing back to the local school districts about $1.2 million. Most school districts would probably have to cut their own programs in order to fund

Fatal accident mars holiday

Boyne City had its first automobile fatality in some years when a car, driven by Douglas McClelland, 29, of Boyne City failed to make a curve on M-75 at Division Street last Sunday at 12:30 a.m.

Killed was Joseph O'Connor, 32, of Howell, Michigan. He was a back seat passenger in the car when sliding, the vehicle hit an unused utility pole broadside breaking the pole and also hitting two road signs. O'Connor was pronounced dead at Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey from the injuries he had received.

Other passengers, Mark Follett, 22, Boyne City, a front seat passenger and Rhonda O'Connor, 28, wife of the deceased and a rear seat passenger, suffered minor injuries and were treated and released.

According to the Boyne City Police statement, no seat belts were worn by anyone in the car and alcohol was involved. The accident is still under investigation.

Boyne City Police Officer Craig Remsburg was immediately on the scene as he was patrolling in the area at the time. He was assisted by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's department.

McClelland was arrested and was expected to be arraigned Tuesday for operating under the influence of liquor. He possibly may be facing other charges, according to the prosecuting attorney's office and police officials.

The Positive Side

"When you have reached one goal - do not fail to make another."

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

All right, local citizens of the area can have their streets back. At least that is what some of the locals are saying now that the summer tourist season is over.

But, according to some others, they will have them back for only a short time as the fall color tour season will be upon us very shortly. And that will bring back many of the tourists to look at our many maple trees and other trees in what could be said is nature's best work of art.

The only problem is that the color season lasts not too long. Only a few weeks, and then the rains come and cause the trees to lose their grip on the colorful leaves.

With the losing the grip, the leaves come fluttering down to be formed into piles in many of the yards around town. The piles are just right for some of our youth to jump into. After all, isn't that why we spend all that time raking them up into nice neat piles?

After all, who hasn't jumped into a leaf pile at some point in their life? I like the ones made primarily of maple leaves as they seem to be the fluffiest.

And then one of the next events that sometimes happens is when that pile of leaves is burned.

Although that doesn't happen as much these days, due to fire control laws, environmental actions and the such, it will remain one of the memories of my youth.

This year though, I am hoping to gather up all the leaves in the front yard and get a rototiller to work them into the ground. Or else I will put them on top of the mulch pile to see if they will help make black dirt.

You see, I don't have a lawn. Several years ago, I had the thing that passed for a lawn leveled and most of the topsoil that grew the weeds went away in the truck.

I have a great start on building some sand dunes if I don't do anything at all.

I have thought if I were rich enough and knew someone with a double bottom semi that I could import a couple of truckloads of nice Bay City type of topsoil, but that idea disappears from thought after looking in the wallet and finding only a couple of Glen's green slips.

I think I may have to resort to letting the weeds take over again, only as an experiment to see if anything will grow on the sand.

If it does, then next spring I can go out and plant grass seed. At least enough to feed the birds that I know will come to the yard.

But, that is my luck. And with winter just a few short weeks away, I just know I will never get anything done.

Remembrances

Look Out Lodge, Boyne City, Mich.

What started out as H. B. Chapmans' hotel in Bay Springs, this building was known as many names before it passed on into history. It was built to lure tourists to stay at the hotel. Chapman tried to promote the building as a state soldier's home but even that failed. It later became known as "Chapman's Folly" and was eventually sold to C. W. Waldron. He also failed to make a go of it and the building was used as a school, apartment building and finally as the Beulah Home for Boys. The building was located on the corner of Silver and John Streets. The Bay Springs area evolved into North Boyne and finally into the city about 1907.

Marshall Sayles

Some things you should know if you are going to hang around northern Michigan this fall...

The autumn of 1987 appears to be out of sync. All nature is two weeks ahead of schedule. Berries and wild fruit have ripened earlier than usual.

Even the leaves are coloring up sooner than necessary. It's true. The Sunday drive will soon be breathtaking as the splash of maples and oaks make the price of gasoline worth the trip.

Not only sensational colors, but fall is also noted for something else. It's those occasional field mushrooms as well as those large, white things that puff up like a ball.

And here's a story about that: Two people live in our house. One of us went for a walk through the fields the other day returning with a round white fungi as large as my kneecap. I had not gone for a walk so I was not guilty of bringing that poisonous hunk of whitewashed doorknob into the house. Mushrooms are okay, but puffs of balls, ugh!

"I'm not eating that thing," I said to my wife. "It's poison."

"Oh, hush up," she said. "These things are delicious if they are cooked properly."

I had visions of the doctor pumping my stomach as I lay on the sofa checking through the pages of my will.

The puff ball was washed, sliced and cooked in flour, eggs and butter. I had never sniffed a poison that stunk so good.

When supper was ready I checked the clock. I had heard that food digests in about one half hour. So I figured that if I wasn't dead in 30 minutes, I could put my will back into the trunk.

I ate the thing in little cautious bites so I wouldn't be poisoned all of a sudden. If there's anything I can't stand it's winding up dead when I'm in pretty good shape. No, I would rather linger in agony, thinking up sage remarks so my last words can be properly recorded. It is pure hell when your last words are not etched on a plaque and hung in Boyne City's Historical Museum for all to read and perhaps mumble in agreement.

But an odd thing happened. I didn't die hardly at all.

When supper was over I walked around the livingroom stretching my arms and patting a full stomach. I felt strangely good and healthy, not faint and frail as I had planned on. I couldn't understand this abrupt manner in which I wasn't sick.

But you know something?

There is no better feeling than that brought on by not dying from eating a poisonous puff ball your wife brought into the house after going for an innocent walk through the fields.

And here's another fall story. It's about the leaves turning color. Everyone should know it because I have been harping on it for years. Leaves turn color, not because of cold weather, frost or rain. They turn color because it is time to do so.

They are just like that fellow on television who will sell no wine before it's time.

I hope this is remembered so I won't have to repeat it.

More details of our new "Red Bag" garbage service that is designed to save you money!

1. Prepaid garbage bags are sold at Advance Gen. Store, Horton Bay Store, Bob's Pharmacy, and at our office at 211 S. Lake St.
2. Fill and tie the garbage bags or use them as a liner in your garbage cans.
3. Tie or tape a garbage bag to a box of rubbish when you can't or don't want to put it into a red bag (the bag is the way you pay for the box).
4. When you want to get rid of accumulated rubbish that isn't right for the bag system, or you have appliances or furniture, call us, we'll haul it away and bill you later.
5. Put broken glass in a marked, cardboard box. Don't put it in a red bag—we'll take it free of charge.

PLEASE CONVERT TO BAGS BY OCTOBER 1 ST

ADVANTAGES

1. When you don't set out any garbage, you don't pay! Under the monthly payment system, you pay as much for nothing as you do on the four-bag limit. Why should your garbage company be the only one who benefits when you put out less? The red bag system gives YOU the savings!
2. The red bag system is a user pay system. The more you use it the more you pay. When you give us less, you save! Learn to recycle or reduce your volume and you save money and help extend the landfill lifespan.
3. The red bag system helps us to identify our customers. It makes it more difficult for cheaters to combine their garbage with paying customers to get free service. Why should you pay a monthly fee and bear the cost of their free service?
4. The red bag system helps reduce the number of unpaid accounts that you must pay for by increased charges.

The biggest changes in the red bag system are: you buy your garbage bags and that you pay before you use the garbage service, rather than after you use it.

It still costs less to get rid of a bag of garbage than it does to buy a cup of coffee or a can of pop. For a piece of pie, you could get rid of two bags of garbage!

Jordan Valley Haus is new dining spot

BY ELOISE ROSSLER

Take a drive out the East Jordan-Advance-Boyer City Road to the newly opened and recently renovated Jordan Valley Haus for a dining experience to please everyone in the family. The menu ranges from soup and salad bar to hamburger to Mexican to steak and seafood - something to tickle everyone's palate.

The driving force behind the restaurant and bar is John and Rosina (Rose) Rice and their son Paul and his wife Cheryl. John is a retired General Motors worker who "was too young to really retire" and decided to come to this area when he found the restaurant for sale. He believes the restaurant is a good deal and that it can become a thriving business because it fills the need for a family dining business and it has a location accessible by both East Jordan and Boyne City.

A second claim to fame for the Jordan Valley Haus is that it has the largest dance floor in the area. A live country and Western or light rock band plays each Friday and Saturday night after dining hours until 2 a.m.

The Rice's are planning to start specials on Wednesday nights and hope this will be an added incentive for families. The first special night will be September 9 and barbecue ribs will be featured. The restaurant will remain open all winter and hopefully the same hours will be needed as they have now. Meals are available from 5-9 Tuesday through Thursday, 4-9 Friday and Saturday, and from 1-7 on Sunday; Mondays they are closed.

The building has been extensively renovated by the Rice's and is roomier and airier in mood. A landscape plan will be the next major change, but time ran out this summer before that could be taken care of. The building has been brought up-to-date in many areas and this type of change will continue as needed.

John Rice grew up in Frankfort, so the area is familiar to him. Rose grew up in Germany and married John while he was in the service there. Neither of them has much restaurant experience so a great deal of learning has taken place in a short time. Paul and Cheryl had had some work experience in restaurants and bring with them the desire to have their own business, which means John and Rose can "retire again in a few years." Paul and Cheryl have two children enrolled in the East Jordan Schools. Paul is the youngest of five children, so John and Rose will no doubt want to spend some time in Flint, Toledo and Texas where the other four live.

On these lovely autumn evenings why not drive out through the country to the Jordan Valley Haus for dinner, dancing or just listening to music. Certainly the hospitality and food will draw you back again and again.

The refurbished diningroom of the Jordan Valley Haus invites diners to enjoy their meal. The business also sports the largest dance floor in the area and after dining hours are over, the entertainment starts.

New law covers pre-funeral funding of funerals

On July 1, 1987 a new law, governing the pre-funding of funerals, went into effect. Public Act 255 of 1986 provides new and important consumer protection for those who purchase funeral goods or services prior to death. According to the Michigan Funeral Directors Association, the practice of pre-arranging and paying for a funeral before the time of need (sometimes called "preneed") is rapidly increasing in popularity. Fifteen years ago, only about 2% of all funerals were pre-funded. Now the percentage is about 25%, and it is projected that this figure will increase to 50% by the year 2000. The new law, which was supported not only by the Michigan Funeral Directors Association, but also by the Michigan Cemetery Association, the Michigan Consumers Council, and the Michigan Office of Services to the Aging, requires that all monies given to a seller of funeral goods or services, prior to the time of need, be placed in escrow until the funeral occurs. Consumers would also retain the right to cancel the agreement at any time and be guaranteed at least a 90% refund of their original payment and any accrued interest.

Consumers may purchase two types of preneed contracts - guaranteed price and non-guaranteed price. In a guaranteed price agreement, the buyer is guaranteed that he or she will receive the goods and services purchased at no additional cost to the surviving family members, regardless of when the contract, occurs or inflationary price increases. In a non-guaranteed price contract, the money in the account is applied toward the cost of the funeral; if it is insufficient to cover the costs at the time of death, the family must make up the difference, but the family is also entitled to receive any surplus in the account.

The legislation also provides that all sellers must be registered with the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulation, and has numerous record keeping and auditing requirements.

Pre-funding funerals is also an important option for persons applying for Medicaid assistance. The law permits Medicaid applicants to set aside up to $2000 for funeral arrangements without having this $2000 counted as an asset in determining eligibility.

James C. Bobcean of Flat Rock, President of the Michigan Funeral Directors Association, lauded the new legislation. "It was two years in the making during which time there were extensive negotiations with all concerned groups. As a result the final product had almost universal support. It is fair to the consumer, and fair to the funeral director. We can be proud that other states are looking to this legislation as the most modern and comprehensive preneed law in the nation. Pre-funding funeral arrangements has become an important part of prudent estate planning. Consumers can now do this with peace of mind, knowing that their money is safely in trust and will be available at the time of need."

According to Mr. Bobcean, consumers who wish to obtain more details should call their local funeral director and make an appointment.

A Little Music, Please

The public hearings on the Iran-Contra affair are over but the memories linger on. I don't remember as much as I wish I did out of the 40 days. I figure it's because there was no music. I'd remember more if there'd been music.

Following the testimonies of National Security Council members - the group that starred Colonel Oliver North and Admiral John Poindexter - the Senators muttered darkly about "subversion of the Constitution" and "selective memory." The "subversion of the Constitution" issue is being debated vigorously by everyone. Know anything about it or not, I might add.

But no one seems interested in discussing the "selective memory" matter, which I find the most interesting. And since I figure that it takes no special knowledge beyond the research results from probing one's own memory - psychologists might argue that point but who cares - I'll leap into the breach.

After just a few minutes of thinking about it, one can figure out that we all have "selective memories." We can't store all the sights, sounds, smells, tastes, and textures of every minute of every day. So we select.

As I say, I'm sure I would remember more about the hearings if there had been music allied with them. Music recalls words for me. So my memory works great with songs, especially songs from musicals, even old ones.

I saw a revival of "The Red Mill" when I was in my early teens. And I still remember the thrill, and all the words to the song, "The Sidewalks of New York."

I also remember songs I sang even in early childhood. I remember all the words, for instance, to the "Brownie Smile" song as well as those of "White Coral Bells," "Down Yonder Green Valley," "Innisfree" and a whole bunch of others.

I can't remember phone numbers, though, beyond my own, nor much else having to do with numbers. Only a few dates I recall, things like family members' birthdays. My husband's Social Security number I do know because I need to give that on numerous occasions, so it seemed best that I get it down pat both for convenience and for appearance sake. Also a few years ago I memorized my own, not because I need to use it much but just sort of to keep things even.

I do fair to middling in remembering people's names. Children's names I do best with, perhaps because society hasn't yet smoothed off the rough edges that distinguish each one.

That does it for my research on "selective memory." I don't consciously choose to store what I remember. I'm not sure whether those against whom the charge of "selective memory" was levied do or not. But I doubt it.

I recognize that when the Senators made the charge they were already unpopular for picking on the witnesses. So what they really meant but didn't dare say was that the fellows were lying when they said they didn't remember certain information. Still, it's an interesting point. In fact, all associated with the hearings interested me. And I wish I'd stored more of it in my memory. I would have too had there been some music involved.

Come to think of it, the Iran-Contra hearings would make a splendid musical.

The first points to go on the board were the direct result of the Rambler defense. Boyne pushed the Harbor offense back to their own goal-line, forcing a punt, when the Harbor punter stepped out of the endzone for a safety.

In third period, action Jeremy Babcock raced away from the pack, galloping 55 yards to build a 20-0 score over the Rams.

In Boyne City the cost would be about $186,000. Boyne Falls would have to pay about $44,400, and East Jordan would be paying about $139,200.

The savings of having the ISD funding the special education would come when a school district does not have enough students to cost justify a special education teacher for a class. By putting those students together, enough students can be found to have a class although students could be from many schools within the ISD.

The ISD has run 18 different special education programs that way in the past and sends students to three other types of programs. All told, the ISD has about 1,000 students it serves with special educational needs.

Boyne blasts Rams to start season

BY JERRY FROATS
 "The Pride is Back" is the slogan that the Boyne City Sports Boosters are tossing around the campus of Boyne City High, and after Friday night's varsity football game against the Harbor Springs Rams, football is ranking right up there at the top of the list.

The visiting Ramblers invaded the Harbor stadium, high on adrenaline and enthusiasm. Feasting like a pride of lions on the hapless Rams, Boyne City gorged themselves with a 32-6 victory, breaking a long football fast that has lasted longer than many Rambler fans care to remember.

Shades of years past haunted loyal Rambler fans midway through the first period when the Rams broke away from the pack on an 80 yard gallop to paydirt. This was an unpleasant sight for Boyne as they had just turned the ball over on downs after threatening the Rams from just nine yards out.

The early Rambler threat was an accumulation of 11 plays that eliminated nearly half of the entire first quarter.

Unleashing senior running back Pete Smith early in the game revealed a powerful ground attack as Smith clawed through the Harbor defense on seven of the 11 plays for 30 yards. Smith continued to eat up ground through the remainder of the game, totaling 150 yards rushing and received two passes for 20 yards.

The Rambler offensive line played one of the biggest roles as Boyne stalked the Rams. Blowing holes through the Harbor line enabled Smith to pop for four and five yards at a time, but more importantly, the Rambler offensive line provided some pass protection as first year quarterback Troy Hieremann dumped passes to six foot plus ends Tom Miller and Aaron Richards. Hieremann connected on ten of 13 pass attempts for 121 yards including a 26 yard T.D. pass to Richards.

Smith scored on three occasions, the first touchdown coming early in the second quarter on a one-yard push to the goal. The second Smith T.D. came in the third period, also punching through one yard to paydirt. His third touchdown of the game, early in the fourth period was a nine yard sprint, untouched, slanting to the right.

The final Rambler touchdown, the icing on the cake, came with 25 seconds left to play when Curt Holley picked off an errant Harbor pass and returned the field of play 55 yards.

The Ramblers first scoring drive was mounted with 4:36 to play in the first period and carried into the second quarter for 30 seconds. The drive included 25 yards rushing by Smith on six carries, a 7 yard reverse to Scott Patton, an 8 yard pass to Jeff Fineout, and two passes to Miller, an 11 yard and another for 10 yards. After failing to contain the Harbor offense in the first quarter, the Rambler defense settled down and forced the Rams to punt the ball from their own 43 yard line.

Although the Rams were able to convert for two first downs in the series, by way of several sweeps and some devastating punches through the middle, Kevin Beebe and Kevin Hunt teamed up late in the series to haul down the Ram Rusher for no gain and the remainder of the Rambler defense surged to life. On third and long, Rambler defender George Lasater broke through the pass defense, flushing the Ram quarterback into the hands of more Rambler tacklers, forcing the punt.

Boyne received the punt with five minutes left in the half, but failed to reach midfield after Hieremann was sacked for a ten yard loss on third and five to go.

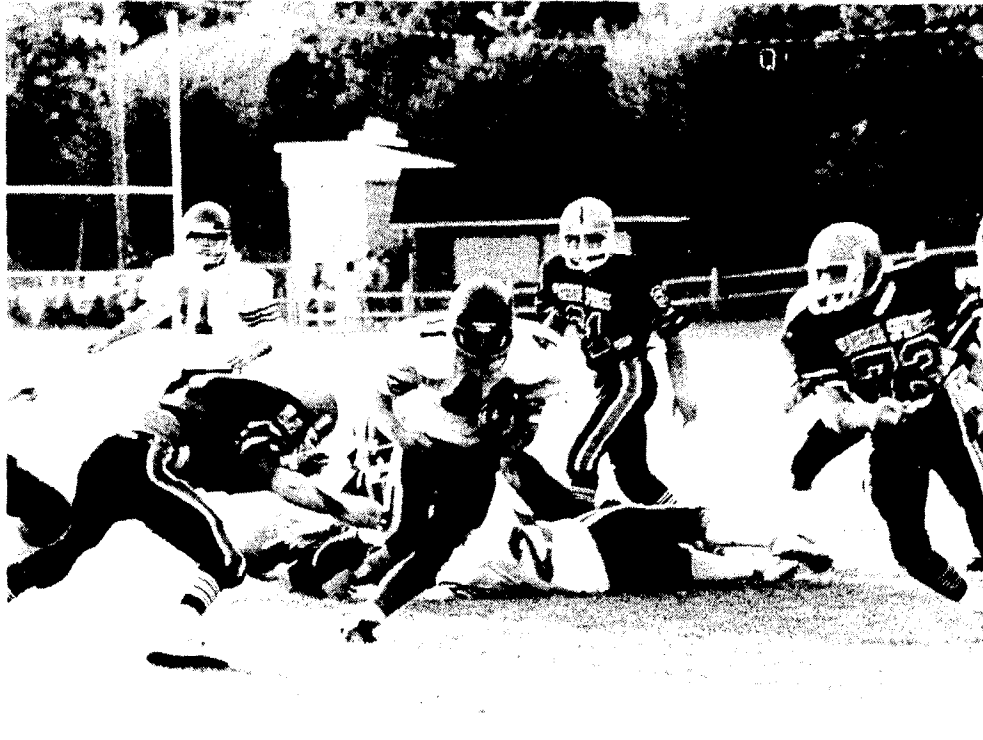

After kicking two extra points that didn't count on Boyne's first T.D., Miller netted fifty yards on the punt and Rambler fans soon realized the value of possessing a quality kicker, something that has been a lacking factor in the Rambler past. Not having to punt for the remainder of the game, Miller did kick an extra point late in the fourth quarter that was not nullified by penalties, splitting the uprights just as before on the two lost chances.

Through the entire second half, Chuck Vondra, Miller, Hunt, Brian Napont (fumble recovery) and the remainder of the Rambler defense plagued the Rams with a hard-nosed performance. Many of the Ram plays were stopped in the backfield while effectively shutting down the middle, something that had eluded the Rambler line in the first half.

With the Ramblers dominating the clock through the second half of the game on offense the Boyne City defense did force four incomplete passes, four punts, allowed one pass completion and picked off a pass for a T.D.

Smith carried the ball a total of 22 times for his 150 yards rushing, while Fineout netted 34 yards, Patton gained 22 yards. Hieremann kept for 11 yards.

Boyne City's Pete Smith kept finding holes in the line during last Friday's opening season game with Harbor Springs. Smith gained 150 yards rushing for the Ramblers and scored three touchdowns during the game which ended with the score 32-6 over the Rams.

The defensive line held after a few early game jitters that allowed the lone Ram touchdown. Ram ball carriers were not allowed very much yardage as they found the line had toughened up during the game and filled in the holes of offensive line tried to develop.

United Tech, Augat/Altair announce joint venture

United Technologies Automotive, Inc. (UTA), and Augat Inc. today announced a joint venture agreement for the manufacture and sale of automotive electrical terminals and connectors to European car and truck makers. Financial details were not disclosed. Under the terms of the agreement, UTA and Augat will form a joint venture company to be headquartered in West Germany. The terminals and connectors initially will be manufactured at UTA and Augat facilities in the U.S., Spain and Switzerland. The company will be operated through UTA's Automotive Products division and Altair International, a subsidiary of Augat headquartered in Mt. Clemens, Mich. "The venture will combine the marketing, sales and engineering activities of both companies to create a unified source for automotive terminals and connectors in Europe," said Norman R. United Technologies Automotive, headquartered in Dearborn, is a major supplier of systems, subsystems and components to the international car and truck industry. It is the largest independent supplier of electrical wire assemblies in North America and holds a similar position in Europe.
